2233. Ntahobali asked the seated woman, “[d]o you know me?” The woman replied, “[y]es, I know you.” Shalom asked her, “[w]here do you know me from?” and the woman replied, “[y]ou are the son of Nyiramasuhuko, and I was in the same school with your mother.” Ntahobali replied, “[y]es, you do know me, it is true – what you have said is the truth.”<sup>6090</sup> Ntahobali promised the woman to bring her and her children to a safe place if she accepted that her 12-year-old daughter became his wife.<sup>6091</sup> Ntahobali was sitting on the veranda and had placed his foot on Witness SJ.<sup>6092</sup> Witness SJ testified that Ntahobali then took the woman and her children in the vehicle and drove away with them.<sup>6093</sup> The woman was seated in the cabin of the vehicle.<sup>6094</sup> Some other people were in the rear of the vehicle.<sup>6095</sup> Witness SJ testified that was the last time she saw the woman and her children, as they were not on board when the vehicle came back to the BPO.<sup>6096</sup> She said that when the truck returned, she heard the Interahamwe say that the woman was stupid to think that Shalom would save her because she was sitting in the cabin of the vehicle.<sup>6097</sup>

arrived to meet with Nsabimana, prior to the attacks, Nyiramasuhuko was in a blue car with a driver.<sup>6125</sup> Witness SJ positively identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6126</sup> Witness SJ said “they [Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali] were my neighbours and they were good people. So I do not understand how they come to change.”<sup>6127</sup>

2240. Witness SJ did not know Shalom Ntahobali before the 1994 events. She had heard people talk about him and indicate who he was. She saw him up close for the first time during the 1994 attacks.<sup>6128</sup> She said he was the son of Nyiramasuhuko and Maurice Ntahobali and was a young man. She did not know whether he was in the military but he wore a military uniform.<sup>6129</sup> She said she was not able to observe him attentively or to describe his physical features because it was dark during the attacks and she was afraid.<sup>6130</sup> She did not know any other Rwandan named Shalom, but she knew many persons named “Salom.”<sup>6131</sup> Witness SJ positively identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>6132</sup>

2242. month.<sup>6143</sup> She went to Nyange towards the beginning of June 1994 and went to Rango towards the end of June 1994.<sup>6144</sup>

2245. Witness SU spent the days under a guava tree along with a woman whose ears had been cut.<sup>6151</sup> Witness SU met her sister, Witness SS, at the BPO on 27 May 1994 and they stayed together until the arrival of the RPF.<sup>6152</sup> The two sisters lived in different secteurs prior to and after the war.<sup>6153</sup> At night, she and her sister slept between two trees near the BPO, but would not stay on the veranda.<sup>6154</sup> There were no lights at the BPO except for the lights of vehicles and the torches of Interahamwe.<sup>6155</sup>

refugees went to the garbage dump to find scraps of food to eat.<sup>6161</sup> It was said that a man named Grégoire was responsible for the refugees at the BPO, but he distributed food only to the wives of soldiers.<sup>6162</sup> One day the Red Cross came to the BPO and distributed food to the refugees. When they left, the Interahamwe took the food away.<sup>6163</sup> There were not many Hutu women among the refugees.<sup>6164</sup>

2250. Witness SU saw a lady with twins when they brought her from the économat, i.e. bursar's office, along with other people that same day.<sup>6174</sup> Witness SU estimated the twins were between 10 and 14 years old. She said the twins wore dresses, but that since the situation was dangerous at that time even some boys had to wear dresses.<sup>6175</sup> The lady was an intellectual of a good position as she appeared to live well.<sup>6176</sup> She was wearing a libaya blouse and had a good hair style.<sup>6177</sup> She arrived at the BPO with a tall, balding man of light complexion.<sup>6178</sup> Soldiers bearing guns took this man back to the road leading to the économat.<sup>6179</sup>

killed.<sup>6197</sup> The refugees were surprised that the Minister of the Family was taking them to their death rather than ensuring their security.<sup>6198</sup>

2260. In the middle of June 1994, another group of refugees from Bugesera was accommodated separately from Witness SU’s group. The Bugesera refugees were told that Witness SU’s group would be killed during the course of the night. The Bugesera refugees had their belongings and were with their families.<sup>6229</sup> They were taken to Mubumbano in Gishamvu commune the next day.<sup>6230</sup> In addition, some men detained in Karubanda prison from Byumba and Huye communes came to the BPO.<sup>6231</sup>

2261. Witness SU testified that Nsabimana did nothing to stop the killings at the BPO.<sup>6232</sup> After attacks on the refugees at the BPO, three women went to see Nsabimana on behalf of the surviving refugees. Nsabimana told them he was not aware of the situation and that he would provide gendarmes to protect the refugees or, alternatively, he would come and spend the night himself with them.<sup>6233</sup> Nsabimana called the gendarmes who came to guard the refugees towards the end of June 1994.<sup>6234</sup> At first, the gendarmes told them: “If anyone wants to get up, two or three people should accompany that person. And if someone is being raped, you must shout.” From that point on, no one was abducted or raped.<sup>6235</sup> It was only later that the gendarmes realised they were guarding Tutsis, and later told the refugees that before the RPF would come, the gendarmes would kill the refugees first.<sup>6236</sup> Witness SU positively identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>6237</sup>

2263. Witness SU testified that she knew Nyiramasuhuko prior to the events of 1994 because she often walked past Nyiramasuhuko’s home in Ndora commune when she went to visit relatives.<sup>6242</sup> She said that Nyiramasuhuko had four children; three girls and one boy.<sup>6243</sup> She also said that Nyiramasuhuko’s husband was a professor at the university.<sup>6244</sup> Nyiramasuhuko’s husband was Maurice Ntahobali.<sup>6245</sup> She positively identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6246</sup> killed, because he did not know who was Hutu and who was Tutsi. About one week later the killings started in her area.<sup>6249</sup>

2265. She hid in the home of an old man for one to two weeks.<sup>6250</sup> When asked about her statement of 5 May 1999 which said she spent three weeks at the old man's house, she said that she could not distinguish between dates and weeks because it was a long time ago.<sup>6251</sup> She then went to another area where she hid for one week.<sup>6252</sup> She returned to her secteur where she stayed only one day.<sup>6253</sup> When she had nowhere else to hide in mid-April 1994, she decided to flee her home to seek shelter in Butare town.<sup>6254</sup> She went to the BPO because the authorities were there with the hope of being protected.<sup>6255</sup> She found about 300 Hutu refugees from Bugesera at the BPO. She asked one refugee where to find the Tutsi refugees and he responded, "[d]o you believe we can stay with a Tutsi, these people are at the EER."<sup>6256</sup> Therefore, she decided to go to the EER where she was told that the Tutsi refugees were staying.<sup>6257</sup> She stayed at the EER for about one to two weeks.<sup>6258</sup> After that time, the pastor at the EER told the refugees to go to the BPO. She left the EER, and went to the BPO with her children and the other Tutsi refugees.<sup>6259</sup> When she went back to the BPO, the refugees from Bugesera were no longer there.<sup>6260</sup> They stayed at the BPO for two to three days before going to Nyange.<sup>6261</sup>

also came and distributed food items on one occasion but they did not get to eat these items because Interahamwe came at night and took the food from them.<sup>6285</sup>

Prosecution Witness RE

2274. Witness RE, a Tutsi who was 16 years old in 1994, testified that she fled her home préfecture of Gikongoro for Butare préfecture in April 1994, the day after the President died.<sup>6291</sup> When she arrived at the BPO, she saw many other refugees from Butare préfecture. She also saw the préfet who was called Sylvain.<sup>6292</sup> Sylvain set up a table in the BPO courtyard and ordered the refugees to divide into two groups: one group of refugees from Butare préfecture and another group of refugees from other préfectures.<sup>6293</sup> Afterwards, the préfet of Butare brought together the bourgmestres of Butare's communes and asked them to evacuate the refugees back to their communes of origin.<sup>6294</sup> The next day, Witness RE and other refugees were asked to go to the EER.<sup>6295</sup> She acknowledged that her prior statement of 5 December 1996 indicated she stayed at the BPO for 3 days before being sent to the EER.<sup>6296</sup> She stayed at the EER for one week.<sup>6297</sup> When she returned to the BPO, soldiers approached the refugees and told them not to approach the Hutu refugees who had fled the advance of the Inkotanyi.<sup>6298</sup> The Hutu refugees were later sent to Mubumbano.<sup>6299</sup> The following day, three buses came to take the Tutsi refugees to Nyange.<sup>6300</sup> They were later transferred to Rango.<sup>6301</sup>

2275. During her stay at the BPO, in the morning, the refugees were taken behind the préfecture offices. In the evenings the refugees would stay in the courtyard of the préfecture or on the veranda.<sup>6302</sup>

2276. After the refugees returned from Nyange, but before the refugees were transferred to Rango, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko came to the BPO.<sup>6303</sup> With President Sindikubwabo present, Pauline said, “[t]his dirt is still here. In Butare they have not worked.” The President then added, “[n]o, these people will be killed during Habyarimana’s funeral.” Habyarimana was to be buried on “the 5th”. Nyiramasuhuko added that these people should be killed and the women and young girls among them should be raped.<sup>6304</sup> Soldiers and Interahamwe came day and night to take away women and young girls and rape them. Those who refused to be raped were killed, and those who survived came back to speak about it.<sup>6305</sup>

2277. Witness RE testified that before she was transferred to Rango, she saw Nyiramasuhuko, Shalom and Interahamwe, including one named Kazungu, come to the BPO three times in one night.<sup>6306</sup> Pauline remained aboard the vehicle.<sup>6307</sup> They came aboard a Toyota vehicle covered with mud and cow dung and without a frame in the back.<sup>6308</sup> It was driven by Shalom.<sup>6309</sup> Shalom wore a military uniform.<sup>6310</sup> They started waking people and beating them up.<sup>6311</sup> They were shining torches in people’s faces.<sup>6312</sup> One woman was sleeping on the BPO veranda with her three children and resisted.<sup>6313</sup> Her three children were of primary school age.<sup>6314</sup> Shalom told her: “We’re not going to kill you. We rather wanted to take you to Pauline who is in the vehicle so she can go and hide you.”<sup>6315</sup> Based on this comment, Witness RE surmised that Nyiramasuhuko was at the BPO, although she did not see her.<sup>6316</sup> Witness RE was lying on the veranda.<sup>6317</sup> Witness RE did not know whether this woman was called Mbasha.<sup>6318</sup>

2278. The Interahamwe asked the awoken refugees to remove their clothes and took them in their vehicles to a place named Rwabayanga. They almost strangled to death a young woman named Trifina because she refused to go.<sup>6319</sup> Shalom continued to drive the Toyota and led the Interahamwe.<sup>6320</sup> A young man and a young woman who had been taken to Rwabayanga managed to escape and told the refugees that people led there had been killed with clubs and machetes.<sup>6321</sup> The Interahamwe made the people undress.<sup>6322</sup> The pickup made three trips that night.<sup>6323</sup> She knew that Shalom was driving from the survivors who returned.<sup>6324</sup>

2279. On one occasion a young man and woman went to Nsabimana's office to tell him the refugees were being killed and to ask for his help.<sup>6325</sup> Witness RE watched as the two refugees came out of the préfet's office. The young woman was beaten on her shoulders and said they had just met with the préfet. The young man was tall and had a cloth bandage on his head where he had been injured.<sup>6326</sup> He was dragged and pulled away by a soldier and never came back. The young woman told the other refugees including Witness RE that they had gone to the préfet to tell him that the refugees were being killed and to ask for his help.<sup>6327</sup>

2280. Witness RE testified that she did not know Nyiramasuhuko prior to seeing her at the BPO.<sup>6328</sup> She saw Nyiramasuhuko between 10.00 and 11.00 a.m. at the BPO from a distance of about 15 steps; Witness RE was under a Guava tree and Nyiramasuhuko was downhill from the BPO.<sup>6329</sup> She positively identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6330</sup> Witness RE said she did not know Ntahobali prior to the war in 1994.<sup>6331</sup> When asked in court to identify Ntahobali, Witness RE pointed to Nteziryayo.<sup>6332</sup>

Prosecution Witness SS

2281. Witness SS, a woman with a Tutsi father and a Hutu mother,<sup>6333</sup> testified that she went to the Matyazo primary school in April 1994 with her husband and infant daughter.<sup>6334</sup> Prior to 18 April 1994, the situation had already deteriorated in her home commune.<sup>6335</sup> Her mother was killed by Hutus in Huye commune.<sup>6336</sup> On 21 April 1994, Interahamwe attacked the school.<sup>6337</sup> On that day her husband and baby were shot and killed and she received a gunshot wound on her arm.<sup>6338</sup> On 22 April 1994, she was attacked with other family members in Huye commune.<sup>6339</sup> Thereafter, she went to the BPO on two occasions. Upon arriving at the BPO the first time, she saw people being loaded onto a bus.<sup>6340</sup> She could not remember the date of the first occasion.<sup>6341</sup> Witness SS went to the BPO a second time on 27 May 1994. Four soldiers escorted her and other Tutsi refugees from Butare University Hospital to the BPO.<sup>6342</sup> The next day, 28 May 1994, Witness SS encountered her eldest sister, Witness SU, at the BPO.<sup>6343</sup> At night the sisters stayed together, but during the day they were separated.<sup>6344</sup>

2282. She estimated that there were about 1,000 refugees when she arrived at the BPO around 27 May 1994.<sup>6345</sup> Witness SS identified the people as refugees because some of them were injured and most of them were Tutsis. She explained that she had been severely traumatised; she lost track of time and could not distinguish one day or one month from the other.<sup>6346</sup> Immediately upon arriving at the BPO, she suffered from dysentery.<sup>6347</sup> Tutsi and Hutu refugees were separated from each other at the BPO. Hutu refugees from Bugesera and Gitarama were segregated into a different group. The Hutus had come with their families and their possessions. They were sheltered when it rained and were later taken away by buses.<sup>6348</sup> The Hutu refugees left the BPO before the Tutsi refugees were transferred to Rango.<sup>6349</sup> Witness SS did not know where they were taken.<sup>6350</sup> At nightfall, young men who were staying there helped Interahamwe to board people onto vehicles.<sup>6351</sup> These included Alexis and Fidel.<sup>6352</sup> There were lights at the police brigade near the BPO, but the lights did not shine into the courtyard where the refugees stayed at night.<sup>6353</sup>

2283. At night, Witness SS and her sister slept in the same place. In the daytime Witness SS and her sister separated in order to see if one or the other could survive the attacks.<sup>6354</sup> They stayed on opposite sides of the same guava tree during the day which was located near the perimeter of the BPO near the fence.<sup>6355</sup> Other refugees spent the day behind the BPO.<sup>6356</sup> She and her sister stayed together during the night on the grass in front of the BPO.<sup>6357</sup> Another group of refugees spent the night on the BPO veranda.<sup>6358</sup> She and her sister had not discussed her sister's 2002 testimony.<sup>6359</sup>

2284. The same day that Witness SS saw Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO, Nyiramasuhuko returned to the BPO in the evening.<sup>6360</sup> In the course of that night, Witness SS saw

2285. After Nyiramasuhuko spoke, the Interahamwe and soldiers got out of the vehicle. Witness SS heard a woman say, "[p]lease do not take my child, he is still young." The Interahamwe answered that if it was the case, she should breastfeed him.<sup>6370</sup> Asked how she could hear the Interahamwe if she was under the guava tree across the BPO courtyard, Witness SS stated she was only under the guava tree during the day and that the lady was shouting a lot.<sup>6371</sup> This woman had arrived at the BPO with a man who was no longer present.<sup>6372</sup> She did not know whether the man was balding.<sup>6373</sup> The soldiers and Interahamwe threw the woman into the back of the vehicle.<sup>6374</sup> Because she could no longer hear the woman cry, Witness SS concluded that the woman was dead. Other persons were loaded in the pickup.<sup>6375</sup> The women and girls had been undressed and they were only wearing their undergarments. Witness SS was unable to tell whether the men had kept their clothes, but she heard a woman say, "now you're even taking away our clothes".<sup>6376</sup> While people were being loaded onto the pickup, Nyiramasuhuko was standing next to it.<sup>6377</sup>

taken away and would return to the BPO two or three days later. Witness SS told them she thought they had been killed to which they replied, “[w]hat they subjected us to was worse than death. Imagine if six persons had a turn each on you!”<sup>6379</sup> Witness SS understood that these women had been raped.<sup>6380</sup> She did not know the names of the women who were raped.<sup>6381</sup>

2287. Witness SS testified that Nyiramasuhuko returned to the BPO in the same vehicle, with the driver, soldiers and Interahamwe on two more occasions. Witness SS was able to identify one soldier, named Kazungu.<sup>6382</sup> After the vehicle was parked, Nyiramasuhuko got out of the vehicle, and said to bring the young boys and not leave anyone behind.<sup>6383</sup> The persons who came with Nyiramasuhuko took torches and started waking people. The Interahamwe took the young boys, but as they were not many, they also took women and girls.<sup>6384</sup> While some refugees were loaded onto the pickup, the soldiers and Interahamwe attacked them with weapons. When the vehicle left, Nyiramasuhuko, the Interahamwe, the driver, and the soldier named Kazungu were on board.<sup>6385</sup> Witness SS later saw two of the boys again who were about 20 or 21 years old.<sup>6386</sup> She spoke with one of them the next day under the guava tree. He said they had been taken to the IRST and thrown into a pit and that he was lucky to have escaped.<sup>6387</sup>

2288. Witness SS noted that a man named Muzungu stayed with the refugees.<sup>6388</sup> This was a different person than the soldier Kazungu.<sup>6389</sup>

2289. On the last attack that same night, Witness SS testified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko, the driver, the Interahamwe and the soldier named Kazungu come back to the BPO on board the vehicle.<sup>6390</sup> She heard Nyiramasuhuko say, “[p]ut everyone on board, old women, old men, put everybody on board.”<sup>6391</sup> The Interahamwe got out of the vehicle, put out the light, took their torches and weapons, and woke up everybody. They had traditional weapons such as machetes and clubs, and the soldier had a gun. They loaded refugees onto the vehicle. When the vehicle left, Nyiramasuhuko, Interahamwe, the driver and the soldier named Kazungu were on board. In the back of the pickup were Interahamwe and the refugees who had been loaded onto the vehicle.<sup>6392</sup>

On another night, an Interahamwe woke her sister up; Witness SS' sister removed her clothes, showed him her breasts and told him, "[p]lease, don't take me with you, I'm an old lady and my breasts are falling."<sup>6393</sup> On cross-examination, Witness SU testified that they were not always together because one day her sister left the BPO, returning two days later.<sup>6394</sup>

2291. On another occasion a vehicle came to the BPO to abduct people, but a group of soldiers chased it away. The soldiers told the refugees they should alert them whenever these people came so that the soldiers could react.<sup>6395</sup> The attacks nonetheless continued after this incident.<sup>6396</sup>

2292. Witness SS testified that she had seen corpses at the BPO next to the avocado trees where there were pits.<sup>6397</sup>

2293. Witness SS testified that Nsabimana was in charge of the BPO and that she used to see him every day at the BPO.<sup>6398</sup> She saw him speak to the refugees at the BPO.<sup>6399</sup> The witness testified that the refugees were not given any assistance at the BPO.<sup>6400</sup> There were problems every day at the BPO and Nsabimana was informed. He told the refugees to stay there and that he would take care of them. He was told that refugees were taken away.<sup>6401</sup>

2294. She said that on one occasion a group of white people brought the refugees some food and took some pictures of them. The Interahamwe came and took all the provisions the white people had brought to the refugees.<sup>6402</sup> All of the refugees used one pit behind the BPO as a toilet.<sup>6403</sup> Witness SS testified that Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi must have known about the poor conditions at the BPO since they were there, but they did not take any action to stop or punish the perpetrators of crimes committed at the BPO.<sup>6404</sup>

2295. Witness SS testified that she was at the BPO when three women entered Nsabimana's office to advise him of the security problem at the BPO. One of those women had just had her shoulder broken in the early morning of that day. Their security concerns were not solved by Nsabimana.<sup>6405</sup>

2296. Witness SS knew Nyiramasuhuko prior to 1994 because she used to pass by on the road in front of her house. She estimated that she saw her three times, including at the Hotel Ihuliro in 1990 and Huye Stadium when Nyiramasuhuko was introduced to the public as a

Prosecution Witness FAP

2297. Witness FAP, a Tutsi farmer, testified that she learned of the President's death on 7 April 1994 after which time people started to burn Tutsi houses.<sup>6409</sup> In April 1994,<sup>6410</sup> Tutsis were told to go to Nyakibanda seminary in Gishamvu commune and she went there with her husband and two sons.<sup>6411</sup> She estimated that there were 20,000 refugees at the seminary.<sup>6412</sup> They were taken there by force and told that Tutsis must leave Rwanda to go live in Ethiopia.<sup>6413</sup> One week after she had left her home, on a Friday, Hutu women who were staying with the Tutsis in Nyakibanda seminary were asked to leave. Some left and others stayed to die with their Tutsi husbands.<sup>6414</sup> Tutsis were then attacked, starting with the intellectuals, including some staff members of the University.<sup>6415</sup> The attacks started between 13 and 20 April 1994.<sup>6416</sup> She was wounded and five days later left the seminary with her two children.<sup>6417</sup> She subsequently testified she left with only one child.<sup>6418</sup> They went to a person's home, where one of her sons was killed by Interahamwe.<sup>6419</sup>

2300. When she arrived at the BPO, there were also Hutu refugees who had come from Bugesera and Gitarama.<sup>6430</sup> The Hutu refugees stayed in a house, prepared food and the next day were transferred to Mubumbano.<sup>6431</sup> After a few days, some Tutsi refugees had been killed, and there were about 350 Tutsi refugees left at the BPO, consisting of women and children.<sup>6432</sup>

2301. Witness FAP stated that while at the BPO, Hutus who had married Tutsis could send their children to the market to buy food. Tutsis could not leave to get food.<sup>6433</sup> She and the other sick refugees spent their days under the shade of a guava tree at the back of the BPO. The refugees were not allowed to stay on the BPO veranda during the day because the office was open.<sup>6434</sup> She stated that the only person who she knew at the BPO was her sister.<sup>6435</sup> She spent the day under a guava tree and at night would approach the veranda of the BPO, although she did not sleep on it.<sup>6436</sup>

2302. On the third day after her arrival at the BPO, at about 8.00 p.m., a black camouflage coloured vehicle covered with mud arrived at the BPO.<sup>6437</sup> On board the vehicle were Interahamwe, a soldier carrying a gun, the woman minister for family affairs and women's Promotion, Nyiramasuhuko, and the woman's son, named Shalom.<sup>6438</sup> She saw both of them.<sup>6439</sup> Shalom was driving the vehicle.<sup>6440</sup> She was no more than 10 metres from the vehicle.<sup>6441</sup> The Interahamwe were armed with traditional weapons and some wore papyrus or banana leaf hats but were otherwise normally dressed.<sup>6442</sup> Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and the Interahamwe got out of the vehicle immediately and the refugees shouted that since Pauline

and her son Shalom had arrived, they would not survive.<sup>6443</sup> Witness FAP stated that she saw Nyiramasuhuko less than a week after her arrival.<sup>6444</sup>

2303. The vehicle arrived three times the same evening, each time with Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and her son Shalom Ntahobali, and each time taking away many refugees who never returned.<sup>6445</sup> The three times Witness FAP saw Nyiramasuhuko on that evening were the only times that she saw Nyiramasuhuko during her stay at the BPO.<sup>6446</sup> It was the first time Witness FAP saw Ntahobali.<sup>6447</sup>

2304. On the first occasion, Nyiramasuhuko wore a military uniform. Witness FAP was lying on the ground and thus could only see Nyiramasuhuko's top.<sup>6448</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stood by the vehicle and told the Interahamwe to take the young girls and the women who were not old, and to rape and kill them because they had refused to marry Hutus.<sup>6449</sup> Ntahobali and the Interahamwe appeared to be looking for someone in particular among the refugees. When they did not find who they were looking for, they moved toward the veranda.<sup>6450</sup> The Interahamwe approached one mother of two children. The woman's daughter was below the marrying age and the other child was a son.<sup>6451</sup> Ntahobali tried to make the woman feel safe by saying that his mother had sent for her.<sup>6452</sup> The children told the Interahamwe not to rape them because they were too young; but instead to take their mother if necessary.<sup>6453</sup> Ntahobali tried to reassure the girl who cried out by telling her that he was taking her mother.<sup>6454</sup> The mother cried out and refused to be raped in public. The Interahamwe killed her on the ground.<sup>6455</sup> Ntahobali and the Interahamwe killed the mother with knives and dumped her body in the vehicle. They took her children who had been beaten and drove away.<sup>6456</sup>

2305. The woman had arrived the day before, accompanied by a man. The family spent the night next to Witness FAP.<sup>6457</sup> The morning after the family had arrived, the man was killed by the Interahamwe who were staying at the BPO with the refugees. They took away the man's money and made him dig his own grave behind the BPO where there were other corpses. Witness FAP did not know the names or ages of the man and woman. The man had a fair complexion and was tall.<sup>6458</sup>

2306. Witness FAP testified that Nyiramasuhuko's orders to rape given on her first trip to the BPO were carried out; Tutsi women and girls were raped behind the BPO under the avocado trees. Upon returning to the courtyard of the BPO, one of these girls said that it was better to be killed than to be raped by four or more men.<sup>6459</sup>

2309. A few days after these attacks, on a weekend, a soldier took Witness FAP and the others underneath the guava tree, and said he was taking them to a stadium where there were other refugees.<sup>6470</sup> Two other soldiers chased them, took them back to the BPO and told them that the first soldier was taking them to Rwabayanga in order to kill them.<sup>6471</sup> The two soldiers said that it would be better that he kills them at the BPO so that when the préfet comes the next day, he finds their corpses there.<sup>6472</sup> A soldier had told some of the refugees that even if they permitted themselves to be raped, they would be killed; so he told them not to relent.<sup>6473</sup> Asked why she did not mention being kidnapped from the BPO by a soldier, Witness FAP explained:

“You must understand that when you make a statement, you can’t say everything, but when you know that you will testify before the Trial Chamber, that is when you begin to marshal your thoughts and your memories in your head and these are events I lived through, they are not things that have been told to me.”<sup>6474</sup>

2310. A refugee who was staying at the BPO told Witness FAP that prior to Witness FAP’s arrival, a group of white persons came to count the refugees. This refugee told Witness FAP that he had translated for the white people and also told her how many refugees were staying at the BPO.<sup>6475</sup> Interahamwe later put the translator on board a vehicle along with another person who was taking care of an orphan and they were killed.<sup>6476</sup> The translator carried a bible and waved to the refugees as he left.<sup>6477</sup>

2311. The Chamber ruled that there was an insufficient foundation to ask Witness FAP whether she recognised Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6478</sup> Witness FAP said that she would not be able to identify Shalom or the military préfet in court.<sup>6479</sup> Witness FAP identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>6480</sup>

2312. Witness SD, a Tutsi, testified that after the President’s death on 6 April 1994 she fled Gikongoro préfecture with her seven children and travelled to Runyinya commune where she stayed for three days.<sup>6481</sup> She then travelled to Matyazo where she spent several days before going to Butare University Hospital.<sup>6482</sup> She spent one week at the hospital.<sup>6483</sup> The director of the hospital then forced the refugees to go to the BPO.<sup>6484</sup> She spent one week at the BPO before she was forced to go to the EER where she spent another week before being brought back to the BPO.<sup>6485</sup> After returning from the EER, she was taken to Nyange and to Rango in June 1994.<sup>6486</sup> In total, she spent about one month at the BPO.<sup>6487</sup>

2313. Doctor Gatera, the director of the hospital, asked them to leave the hospital for the BPO because the authorities were found at the BPO. She was transferred from the hospital to the BPO in a red Toyota Mark vehicle. She was accompanied by several others and by a soldier. 2314. She was not able to specify the exact date, but stated that President Sindikubwabo came to Butare and that Nsabimana had been sworn-in prior to her arrival at the BPO.<sup>6490</sup> When she arrived at the BPO, several Tutsi refugees from the urban commune were already there.<sup>6491</sup> There were a large number of refugees at the BPO, but their numbers constantly decreased as people were taken away to be killed.<sup>6492</sup> She could not estimate the number of refugees but they filled the courtyard.<sup>6493</sup> In addition there were small groups of Hutu refugees in transit to Mubumbano.<sup>6494</sup> There were also Interahamwe who stayed at the BPO with the refugees, including Ngoma and Mabula, in addition to a conseiller.<sup>6495</sup>

2317. While Witness SD stayed at the BPO, each night a vehicle covered with mud would come to fetch people. 2318. Witness SD said she recognised Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO because she had seen Nyiramasuhuko in the Imvaho newspaper which identified Nyiramasuhuko as the minister in charge of gender issues.<sup>6509</sup> Witness SD was not asked to identify Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6510</sup>

Prosecution Witness QY

2319. Witness QY, a Tutsi aged 17 in 1994, was in Butare préfecture when the President's plane was shot down.<sup>6511</sup> She went to Matyazo primary school one or two days after the plane was shot down and was attacked there the same night.<sup>6512</sup> Three days later, she was taken to someone's house, which was also attacked.<sup>6513</sup> The next day a Red Cross vehicle picked her up and took her to the hospital.<sup>6514</sup> She could not recall how many days she spent at the hospital.<sup>6515</sup> Her statement of 18 September 1997 provided that she stayed at the hospital for three days.<sup>6516</sup> She was chased away from the hospital and left on foot.<sup>6517</sup> A woman along the road suggested that Witness QY go to the BPO.<sup>6518</sup> She arrived in the evening and saw a large number of persons seeking refuge filling the courtyard of the BPO.<sup>6519</sup> She spent one month at the BPO.<sup>6520</sup>

2320. When she arrived at the BPO, she saw a Daihatsu vehicle that was loading Hutus to be taken back to their home communes.<sup>6521</sup> After the departure of this vehicle, at around 9.00 p.m., she saw a different Daihatsu vehicle driven by someone named Shalom arrive at the BPO.<sup>6522</sup> Shalom was accompanied by about 10 Interahamwe who carried traditional weapons such as machetes and clubs.<sup>6523</sup> The Daihatsu was small, did not have a back frame, and was covered with mud, making it difficult to discern the vehicle's colour.<sup>6524</sup>

2321. When the vehicle arrived, the refugees moved like red ants away from the veranda.<sup>6525</sup> Very often a refugee might be with someone and Interahamwe would take away that person and the other one was spared.<sup>6526</sup> Shalom and Interahamwe alighted from the vehicle to select young men and force them to board the vehicle.<sup>6527</sup> She recognised Shalom because she had seen him previously at the Butare hospital, but she did not look at the faces of the other Interahamwe.<sup>6528</sup> She was about seven metres away from Shalom.<sup>6529</sup> They took girls by force and raped them either behind the BPO next to a house or in the surrounding woods.<sup>6530</sup> This was done in the process of loading people to take them to their home communes and préfectures.<sup>6531</sup> When the vehicle was full, it left the BPO and travelled towards the road leading to Rwabayanga, taking the occupants to their death.<sup>6532</sup>

2322. Rwabayanga was located near a forest. After the war, a pit was discovered at Rwabayanga into which bodies had been placed.<sup>6533</sup> None of the refugees taken to Rwabayanga came back to the BPO.<sup>6534</sup> Witness QY learned about Rwabayanga from a woman named Annonciata who had been taken there but who was later saved by a person who looked like a white man, named Muzungu, who later took her as his wife.<sup>6535</sup> Witness QY stated that she knew a man named Kazungu and a man named Muzungu during the war.<sup>6536</sup> The man named Muzungu raped Annonciata and saved her from Rwabayanga.<sup>6537</sup>

2323. On the second night, at around 7.00 or 8.00 p.m. Shalom drove the same vehicle to the BPO.<sup>6538</sup> Nyiramasuhuko, her bodyguard, Kazungu and Interahamwe were also in the vehicle.<sup>6539</sup> They stopped and forced people to board the vehicle.<sup>6540</sup> Witness QY stated that she hid among the group of refugees when the vehicle arrived at the BPO and returned when the vehicle left.<sup>6541</sup> Asked how she could see Nyiramasuhuko if she was hiding, Witness QY stated that she did not leave the BPO to hide. Rather, she would hide among the many refugees who were staying at the BPO and could still see what was happening.<sup>6542</sup>

did not see electric light at the BPO.<sup>6546</sup> The refugees would try to flee scattering like ants to be protected from the Interahamwe.<sup>6547</sup> Those in the vehicle, namely Shalom, Nyiramasuhuko, her bodyguard and the Interahamwe with the refugees in the back, again set off towards Rwabayanga.<sup>6548</sup> She did not know which direction the vehicle turned to go to Rwabayanga.<sup>6549</sup> The vehicle came back a third time that same night to collect more refugees.<sup>6550</sup> The refugees were driven away to be killed and the vehicle did not come back as it was now daylight.<sup>6551</sup> Witness QY could not specify at what time the vehicle arrived at the BPO on each trip.<sup>6552</sup> To her knowledge, the préfet was not informed of these abductions.<sup>6553</sup>

2325. On the third day Shalom drove the vehicle back again at about 7.00 or 8.00 p.m.<sup>6554</sup> Witness QY did not see Nyiramasuhuko this time.<sup>6555</sup> Witness QY subsequently testified that she saw Shalom, Nyiramasuhuko, Kazungu and Interahamwe in the vehicle on the third night.<sup>6556</sup> She then corrected her testimony stating that Nyiramasuhuko was not present on the fourth night.<sup>6557</sup> Again people were made to board the vehicle while others were raped; prior to boarding the vehicle the refugees were forced to undress.<sup>6558</sup>

2326. At night, the Interahamwe beat up the refugees at the BPO.<sup>6559</sup> At one time, white people came and discussed with the préfet the conditions of the refugees. The préfet answered that he would provide beans, rice and blankets and that they would spend the nights in a building, but the witness said that none of this occurred. Refugees slept on the BPO veranda, or under the trees.<sup>6560</sup> Refugees saw beans arrive at the BPO, but they were never distributed.<sup>6561</sup> Witness QY stated that the discussion between the préfet and the white men was translated to her by a refugee. The translator was taken away that same night and she did not see him again.<sup>6562</sup>

2327. Witness QY did not know Nyiramasuhuko before the events. She met her for the first time during her second night at the BPO, and never saw her again after the war.<sup>6563</sup> Witness QY was not able to recognise Nyiramasuhuko in court and could only give a description of her as small. Witness QY stated that she did not know anyone else in Butare named Shalom. Witness QY was not asked to identify Shalom.<sup>6564</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBQ

2328. Witness QBQ, a Tutsi housemaid, testified that around the end of April 1994, she was driven to the BPO in a vehicle belonging to a sergeant at the ESO.<sup>6565</sup> The sergeant told them that he was going to take them to the BPO where other refugees were located.<sup>6566</sup> Witness QBQ testified that she brought her employer's two-year-old child with her to the BPO. The child's mother had been killed and the child had received a gunshot in his neck.<sup>6567</sup> After obtaining treatment from the baby's aunt, the child survived.<sup>6568</sup> The witness stayed at the BPO approximately one month.<sup>6569</sup> They arrived at the BPO in the evening towards nightfall.<sup>6570</sup> She stated that there were about 2,000 Tutsi refugees from Kigali, Gikongoro and other préfectures.<sup>6571</sup> That night, she stayed on the veranda and the next morning she moved to the lawn.<sup>6572</sup>

2331. Witness QBQ testified that Nyiramasuhuko and the Interahamwe got out of the vehicle, the Interahamwe went close to her, and Nyiramasuhuko ordered them to "[r]ape the women and the girls and kill the rest."<sup>6583</sup> The Interahamwe wore ordinary civilian clothes and used flashlights to find people.<sup>6584</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was standing next to the vehicle.<sup>6585</sup> The Interahamwe immediately attacked the people on the veranda and took them away by pulling them by their noses.<sup>6586</sup> The Interahamwe used a club to hit one woman who refused to comply. She died in front of the vehicle.<sup>6587</sup> Many women were raped while Nyiramasuhuko was still on the spot.<sup>6588</sup> The Interahamwe, Nyiramasuhuko and Shalom subsequently loaded the Tutsi refugees onto the vehicle and took them to Kumukoni to be killed and dumped in a ditch there.<sup>6589</sup> The attackers infected Witness QBQ with HIV/AIDS.<sup>6590</sup>

2332. The vehicle, again driven by Shalom, came back after having unloaded its cargo and then took other people away to Kumukoni.<sup>6591</sup> The assailants woke up Witness QBQ and set her aside to be taken aboard the vehicle; however she managed to escape when she went to see her mistress' crying baby and lay down beside him.<sup>6592</sup>

2334. Witness QBQ testified that the vehicle came back the next evening. Nyiramasuhuko, Shalom and Interahamwe selected some Tutsi refugees as they did previously and took them to Mukoni for the same purpose.<sup>6596</sup> Witness QBQ testified that she was not in a position to identify Ntahobali or Nyiramasuhuko since the events took place a very long time ago.<sup>6597</sup> No one reported the abductions of refugees from the BPO to Nsabimana. It was happening in front of his office so she said he knew what was going on.<sup>6598</sup> While at the BPO she was taken to Nyange and returned to the BPO on the same day, and the following day went to the EER where she spent one week.<sup>6599</sup> The day after they returned to the BPO from the EER, she went to Rango.<sup>6600</sup>

2335. Witness TQ, a Hutu employee of the Belgian Red Cross, testified that around 29 or 30 April 1994, he had a meeting with Nsabimana in which he asked if he could collect and bury

2336. On 3 May 1994 Witness TQ went to the BPO to talk to Sous-préfet Rutayisire, and noticed refugees at the premises behind the préfet's office. Witness TQ found them in very poor conditions. It was during the rainy season and the women wore clothes that were torn and smelling. The witness got the impression that the people were abandoned. The refugees told Witness TQ, who wore Red Cross attire, about their living conditions and asked him for some food and clothing and other small things.<sup>6602</sup>

2337. In relation to the situation of the refugees at the préfecture office around 20 to 21 June 1994, Witness TQ stated that there were no longer refugees there, and there was a Peugeot pickup truck that belonged to a man named Rwamukwaya, who was killed during the genocide and was Nyiramasuhuko's neighbour. Shalom was driving his mother, Nyiramasuhuko, in this vehicle.<sup>6603</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

2339. Nsabimana also told her that Callixte Kalimanzira was a great presence in Butare throughout this period as a leading MRND political figure. Kalimanzira, who was the Interim Minister of the Interior, had told Nsabimana that it looked bad to have the refugees in front of the BPO, and the préfecture Security Council objected to having the refugees there. The refugees were sent away to the nearby school, and remained there for about 10 days. The authorities in charge of EER sent them back to the BPO. Nsabimana told Des Forges that during this time, soldiers and others were coming to take away women to rape them and other people were being selected to be killed.<sup>6606</sup>

2340. The Prosecution introduced two Exhibits through Des Forges which included statements allegedly made by Nsabimana. Prosecution Exhibit 113 was written by Nsabimana and entitled, The Truth About the Massacres in Butare. In that document, Nsabimana made the following statements:

I saw refugees in the Prefecture. When I asked these burgomasters to come and collect their people, many of them did whatever they could to avoid it.

At the end of April Tutsi refugees – women, children and old people came to the Prefecture from all over to seek refuge. When the University hospital became congested with injured soldiers, civilian patients, the majority of whom were Tutsi, were turned away. Even the prisons refused to accept convicts because of shortage of food.

I decided to protect all the refugees in the Prefectorial office despite pressure from all sides. I asked the Red Cross to give them food, and every morning I asked them if anyone had threatened them. At the Prefecture, the brigade did not have any gendarmes. The government reprimanded me for not finding gendarmes to guard the Prefecture, yet I was able to find gendarmes to protect Tutsis.<sup>6607</sup>

2341. The Prosecution also introduced Prosecution Exhibit 114 through Des Forges. It contains a 1 October 1994 interview with Nsabimana. The exhibit included the following questions and responses by Nsabimana:

Q: How were you managing in that position at the time? You were telling people not to leave, but were they safe? Were you safe?

SN: Myself, I was not safe. I was not protected. I had two gendarmes with me possibly to protect me, possibly to get info on me. I didn't know which .... The problem was that the people who came to kill had guns. They were the military in civilian clothes. They were the Interahamwe with guns. How can you counter these people? Mainly, it was never to give information about people's whereabouts. That was the kind of protection we could give.

Q: Can you say with confidence that you protected people, that your presence helped?

SN: From the beginning there were people living at the office [the BPO]. How they came was very simple. First, there were about 20 women with children and nothing to eat. That day they were given some beans to eat. The next day there were more and then more again. Sometimes, there were people with wounds, other times people from the hospital. Injured military personnel were moved from Kigali to Butare so the civilians at the hospital were put out. They had nowhere to go, no papers, no identity card, no possibilities, so the hospital's director put them in his car and brought them to my office. I asked them if they wanted to go back, they said no we want to stay here. They too had nothing to eat. I went to see an NGO priest and got food for them. Some Interahamwe came in the early days to see who was there. I told them never to come back, that these people were protected. We did a list of the people living there so that every morning when I was around I could check to see if they were there or not or if there were any problems. Sometimes they reported to me that some Interahamwe came and looked and left. Around the end of June it was very hard, before the 15th of June, the RPF was not far from Butare and many of the Interahamwe wanted to kill these people very fast. I was given 12 soldiers by a certain colonel to protect them. Those Tutsi people were living at my office for 2-3 months and when I was there they were protected. Then I was replaced.<sup>6608</sup>

2342. Des Forges testified that RPF troops took the centre part of Rwanda in the early days of June 1994. This caused the government authorities to flee directly west and to settle in Gisenyi temporarily.<sup>6609</sup> Her Expert Report stated that as the RPF took Kabgayi and moved towards Gitarama, the Interim Government called on civilian self-defence forces to launch a counter-offensive on 6 June 1994. It failed and several days later, the Interim Government fled from Gitarama heading first to Kibuye and then to Gisenyi. The RPF took Gitarama on 13 June 1994.<sup>6610</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

2343. André Guichaoua testified that the RPF captured Kabgayi on 2 June 1994 and that the Interim Government transferred to Gitarama on 10 June 1994.<sup>6611</sup> He testified that Kibuye was captured on 2 June 1994 and that on 10 June 1994, the Interim Government partially withdrew to Gisenyi. On 13 June 1994 the RPF captured Gitarama.<sup>6612</sup>

2344. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence confronted Guichaoua with prior testimony in the Semanza case in which he stated that the Interim Government left Kigali on 11 April 1994 and went to Murambi; that its seat was in Murambi until 29 May 1994 and thereafter it moved to Gisenyi. Guichaoua stated that he was testifying off the cuff as he had indicated in that case, and that he had verified that the dates he gave in his testimony in the present case were accurate.<sup>6613</sup>

Prosecution Witness FA

2346. Witness FA clarified that in describing the vehicle as “a white vehicle described by others as a Hilux”, she intended that people referred to this type of a vehicle as a Hilux, and not that people told her so.<sup>6616</sup>

Prosecution Witness TG

2347. Witness TG, a Tutsi accountant in 1994, testified that from 26 April 1994, he was in hiding at businessman Martin Uwariraye’s compound, until 2 July 1994 when Interahamwe invaded the compound.<sup>6617</sup> From the compound’s bakery, the witness often saw Ntahobali passing on the main road. Ntahobali was driving a Peugeot pickup 504 that was originally white but was soiled on the side in a kind of camouflage.<sup>6618</sup> Witness TG had seen that vehicle before April 1994 and knew it had belonged to a businessman called Rwamukwaya who was Tutsi.<sup>6619</sup>

3.6.19.3.2 Defence Evidence

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WKKTD

2348. Witness WKKTD, a Hutu teacher, testified that he knew Nyiramasuhuko because everybody knew each other in Butare. He used to see her at her workplace, and sometimes asked her for favours.<sup>6620</sup>

2349. Witness WKKTD testified he knew a man named Mr. Mbasha since 1988 and knew him very well. They were neighbours and their families spent significant time together.<sup>6621</sup> Mbasha was from Cyangugu, was married and had two daughters, one aged 7 and the other aged 10 or 11 in 1994. Before his marriage, Mbasha had been a Jesuit brother in Burundi. Both Mbasha and his wife were Tutsis. The witness recalled that Mbasha was a tall, strong, muscular man, who was bald and who had lost one of his upper teeth. Mbasha’s family and Witness WKKTD’s family had become friends after Mbasha had moved into Witness WKKTD’s neighbourhood. The families visited each other, lent their vehicles to one another, and Witness WKKTD had learned to drive in the driving school where Mbasha was a trainer.<sup>6622</sup> Witness WKKTD testified that from 1988 to 1994 Mbasha worked at the same establishment as the witness.<sup>6623</sup> In 1994, Mbasha’s wife worked at the Bupharma pharmacy in

Butare town.<sup>6624</sup> Mbasha and his family lived in the neighbourhood referred to as Ngoma, in Ngoma secteur, near the préfet's residence.<sup>6625</sup>

2350. Witness WKKTD learned of the fate of Mbasha's wife and child from the wife of François Murwanashyaka, the sous-bourgmestre.<sup>6626</sup> He learned that Mbasha's wife and her younger daughter had been arrested by gendarmes. They were taken to the university campus called IPN, and then led to the roadblock between the university laboratory and IRST. The witness heard that Mbasha's wife and her child had been tortured at the roadblock for three days and had both died on the third day.<sup>6627</sup> Murwanashyaka told Witness WKKTD that while she was being tortured, Mbasha's wife had cried out: "Don't you know me? I was working at this or that place. I was providing you with medicines."<sup>6628</sup> The witness said he did not intervene to save Mbasha's wife or child because no one could move around town at that time.<sup>6629</sup>

2351. Witness WKKTD testified that he worked for UNAMIR between July 1994 and March 1996 in Cyanguu.<sup>6630</sup> Around April 1995, after Easter, his wife told him that she and their second daughter<sup>6631</sup> had seen Mbasha's eldest daughter, Yvette.<sup>6632</sup> The witness explained that his wife and daughter had been travelling in a minibus or taxi from Cyanguu to Butare. As they neared Butare town, and reached the junction between Bujumbura, Kigali and Butare, the witness' daughter saw Yvette walking in the distance, and pointed her out to her mother, who also recognised her.<sup>6633</sup> Witness WKKTD testified that his wife and daughter could not greet Yvette because their vehicle moved on.<sup>6634</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Denise Ntahobali

2352. Denise Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali's sister and Nyiramasuhuko's daughter, testified that Ntahobali did not possess a driver's licence nor did she ever see him driving a vehicle.<sup>6635</sup> She testified that she was unaware that her brother's vehicle was impounded in 1993 because her brother had never owned a vehicle. She denied protecting her brother when she said he did not possess a driver's licence nor did he know how to drive.<sup>6636</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Clarisse Ntahobali

2353. Clarisse Ntahobali, Ntahobali's sister and Nyiramasuhuko's daughter, testified that between April and July 1994, Ntahobali worked at the shop at the Hotel Ihuliro and worked behind the bar. He bought alcoholic beverages and went to purchase alcohol in the environs of Butare. At a certain point there were not any alcoholic drinks in Butare, so he went to the Burundi border to purchase Amstel beers. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Shalom used their father's driver and official vehicle or asked others to take him where he needed to go. She never saw Shalom drive a vehicle. He did not have a vehicle or a driver's licence.<sup>6637</sup>

2354. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that she and over 64 other persons left Butare on 3 July 1994 around noon. They reached Gikongoro around 1.00 p.m. The same day at 4.00 or 5.00 p.m., they left Gikongoro, and reached Muramba in Gisenyi préfecture on 4 July 1994 at about 3.00 or 4.00 p.m.<sup>6638</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Céline Nyiraneza's

2355. Céline Nyiraneza, Ntahobali's aunt and Nyiramasuhuko's sister, testified that Shalom never owned a vehicle.<sup>6639</sup>

Ntahobali

2356. Ntahobali testified that he sometimes travelled to Akanyaru on the Burundi-Rwanda border to purchase beer for resale in Butare town.<sup>6640</sup> He asserted that he did not drive himself to purchase the beer because he did not know how to drive.<sup>6641</sup>

2357. Ntahobali was confronted with a prior statement recorded on 24 and 26 July 1997 in which he agreed that he sometimes went to fetch the crates of beer himself and that other times, drivers went. Ntahobali asserted that this was a misreading of the prior statement, that the audio recording of the statement was poor, and that he never claimed to have driven himself.<sup>6642</sup> Ntahobali claimed that he had asserted in the 24 and 26 July 1997 statement that he did not know how to drive, but that such assertions must be in the portions of the audio tape that were marked as inaudible by the transcriber.<sup>6643</sup>

2358. In cross-examination, the Prosecution referred Ntahobali to the recorded interview of 24 and 26 July 1997 in which he allegedly stated that he sometimes used vehicles belonging to friends, including a Daihatsu pickup or light truck with a loading platform behind.<sup>6644</sup> Ntahobali testified that the transcription of the audio recording did not reflect the truth.<sup>6645</sup> He further stated that what was contained in the audio tape did not correspond to what was written in the transcript of the interview.<sup>6646</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNJN

2359. Witness WUNJN, a Hutu member of the PSD political party, testified that he knew Witness TA because he was neighbours with Witness TA's father.<sup>6647</sup> He testified that Witness TA was a Tutsi.<sup>6648</sup> Witness TA's family had been attacked during the first week after the President's death and she sought refuge at the house of her uncle.<sup>6649</sup> He testified that Witness TA's uncle sold sorghum beer and banana wine from his house and Witness WUNJN went to drink at the house four times a week.<sup>6650</sup> Witness TA sometimes served him drinks.<sup>6651</sup> Witness WUNJN testified that one cannot get drunk from sorghum beer, but only from banana wine.<sup>6652</sup>

2360. Witness WUNJN testified that he knew Witness QBP. She was one year younger than him and they grew up together.<sup>6653</sup> He remembered two of her daughters.<sup>6654</sup> He said Witness QBP was a Hutu and moved away from the commune with her husband.<sup>6655</sup> In 1994, her husband died, and she returned to live with her brother, which neighboured her parents' home.<sup>6656</sup> Witness QBP's parents' home was a 15 minute walk from Witness WUNJN's home. Witness WUNJN said that after 6 April 1994 he went to a friend's drinking place where he could see Witness QBP's parents' home and saw Witness QBP there.<sup>6657</sup> From the end of May 1994, he went farming with Witness QBP.<sup>6658</sup> He also went to mass with Witness QBP.<sup>6659</sup>

2361. Witness WUNJN testified that Witness QBP was living with Witness TA's uncle. He then corrected himself saying that he was confusing Witnesses QBP and TA.<sup>6660</sup> Witnesses QBP and TA were not seeking refuge in Butare town during April, May and June 1994.<sup>6661</sup> In addition, no Tutsis were killed in his secteur because all of the Tutsis, like Witness TA's brother, had moved away.<sup>6662</sup>

2362. Witness WUNJN testified that the information contained in his identification sheet was correct, including his name.<sup>6663</sup> However, the witness' prior statements contained a different family name and cellule of origin.<sup>6664</sup> The witness explained that his mother and father gave him one family name, but the other family name was given to him by his grandfather.<sup>6665</sup> He said he did not correct the identification sheet because he answered to both names.<sup>6666</sup> He testified that his grandfather's family name was the one that appeared on his identity card.<sup>6667</sup> However, he noted his travel documents bore his parents' family name because his wife had registered them for him.<sup>6668</sup> The Defence amended the cellule name on the identification sheet on the first day of Witness WUNJN's testimony.<sup>6669</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNHE

2363. Witness WUNHE, a farmer, testified that he went to the same school as Witness TA.<sup>6670</sup> Witness TA worked as a seamstress.<sup>6671</sup> Witness WUNHE testified that after President Habyarimana's death, Witness TA no longer stayed at her parents' house; she moved to the house of her uncle, where she served sorghum beer.<sup>6672</sup> Witness WUNHE had seen the destruction of Witness TA's family home which forced her to leave in April 1994.<sup>6673</sup> Her uncle's place was about 20 minutes away from her parents' house on foot.<sup>6674</sup> He saw her at least twice a week. Witness WUNHE's sister and her husband would sometimes give Witness WUNHE some pieces of land where they could grow some potatoes. When he came down to that farm, Witness WUNHE would find Witness TA there harvesting potatoes.<sup>6675</sup> She did not hide at her brothers' homes as they were in the same situation as her. He did not know where her brothers sought refuge.<sup>6676</sup> The witness testified that he last saw Witness TA at her uncle's place one or two weeks after President Habyarimana's death; he saw her in April and towards the end of May 1994.<sup>6677</sup> He did not speak with Witness TA during April or May 1994,<sup>6678</sup> and did not see Witness TA again during that time.<sup>6679</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ

2364. Witness WMCZ, a Hutu engineer who had a Tutsi wife, testified that after the President's plane was shot down, soldiers who had deserted the battlefield and who no longer respected orders from their commanders began to attack, plunder and kill people.<sup>6680</sup> Around 22 or 23 April 1994, a group of six bandits, one of whom had been a servant in his home, came to Witness WMCZ's home looking for his wife. They said if they could not find her, they would kill Witness WMCZ, although they said he could pay for his life. After he paid them

2367. Witness WMCZ testified that people decided to go to the BPO because it was a secure place. From where he lived, he could see people going towards the BPO. He did not see bandits pursuing those people.<sup>6688</sup> Witness WMCZ testified that there had been no anarchy in Butare town, and that he never witnessed any crime being committed. On his way home after visiting the bank, he did not notice any disorder or unrest in town, but the population was frightened.<sup>6689</sup> He rarely observed people walking down the street and in general everybody stayed at home. He had seen no bodies on any of his trips to Butare.<sup>6690</sup>

2368. Witness WMCZ testified that he saw Witness QBP again in early June 1994.<sup>6691</sup> She came to visit her younger sister at Witness WMCZ's brother's house, located 200 metres from the witness' home.<sup>6692</sup> The witness testified that on that occasion Witness QBP was very sad because one of her children had disappeared. He met Witness QBP on three more occasions in June 1994, once at his house, and twice at his older brother's house. He also saw her on one occasion at her own house, before she had left for Butare.<sup>6693</sup> The witness did not see Witness QBP after June 1994.<sup>6694</sup>

2369. Between 1996 and 1999, Witness QBP came to look for Witness WMCZ at his house on two occasions.<sup>6695</sup> She told him that her missing child had died, but her other children had survived. She also told him that she was looking for the people who had looted her house. She was a member of an association called Ibuka which had promised to pay her about 1,000,000 Rwandan francs in order to find people responsible for looting.<sup>6696</sup> Witness WMCZ did not see Witness TA from 1996 to 1999, but learned where she was staying. Witness WMCZ stated that Witnesses QBP and TA knew one another.<sup>6697</sup>

2370. Witness WMCZ testified that he knew Witness TA, as her parents were his neighbours; Witness TA was about 12 years old in 1994.<sup>6698</sup> He did not see Witness TA between April and July 1994, but Witness WMCZ's cousin told him that Witness TA was staying with him in Ndora commune between early May and late June 1994.<sup>6699</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNHF

2371. Witness WUNHF, a member of the PSD party, grew up with Witness QBP. He considered her as a sister, and they were neighbours until she married.<sup>6700</sup> Witness QBP's father was Hutu and her mother was Tutsi.<sup>6701</sup>

2373. During five to seven days in May 1994, Witness WUNHF did not see Witness QBP and wondered whether she had gone elsewhere. He thought that she may have gone to Nyange to see her brothers and sisters.<sup>6709</sup> After that they again had ordinary and daily meetings. In June 1994, Witness WUNHF's wife miscarried and Witness QBP came to visit his family on two or more occasions to encourage them. During June, she was always present and Witness WUNHF saw her quite often working on the farms. Witness QBP was always in the company of her mother-in-law and her sister-in-law.<sup>6710</sup>

2374. Witness D-2-13-O, a Hutu driver in 1994,<sup>6711</sup> testified that around May 1994 there was a roadblock opposite the Butare garage, between the Avenue de l'Université (which came down from Hotel Ibis and Hotel Faucon towards the university) and a road that branched off towards the ESO.<sup>6712</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-13-D

2377. Witness D-13-D, a Hutu driver, testified that Rwamukwaya used to sell shoes on the road leading from downtown to the university, opposite the Protestant school known as EER. After he resumed his work at the end of April or early May 1994, he did not see Rwamukwaya again.<sup>6719</sup>

2378. Witness D-13-D saw Ntahobali on numerous occasions when the witness drove his car through Butare town between April and July 1994.<sup>6720</sup> He saw Ntahobali moving about Butare town driving a Peugeot 504 pickup that belonged to Rwamukwaya, who sold shoes.<sup>6721</sup> The vehicle was like the Peugeot 504 he drove, except it was covered with grease mixed with dust which gave it a camouflage colour.<sup>6722</sup> He knew the vehicle belonged to Rwamukwaya because he knew Rwamukwaya’s vehicle. Being also “very keen on vehicles”, the witness always remembered the cars of his acquaintances.<sup>6723</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika

2380. Bararwandika testified that he went to the préfet's office with a Rwandan man from Kigali who was a driver at the Belgian Red Cross branch.<sup>6726</sup> The witness said that Nsabimana encouraged them to continue their relief activities and, if possible, to expand their work to the rest of the préfecture. Bararwandika testified that, given their numbers, they were going to limit themselves to the Ngoma urban commune, and more specifically to the University Teaching Hospital. Préfet Nsabimana sent the sous-préfet responsible for social welfare activities to speak with the witness. Bararwandika testified that he spoke with the sous-préfet at length about the NGO's needs. The sous-préfet then referred the witness to Bourgmestre Kanyabashi, who gave them the authorisation to continue their work.<sup>6727</sup>

2381. Bararwandika testified that after the refugees were moved to the BPO, he saw them in dirty clothes under the avocado trees; some were ill and lying down, and others were cooking.<sup>6728</sup> The witness also testified that at some point, his NGO gave the refugees at the BPO some food. On one occasion, he saw a vehicle transporting water to the BPO, which he believed was for the refugees.<sup>6729</sup> The witness did not see this water being distributed to the refugees, because when he saw the truck there, he was in a hurry.<sup>6730</sup>

2382. Bararwandika did not know if the BPO opened up to the refugees who were there. When he went to the BPO, he did not see refugees enter the BPO.<sup>6731</sup> The witness testified that when he saw the refugees at the BPO, there was no shelter whereas the period between March and April 1994, when the refugees were at the BPO, is usually a rainy season in Rwanda.<sup>6732</sup> When he went to the BPO, the Tutsis there were emaciated, wore torn clothes and were obviously refugees.<sup>6733</sup>

2383. Bararwandika testified that Préfet Nsabimana saved people where possible. He said that Nsabimana: supported Bararwandika's relief unit at the university hospital; created health zones at the Butare bishopric and the nuns' convent; authorised the work of the NGO Terre des Hommes, which established a camp in Karubanda where people were well-protected; and later transferred children from Groupe Scolaire in Karubanda to a foreign country. As a result of the creation of these safe zones, the witness transferred four children who were hidden in Tumba and then in Rango.<sup>6734</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Patrick Fergal Keane

2384. Patrick Fergal Keane, a reporter for the BBC, visited Rwanda on assignment and, as part of that trip, went to Butare préfecture around 15 June 1994.<sup>6735</sup> He visited the BPO and interviewed Nsabimana at that time.<sup>6736</sup> The video from that interview was introduced as Defence Exhibit 473A and a transcript of portions of that interview was introduced as Defence Exhibit 473B.<sup>6737</sup>

2385. Keane observed, and the videographer recorded, the presence of refugees at the BPO.<sup>6738</sup> Nsabimana stated in the interview that in his capacity as an authority, he would protect the refugees.<sup>6739</sup> In addition, Nsabimana said that he had posted gendarmes to ensure the refugees' safety.<sup>6740</sup> Nsabimana stated that he was looking for a more secure place to take the refugees by bus, but the refugees were reticent to leave the BPO without assurances as to their safety. In the interview, Nsabimana estimated that there were over 200 refugees at the BPO. Keane testified that there were about 500 refugees at the BPO.<sup>6741</sup> Keane testified that he attempted to visit the BPO at night with his camera crew, but they were turned away at a roadblock not far from the préfet's office.<sup>6742</sup> He stated that they may have returned to the BPO at night because someone told him that armed civilians had attacked refugees at the BPO when they had gone to fetch water.<sup>6743</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WNMN

2386. Witness WNMN, a Hutu teacher, testified that in early June 1994 he passed by the BPO and there were about 30 to 50 refugees there, including men, women and children of various ethnic groups.<sup>6744</sup> He did not see whether there were more refugees inside or behind the office.<sup>6745</sup> Security was guaranteed and there were no killings at that time in Butare.<sup>6746</sup> There were some gendarmes on the side of the brigade. The entrance to the préfecture office was not guarded. Rather, "very close to the brigade there were stores and they could see people passing without any problem".<sup>6747</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WZNA

2387. Witness WZNA, an employee at a food mill, testified that between April and July 1994, he passed in front of the BPO on two occasions: once between 16 and 18 April 1994 and the second time in early July 1994.<sup>6748</sup> He said that the first time he passed there he estimated that he saw approximately 50 to 60 civilians in front of the MINITRAP office.<sup>6749</sup> He said that the second time he passed by in early July 1994 he did not see any civilians.<sup>6750</sup> He passed in front of the BPO because certain soldiers had needed rice urgently and came to see him at his home to place an order.<sup>6751</sup> He said he and the soldiers were moving towards ESO.<sup>6752</sup> The witness thought the soldiers were based at ESO.<sup>6753</sup> He also said that he knew one of the soldiers as Ndibwami Eugène, a lieutenant.<sup>6754</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WTRT

2388. Witness WTRT, a Hutu soldier assigned to ESO,<sup>6755</sup> testified that he went to the BPO one morning towards the end of April or early May 1994 and noticed the presence of about 100 refugees who were scattered in front of and beside the BPO.<sup>6756</sup> The BPO was not fenced but there were a few trees planted around. He did not see any armed civilians or soldiers at the BPO. He noticed people in their offices who were working. He did not talk to any of the refugees.<sup>6757</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL

2389. Witness WMKL, a Hutu teacher, testified that he went to the BPO at the end of the week following the death of President Habyarimana. On that occasion, he saw between 100 and 150 refugees gathered there.<sup>6758</sup> The refugees were to the left, in the back, very close to the préfet's office.<sup>6759</sup> Witness WMKL testified that the refugees could move around as there was no fence in the premises of the BPO.<sup>6760</sup> The refugees had access to the shops and some of them had bread with them.<sup>6761</sup> Most of the refugees behind the BPO were preparing food.<sup>6762</sup> He saw neither people in uniform nor armed civilians preventing the refugees from moving around freely at the BPO.<sup>6763</sup>

2390. Witness WMKL testified that he talked with three refugees who told him that they had had problems of security because of their neighbours. They came to be close to the administration because they felt that their security would be protected there.<sup>6764</sup> He talked with refugees at least three times around the end of April 1994 and also in early May 1994.<sup>6765</sup> The refugees did not tell him that they had been threatened. The refugees said that they felt secure from the moment they arrived at the BPO.<sup>6766</sup> He knew the three refugees he talked with and named them.<sup>6767</sup>

2391. Witness WMKL testified that Sous-préfet Faustin Rutayisire also told him that these refugees were people who had felt threatened where they were living and had decided to come to the BPO because they trusted the administration there.<sup>6768</sup> The sous-préfet did not mention anything about kidnapping, murder or rape perpetrated at the BPO.<sup>6769</sup> He said that he did not see any refugees at the BPO when he passed again during the first week of June 1994.<sup>6770</sup>

Nsabimana

2392. Nsabimana testified that from 21 April 1994, when he arrived at the BPO, people sought laissez-passers at the BPO, but they were not considered refugees. On the first day, the laissez-passers were free of charge, but on the second day, they started charging 100 francs for the document.<sup>6771</sup> From 21 April 1994, there were people at the BPO, but they would move about; one would not know who would come and go and who would stay at the BPO.<sup>6772</sup>

2393. Nsabimana testified that he did not count the number of people at the BPO, but there were many people coming. Throughout the months of April and May 1994 the numbers of people varied on a daily basis.<sup>6773</sup> Around the second week of May 1994, or as early as 5 May 1994, they knew that people were coming from Gikongoro préfecture, and Runyinya and Byumba communes, because these people asked for laissez-passers.<sup>6774</sup> It was only at the end of May 1994 that it was clear that there was a big group of people staying at the BPO.<sup>6775</sup> People came in droves in mid-May 1994 from the east of the country as they were pushed by the RPF.<sup>6776</sup> People were coming to the BPO for protection and his mission was to protect them.<sup>6777</sup>

2394. Nsabimana testified that convalescing patients were sent from Butare University Hospital to the BPO on 2 May 1994.<sup>6778</sup> As indicated by a letter of 25 April 1994, introduced as Defence Exhibit 479B, the hospital was overcrowded with patients and the hospital vice-rector asked Nsabimana to evacuate persons who were staying at the hospital.<sup>6779</sup> These persons included Burundian refugees, displaced Rwandans, mild cases, and improved-health patients. Nsabimana testified that he responded by letter of 2 May 1994, introduced as Defence Exhibit 480B, in which he stated the administration was making arrangements with the Rwandan Red Cross to find accommodation for the persons.<sup>6780</sup> That same day, the persons arrived at the BPO from the University Hospital.<sup>6781</sup> When the people arrived they were split in different places.<sup>6782</sup>

2395. Nsabimana testified that there were people who came from the hospital who were ill and convalescing, or had bandages on. There were also people who had already been at the BPO for some time, and still others were arriving. He could not estimate the number of persons who were staying in the courtyard of the BPO. The persons stayed anywhere at the BPO, but at a certain point, the Security Council decided that during the day, in order to avoid movement to and from the offices, people could go behind the BPO where there was a lot of space whereas during the night people could stay on the veranda. No place was off-limits to those people.<sup>6783</sup>

2396. Nsabimana testified that there was no food for the prisoners at Karubanda prison and, therefore, the Security Council decided to release people who had small sentences or who were about to complete their prison terms. The prison contained 3,000 people, and a sizeable number came to the BPO, but Nsabimana did not know how many.<sup>6784</sup>

2398. Nsabimana stated that he did not make a decision to separate Hutus from Tutsis. He testified that in 1993 Hutu and Tutsi refugees from Burundi were taken to a camp in Saga, but there were problems among the two groups within the camp. Therefore, the UNHCR, along with the préfecture and local authorities, had decided in 1993 to set up a camp for Tutsis alone in Nyange and to leave the Hutu camp in Saga.<sup>6789</sup> Nsabimana testified that the Mubumbano refugee camp was set up gradually from mid-May 1994 and the number of refugees there kept increasing as people arrived from the east of the country.<sup>6790</sup> This camp had many Hutus and even if they were Tutsis, they would not admit to it.<sup>6791</sup> Nsabimana said the only persons left in the hills were Hutus and the Tutsis were either in hiding or had been killed. So when the RPF came from the east of the country, the people who fled were Hutus, and these persons ended up in Mubumbano without a decision being made that Tutsis and Hutus should be divided.<sup>6792</sup>

2400. Nsabimana testified that he did not object to the introduction of Prosecution Exhibit 114 because what was contained in that document was not 100 percent different from his own way of seeing things or his own writing on certain issues.<sup>6795</sup>

2401. Nsabimana denied Prosecution Witnesses TK’s and SJ’s evidence that people were killed at the BPO. He also denied that there were mass graves behind the office containing the bodies of people who had been killed.<sup>6796</sup> Nsabimana denied being informed of abductions of people from the BPO during the day. Nsabimana denied Prosecution Witnesses SJ’s and TK’s testimony that he made a young man leave his office, who was then arrested, tied down and taken to be killed since he never came back. Nsabimana testified that he never went to the BPO at night and denied that 40 children were killed at the BPO.<sup>6797</sup>

2402. Nsabimana testified that people who committed crimes were arrested and usually convened immediately during the security meetings. He gave the example of one Emmanuel Rekeraho, an ex-warrant officer from Huye commune who appeared before the security meeting, and one taxi driver who never returned.<sup>6798</sup>

2403. Because several bishops had been killed in Kabayi around 5 June 1994, Nsabimana was concerned with reprisal killings. Nsabimana testified that in early June 1994, he observed a soldier moving among the refugees and he asked his bodyguards to call the soldier into his office.<sup>6799</sup> The soldier said he was looking for one of his friends, but Nsabimana did not believe him. Therefore, he met with Colonels Munyengango and Mugemanyi who suggested that some soldiers be brought in to protect the refugees at the BPO. The colonels seconded five or six soldiers under the leadership of a female lieutenant to guard the people at the BPO.<sup>6800</sup>

2404. Around 15 June 1994, one lady refugee went to Nsabimana's office and complained about the insecurity caused by the soldier moving about the refugees.<sup>6801</sup> Nsabimana denied the assertion that refugees told him that they were being attacked at the BPO.<sup>6802</sup>

2405. In a telephone conversation with Des Forges in March 1996, Nsabimana stated that he saw a disguised Peugeot 504 pickup in town owned by somebody that he knew.<sup>6803</sup> Nsabimana saw the vehicle from behind, and one would say there was mud on it. The back part of the pickup was in a square form.<sup>6804</sup> There were two people within the front part of the cabin, and two red containers of either petrol or gas oil in the back part of the pickup.<sup>6805</sup> His driver, Manase, told him one of the men was Ntahobali.<sup>6806</sup> Manase did not specify whether the driver or the passenger was Ntahobali.<sup>6807</sup> Nsabimana testified that when he told Des Forges that he knew the owner of the Peugeot 504 was one Rwamukwaya, he did not ask himself who the pickup belonged to.<sup>6808</sup> He was not saying that the Peugeot 504 he saw Ntahobali driving in April 1994 belonged to somebody else. Rather, he testified that there had been an error.<sup>6809</sup>

3.6.19.3.2.1 Alibi Evidence – Nyiramasuhuko

Nyiramasuhuko

2406. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she was in Kigali until 12 April 1994 when the Interim Government fled to Murambi in Gitarama préfecture.<sup>6810</sup> She travelled to Butare on 14 April 1994.<sup>6811</sup> On that date, Nyiramasuhuko testified that she and the Minister of Finance, Ndindabahizi, visited the Butare accountant, Alexis Durasinze. She went to the BPO with Alexis, where he and the Minister of Finance dealt with their assignment.<sup>6812</sup> She was given the pickup with gendarmes who accompanied her home to the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6813</sup>

2407. Nyiramasuhuko stated that she spent the night at Hotel Ihuliro and returned to Gitarama the next morning with Straton, another minister. She did not leave the hotel before that.<sup>6814</sup> She went back to Murambi on 15 April 1994, because a Cabinet meeting had been scheduled for that day. She did not go back to Butare often in April 1994 because she did not have access to a vehicle.<sup>6815</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stated that she did not leave Murambi between 14 and 18 April 1994.<sup>6816</sup>

2408. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the entry in her diary dated 10 February referred to the swearing-in ceremony of the new préfet of Butare (see also Table 4 of Guichaoua's report). The notes state: "Meeting to introduce the new préfet, presence of the Preerep and the Prime Minister". Apart from herself, the Prime Minister and the President, other members of the Government were present, including ministers of all political parties.<sup>6817</sup>

2409. Nyiramasuhuko testified that when Nsabimana was installed, she went to Butare with Minister Mugiraneza. The ministers went in a convoy from Murambi to Butare and arrived in the morning on 19 April 1994. When she and Minister Mugiraneza arrived at the multi-purpose hall, the former alighted and Nyiramasuhuko went to visit her family at the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6818</sup> She did not remain there for a long time. The children took some of the items that she had brought from the vehicle while she went to see her husband who was not well and in bed. She then left and attended the swearing-in ceremony which ended around 2.00 p.m. She explained that she could not stay with her family on that date because she did not have her own means of transportation and had not previously made up her mind to spend the night in Butare. Further, she was to travel later to Ruhengeri for the swearing-in of the préfet. Nyiramasuhuko decided to return to Murambi on 19 April 1994 with Mugiraneza because she did not know whether there was going to be a meeting on the next day.<sup>6819</sup>

2411. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she did not go to Butare between 21 and 28 April 1994. She again went to Butare on 28 April 1994, after the meeting that finalised the Prime Minister's directives. Nyiramasuhuko went to Butare on that date because she could travel with the chairman of the PSD party, Ndungutse, and return the next day.<sup>6822</sup> They left Murambi at around 2.00 p.m. and arrived at Butare in the late afternoon, around 5.00 or 6.00 p.m.<sup>6823</sup> She went to Hotel Ihuliro, where her family was and spent the night there. She did not leave the hotel and was with the members of her family. Her granddaughter was celebrating her first birthday.<sup>6824</sup> She and Ndungutse left the following day, at around 10.00 a.m.<sup>6825</sup>

2412. Nyiramasuhuko took notes at a Cabinet meeting that lasted two days on 7 and 8 May 1994.<sup>6826</sup> Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that on 10 May 1994 she attended a meeting with youths of all parties in Butare. The meeting was organised by the Butare authorities. The purpose of the meeting was to educate youths about peaceful co-existence, so that they would not fight each other or engage in acts of provocation. Kalimanzira informed her that the meeting was going to take place, and that it was organised by the préfet and bourgmestre of Ngoma urban commune. Kalimanzira said he would go there to ensure that the meeting had gone well. Nyiramasuhuko asked him for a ride.<sup>6827</sup> Kalimanzira told her that he had an appointment, and so they left and returned to Murambi on the same day. She stated that Nsabimana came at the end of the meeting. She did not recall if he made a speech. The meeting was followed by another meeting at the office of the bourgmestre of the urban commune and a reception.<sup>6828</sup>

2413. Nyiramasuhuko did not go to Hotel Ihuliro on 10 May 1994, because Kalimanzira was in a hurry to get back and she had no other means of transportation to return to Murambi. They left during the reception. Apart from Kamena Stadium and the reception, she did not go anywhere else in Butare that day.<sup>6829</sup>

2414. On 14 May 1994, she left Murambi for the weekend to go home in the company of Kalimanzira, who was going to Butare.<sup>6830</sup> She left Gitarama after noon.<sup>6831</sup> She remembered that she returned to Butare on 14 May, because on that day she saw a letter which had been drafted by Kalimanzira which bore the date of 14 May 1994. That letter reminded her that the notes which she had taken down were in connection with that time because they mention exactly what happened on 14 May 1994.<sup>6832</sup>

2415. Nyiramasuhuko testified that on 14 May 1994, she went to see her family while Kalimanzira stayed with Kanyabashi. The vehicle took her to Hotel Ihuliro where she arrived towards 6.00 p.m. She asked her family why they were still staying at the hotel, because she had asked them earlier to leave Butare town. Her family was not even thinking of leaving, although the situation was bad and war had reached more areas.<sup>6833</sup>

2416. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she stayed in Butare on the weekend of 14 and 15 May 1994 since she was not well, and therefore was not in a hurry to return the next day. On 15 May 1994 she remained in bed at home and on 16 May 1994 she felt better and left Butare for Gitarama in the morning. She did not leave the hotel during these days.<sup>6834</sup>

2417. On 16 May 1994, before 10.00 a.m., Nyiramasuhuko went to the BPO to pay a courtesy call to Préfet Nsabimana. She also wanted to find out about developments in the town and the state of security in Butare.<sup>6835</sup> She went in her husband's Peugeot 505, a sedan, adding that she did not have a vehicle and was ill.<sup>6836</sup> She wanted to know whether it was necessary for her to move her family, and also to gather information to share with other ministers. Nsabimana told her that members of the population continued to flee from Mayaga in great numbers, and that if she wanted to know exactly what the security situation of Butare was, she could come and attend a Security Council meeting of the BPO.<sup>6837</sup> It was not necessary for her to report to the Cabinet about the situation in Butare after 16 May 1994, as the others already knew what she learned.<sup>6838</sup>

2418. Nyiramasuhuko stated that she saw many people at the BPO but that she did not know who was a refugee and who was not because Butare was at a crossroads and everybody passed through Butare while fleeing from the war. While some people at the BPO wanted to obtain travel documents or fuel vouchers, others came to look for members of their family. She estimated that there were about a hundred people at the BPO.<sup>6839</sup>

2419. Nyiramasuhuko stated that she attended the meeting of the Security Council on 16 May 1994 at the multi-purpose hall. She first went to the hotel and told her family that she was going to attend the meeting. She again used the Peugeot 505 to go to the hall. She confirmed that she took notes during the meeting and that they were contained in the entries for 30 and 31 January in her diary.<sup>6840</sup>

2420. She testified that on 16 May 1994, she did not wait for the end of the meeting of the Security Council and returned to Murambi in her husband's Peugeot 505 with her husband's driver, Ngarambe.<sup>6841</sup> Her own driver was called Muvunyi.<sup>6842</sup> She testified that she did not have a driver and bodyguard named Kazungu who moved around with her between April and July 1994.<sup>6843</sup> She did not leave Murambi after her return on 16 May 1994.<sup>6844</sup>

2423. She went to the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6849</sup> She arrived in the afternoon, before 6.00 p.m. As soon as she arrived, she talked with members of her family. She was surprised because they were celebrating her niece's birthday, while she had come to evacuate them. On the evening of 30 May 1994, she remained at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6850</sup>

2424. When she reached Butare on 30 May 1994, her vehicle was hit by another car driven by a gendarme. The gendarme told Nyiramasuhuko that he would see his commanding officer, in order to requisition another vehicle for her.<sup>6851</sup> A car belonging to the ISAR was then requisitioned and put at her disposal.<sup>6852</sup> It was a Mazda double-cabin pickup, which belonged to the ISAR forestry.<sup>6853</sup> "ISAR Ruhande" was written on the side of the car and could be read from a distance of five or 10 metres.<sup>6854</sup> She stated that she went to Butare to visit her family on that day.<sup>6855</sup> The commanding officer authorised her to obtain the vehicle.<sup>6856</sup>

2425. Nyiramasuhuko testified that in the morning of 31 May 1994, while the children were getting ready to leave, she decided that she should attend the meeting taking place in the multi-purpose hall.<sup>6857</sup> It took her between five and seven minutes to walk there from the hotel.<sup>6858</sup> She spent one hour at the meeting and left as soon as she was told that a vehicle had been made available.<sup>6859</sup> At that point, the meeting had not yet ended.<sup>6860</sup> She left Butare immediately, because the children she was going to evacuate were already in the car.<sup>6861</sup> The situation in Gitarama was very dangerous and the RPF took over the town.<sup>6862</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stated that she left Butare before noon with Denise and her granddaughter.<sup>6863</sup> They reached Murambi around 2.00 p.m.<sup>6864</sup>

2426. Nyiramasuhuko testified that on 1 June 1994 she was not in Butare. She was in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, and on her way to Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture. She returned to Butare a fortnight later.<sup>6865</sup>

2427. Nyiramasuhuko testified as to the notes in her diary from 1 to 3 June 1994. She said there was a Cabinet meeting in Murambi on 1 June 1994. Regarding her diary notes on 1 to 3 June 1994, she was at first unsure whether they all related to the 1 June 1994 Cabinet meeting in Murambi.<sup>6866</sup> Upon further questioning, she testified that the notes appearing on the page for 3 June 1994 relate to a different Cabinet meeting that took place in Muramba on 4 June 1994.<sup>6867</sup>

2428. Nyiramasuhuko testified that after the Cabinet meeting on 1 June 1994, at about 2.00 p.m., the Chief of Staff for the Prime Minister told them they must leave as they were under attack.<sup>6868</sup> She left Murambi in the direction of Gisenyi. She went to Muramba<sup>6869</sup> on 1 June, because it was said that the seat of government would be there. She clarified that the seat of government was in Gisenyi, where the President of the Republic stayed.<sup>6870</sup> She referred to Muramba<sup>6871</sup> as the government office, because there were some offices and services there.<sup>6872</sup> During the first days of June 1994, Cabinet meetings were held in Muramba.<sup>6873</sup> Ministers left Gisenyi and shuttled to Muramba during the entire month of June 1994. She settled there because Cabinet meetings were held there and because her grandchild was with her. She explained that it was not easy for her to move around all the time with her grandchild.<sup>6874</sup>

2429. She said the diary entry appearing on 3 June 1994 was an indication of the various areas where the ministers were staying at that time.<sup>6875</sup> The first several lines of the entry for 3 June 1994 state:

Gitarama: MINIFOPE

Mijeuma → Nyabikenke

Gisenyi: MINIPLAN + MINITRASO

MINETO → Popul<sup>n</sup> + Civil Defence

MINIPRISEC → office in Gisenyi

MIFAPROFE → Muramba and Butare and looking towards Gikongoro.<sup>6876</sup>

2430. She testified that at the time of the 4 June 1994 meeting, most ministers were in Gisenyi where several ministries were based, but there were two ministries in Nyabikenke, Gitarama préfecture: MINIFOP and MIJEUMA. Nyiramasuhuko was the only minister that did not live in Gisenyi.<sup>6877</sup>

2431. She testified that she was staying in Muramba. When she travelled to Butare on the weekends, she went through Gikongoro because that was the only way to get to Butare at that time.<sup>6878</sup>

2432. She said that a series of government decisions appearing in the 4 June 1994 entry in her diary related to the same 4 June 1994 Cabinet meeting.<sup>6879</sup> She testified that at the 4 June meeting, the government decided to replace the préfet of Gitarama with Major Ukulikiyeyezu.<sup>6880</sup>

2433. She testified that Cabinet meetings were held in Muramba on 6 June and 10 June 1994.<sup>6881</sup> She also said that on 8 June 1994 the RPF had killed bishops that were her neighbours in Gitarama. The Cabinet learned about the killings from newspapers and the radio on 10 June 1994 and discussed it at the Cabinet meeting that day.<sup>6882</sup>

2434. She did not travel to Butare between 31 May and 11 June 1994 as she was in Muramba.<sup>6883</sup> She did not leave Muramba between 12 and 17 June 1994. During that time, Cabinet meetings were held almost every day. She stated that entries in her diary for 17 June, 18 May and 19th (no month indicated) 1994 related to a Cabinet meeting.<sup>6884</sup>

2435. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she went to Butare on Saturday, 11 June 1994.<sup>6885</sup> She said this was the only trip she took to Butare in the month of June 1994 after a Cabinet meeting.<sup>6886</sup> Her daughter Denise, her granddaughter and three gendarmes, one of whom was a driver, accompanied her to Butare. She travelled in a dirty, white Mazda pickup, which was in her possession for two days.<sup>6887</sup> They left very early in the morning and arrived at Butare around 6.00 p.m.<sup>6888</sup> She was afraid for her family and had asked them to flee but they refused. So she returned to try again.<sup>6889</sup> People were waiting for the arrival of Cardinal Etchegarray.<sup>6890</sup>

2436. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she went straight to Hotel Ihuliro where her family was located, including her children and husband.<sup>6891</sup> Her family did not understand the prevailing situation in Rwanda, thinking they were in a peaceful country. She told the people who were at the hotel that they had to leave.<sup>6892</sup> She spent the night at the hotel and did not go anywhere else.<sup>6893</sup>

2437. She said that it might take about three hours to travel from Gisenyi to Kigali and then another two hours from Kigali to Butare. In times of war, another two to three additional hours must be added to these five hours. The duration of the trip would depend on the itinerary used. She also said the distance between Muramba and Butare might be covered in an hour less than the distance between Gisenyi and Butare.<sup>6894</sup> Further, the distance between Gisenyi and Muramba might be covered in about an hour.<sup>6895</sup>

2438. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she never went to Muganza. She confirmed that on 10 June 1994 there was a Cabinet meeting at Muramba, but not on 11 June 1994.<sup>6896</sup> The following morning [12 June 1994], she left for Muramba at around 10.00 a.m.<sup>6897</sup> They reached Gisenyi commune at around 9.00 p.m.<sup>6898</sup>

2439. In relation to the diary entry for 18 June 1994 which was followed by arrows and the words, “[f]or two hundred thousand francs, I must withdraw an envelope for civil defence in Gisenyi,” Nyiramasuhuko said these were notes she took based on a message she received from the minister of public service. She did not go to Gisenyi on 18 June 1994 to withdraw an envelope for civil defence. On that date, she was in Muramba.<sup>6899</sup>

2440. Nyiramasuhuko testified that on 21 June 1994, she attended meetings at RTLM and at Kigali préfecture.<sup>6900</sup> She stayed at Hotel des Diplomates in Kigali. Her programme was to tell

2441. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that she went to Butare when Cardinal Etchegararray visited on 24 June 1994 as a government envoy. She was a member of a government delegation, consisting of staff of the foreign ministry and a journalist. They left Muramba at 4.00 a.m. and reached Butare at about 11.00 a.m. She went to Hotel Ihuliro and spent a very brief time there, just to exchange greetings and ask for news, before leaving. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she tried to follow the programme that had been set for the cardinal's visit. She left Butare at about 8.00 p.m.<sup>6902</sup>

2442. Nyiramasuhuko stated that between 12 and 24 June 1994, she did not go to Butare and did not return there until after 24 June 1994. She did not attend the assumption of office by Ndayambaje as a bourgmestre. Nyiramasuhuko denied that on 24 June 1994 she went anywhere in Butare to abduct Tutsis or that she ordered the abduction, rape, or execution of Tutsis.<sup>6903</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that she returned to Butare in July 1994, having left Muramba after the Cabinet meeting on 2 July 1994. She left with the gendarmes, who were her bodyguards.<sup>6904</sup>

2443. Denise Ntahobali testified that about one week after the death of Habyarimana, she and her sister Clarisse went to Hotel Ihuliro to find out about their father and brother, Shalom Ntahobali.<sup>6905</sup> Denise Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko came to the hotel a few days after Denise Ntahobali's arrival around 6.00 p.m. with two gendarmes.<sup>6906</sup> Her mother, Nyiramasuhuko, left the next day, returning to Murambi to work.<sup>6907</sup>

2444. On 28 April 1994, the first birthday of Clarisse's child, Nyiramasuhuko came for the second time to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6908</sup> Nyiramasuhuko asked them to leave Butare because of the progress of the RPF.<sup>6909</sup> The next day, her mother went back to her place of work in Murambi.<sup>6910</sup>

2445. Denise Ntahobali testified that at the end of May her mother came again to Hotel Ihuliro for the birthday party of her cousin, Witness WBUC.<sup>6911</sup> On cross-examination she agreed that the birthday was on 30 May 1994.<sup>6912</sup> This time her mother again asked them to leave and go to Cyangugu because the RPF was approaching Butare.<sup>6913</sup> The family members refused because it would have been difficult to move the large number of people residing at Hotel Ihuliro. Those people had come to the hotel because the massacres had not yet commenced in Butare.<sup>6914</sup> Nyiramasuhuko became annoyed and decided to leave with her granddaughter and Denise Ntahobali. Denise was amenable to leaving because she felt that staying at the hotel was dangerous and because she wanted to support Nyiramasuhuko during those difficult times.<sup>6915</sup> She looked after her niece throughout the period of the events. When they left for Murambi and then for Muramba, they stayed together until they returned to Butare.<sup>6916</sup>

2447. The day after arriving in Murambi, Nyiramasuhuko attended a Cabinet meeting. In the afternoon she ran back to their room as if she had lost her mind, telling them that they must flee because the Inkotanyi were nearby.<sup>6921</sup> They collected the belongings they could and Denise Ntahobali, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, the baby and the gendarmes boarded a vehicle.<sup>6922</sup> They went towards Gisenyi préfecture along the Ngororero road, part of which was paved. They were accompanied by a large number of gendarmes placed at the front and back of a convoy of 20 vehicles. They arrived in Muramba in the late evening. Muramba is not far from Ngororero.<sup>6923</sup>

2448. When they were in Muramba, Nyiramasuhuko often went to attend meetings in Muramba or Gisenyi.<sup>6924</sup> Nyiramasuhuko would leave to attend meetings during the day and return each evening.<sup>6925</sup> Denise Ntahobali testified that she knew her mother went to these places because each morning Nyiramasuhuko would tell her where she was going and when she travelled to Gisenyi, Denise Ntahobali watched Nyiramasuhuko get into her vehicle.<sup>6926</sup>

2449. They stayed in Muramba for one week and then went to Butare to see how the people they left behind were doing. She travelled with her mother, her niece and two gendarmes.<sup>6927</sup> The trip to Hotel Ihuliro took them between eight and 10 hours.<sup>6928</sup> The following day, she, her mother, niece and the two gendarmes left Hotel Ihuliro and went back to Muramba because Nyiramasuhuko had to return to her place of work.<sup>6929</sup>

2450. When it was put to her that Nyiramasuhuko attended a Cabinet meeting on 10 June 1994 in Murambi, Denise responded: “I know that we left the next day, after the day we arrived. I see 10th of June here [in the diary], but on that date, we were at Muramba. I don’t see where this Cabinet meeting might have taken place.”<sup>6930</sup>

2451. During June 1994, Denise Ntahobali testified that she did not leave Muramba. She said that Nyiramasuhuko went to meetings in Muramba and Gisenyi but always returned to spend the night with them. Nyiramasuhuko also went to Butare once to meet the apostolic nuncio, Etchegarray, and returned in the middle of the night to Muramba.<sup>6931</sup> When it was suggested to Denise Ntahobali that her mother did not return to Muramba in the middle of the night as she had testified, she stood by her testimony adding, “[t]here is nothing that proves that she was still at Butare. I noticed that there were things that were entered on other dates which were not on the day when she made the entry in the diary.”<sup>6932</sup> Denise Ntahobali testified that her mother used a white open-backed pickup.<sup>6933</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WZJM

2452. Witness WZJM, a Hutu, testified to seeing Nyiramasuhuko in Muramba more than 10 times during June 1994.<sup>6934</sup> In early June 1994, people were saying that the Interim Government had moved to Muramba.<sup>6935</sup> At that time, Witness WZJM observed a woman walking very near him with a one-year-old child. A nun to whom he was speaking identified the woman as Nyiramasuhuko, the Minister in charge of women and family affairs. Nyiramasuhuko wore civilian attire.<sup>6936</sup> It was the first time in his life he had seen Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>6937</sup> She was never escorted by any soldiers.<sup>6938</sup>

2453. Witness WZJM explained that he saw Nyiramasuhuko a second time when she was in a white double-cabin Toyota pickup, with her driver and one-year-old child.<sup>6939</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was exiting the vehicle near a store close to a school.<sup>6940</sup> He explained that when he went to church or to the market, he would see the white vehicle he described, carrying Nyiramasuhuko, the child and the driver.<sup>6941</sup> Nyiramasuhuko sat in the back seat carrying the child and the driver sat in the front.<sup>6942</sup> In total, he saw them about 10 times in the month of June 1994.<sup>6943</sup>

Apart from the first time when he saw Nyiramasuhuko walking, he only saw Nyiramasuhuko in the vehicle he described.<sup>6944</sup>

2454. Witness WZJM testified that he was unable to determine whether there were strained relations between Hutus and Tutsis in 1990 because he did not know who was Hutu and who was Tutsi.<sup>6945</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Edmond Babin

2455. Edmond Babin, an investigator for the Nyiramasuhuko Defence, recorded video and took photographs of numerous locations in Butare préfecture that were discussed in the Indictments.<sup>6946</sup> He testified that the total distance from Butare to Gisenyi was 317 kilometres which was covered in 8 hours and 4 minutes along the DRC border with the exception of the stopover at Kibuye.<sup>6947</sup> He testified that the trip from Gitarama to Butare was 83 kilometres and took 1 hour and 10 minutes to travel the tarred road.<sup>6948</sup>

2456. Clarisse Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko's daughter and Ntahobali's sister, testified that she left Rwanda in August 1991 for Canada to pursue her higher education at the University of Sherbrooke, in the province of Quebec.<sup>6949</sup> She returned to Rwanda in February 1994 and remained there until 18 July 1994.<sup>6950</sup>

2457. When Clarisse Ntahobali returned to Rwanda, she worked at Hotel Ihuliro, her family's hotel.<sup>6951</sup> Clarisse Ntahobali testified that when she returned to Rwanda in February 1994, Nyiramasuhuko resided in Kigali, in Kimihurura, while her father was in Buye, although Nyiramasuhuko came home every weekend.<sup>6952</sup>

2458. Clarisse Ntahobali went to Hotel Ihuliro about one week after the plane crash.<sup>6953</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was not at Hotel Ihuliro when Clarisse Ntahobali arrived.<sup>6954</sup> Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko arrived at Hotel Ihuliro in the evening, two days after her own arrival. She was accompanied by four bodyguards, and told her family that the government had moved to Murambi from where she came.<sup>6955</sup> Nyiramasuhuko spent one or two nights in Butare before going back to Murambi, very early in the morning.<sup>6956</sup>

2459. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that on 19 April 1994, she met Nyiramasuhuko as she was going to the Matyazo market square. Nyiramasuhuko told her that she had come for the swearing-in of the new préfet of Butare. Nyiramasuhuko was bringing the family some food.<sup>6957</sup> When she returned from the market, Clarisse did not find Nyiramasuhuko at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6958</sup>

2460. Clarisse Ntahobali saw Nyiramasuhuko again on 28 April 1994, the birthday of Clarisse Ntahobali's first child. Nyiramasuhuko came in the evening, spent the night at the hotel, and left the next morning. There were about 40 people at the hotel on that date, mostly extended family members, and it became increasingly difficult to have food for everybody.<sup>6959</sup>

2461. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko came back to Hotel Ihuliro in mid-May 1994 on which occasion Nyiramasuhuko was sick and spent two to three days at the hotel.<sup>6960</sup> She had not seen her mother since 29 April 1994, and she did not learn of her presence in Butare from 29 April until mid-May 1994.<sup>6961</sup>

2462. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko again at Hotel Ihuliro at the end of May 1994 when Nyiramasuhuko had come to look for Clarisse Ntahobali's young child and younger sister because she wanted everyone to leave Butare due to the prevailing security situation in the country. Nyiramasuhuko knew that the RPF was advancing towards Butare, but did not explain that to the family at that time. The family told her that they could not leave immediately because they were too numerous. Nyiramasuhuko replied that she could take those who were ready to leave and took Denise and Clarisse Ntahobali's baby, who was one and a half years old at the time.<sup>6962</sup> Nyiramasuhuko said she was going to Murambi in Gitarama préfecture where the government was located.<sup>6963</sup>

2463. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko returned with Denise and the baby two or three days and one week later. Nyiramasuhuko told them that they had just left Gitarama and that she was going to settle or stay at Muramba in Gisenyi préfecture where the government had decided to "set up shop" since the RPF had captured Gitarama.<sup>6964</sup> Nyiramasuhuko spent the night and left the next day, saying the trip to Muramba was going to be a long one.<sup>6965</sup>

2464. Clarisse Ntahobali learned that Nyiramasuhuko came back to Butare once during the period where she lived in Muramba, on 24 June 1994, as part of the delegation of Bishop Etchegarray. Clarisse Ntahobali did not see her at that time.<sup>6966</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Céline Nyiraneza

2465. Céline Nyiraneza, Nyiramasuhuko's sister and Ntahobali's aunt, testified that Nyiramasuhuko lived alone in Kigali from the time she was appointed Minister of Family and Women's Affairs until 6 April 1994.<sup>6967</sup> She only had a Tutsi night watchman called Lionel Mushyitsyi to ensure her protection.<sup>6968</sup>

2466. A few days or weeks after 6 April 1994, Nyiraneza went to Kinyamakara, her husband's native commune in Gikongoro préfecture, to apply for identification papers for her children. During her absence, Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro for the first time.<sup>6969</sup> Nyiraneza later corrected herself and stated that she saw Nyiramasuhuko for the first time after 6 April 1994 in the first days following her own arrival at Hotel Ihuliro. She stated that Nyiramasuhuko came one night when she was there to spend the night. Nyiraneza and Nyiramasuhuko did not speak before Nyiramasuhuko left very early the next morning.<sup>6970</sup>

2467. Nyiramasuhuko informed her that the Inkotanyi had attacked the seat of government in Kigali and that the entire government had moved to Gitarama and set up in a school in Murambi. Since Nyiramasuhuko was a member of government, Nyiraneza understood that Nyiramasuhuko had also settled in that area.<sup>6971</sup> She testified that she knew that the government had set up its seat in Gitarama on 12 April 1994.<sup>6972</sup>

2468. Nyiraneza testified that a few days after her return from Gikongoro, Nyiramasuhuko came again to Hotel Ihuliro. Nyiramasuhuko had come from where the seat of government was located, Gitarama. Nyiramasuhuko was suffering from malaria and spent three to four days at home.<sup>6973</sup>

2469. After her second trip to Gikongoro towards the end of May or early June 1994, Nyiraneza noticed that Shalom's wife, her family, and driver were no longer at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6974</sup> Nyiramasuhuko had also left Hotel Ihuliro the day before Nyiraneza returned from Gikongoro. She heard that Nyiramasuhuko took Denise and Clarisse's child with her, travelling in the direction of Muramba, but she believed they were still staying in Gitarama.<sup>6975</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBUC

2470. Witness WBUC, the niece of Nyiramasuhuko and the cousin of Ntahobali,<sup>6976</sup> lived with Ntahobali at Hotel Ihuliro and saw Nyiramasuhuko on several occasions during the events.<sup>6977</sup> She testified that her husband was an investigator for the Ntahobali Defence until he was dismissed from his position on 16 July 2001.<sup>6978</sup> Witness WBUC testified that she lived with her aunt Nyiramasuhuko from the age of three or four years old until she returned to Ndora commune to go to primary school in 1966.<sup>6979</sup> From 1978 until 1980 she again lived with Nyiramasuhuko and Shalom Ntahobali in Taba, Buye.<sup>6980</sup> Witness WBUC testified that Nyiramasuhuko educated her starting from her childhood and she therefore considers Nyiramasuhuko like a mother.<sup>6981</sup>

2472. A few days later, Nyiramasuhuko arrived at Hotel Ihuliro with two soldiers and a driver.<sup>6985</sup> Nyiramasuhuko told Witness WBUC that she had come from Gitarama where the government had been set up, that she had experienced some difficulties contacting them and that she had sought refuge in the embassy in Gitarama.<sup>6986</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stayed with them one night and then went back to work in Murambi in Gitarama préfecture.<sup>6987</sup> The two soldiers who accompanied Nyiramasuhuko were in fact gendarmes in uniform and she arrived in an official vehicle.<sup>6988</sup>

2473. Witness WBUC testified that Nyiramasuhuko came back to Butare after the installation of the new préfet.<sup>6989</sup> On this occasion, Nyiramasuhuko did not stay long; she made only a very brief visit at Hotel Ihuliro and left immediately. Witness WBUC did not see her.<sup>6990</sup> In cross-examination she clarified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko, but from far away, from the courtyard. She saw Nyiramasuhuko stop with the vehicle and deliver food that she had brought. Witness WBUC greeted Nyiramasuhuko but they did not chat for a long time. When asked why she did not raise this in examination-in-chief, Witness WBUC explained that in her culture, if you see someone for a very brief time, it is as if you did not see that person.<sup>6991</sup> Nyiramasuhuko did not sleep at Hotel Ihuliro that night.<sup>6992</sup> At that time, Nyiramasuhuko was coming from Murambi, Gitarama.<sup>6993</sup>

2474. Witness WBUC testified that thereafter Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro towards the end of April 1994, at the time of the birthday of her granddaughter. She spent a night there and left the next morning.<sup>6994</sup>

2475. In the middle of the month of May 1994, she saw Nyiramasuhuko again at Hotel Ihuliro. She stayed for a few days because she had malaria. Due to her illness, Nyiramasuhuko was unable to go outside.<sup>6995</sup>

2476. Witness WBUC testified that on 30 May 1994, her birthday, Nyiramasuhuko came back to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>6996</sup> She testified that Nyiramasuhuko was worried and wanted them to go to Cyangugu. Nyiramasuhuko left the next day to go to the seat of government in Murambi and took Denise and her granddaughter with her.<sup>6997</sup>

2477. Witness WBUC testified that a week after her departure on 30 May 1994 [6 to 7 June], Nyiramasuhuko came back with her daughter and granddaughter from Muramba, in Gisenyi. The government had moved there because the Inkotanyi were about to take Gitarama.<sup>6998</sup> Nyiramasuhuko again told them to leave and the next day headed back to Muramba with Denise.<sup>6999</sup>

2478. Witness WBUC testified that Nyiramasuhuko returned on another occasion alone and did not sleep at Hotel Ihuliro. She came in the course of the visit of the apostolic nuncio named Etchegarray.<sup>7000</sup> She saw Nyiramasuhuko on that occasion, at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7001</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Maurice Ntahobali

2479. Maurice Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko's husband and Ntahobali's father, testified that in January 1994, the family residence in Butare was situated in Buye, in a government building called UNR 15. Clarisse and Arsène had their own residences elsewhere.<sup>7002</sup> Towards the end of the first fortnight in April 1994, Nyiramasuhuko was able to visit him. Before that visit, he had been reassured of her well-being when the Kambanda government took office on 9 April 1994.<sup>7003</sup> took care of her. She was in fact moving around, and at one point in time, Maurice Ntahobali's service vehicle was put at her disposal.<sup>7007</sup> Maurice Ntahobali never asked his wife to account for the activities that formed part of her duties.<sup>7008</sup>

2481. Maurice Ntahobali testified that he saw Nyiramasuhuko again very briefly at Hotel Ihuliro in mid-April 1994, when she came to attend the installation of the new préfet. He did not attend the ceremony.<sup>7009</sup>

2482. Maurice Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko received a lift from Murambi to Hotel Ihuliro around 14 May 1994. She was alone when she came into his room.<sup>7010</sup> She left Hotel Ihuliro the following day for Murambi.<sup>7011</sup> She obtained a lift.<sup>7012</sup> He thought Doctor Straton Nshyimyumukunzi, minister of agriculture and stock breeding, drove her to Butare and back to Murambi, since she did not have a car.<sup>7013</sup>

2483. Maurice Ntahobali confirmed the presence of Nyiramasuhuko at Hotel Ihuliro around mid-May, including 14 May 1994. Nyiramasuhuko stayed for three to four days. He said it was possible that she was in Butare on 16 May 1994 to attend a Security Council meeting. She left for Gitarama on 16 May, in the afternoon, and he thought it likely that she attended a meeting of ministers on 17 May 1994<sup>7014</sup> at Murambi.<sup>7015</sup>

2484. Maurice Ntahobali stated that his wife came from Murambi for a day at the end of May, but left the next day. Her main purpose was to convince Maurice Ntahobali to come with her and join the ministers' spouses, which the witness refused.<sup>7016</sup> Nyiramasuhuko urged Maurice Ntahobali to go to Cyangugu, because Gitarama was about to be captured by the RPF and Butare would be next. He refused because he had a responsibility towards his family to inform them of his move and he did not want to leave them behind in danger.<sup>7017</sup> However, two children, Denise and the witness' granddaughter, responded to her appeal and left with her to Gitarama.<sup>7018</sup>

2485. Maurice Ntahobali testified that within the first half of June 1994, the Kambanda government moved to Muramba, in Gisenyi préfecture. Nyiramasuhuko, his daughter and granddaughter moved with the government from Murambi to Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture, in the first fortnight of June 1994. He learned this information from Radio Rwanda which covered the move of the Interim Government.<sup>7019</sup> Maurice Ntahobali stated that Nyiramasuhuko and the two children came to Hotel Ihuliro in June 1994. They came from Muramba and went back there the next day. His wife passed by very briefly at the end of June, being part of the government delegation receiving Cardinal Etchegarray. The cardinal visited Rwanda and came through Butare on the road from Burundi.<sup>7020</sup> Pauline did not stay at the hotel but went back the next day.<sup>7021</sup>

2486. Ntahobali testified that his mother came to Hotel Ihuliro on 28 April 1994. It was the birthday of one of his sister's children.<sup>7022</sup> Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro again in the middle of May 1994. She was not feeling well and stayed there for two or three days.<sup>7023</sup> He was told that his mother again came to Hotel Ihuliro when he was staying in Cyangugu.<sup>7024</sup> He testified that the driver who took him to Cyangugu was different from the one who accompanied him in Gisagara on 25 June 1994.<sup>7025</sup>

2487. Ntahobali testified that he met his mother in June 1994,<sup>7026</sup> on two other occasions.<sup>7027</sup> The first time was three, four or five days after his return from Cyangugu.<sup>7028</sup> He was told that Nyiramasuhuko had come to Hotel Ihuliro to take with her one of his sisters and a child of another sister of his.<sup>7029</sup> The second time was between 20 and 30 June 1994 during a religious official's visit.<sup>7030</sup> Nyiramasuhuko spent a night at Hotel Ihuliro when she came three to five days after Ntahobali's return from Cyangugu, and on the second occasion, she did not.<sup>7031</sup>

2488. Witness WZNA stated that he only saw Nyiramasuhuko once in early July 1994 when he was on his way back from ESO. He saw her in front of the building her family owned in Butare.<sup>7032</sup>

Nsabimana

2489. Nsabimana testified that on 10 May 1994 he attended the youth meeting in Ngoma commune around 1.00 p.m., after the meeting with préfecture staff.<sup>7033</sup> He said that

Kanyabashi told him there were young people at the meeting and this interested Nsabimana.<sup>7034</sup> He said that the young people were members of different political parties. Other people at the meeting included Nteziryayo, Nyiramasuhuko, Kalimanzira and Kanyabashi.<sup>7035</sup>

2490. Nsabimana testified that when he got to the meeting, Kalimanzira briefed him that they were discussing ways in which the city of Butare could be protected, just as Kigali had been protected. Kalimanzira also told him that the youth had to be involved in the protection of Butare.<sup>7036</sup> Nsabimana testified that he told Kalimanzira that the system he was talking about could not work in Butare unless Kalimanzira took charge of it himself. Kalimanzira did not take this kindly and the meeting ended abruptly.<sup>7037</sup> Nsabimana testified that Nyiramasuhuko lied when she said Nsabimana went to the 10 May 1994 youth meeting just as it was about to end.<sup>7038</sup>

2491. Nsabimana denied having chaired a meeting on 16 May 1994 as testified by Nyiramasuhuko, saying he did not know of such a meeting.<sup>7039</sup> After reading of a Security Council meeting on 16 May 1994 in Prosecution Exhibit 144A (Nyiramasuhuko Diary, 1994) as testified by Prosecution Expert Witness Guichaoua, Nsabimana reaffirmed that he did not hold any such meeting in the presence of Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>7040</sup> Nsabimana denied Nyiramasuhuko's testimony that she attended a Security Council meeting of 31 May 1994. He also denied that he talked about the state of progress in the establishment of civilian defence at this meeting.<sup>7041</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WTMP

2492. Witness WTMP, a Hutu, testified that she travelled to Muramba around 6 July 1994 and encountered Nyiramasuhuko. Nyiramasuhuko was accompanied by a small child.<sup>7042</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness CEM

2493. Witness CEM testified that she did not visit Hotel Ihuliro in June 1994. She went there in late May or early June 1994 in search of Denise Ntahobali, but was told that Denise had left with her mother. She was not told where they had gone.<sup>7043</sup>

3.6.19.3.2.2 Alibi Evidence – Ntahobali

Ntahobali

2494. Ntahobali testified that he was told that his mother came to Hotel Ihuliro for a short time on 19 April 1994; they did not meet as he had travelled to Akanyaru.<sup>7044</sup>

2495. Ntahobali first testified that he went to the BPO on one occasion between 6 April and 3 July 1994, sometime after 26 June 1994, he went there to withdraw a laissez-passer or documents for a vehicle that his father used.<sup>7045</sup> He later testified that he went to the BPO two times during the events. The first time he went to the BPO to withdraw documents for the vehicle and the second time he went to the compound of the BPO during Cardinal Etchegarray's visit.<sup>7046</sup> Ntahobali again clarified his testimony as to the number of visits he made to the BPO. He added that he visited the BPO compound three times; in addition to the two foregoing occasions, on around 11 April 1994, he went to the public works department located within the BPO premises to collect fuel.<sup>7047</sup>

2496. Ntahobali testified that his mother came to Hotel Ihuliro on 28 April 1994 which was the birthday of his sister's child. He stated that he got malaria on 28 April 1994 and spent a week in convalescence after having received Quinimax injections. He was treated by one of his aunts, a nurse who stayed with them at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7048</sup>

2497. He stated that his friend Déo Munyaneza came to Hotel Ihuliro to pick up his daughter in mid-May 1994. Munyaneza told Ntahobali that he was coming back from the [war]front and they conversed for a short while.<sup>7049</sup>

2498. Ntahobali testified that he travelled to Cyangugu on 26 or 27 May 1994. On 26 or 27 May, at around 10.30 or 11.00 a.m., he noticed that his wife and his wife's elder sister's family members were no longer at Hotel Ihuliro. He was told that they had left for Cyangugu so Ntahobali decided to follow his wife there.<sup>7050</sup> His father's driver, Jean-Baptiste Habimana, accompanied him. They took a blue sedan Peugeot 305 vehicle and left Butare between 11.30 a.m. and 12.30 p.m. and arrived in Cyangugu between 7.30 and 8.00 p.m. the same day. It was the first time Ntahobali went to Cyangugu but his driver knew the area well.<sup>7051</sup>

2500. They returned to Butare after a stay in Cyangugu of more than one week.<sup>7057</sup> The atmosphere in Cyangugu was calm.<sup>7058</sup> During his stay in Cyangugu, Ntahobali went to a particular restaurant on two occasions. Almost every day he went to different bars.<sup>7059</sup> He stated that he met Witness WDUSA in one bar by chance.<sup>7060</sup> Ntahobali was always accompanied by his brother-in-law's family members and his wife each time he met Witness WDUSA.<sup>7061</sup> He testified that he met Witness WDUSA in bars on three occasions during his stay in Cyangugu and they met again in Nairobi later on between 1994 and 1997 when Ntahobali was in exile.<sup>7062</sup> For a few months, Ntahobali and Witness WDUSA lived in the same complex in Nairobi.<sup>7063</sup> Witness WDUSA was a friend of his wife's older sister's family.<sup>7064</sup>

2502. Ntahobali testified that he met his mother on two other occasions in June 1994.<sup>7068</sup> The first time was three, four or five days after his return from Cyangugu and the second time between 20 and 30 June 1994 during Cardinal Etchegarray's visit.<sup>7069</sup> He was told that Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro to take with her one of his sisters and a child of his another sister.<sup>7070</sup> He testified that Nyiramasuhuko spent a night at Hotel Ihuliro when she came three to five days after Ntahobali returned from Cyangugu. On the second occasion, she did not spend the night.<sup>7071</sup>

2503. Denise Ntahobali's husband worked as an investigator for the Nyiramasuhuko Defence from August 1999 to the beginning of 2005, but she denied ever discussing the case with him. Her brother-in-law worked for the Nyiramasuhuko Defence at the time of trial; she testified that while she had discussed the trial proceedings with her brother-in-law, she denied having discussed the Defence's strategy with him.<sup>7072</sup>

2504. Denise Ntahobali testified that about one week after the death of Habyarimana, she and her sister, Clarisse, went to Hotel Ihuliro to find out about their father and brother Ntahobali. At the hotel, they found about five UNAMIR soldiers whom she recognised because of their uniforms.<sup>7073</sup> These soldiers left Hotel Ihuliro about one week after her arrival there.<sup>7074</sup>

2505. Denise Ntahobali testified that from the time when she and her sister arrived at Hotel Ihuliro she did not leave. She stayed at home doing domestic chores such as cooking and taking care of Clarisse's child.<sup>7075</sup> Denise Ntahobali testified that when they got to Hotel Ihuliro, Ntahobali was there with his wife and child. At the request of their father, they stayed at Hotel Ihuliro because it was safe. Clarisse's husband and her one-year-old child also joined them.<sup>7076</sup> She later testified that everyone moved to Hotel Ihuliro because there was more space there.<sup>7077</sup>

2506. Denise Ntahobali testified that on 30 May 1994, Ntahobali and his family were not at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7078</sup> Denise Ntahobali and Ntahobali's wife Béatrice argued. Béatrice then left the hotel to go back to Cyangugu.<sup>7079</sup> Ntahobali was not present during the argument, but when he returned and discovered Béatrice's absence, he went to look for her.<sup>7080</sup> Ntahobali had been gone for about one or two days before their mother arrived.<sup>7081</sup> On 30 May 1994, Shalom and his wife had not returned to Hotel Ihuliro nor had they been back when Denise, her mother and niece left for Murambi.<sup>7082</sup>

2507. Denise Ntahobali testified that she never heard of killings in Butare between April and the end of May 1994.<sup>7083</sup> She also testified that during the war of 1994 Tutsis were not targeted; rather, in the war zone, the entire population was targeted.<sup>7084</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WZNA

2508. Witness WZNA, a Hutu factory worker at the time of the genocide, said that sometime in early June 1994, while on his way to work, he once saw Shalom Ntahobali standing in front of the building known as the Palais du MRND with another young man. He said that he did not speak with Ntahobali on this occasion. The witness testified that the Palais du MRND later became known as La Salle polyvalente de la préfecture during the period of multi-party politics in Rwanda.<sup>7085</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness CEM

2509. Witness CEM, a Hutu teacher, testified that Ntahobali could not have killed anyone because every time she went to his house, he was present. She testified that Ntahobali was living at the hotel during the months that she went there.<sup>7086</sup> She also testified that she did not see any “authorities”, “leaders”, people in uniform or Interahamwe at the hotel in April 1994. Witness CEM went to the hotel on three occasions in May 1994, and by then the number of people staying at the hotel had increased to a little more than 50.<sup>7087</sup>

2510. Witness CEM testified that when she visited Hotel Ihuliro between April and June 1994, some people had already been killed in her commune and secteur. She did not know if people had already been arrested or if many Tutsis had already fled their homes.<sup>7088</sup> She also testified that she knew that both Hutus and Tutsis were killed in May 1994. She did not observe any problems at Hotel Ihuliro from April to June 1994. She had no knowledge about whether the hotel remained calm because it was owned by Maurice Ntahobali whose wife was Pauline Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>7089</sup> She never asked any questions to try to ascertain why things were calm there.<sup>7090</sup>

2511. Clarisse Ntahobali testified she left Rwanda in August 1991 for Canada to pursue her higher education at the University of Sherbrooke, in the province of Quebec.<sup>7091</sup> She returned to Rwanda in February 1994 and remained there until 18 July 1994.<sup>7092</sup>

present when his wife left and “[w]hen he found that his wife was not there, he decided immediately to go.”<sup>7095</sup> At that time, Shalom’s wife was two or three months pregnant.<sup>7096</sup>

2513. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that between April and July 1994 there was a curfew. Initially, the curfew required that businesses close by 2.00 a.m. Later, the curfew required that all businesses close by 8.00 p.m. At Hotel Ihuliro, Shalom turned on the generator at 7.00 p.m. and shut it down at 10.00 p.m., at which time they all retired to their respective rooms and slept until the morning. She emphasised that it would never have been possible for Shalom to go out at night without anybody within the hotel being aware of it, given the manner in which the house was built because in order to go out, one needed to open several noisy doors.<sup>7097</sup>

2514. Céline Nyiraneza testified that when she arrived at Hotel Ihuliro a few days after the President’s plane crash, she saw Clarisse Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali and his wife there.<sup>7098</sup>

2515. Céline Nyiraneza testified that she left Hotel Ihuliro for Gikongoro préfecture, towards the end of May or early June 1994, where she stayed for two or three days. On her return, she noticed that Shalom’s wife, her family, and driver were no longer at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7099</sup> She testified that Shalom’s wife left the hotel for Cyangugu because of a heated argument she had with her sisters-in-law. Shalom was not present when his wife left and only got back two or three hours later.<sup>7100</sup> Her children told her that Shalom left for Cyangugu in his friend’s vehicle. Nyiraneza left for Gikongoro one or two days after Shalom left to look for his wife in Cyangugu, and returned to the hotel one day earlier than Shalom, his wife and child.<sup>7101</sup>

2516. Between April and July 1994, Shalom was in charge of supplies. He would fetch food and drinks for the bar and in the evenings he would run the bar. Shalom was also in charge of switching on the generator in the evenings, and he would switch off the generator after they had finished cooking and eating.<sup>7102</sup> She testified that Shalom never owned a vehicle.<sup>7103</sup>

2517. Witness WBUC knew Shalom Ntahobali very well because it was as if they grew up together.<sup>7104</sup> She considers Shalom Ntahobali to be like a brother.<sup>7105</sup> Witness WBUC testified that after 6 April 1994, she saw Shalom Ntahobali at Hotel Ihuliro where they lived together. At that time Shalom Ntahobali was in charge of the bar at Hotel Ihuliro and was serving drinks. She never saw Shalom Ntahobali driving a vehicle and did not believe that he had a driving licence.<sup>7106</sup>

2518. Shalom's sister, Denise, had a heated discussion with Shalom's wife, Béatrice Munyenyezi.<sup>7107</sup> They almost came to blows and following this event, Béatrice left the hotel with the baby and other members of her family to go to Cyangugu.<sup>7108</sup> Witness WBUC testified: "My birthday was on the 30th. And I think it was about four or five days later [that they left]. I do not remember very clearly, but I know it was some days after my birthday when she [Munyenyezi] left."<sup>7109</sup> Witness WBUC testified that when his wife, Béatrice and the baby left, Ntahobali went to fetch them and they returned together to the hotel about one week after having left.<sup>7110</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Maurice Ntahobali

2519. Maurice Ntahobali, Ntahobali's father, testified that until around the end of April 1994, there was electricity in Butare. Maurice Ntahobali bought a generator for Hotel Ihuliro, which was operated by himself and Ntahobali. As Maurice was not well, most often Ntahobali switched it on and off; nobody else was doing this. The generator was turned on at 6.00 or 6.30 p.m., when it got dark, and switched off at 10.00 p.m. Everyone was then expected to go to their room.<sup>7111</sup> Maurice Ntahobali stated he could see outside from Hotel Ihuliro, but that from 21 April to late May, he did not hear gunshots or people who were crying or screaming from Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7112</sup>

2521. Maurice Ntahobali denied that Ntahobali left Hotel Ihuliro with Nyiramasuhuko in the evenings to abduct people and kill them at the BPO. The occupants of Hotel Ihuliro did not leave the hotel after the beginning of the curfew from April to July 1994.<sup>7114</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness Béatrice Munyenyezi

2522. Béatrice Munyenyezi, Ntahobali's wife, testified that she never saw Ntahobali wearing a military uniform or carrying a firearm or grenades during the period from April to July 1994; Ntahobali was a non-violent person and had never killed anyone.<sup>7115</sup> She testified that her husband could never have committed crimes at the BPO without her knowing about it.<sup>7116</sup> She said that around 20 or 21 April 1994, she was at home at Hotel Ihuliro and Ntahobali never left her; her husband never left the house after the curfew.<sup>7117</sup> She stated that it would take about 15 to 20 minutes to walk from Hotel Ihuliro to the BPO.<sup>7118</sup> She testified that Ntahobali was not an unfaithful husband, but she was only jealous because she loved him.<sup>7119</sup>

2523. Munyenyezi explained that Ntahobali had huge responsibilities at home, with the baby and the generator in the hotel; in particular, he had to shut off the generator every day after dinner.<sup>7120</sup> She testified that in June 1994 Ntahobali left Hotel Ihuliro to go to the bank and ended up visiting Kajuga because people had told him Kajuga was sick.<sup>7121</sup> She also testified that Ntahobali left Hotel Ihuliro once or twice a week to buy food for the occupants.<sup>7122</sup> She said Ntahobali was not at home on 27 or 28 May 1994 when she left for Cyangugu because his father had sent Ntahobali to the bank to get money.<sup>7123</sup>

2524. Munyenyezi testified that her husband got malaria at the end of April, two or three days before his niece's birthday on 28 April 1994. She stated that he had malaria for at least a week and that he stayed home. His aunt Godlive, who was a nurse, took care of him.<sup>7124</sup> She denied that this was a fabricated story.<sup>7125</sup>

2525. Munyenyezi testified that she heard over the radio on 19 or 20 April 1994 that Nteziryayo had been appointed préfet.<sup>7126</sup> She never heard her husband or anyone else speak of Nteziryayo.<sup>7127</sup>

1994.<sup>7132</sup> She and Ntahobali did not attend her sister's birthday party because they were not in Butare at the time.<sup>7133</sup>

2528. Munyenyezi testified that she had heard about a businessman in Butare by the name of Rwamukwaya. She had never seen any kind of Peugeot in Ntahobali's hands, and her husband did not kill Rwamukwaya. She added that her husband did not have to kill anyone to get a car since he could afford to buy one.<sup>7134</sup>

2529. Munyenyezi testified that she did not hear that the killings between April and July 1994 were ethnically motivated since both Hutus and Tutsis were killing each other. She denied that the Tutsi ethnic group was being targeted between April and July 1994.<sup>7135</sup> However she agreed that it was dangerous to be seen with Tutsis during the events of 1994.<sup>7136</sup> Although she had not heard of Tutsi extremist groups from others, she believed that they existed and had killed members of her family between April and July 1994.<sup>7137</sup>

2530. Munyenyezi testified that there were roadblocks from Gikongoro to Cyangugu, but she did not see any major violence in May 1994 in Butare.<sup>7138</sup> She stated that there may have been some violence and looting, since she used to see people with chairs, televisions and bicycles that were probably taken from people's houses, but she did not see people fighting each other or any shooting or killing.<sup>7139</sup> She did not know which ethnic group the looters belonged to.<sup>7140</sup> She could not see any weapons on them.<sup>7141</sup> She testified that she did not hear about or see any massive killings in Butare after 19 April 1994 and never saw dead bodies in Butare after 19 April 1994.<sup>7142</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WDUSA

2531. Witness WDUSA, a Hutu engineer, testified that he saw Ntahobali three times over two or three days or four to five days towards the end of May, beginning of June 1994 at the Ituze Hotel in Cyangugu, at around 5.00 p.m.<sup>7143</sup>

2532. Witness WDUSA learned from Prudence Munyemana, Béatrice's older sister, that Ntahobali's family was living at the home of Ntahobali's brother-in-law. On 25 or 26 May 1994, Witness WDUSA went to visit Ntahobali's brother-in-law's home.<sup>7144</sup>

2533. Witness WDUSA clarified that during the first of the three occasions he saw Ntahobali, the latter had gone with his family and his brother-in-law's family to have a drink and eat

2534. Witness WDUSA confirmed that on all three occasions, he saw Ntahobali at the hotel for one to two hours towards the end of the afternoon, always accompanied by the same family members.<sup>7151</sup> The witness did not talk with Ntahobali about the latter's upcoming birthday, because in Rwanda, one did not celebrate birthdays between families. The witness "personally never celebrated any birthday".<sup>7152</sup>

3.6.19.4 Deliberations

2535. In order to provide a comprehensive picture of the numerous allegations against Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali regarding the events at the BPO, the Chamber will complete a three-step analysis. First, the Chamber will examine the alibi evidence presented by Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali and determine whether these alibis are reasonably possibly true. Second, the Chamber will set forth a general overview of the Prosecution evidence against the Accused. Finally, the Chamber will examine each of the specific allegations against the Accused, proceeding chronologically and evaluating the totality of the evidence and issues of credibility and corroboration with respect to each distinct allegation.

3.6.19.4.1 Nyiramasuhuko's Alibis

2536. The Chamber notes that Nyiramasuhuko provided a belated notice of alibi pursuant to Rule 67. On 1 March 2005, almost four months after the close of the Prosecution's case, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence had yet to provide a notice of alibi. The Chamber ordered the Nyiramasuhuko Defence to immediately provide notice of its alibi to the Prosecution.<sup>7153</sup> The Prosecution received a notice of alibi around 4 March 2005.<sup>7154</sup> As noted by the Prosecution in its closing argument, the notice of alibi indicated that Nyiramasuhuko was in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, from the end of May to around 3 June 1994 and that she was in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture, from around 4 June 1994 to early July 1994.<sup>7155</sup> As will be examined below, this notice of alibi conflicts with Nyiramasuhuko's evidence at trial that she left Gitarama on 1 June 1994.<sup>7156</sup> As a preliminary observation, the Chamber notes that a late notice of alibi may suggest that the alibis are fabricated, tailored to answer the Prosecution's case.<sup>7157</sup>

2537. The Chamber acknowledges the Nyiramasuhuko Defence disclosed to the Prosecution in January and February 2005 the will-say statements of Clarisse Ntahobali,<sup>7158</sup> Denise Ntahobali,<sup>7159</sup> and Witness WZJM,<sup>7160</sup> indicating they would testify as to Nyiramasuhuko's whereabouts on certain dates between April and July 1994. These will-say statements, however, are no substitute for a notice of alibi required by Rule 67 (A). None of these documents indicate they relate to an alibi for Nyiramasuhuko. Moreover, these documents were disclosed in January and February 2005, two to three months after the close of the Prosecution case on 4 November 2004. Therefore, the documents did not indicate they were related to Nyiramasuhuko's various alibis and were belated.

2538. Notwithstanding the late-filed notice of alibi, the Accused has a right to present an alibi at trial and to have it considered by the Trial Chamber.<sup>7161</sup> There can be no conviction for an allegation which takes place during an alibi that is reasonably possibly true.<sup>7162</sup> The onus remains on the Prosecution to prove that the accused was present and committed the crimes for which he is charged and thereby discredit the alibi defence.<sup>7163</sup>

The will-say also provided that Denise Ntahobali accompanied her mother and niece to Gitarama at the end of May 1994, and stayed in Gitarama one or two days before fleeing to Muramba around the beginning of June 1994. After a first week in Muramba, she returned to Butare with her mother and niece, returning to Muramba the next day. At the end of June 1994, it provided her mother again travelled to Butare from Muramba for the visit of the bishop and returned immediately to Muramba. <sup>7163</sup> Musema, Judgement (AC), para. 205 (quoting Musema, Judgement (TC), para. 108).

2539. Finally, the Chamber notes Nyiramasuhuko's suggestion that certain entries in her diary corroborated the fact that she attended Cabinet meetings in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture, from 1 to 19 June 1994.<sup>7164</sup> She said that she always carried her handbag with her which contained her diary.<sup>7165</sup> Only in a few instances did she record events in her diary under the correspondingly dated diary entry; where events were noted on non-corresponding diary pages, she tried to indicate in the diary entry the actual date of the event.<sup>7166</sup> The Chamber is cautious in evaluating the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko as she has an obvious motive to exculpate herself from any criminal conduct. However, the Chamber finds Nyiramasuhuko's diary useful in evaluating consistencies and inconsistencies in Nyiramasuhuko's testimony.

2540. As to the specifics of her alibis, Nyiramasuhuko claims to have moved with the Interim Government to Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, on 12 April 1994 and stayed there until the government moved to Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture, on 1 June 1994.<sup>7167</sup> She stayed in Muramba from 2 June 1994 until she fled Rwanda.<sup>7168</sup> Although she was moving around the country frequently and made many trips to Butare town to participate in meetings and to visit her family, she claims that she never left Hotel Ihuliro at night when in Butare town.

3.6.19.4.1.1 12 April to Early June 1994 – Murambi

2541. It was uncontested that the distance between Murambi, in Gitarama préfecture, and Butare town was about 80 kilometres and could be travelled in one or two hours in May 1994. Murambi was about a 10 minute drive from Gitarama town.<sup>7169</sup> Alexis Briquet travelled from Butare town to Gitarama several times between 25 May and 28 May 1994 in order to acquire authorisation of the Interim Government to evacuate several groups of orphans to Bujumbura.<sup>7170</sup> Briquet estimated that the journey from Butare to Gitarama along the main road took about two hours considering the roadblocks they had to pass along the way.<sup>7171</sup> Nyiramasuhuko investigator Edmond Babin testified that the distance from Gitarama to Butare is 83 kilometres and could be travelled in one hour and 10 minutes in peacetime.<sup>7172</sup> Denise Ntahobali's recollection was that on 31 May 1994, it took one and a half hours to travel from Butare to Murambi, but she estimated that it was only 30 kilometres.<sup>7173</sup> Likewise, Defence Exhibit 309, a Travel Map of Rwanda published in 1998, indicates the distance from Gitarama

<sup>7164</sup> The Chamber recalls that Nyiramasuhuko accepted ownership of the diary in her Closing Brief, her oral submissions and at trial during her testimony. town to Butare town to be 82 kilometres.<sup>7174</sup> When suggested to Nyiramasuhuko that the distance from Murambi to Butare was 75 kilometres, she responded that it was closer to 80 kilometres but agreed that it was possible to make a return trip in one day in 1994 if one took the paved road.<sup>7175</sup> The Chamber accepts the distance between Gitarama and Butare was about 80 kilometres and it took between one and two hours to travel between the two towns from 6 April until June 1994. The Chamber considers that a return trip of such a distance could easily be accomplished in a single day by car, as was acknowledged by Nyiramasuhuko.

2542. Furthermore, the Chamber is not convinced that Nyiramasuhuko did not have access to a car until 25 May 1994, as she claimed. Nyiramasuhuko admitted she travelled to Butare with Ndindabahizi on 14 April 1994 and that he gave her the car to go to Hotel Ihuliro upon arriving in Butare.<sup>7176</sup> She also testified that on 28 April 1994 she travelled to Butare with Ndungutse.<sup>7177</sup> On 10 May 1994 and 14 May 1994, she rode with Kalimanzira to Butare.<sup>7178</sup> On the 14 May 1994 trip, Kalimanzira's car took her to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7179</sup> On that same trip, Nyiramasuhuko testified that she used her husband's Peugeot 505 to go back to Murambi.<sup>7180</sup> Finally, she testified that a car was requisitioned for her on 25 May 1994 and she had access to a vehicle from that point forward.<sup>7181</sup> Based on this evidence, it is clear that Nyiramasuhuko had means of transport to Butare préfecture from Murambi from 12 April until the Interim Government moved to Gisenyi préfecture. In addition, she had her own vehicle starting 25 May 1994. This vehicle was involved in an accident on 30 May 1994, but a replacement vehicle, a Mazda double-cabin pickup, was provided to her the next day on 31 May 1994.<sup>7182</sup>

2543. Therefore, the fact that Nyiramasuhuko may have been staying in Murambi from 12 April to early June 1994 in and of itself, does not raise a reasonable doubt that she was present at the BPO between mid-May and early June 1994, especially considering she admittedly travelled so frequently to Butare town to visit her family.

3.6.19.4.1.2 Admitted Presence in Butare – Hotel Ihuliro

2544. Nyiramasuhuko admits to being in Butare town on a number of occasions including the following dates between mid-April and the end of June 1994: 14 to 15 April 1994; 19 April 1994; 28 to 29 April 1994; 10 May 1994; 14 to 16 May 1994; 30 to 31 May 1994; 11 to 12 June 1994; 24 June 1994; and 3 July 1994.<sup>7183</sup> She testified that each time she visited Butare town she went directly to the Hotel Ihuliro to visit family and that she never went into town at night.<sup>7184</sup>

2546. The Chamber also notes that the only witnesses to testify in support of Nyiramasuhuko's alibi were her family members who may have had a motive to exculpate her. Therefore, the Chamber examines this testimony with appropriate caution.<sup>7187</sup>

2547. The Chamber notes there was conflicting evidence as to whether Nyiramasuhuko stayed at Hotel Ihuliro during her visits to Butare. Nyiramasuhuko claims to have been bed-ridden during her 14 to 16 May 1994 stay in Butare.<sup>7188</sup> Her daughter, Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko stayed at the hotel two to three days, but she did not state that she was bed-ridden.<sup>7189</sup> Nyiramasuhuko's sister, Céline Nyiraneza, stated that Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro in the middle of May and spent three or four days at home with malaria.<sup>7190</sup> Her niece, Witness WBUC, said that Nyiramasuhuko was unable to go outside because of her illness.<sup>7191</sup> Ntahobali also testified that Nyiramasuhuko was not feeling well and she stayed at home for two or three days.<sup>7192</sup>

2548. Her husband, Maurice Ntahobali, confirmed that Nyiramasuhuko had malaria in mid-May 1994 while staying at Hotel Ihuliro and that she was receiving treatment from her sister. He nevertheless also stated that she was moving around at one point and borrowed his service vehicle during her visit, although she did not tell him where she went.<sup>7193</sup> Therefore, Nyiramasuhuko was not confined to her bed according to her husband.

2549. Nyiramasuhuko indicated that she felt better on 16 May 1994 and in the morning she went to the BPO to check on security.<sup>7194</sup> She returned home to tell her family about an afternoon meeting and then travelled back to attend the meeting.<sup>7195</sup> Finally, she said she did not wait for the end of the Security Council meeting and returned to Murambi.<sup>7196</sup> The Chamber does not find it credible that Nyiramasuhuko was bed-ridden on 14 to 16 May 1994.

2550. Based on the conflicting testimony as to whether Nyiramasuhuko was bed-ridden, the failure to provide any notice of alibi prior to the testimony of Clarisse Ntahobali in February 2005, and the fact that only Nyiramasuhuko's family members testified in support of this alibi, the Chamber does not consider Nyiramasuhuko's alibi for 14 to 16 May 1994 at the Hotel Ihuliro to be reasonably possibly true.

3.6.19.4.1.3 Early June to 11 June 1994 – Flight from Gitarama to Gisenyi

3.6.19.4.1.3.1 1-3 June 1994

2551. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she left Murambi for Butare on 30 May 1994 between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m. to evacuate members of her family.<sup>7197</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stated that she left Butare before noon on 31 May 1994 reaching Murambi around 2.00 p.m.<sup>7198</sup> She said she attended a Cabinet meeting in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, on 1 June 1994.<sup>7199</sup>

2552. Nyiramasuhuko testified that during the 1 June meeting the Prime Minister's Chief of Staff told them they were under attack and must leave immediately.<sup>7200</sup> Denise Ntahobali testified that she was staying with Nyiramasuhuko in Murambi on 1 June 1994 when Nyiramasuhuko came back running into their room telling them with great urgency that they must leave because the Inkotanyi were nearby.<sup>7201</sup> They left for Muramba with the Interim Government that day, i.e. 1 June 1994.<sup>7202</sup> She said she was the last minister to leave Murambi.<sup>7203</sup> Nyiramasuhuko said she left Murambi on 1 June 1994 and arrived in Muramba that same day.<sup>7204</sup> However, according to Nyiramasuhuko, the Interim Government did not hold any meetings in Muramba on 1, 2 and 3 June 1994.<sup>7205</sup> The first Cabinet meeting in Muramba was on 4 June 1994.<sup>7206</sup>

2553. This information was inconsistent with the notice of alibi given to the Prosecution. The notice indicated that Nyiramasuhuko was in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture from the end of May to around 3 June 1994 and that she was in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture from around 4 June 1994 to early July 1994. It also indicated that only Denise Ntahobali would testify in support of this alibi.<sup>7207</sup> In fact, both Denise Ntahobali and Clarisse Ntahobali testified in support of this alibi.

2554. Denise Ntahobali testified that she left Murambi with Nyiramasuhuko in a large convoy of 20 vehicles and that they continued along the road directly to Muramba, arriving late that evening on 1 June 1994.<sup>7208</sup> For the following reasons, the Chamber does not find her to be credible. First, her testimony on other issues was not credible. The Chamber recalls its finding that Denise Ntahobali was not truthful with the Chamber with regard to whether Ntahobali owned a car or knew how to drive. Denise Ntahobali also testified that killings only started in Butare in late May, which is inconsistent with the evidence before the Chamber. Second, she had very close relationships with members of the Nyiramasuhuko Defence. Denise Ntahobali's husband worked as an investigator for Nyiramasuhuko from August 1999 to the beginning of 2005.<sup>7209</sup> Denise Ntahobali's brother-in-law was working for Nyiramasuhuko at the time of the trial. She admitted that she had discussed the trial proceedings with her brother-in-law, but not the Defence's strategy.<sup>7210</sup> These relationships show a particularly strong connection between this witness and the Nyiramasuhuko Defence. Third, she claimed to have left Murambi in a large convoy, whereas Nyiramasuhuko did not mention the convoy and, in fact, testified that she had been left by a minister she asked to wait for her and was the very last minister to leave Murambi.<sup>7211</sup> In sum, Denise Ntahobali lacked credibility on this issue.

2555. More importantly, Clarisse Ntahobali contradicted Nyiramasuhuko and Denise Ntahobali's testimony that they went directly to Gisenyi préfecture. Clarisse Ntahobali said Nyiramasuhuko returned to Butare town with Denise and Clarisse's daughter two to three days after 31 May 1994, that is on 2 or 3 June 1994.<sup>7212</sup> She said that Nyiramasuhuko explained to her that the Interim Government had fled Gitarama because it had fallen to the RPF and that she was on her way to Muramba in Gisenyi préfecture.<sup>7213</sup> Clarisse Ntahobali's testimony places Nyiramasuhuko in Butare town on 2 or 3 June 1994, when Nyiramasuhuko said she was in Muramba.

2556. Witness WZJM, Maurice Ntahobali and Céline Nyiraneza testified that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba in June 1994, but their testimony was not sufficiently specific to corroborate Nyiramasuhuko's assertion that it was on 1, 2 and 3 June 1994.<sup>7214</sup>

He said that he learned about the Interim Government's move on Radio Rwanda in the first fortnight of June 1994); T. 24 February 2005 pp. 46-47 (Céline Nyiraneza) (Céline Nyiraneza's testimony was inconsistent. She said that she last heard Nyiramasuhuko left Butare with Denise and Clarisse's child and she believed they were going to Gitarama. She also said they were heading to Muramba, which is in Gisenyi préfecture, and that she could not actually remember).

2557. Based on the evidence of Clarisse Ntahobali placing Nyiramasuhuko in Butare town on 2 or 3 June 1994, the inconsistencies between the alibi evidence and the notice of alibi pertaining to 1, 2 and 3 June 1994, and Denise Ntahobali's lack of credibility, the Chamber does not find Nyiramasuhuko's alibi that she was in Muramba on 1, 2 and 3 June 1994 to be credible.

2558. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she attended a Cabinet meeting of the Interim Government on 4 June 1994 in Muramba.<sup>7215</sup> She pointed to her diary entry of 3 June 1994 which she said was recorded during the Cabinet meeting of 4 June 1994 in Muramba.<sup>7216</sup> Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that the diary entry for 4 June 1994<sup>7217</sup> contained notes from the 17 June 1994 meeting as many appointments were made on that date.<sup>7218</sup> However, she relies on three short notes that also appear in the diary entry for 4 June 1994. The title merely states "Cabinet Meeting Decisions." These notes do not indicate the date or location of the meeting during which they were recorded. Although the notes are found in the diary entry for 4 June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko stated that only in a few instances were events recorded in the dated entry corresponding to when the event occurred. The Chamber considers this diary entry provides little support for Nyiramasuhuko's contention that she attended a Cabinet meeting in Muramba on 4 June 1994.

2559. Likewise, the diary entry for 5 June 1994, by Nyiramasuhuko's own testimony and according to hand-written notes within the entry, indicate that it relates to a meeting that occurred on 6 June 1994. Therefore, the diary does not provide any support to Nyiramasuhuko's testimony that there was a Cabinet meeting in Muramba on 4 June 1994.

2560. Guichaoua indicated in his Report that Nyiramasuhuko was in Gikongoro and parts of Butare préfecture from 3 to 8 June based upon her diary entries of 28 and 29 May 1994.<sup>7219</sup> Those entries indicated dates followed by locations:

2561. Nyiramasuhuko testified that these entries related to the 31 May 1994 meeting in Butare and reflected information that she recorded there.<sup>7221</sup> The Chamber hesitates to rely on the diary and Guichaoua's testimony alone to establish Nyiramasuhuko's presence in any of the locations cited in the 28 and 29 May 1994 diary entries.

2563. As to the diary entries for 5 and 6 June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko asserts she took notes under these entries during a Cabinet meeting in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture on 6 June 1994.<sup>7222</sup> A notation in the diary entry for 5 June 1994 supports this testimony as hand-written notes indicate, "Meeting of 6/6/94."<sup>7223</sup> Although no location is indicated, the Prosecution did not contest that the Interim Government moved its base to Gisenyi préfecture around 6 June 1994.<sup>7224</sup> Therefore, Nyiramasuhuko has raised a reasonable doubt as to her presence in Butare on 6 June 1994.

2565. However, there were not any notes in her diary to support her presence in Muramba from 7 to 9 June 1994. The diary entry for 9 June 1994 contained notes from meetings on 31 May 1994 and 17 June 1994.<sup>7227</sup> There were no other notes for any Cabinet meeting on 9 June 1994 and Nyiramasuhuko did not claim that any such meeting occurred on that day. Furthermore, the diary entries for 7 and 8 June 1994 were removed from the diary and did not appear in evidence.<sup>7228</sup> Therefore, the diary does not provide any support for Nyiramasuhuko’s assertion that there were Cabinet meetings in Muramba from 7 to 9 June 1994.

2566. Furthermore, Denise Ntahobali and Shalom Ntahobali estimated that Nyiramasuhuko was in Butare between 7 and 9 June 1994. Denise Ntahobali said she stayed with Nyiramasuhuko in Muramba for one week after they fled from Murambi on 1 June 1994. They then went to Butare to see how the people they left behind were doing, i.e. seven days after 1 June, around 8 June 1994.<sup>7229</sup> The following day, she, her mother, niece and the two gendarmes left Hotel Ihuliro and went back to Muramba.<sup>7230</sup> This places Nyiramasuhuko in Butare around 8 June 1994 and conflicts with Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony that she only travelled to Butare on 11 June 1994.

2567. Shalom Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko spent a night at Hotel Ihuliro when she came three to five days after Ntahobali returned from Cyangu.<sup>7231</sup> He testified that he returned to Butare around 5 June 1994.<sup>7232</sup> This places Nyiramasuhuko in Butare around 8 or 10 June 1994. This testimony also contradicts Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony that she only went to Butare on 11 June 1994.<sup>7233</sup>

2568. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence argued that it was difficult and time-intensive to travel from Muramba to Butare due to the necessity of driving on secondary roads to avoid the RPF. Insofar as there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba on 6 June and 10 June 1994 (as found above), whether Nyiramasuhuko was able to have been in Butare from

<sup>7233</sup> Maurice Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko and the two children came to Hotel Ihuliro in June 1994. He did not specify when in June. Therefore, it neither confirms nor contradicts Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony as to when she was in Butare.

7 to 9 June 1994 would depend upon her ability to travel between the two destinations. On this point, Defence Exhibit 309, a Travel Map of Rwanda, indicates the distance from Muramba (near Ngororero) to Butare is about 130 kilometres on the main road, including 80 kilometres from Butare to Murambi and around 50 kilometres from Murambi to Muramba.<sup>7234</sup> The Chamber has accepted the evidence that it would have taken 1 hour to 1.5 hours to travel 80 kilometres from Butare to Murambi in Gitarama préfecture using the main road. The only evidence as to the time necessary to travel from Butare or Murambi to Muramba in June 1994 was provided by Nyiramasuhuko and Denise Ntahobali.<sup>7235</sup>

2569. It is not contested that the RPF had captured Kabgayi along the main road from Gitarama to Butare around 2 June 1994.<sup>7236</sup> Therefore, it is reasonable to conclude that Nyiramasuhuko would have been forced to travel on secondary roads to reach Butare town from Muramba, as she asserted in her testimony. Denise Ntahobali corroborated this assertion, stating that on 1 June 1994, the trip from Butare to Muramba took from 8 to 10 hours on these secondary roads.<sup>7237</sup> Even if the travel time between Muramba to Butare was between 8 and 11 hours at the beginning of June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko admitted that she travelled to Butare on 11 June 1994 and returned the very next day on 12 June 1994.<sup>7238</sup> Therefore, the fact that Nyiramasuhuko may have been in Muramba on 6 and 10 June 1994 means that she could not have been in Butare between 7 and 9 June 1994.

2570. In short, the Chamber finds that Nyiramasuhuko has raised a reasonable doubt as to her presence in Butare on 6 and 10 June 1994, but she has not raised a doubt as to her presence in Butare between 7 and 9 June 1994.

2571. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she travelled to Butare on 11 June 1994.<sup>7239</sup> On cross-examination, she said she travelled to Butare after a Cabinet meeting held on that date.<sup>7240</sup> But on direct, she said that she did not see that there was any Cabinet meeting by reference to her diary.<sup>7241</sup> Regardless of whether she attended a Cabinet meeting on 11 June 1994 in Gitarama, she was in Butare préfecture that same day.<sup>7242</sup>

2572. She said the following morning, 12 June 1994, she left for Muramba at around 10.00 a.m. and reached Gisenyi préfecture at around 9.00 p.m.<sup>7243</sup> She said this was the only trip she took to Butare in June 1994 after a Cabinet meeting.<sup>7244</sup> However she also admitted travelling to Butare on 24 June 1994.<sup>7245</sup>

2573. As noted above, Denise Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali and Maurice Ntahobali testified that Nyiramasuhuko came to Hotel Ihuliro in June 1994. They testified that Nyiramasuhuko only stayed one night and returned to Muramba the next day. However, as discussed, Denise and Shalom Ntahobali estimated that Nyiramasuhuko was in Butare around 8 or 10 June 1994 and not on 11 and 12 June 1994.

2574. Nyiramasuhuko suggested her diary corroborated her testimony that she was in Muramba after her 11 to 12 June 1994 visit to Butare. She said that there were Cabinet meetings in Muramba almost every day from 12 to 19 June 1994 and that she took notes from meetings in her diary. In particular, she identified the diary entries for 17 June and 18 to 19 May 1994.<sup>7246</sup> The Chamber notes the diary entries for 18 to 19 May 1994 contain handwritten notes in blue ink “Cabinet Meeting of Friday 17 June 1994.” Therefore, the diary entry is consistent with Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony that she attended a meeting on 17 June 1994 in Muramba. However, according to Nyiramasuhuko, the handwritten notations in the diary under 14 and 15 June 1994 relate to meetings Nyiramasuhuko attended in Kigali on 20 to 21 June 1994.<sup>7247</sup> Further, there are no notes in her diary for supposed meetings in the diary entries for 12 to 16 June. The Chamber considers the diary provides no support for Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony that she attended meetings in Muramba from 12 to 16 June 1994. There is however a reasonable possibility she was there on 17 June 1994.

2575. As to 18 to 19 June 1994, Guichaoua said that Nyiramasuhuko was in Gikongoro, Musange commune on 18 June 1994. This is supported by Nyiramasuhuko’s diary entry for this date. Nyiramasuhuko only stated that she was supposed to send a message to Musange, but did not do so in the end.<sup>7248</sup> As to 19 June 1994, there were no notes in her diary. Therefore, Nyiramasuhuko’s testimony that she was in Muramba on 18 and 19 June 1994 was not corroborated by her diary and the Chamber does not consider this alibi to be reasonably possibly true.

3.6.19.4.1.5 20-21 June 1994 – Kigali

2576. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she travelled to Kigali on 20 June 1994 from 4.00 a.m. with the Prime Minister’s convoy. She was there on 21 June 1994 for an interview on RTL M which was led into evidence as Defence Exhibit 284.<sup>7249</sup> The notice of alibi provided to the Prosecution did not indicate that Nyiramasuhuko was in Kigali on 21 April 1994. Nonetheless, based upon the RTLTM cassette and the consistency between Nyiramasuhuko's testimony and the entries in her diary, the Chamber finds there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko was in Kigali on 20 and 21 June 1994.

3.6.19.4.1.6 Summary of Nyiramasuhuko Alibi Evaluation

2577. In sum, the Chamber finds: (1) 12 April to 5 June 1994: regardless of whether Nyiramasuhuko was staying in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, the short distance between Butare and Murambi would have permitted Nyiramasuhuko to be present in Butare town during the night when attacks occurred at the BPO; (2) 6 June 1994: there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture on this date.; (3) 7 to 9 June 1994: it is not reasonably possibly true that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba at this time; (4) 10 June 1994: there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture on this date; (5) 12 to 16 June: the alibi placing Nyiramasuhuko in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture during this time period is not reasonably possibly true; (6) 17 June 1994: there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko remained in Muramba on this date; (7) 18 to 19 June 1994: it is not reasonably possibly true that Nyiramasuhuko was in Muramba, Gisenyi préfecture during this time period; (8) 20 to 21 June: there is a reasonable possibility that Nyiramasuhuko was in Kigali during this time period. The Chamber further notes that Nyiramasuhuko admitted to being present in Butare on the nights of 14, 15 and 30 May 1994 and 11 June 1994. The Chamber does not find it credible that Nyiramasuhuko stayed throughout the night at Hotel Ihuliro during these visits.

3.6.19.4.2 Ntahobali's Alibis

2578. The Chamber notes that Ntahobali did not provide a notice of his alibis until 29 September 2005, more than four years after the beginning of the Prosecution case and eight months after the beginning of the presentation of evidence by the Nyiramasuhuko Defence.<sup>7250</sup> In this case, Ntahobali relies on the testimony of five Nyiramasuhuko Defence witnesses who testified prior to his providing notice of an alibi.<sup>7251</sup> The Prosecution would not have known prior to the testimony of these witnesses that Ntahobali intended to rely on them in support of an alibi. In addition, the Ntahobali Defence moved to add alibi Witness WDUSA four and a half years after the commencement of trial.<sup>7252</sup> In the Chamber's view, the circumstances of

<sup>7250</sup> On 29 September 2005, the Ntahobali Defence filed a Notice of intent to enter a defence of alibi for two time periods: (1) that Ntahobali was in Cyangugu for about one week from 28 May 1994 until 4 June 1994; and (2) according to his wife, he was bed-ridden at the Hotel Ihuliro for a few days, or nearly a week, between late April and early May 1994: see Memorandum to Coordinator, Trial Chamber II re: Notice of Intent to enter a defence of alibi, 29 September 2005. A supplemental notice informed the Prosecutor that between 28 May 1994 and 2 June 1994, the Ntahobali family stayed at a residence owned by Mr. Harjit Singh.

<sup>7251</sup> Clarisse Ntahobali (testified 8 to 10 February 2005); Céline Nyiraneza (testified 23 to 24, 28 February 2005); Denise Ntahobali (testified 8 to 9, 13 June 2005); Nyiramasuhuko (testified, in part, 31 August 2005, 1, 5 to 8, 19 to 22, 26 to 29 September 2005, 3 to 6, 10 to 13, 25 to 27, 31 October 2005, 1 to 2, 7 to 10, 14 to 17, 22 to 24 November 2005); Maurice Ntahobali (testified 12 to 14, 16 September 2005).

this late disclosure adversely affect the credibility of the alibi and raises the possibility that it was fabricated.<sup>7253</sup>

2579. The Chamber further notes that all of Ntahobali's alibi witnesses, but for Witness WDUSA, were family relations. This does not, without more, undermine the credibility of these witnesses. However, the Chamber examines this evidence with appropriate caution.

3.6.19.4.2.1 Late April and Early May 1994 Alibi

2580. Ntahobali testified that he had malaria and was convalescing at Hotel Ihuliro for an entire week around the end of April and beginning of May 1994. Ntahobali claimed to remember very clearly that it was 28 April 1994 that he felt the symptoms because (1) it was his niece's birthday; (2) he saw his mother, Nyiramasuhuko, who he had not seen since 14 April 1994; and (3) he felt very ill and had to go lie down.<sup>7254</sup> He said his aunt was a nurse and was providing him injections of medicine.<sup>7255</sup>

2581. The Chamber recalls that Nyiramasuhuko, Denise Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali and Witness WBUC all testified that they attended the birthday party of Clarisse Ntahobali's daughter at Hotel Ihuliro on 28 April 1994.<sup>7256</sup> None of these witnesses corroborated Ntahobali's testimony that he had malaria at the end of April into the beginning of May and was forced to remain in bed.

2582. Ntahobali's wife, Béatrice Munyenyezi, was the only witness to corroborate Ntahobali's alibi that he was suffering from malaria at the end of April. She stated that he had malaria for at least a week, that he stayed home, and his aunt who was a nurse took care of him.<sup>7257</sup> However, contrary to Ntahobali's testimony, Béatrice Munyenyezi recalled that Ntahobali's illness began two or three days before his niece's birthday, i.e. on 25 or 26 April 1994.<sup>7258</sup> Furthermore, there were serious credibility issues with her testimony. She testified that she did not hear that the killings between April 1994 and July 1994 were ethnically motivated, and stated that people were killing each other, whether they were Hutus or Tutsis.<sup>7259</sup> She also testified that she did not hear about or see any massive killings in Butare after 19 April 1994 and never saw any dead bodies.<sup>7260</sup> Considering all of the killings that were occurring throughout Butare préfecture, including at locations within a very short distance of Hotel Ihuliro such as the EER, and the roadblock in front of Hotel Ihuliro, the Chamber does not find it credible that Béatrice Munyenyezi did not observe any killings and did not know that Tutsis were being targeted. This renders in doubt her credibility as a whole.

2583. Based on Béatrice Munyenyezi's lack of credibility, the lack of corroboration from other testifying witnesses who should have had knowledge of Ntahobali's illness, and the late notice of alibi, the Chamber does not find Ntahobali's alibi that he was sick in bed with malaria from late April to early May 1994 to be credible.

3.6.19.4.2.2 Alibi Starting 26 or 27 May 1994

2584. Ntahobali stated that he went to Cyangugu on 26 or 27 May 1994 and returned to Butare on 5 June 1994.<sup>7261</sup> The Chamber notes that Ntahobali made no mention of this alibi prior to 29 September 2005. The Ntahobali Defence did not mention the alibi in its Pre-Trial Brief, opening statement or in its cross-examination of any of the Prosecution witnesses.

2585. Furthermore, Ntahobali admitted during his testimony that he failed to assert that he travelled to Cyangugu to follow his wife during the recorded 1997 interview with the Prosecution investigator.<sup>7262</sup> During the interview, Ntahobali asserted, "Oh! I once went to Cyangugu. Once."; he said that the purpose of his trip was to see his sick brother-in-law.<sup>7263</sup> However, in 2006, Ntahobali testified that he actually travelled to Cyangugu on two occasions. The first visit was to collect his wife and the second visit was to see his ailing brother-in-law.<sup>7264</sup> He stated that he visited his brother-in-law from Gisenyi, just before leaving Rwanda, because Butare had already fallen to the RPF.<sup>7265</sup> Ntahobali said he made a mistake in his interview in stating that he had only been to Cyangugu once in order to visit his sick brother-in-law because he was treated poorly while under interrogation.<sup>7266</sup> He claimed the subject was not broached during his interview with Prosecution officials.<sup>7267</sup>

2586. The Chamber does not find Ntahobali's explanation of his prior inconsistent statement to be convincing. Ntahobali mentioned Cyangugu in the context of a visit from Gisenyi to his ailing brother-in-law that occurred just prior to his leaving Rwanda in July 1994.<sup>7268</sup> Therefore, the alibi he did mention to the investigator during the 1997 interview indicated that he was in Cyangugu having travelled from a different location (Gisenyi), at a different time (the end of the war) and for a different reason (to visit an ailing brother-in-law). He made no mention of a trip to Cyangugu from Butare at the end of May to follow his wife.

2587. Ntahobali attempted to explain that he did not testify regarding the argument between his wife and his sister during his examination-in-chief because this was a personal problem that he did not want to raise before the Chamber.<sup>7269</sup> The Chamber notes that by the time Ntahobali testified, at least seven other witnesses had described the alleged fight in question, including the alleged participants of the fight. Therefore, this reasoning is not convincing either.

2588. Furthermore, Ntahobali's claim that he contradicted himself because he was poorly treated has no merit. The Chamber has ruled that Ntahobali's interviews fully complied with the requirements of Article 20 of the Statute and Rules 42, 43 and 63 of the Rules, namely: Ntahobali was clearly informed of his rights; there was no evidence that the questioning during the interview may have been oppressive; and no promises, threats or pressure were put on Ntahobali during the interview.<sup>7270</sup> This was affirmed by the Appeals Chamber.<sup>7271</sup>

2589. In support of this alibi, several Ntahobali Defence witnesses presented evidence that Ntahobali travelled to Cyangugu to follow his wife and spent about a week at that location around the end of May to the beginning of June 1994.

2590. Munyenyezi, Denise Ntahobali and Clarisse Ntahobali testified that Munyenyezi had an argument with Denise Ntahobali before the visit of Nyiramasuhuko to Hotel Ihuliro on 30 and 31 May 1994 and left for Cyangugu.<sup>7272</sup> For their part, Nyiramasuhuko and Maurice Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali's parents, stated that during Nyiramasuhuko's visit of 30 to 31 May 1994, Ntahobali was not at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7273</sup> Céline Nyiraneza corroborated this account, testifying her children told her that Ntahobali left Hotel Ihuliro for Cyangugu to follow Munyenyezi around the end of May or beginning of June.<sup>7274</sup> As relatives of Ntahobali, the Chamber considers they would have a motive to exculpate Ntahobali. Therefore the Chamber views their testimony with appropriate caution.

2591. However, one crucial Defence witness contradicted the timing of the alibi. Witness WBUC testified that she remembered it was after her birthday when Munyenyezi and Shalom Ntahobali's sister had the fight at issue which precipitated Munyenyezi's flight from Hotel Ihuliro and Ntahobali's pursuit of her to Cyangugu. Although she was not certain of the date of Ntahobali's departure for Cyangugu she was clear that he departed several days after her birthday on 30 May 1994<sup>7275</sup> and not 26 or 27 May 1994 as was asserted by Ntahobali. This would place the trip to Cyangugu around early June 1994.

2592. Witness WDUSA contended that he spent time with Ntahobali in Cyangugu over the course of one week from around 27 May 1994 to the end of the first week in June. He was imprecise as to the exact dates. He stated he saw Ntahobali three times over two or three days or four to five days towards the end of May or the beginning of June and claimed to have met with Ntahobali and Munyenyezi at Hotel Ituze.<sup>7276</sup> In contrast, Munyenyezi claimed the meetings were at Hotel Chute, and Ntahobali could not recall the name of any hotel.<sup>7277</sup> Witness WDUSA was a friend of Ntahobali, having lived with him in Nairobi when both were in exile<sup>7278</sup> and therefore may have had an incentive to absolve Ntahobali of responsibility. Considering the ambiguity in the dates given, the contradictions in the name of the hotel where Witness WDUSA allegedly met with Ntahobali and Munyenyezi on multiple occasions, and his relationship with Ntahobali, the Chamber does not find Witness WDUSA to be credible.

2593. Moreover, Ntahobali's alibi witnesses disagreed as to when Ntahobali returned to Butare from Cyangugu. Munyenyezi and Ntahobali testified that they left Cyangugu on 5 June 1994.<sup>7279</sup> Clarisse Ntahobali testified that the dispute causing her sister-in-law to flee occurred on 27 May 1994 and that her sister-in-law and her child came back to Hotel Ihuliro three or four days after they left,<sup>7280</sup> namely 31 May 1994, and therefore five days before Ntahobali claimed to have returned to Butare. Witness WDUSA only said that he saw Ntahobali in Cyangugu the first week in June. He did not specify a date when Ntahobali returned to Butare.<sup>7281</sup>

2594. When Ntahobali allegedly returned from Cyangugu was also unclear from Ntahobali's belated notices of alibi. The first notice of alibi stated that Ntahobali left Cyangugu on 4 June 1994.<sup>7282</sup> However, a supplemental notice of alibi provided that he stayed in the house of Mr. Harjit Singh in Cyangugu until 2 June 1994, several days less than he claimed in the original notice and in his testimony.<sup>7283</sup> These contradictions further erode the alibi's credibility.

3.6.19.4.2.3 Alibi – Nighttime Spent at Hotel Ihuliro (Generator)

2596. Clarisse Ntahobali, Céline Nyiraneza, Maurice Ntahobali and Béatrice Munyenyezi all testified that Ntahobali had the responsibility of ensuring that the generator at Hotel Ihuliro was turned on and shut off every evening.<sup>7284</sup> The Defence asserts therefore that Ntahobali could not have committed the alleged crimes at the BPO because he was tied to Hotel Ihuliro all evening.

<sup>7283</sup> Memorandum to Coordinator, Trial Chamber II re: Supplementary Alibi-information, 28 November 2005. The Chamber does not treat this notice of alibi as a prior inconsistent statement, but merely points to this discrepancy to show the inadequacy of the notice of alibi that was also severely belated.

<sup>7284</sup> T. 27 February 2006 pp. 18, 62-63 (Béatrice Munyenyezi); T. 14 September 2005 pp. 32-34 (Maurice Ntahobali); T. 28 February 2005 p. 16 (Céline Nyiraneza); T. 10 February 2005 pp. 13, 18 (Clarisse Ntahobali).

2597. The Chamber finds this argument unconvincing. First, as noted above, Hotel Ihuliro was in close proximity to the BPO. It was uncontested that Hotel Ihuliro housed many other people, both young and old, between 19 April and late June 1994. For example, Clarisse Ntahobali said that 20 people were staying at the hotel when she arrived in mid-April 1994.<sup>7285</sup> By 19 April there were 30 people staying there and at one point 64 persons lived at the hotel.<sup>7286</sup> Witness CEM testified that in May 1994 there were a little more than 50 people staying at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7287</sup> It is difficult to believe that Ntahobali was the only one, apart from his sick father, staying at Hotel Ihuliro with sufficient expertise to operate the generator and that such a responsibility would preclude him from leaving the premises for any length of time.

2598. Munyenyezi claimed that no one else was capable of turning off the generator. Yet she claimed that Ntahobali was in Cyangugu for over one week and did not know who turned off the generator during that time.<sup>7288</sup> Even if no one else turned it off but Ntahobali, the event of turning a generator on and off would take several minutes, and would not preclude Ntahobali from making trips to the BPO. Munyenyezi testified that Ntahobali never left her side over the course of her entire time at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>7289</sup> She testified, however, that she was not with Ntahobali: when he was asked to go to the Ihuliro roadblock and during his time at the roadblock;<sup>7290</sup> when he visited Kajuga at Hotel Ibis in June 1994;<sup>7291</sup> when he left Hotel Ihuliro once or twice a week to buy food for the occupants;<sup>7292</sup> and when she left for Cyangugu.<sup>7293</sup> These admissions contradict her earlier assertion that she was always with him. Therefore, the Chamber does not find her testimony to be credible and finds the assertion that Ntahobali had the responsibility of turning off the generator does not create a reasonable doubt as to his presence at the BPO at night.

2600. Having examined each of the alibis relevant to the events at the BPO, the Chamber now evaluates the Prosecution case bearing in mind those aspects of the alibis that were deemed reasonably possibly true.

3.6.19.4.3 General Overview of Evidence

2601. Considering the amount of evidence summarised above, the Chamber considers it useful to provide a brief overview of the salient issues and points of contention related to the alleged events at the BPO.

2602. The Prosecution presented evidence to support its contention that: from 19 April until late June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali, Interahamwe and soldiers went to the BPO to abduct Tutsi refugees; Tutsi refugees were physically assaulted, raped and sometimes killed; and those refugees who were abducted were taken to their deaths.

2603. The Prosecution presented evidence that the assailants arrived at the BPO on a truck with an open-top rear cargo area (a “pickup truck”),<sup>7294</sup> and that the pickup was camouflaged in mud, cow dung or grease.<sup>7295</sup> The assailants were Interahamwe, including one named Kazungu and one named Ngoma.<sup>7296</sup>

2604. There was evidence that the Interahamwe were armed with machetes, knives and “Rwandan clubs” and upon arriving at the BPO they beat the Tutsi refugees with these

<sup>7296</sup> Witnesses TK, RE, SS, and QY each identified an Interahamwe named Kazungu as accompanying Nyiramasuhuko during the attacks: T. 23 May 2002 pp. 83-85 (Witness TK); T. 24 February 2003 pp. 19, 21 (Witness RE); T. 25 February 2003 pp. 46-47 (Witness RE); T. 3 March 2003 pp. 48-49, 58-60 (Witness SS); T. 19 March 2003 pp. 31, 36, 44, 46 (Witness QY). Although there was some disagreement as to whether Kazungu was a soldier or an Interahamwe, the evidence was consistent that he wore a uniform, accompanied the other Interahamwe and took orders from Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali: T. 23 May 2002 p. 83 (Witness TK) (Witness TK said he was an Interahamwe escort to one of the préfets); T. 23 May 2002 pp. 84-85 (Witness TK) (He later wore a military uniform which she thought had been given to him as a reward for the work he had done as an Interahamwe); T. 24 February 2003 pp. 19, 21 (Witness RE) (Witness RE also identified Kazungu as an Interahamwe); T. 3 March 2003 pp. 49, 58 (Witness SS) (Witness SS described Kazungu as a soldier); T. 19 March 2003 pp. 31, 36 (Witness QY) (Witness QY said Kazungu was Nyiramasuhuko’s bodyguard).

Likewise, Witness TA, TK, SU, and SD each identified a number of other Interahamwe, including one named Ngoma who stayed at the BPO: T. 30 October 2001 p. 24 (Witness TA); T. 31 October 2001 p. 112 (Witness TA) (Witness TA said Ngoma and another person named Ntujenjeke remained at the BPO to oversee the refugees when they were asleep, but assisted the Interahamwe during the attacks); T. 22 May 2002 p. 98 (Witness TK) (Witness TK said she knew the Interahamwe who accompanied Shalom well because they stayed with them until she was taken to Rango. She named several as Ribanje, Cyabubare, who usually carried a machete on his belt, Ngoma, who was often armed with a club, and Mbote, who was an ethnic Twa); T. 14 October 2002 p. 63 (Witness SU); T. 24 October 2002 p. 41 (Witness SU) (Witness SU also identified Ngoma, Ribanza, and Mbote as Interahamwe who committed rapes); T. 17 March 2003 p. 7 (Witness SD); T. 18 March 2003 p. 17 (Witness SD) (Witness SD said there were also Interahamwe who stayed at the BPO with the refugees, including Ngoma, Mabula, and a conseiller).

weapons.<sup>7297</sup> There was evidence that Nyiramasuhuko ordered the Interahamwe to force the Tutsi refugees onto the truck. 2606. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence presented evidence that she was not in Butare town much of the time period from 19 April until late June 1994 and that when she was in Butare town she spent evenings at Hotel Ihuliro ().

2607. The Ntahobali Defence presented evidence that Ntahobali was not in Butare during portions of the time period from 19 April until late June 1994 (). He presented evidence that he did not know how to drive a vehicle and that when he was in Butare town he did not leave Hotel Ihuliro during the evenings or at night.<sup>7303</sup>

2608. The Chamber now examines the specific allegations chronologically to determine whether the allegations were proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.19.4.4 28 April 1994 – Abduction of 30 Tutsi Refugees

2609. Witness QCB testified that he went to the BPO on 28 April 1994 at about 9.00 a.m.<sup>7304</sup> Ntahobali arrived at the BPO in a Peugeot 505 accompanied by Interahamwe.<sup>7305</sup> A Daihatsu, driven by Désiré, the son of Munyagaseheke also arrived with Shalom.<sup>7306</sup> The Interahamwe forced about 30 Tutsi refugees who were staying at the BPO to board the Daihatsu at gunpoint as Shalom watched, after which Shalom told the driver, “[I]et’s go.”<sup>7307</sup> Witness QCB testified that Shalom was in charge because he was the one issuing orders.<sup>7308</sup> He added that Nsabimana watched from his own vehicle as the Daihatsu was loaded about 10 steps away.<sup>7309</sup> The Daihatsu and Peugeot left towards the Groupe Scolaire, after which Nsabimana’s vehicle then left in the direction of the Quartier Arabe.<sup>7310</sup> About 25 minutes later, Witness QCB stood at the Chez Bihira roadblock. Some people who had passed by the Groupe Scolaire told him that Shalom and the Interahamwe were in the process of killing the Tutsis who had been loaded into Munyagaseheke’s vehicle.<sup>7311</sup>

2610. Witness QCB testified that he met Ntahobali a long time prior to the events when he visited Ntahobali’s home with the driver of Ntahobali’s father.<sup>7312</sup>

2611. The Chamber recalls that Witness QCB was a detained witness and therefore exercises appropriate caution in evaluating his credibility. At the time of his testimony he had confessed to participating in the killings at Kabakobwa during April 1994.<sup>7313</sup> Witness QCB was not implicated by any witness, and had not confessed to any involvement in abductions and killings at the BPO. It was not established that he had an incentive to displace blame to Ntahobali and Nsabimana. The Chamber is aware that it may rely upon a single witness' uncorroborated evidence for proof of a material fact, however, in this instance the Chamber is not satisfied, in the absence of corroboration, that Witness QCB's evidence is sufficiently reliable to base a finding of fact beyond a reasonable doubt. While the Chamber accepts that attacks at the BPO began at the end of April, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali abducted 30 Tutsi refugees from the BPO on 28 April 1994.

3.6.19.4.5 End of April or Early May 1994 – Witness QY

2612. Witness QY testified that she observed three to four consecutive nights during which Shalom, Nyiramasuhuko and Interahamwe attacked the Tutsi refugees at the BPO.<sup>7314</sup>

2614. She later testified that young women were also forced onto the vehicle. When the witness was confronted with her statement of 15 January 1997 in which she described those who were forced on the vehicle as "intellectuals", she maintained that the prior statement was consistent with her testimony as the intellectuals could have been among the men and women selected.<sup>7319</sup> The Chamber considers this a minor discrepancy.

2615. Witness QY said that she was able to identify Shalom because she had seen him previously at the Butare hospital and she was about seven metres away from him.<sup>7320</sup> However, the reliability of this identification was brought into question due to Witness QY's inability to recognise locations at the BPO. She was unable to locate within Prosecution Exhibits 23(c) ter or 23(d) (Photographs of the BPO) where the Daihatsu had parked, but said it was difficult to locate on the photographs because at that time there was a lawn and people around the BPO, unlike in the photographs.<sup>7321</sup>

2616. In addition, Witness QY was not able to locate within Prosecution Exhibit 27 (Video of BPO, EER and Ruins of Nyiramasuhuko's House) the plot of the BPO complex.<sup>7322</sup> She explained that she was young at the time and that even now she has difficulty looking at the BPO when she passes it because of the events that occurred there.<sup>7323</sup> Although Witness QY recognised the video of the veranda where she slept at the BPO,<sup>7324</sup> her inability to recognise the BPO complex where these events allegedly occurred call into question the reliability of her identification of Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko.

2618. The vehicle returned several times that evening with about a two hour interval between trips, and each time it returned the same thing was done.<sup>7331</sup> Again, the vehicle set off towards Rwabayanga,<sup>7332</sup> although she did not know which direction the vehicle turned to go to Rwabayanga.<sup>7333</sup> The vehicle came back a third time that same night to collect more refugees.<sup>7334</sup>

2619. This particular night of three attacks bore many similarities to the events described by Witnesses SS, SU and TK at the BPO. However, the latter witnesses said that a night of three attacks took place at the end of May or early June 1994. Witness QY clearly stated that this event occurred on her second night at the BPO<sup>7335</sup> which was in late April or early May, almost one month earlier. Therefore, according to her testimony she was talking about a different night of attacks.

2620. Witness QY testified that the third day at the BPO, Shalom drove the vehicle back again.<sup>7336</sup> She initially said that Nyiramasuhuko was not present during this trip,<sup>7337</sup> but later said Shalom, Nyiramasuhuko, Kazungu and Interahamwe were in the vehicle on the third night.<sup>7338</sup> She then corrected herself again, stating that on the fourth night Nyiramasuhuko was not present.<sup>7339</sup> The identification of Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO on the third or fourth nights cannot be considered reliable based upon Witness QY's uncertainty as to when Nyiramasuhuko was present. Witness SD provided some corroboration, testifying that during her stay at the BPO Nyiramasuhuko arrived each night on a vehicle covered with mud to fetch people.<sup>7340</sup> However, Witness SD's testimony was devoid of any specific details.

2621. Moreover, Witness QY's credibility was brought into serious question based upon inconsistencies with prior statements and her admission that she had lied to the Chamber as to knowing other Prosecution witnesses.<sup>7341</sup>

2622. In particular, the Chamber notes that Witness QY contradicted a significant portion of her statement of 24 July 2000, stating everything that was said about a purported trip to Kibeho was not true.<sup>7342</sup> She said the prior statement did not recite the events as she had described them.<sup>7343</sup> That statement provided that Witness QY was at a friend's house in Kibeho, in Gikongoro préfecture when the President died. Witness QY denied that statement and replied that her sister came from Kigali some days after the President died and they went to Kibeho together.<sup>7344</sup> They returned to Butare the same day.<sup>7345</sup> She stated that she did not recognise what was said in the 24 July 2000 statement and that she did not spend the night in Kibeho.<sup>7346</sup> Therefore, she rejected a large portion of her prior statement as untrue.

2623. When recalled to testify three years later, Witness QY was asked about her testimony in the Muvunyi trial in which she stated that she had never gone to Kibeho; the witness said that what happened in Kibeho did not concern what happened in Butare.<sup>7347</sup>

2624. In view of her testimony that the Daihatsu truck was filled on each trip with refugees, she was asked about her statement of 18 September 1997 in which she stated, two or three people were taken away to be killed on the second day at the BPO. She testified that she had never stated anything of the sort.<sup>7348</sup>

2625. In addition to these contradictions, Witness QY admitted that she had lied to the Chamber regarding her knowledge of other Prosecution witnesses. On recall in 2009, Witness QY stated that during her previous appearance before the Chamber in 2003, she denied knowing Witnesses QBQ and SJ at the direction of a Prosecution representative and interpreter.<sup>7349</sup> She also testified that she had previously denied knowing Witness TK because she only knew that witness' nickname and not her proper name.<sup>7350</sup>

2626. Given the discrepancies in her testimony regarding these events, the unreliable nature of her identification evidence, and her admission that she had lied about knowing Witnesses QBQ and SJ, the Chamber finds Witness QY's testimony regarding alleged events at the BPO between late April or early May 1994 were not proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.19.4.6 Mid- to End of May 1994 – Rape and Abduction of Refugees by Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko, Interahamwe and Soldiers

2627. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber notes it is not disputed that there were a large number of refugees at the BPO compound between April and June 1994. These people consisted mainly of women and children in poor physical condition; many of them had visible skin ailments and were malnourished.<sup>7351</sup> The Chamber recalls the testimony of Alexandre Bararwandika, a doctor working for the Belgian Red Cross, who described the persons around the BPO as ill, emaciated and wearing torn clothing.<sup>7352</sup> Witness TQ described the conditions at the BPO as very poor, noted the refugees wore torn, smelling clothes and were apparently abandoned.<sup>7353</sup> The Chamber notes that the evidence was clear and consistent that these people had fled other communes and préfectures to escape violence and the threat of death.<sup>7354</sup> The Chamber also notes that all of the Prosecution witnesses who testified as to their experiences at the BPO were Tutsis.<sup>7355</sup>

2628. Witness TA testified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko during one night in mid-May 1994.<sup>7356</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was accompanied by 10 Interahamwe, including her son, Shalom.<sup>7357</sup> This was the first time Witness TA saw Shalom.<sup>7358</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and Shalom arrived together in the same Hilux pickup and told the Interahamwe who should be forced to board the bed of the pickup.<sup>7359</sup> Nyiramasuhuko wore a kitenge cloth.<sup>7360</sup> The truck's lights were illuminated.<sup>7361</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was standing in the courtyard of the BPO pointing out Tutsi refugees to the Interahamwe, saying as she pointed, "[t]his is another one, and another one and another one, and why are you leaving that one?"<sup>7362</sup> Those Tutsis were refugees.<sup>7363</sup> Witness TA testified that those Tutsis were beaten up and forced onto the pickup.<sup>7364</sup> Nyiramasuhuko pointed at three refugees who had been cut up and ordered that they be loaded onto the vehicle.<sup>7365</sup> Shalom ordered the Interahamwe to stop killing refugees, as the number of dead people was in excess as to what could be loaded in the vehicle.<sup>7366</sup>

2629. Witness TA described Nyiramasuhuko's clothing and quoted her as ordering the Interahamwe to attack certain individuals. Therefore, Witness TA was close enough to hear what Nyiramasuhuko was saying and identified her as the mother of Shalom. For these reasons, the Chamber finds this identification to be reliable.

2630. Witness TA said Shalom and other Interahamwe raped her. Nyiramasuhuko and her son arrived together in the same Hilux pickup and indicated to the Interahamwe who to force to board the bed of the pickup.<sup>7367</sup> Shalom was wearing trousers and a shirt made of kitenge.<sup>7368</sup> Over the course of the events, Witness TA saw Shalom on more than eight occasions at the BPO.<sup>7369</sup> Further, she stated that Shalom raped her on two occasions and took her by the arm to Interahamwe in order to be raped on multiple occasions.<sup>7370</sup> Therefore, Witness TA had numerous opportunities to view Shalom up close. Although the attacks at the BPO occurred at night, Witness TA stated there was moonlight behind the BPO on several of those occasions.<sup>7371</sup> In addition, there was occasionally some public lighting from the lamp posts that reached the area from the other side of the road near Chez Venant.<sup>7372</sup> Witness TA did not describe the truck as being camouflaged. However, she was never questioned on this issue. In addition, Witness FAP testified that Shalom came in a black camouflage-coloured vehicle.<sup>7373</sup> The Chamber considers these to be minor discrepancies. Of particular importance, Witness TA testified that she observed Shalom leading an Interahamwe training exercise one morning in June 1994.<sup>7374</sup> Therefore, she saw Shalom during broad daylight.

2631. Witness TA provided substantial detail regarding the events of the rape. She stated that Shalom moved through the refugees cutting and slashing people with his machete.<sup>7375</sup> She said that when Shalom got to where she was, he took her by the hand and hit her with his machete on the arm and hand.<sup>7376</sup> She said Shalom picked her up from the ground and pulled her towards the ORINFOR, behind the BPO buildings.<sup>7377</sup> Shalom removed Witness TA's clothes saying he would kill her if she refused.<sup>7378</sup> He removed her underwear, laid her on the ground and raped her.<sup>7379</sup> Then he invited some eight other Interahamwe to rape her, including one named Ngoma.<sup>7380</sup> Ngoma remained at the BPO to oversee the refugees when they were asleep, but assisted the Interahamwe during the attacks.<sup>7381</sup> One of the Interahamwe that raped her put his machete on her leg, telling her that if she moved he would kill her.<sup>7382</sup>

2632. While being raped, Witness TA saw two other women nearby who were also being raped by the Interahamwe.<sup>7383</sup> Nsabimana provided a statement to Des Forges which was consistent with Witness TA's testimony, remarking to Des Forges that during this time, soldiers and others were coming to take away women to rape them and other people were being selected to be killed.<sup>7384</sup>

2634. Witness TA also stated that the Interahamwe arriving on the Toyota Hilux were holding sticks, while Ntahobali was holding a machete covered in blood and had a hammer on his belt.<sup>7388</sup> Witnesses TK, RE, FAP, QY and QBQ corroborated the fact that the Interahamwe arriving with Ntahobali at the BPO were carrying traditional weapons such as machetes, clubs and knives.<sup>7389</sup>

2635. The Chamber recalls some apparent inconsistencies in the testimony of Witness TA in relation to her prior statement. Witness TA stated in testimony that she had not been raped anally.<sup>7390</sup> However, she was cross-examined on a prior statement in which she stated that she was raped in her anus as well as her vagina.<sup>7391</sup> The Chamber considers that based upon the obvious intensity of experiencing multiple gang rapes at the hands of Interahamwe, this discrepancy is understandable and does not adversely affect the Chamber's credibility assessment of the witness.

2636. Witness TA was very precise in her testimony that on two occasions, there were eight Interahamwe who arrived at the BPO with Ntahobali.<sup>7392</sup> She later testified that she could not recall the number of Interahamwe accompanying Ntahobali on the fifth and sixth occasions he came to the BPO.<sup>7393</sup> The Chamber accepts that it would have been difficult to count and remember the exact number of assailants at the BPO on each night. Therefore, the Chamber finds her estimate of eight Interahamwe on two occasions to be credible.

2637. Witness TA testified that she reported to the authorities in her home préfecture that she had been raped by other assailants but did not report the rape by Shalom because he had fled and was out of the country.<sup>7394</sup> Considering the trauma and potential shame associated with these events, the Chamber also accepts this testimony.

2638. The Chamber notes that it may accept hearsay as the basis of knowing Ntahobali's identity.<sup>7395</sup> In addition, the Chamber finds Witness TA's identification of Ntahobali during this event reliable for the following reasons: (1) at times, there was some public lighting from lamp posts that reached the area from the other side of the road; (2) there was moonlight behind the BPO where Witness TA said she was raped by Ntahobali; (3) Interahamwe used torches to search through the refugees; and (4) Witness TA provided significant details as to what Ntahobali was carrying, stated what he was wearing, and Ntahobali was in close proximity to Witness TA when he grabbed her hand and raped her. Further, she had also previously seen him in daylight.

2639. Defence Witnesses WUNJN and WUNHE testified that Witness TA could not have been at the BPO during this time period. Witness TA testified that her father died in 1987 and she was therefore living in the home of her uncle when the uncle's home was attacked. She said that she was then forced to move in with her elder sister.<sup>7396</sup> Witnesses WUNJN and WUNHE testified that Witness TA was living in her parents' home when it was attacked and she was forced to seek refuge in the house of an uncle. However, they named a different person whom they said was her uncle and said she was serving alcoholic drinks at his home.<sup>7397</sup> The Chamber is not convinced that after having narrowly escaped death at the home of her uncle, a fact agreed to by Witnesses WUNJN and WUNHE, Witness TA would present herself at a drinking establishment at night during the events of April to July 1994.

2640. Witness WUNJN also admitted that he confused Witnesses QBP and TA in answering a question as to where Witness QBP had lived.<sup>7398</sup> This renders in doubt the reliability of his memory concerning the crucial issue of Witness TA's location from April to July 1994. In addition, Witness WUNJN's claim that no Tutsis were killed in his secteur during the April to July 1994 events is not believable in light of the fact that killing was widespread throughout Butare préfecture.<sup>7399</sup> In fact, Witness AND-30 who lived in the same secteur as Witness WUNJN<sup>7400</sup> contradicted Witness WUNJN on this point, stating there were killings and the destruction of homes in the secteur from late April to mid-May 1994.<sup>7401</sup> Witness WUNJN claimed to have two different family names, one which was on his prior statements and identification card, and a different family name on his travel documents.<sup>7402</sup> Although he explained that he responded to both names, the witness' failure to earlier correct the inaccuracies or incomplete information on his identification sheet further undermines his credibility. For all of these reasons, the Chamber does not find Witness WUNJN to be credible.

2642. In addition, Witness WMCZ testified that Witness TA was hiding at Witness WMCZ's cousin's house between early May and late June 1994.<sup>7407</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness WMCZ did not see Witness TA during this time period and his knowledge was based upon hearsay. Further, this hearsay was uncorroborated as Witness WMCZ's cousin was not the same person in whose home Witnesses WUNJN and WUNHE suggested Witness TA had sheltered between April and the end of May 1994. Moreover, during Witness TA's cross-examination, it was never put to her that she was not at the BPO when she had claimed to be there. Therefore, the Chamber does not consider Witness WMCZ's testimony to undermine Witness TA's credibility as to her experiences at the BPO.

2643. The Chamber recalls its analysis of the Accused's alibis for mid-May 1994. The Chamber found that even if true, Nyiramasuhuko's assertion that she was in Murambi until 1 June 1994 for government meetings does not raise a reasonable doubt as to Nyiramasuhuko's presence in Butare due to the relatively close proximity of Murambi to Butare. Furthermore, Nyiramasuhuko admitted to being present in Butare on 14 to 16 May 1994. She claimed to be bed-ridden with malaria, although the Chamber did not find her credible in this respect. Ntahobali's alibi for this time period was that he stayed at Hotel Ihuliro operating the generator at Hotel Ihuliro. The Chamber did not find this alibi to be credible. Therefore, neither alibi raises a reasonable doubt as to the culpability of the Accused for crimes at the BPO around mid-May 1994.

2644. The Chamber finds the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt through the testimony of Witness TA that one night in mid-May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and about 10 Interahamwe came to the BPO aboard a camouflaged pickup. Nyiramasuhuko ordered the Interahamwe to force Tutsi refugees onto the pickup. Ntahobali and about eight other Interahamwe raped Witness TA. Some of the Interahamwe raped two other Tutsi women. The pickup left the BPO, abducting Tutsi refugees in the process, some of whom were forced to undress as alleged in Paragraphs 6.30 and 6.31 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment.

3.6.19.4.6.1 Attacks 7 and 11 Days Later

2645. In addition to the above incident, Witness TA testified that seven days after the first attack, which corresponds with the third week of May 1994, the Interahamwe arrived at the BPO in the same vehicle and started beating, cutting with machetes and killing people.<sup>7408</sup> Ntahobali woke up Witness TA, dragged and pushed her behind the BPO and raped her.<sup>7409</sup> He hit her with a hammer, causing her head to swell.<sup>7410</sup> By this time, Witness TA had previously seen Ntahobali. Furthermore, she was close enough to Ntahobali to identify him as they were in direct contact.<sup>7411</sup>

2646. Witness TA was confronted with a prior statement in which she said she was in view of the other refugees when she was raped on this occasion. She maintained in her testimony that she was taken behind the BPO.<sup>7412</sup> At the same time, the Interahamwe took six other women and raped them near her.<sup>7413</sup> She stated that the number of refugees had been reduced by this time due to the daily killings by the Interahamwe.<sup>7414</sup>

2647. Witness TA testified that during one of the rapes, Ntahobali hit her on the face with a hammer.<sup>7415</sup> In a prior statement, she said that Ntahobali only showed her the hammer and did not hit her. She acknowledged in testimony that the prior statement was incorrect and that she did in fact suffer a blow from the hammer. She said that the investigator taking the statement may have misunderstood her and thought that she did not suffer a blow since the injury was minor.<sup>7416</sup> The Chamber considers that this is a minor discrepancy.

2648. Four days later, at night, a group of eight Interahamwe including Shalom arrived in the same vehicle and started beating and cutting up people at the BPO.<sup>7417</sup> Shalom came to the BPO and gave Witness TA to a group of seven Interahamwe who dragged her to the same location, removed her clothes and raped her.<sup>7418</sup> He told them to do it quickly so that the Inkotanyi would not get to a roadblock first.<sup>7419</sup> While she was being raped, she saw Shalom raping a girl named Caritas who was being raped about five to six metres away from her.<sup>7420</sup> These men were armed with machetes, hammers, clubs, big sticks and Rwandan clubs (clubs with nails in them).<sup>7421</sup> Although the Chamber will not convict Ntahobali for the rape of Caritas, the details of her rape provide circumstantial evidence to support the fact that Interahamwe and Ntahobali raped many women, including Witness TA at the BPO.

2649. By this time, Witness TA had already suffered the same treatment at the hands of Ntahobali. Witness TA was again in contact with Ntahobali as he handed her over to a group of Interahamwe. Therefore, the Chamber considers this identification to be reliable.<sup>7422</sup>

2651. Witness SD said before she left towards Kibilizi, Shalom attacked the BPO, and when she got back from Kibilizi, the attacks continued.<sup>7427</sup> Kibilizi secteur is on the road to Nyange secteur in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>7428</sup> Therefore, Witness SD testified that there were attacks by Shalom both prior to and after the transfer to Nyange in early June 1994. The Chamber is convinced that Witness SD was at the BPO prior to the Nyange transfer in early June 1994. While her testimony was not specific as to what occurred during each attack, she identified the distinctive features of the vehicle, namely that it was covered in mud and contained Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and Interahamwe. Therefore, her testimony provides corroboration for Witness TA's testimony as to the attacks by Ntahobali.

2652. Ntahobali's alibi for this time period was that he stayed at Hotel Ihuliro operating the generator at Hotel Ihuliro. The Chamber did not find this alibi to be credible. Therefore, Ntahobali's alibi does not raise a reasonable doubt as to his presence at the BPO around 7 and 11 days after the first attack in mid-May 1994.

2653. The Chamber finds the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that around 7 and 11 days after the first attack in mid-May 1994, Ntahobali and Interahamwe came to the BPO on two more occasions. Ntahobali violently raped Witness TA, hitting her on the head with a hammer. Interahamwe, following the orders of Ntahobali, raped six other women. In a subsequent attack during this same time period, Ntahobali ordered about seven other Interahamwe to rape Witness TA.

3.6.19.4.7 End of May to Early June 1994 – Night of Three Attacks

3.6.19.4.7.1 Testimony Relevant to This Time Period

2654. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber notes that Witnesses TK, SU, RE, SS, FAP, QBP, QBQ and SJ provided testimony relevant to the time period from the end of May to the beginning of June 1994.

2655. Witnesses SS, SU and TK testified that they arrived at the BPO towards the end of May 1994 and they left the BPO when they were transferred to Rango.<sup>7429</sup> Witness TK testified that she arrived at the BPO after the attempted transfer of Tutsi refugees to Nyange.<sup>7430</sup> Therefore all of her testimony pertains to events from the beginning of June 1994. Witness SU also testified the first attack she observed started on a Friday after she had arrived at the BPO.<sup>7431</sup> This would place the date in June 1994. In addition, Witness QJ testified as to the abduction of Mbasha's wife which he said occurred at the end of May 1994.<sup>7432</sup>

2658. Moreover, the only attack at the BPO described by Witness QBQ involved the abduction and escape of Semanyenzi.<sup>7438</sup> Witnesses RE, SS, SU and FAP each testified that a man named Semanyenzi was abducted on the night of three attacks at the BPO which occurred around the beginning of June 1994.<sup>7439</sup> Therefore, the Chamber is convinced that Witness QBQ's testimony also pertains to this event at the beginning of June 1994.

2659. Finally, Witness SJ testified that the attacks started at the BPO around the end of April or beginning of May 1994. She estimated that she stayed at the BPO only 3 weeks before the departure to Rango, and that the transfer to Nyange occurred at the end of April or beginning of May 1994.<sup>7440</sup> These estimations were inaccurate on two counts: (1) the refugees were transferred to Rango sometime in June 1994 (), which was two months after Witness SJ said she had arrived at the BPO, not three weeks as she estimated; (2) the transfer to Nyange occurred in June 1994 (), one month after she said that it occurred. Therefore, her estimation of the dates of these events was not reliable. Nonetheless, Witness SJ testified as to a night in which three attacks occurred at the BPO. She described the abduction of a woman and her children and the abduction and survival of two refugees named Annonciata and Semanyenzi.<sup>7441</sup> These events were also described by Witnesses TK, QJ, SS, SU and FAP. Each of these witnesses said this attack occurred around the end of May or early June 1994. Therefore, the Chamber is convinced that this portion of Witness SJ's testimony pertained to this same attack.

2660. Witnesses TK, SJ, SU, RE, SS, FAP and QBQ testified that Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko and Interahamwe attacked the BPO on multiple occasions in a single night.<sup>7442</sup> Although Witnesses SU and QBQ testified that they had observed only two attacks,<sup>7443</sup> a number of refugees had fled the immediate environs of the BPO after the first two attacks.<sup>7444</sup> Based on the other significant corroborative details (discussed below), the Chamber is convinced that Witnesses SU and QBQ were also referring to the same night at the BPO in which three attacks were perpetrated.

2661. Witnesses TK, QJ, SU, SS and FAP provided a similar timeline as to the date of the attacks.<sup>7445</sup> Based upon this testimony, the Chamber is convinced that this particular night of three attacks, including the attack on Mbasha's wife and her children, occurred around the end of May or beginning of June 1994.

3.6.19.4.7.2 Identification of Ntahobali

2662. As to the events of this night, the Chamber finds Witness TK's testimony particularly convincing. Witness TK testified that on this evening at around 7.00 p.m. or 7.30 p.m.,<sup>7446</sup> Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko came to the BPO on three occasions aboard a camouflaged Toyota Hilux with an open back.<sup>7447</sup> It was driven by Shalom and parked on one side of the national flag pole at the BPO.<sup>7448</sup> She knew it was Shalom because the people at the BPO had said his name.<sup>7449</sup> Interahamwe carried weapons such as machetes, clubs and daggers.<sup>7450</sup> The Interahamwe forced refugees to board the Hilux truck and killed some of them on the spot.<sup>7451</sup>

but nonetheless corroborated the accounts that the vehicle was a pickup with an open back and was camouflaged.<sup>7453</sup> Several other witnesses described a pickup of a different make. Witnesses SJ and SS described a Peugeot pickup and Witnesses SS and SU testified that the pickup belonged to a man named Rwamukwaya.<sup>7454</sup> Nonetheless, the description of the vehicle as a pickup that was camouflaged was largely consistent between all of these witnesses. Therefore, the Chamber does not consider the description of several different pickups makes which were used in the perpetration of these crimes to be contradictory.

2664. Witnesses TK, RE, SS, FAP, SD, QY and QBQ testified that Ntahobali was driving the vehicle.<sup>7455</sup> Ntahobali stated that he did not have a driver's licence and did not know how to drive a car.<sup>7456</sup> He claims therefore that the Prosecution witnesses could not have seen him driving the camouflaged Hilux.<sup>7457</sup> Denise Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko, Clarisse Ntahobali, Céline Nyiraneza and Witness WBUC all testified as to Ntahobali's inability to drive and his lack of a vehicle.<sup>7458</sup>

2665. The evidence presented that Ntahobali never owned a car<sup>7459</sup> was contradicted at trial. Ntahobali testified that he purchased a vehicle in 1993 with another person at an auction and that it was registered in Ntahobali's name.<sup>7460</sup> He admitted that he went to the Butare border to purchase Amstel beer.<sup>7461</sup> In addition, based on Ntahobali's recorded interview of 24 and 27 July 1997, the Prosecution asked Ntahobali whether he owned a Daihatsu pickup that was white in colour.<sup>7462</sup> Ntahobali repeatedly pointed to errors in other areas of the transcript of the statement, asked to hear the tape several times, and pointed to errors in translation unrelated to the type and colour of the vehicle.<sup>7463</sup> In the end, he did not answer whether his prior statement that the vehicle was a white Daihatsu pickup was correct. The Chamber finds this evasiveness to undercut his credibility on this issue. Furthermore, the fact that Denise Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali and Céline Nyiraneza all testified that Ntahobali did not own a vehicle was refuted by Ntahobali himself shows their testimony to be unreliable on this point.

2666. Not only was Ntahobali seen driving a pickup to the BPO, Ntahobali was also seen driving on multiple occasions throughout the rest of Ngoma town. Witness FA saw Ntahobali on several occasions driving a white vehicle described by others as a Hilux that was stained with mud and had no metal bars at the rear for the tarpaulin.<sup>7464</sup> Witness TG saw Ntahobali driving a Peugeot 504 pickup that was originally white but was soiled on the side in a kind of camouflage. Witness TG had seen that vehicle before April 1994 and knew it had belonged to a businessman called Rwamukwaya who was Tutsi.<sup>7465</sup> Witness TQ saw Shalom driving his mother, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, in a Peugeot pickup truck that belonged to a man named Rwamukwaya.<sup>7466</sup> Likewise, Witness D-2-13-O saw Shalom, the son of Maurice Ntahobali, move about town on several occasions in a Rwamukwaya-owned Peugeot 504.<sup>7467</sup> Finally, Witness D-13-D saw Ntahobali on numerous occasions when the witness drove his car through Butare town between April and July 1994.<sup>7468</sup> He saw Ntahobali moving about Butare town driving a Peugeot 504 pickup that belonged to Rwamukwaya.<sup>7469</sup> The Peugeot 504 was covered with grease and dust which gave it a camouflage colour.<sup>7470</sup> This substantial evidence rebuts Ntahobali's claim that he did not know how to drive and that it could not have been him driving the pickup to the BPO.

2668. Witness TK said that upon arriving at the BPO during the first attack, Shalom approached Mbasha's wife and asked her if she knew him. She answered: "Yes, I do know you. You are Shalom. You are the one that was usually sent to the pharmacy to buy drugs and I was in the same school, the same bench as your mother, Pauline."<sup>7474</sup> Shalom asked Mbasha's wife which of the two children who accompanied her was the girl and said that he would make the child his wife, to which Mbasha's wife answered, "no, that's out of question [sic] because these are still children"<sup>7475</sup> Then Shalom asked Mbasha's wife to go to the truck, telling her not to be afraid and that nothing bad would happen to her.<sup>7476</sup> Witness TK also said the Interahamwe surrounded Ntahobali and called him "Shalom, chef."<sup>7477</sup> Witness TK did not hear the surnames of the Accused. Nonetheless, the Accused were identified in relation to one another as mother and son named Pauline and Shalom. Other women at the BPO had pointed out Nyiramasuhuko to Witness TK during a daytime meeting.<sup>7478</sup> The refugee women were surprised to see Pauline there and used her first name to identify her.<sup>7479</sup>

2669. Witness TK said that she wore glasses since 1987, but that she was not wearing her glasses during her time at the BPO.<sup>7480</sup> She said her near-sightedness was not so bad as to prevent her from identifying people in the courtroom even without her glasses.<sup>7481</sup> While the refugees, including Mbasha's wife and children, were being loaded into the vehicle, Witness TK was standing near the front of the BPO, hiding behind the trees and was able to see all that the Interahamwe did.<sup>7482</sup> For this reason, the Chamber considers she was close enough to identify Ntahobali even without her glasses.

2670. Asked why she had not mentioned Professor Mbasha in her prior statements, Witness TK stated that she mentioned Mbasha but that she had not known previously that he was a professor.<sup>7483</sup> If Mr. Mbasha had not been discussed in a prior statement it was because that issue was not raised in the course of the interview.<sup>7484</sup> If she realised Mr. Mbasha had not appeared in her prior statements, she would have raised the issue earlier.<sup>7485</sup> Witness TK gave more information in her testimony as to Mrs. Mbasha because she spent more time with her. She saw Mrs. Mbasha suffer a great deal.<sup>7486</sup>

2671. The Chamber notes that in Witness TK's statement of 12 November 1996, she described in detail the conversation between Mbasha's wife and Shalom, and described the abduction of Mbasha's children.<sup>7487</sup> Although Witness TK did not mention Professor Mbasha in this statement, she only discussed him in testimony when asked how she knew Mbasha's wife. The Chamber accepts Witness TK's explanation of this apparent omission from her prior statement.

2672. In addition, Witnesses QJ, SJ, RE and WKKTD corroborated some of the details of the conversation between Mbasha's wife and Ntahobali.

2673. Witnesses SJ and RE corroborated the occurrence of the conversation between Ntahobali and a woman who was seated on the veranda. Witness SJ testified that Ntahobali asked the woman, "[d]o you know me?", to which the woman replied, "[y]es, I know you .... You are the son of Nyiramasuhuko, and I was in the same school as your mother." Witness SJ said that Ntahobali acknowledged that the woman was correct, i.e. that he was in fact Ntahobali, and promised the woman to bring her and her children to a safe place if she accepted that her 12-year-old daughter became his wife.<sup>7488</sup> Ntahobali was sitting on the veranda and had placed his foot on Witness SJ.<sup>7489</sup> Witness SJ said the woman and her children had arrived with religious sisters from the parish the same day she was abducted, but she did not mention a tall, bald man.<sup>7490</sup>

2675. Witness QJ corroborated the occurrence of the abduction.<sup>7493</sup> Moreover, he testified that he knew the Mbasha family because Mbasha was a customer at Hotel Faucon and would sometimes bring his wife and children.<sup>7494</sup> Witness QJ said that Mbasha's wife used to work in a pharmacy and estimated that she was 35 years old in 1994.<sup>7495</sup> Witness WKKTD testified that he knew the Mbashas and that in 1994, Mbasha's wife worked at the Bupharma pharmacy in Butare town.<sup>7496</sup> Therefore, two other witnesses verified that Mbasha's wife worked at a pharmacy, lending credence to the veracity of Witness TK's account that Mbasha's wife said she knew Ntahobali because he was sent to the pharmacy to buy drugs.

2676. Each of the witnesses was on the BPO veranda observing these events in close proximity. Even if the lighting conditions were not ideal, the witnesses did not need light to hear the conversation between Mbasha's wife and Ntahobali. In any event, Witness SJ said there was a full moon that night.<sup>7497</sup> Further, Witness TK testified that she had also seen Ntahobali during the day on a few occasions.<sup>7498</sup>

2677. Witness TK's husband is Witness QJ whom she met and married after the war.<sup>7499</sup> She testified that they never discussed their testimony before the Tribunal because it would not have helped them in any way.<sup>7500</sup> When asked whether she described Mbasha's wife's clothing based on discussions with her husband, Witness TK stated she did not know whether her husband had even seen Mbasha's wife because they did not discuss it.<sup>7501</sup> The Chamber does not find it credible that Witness TK did not discuss with her husband the events of 1994 or the fact that she was coming to testify in Arusha. Nonetheless, based on the significantly detailed nature of her testimony and the corroboration of numerous elements of her testimony by other witnesses, the Chamber does not find this issue to undermine Witness TK's credibility as a whole.

2678. The Ntahobali Defence asserts that the identification evidence of Ntahobali at the BPO was not reliable, in part, because it was based on hearsay.<sup>7502</sup>

2679. The Chamber recalls as a matter of law that the identification of an accused at the scene of a crime may be based on hearsay evidence.<sup>7503</sup> In Kamuhanda, multiple prosecution witnesses heard other refugees shouting the name of the Accused during an attack and the Trial Chamber inferred that the Accused was in fact present at the scene of the crime. This finding was affirmed by the Appeals Chamber.<sup>7504</sup> Furthermore, in Rukundo, two witnesses overheard the Accused boasting of his role in abductions in a similar fashion. The Appeals Chamber concluded that this was a reasonable basis upon which to identify the Accused.<sup>7505</sup>

2680. In this case, the Chamber finds the hearsay identification of Ntahobali to be reliable. Witness TK heard Mbasha's wife identify Ntahobali, stating she knew Ntahobali when he came to the pharmacy where she worked in response to which Ntahobali acknowledged his own identity. Further, Witness WKKTD corroborated aspects of this identification in verifying that Mbasha's wife in fact worked at a pharmacy. Therefore, the Chamber is convinced that Witnesses TK, QJ, SJ and RE had an adequate basis upon which to identify Ntahobali at the BPO despite not knowing him prior to the April to July 1994 events.

2681. Witness TK testified that upon arriving at the BPO, Shalom and some of the Interahamwe exclaimed that nobody should be spared or treated leniently.<sup>7506</sup> He told the Interahamwe to do their work seriously.<sup>7507</sup> Interahamwe attacked the group of refugees and chose people to be taken away to be killed.<sup>7508</sup> Interahamwe started stripping people lying on the ground.<sup>7509</sup> The truck left behind certain Interahamwe to select those who were to be loaded on the next trip.<sup>7510</sup> The truck returned another two times that night and loaded more refugees who were quickly taken away.<sup>7511</sup> Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko were on board on each trip.<sup>7512</sup>

2682. Ntahobali's alibi for the end of May and beginning of June 1994 was that he had travelled to Cyangugu to fetch his wife. The Chamber has found this alibi was not credible. Therefore, based upon the consistency and corroboration of the substantive evidence, the Chamber finds that Ntahobali was in fact present at the BPO during the attacks around the end of May or beginning of June 1994.

3.6.19.4.7.3 Identification of Nyiramasuhuko and Orders to Rape

2683. Asked why she had not mentioned Pauline's presence at the BPO in her prior statement of 12 November 1996, Witness TK replied that she had limited time with the investigators and so she only mentioned things that came to mind.<sup>7513</sup> There were certain omissions in the statement because of her mood at the time or because of her availability at that time of the questioning.<sup>7514</sup> The Chamber accepts this explanation.

2684. She was also questioned as to her statement of 12 November 1996 in which she stated that she did not see Ntahobali hit anyone; rather she only heard him threatening people. Witness TK responded that seeing Ntahobali in court reminded her of what actually happened.<sup>7515</sup> The Chamber considers this a minor discrepancy since the essence of both Witness TK's prior statement and her testimony was that Ntahobali attacked and abducted people at the BPO.

2685. The Defence also questioned Witness TK as to whether she knew other Prosecution witnesses in this case. Witness TK testified that she came to Arusha on an airplane several days prior to testifying. She only recognised one person on the plane whom she had met after leaving Rango.<sup>7516</sup> She did not know whether this person had experienced the events at the BPO.<sup>7517</sup> She testified that she gave her statements to investigators in private and that she did not know whether her sister also gave a statement to investigators.<sup>7518</sup> The Chamber does not consider these associations to raise any credibility concerns.<sup>7519</sup>

2687. Witness SS testified that Nyiramasuhuko came to the BPO this night with a soldier named Kazungu and Interahamwe.<sup>7520</sup> Witnesses RE and QY corroborated that an

Interahamwe named Kazungu accompanied Nyiramasuhuko during the attacks.<sup>7521</sup> Witness TK knew a man named Kazungu who was the Interahamwe escort to one of the préfets.<sup>7522</sup> Although there was some disagreement as to whether Kazungu was a soldier or an Interahamwe, the evidence was consistent that he wore a uniform, accompanied the other Interahamwe and took orders from Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali.<sup>7523</sup>

2689. Witness SS said Nyiramasuhuko wore a military shirt and a kitenge that night.<sup>7528</sup> Witness SS knew Nyiramasuhuko prior to 1994 because she used to pass by on the road in front of her house. She estimated that she saw her three times prior to the April to July 1994 events.<sup>7529</sup> During the events of April to July 1994, she had also encountered Nyiramasuhuko at a roadblock.<sup>7530</sup> She said Nyiramasuhuko was the “prime minister who was in charge of gender issues”, and that Nyiramasuhuko wore a military shirt top and a cloth around her waist when she saw her at the BPO.<sup>7531</sup> Because Nyiramasuhuko was an official, the soldiers saluted her.<sup>7532</sup> Witness SS was less than three metres away from Nyiramasuhuko when she spoke to the soldiers.<sup>7533</sup> Therefore, Witness SS observed Nyiramasuhuko during the day as she stood near her.

2690. Because of the multiple opportunities Witness SS had to observe the Accused, and the witness’ opportunity to observe Nyiramasuhuko in daylight and prior to the genocide, the Chamber finds Witness SS’ identification of Nyiramasuhuko to be both reliable and credible.

2693. Witness QBQ testified that Nyiramasuhuko and the Interahamwe got out of the vehicle. She corroborated Witness SS' observation that Nyiramasuhuko stood next to the vehicle and gave orders to the Interahamwe to "[r]ape the women and the girls and kill the rest."<sup>7542</sup> The Interahamwe wore ordinary civilian clothes and used flashlights to find people.<sup>7543</sup> The Interahamwe were close to Nyiramasuhuko when she gave her orders.<sup>7544</sup>

2694. Witness RE said that Shalom and Interahamwe came to the BPO on three occasions in a Toyota vehicle without a frame in the back and which was covered with mud and cow dung.<sup>7545</sup> Ntahobali promised to protect and hide Mbasha's wife, saying he would take her to Pauline who was in the vehicle.<sup>7546</sup> Based on this comment, Witness RE surmised that Nyiramasuhuko was at the BPO, although she did not see her.<sup>7547</sup> This hearsay provides additional support to the identification of Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO.<sup>7548</sup>

2697. Witness SJ testified to knowing Nyiramasuhuko before 1994<sup>7552</sup> as the Accused used to live with her husband, Maurice Ntahobali, in the same secteur as Witness SJ.<sup>7553</sup> She used to see Mr. and Mrs. Ntahobali when they were on their way to work or when they were visiting their neighbour.<sup>7554</sup> She described Nyiramasuhuko as somewhat fat with a dark complexion.<sup>7555</sup> The first time she saw Nyiramasuhuko, she was wearing a lengthy skirt and a whitish blouse.<sup>7556</sup> Nyiramasuhuko changed cars very often.<sup>7557</sup> Witness SJ said, "they [Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali] were my neighbours and they were good people. So I do not understand how they come to change."<sup>7558</sup>

2699. Witness QBQ testified that upon hearing Nyiramasuhuko's order, the Interahamwe immediately attacked the people on the veranda and took them away by pulling them by their noses.<sup>7560</sup> Many women were raped while Nyiramasuhuko was still on the spot.<sup>7561</sup> The

Interahamwe, Nyiramasuhuko and Shalom subsequently loaded the Tutsi refugees onto the vehicle and took them to Kumukoni to be killed and dumped into a ditch there.<sup>7562</sup>

2700. This was corroborated by Witness FAP who testified that Nyiramasuhuko's orders to rape given on her first trip to the BPO were carried out; during the first visit of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, Tutsi women and girls were raped behind the BPO under the avocado trees. Upon return to the courtyard of the BPO, one of these girls said that it was better to be killed than to be raped by four or more men.<sup>7563</sup>

2701. Likewise, Witness SS testified that while some women were beaten and taken away in a vehicle, others were beaten and taken to the back of the BPO to be abused.<sup>7564</sup> The women and girls had been undressed and they were only wearing their undergarments.<sup>7565</sup> Other young girls and women were taken away and would return to the BPO two or three days later. Witness SS told them she thought they had been killed to which they replied, "[w]hat they subjected us to was worse than death. Imagine if six persons had a turn each on you!"<sup>7566</sup> Witness SS understood that these women had been raped.<sup>7567</sup> She did not know the names of the women who were raped.<sup>7568</sup>

2702. Nyiramasuhuko's alibi for this time period was that she was either in Murambi or Muramba attending Interim Government meetings. She admitted to being in Butare on 31 May 1994, but she claimed not to leave Hotel Ihuriro that night. The Chamber found that this alibi was not reasonably possibly true. Therefore, based upon the consistency and corroboration of the substantive evidence, the Chamber finds that Nyiramasuhuko was in fact present at the BPO during this attack. She ordered Interahamwe to rape refugees because they were Tutsis. The Interahamwe beat, abused and raped many Tutsi women.

2704. Witness TK testified that after the first trip that same night, the Hilux pickup returned another two times that night, loading more refugees who were quickly taken away.<sup>7571</sup> Witness TK said the truck left behind certain Interahamwe to select those who were to be loaded on the next trip.<sup>7572</sup> Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko were on board on each trip.<sup>7573</sup>

2705. Witness SJ also stated that same night, approximately 30 minutes after the vehicle had left, the vehicle came back with Shalom and the Interahamwe.<sup>7574</sup> Ntahobali told the Interahamwe that they had to “go all the way” and that they should “spare no one.”<sup>7575</sup> The Interahamwe acted promptly and beat the refugees before throwing them on board the pickup and taking them away.<sup>7576</sup> A third trip was made but she did not see it because she was hiding.<sup>7577</sup>

2706. Witness SU said that around 11.00 p.m. the same night Mbasha’s wife and children were abducted, Nyiramasuhuko, her driver, her guard and some Interahamwe returned in the same vehicle.<sup>7578</sup> Nyiramasuhuko repeated her instructions to the Interahamwe to start on one side and to take men and women.<sup>7579</sup> On a second occasion, Nyiramasuhuko arrived at the BPO in the same Hilux vehicle.<sup>7580</sup> Nyiramasuhuko summoned the Interahamwe present at the BPO and told them to load people onto the vehicle.<sup>7581</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was leaning against the vehicle when it was being loaded with Tutsi refugees and left with the same vehicle.<sup>7582</sup>

2707. Witness RE and SS corroborated the presence of Nyiramasuhuko, Shalom and Interahamwe, including one named Kazungu, at the BPO three times in one night.<sup>7583</sup>

2708. Witness SS testified that Nyiramasuhuko got out of the vehicle, and said to also bring the young boys and not to leave anyone behind.<sup>7584</sup> The persons who came with Nyiramasuhuko took torches and started waking people. The Interahamwe took the young boys, but as they were not many, they also took women and girls.<sup>7585</sup> While some refugees were loaded onto the pickup, the soldiers and Interahamwe attacked them with weapons. When the vehicle left, Nyiramasuhuko, the Interahamwe, the driver and the soldier named Kazungu were on board.<sup>7586</sup>

2709. On the third attack that same night, Witness SS testified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko, the driver, the Interahamwe and the soldier named Kazungu come back to the BPO on board the vehicle.<sup>7587</sup> She heard Nyiramasuhuko say, “[p]ut everyone on board, old women, old men, put everybody on board.”<sup>7588</sup> The Interahamwe got out of the vehicle, put out the light, took their torches and weapons, and woke up everybody. They had traditional weapons such as machetes and clubs, and the soldier had a gun. They loaded refugees onto the vehicle. When the vehicle left, Nyiramasuhuko, Interahamwe, the driver and the soldier named Kazungu were on board. In the back of the pickup were Interahamwe and the refugees who had been loaded onto the vehicle.<sup>7589</sup>

2710. Likewise, Witness FAP testified the vehicle arrived three times the same evening, each time with Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and her son Shalom Ntahobali, and each time taking away many refugees who never returned.<sup>7590</sup>

2711. On a second trip that night, Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, the Interahamwe and a soldier returned in the vehicle. Nyiramasuhuko instructed the Interahamwe to load the Tutsi refugees into the vehicle.<sup>7591</sup> The Interahamwe herded young Tutsi men, women and children into the vehicle by beating them; there were no longer any grown men at the BPO. The refugees’ clothes were removed and given to the Hutu refugees from Gitarama and Bugesera.<sup>7592</sup> children and adolescents board the vehicle.<sup>7594</sup> Nyiramasuhuko instructed Ntahobali and the Interahamwe to systematically select young women and young girls and to rape and kill them. This time, they were not raped, but were thrown onto the vehicle and the Interahamwe drove away with them.<sup>7595</sup> She knew that the refugees had been killed because each time the vehicle returned to the BPO, only the Interahamwe were on board in the baggage section.<sup>7596</sup> Witness FAP joined the Hutu group, but when she was asked to show her identity card she had to rejoin the “serpents”.<sup>7597</sup>

2713. Witness QY testified that the vehicle returned several times that evening with about two hour intervals between trips, and each time it returned the same thing was done.<sup>7598</sup> On the second trip that second night, Shalom alighted from the vehicle and approached the veranda of the BPO. He walked among the refugees, kicking and forcing some of them to get into the vehicle.<sup>7599</sup> The Interahamwe carried torches and flashed them in the direction of the refugees.<sup>7600</sup> The refugees would try to flee, scattering like ants to be protected from the Interahamwe.<sup>7601</sup> Those in the vehicle again set off towards Rwabayanga.<sup>7602</sup> She did not know which direction the vehicle turned to go to Rwabayanga.<sup>7603</sup> The vehicle came back a third time that same night to collect more refugees.<sup>7604</sup> The refugees were driven away to be killed and the vehicle did not come back as it was now daylight.<sup>7605</sup> Witness QY could not specify at what time the vehicle arrived at the BPO on each trip.<sup>7606</sup>

beginning of June 1994. These include Mbasha's wife and children, a woman named Trifina and an unnamed woman. The Chamber recalls its finding in the preliminary issues segment of this section of the Judgement that the Defence did not have notice of the allegations that Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko abducted Mbasha's wife and children and a woman named Trifina (). Nonetheless, the Chamber finds it useful to examine the specific evidence regarding these alleged abductions as circumstantial evidence of what happened to other Tutsi refugees who were staying at the BPO.

3.6.19.4.7.4.2 Abduction of Mbasha's Wife

2717. Witness TK testified that after she observed a conversation between Ntahobali and Mbasha's wife, Mbasha's wife was stripped of her kitenge wrap by Interahamwe, leaving it on the ground.<sup>7609</sup> Mbasha's wife was loaded onto the truck with her two children.<sup>7610</sup> As the Interahamwe threw the children upon Mbasha's wife, she pleaded for her children, stating: "Please pity my children, you can take me. Spare my children, please."<sup>7611</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was by the truck when Mbasha's wife and her children were loaded on it, along with the other refugees that had arrived that day.<sup>7612</sup>

2718. Witness QJ provided a similar account. He said that after Mbasha's wife was put in the vehicle with her children, Witness QJ said Nyiramasuhuko and her Interahamwe took the family to Kabutare Forest. He said, "[t]hey were screaming until I lost sight of them."<sup>7613</sup> Mbasha's wife was wearing a kitenge wrap and a pullover.<sup>7614</sup> He estimated that he saw them at 4.00 p.m. while it was still light out.<sup>7615</sup> He testified that he has not seen any of the Mbasha family since then.<sup>7616</sup>

2719. Witness RE partially corroborated Witness TK's account of the abduction. Witness RE was lying on the veranda.<sup>7617</sup> She said that a woman who was sleeping on the BPO veranda with her three children resisted the Interahamwe attack that night.<sup>7618</sup> Shalom told her: "We're not going to kill you. We, rather, wanted to take you to Pauline who is in the vehicle so she can go and hide you."<sup>7619</sup> Based on this comment, Witness RE surmised that Nyiramasuhuko was at the BPO, although she did not see her.<sup>7620</sup>

2720. Upon cross-examination, Witness RE admitted that she knew several other witnesses in the case. Witness RE's older sister was Witness TK's sister-in-law.<sup>7621</sup> Witness RE did not inform Witness TK that she was to testify in Arusha.<sup>7622</sup> Witness RE also said that she was with Witness SJ at the BPO.<sup>7623</sup> Witness RE met Witness QJ one time after the war in Save and knew that Witness QJ was Witness TK's husband.<sup>7624</sup> The Chamber has already considered whether Witness RE was encouraged to provide false testimony by the Ibuka Association (). Further, the Chamber does not find that Witness RE's relationship with Witness TK or her contact with Witness QJ on a single occasion renders her credibility in doubt.

2721. Witness SJ corroborated Witness TK's testimony that Ntahobali took the woman and her children in the vehicle and drove away with them.<sup>7625</sup> However, she testified the woman was seated in the cabin of the vehicle whereas some other people were in the rear of the vehicle.<sup>7626</sup> She said that when the truck returned, she heard the Interahamwe say that the woman was stupid to think that Shalom would save her because she was sitting in the cabin of the vehicle.<sup>7627</sup>

2722. However, Witness SJ's credibility was brought into question for several reasons. On cross-examination, she was asked about a prior statement of 3 December 1996, in which she stated that Ntahobali's younger brother drove the vehicle away from the BPO.<sup>7628</sup> The witness denied having referred to Ntahobali's younger brother because she did not know Ntahobali's family or his siblings. She explained that there may have been confusion in the taking of the statement.<sup>7629</sup> The Chamber accepts this explanation.

2723. Moreover, Witness SJ was recalled to testify in 2009. She admitted that she had not told the truth in her original testimony in 2002,<sup>7630</sup> and upon the instructions of a Prosecution translator, she denied knowing Prosecution Witnesses TK, TA and QJ.<sup>7631</sup> For these reasons, the Chamber does not accept Witness SJ's testimony as to this event.

2724. In addition, there were some discrepancies as to the number and gender of Mbasha's children. Witness TK testified that the wife of Mbasha was accompanied by one boy and one girl.<sup>7632</sup> Witness WKKTD testified that Mbasha had two children aged 7 and 10 or 11, but he said they were both girls.<sup>7633</sup> In contrast, Witnesses RE and QJ testified that there were three children.<sup>7634</sup>

2725. Considering Witness WKKTD had known the Mbasha family for six years prior to 1994 and that they were close family friends, the Chamber finds his testimony reliable that the Mbasha's had two daughters. Nonetheless, this is not necessarily inconsistent with the testimony of Witness TK. Witness TK said that Ntahobali asked which of the children was a girl.<sup>7635</sup> Since Ntahobali was not able to identify the gender of the children, both of the children could have been girls. In addition, Witness WKKTD corroborated that one of Mbasha's children was about 10 or 11 years old. Although Witnesses RE and QJ said there were three children, considering the passage of time between this event and their testimony, the Chamber does not consider this difference between the testimonies to be significant.

2726. Witness WKKTD provided an alternative explanation for the disappearance of Mbasha's wife and her children. He learned from the wife of a sous-bourgmestre that gendarmes had arrested Mbasha's wife and one of her children and that they had been tortured and killed at the roadblock.<sup>7636</sup> This hearsay was not corroborated by any other witness. In addition, Witness WKKTD's wife told him that Mbasha's eldest daughter actually survived the April to July 1994 events and that his wife saw the daughter in passing. Witness WKKTD's wife only had a brief opportunity to identify Mbasha's eldest daughter as his wife was riding in a minibus at the time and she only saw her from a distance.<sup>7637</sup> Therefore, not only was this hearsay not corroborated, there were indications that it was not reliable and the Chamber is not convinced by this testimony.

2727. The Chamber concludes based on this evidence that Ntahobali and Interahamwe abducted Mbasha's wife and children around the end of May or beginning of June 1994. As noted previously, the Chamber will not convict Ntahobali for the abduction of Mbasha's wife because he did not have notice as to the identity of this specific individual. However, the credible and consistent information with regard to this event provides circumstantial support for the Chamber's findings regarding the abduction of other unnamed Tutsi refugees from the BPO.<sup>7638</sup>

3.6.19.4.7.4.3 Killing of a Woman Named Trifina

vehicle.<sup>7643</sup> When the vehicle was full of people Ntahobali drove it away with Nyiramasuhuko as a passenger.<sup>7644</sup>

2729. Witness TK's account was corroborated by Witnesses QBQ and RE. Witness QBQ said the Interahamwe heard Nyiramasuhuko give an order and immediately attacked the people on the veranda, pulling them by their noses.<sup>7645</sup> The Interahamwe used a club to hit one woman who refused to comply and she died in front of the vehicle.<sup>7646</sup> Witness RE also stated that the Interahamwe strangled to death a young woman named Trifina because she refused to go.<sup>7647</sup>

2730. The Chamber finds Witness TK to be credible regarding this event and therefore concludes that a woman named Trifina was assaulted and killed by Interahamwe on the orders of Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO. As noted previously, the Chamber will not convict Nyiramasuhuko for the death of Trifina because she did not have notice as to the identity of this specific individual. However, the credible and consistent information with regard to this event provides circumstantial support for the Chamber's findings regarding the abduction and killing of other unnamed Tutsi refugees from the BPO.<sup>7648</sup>

3.6.19.4.7.4.4 Other Abductions at the BPO

2731. Witnesses SU, SS and FAP provided testimony as to other abductions and killings at the BPO on the night of multiple attacks.

2733. Witness SS gave a similar account to Witness SU of a woman pleading for her young child who had arrived at the BPO with a man who was no longer present.<sup>7655</sup> She did not know whether he was balding.<sup>7656</sup> Other persons were loaded in the pickup.<sup>7657</sup> Witness SS also testified the soldiers and Interahamwe threw the woman into the back of the vehicle.<sup>7658</sup> Since she could no longer hear the woman cry, Witness SS concluded that the woman was dead.<sup>7659</sup>

2734. Witness FAP testified that the Interahamwe approached a mother of two children who was spending the night on the veranda next to her.<sup>7660</sup> The woman's daughter was below the marrying age and the other child was a son.<sup>7661</sup> The woman had arrived the day before, accompanied by a man who had a fair complexion and was tall.<sup>7662</sup> Ntahobali tried to make the woman feel safe by saying that his mother had sent for her.<sup>7663</sup> Ntahobali also tried to reassure the girl who cried out by telling her that he was taking her to his mother.<sup>7664</sup> Again, Witness FAP here corroborates numerous details of Witness TK's testimony regarding the abduction of Mbasha's wife and children.

2735. However, Witness FAP added the children told the Interahamwe not to rape them because they were too young; but instead to take their mother if necessary. The mother also cried out and refused to be raped in public and so the Interahamwe killed her on the ground.<sup>7665</sup> Witness FAP said Ntahobali and the Interahamwe killed the mother with knives and dumped her body in the vehicle. They also took her children who had been beaten and drove away.<sup>7666</sup>

2736. Witnesses SU, SS and FAP each described these events in significant detail. However, due to the differences in their testimonies, the Chamber is convinced that Witnesses SU, SS and FAP were describing attacks on different individuals among the group which was abducted from the BPO on the night of three attacks. Nonetheless, the Chamber is convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali and Interahamwe attacked many different women and children at the BPO, assaulted them and forced them aboard the pickup. It further finds that Nyiramasuhuko gave orders to the Interahamwe to commit these crimes. The women and children were taken away from the BPO and killed elsewhere.

2737. As specified above, the Chamber does not find Nyiramasuhuko's or Ntahobali's alibis raise a reasonable doubt as to their presence at the BPO at the end of May or beginning of June 1994.

2738. Therefore, based upon the evidence of Witnesses TK, QBQ, RE, SS, SU and FAP, including the specific evidence as to the abduction of Mbasha's wife and children, the assault of a woman named Trifina and the assault of an unnamed woman and her children, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that at the end of May or beginning of June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and about 10 Interahamwe came to the BPO aboard a camouflaged pickup. Nyiramasuhuko ordered the Interahamwe to force Tutsi refugees onto the pickup. The pickup left the BPO, abducting Tutsi refugees in the process, some of whom were forced to undress.

3.6.19.4.8 Mid-May Through June 1994 – Abducted Refugees Were Killed

2739. Apart from those refugees such as Trifina who were killed on the premises of the BPO, there was no direct evidence that the refugees abducted from the BPO from mid-May through June 1994 were killed elsewhere. However, there was circumstantial evidence to support this conclusion.

2740. First, the evidence established that Tutsi refugees were being killed at the BPO. Witness TA testified that Tutsi refugees were killed on the premises of the BPO and buried in pits behind the BPO. While she did not personally see the killings at the pear tree behind the BPO, she saw dead bodies by the tree.<sup>7667</sup> She also saw the bodies of Tutsis who had been killed in a pit behind in the gardens of the BPO the number of which increased during her stay.<sup>7668</sup> Some of the bodies were decomposing, and later a bulldozer came to take the bodies further away from the BPO.<sup>7669</sup>

2741. Witness SU corroborated this testimony. Witness SU testified that at 5.00 a.m. and 6.00 p.m., the Interahamwe at the BPO took people away and killed them with machetes.<sup>7670</sup> During the month of June 1994, she watched a pit being dug behind the office of the préfet, close to the uncompleted ORINFOR building with a yellow bulldozer.<sup>7671</sup> In addition, there was a pit behind the house of Munyagasheke behind an avocado tree.<sup>7672</sup> Refugees that were killed were thrown into this pit. Before the pit was dug, bodies were “thrown here and there.”<sup>7673</sup> A pit had been dug near the office where they threw people who had just been killed.<sup>7674</sup> Witness SU saw 13 refugees killed before the very eyes of the authorities.<sup>7675</sup> She testified that in the year 2000, several bodies were exhumed before the construction of a new building on the site of the pit.<sup>7676</sup>

2742. Witness SS also testified that she saw corpses at the BPO next to the avocado trees and that there were pits.<sup>7677</sup> Likewise, Witness TK testified that her brother was killed at the BPO and that she saw an Interahamwe wearing her brother’s jacket.<sup>7678</sup> She discovered her brother’s body along with two others near a tree behind the BPO. Her brother’s legs had been cut off and a dog was feeding upon his corpse.<sup>7679</sup> At that time, there were still some men left in the group of refugees, but they were subsequently taken away during the night.<sup>7680</sup> Prosecution

Investigator Shukry testified there were mass graves at the University Hospital, University Laboratory, Matyazo Clinic, Cyarwa Sumo secteur, Kabakobwa valley, Kabuye Hill and the Mbazi commune office. He did not testify that there was a mass grave at the BPO.<sup>7681</sup> Nonetheless, the Chamber is convinced that during the attacks at the BPO, Tutsi refugees were killed and thrown into pits. It further finds that a bulldozer later came to the BPO to bury the corpses.

2743. Second, there was substantial evidence that the Tutsi refugees who were abducted from the BPO were never seen again.<sup>7682</sup> This supports an inference that these Tutsis were in fact killed.<sup>7683</sup>

2744. Third, Tutsi refugees were killed in the EER woods (). Tutsis were targeted and killed at roadblocks throughout Butare town (). Furthermore, bodies of Tutsis were seen throughout Butare town, including at the Hotel Faucon roadblock (). When considered together, the Chamber finds that the only reasonable inference is that the refugees who were abducted from the BPO were killed.

2745. Several witnesses also testified as to the statements of three people who allegedly survived the attacks at the BPO, including Semanyenzi, Annonciata and Fidel (or Fidelis). Semanyenzi, Annonciata and Fidel did not testify as to their experiences. Therefore, all of the Prosecution evidence in this respect was hearsay and the Chamber views it with caution.

2746. Witnesses SJ, RE, FAP and SU testified that one or more refugees (named Semanyenzi, Annonciata or Fidele) who had been abducted, escaped their captors, returned to the BPO, and told the remaining refugees that those who had been abducted were killed.

2747. The Chamber notes that Witnesses SJ, QY, RE, FAP and QBQ provided inconsistent testimony as to where an escaped refugee named Semanyenzi had been taken, although he allegedly told each of them how and from where he escaped. Witness SJ said the Mbashas, Annonciata and Semanyenzi were all taken to the same place and that she later learned from Annonciata and Interahamwe that the location of the killings was Kabutare.<sup>7684</sup> Witness QY said that she learned from Annonciata that the refugees had been taken to Rwabayanga to be killed.<sup>7685</sup> Witness RE also learned from Semanyenzi and Annonciata that the people were killed. She said the refugees were killed at Rwabayanga.<sup>7686</sup> Witness FAP did not indicate where Semanyenzi had been taken, but testified that certain soldiers warned her that Interahamwe were taking people to Rwabayanga.<sup>7687</sup> Finally, Witness QBQ testified that Semanyenzi had survived at Mukoni.<sup>7688</sup> Given that each of these witnesses had learned from

Semanyenzi and Annonciata where the killings had occurred, it might be expected that each would identify the same location.<sup>7689</sup>

2748. The Chamber notes that Rwabayanga is located behind the ESO which is in the opposite direction from Kabutare when departing from the BPO.<sup>7690</sup> It further notes that Witness QBQ testified that Mukoni was near the IRST.<sup>7691</sup> The IRST is located further down the same road as the ESO. Nonetheless, the Chamber observes that the ESO, Kabutare, and the IRST were all sites of massacres or mass graves<sup>7692</sup> and it accepts that different groups of refugees could have been taken to these locations on different occasions, particularly considering that Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko and the Interahamwe mounted multiple attacks at the BPO.

2749. Regardless of whether the refugees were taken to Rwabayanga, Kabutare, Mukoni or the IRST, the only reasonable inference is that the refugees were abducted from the BPO in order to kill them.<sup>7693</sup> The Chamber finds beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko participated in the abduction of multiple truckloads of Tutsi refugees from the BPO and that these refugees were killed.

3.6.19.4.9 First Half of June 1994 – Additional Killings and Rape, Including Rape of Witness TA

3.6.19.4.9.1 Testimony Relevant to This Time Period

2750. The Chamber notes that Witness TA testified that Immaculée Mukagatare was raped at the BPO during the fourth attack Witness TA observed at the BPO. This corresponds with the first or second week of June 1994.<sup>7694</sup> Witness QBP likewise testified that during the attack by Nyiramasuhuko, she observed the rape of a woman named Immaculée Mukagatare who died after the war.<sup>7695</sup> Therefore, the Chamber is convinced that Witness TA's evidence of this attack corresponds with the attack described by Witness QBP which allegedly occurred in June 1994.

<sup>7689</sup> The Chamber notes that Witnesses QJ and QBP did not attribute their knowledge of the location of the killings to Semanyenzi or Annonciata: T. 24 October 2001 p. 88 (Witness QBP); T. 28 October 2002 p. 82 (Witness QBP); T. 29 October 2002 pp. 22-23 (Witness QBP) (said she learned killings occurred in Kabutare from people who had gone to the market the next day); T. 8 November 2001 pp. 154-155 (Witness QJ) (Witness QJ did not indicate her source of information that the refugees were killed in Kabutare). The Chamber recognises that these two witnesses may have been referring to different attacks than the other witnesses and therefore, the information they provided does not necessarily contradict that certain refugees were killed at Rwabayanga or Mukoni.

2751. Witness SU testified that one night after the three attacks, she again saw Nyiramasuhuko come to the BPO on a pickup and order Interahamwe to rape Tutsi women.<sup>7696</sup> Witness SS corroborated this account. Insofar as Witness SU stated this event occurred after the night of three attacks, and the refugees were transferred to Rango around 17 June 1994, the Chamber finds it established that these additional attacks occurred in the first half of June 1994.

3.6.19.4.9.2 First Half of June 1994 – Nyiramasuhuko's Order to Rape

2752. Witnesses QBP and SU testified that Nyiramasuhuko returned to the BPO a subsequent night and ordered that Tutsi women be raped.

2753. One night after the night of three attacks, Witness SU saw a Volkswagen driven by Emmanuel Rekeraho arrive at the BPO at around 10.00 p.m. Rekeraho got out of the Volkswagen and into the Sovu ambulance at the BPO.<sup>7697</sup> Nyiramasuhuko then arrived at the BPO in the same Hilux vehicle, this time wearing a military shirt and a kitenge.<sup>7698</sup> When Witness SU was questioned as to her statement of 3 December 1996, in which she said that Pauline came in a white van painted with green colours rather than a Hilux vehicle, she testified that Rekeraho arrived in a van belonging to the Sovu Health Centre, but that Nyiramasuhuko arrived in a Hilux.<sup>7699</sup>

2754. Nyiramasuhuko summoned the Interahamwe present at the BPO. She told them to load people onto the vehicle.<sup>7700</sup> She also shouted at the Interahamwe to “choose the young girls and the women that are still useful.”<sup>7701</sup> She ordered that the women be raped because they refused to marry Hutus and then to be loaded onto the Hilux to be killed.<sup>7702</sup> Witness SU was about nine metres away from Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>7703</sup>

identified as Ruhengeri raped a girl in the presence of the witness.<sup>7706</sup> Witness SU also identified Ngoma, Ribanza and Mbote as Interahamwe who committed rapes.<sup>7707</sup>

2756. The Interahamwe lined up women next to the vehicle to choose whom to rape, including Witness SU. The Interahamwe shined a torch on Witness SU. Witness SU showed them her aged breasts to discourage the men from raping her as she was very thin.<sup>7708</sup> The Interahamwe then took the women and girls they had chosen behind the ORINFOR and into abandoned vehicles to rape them.<sup>7709</sup>

2757. Witness SS corroborated this account, stating an Interahamwe hit her sister, Witness SU, with a machete between the shoulders. One night, an Interahamwe woke up Witness SU who removed her clothes, showed him her breasts and told him, “[p]lease, don’t take me with you, I’m an old lady and my breasts are falling.”<sup>7710</sup>

2758. Witness SU’s identification of Nyiramasuhuko was based on prior knowledge; she knew Nyiramasuhuko because Witness SU often walked past Nyiramasuhuko’s home in Ndora commune when Witness SU went to visit relatives.<sup>7711</sup> Witness SU arrived at the BPO on or about 28 May 1994<sup>7712</sup> and had several opportunities to observe Nyiramasuhuko in broad daylight and from close range; on the first occasion, Nyiramasuhuko, was four metres away from the witness<sup>7713</sup> whereas on the second occasion Witness SU saw Nyiramasuhuko arrive at the BPO, Witness SU was nine metres away.<sup>7714</sup> Witness SU saw Nyiramasuhuko summon the Interahamwe present at the BPO and order them to select young Tutsi women and girls to be loaded on the vehicles, raped and then killed.<sup>7715</sup> The Chamber finds Witness SU’s identification of Nyiramasuhuko reliable considering she previously knew Nyiramasuhuko, and she saw her at the BPO during the day from close proximity.

2759. Witness SU testified that she did not have any clothes therefore she could not approach Nyiramasuhuko. She later clarified that she was only wearing clothes that had been given to her and she was not dressed to the same standard as Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>7716</sup>

2760. Asked why she stayed at the BPO despite having a signed affidavit indicating that she was Hutu,<sup>7717</sup> Witness SU stated that she attempted to seek shelter with some nuns, but once they saw she was injured it was determined that it would not be safe such that she was obliged to go to the BPO.<sup>7718</sup> It was also dangerous in case she ran into someone who knew her.<sup>7719</sup>

2762. Witness SU said that she had problems with her eyes and needed eyeglasses.<sup>7724</sup> At the time of the war she could see without any problems. After the war she had eyesight problems because of an illness.<sup>7725</sup> She was not able to recognise what was shown in Prosecution Exhibit 23A as the photo was projected on a screen.<sup>7726</sup> The Chamber considers Witness SU's vision problems at the time of her testimony did not adversely affect her ability to identify Ntahobali during the events in 1994.

2763. Witness QBP named four women who had been raped, two of whom died after the war.<sup>7727</sup> She admitted not witnessing with her own eyes the alleged rapes in the rear of the BPO as there was no longer any light.<sup>7728</sup> However, she asserted that the Interahamwe and soldiers had just been encouraged to do something specific to these Tutsi women by Nyiramasuhuko and only a child would not understand what was going to happen to these women.<sup>7729</sup> spoke to the soldiers and Interahamwe when the witness was nearby.<sup>7734</sup> Witness QBP said she was able to see clearly because there were lights coming from the houses surrounding the BPO.<sup>7735</sup> Therefore, Witness QBP's evidence corroborates that Nyiramasuhuko was wearing a mix of military and civilian clothing and arrived at the BPO in a mud-covered vehicle. Although she observed Nyiramasuhuko at night, the view was enhanced by surrounding lights. Based on these factors, the Chamber finds Witness QBP's identification of Nyiramasuhuko to be both credible and reliable.

2766. Although Witness QBP did not observe the rapes,<sup>7736</sup> she saw Nyiramasuhuko give the orders and watched the Interahamwe choose women to drag behind the BPO before the lights went out and she hid herself.<sup>7737</sup> Witness QBP also saw soldiers and Interahamwe dragging refugee women to the back of the BPO and loading other refugees aboard a double-cabin Toyota pickup that had accompanied Nyiramasuhuko's vehicle to the BPO.<sup>7738</sup> Witness QBP managed to hide in the bushes in the rear of the BPO when the lights went off.<sup>7739</sup> Witness QBP's testimony that she was at the BPO during mid-May 1994 was corroborated by Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ; he saw Witness QBP at the BPO among 1,000 refugees and she asked him for money.<sup>7740</sup> One of her children had disappeared and he later learned that child had died.<sup>7741</sup>

2767. On cross-examination, it was put to Witness SU that she had not been at the BPO during the time she said and that she was instead at someone's house from 27 May 1994 until the end of the war. Witness SU said that six people had been discovered at that man's house and were killed as was the man himself. Therefore, she only spent three days in his home.<sup>7742</sup>

2770. Witness TA testified that she was also an eyewitness to the rape of Immaculée Mukagatare.<sup>7749</sup> Eighteen to 20 days after the first attack, a group of eight Interahamwe, including Shalom arrived at the BPO in the same vehicle and attacked the refugees with machetes, hammers, Rwandan clubs and sticks.<sup>7750</sup> On this occasion, Shalom again handed Witness TA over to the Interahamwe and told them to be quick, after which seven Interahamwe raped her.<sup>7751</sup> When Witness TA returned to where she usually slept at the BPO after being raped, she watched Ntahobali take another Tutsi refugee woman named Immaculée to rape her.<sup>7752</sup> Immaculée had three children with her, including a child of about one and a half to two years old that was still being breast fed.<sup>7753</sup> Immaculée tried to fight Shalom and asked him to let her go back to her children.<sup>7754</sup> Ntahobali took the youngest child from Immaculée's arms and threw the child to the side, before raping Immaculée.<sup>7755</sup> Witness TA picked up the child and consoled it to keep it quiet.<sup>7756</sup> After raping Immaculée, Shalom placed two heavy logs on her legs, one above the knee and one below knee, and, according to Immaculée, Shalom said, "[I]et's see if you can get out of that."<sup>7757</sup> After Immaculée had been raped, she asked Witness TA to help remove the logs.<sup>7758</sup> Witness TA testified that she went to visit Immaculée at a hospital and Immaculée told Witness TA that she had contracted AIDS during the 1994 events. Immaculée died in January 2001.<sup>7759</sup> Witness TA later testified that the rape of Immaculée occurred on the fifth occasion that Ntahobali visited the BPO, on which occasion Witness TA was not personally raped.<sup>7760</sup> Given the traumatic nature of the incident, and the amount of time that has passed since this rape, the Chamber does not consider this discrepancy to be serious or such as to undermine Witness TA's overall credibility as to this account.

2771. Witness TK also corroborated Witness TA's testimony regarding additional attacks. Apart from the night of three attacks, Witness TK testified that she saw Shalom very often at the BPO.<sup>7761</sup> He came on a number of evenings, accompanied by Interahamwe or disabled soldiers who were staying at the Groupe Scolaire.<sup>7762</sup> Those soldiers hit people with their crutches.<sup>7763</sup> He came to mock the refugees.<sup>7764</sup> On some occasions, he abducted women who were then raped.<sup>7765</sup> He also came to determine whether there were any men left, who were then taken away to be killed. She testified that Shalom committed crimes on each evening he came to the BPO.<sup>7766</sup> He would say to the Interahamwe, "[b]e firm in your actions," when he meant, "kill all of them."<sup>7767</sup> The Interahamwe surrounded Ntahobali and called him "Shalom, chef."<sup>7768</sup> Witness TK also saw Shalom at the BPO on a few occasions during the day.<sup>7769</sup> Nyiramasuhuko came alone to the BPO on other occasions, but she did not see Pauline when these rapes occurred.<sup>7770</sup> The Chamber finds Witness TK's description of Ntahobali coming to the BPO along with soldiers from the Groupe Scolaire to be credible.

2772. The Chamber recalls Ntahobali's proffered alibi for June 1994 that he never left Hotel Ihuliro at night. The Chamber has found that this alibi was not reasonably possibly true. The Chamber also recalls Nyiramasuhuko's alibi that she was in Muramba attending Interim Government meetings on 6 and 10 June 1994 which the Chamber found to be reasonably possibly true. Nonetheless, her alibis for 7 to 9 June 1994 and from 11 to 19 June 1994 were not credible. Further, she admitted to being in Butare Town on the night of 11 June 1994. Although she claimed she did not leave Hotel Ihuliro that night, the Chamber found this not reasonably possibly true.

2773. Therefore, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt, based on the testimony of Witnesses TA, QBP and TK that, in addition to those attacks described above, Ntahobali, injured soldiers and Interahamwe came to the BPO in June 1994 to rape women and abduct refugees. During one of these attacks Ntahobali again handed Witness TA over to about seven Interahamwe to rape Witness TA. It further finds that in June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko ordered Interahamwe to rape Tutsi women at the BPO and that as a result, numerous women were raped at that location. Although Nyiramasuhuko could not have been present on 6 and 10 June 1994, she had ample opportunity to perpetrate these crimes on 7 to 9 June and 11 to 19 June 1994.

3.6.19.4.10 Number of Refugees Abducted and Killed

2774. Few Prosecution witnesses were able to estimate the number of refugees who had been abducted and killed. For example, Witness TA was unable to estimate how many people

Ntahobali cut up on the night he came to the BPO in mid-May because he was cutting up people very quickly and she was worried that he would slit her throat.<sup>7771</sup> Likewise, Des Forges testified that Nsabimana told her he did not know how many refugees were taken away from the BPO, but that he did know that it was happening.<sup>7772</sup>

2775. The parties did not dispute that the refugees who stayed at the BPO were Tutsis.<sup>7773</sup> Any Hutu refugees at the BPO only stayed for a short time and were later taken to Mubumbano secteur.<sup>7774</sup> As to the number of refugees, Nsabimana testified that throughout the months of April and May the numbers varied on a daily basis, but that by the end of May it was clear that a big group of people was staying there.<sup>7775</sup> Nsabimana stated in Prosecution Exhibit 114 that initially, a small group of 20 refugees was at the BPO, but as time progressed more and more refugees came to the BPO.<sup>7776</sup> Witness SD also testified that the number of refugees changed, but she explained that it was because the refugees were being taken away to be killed and therefore their numbers decreased day by day.<sup>7777</sup> Witnesses TA, SJ, SU, SS, TK and FAP corroborated Witness SD's testimony on this point.<sup>7778</sup>

2776. It was also clear that the number of refugees diminished from 19 April until the refugees were taken to Rango in mid-June 1994. A number of refugees testified that towards the end of April, the refugees at the BPO numbered in the thousands: Witness TA stated there were 6,000 at the end of April;<sup>7779</sup> Witness SJ stated there were 1,500 in April;<sup>7780</sup> and Witness QBQ said there were 2,000 at the end of April.<sup>7781</sup> Other witnesses arrived at the end of May and testified that there were somewhat fewer refugees: Witness SU said there were about 600 on 28 May;<sup>7782</sup> Witness SS said there were 1,000 on 27 May;<sup>7783</sup> Witness FAP said that after some people had already been killed in May there were 350 refugees at the BPO.<sup>7784</sup> In his testimony, Nsabimana estimated that at the end of May there were 200 refugees, but in a video interview taken on 15 June 1994, Nsabimana estimated there were about 200 refugees at that time as well.<sup>7785</sup> Of course, Nsabimana had an incentive to minimise the number of refugees who were at the BPO to limit his culpability. Patrick Fergal Keane testified that on 15 June 1994 there were about 200 refugees, but in a book published closer to the genocide he estimated that there were 500 refugees at the BPO.<sup>7786</sup> Witness TK, who provided detailed and credible testimony in other respects, testified that by the time the Tutsi refugees were transferred to Rango, there were only about 75 left; their numbers were visibly reduced.<sup>7787</sup>

2777. Several Defence witnesses also provided testimony that was consistent with this trend. Witness WZNA testified that between 16 and 18 April 1994 he saw 50 to 60 refugees at the BPO.<sup>7788</sup> The Chamber notes that this was before the swearing-in ceremony of Nsabimana when the majority of killings started in Butare préfecture and therefore is not inconsistent with the Prosecution's case. Witness WMKL also testified that there were 100 to 150 refugees at the BPO the week after the President's plane crash, i.e. around 13 April 1994.<sup>7789</sup> Again, this was prior to Nsabimana's swearing-in and therefore is consistent with the Prosecution's case. Witness WZNA also testified that by early July 1994, there were no longer any refugees at the BPO.<sup>7790</sup> This is also consistent with the testimony that the refugees were taken to Rango after 15 June 1994.

2778. Other Defence witnesses provided testimony that was inconsistent with the Prosecution's case. Witness WNMN stated that in early June there were only 30 to 50 refugees at the BPO.<sup>7791</sup> However, Witness WNMN only saw the BPO in passing and was unable to state whether there were more refugees that were staying behind the BPO,<sup>7792</sup> where it was uncontested the refugees stayed during the day. Therefore, his testimony was based upon his own vantage point which did not permit him to have an overview of the number of refugees at the BPO. Therefore, his testimony is of limited value. Witness WTRT testified that there were only about 100 refugees at the BPO at the end of April or beginning of May.<sup>7793</sup> However, Witness WTRT was a Hutu soldier from the ESO<sup>7794</sup> and the Chamber does not find his testimony on this point to be credible.

2779. The Chamber notes that it was also difficult to estimate the number of refugees who were forced to board the pickup on each occasion when refugees were abducted from the BPO. It was clear that the vehicle was full on each occasion. Witness TA testified that during one attack Ntahobali ordered the Interahamwe to stop killing refugees, as the number of dead people were in excess to the number of people who could be loaded in the vehicle.<sup>7795</sup> In addition, the Chamber has found that between mid-May and mid-June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali came to the BPO with the pickup on at least seven occasions (once in mid-May; two additional times from mid-May to the beginning of June; three attacks during one night at the end of May or beginning of June; and another attack in June). Considering the pickup was nearly full on at least seven occasions, the Chamber is convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that hundreds of Tutsi refugees were abducted from the BPO and killed.

3.6.19.4.11 Summary of Findings

2780. In sum, having fully considered the alibis of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali and the evidence adduced against them with regard to the allegations of criminal conduct occurring at the BPO between 19 April 1994 and the end of June 1994, the Chamber makes the following factual findings.

2781. The Chamber finds the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that: between 19 April and late June 1994 Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali, Interahamwe and soldiers went to the BPO to abduct hundreds of Tutsis; the Tutsi refugees were physically assaulted and raped; and the Tutsi refugees were killed in various locations throughout Ngoma commune, including the following specific incidents:

- i. In mid-May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and about 10 Interahamwe came to the BPO aboard a camouflaged pickup. Nyiramasuhuko ordered the Interahamwe to force Tutsi refugees onto the pickup. Ntahobali and about eight other Interahamwe raped Witness TA. Some of the Interahamwe raped two other Tutsi women. The pickup left the BPO, abducting Tutsi refugees in the process, some of whom were forced to undress.
- ii. During the last half of May 1994, Ntahobali and Interahamwe came to the BPO on two more occasions. Ntahobali violently raped Witness TA, hitting her on the head. Interahamwe following the orders of Ntahobali raped six other women. In a subsequent attack during this same time period, Ntahobali ordered about seven other Interahamwe to rape Witness TA.
- iii. Around the end of May to the beginning of June 1994, Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko and Interahamwe came to the BPO on board a camouflaged pickup three times in one night. They abducted Tutsi refugees each time, some of whom were forced to undress, taking them to other sites in Butare préfecture to be killed. Nyiramasuhuko ordered Interahamwe to rape refugees because they were Tutsi. The Interahamwe beat, abused and raped many Tutsi women.
- iv. Throughout these attacks from 19 April to the end of June 1994, regardless of whether the refugees were taken to Rwabayanga, Kabutare, Mukoni or the IRST, hundreds of refugees were abducted from the BPO and never seen again, including Mbasha's wife and children, Trifina and other women and children. The only reasonable inference is that these refugees were killed.

v. In the first half of June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko ordered Interahamwe to rape Tutsi women at the BPO and that as a result numerous women were raped at that location. Ntahobali, injured soldiers and Interahamwe came to the BPO to rape women and abduct refugees. During at least one of these attacks Ntahobali again handed Witness TA over to about seven Interahamwe to rape Witness TA.

2782. The Prosecution did not prove the following allegations beyond a reasonable doubt: (1) Ntahobali abducted 30 Tutsi refugees on 28 April 1994; and (2) based on the evidence of Witness QY, Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko abducted, raped and killed Tutsi refugees at the BPO in late April or early May 1994. Likewise, the Chamber does not enter any conviction for the abduction, killing and/or rape of the following persons due to the notice violation of the Prosecution: Mbasha's wife and children, Trifina, Immaculée, Semanyenzi, Caritas and Annonciata.

3.6.20 Butare Préfecture Office – Nsabimana

3.6.20.1 Introduction

2783. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges Nsabimana was present and going about his daily business at the BPO from 19 April 1994 when Interahamwe and soldiers assaulted, abducted and killed those seeking refuge at the BPO. Some of the refugees asked Nsabimana for protection, but Nsabimana did nothing to put an end to the attacks.<sup>7796</sup> The Prosecution submits that refugees were abducted, raped and killed on the grounds of the BPO when they should have been under the care of Nsabimana.<sup>7797</sup> The Prosecution also argued that the BPO had become “a concentration camp, a place where a huge number of refugees were assembled, brought together, and sent gradually on a daily basis to various sites to be executed, to be killed”.<sup>7798</sup> In support of this allegation, the Prosecution relies on the evidence of Witnesses TA, TK, SU, QBP, RE, SS, FAP, SD, QBQ, TQ and Expert Witness Alison Des Forges. It also points to the evidence of Nsabimana Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika.

2784. The Nsabimana Defence argues that the Indictment limits Nsabimana's responsibility to crimes that occurred when Nsabimana was in his office at the BPO attending to business. As such, the Defence argues the Indictment excludes crimes that occurred at night when he was not present at the BPO.<sup>7799</sup> It further argues that when Nsabimana found out about abductions, he posted gendarmes at the BPO to stop them.<sup>7800</sup> Finally, the Defence argues that the Indictment failed to plead superior responsibility or that Nsabimana participated directly in the attacks by planning, ordering, inciting or committing. Therefore, the Prosecution's case is limited to aiding and abetting.<sup>7801</sup> As to attacks that took place during the day at the BPO, the Defence argues that the Prosecution evidence was inadequate to establish that Nsabimana was

3.6.20.2 Preliminary Issues

Adequate Pleading of Article 6 (3) Responsibility

2785. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution alleges that Nsabimana is responsible as a superior for the Interahamwe's perpetration of abductions, killings and rapes at the BPO at night.<sup>7803</sup> In this regard, the Chamber recalls the pleading requirements as to superior responsibility set forth in the Preliminary Issues section (). Paragraph 6.36 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nsabimana was present at the BPO while attacks were being perpetrated at that location and that he failed to stop them. Therefore it clearly sets forth the criminal acts, the reason why Nsabimana would be aware of that criminal conduct, and why Nsabimana would be held responsible. Paragraph 6.36, however, fails to allege a superior-subordinate relationship. It asserts that militiamen and soldiers attacked refugees at the BPO but does not allege that Nsabimana was their superior or that he had effective control over them.

2786. An Indictment must be read as a whole. Paragraph 6.59 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment asserts that local authorities, including Nsabimana, aided and abetted their subordinates in carrying out the massacres of the Tutsi population. That paragraph does not indicate the identity of Nsabimana's subordinates.<sup>7804</sup> Paragraphs 3.3 and 3.4 assert that the préfet's authority covers the entire préfecture and that in the discharge of his policing duties, the préfet may request the intervention of the army and of the Gendarmerie Nationale.<sup>7805</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds that Paragraph 6.36, when read in conjunction with Paragraphs 3.3, 3.4 and 6.59 of the Indictment, made it clear to the Nsabimana Defence that the Prosecution alleged that Nsabimana had authority over soldiers within the army and gendarmes within the Gendarmerie Nationale.

2787. The Chamber notes the Indictment alleged that Nteziryayo, as director of civil defence, exercised authority over the Interahamwe militiamen and certain civilians.<sup>7806</sup> In contrasting Paragraphs 4.3 and 4.6 of the Indictment, the only allegation against Nsabimana was that he exercised authority over unspecified subordinates. Unlike with Nteziryayo, no paragraph alleges that Nsabimana had authority over Interahamwe militiamen. Therefore, it is the Chamber's view that the Indictment failed to charge Nsabimana with Article 6 (3) responsibility for attacks by Interahamwe at the BPO.

2788. The Chamber notes the Prosecution opening statement, which set forth the Prosecution case against Nsabimana, stated that he summoned the bourgmestres in order to organise the killings.<sup>7807</sup> None of the witness summaries in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief state that

Nsabimana was the superior of the Interahamwe. Therefore, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution did not cure the defect in the Indictment for failing to plead a superior-subordinate relationship between Nsabimana and the Interahamwe and will not consider whether Nsabimana was responsible as a superior for acts by Interahamwe.

Scope of Paragraph 6.36

2789. The Nsabimana Defence argues that Paragraph 6.36 of the Indictment excludes atrocities committed when Nsabimana was not present at the BPO.<sup>7808</sup> Paragraph 6.36 alleges, “[t]he attacks took place while Préfet Sylvain Nsabimana was present and going about his daily business at the [BPO].” The Chamber notes that this sentence could mean either: (1) that Nsabimana would go to his office during the time period in which the attacks occurred at the BPO; or (2) that the attacks occurred while Nsabimana was sitting in his office at the BPO. Even if the language limits the allegation to attacks while Nsabimana was sitting in his office, Paragraph 6.36 must be read in conjunction with Paragraph 6.42 which provides that: “The entire préfecture of Butare was the scene of massacres of the Tutsi population.... These massacres occurred while Sylvain Nsabimana was exercising his authority as Préfet of Butare.” In addition, Paragraph 6.36 was pled in support of both Article 6 (1) and Article 6 (3) responsibility, neither of which require the accused to be present to be held accountable. The Chamber considers that it is clear that the Prosecution sought to prove that Nsabimana, as préfet, was responsible for attacks occurring throughout Butare préfecture including those occurring at the BPO, whether or not he was physically present.

Notice of the Specifics of the Attacks and Requests for Assistance

2790. The Nsabimana Defence argues that there is ambiguity with regard to the nature of the attacks, the number of attacks, identity and origin of the soldiers, the commanding officers, the end date of the attacks, the type of attacks and the specifics with regard to the requests for assistance, including the préfet's reactions.<sup>7809</sup> Paragraph 6.36 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment specifies the attacks included the forcible abduction, assault and killing of refugees. It also specified that these attacks occurred when Nsabimana was at the BPO going about his daily business. As to the time period, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.21 states that Nsabimana was sworn in as préfet on 19 April 1994 and that Paragraph 6.34 states that Nteziryayo replaced Nsabimana on 17 June 1994. When read in conjunction with Paragraph 6.36, it was clear the alleged requests for assistance to Nsabimana took place between these two dates during the day when Nsabimana was going about his daily business at the BPO. The Prosecution has an obligation to state the material facts underpinning the charges in the indictment, but not the evidence by which such facts are to be proven.<sup>7810</sup> In the Chamber’s view, details such as the attitude and reactions of the préfet, and the form of the requests for assistance constitute evidence by which the Prosecution may prove the charge in Paragraph 6.36. Therefore, the Chamber finds that Paragraph 6.36, when read with the Indictment as a whole, adequately pled these details.

Notice of Particular Victims

2791. The Nsabimana Defence further argues that it did not have notice of the alleged abductions of refugees named Donat, Mr. Mbasha and Pierre from the BPO.<sup>7811</sup> The Chamber notes that the names Donat, Mr. Mbasha and Pierre did not appear in the Indictment.

2792. The Chamber recalls that there may be circumstances where the sheer scale of killing prevents the Prosecution from providing a high level of specificity with regard to details such as the names of victims.<sup>7812</sup> The Chamber has ruled that some of the killings at the BPO from 19 April to late June 1994 involved dozens if not hundreds of victims and did not require the Prosecution to specify each of the victim's names. However, the abductions of Donat, Mr. Mbasha and Pierre each involved only a single victim (or in the case of Donat two victims). Although these alleged attacks took place at the BPO during the same time period as the large-scale attacks, i.e. from 19 April to late June 1994, the abductions of Donat, Mr. Mbasha and Pierre took place during the day and were evidentially distinct from the attacks at night involving the pickup and 10 Interahamwe. As such, the Chamber finds that it was not impracticable to name these three individual victims due to the sheer scale of the attacks at the BPO occurring at night.

2794. As to Mr. Mbasha,<sup>7814</sup> neither the Pre-Trial Brief nor its Appendix cited to the abduction of Mbasha. Witness TK's statement of 12 November 1996 mentioned Nyiramasuhuko's interaction with a woman named Mbasha and the subsequent abduction of Mbasha's children.<sup>7815</sup> However, the statement made no mention of Nsabimana or a man named Mbasha. Furthermore, Witness TK's statement of 22 and 23 April 1998 did not mention Nsabimana or Mbasha.<sup>7816</sup> The Chamber therefore finds that Nsabimana did not have notice that he was being charged with the abduction of a man named Mbasha and will not convict Nsabimana for his abduction and killing.

<sup>7814</sup> The Prosecution does not submit in its Closing Brief that Nsabimana was responsible for the killing of Mbasha's wife and children. Therefore, the Chamber does not address notice as to the alleged killing of Mbasha's family.

2797. The Nsabimana Defence also asserts that it did not have notice of the abduction of a young man named Alphonse, who had asked for assistance from Nsabimana, as Witness RE testified.<sup>7818</sup> The Chamber notes Paragraph 6.36 of the Indictment sets forth that refugees who were being attacked at the BPO asked Nsabimana to protect them from the violent acts of militiamen and soldiers. Nonetheless, the Nsabimana Defence argues that it would be unfair to rely on Witness RE's evidence because it did not have notice that she would be testifying as to this allegation. The Chamber notes that the testimony regarding Alphonse arose for the first time on cross-examination by counsel for Nsabimana.<sup>7819</sup> The Chamber recalls that where evidence is introduced that was not in the possession of the Prosecution prior to trial, it is unfair to base a conviction thereon. The rationale for this rule is that the Prosecution has ample opportunity to obtain more specific information from a witness prior to trial, and should not benefit from pleading broad generalities.<sup>7820</sup> Here, the Prosecution pled in Paragraph 6.36 that refugees asked for assistance. The Prosecution had an opportunity to ask Witness RE about the specifics of any requests to Nsabimana for assistance. Its failure to do so rendered the notice to Nsabimana inadequate. Therefore, the Chamber will not convict Nsabimana for the events related to a refugee named Alphonse. Nonetheless, the Chamber may consider the evidence of the abduction of Alphonse for other permissible purposes.<sup>7821</sup>

Allegation Regarding Care of Refugees

2798. The Prosecution argues that Nsabimana is guilty of extermination and persecution for failing to provide the refugees with food, water and soap.<sup>7822</sup> It also argued that the BPO had become a concentration camp where Tutsi refugees were assembled and taken elsewhere to be killed.<sup>7823</sup> Paragraph 6.36 does not include reference to the failure to provide these provisions to refugees; rather it specifies that Nsabimana was responsible for abductions, assaults and killings. Nsabimana could not know that he was being charged for failing to provide food, water and soap to refugees at the BPO because there was no mention of it in the Indictment. Such an allegation is distinct from the charge of abduction, assaults and killings and is capable of supporting a separate charge. Accordingly, the Chamber finds this to be an impermissible expansion of an existing charge against Nsabimana and therefore will not consider this charge against Nsabimana.

Prosecution Exhibits 113 and 114

2799. The Nsabimana Defence argues that Prosecution Exhibits 113 (The Truth About the Massacres in Butare, by Nsabimana) and 114 (Interview with Nsabimana dated 1 October 1994), said by Expert Witness Des Forges to have been sent to her by Nsabimana, were accepted for the sole purpose of establishing the basis for Des Forges' opinions. The Defence asserts that these documents were to be used only to establish contradictions, if necessary.<sup>7824</sup>

2800. The Chamber recalls its oral ruling of 8 June 2004 in which it held that Prosecution Exhibits 113 and 114 were admissible as one of the sources relied upon by Expert Witness Des Forges in formulating her expert opinion. The Chamber ruled that the weight and probative value of the expert opinion would be evaluated at the end of the trial. The Chamber did not rule that Prosecution Exhibits 113 and 114 could only be used to establish contradictions; rather the exhibits were admitted to help substantiate Des Forges' opinion.<sup>7825</sup> The Chamber's deliberations on these matters necessarily implicate the weight and probative value to be attributed to Des Forges' opinion as well as the materials upon which she relied. The Chamber also notes that Nsabimana did not object to the admissibility or contest the authenticity of these documents. In fact, Nsabimana acknowledged that Prosecution Exhibit 113 was his own, including all that it entails, but that he preferred to rely on the French version of the document introduced as Defence Exhibit 494.<sup>7826</sup> Nsabimana stated that Prosecution Exhibit 114 reflected his own views.<sup>7827</sup> It was his impression that Prosecution Exhibit 114 originated from Nsabimana had given the two an interview in which he spoke English, thereby explaining the apparently broken English in the transcript.<sup>7828</sup> Based upon Nsabimana's acknowledgement that these documents were authentic, the Chamber will evaluate their weight and probative value in light of the other evidence, considering in due course the opinion of Expert Witness Des Forges and Nsabimana's assertions regarding these documents.

3.6.20.3 Deliberations – Nsabimana

3.6.20.3.1 Refugee Situation at the BPO

2801. Nsabimana testified that he did not make a decision to separate the Hutu and Tutsi refugees from one another. Rather, he said the decision to create separate camps for Hutu and Tutsi refugees was made in 1993 by the UNHCR and préfecture and local authorities.<sup>7829</sup> The Chamber considers this to be a reasonable explanation. Furthermore, the fact that Nsabimana did not order the refugees divided by ethnicity was supported by the testimony of Witnesses RE and TK.<sup>7830</sup> Therefore, the Chamber does not find that Nsabimana intentionally divided the refugees into groups based on their ethnicity. Nonetheless, Nsabimana admitted that he knew that the refugees at the BPO were Tutsis.<sup>7831</sup>

3.6.20.3.2 Nsabimana's Knowledge of Attacks at the BPO

2803. It was not disputed that Nsabimana was working at the BPO from the time that he was sworn in as préfet until around 17 June 1994, when Nteziryayo took over as préfet of Butare. Nsabimana argues that he did not know that attacks were occurring at the BPO during this time period.<sup>7834</sup> The Prosecution alleges that refugees came to Nsabimana with requests for assistance and he refused to provide protection. The testimony of Witnesses TK, SU, SS, QBP and RE appear to relate to several different incidents of this nature. In addition, Nsabimana provided testimony as to his knowledge of similar incidents.

2804. First, the Chamber recalls the testimony of Witness TK regarding the abduction of a refugee named Alphonse. The Chamber has held that the Nsabimana Defence did not have notice that the abduction of this alleged victim would form part of the Prosecution case against Nsabimana. However, the Chamber considers this evidence relevant to the issue of whether Nsabimana was aware that attacks of Tutsis were occurring at the BPO at night and will consider it for this limited purpose.<sup>7835</sup> Witness TK testified that around the end of May or beginning of June, a young refugee man named Alphonse ran towards the BPO to the office of Nsabimana.<sup>7836</sup> Witness TK knew the young man as she had arrived at the BPO with him.<sup>7837</sup> He entered the office but was forced out a few moments later.<sup>7838</sup> Outside the préfet's office, a man approached Alphonse with a club and Alphonse attempted to run away.<sup>7839</sup> He was caught by three young men and taken away by Interahamwe in the direction of the market, with his hands tied behind his back.<sup>7840</sup> Witness TK stated that Alphonse never came back and she concluded that he had been killed.<sup>7841</sup> The Nsabimana Defence cross-examined Witness TK as to a prior statement in which she asserted that Alphonse asked for the help of the military préfet. She explained that the prior statement was incorrect and, in her testimony, she never wavered that Nsabimana was the préfet at the time of this incident.<sup>7842</sup> She described the préfet who was present as a man with a small tummy, not too tall and with a scar on his face; his name was Sylvain and he was replaced by another préfet later on.<sup>7843</sup> Witness TK knew Alphonse personally and provided significant details about the incident, including the fact that Alphonse ran around a flag pole prior to arriving at the préfet's office, he called out for help and he was pushed out of the préfet's office. She was unable to say whether the préfet pushed out Alphonse or whether soldiers did so.<sup>7844</sup> Based on these factors, the Chamber finds Witness TK to be credible as to this event and finds that a man named Alphonse ran to Nsabimana's office to ask him for help while Nsabimana was in his office around the end of May or beginning of June 1994.

2805. Witness RE testified in significant detail about a young man and woman who went to Nsabimana's office looking for help. She said she saw the two leaving the préfet's office and watched as the young man was dragged away by soldiers. The young woman who accompanied the young man told the other refugees, including Witness RE, that she and the young man had just seen the préfet, who was Nsabimana at the time, and that the young man was now being dragged away.<sup>7845</sup> Based on the detail and consistency of her testimony, the Chamber finds Witness RE's testimony credible on this point and establishes that a young man and young woman went to Nsabimana's office looking for help in early June 1994.

2806. Witnesses SU and SS both testified that in a separate incident after attacks occurred at the BPO, three women went to see Nsabimana on behalf of the other refugees.<sup>7846</sup> Although neither was present at the meeting, they were told that Nsabimana denied knowledge of the attacks and said he would post gendarmes to protect them.<sup>7847</sup>

2807. The Chamber notes that Nsabimana admitted in his testimony that a woman came to his office seeking assistance around 15 June 1994.<sup>7848</sup> However, Nsabimana testified that he responded to the refugees' requests for assistance by posting soldiers at the BPO around 5 June 1994.<sup>7849</sup> This calls into question Nsabimana's credibility as to when he knew about the night-time attacks at the BPO because he could not have responded to their requests before he received them. In addition, Nsabimana admitted in Prosecution Exhibit 113 that there were isolated cases of disappearances at night which he attributed to unknown soldiers and hooligans.<sup>7850</sup> Further, in Prosecution Exhibit 114, Nsabimana stated that he made a list of people living at the BPO so that he could check if there had been problems the night before.<sup>7851</sup> More importantly, Nsabimana admitted during his testimony that he was not at peace with himself when he went home from the BPO during this period because he feared that he may not find the refugees when he returned in the morning.<sup>7852</sup> Based on all of the above, the Chamber is convinced that Nsabimana was aware of the night-time attacks at the BPO and he was presented with multiple requests for assistance from Tutsi refugees starting, at least, around the end of May 1994.<sup>7853</sup> Based upon Nsabimana's own admissions and the open and notorious nature of the attacks, the Chamber is convinced that Nsabimana was actually aware of the attacks even earlier.

3.6.20.3.3 Posting of Gendarmes or Soldiers

2808. Nsabimana testified that he posted five or six soldiers at the BPO around 5 June 1994.<sup>7854</sup> In his interview, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 114, Nsabimana stated that Interahamwe came to the BPO and wanted to kill the refugees and that he was given 12 soldiers by a certain colonel to protect them.<sup>7855</sup> He also stated in Prosecution Exhibit 113 that he provided gendarmes to protect the refugees.<sup>7856</sup> In testimony, Nsabimana stated that he asked Colonels Munyengango and Mugemanyi to second soldiers to the BPO to protect the refugees.<sup>7857</sup> This is consistent with Nsabimana's statement to Keane around 15 June 1994 that he had posted soldiers at the BPO to protect the refugees.<sup>7858</sup> Moreover, Witness SU corroborated Nsabimana's account, in part, testifying that persons in uniform came to guard the refugees.<sup>7859</sup> However, she estimated that Nsabimana only posted guards at the BPO towards the end of June 1994. Although Witness SU said that Nsabimana only posted guards towards the end of June 1994, she stated that the dates she provided were only estimates.<sup>7860</sup>

2809. According to Witness SU, Nsabimana told the refugees that he was not aware of the attacks at the BPO and that he would provide gendarmes to protect them or, alternatively, he would come and spend the night with the refugees himself.<sup>7861</sup> She said that Nsabimana called the gendarmes who came to guard the refugees towards the end of June.<sup>7862</sup> At first, the gendarmes told them: "If anyone wants to get up, two or three people should accompany that person. And if someone is being raped, you must shout." From that point on, no one was abducted or raped.<sup>7863</sup> It was only later however that the gendarmes realised they were guarding Tutsis, and they later told the refugees that if the RPF came, the gendarmes would kill all of the refugees before they could be rescued.<sup>7864</sup>

2810. In contrast, Witnesses SS and QBP asserted that Nsabimana refused to help the refugees. Witness SS claimed that Nsabimana did nothing for those who asked for help and said the attacks continued after this incident and their security concerns were not solved.<sup>7865</sup> Witness QBP testified that a woman was attacked and wounded on her ear by an Interahamwe. The woman went to complain to Nsabimana, but he did nothing for her.<sup>7866</sup> Furthermore, Des Forges also testified that Nsabimana told her there were no guards to take care of the refugees at night.<sup>7867</sup>

2811. The Chamber considers that Witness SU had no motive to lie about the presence of gendarmes being posted by Nsabimana. Her description of the gendarmes as initially protecting the refugees but later making threatening comments was believable. Likewise, Witness SS corroborated aspects of Witness SU's testimony in stating that a group of soldiers chased away a vehicle that came to the BPO to abduct people. She said the soldiers told the refugees they should alert them whenever these people came so that the soldiers could react.<sup>7868</sup>

2812. Considering all of the above, the Chamber is convinced that Nsabimana eventually posted gendarmes or soldiers at the BPO sometime between 5 June and 15 June 1994.

However, the Chamber is also convinced that there was a significant time period during which Nsabimana knew about the attacks and did not act to protect the refugees.

2813. There was a discrepancy as to whether the persons assigned to the BPO were soldiers or gendarmes. Witness SU referred to the guards as gendarmes but she did not testify as to how she distinguished between soldiers and gendarmes. Nsabimana stated they were soldiers seconded to the BPO. Regardless of whether there were soldiers or gendarmes, there was no dispute that they had been requisitioned by Nsabimana.

2814. Finally, Witness WMKL testified that the refugees at the BPO felt secure and did not fear for their lives.<sup>7869</sup> While it is plausible that the refugees came to the BPO to seek protection, the Prosecution evidence and Nsabimana's admissions clearly showed that the refugees were not in fact safe and were aware of their precarious situation.

2815. As to the purpose of the soldiers' assignment, Witness SU stated that the gendarmes were not made aware that they were to protect the refugees and that they made threats that they would kill all of the refugees before they were rescued.<sup>7870</sup> Nonetheless, Witness SU did not testify that the gendarmes attempted to harm the refugees in any way. Therefore, the evidence does not support an inference that Nsabimana requisitioned the soldiers and/or gendarmes to harm the refugees insofar as it relates to Paragraph 6.36 of the Indictment.

3.6.21 Meetings at the Butare Préfecture Office, April – June 1994

3.6.21.1 Introduction

2816. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment,<sup>7871</sup> the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment<sup>7872</sup> and the Kanyabashi Indictment<sup>7873</sup> allege that from late 1990 to July 1994, authorities including Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana, Nteziryayo and Kanyabashi, “conspired among themselves and with others to work out a plan with the intent to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and eliminate members of the opposition, so that they could remain in power.” In executing this plan the Accused organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>7874</sup> It is also alleged that Nsabimana, Nteziryayo and Kanyabashi, among others, aided and abetted in the massacres of Tutsis.<sup>7875</sup>

<sup>7875</sup> Para. 6.32 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment (in support of all counts against Nsabimana); Paras. 6.53 and 6.59 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment (in support of all counts against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo); Paras. 6.58 and 6.64 of the Kanyabashi Indictment (in support of all counts).

2817. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment further alleges that the BPO was “the site of numerous meetings between the authorities of the préfecture.”<sup>7876</sup> The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that there were meetings between the main authorities of the préfecture and their subordinates at the BPO.<sup>7877</sup>

2818. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana, Nteziryayo and Kanyabashi are all responsible pursuant to Article 6 (1) by means of their direct participation in these meetings.<sup>7878</sup> Nsabimana is also responsible pursuant to Article 6 (3) for instructing bourgmestres, who were his subordinates, to kill Tutsi civilians and for distributing weapons to those bourgmestres.<sup>7879</sup> Nteziryayo is responsible pursuant to Article 6 (3) for instructing Interahamwe, who were his subordinates, to kill Tutsi civilians.<sup>7880</sup>

2819. The Prosecution asserts that numerous witnesses testified to seeing Nyiramasuhuko attend meetings at the BPO but that specific dates were not always given.<sup>7881</sup> Nonetheless, it submits that Nyiramasuhuko met with local authorities such as Nsabimana, Kanyabashi and various others, including President Sindikubwabo, to plan the killing of Tutsis.<sup>7882</sup> The Prosecution further submits that it was obvious that Nyiramasuhuko and other authorities, including Nsabimana and Kanyabashi were discussing the massacres because killings followed the meetings.<sup>7883</sup> As part of its case against Nsabimana in respect of the charge of conspiracy to commit genocide, the Prosecution submits that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings with local authorities in Butare préfecture during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis.<sup>7884</sup> During one of these meetings at which Nsabimana was present, Nyiramasuhuko exited the room and stated that refugees ought to be killed and exterminated.<sup>7885</sup>

2820. Specifically, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that Nyiramasuhuko called one meeting in April 1994, which Nsabimana attended and at which the progress and the means to complete the massacres were discussed.<sup>7886</sup>

2821. As to a second meeting, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that around 10 June 1994, Nsabimana met with Interim President Sindikubwabo and Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO at which time

Nyiramasuhuko asked why Tutsis at the BPO had not been killed.<sup>7887</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment further alleges that at another meeting at around the same time, Kanyabashi and Minister André Rwamakuba told Nsabimana that Tutsi refugees at the BPO must be exterminated and that Nsabimana never dissociated himself from these calls to kill Tutsis.<sup>7888</sup> Likewise, the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that in June 1994, Kanyabashi told Nsabimana that the Tutsi refugees at the BPO must be exterminated.<sup>7889</sup>

2822. In support of these allegations, the Prosecution relies on the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses SU, SS, SJ, QBQ, RE and evidence elicited from Nyiramasuhuko.

2823. The Prosecution refers to a fourth meeting at the BPO, allegedly held around the beginning of June 1994 and presided over by Nsabimana, and attended by bourgmestres, sous-préfets and military officials, including Nteziryayo, Muvunyi and Kanyabashi.<sup>7890</sup> Nsabimana allegedly declared the purpose of this meeting was to assess implementation in the communes of the government's programme of killing Tutsis, who had been determined to be RPF accomplices.<sup>7891</sup> At this meeting Kanyabashi urged the population and young men who had undergone military training to flush out those hidden in the forest near Ngoma and appealed for the training of youth to be extended to more communes.<sup>7892</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana actively assisted in the training of youth by supplying petrol.<sup>7893</sup> Further, at the end of the meeting Nsabimana asked bourgmestres to look for youths to be sent for training and asked Colonels Muvunyi and Nteziryayo to assist two bourgmestres who allegedly requested assistance with killing Tutsis who were coming through their communes en route to Burundi.<sup>7894</sup> In turn, Nteziryayo ordered Ibisumizi to assist the Kibayi Hutus in killing Tutsis.<sup>7895</sup> In this regard, The Nteziryayo Indictment also alleges that in May and June 1994 Nteziryayo ordered the Interahamwe to search for Tutsis and kill them.<sup>7896</sup> In support of this allegation, the Prosecution relies on the evidence of Prosecution Witness FAI. In this regard, the Prosecution further submits that Kanyabashi's role in the genocide conspiracy was, inter alia, to attend meetings and, using his authority as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune, to instruct the population to join in the killing of Tutsis.<sup>7897</sup> Kanyabashi was heavily involved in planning the killings and meeting with his administrative subordinates and others to provoke them into action.<sup>7898</sup>

2824. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence asserts that any meetings she participated in at the BPO did not involve a conspiracy to commit genocide, but instead, were convened to discuss strategy to prevent the advancement of RPF troops.<sup>7899</sup> It further argues she could not have been at the BPO every day, as suggested by Witness SU, because she was in Cabinet meetings with the Interim Government in Kigali, Gitarama, Gisenyi and Ruhengeri.<sup>7900</sup>

2825. The Nsabimana Defence submits that while Nsabimana held meetings with his bourgmestres in his office at the BPO, those meetings were not devoted to discussing the progress of massacres in the préfecture.<sup>7901</sup> The Nsabimana Defence asserts that there was no evidence adduced as to the statements of Bourgmestre Kanyabashi to Nsabimana at a meeting around 10 June 1994, that Tutsi refugees were to be exterminated, and that Nsabimana was not present at the other meeting with Interim President Sindikubwabo and Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>7902</sup> It asserts Nsabimana met with Kanyabashi in an effort to put an end to the ongoing events.<sup>7903</sup> It further submits there was no eyewitness testimony of the meetings between Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Interim President Sindikubwabo and, even if there were, it is impermissible to infer the content of that meeting from witnesses who merely testified as to the participants.<sup>7904</sup> In relation to the fourth alleged meeting held at the beginning of June 1994, the Nsabimana Defence denies that Nsabimana provided petrol to the bourgmestres in order to assist in the training of youth militia and submits that Witness FAI's testimony is not credible.<sup>7905</sup> In support of these submissions, the Nsabimana Defence relies on Nsabimana's testimony.

2826. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts there was a doubt as to Kanyabashi's presence in the proximity of the BPO around 10 June and as to whether he heard the comments allegedly made by Nyiramasuhuko as to the need to exterminate the Tutsis.<sup>7906</sup> Apart from preliminary issues relating to notice, discussed below, the Kanyabashi Defence also submits that Witness FAI did not attend the fourth alleged meeting, held at the beginning of June, and that Witness FAI's testimony is not credible.<sup>7907</sup>

2827. Apart from preliminary issues relating to notice and the exclusion of evidence, discussed below, the Nteziryayo Defence also submits that Witness FAI's testimony in relation to the fourth alleged meeting, held at the beginning of June 1994, is not credible.<sup>7908</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Indictment

Paragraph 6.32 – “Numerous Meetings”

2828. The Chamber notes that the first sentence of Paragraph 6.32 alleges the BPO was the site of numerous meetings between the authorities of the préfecture. It is the Chamber's view that this sentence lacks sufficient specificity to put Nyiramasuhuko on notice of any particular allegation, as it does not state the content or a time frame for the alleged “numerous meetings”, except for one meeting referred to in the second sentence of this paragraph, allegedly called by Nyiramasuhuko in April 1994. The Chamber thus finds the Indictment is defective in relation to the general allegation concerning “numerous meetings” set forth in the first sentence of Paragraph 6.32.

2829. The Chamber must then determine whether the Nyiramasuhuko Indictment was cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists two witnesses who were expected to testify that there were numerous meetings between the authorities of the préfecture.<sup>7909</sup>

2830. Witnesses SS and SU were expected to testify that there were meetings attended by authorities. The summary of Witness SS’ anticipated testimony stated that at the BPO, there were many meetings chaired by the préfet and attended by the conseillers and bourgmestres.<sup>7910</sup> The prior statement of Witness SS, dated 20 November 1996, and disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998,<sup>7911</sup> confirmed this information. Although the location of these meetings is clearly spelled out, no time frame is offered in this regard.

2831. The summary of Witness SU’s anticipated testimony stated that there was a meeting in Butare, attended by Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi and others.<sup>7912</sup> The prior statement of Witness SU, dated 20 November 1996, and disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998,<sup>7913</sup> stated that leaders held meetings on Mondays and Fridays at the BPO which were attended by important people, including Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi, Ruremesha, Munyengango, Sibomana, Rekeraho, Muganga, Banyangiriki and Rusanganwa. The witness described another occasion when there was a meeting, after which Nyiramasuhuko found a piece of cloth and said it belonged to the RPF. Again, although a location was specified in Witness SU’s statement, no date is included.

2832. The Chamber therefore considers that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not receive proper notice of the Prosecution’s intention to lead evidence that Nyiramasuhuko took part in “numerous meetings” at the BPO, and finds that the defects in the first sentence of Paragraph 6.32 of the Nyiramasuhuko Indictment were not cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Accordingly, the Chamber will not consider such a general charge against Nyiramasuhuko.

Paragraph 6.32 – Meeting in April 1994

2833. The Ntahobali Defence argues, in relation to the case against Nyiramasuhuko, that the Prosecution transformed the charge set forth in the second sentence of Paragraph 6.32 by stating in its Pre-Trial Brief that Nyiramasuhuko publicly and directly called for the elimination of the remaining survivors in Butare préfecture. It argues the witness statements disclosed to the Defence did not specify that Nyiramasuhuko convened a meeting at the BPO in which Nsabimana participated, the content of said meeting in April 1994, or whether the progress of the massacres or the means by which to complete them was discussed.<sup>7914</sup>

2834. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.32 alleges that Nyiramasuhuko called a meeting at the BPO in April 1994, attended by Nsabimana, at which the progress of the massacres was discussed, and that Paragraph 6.33 alleges that Nyiramasuhuko met with Nsabimana and Sindikubwabo at the BPO and that Nyiramasuhuko asked why the Tutsi refugees had not been killed. Nyiramasuhuko's participation at BPO meetings during which the massacres were discussed is therefore clearly addressed in the Indictment. The Prosecution's case that Nyiramasuhuko publicly and directly called for the elimination of the remaining survivors is consistent with the allegations in the mentioned paragraphs of the Indictment.

2835. Furthermore, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence had adequate notice that Nyiramasuhuko was being charged with direct and public incitement from the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. In this regard, the Chamber notes the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief states: "SJ saw Nyiramasuhuko holding meetings with Nsabimana at the préfecture office. Upon leaving the meeting, SJ heard Nyiramasuhuko saying, 'this place is dirty', meaning that she did not want that the Tutsi refugees stay at the préfectures Office."<sup>7915</sup> The Chamber further notes the prior statements of Witnesses SU, SS and SJ. In her statement of 20 November 1996, Witness SU stated that Nyiramasuhuko said at the BPO "the dirt is only here at the pr[é]fecture", and that elsewhere people have finished the job.<sup>7916</sup> Likewise, Witness SS' statement of 20 November 1996 provided that after a meeting at the BPO, Nyiramasuhuko exited and said, "I do not understand what these dirty people are doing here at the Pr[é]fecture, the dirt has been cleaned elsewhere."<sup>7917</sup> Finally, Witness SJ's statement of 3 December 1996 provided that the witness saw Nyiramasuhuko leaving a meeting at the BPO and heard her say, "[t]his place is dirty," which to her meant that "Pauline didn't want all the refugee people to stay on the Pr[é]fecture's place."<sup>7918</sup> These statements were disclosed on 4 November 1998, well in advance of these witnesses' testimony at trial on 14 October 2002, 3 March 2003 and 28 May 2002, respectively.

2836. Therefore, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief did not transform the Indictment in alleging that Nyiramasuhuko publicly and directly called for the elimination of the remaining survivors in Butare préfecture. Consequently, Nyiramasuhuko was in a position to understand the nature of the charges against her and there was no prejudice in the preparation of her defence case.

Paragraphs 5.1, 6.57, 6.61 and 6.62

2837. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraphs 5.1 and 6.57 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment are vague insofar as they fail to identify any dates or locations where Nsabimana may have taken part in elaborating a plan to exterminate Tutsis.<sup>7919</sup>

2838. The Chamber notes that the meetings in question were not specifically pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment or the Kanyabashi Indictment, and as such, the Chamber finds that Paragraph 5.1 of each Indictment is defective. Further, the Chamber also finds the related conspiracy paragraphs, namely Paragraphs 6.57 and 6.61 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and Paragraph 6.62 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, defective by reason of their failure to identify any meetings held in furtherance of the conspiracy alleged. The Chamber will consider these defects together with the specific allegations concerning meetings, as pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment.

Paragraph 6.28 – Distribution of Fuel

2839. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana Indictment, which alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres, is impermissibly vague; this paragraph fails to specify the dates or locations of Nsabimana's alleged meetings with bourgmestres.<sup>7920</sup> The Nsabimana Defence further submits that the Prosecution did not mention the distribution of fuel in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment.<sup>7921</sup>

2840. The Chamber notes that while Paragraph 6.28 alleges Nsabimana participated in meetings, plural, a plain reading of Paragraph 6.28 suggests that the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was only discussed at a single meeting which was convened by Nyiramasuhuko. Accordingly, Paragraph 6.28 fails to specify the purpose of the other meetings that Nsabimana allegedly participated in with his bourgmestres. Given that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana Indictment fails to state how many meetings Nsabimana had with his bourgmestres, and the precise date, location and content of those meetings, the Chamber considers Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana Indictment to be defective.

2841. The Chamber also observes that the allegation that Nsabimana distributed fuel is not pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment as one of the means by which Nsabimana allegedly participated in the massacres of Tutsis as pled in Paragraphs 5.1, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59.

2842. Accordingly, the Chamber must determine if the defects in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were cured by the subsequent disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information detailing the factual basis underpinning the charge.

June 1994, and Nsabimana's alleged words and actions at the meeting, including his words in relation to the distribution of fuel.<sup>7922</sup>

FAI witnessed the killing of several Tutsi at Nyamure health center in Ntyazo. In June 1994, FAI attended a meeting in Butare at which all the bourgmestres reported on how many Tutsis had been exterminated in their communes. The bourgmestres of Kibayi and Kigembe, where the Tutsis had not been eliminated completely, asked for military reinforcements, which was [sic] provided later. In a meeting on 22 May 1994, Nteziryayo and Nsabimana urged people of Ntyazo to search for and kill all surviving Tutsi. They asked young Hutus to register and join the army en masse. Nsabimana urged the bourgmestre to sensitize the youth to join the army, at the same time ordering Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to provide the reinforcement requested by the bourgmestres. Nsabimana promised to give forty litres of fuel to each bourgmestre every week. In June 1994, Nteziryayo sent soldiers to kill fifty Tutsi women who had assembled in a room behind the Butare prefecture office.<sup>7923</sup>

2846. The Chamber also considers Witness FAI's previous statements. Witness FAI's first statement of 24 February 2000, disclosed on 15 November 2000, refers to a meeting chaired by Nsabimana in June 1994, in Butare, and attended by all the bourgmestres, Muvunyi, Nteziryayo, and close allies of Nsabimana, including the Sous-préfet Évariste and Rutayisire. It further states that Nsabimana ordered Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to provide the reinforcements requested by the bourgmestres of Kibayi and Kigembe communes, urged bourgmestres to sensitise the youth to join the army and promised to give 40 litres of fuel to each bourgmestre every week.<sup>7924</sup> However, the statement remains vague with respect to the time and place of the meeting.

2847. The Chamber considers that a combined reading of Witness FAI's previous statements and the summary of his anticipated testimony included in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief alleges that Nsabimana chaired a meeting, during which he ordered Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to provide the reinforcement requested by the bourgmestres, urged bourgmestres to sensitise the youth to join the army and promised to give 40 litres of fuel to each bourgmestre every week. However, the Chamber observes that there is confusion in relation to the time and place of the alleged meeting. In the summary of Witness FAI's evidence, Nsabimana's actions with respect to ordering reinforcements are mentioned in relation to the 22 May 1994 meeting, in Ntyazo, whereas Witness FAI's statement places Nsabimana's alleged actions at an early June meeting, in Butare.

2848. Accordingly, the Chamber considers the Nsabimana Defence was not provided with timely, clear and consistent details as to the alleged meeting, or to Nsabimana's role and actions in it. The Chamber therefore finds the defect in Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment was not cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures in respect of this allegation vis-à-vis Nsabimana. Accordingly, the Chamber will not proceed to make findings on this allegation against Nsabimana. In any event, the Chamber notes that this allegation has not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

2849. In relation to the alleged meeting between Nsabimana, the Interim President Sindikubwabo and Nyiramasuhuko around 10 June, during which Nyiramasuhuko asked Nsabimana why Tutsis at the BPO had not yet been killed, the Nsabimana Defence argues Paragraph 6.37 failed to allege the criminal act committed by Nsabimana following such a conversation that would support a charge of conspiracy.<sup>7925</sup>

2851. The Nsabimana Defence further argues that the Indictment failed to plead several material facts, including the time, location and identity of the persons to whom Nyiramasuhuko's declarations at the BPO were targeted, and the consequences of such declarations.<sup>7927</sup> The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.37 states that around 10 June 1994 at the BPO, Nyiramasuhuko asked Nsabimana what the Tutsi refugees were doing at the BPO. Therefore, each of these material facts were set forth and the Indictment is not defective in that respect.

Evidence Used by an Accused Against Another Accused

2852. Finally, the Nsabimana Defence argues the only evidence against Nsabimana as to the meeting around 10 June was led by the Nyiramasuhuko Defence on cross-examination of Prosecution Witness RE. It therefore submits that relying on such evidence would violate the principle of equality of accused persons stipulated in Rule 82 (A) of the Rules, by permitting one accused to lead evidence against another. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence should not have been allowed to cross-examine on this issue because it was not a subject matter of the examination-in-chief or a matter affecting the credibility of the witness, in contravention of Rule 90 (G) of the Rules.<sup>7928</sup>

2853. In this regard, the Chamber notes that the Prosecution led evidence from Witness RE regarding a meeting the witness observed between Nyiramasuhuko and Sindikubwabo.<sup>7929</sup> Although the witness did not mention Nsabimana in the examination-in-chief, Rule 90 (G) permits the Nyiramasuhuko Defence to bring out apparent inconsistencies in Witness RE's testimony and prior witness statements. Here, Witness RE's prior statement mentioned Nsabimana, but the witness failed to mention Nsabimana in her testimony.<sup>7930</sup> This apparent inconsistency was raised by the Nyiramasuhuko Defence in cross-examination, as it may have affected Witness RE's credibility. Therefore, the Chamber finds that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence properly raised this issue. The Chamber will consider the weight to be accorded to this evidence in the Deliberations section, below.

2855. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.30 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that in May and June 1994 Nteziryayo ordered the Interahamwe to search for Tutsis and kill them.<sup>7932</sup> Insofar as Paragraph 6.30 of the Indictment fails to identify: (1) Nteziryayo's alleged subordinates, the Ibisumizi; and (2) any location where such orders occurred, or that Nteziryayo allegedly sent trained youths to Kibayi to kill Tutsis, the Chamber finds the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is defective vis-à-vis Nteziryayo. The Chamber recalls that the Prosecution relies solely on Witness FAI with respect to the alleged words and actions of Nteziryayo during and after the meeting chaired by Nsabimana at the BPO in early June 1994.<sup>7933</sup>

2856. In so far as Nteziryayo is concerned, Witness FAI's statement made clear that Nteziryayo was allegedly present at the meeting about which Witness FAI would testify.<sup>7934</sup> While Witness FAI's statement also stated that Nsabimana ordered Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to provide the bourgmestres with military reinforcement, there is nothing in Witness FAI's statement that refers to either Ibisumizi or Nteziryayo's actions after receiving Nsabimana's orders.

2857. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers the Nteziryayo Defence was not provided with adequate notice of any allegation against Nteziryayo concerning his role in training Ibisumizi or ordering them to go to Kibayi to kill Tutsis. For this reason, the Chamber will not make any finding against Nteziryayo with respect to this allegation. In any event, the Chamber notes that the evidence brought by the Prosecution is not sufficient to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo trained Ibisumizi or ordered them to go to Kibayi to kill Tutsis after the BPO meeting in early June 1994.

Request for Exclusion of Witness FAI's Evidence

2858. The Nteziryayo Defence further submits that at the time of the filing of its Closing Brief, its motion requesting the exclusion of portions of evidence of several Prosecution witnesses, including that of Witness FAI relating to the sending of Ibisumizi to Kibayi, filed on 23 January 2009, was still pending.<sup>7935</sup> The Chamber observes that in its Decision of 25 February 2009 it denied that motion in its entirety. The Chamber chose to decide such issues in its final deliberations since it considered it inappropriate to deal with the motion during trial.<sup>7936</sup>

2859. Having regard to the Chamber's previous finding that the Nteziryayo Defence did not receive adequate notice of this allegation such that the relevant Indictment paragraphs were not cured, the Chamber will not consider the evidence led concerning Nteziryayo's alleged actions at or after the BPO meeting in early June 1994 against Indictment Paragraph 6.30 (against Nteziryayo only) relating to ordering Interahamwe to kill Tutsis.

2860. The Chamber nevertheless considers that evidence of acts that took place at this ceremony may be relevant to the proof of any other allegation pled in the Indictment<sup>7937</sup> and for this reason declines the Nteziryayo Defence's request to exclude the evidence led concerning Nteziryayo's alleged training of Ibisumizi or sending of Ibisumizi to Kibayi at Nsabimana's request, pursuant to the early June 1994 meeting.

Kanyabashi Indictment

Paragraph 6.43

2861. The Kanyabashi Defence argues Paragraph 6.43 cannot warrant a conviction because it does not state the elements of a criminal act and identifiable criminal conduct of Kanyabashi.<sup>7938</sup> Paragraph 6.43 relates to meetings that took place at the BPO between some of the préfecture's main authorities on unspecified dates, and one meeting that took place between Kanyabashi and Nsabimana in June 1994 at which Kanyabashi allegedly told the préfet that the Tutsi refugees at the préfecture had to be exterminated. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 16 December 2004 regarding the Defence motions for acquittal, in which it noted that no evidence was adduced by the Prosecution in support of the allegation that Kanyabashi told the préfet that Tutsi refugees at the BPO had to be exterminated. Nonetheless, the Chamber did not acquit Kanyabashi under Paragraph 6.43 because there was evidence that Kanyabashi attended meetings at the préfecture office.<sup>7939</sup> The Chamber considers that the portion of Paragraph 6.43 that was not dismissed in its Decision of 16 December 2004 merely alleges that Kanyabashi attended meetings at the BPO, yet fails to allege that the meetings were for the purpose of perpetrating crimes or that Kanyabashi made statements illustrating his intent to commit crimes.

2863. In spite of the foregoing, the Chamber considers the reference to the time period of the said meeting alleged in Paragraph 6.43 of the Indictment, namely the entire month of June 1994, is vague. In the circumstances, the Chamber finds the Indictment defective in this regard.

2864. Accordingly, the Chamber must then determine whether the Kanyabashi Indictment was cured of its defect through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. The Chamber recalls that the Prosecution relies solely on Witness FAI with respect to the alleged content of the meeting at the BPO and the alleged words and actions of Kanyabashi.<sup>7940</sup>

2865. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Prosecution Witness FAI was not expected to testify against Kanyabashi in so far as the summary of Witness FAI's testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief does not mention Kanyabashi and none of Witness FAI's prior witness statements indicate that Kanyabashi had an active role in this meeting. Furthermore, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that it only learned of the allegation concerning Kanyabashi's alleged words at this meeting by the will-say disclosed to them on 24 October 2002.<sup>7941</sup>

2866. While the Chamber accepts that Witness FAI's intention to testify against Kanyabashi is not mentioned in the summary of his anticipated evidence as outlined in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, it notes that the Kanyabashi Defence was first informed of this through Witness

FAI's third statement of 28 January 2001, disclosed to the Defence on 5 June 2002. The Chamber observes that this statement indicates that in May and June 1994, Witness FAI participated in several meetings with military and civilian authorities to plan the genocide and stated that Kanyabashi had fully participated in the genocide and extermination of Tutsis along with other officers, including Muvunyi and Hategekimana.<sup>7942</sup>

2867. On 12 June 2002 the Kanyabashi Defence filed a motion seeking the exclusion of Witness FAI's evidence, claiming Witness FAI's third statement was the first time Witness FAI had implicated Kanyabashi in meetings in furtherance of the genocide.<sup>7943</sup> In its subsequent Decision of 6 July 2002, the Chamber ruled that the information regarding Kanyabashi was additional information discovered during the course of further investigations by the Prosecution. The Chamber observed that while the Prosecution had made late disclosure of Witness FAI's 28 January 2001 statement, it considered that the Kanyabashi Defence had three months to prepare for cross-examination of Witness FAI, which was adequate notice for Kanyabashi to prepare a defence, such that he therefore suffered no prejudice from the late disclosure of Witness FAI's third statement.<sup>7944</sup>

2868. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Chamber considers the information contained in Witness FAI's statement is too vague and does not add any detail in relation to the meeting alleged at Paragraph 6.43 of the Indictment, or in relation to any other meeting. Therefore, the Chamber finds the defect in the Indictment was not cured and it will not consider this allegation in relation to Kanyabashi. In any event, the Chamber notes that the allegation in relation to the meeting at the beginning of June about which Witness FAI gave evidence has not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

Additional Testimony of Witnesses TA and TK

2869. The Chamber notes that Prosecution Witnesses TA and TK testified as to a meeting at the BPO after which Nyiramasuhuko referred to the Tutsi refugees as "dirt". However, the Prosecution did not provide notice to the Nyiramasuhuko or Nsabimana Defence that these witnesses would testify as to this meeting and these words attributed to Nyiramasuhuko. The witness summaries for Witnesses TA and TK in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and the prior statements of Witnesses TA and TK did not include any reference to these allegations.<sup>7945</sup> In any event, the Prosecution, in its Closing Brief, does not rely on Witnesses TA and TK to support this allegation. Therefore, the Chamber will not consider the evidence of Witnesses TA and TK in support of this allegation.

3.6.21.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness SU

2870. Witness SU, a Tutsi and the sister of Witness SS,<sup>7946</sup> testified that there were often meetings held on Mondays and Fridays at the BPO, to prepare the killings.<sup>7947</sup> The persons attending the meetings included Chief Warrant Officer Emmanuel Rekeraho, Nyiramasuhuko; Bourgmestre Kanyabashi and at least six others.<sup>7948</sup> She said there were bourgmestres from the communes of Butare préfecture, high-ranking conseillers and high-ranking officials of some companies, such as the director of prisons. On 17 or 18 May 1994, she went to see the conseiller of her secteur who told her he was on his way to a meeting at the BPO.<sup>7949</sup> In addition, there were often all sorts of cars outside of the BPO.<sup>7950</sup>

2871. Witness SU testified that two or three days after arriving at the BPO on 28 May 1994,<sup>7951</sup> she saw Nyiramasuhuko come out of the first of such meetings at around 11.00 a.m. Nyiramasuhuko was wearing a brown boubou (an African dress) and a necklace.<sup>7952</sup> Witness SU heard Nyiramasuhuko say to Nsabimana and Kanyabashi: “[I]t is here at the préfecture that the dirt is left. Who are these little people? Elsewhere in the communes we are finished.” They said that in Mbazi, Ndora and Huye communes the work had already been finished. Witness SU said the “dirt” referred to by Nyiramasuhuko was those who found refuge at the BPO.<sup>7953</sup> She understood that Nyiramasuhuko meant that the killings should be completed as had been done elsewhere.<sup>7954</sup> She estimated that the distance between herself and Nyiramasuhuko was about four metres.<sup>7955</sup>

back to hold an extra meeting.<sup>7959</sup> After the extended meeting, it was said that there were RPF accomplices among the refugees.<sup>7960</sup>

2873. The witness said she knew Nyiramasuhuko well before 1994 and walked past Nyiramasuhuko's home in Ndora commune often when she went to visit relatives.<sup>7961</sup> Witness SU identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>7962</sup> Witness SU did not know Nsabimana before 1994, but "got to know [Nsabimana] at the time of the misfortune that befell [her]."<sup>7963</sup> Witness SU identified him in court.<sup>7964</sup> Witness SU had known Kanyabashi from the 1970s. She also knew Kanyabashi's family, including his two sisters that attended primary school with the witness.<sup>7965</sup> Witness SU identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>7966</sup>

2874. Witness SU was asked during cross-examination whether she knew an association of victims of the events of 1994, named Ibuka. She testified that she heard people talk about this association. She was asked whether she knew an association of victims of the events of 1994, named Avega. She stated that people talked about Avega, but she did not know it. When asked whether she was a member of either association or a similar association, she testified that she was "between these two associations," but was not a member of either and not involved with them.<sup>7967</sup>

Prosecution Witness SS

2875. Witness SS, whose father was Tutsi and whose mother was Hutu,<sup>7968</sup> testified that she left Butare University Hospital on 27 May 1994 to go to the BPO.<sup>7969</sup> At the préfecture, she saw Nsabimana, the officer-in-charge of the place, Kanyabashi, Nyiramasuhuko and several other bourgmestres and authorities.<sup>7970</sup> She testified that these authorities came to attend meetings held at the préfecture every Monday and every Friday during her stay.<sup>7971</sup> Kanyabashi and Nyiramasuhuko attended all the meetings that took place at the BPO when Witness SS was present.<sup>7972</sup> She left the BPO for Rango shortly after Nteziryayo was installed as préfet, although she testified as to not knowing who he was.<sup>7973</sup> The meetings took place for the entire period of her stay at the BPO.<sup>7974</sup> She did not know how many meetings were held in total.<sup>7975</sup>

2876. Witness SS testified that Nsabimana was in charge of the préfecture and that she used to see him every day at the BPO.<sup>7976</sup> She also saw him speak to the refugees at the BPO.<sup>7977</sup>

2877. Witness SS testified that the first time she heard Nyiramasuhuko talk was a morning after a meeting Nyiramasuhuko came to attend.<sup>7978</sup> Nyiramasuhuko wore a boubou.<sup>7979</sup> Witness SS was about five and a half metres from Nyiramasuhuko, based on the distance between the witness stand and the west wall of the courtroom.<sup>7980</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stood in front of the préfet's door, near the steps and said, "I don't understand how this dirt is still here at the préfecture, whereas elsewhere the job is finished."<sup>7981</sup> Witness SS understood "dirt" to refer to Tutsis.<sup>7982</sup> Witness SS testified that each time Nyiramasuhuko got out of the meeting at the BPO and saw the refugees under the guava tree she said that "anywhere else there is no more dirt; the dirt is only here."<sup>7983</sup>

2878. On another occasion, Witness SS saw Nyiramasuhuko at what might have been noon, after a meeting Nyiramasuhuko attended at the BPO. Nyiramasuhuko picked up a piece of cloth and said: "I don't understand, it's these refugees here who threw this cloth. These refugees are the accomplices of the Inkotanyi." She was speaking in a loud voice to the authorities but as she was talking, she was facing the refugees. The authorities present included Nsabimana, Kanyabashi, the deputy bourgmestre of Runyinya commune, Zacharie Banyangeriki, Déo Hategekimana, Adjudant-Chef Emmanuel Rekeraho and many others.<sup>7984</sup> After Nyiramasuhuko spoke these words, the authorities went back inside for another meeting.<sup>7985</sup> Witness SS said that after this meeting, Nyiramasuhuko returned to the BPO at night and led attacks on the refugees.<sup>7986</sup>

Prosecution Witness SJ

2880. Witness SJ, a Tutsi, testified that she went to the BPO in April 1994, but could not recall the exact date.<sup>7994</sup> During her first two weeks at the BPO, she saw Bourgmestre Kanyabashi, Préfet Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko. She also saw a number of other persons of authority but did not know their names.<sup>7995</sup>

2881. One day during the witness' first two weeks at the BPO, Nyiramasuhuko arrived between 11.00 a.m. and noon.<sup>7996</sup> Nyiramasuhuko went to the office of Préfet Sylvain and stayed for about 15 minutes. Nyiramasuhuko was wearing a very lengthy skirt that was dark brown and a white shirt, with black shoes. As she walked down the stairs outside of Nsabimana's office, Nyiramasuhuko scratched her head and said in a loud and angry voice: "This place is dirty. This place stinks; there is dirt here and it must be taken away. I do not want to see it here." Witness SJ understood Nyiramasuhuko to be referring to the Tutsi refugees on the premises in the courtyard when talking about "dirt".<sup>7997</sup> Nsabimana then asked the Interahamwe and the soldiers to move the refugees from the front of the BPO, to the back of the BPO, compelling the refugees to remain in the rear of the BPO during daytime.<sup>7998</sup> Witness SJ testified that refugees at the BPO were beaten up.<sup>7999</sup>

2882. Nyiramasuhuko came back to the BPO on another occasion. Nyiramasuhuko asked Nsabimana to convene a meeting of the bourgmestres of Butare préfecture so to ask the bourgmestres to come and evacuate the refugees at the BPO back to their respective home communes.<sup>8000</sup> At that time, Witness SJ stood next to a window of the other hall that served as the office of the préfet and could follow what Nyiramasuhuko was saying.<sup>8001</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana were speaking in loud and clear voices, discussing their work, which allowed everyone in the immediate vicinity to hear their conversation.<sup>8002</sup> Nyiramasuhuko left the BPO with her driver and her bodyguard, Kazungu.<sup>8003</sup>

2883. Witness SJ testified that on the same day that Nyiramasuhuko requested the meeting, she witnessed a meeting of many of the bourgmestres of Butare préfecture.<sup>8004</sup> She later testified that, if her memory was correct, the meeting with the bourgmestres was on a different day than the day when Nyiramasuhuko requested the meeting.<sup>8005</sup> She saw the bourgmestre of

Mbazi commune, Sibomana, in addition to many other bourgmestres at the BPO who had come to attend the meeting.<sup>8006</sup> After the meeting, she saw Kanyabashi, Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko speaking to one another, but she could not hear what they were saying.<sup>8007</sup> One time, Nyiramasuhuko left in a white vehicle that belonged to the Red Cross.<sup>8008</sup> Witness SJ added that Nyiramasuhuko had several vehicles at her disposal.<sup>8009</sup>

2884. Witness SJ heard from others, that Nyiramasuhuko had said in the meeting that the bourgmestres should take the refugees from the BPO back to their home communes. This order was implemented and she testified that those who were evacuated were killed.<sup>8010</sup>

2885. Witness SJ testified that the meeting of bourgmestres took place at the Palais du MRND which is now known as the Salle Polyvalente; it was not held at the BPO.<sup>8011</sup> However, Witness SJ's prior statement provided: "She [Pauline] ordered a meeting with every [bourgmestre] at this Pr[é]fecture place. After this meeting I saw Pauline leaving this pr[é]fecture's place." Witness SJ testified that the translator must have made a mistake because the meeting was held at the Salle Polyvalente.<sup>8012</sup> She testified that there were a lot of bourgmestres at the BPO that day, who were to take part in the meeting.<sup>8013</sup>

2886. On another occasion, Witness SJ said that she saw Nyiramasuhuko arrive at the BPO at around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m., at the time when the workers had already reported for duty. Nyiramasuhuko went into the office of the préfet and then left in a blue car with her driver.<sup>8014</sup> She did not hear Nyiramasuhuko or Nsabimana say anything.<sup>8015</sup> Likewise, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana did not say anything to the refugees.<sup>8016</sup> That same night, a white pickup came to the BPO with Interahamwe to take refugees away from the BPO.<sup>8017</sup>

2887. Witness SJ said she knew Nsabimana from before the genocide.<sup>8018</sup> Although she never spoke to him before the events, Witness SJ testified to seeing Nsabimana a few times at a bar located in Mukabuga in Gihindamuyaga secteur in Mbazi commune.<sup>8019</sup> The witness knew Nyiramasuhuko before 1994,<sup>8020</sup> as Nyiramasuhuko used to live with her husband, Maurice Ntahobali, in the same secteur as Witness SJ.<sup>8021</sup> She identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>8022</sup>

2888. Witness QBQ, a Tutsi, testified that three days after her arrival at the BPO, towards the end of April 1994, she saw Nyiramasuhuko approaching in the morning on foot accompanied by Préfet Nsabimana.<sup>8023</sup> She was told by others that the woman was called Nyiramasuhuko and that the man was the préfet.<sup>8024</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was dressed with a cloth around her waist and another around her shoulders.<sup>8025</sup> She put her hands on her hips and said: “What are these snakes still doing here? It is necessary to clear this filth from this place.”<sup>8026</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and the préfet left the BPO right after Nyiramasuhuko spoke.<sup>8027</sup> Witness QBQ described the préfet as having a bulging forehead.<sup>8028</sup>

2889. Witness QBQ identified Nsabimana in court though she testified that she had not seen him since 1994. She described the préfet as a dark-coloured person, average height and had a sort of a bump on his forehead. She testified that she was not in a position to identify Nyiramasuhuko since the events took place a very long time ago. She had not seen her since 1994.<sup>8029</sup>

2890. Witness RE, a Tutsi, testified that after having been chased from the EER she went back to the BPO and saw Nyiramasuhuko come to the BPO with President Sindikubwabo.<sup>8030</sup> During the visit, Nyiramasuhuko said, “[i]s that dirt still here? In Butare they have not worked.” Then President Sindikubwabo said, “[n]o, these people will be killed during Habyarimana’s funeral.” Pauline Nyiramasuhuko also said the people should be killed and the young girls among them raped.<sup>8031</sup>

2891. Witness RE was confronted with her statement, dated 5 December 1996, in which she said that Nyiramasuhuko said: “What are these people doing here. Why don’t they kill them?” However, Witness RE did not mention in that prior statement that Nyiramasuhuko said, “[i]s that dirt still here?” or that Nyiramasuhuko said that people should be killed and young girls raped. Witness RE said that the statement was a summary and therefore did not include all of the details of her conversation with the investigator.<sup>8032</sup>

2892. Witness RE identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>8033</sup> She described Nsabimana as he was in 1994 as “large but short...quite rotund...wore glasses”.<sup>8034</sup> Throughout her testimony the witness referred to him as Préfet Sylvain. The witness identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>8035</sup>

2893. Nsabimana denied that he called Witness FAI back to Butare or that he and Colonel Muvunyi together saw Witness FAI at the BPO around 2 June 1994 and accused him of abandoning his post. Nsabimana also denied that he saw Witness FAI on the following Monday and informed him of a meeting to take place on that day.<sup>8036</sup> Nsabimana recalled however that he saw Witness FAI and the bourgmestre of Rusatira, Rukeribuga, at the BPO through his office window during the restricted Security Council meeting on 31 May 1994, which was taking place in his office.<sup>8037</sup> Witness FAI came from a commune that was under occupation at that time and, according to Nsabimana, Witness FAI was at the préfecture because he was a refugee who was passing through the town.<sup>8038</sup> Nsabimana asked Witness FAI and the Rusatira bourgmestre to come in to the meeting to inform the Security Council about the manner in which their home communes were handling the displacement of refugees.<sup>8039</sup> Nsabimana asked Witness FAI and the bourgmestre of Rusatira how people were advancing, they answered the questions put to them, and then the two men left the meeting.<sup>8040</sup>

2894. As for a meeting that may have taken place on the Monday following 2 June 1994, namely 6 June 1994, Nsabimana denied that he presided over a subsequent meeting in his office, claiming that three quarters of all the bourgmestres Witness FAI alleged were in attendance, would not fit in his office, and denied that Witness FAI participated in that meeting. The only occasion Nsabimana recalled seeing Witness FAI was with respect to the meeting that took place in Nsabimana's office and to which Witness FAI was not invited, although he temporarily attended to provide some information.<sup>8041</sup>

2895. Nsabimana refuted Witness FAI's allegation that this meeting included a review of the government's programme of killing Tutsis. Nsabimana testified that the issue of fuel was discussed during the 20 April 1994 meeting that he held with bourgmestres. On that day, Nsabimana decided that in view of the fuel shortage, each bourgmestre would be supplied with 40 litres of fuel per week for the official vehicle to facilitate movement and communication. Nsabimana indicated that it was his predecessor, Jean-Baptiste Habyalimana, who first raised this fuel issue during a meeting that took place a few days before.<sup>8042</sup>

2896. Nsabimana stated that he never heard Kanyabashi appeal to the population to flush out enemies from Ngoma nor did Nsabimana ever hear Kanyabashi appeal for youth to undergo military training. Nsabimana denied Witness FAI's testimony that the Kibaye and Kigembe bourgmestres requested assistance with killing Tutsis who were passing through their communes en route to Burundi, that Nsabimana subsequently asked Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to find a solution to this situation, and that Nteziryayo offered assistance.<sup>8043</sup>

Nteziryayo

2897. Nteziryayo testified that, contrary to Witness FAI's testimony, he did not attend a bourgmestre meeting in the BPO between 25 May and early June 1994 and Nsabimana did not request him to send reinforcements to Kibayi and Kigembe communes.<sup>8044</sup> Nteziryayo testified that during this period of time he was not an official of Butare préfecture and not under the orders of the préfet of Butare, Nsabimana.<sup>8045</sup> Nteziryayo denied knowing any organisation or group known as Ibisumizi, or having had any Ibisumizi at his disposal.<sup>8046</sup>

3.6.21.4 Deliberations

2898. As noted in the preliminary issues section to these allegations, the Chamber will not consider the general assertion that there were "numerous meetings" at the BPO (). However, the Chamber notes that from a combined reading of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment<sup>8047</sup> together with the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief as outlined above in the Introduction, three specific meetings are alleged to have taken place at the BPO, namely: (1) a meeting in April 1994 called by Nyiramasuhuko and attended by Nsabimana at which the progress of the massacres was discussed and the means by which to complete them; (2) a meeting around 10 June 1994, attended by Nsabimana, Nyiramasuhuko and Interim President Sindikubwabo at which Nyiramasuhuko asked why Tutsis at the BPO had not been killed; and (3) a second meeting around 10 June 1994, attended by Kanyabashi and Minister Rwamakuba where either Kanyabashi or both men told Nsabimana that the Tutsi refugees at the BPO must be exterminated.

Meeting Between Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko, April 1994

2899. The Chamber recalls the evidence of Witness SJ who said that she arrived at the BPO in April 1994 and that within the first two weeks of her stay, she saw Nyiramasuhuko go into the office of the préfet to attend a meeting.<sup>8048</sup> When Nyiramasuhuko exited she said "this place is dirty", and Nsabimana ordered the Interahamwe to move the refugees to the back of the BPO.<sup>8049</sup> Witness QBQ also provided testimony as to a meeting that took place three days after her arrival at the BPO, towards the end of April 1994.<sup>8050</sup> She said that Nyiramasuhuko approached the BPO on foot accompanied by Nsabimana and said to clear the filth from the BPO.<sup>8051</sup>

2900. Based on the evidence of Witnesses SJ and QBQ, the Chamber is satisfied that a meeting took place between Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana around the end of April 1994, at the BPO. The Chamber however notes that no evidence was led as to the content of the said meeting. Therefore the Chamber finds that the Prosecution failed to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana held a meeting at which the progress of the massacres and the means by which to complete them were discussed in April 1994 at the BPO.

Meeting of Nsabimana, Nyiramasuhuko and President Sindikubwabo, Around 10 June 1994

2901. Witness RE gave evidence about the alleged meeting between Nsabimana, Nyiramasuhuko and President Sindikubwabo. She testified that she saw Nyiramasuhuko arrive at the BPO with Sindikubwabo and said to him, “[i]s that dirt still here? In Butare they have not worked.”<sup>8052</sup> The Chamber notes an inconsistency between Witness RE’s testimony and her prior statement. The witness did not mention in her statement that Nyiramasuhuko referred to the refugees as dirt or that Nyiramasuhuko said that young girls should be raped.<sup>8053</sup> Witness RE’s statement indicates that Nyiramasuhuko asked “[w]hat are these people doing here and why don’t they kill them?”<sup>8054</sup> Further, the Chamber considers Witness RE’s testimony was not sufficiently detailed. For example, she did not give any precise time frame about this event, she failed to mention Nyiramasuhuko and Sindikubwabo’s form of transport, and she could not recall the time of day of the visit to the BPO.

2902. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds this evidence insufficient to establish that around 10 June 1994, Nsabimana met with Interim President Sindikubwabo and Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO at which time Nyiramasuhuko asked why Tutsis at the BPO had not been killed. Thus, the Chamber finds this allegation has not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

Meeting of Kanyabashi, Nsabimana and Minister Rwamakuba, Around 10 June 1994

2903. As to the third alleged meeting, the Chamber recalls its Decision of 16 December 2004 in which it held there was no evidence that Kanyabashi told Nsabimana that the Tutsi refugees at the BPO must be exterminated.<sup>8055</sup> Accordingly, Nsabimana could not have failed to dissociate himself from comments that were never made by Kanyabashi. The Chamber also notes that the Prosecution led no evidence that André Rwamakuba told Nsabimana to kill Tutsis. Considering that there is no evidence to support the allegation that Nsabimana failed to

3.6.22 Muganza Meetings, April – June 1994

2904. The Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that from late 1990 to July 1994, Ndayambaje conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. The plan was alleged to consist of, inter alia, encouraging hatred and incitement to violence, the training of militia and the preparation of lists of Tutsis to be killed. The Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that Ndayambaje, together with others, adhered to and executed this plan and in doing so organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>8056</sup>

2905. In support of Count 1 (conspiracy to commit genocide) the Prosecution submits that between January and April 1994, Ndayambaje participated in meetings related to the planning of the genocide. More specifically, it submits that secret meetings were held at Ndayambaje's home and in other locations between January and April 1994, which were attended by persons holding positions of authority. The Prosecution also argues that before the death of President Habyarimana, Ndayambaje organised meetings on the hills in Muganza commune on Saturdays, which Hutus attended. The Prosecution alleged another meeting took place after the death of the President at the compound of the Muganza commune office, attended by Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana, Ndayambaje, conseillers and cellule members. More than 200 people were present. The Prosecution contends that Ndayambaje spoke at this meeting and told attendees to strengthen patrols as the Inyenzi could come at any time.<sup>8057</sup> After this meeting, Tutsis were allegedly killed.<sup>8058</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QAQ, QAR, FAU, EV, QBZ and RV.

2906. The Ndayambaje Defence argues that the Prosecution's evidence in this regard should not be considered because it was not pled in the Indictment. Furthermore, it submits that the Prosecution failed to adduce any evidence that Ndayambaje met with any of the co-Accused to establish a genocide plan.<sup>8059</sup> The evidence that such meetings took place is based on hearsay and lacks detail including as to the number of meetings held, their location, date, the identity and number of attendees, the items on the agenda and the identification of the speakers.<sup>8060</sup> The Defence asserts that Ndayambaje never convened or chaired any such meetings, nor did he hold secret meetings in his home.<sup>8061</sup>

3.6.22.2 Preliminary Issues

2908. The Ndayambaje Defence requests that the Chamber not consider the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QBZ, QAR and QAA in order to demonstrate that the Accused participated in meetings, as they concern material facts not contained in the Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective and such defects have not been cured.<sup>8062</sup> The Defence recalls that it previously raised objections in its motions on the defects in the form of the Indictment,<sup>8063</sup> on acquittal on the basis of Rule 98 bis of the Rules<sup>8064</sup> and on exclusion of evidence.<sup>8065</sup>

2909. The Chamber notes that Ndayambaje's Preliminary Motion, filed outside the prescribed time limit on 6 February 2001, alleged that Paragraph 5.1 of the Ndayambaje Indictment lacked clarity and precision, including that the time frame was too imprecise, there was no specific mention of the identities of those with whom the Accused allegedly conspired or the capacity in which he acted, and there was no specification as to the components of the conspiracy.<sup>8066</sup> The Chamber dismissed the motion on the basis that the Defence failed to show good cause warranting waiver of the time-bar and did not consider the merits of the application.<sup>8067</sup> As regards Ndayambaje's Motion for acquittal under Rule 98 bis, the Defence submitted, inter alia, that Ndayambaje should be acquitted of conspiracy to commit genocide because the Prosecution failed to adduce evidence that Ndayambaje met, discussed or even knew his alleged co-conspirators.<sup>8068</sup> The Chamber dismissed Ndayambaje's motion on this point as it considered that the evidence adduced, if believed, could be sufficient for a reasonable trier of fact to find Ndayambaje's responsibility beyond a reasonable doubt on the facts pled in Paragraph 5.1 of the Indictment.<sup>8069</sup> Lastly, in Ndayambaje's Motion on exclusion of evidence, the Defence sought the exclusion of the testimony or parts of testimony of 14 Prosecution witnesses because they concerned facts or elements not pled in the Indictment and because it did not have timely notification of those allegations.<sup>8070</sup> The Chamber denied the motion in its entirety, but observed that some of the matters raised could be considered at a later stage of the proceedings, and issues relating to the credibility and evaluation of testimony should be considered with the totality of the evidence.<sup>8071</sup>

2910. The Chamber notes that in the three motions referred to above, the Ndayambaje Defence did not specifically object to the Prosecution's allegations that Ndayambaje participated in meetings in Muganza commune; the first and second motions addressed defects in the Ndayambaje Indictment in a general sense, i.e. they alleged that the Indictment was imprecise, while the testimonies referred to in the third motion concerned evidence unrelated to meetings. However, the Chamber retains the right to exclude evidence even though the Defence did not raise any objection at the time of presentation.<sup>8072</sup>

2911. The Prosecution allegation that Ndayambaje participated in meetings relating to the planning of the genocide, forms part of its case in relation to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. The Ndayambaje Indictment does not allege that Ndayambaje attended, chaired, convened or in any other way participated in meetings during which the planning of the genocide was discussed. Nor does the Indictment set forth any facts or circumstances from which it could be inferred that Ndayambaje was involved in meetings of any kind. The Chamber considers Ndayambaje's alleged participation in meetings to be material to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide because it constitutes the means by which the alleged conspiracy was committed and is a key element of the conduct imputed to the Accused, which forms the basis of the conspiracy charge. For these reasons, the Chamber considers that the Ndayambaje Indictment is defective.

2912. The Chamber is of the view that the Prosecution's failure to refer to Ndayambaje's alleged participation in meetings constitutes a failure to properly plead the mode of participation of the crime of conspiracy to commit genocide under Article 6 (1) of the Statute. The Chamber recalls that where it is alleged that the accused planned, instigated, ordered, or aided and abetted in the planning, preparation or execution of the alleged crimes, the Prosecution is required to identify the "particular acts" or "the particular course of conduct" on the part of the accused that forms the basis for the charges in question.<sup>8073</sup> In the Chamber's opinion, information that the Prosecution intended to lead evidence on Ndayambaje's alleged participation in meetings to support the charge of conspiracy to commit genocide should have been contained in the Indictment because it is an essential ingredient of the charge. The Chamber is of the view that the subsequent inclusion of such information in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief therefore constitutes a radical transformation of the Prosecution case which can only result in prejudice to the Accused.<sup>8074</sup> As a result the Chamber will not make a finding on Ndayambaje's alleged involvement in meetings between January and April 1994. In any event, the Chamber notes that the evidence was not sufficient to prove these allegations beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.23 Hotel Ihuliro – Meetings and Roadblock, April 1994

3.6.23.1 Introduction

2913. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that between April and July 1994, a roadblock was erected near the residence of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali in Butare town (“Hotel Ihuliro”),<sup>8075</sup> and that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali manned this roadblock.<sup>8076</sup> The Prosecution further submits that after the death of President Habyarimana and prior to the mounting of the roadblock, meetings were held at Hotel Ihuliro between Nyiramasuhuko and the Interahamwe, during which the implementation of the genocide in Butare was discussed.<sup>8077</sup> The Prosecution submits that the roadblock was erected after the second of these meetings.<sup>8078</sup> The Prosecution submits that Ntahobali also resided at the Hotel Ihuliro following the death of the President and, as a consequence, he must have been aware of such meetings and the issues discussed.<sup>8079</sup> In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witness FA.

2914. The Prosecution also submits that between April and July 1994, Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, with the assistance of soldiers, Interahamwe and other unknown persons, utilised the roadblock to identify, abduct and kill members of the Tutsi population.<sup>8080</sup> Among these crimes was the alleged killing of Léopold Ruvurajabo, a Tutsi, on 21 April 1994, who was killed at the roadblock near the Hotel Ihuliro, under Ntahobali’s instructions.<sup>8081</sup>

2915. As part of the general allegation that during the events referred to in the Indictment, rapes and sexual assaults were widely and notoriously committed throughout Rwanda against the Tutsi population by, among others, soldiers, militiamen and gendarmes,<sup>8082</sup> the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that Ntahobali, assisted by unknown accomplices, participated in the kidnapping and raping of Tutsi women.<sup>8083</sup> Specifically, the Prosecution alleges that Ntahobali and other Interahamwe—including Jean-Pierre, Kazunga and Lambert—abducted Tutsi women to rape them before killing them, and that the roadblock at Hotel Ihuliro was part of a coordinated effort to round up and slaughter the Tutsi population in and around Butare town.<sup>8084</sup> In support of these allegations, the Prosecution relies on Witnesses FA, SS, SX, TB, TG, TQ, QI and QCB.

2916. One of the victims of these alleged rapes was Witness TN. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness TN to establish that during the Indictment period, Ntahobali and his subordinates raped many Tutsi girls and that these girls were singled out because they were Tutsis.<sup>8085</sup>

2917. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that no meetings were held at Hotel Ihuliro between April and July 1994.<sup>8086</sup> It questions how Witness FA could have been unaware that the house she identified as Nyiramasuhuko's was also used as a hotel, and disputes the witness' assertion that she saw Nyiramasuhuko's three daughters before and during the period between April and July 1994 on a regular basis given that they were living elsewhere.<sup>8087</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Witness FA's testimony is contradictory and inconsistent with a statement she gave to Prosecution investigators in 1996.<sup>8088</sup>

2918. The Ntahobali Defence also submits that the Prosecution's reliance on the testimony of Witness FA to infer that Ntahobali must have known of the meetings fails to reach the requisite standard of proof.<sup>8089</sup> The Ntahobali Defence also argues that Witness FA's testimony is not credible.<sup>8090</sup>

2919. In support of their submissions as to the alleged meetings, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Defences rely on the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witnesses Maurice Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali, Denise Ntahobali, WBNC, Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali Defence Witnesses CEM and NMBMP and Ntahobali.

2920. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Defences further submit that the alleged crimes did not take place, and that the roadblock in question was not mounted until the end of May 1994. It is therefore impossible for the crimes alleged before this date to have occurred.<sup>8091</sup> In support of this submission, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Defence rely on Maurice Ntahobali, Denise Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali, the Accused Ntahobali, Ntahobali Defence Witness H1B6 and Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBNC. In addition, Nsabimana Defence Witnesses Fergal Keane, Charles Karemano, Alexandre Bararwandika, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witnesses WMKL, WBUC, WBTT, CEM, WZNA, WKNKI, Ntahobali Defence Witnesses WUNBJ, WCUJM, NMBMP, WCMNC, WCNJ, WCMNA, WCKJ, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-YYYY, D-2-13-O, D-2-13-D, D-2-5-I, D-13-D, and Bernadette Kamanzi gave evidence relevant to this issue. also challenges the credibility and reliability of Prosecution Witnesses FA, TB, TG, TN, TQ, QCB, SS and SX.<sup>8092</sup>

2921. As part of the preliminary issues outlined below, the Ntahobali Defence also submits that certain specific allegations regarding Ntahobali's conduct at the roadblock were not pled in the Indictment and therefore cannot be used against him to prove the various counts of the Indictment. The Prosecution's failure to include these allegations in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment cannot be cured by subsequent disclosure.<sup>8093</sup>

2922. The Ntahobali Defence further submits that Ntahobali got malaria on 28 April 1994 and invokes an alibi, claiming that he spent a week in convalescence after having received Quinimax injections.<sup>8094</sup>

3.6.23.2 Preliminary Issues

Lack of Notice in Relation to Witness FA

2923. The Ntahobali Defence requests the exclusion of Prosecution Witness FA's testimony in its entirety on the grounds that it did not receive sufficient notice of that testimony, and asks the Chamber to find that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali's right to prepare their defence has been violated. Witness FA did not appear on the Prosecution's list of intended witnesses in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and was added to the witness list on 30 March 2004, almost at the end of the Prosecution case, even though the Prosecution had been in possession of Witness FA's statement since 26 November 1996.<sup>8095</sup>

2924. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 30 March 2004 in which it, inter alia, granted the Prosecution's motion to add three new witnesses, including Witness FA, to its witness list. In that Decision, the Chamber also ordered the disclosure of the non-redacted statements of the new witnesses to the Defence teams, with a view to avoiding any delay that could prejudice the Defence in its preparation. The Chamber also directed the Prosecution to call such witnesses at the end of its case in order to provide the Defence with sufficient time to prepare for the cross-examination of the new witnesses.<sup>8096</sup>

2925. The Chamber accepted that the evidence of the proposed factual witnesses could address specific factual circumstances relevant to the case and that it would be in the interests of justice to add such witnesses to the Prosecution witness list.<sup>8097</sup> The Chamber noted that the Prosecution disclosed the redacted statements of Witness FA on 12 January 2004 and now

recalls that the witness' identity was disclosed on 1 April 2004.<sup>8098</sup> It further notes that Witness FA was not called until the end of the Prosecution case.<sup>8099</sup>

2926. In view of the foregoing and the fact that the Ntahobali Defence has not established the existence of prejudice as a result of Witness FA being permitted to testify<sup>8100</sup> the Chamber finds no reason to reconsider its earlier ruling.

Defect Relating to the Identity of Co-Perpetrators

2927. The Ntahobali Defence submits that the allegation that he, together with a certain Jean-Pierre, Lambert and Kazungu, carried out abductions, murders or rapes at a roadblock near his parents' residence is not pled in the Indictment.<sup>8101</sup> Moreover, the Defence submits that the name "Kazungu" does not appear in the Indictment, Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or any of the witnesses' statements.<sup>8102</sup>

2928. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.27 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment provides the location of the roadblock, gives an adequate description of the time frame involved, and alleges that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali made use of the roadblock with the assistance of others to identify, abduct and kill Tutsis. It is not necessary that the Indictment provide the exact identity of the alleged co-perpetrators. Therefore the Chamber finds that Paragraph 6.27 was not defective as to the allegation that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali made use of a roadblock near their home to identify, abduct and kill Tutsis.

Defect Relating to Victim Léopold Ruvurajabo

2929. The Ntahobali Defence further submits that the allegation that Ntahobali ordered Interahamwe and civilians wearing military uniforms to kill a Tutsi man called Léopold Ruvurajabo at a roadblock located in front of his parents' residence is not pled in the Indictment.<sup>8103</sup>

2930. The Chamber recalls that where the Prosecution alleges that an accused personally committed criminal acts, it must plead the identity of the victim, the place and approximate date of the alleged criminal acts, and the means by which they were committed with the greatest precision (). It is clear from Witness QCB's previous statement of 7 April 1999, disclosed on 1 December 1999,<sup>8104</sup> taken approximately five months before the Amended Indictment was filed in August 1999, that the Prosecution was aware of the identity of the alleged victim Léopold Ruvurajabo, yet failed to include that information in the Amended Indictment. The Indictment is thus defective in this respect. The Chamber will now address the question of whether the defect in the Indictment was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

2931. In the summary of Witness QCB's anticipated testimony contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief it is stated, without specifying a time frame, that Witness QCB went to Butare with a "Tutsi acquaintance" and they went through three roadblocks. At the third roadblock, which was located opposite Ntahobali's parents' house and was supervised by Ntahobali, the Interahamwe and civilians wearing military vests were checking cards, allowing Hutus through while segregating Tutsis and putting them by the roadside. Witness QCB's acquaintance refused to join the Tutsi group and he was immediately killed, on Ntahobali's orders.<sup>8105</sup> Witness QCB's previous statement of 7 April 1999, disclosed on 15 November 2000, one year and four months before the witness was called to testify on 20 March 2002, is consistent with this account and adds further details as to the identity of the said acquaintance. In the statement, Witness QCB states he was with Léopold Ruvurajabo when they approached a roadblock in front of the Ntahobali residence, and that when they arrived at the roadblock, Ruvurajabo refused to join a group of Tutsis gathered by the roadside, at which point Ntahobali ordered him to be killed.<sup>8106</sup>

2932. In sum, the Prosecution's subsequent disclosure regarding the murder of Léopold Ruvurajabo was timely, clear and consistent. The Chamber therefore finds that the defect in the Indictment as to the murder of Léopold Ruvurajabo was cured, and did not prejudice the Defence in the preparation of its case with regard to this allegation.

Lack of Notice in Relation to Rapes

2933. Lastly, the Ntahobali Defence submits that the allegations that between 21 and 25 April 1994, Ntahobali abducted and confined seven Tutsi girls in his house, including Witness TN, in order to rape them, and that around 28 April 1994, Ntahobali arrested and sexually assaulted a Tutsi girl near the EER were not pled in the Indictment.<sup>8107</sup>

2934. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.27 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment does not mention rape with respect to crimes alleged to have taken place at the roadblock at the Ntahobali residence, nor is Paragraph 6.27 listed in support of the count of rape in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment. However, Paragraphs 6.37 and 6.53 of the Indictment, which are listed in support of the charge of rape against Ntahobali, state that Ntahobali, assisted by unknown accomplices, participated in the kidnapping and raping of Tutsi women. Further, it is alleged that during the events referred to in the Indictment, rapes and sexual assaults were widely and notoriously committed throughout Rwanda. The Chamber finds these paragraphs unduly vague and not sufficient to put Ntahobali on notice of the Prosecution's intention to adduce evidence that Ntahobali abducted a Tutsi girl at the roadblock and raped her at the EER; nor do they specifically point to Ntahobali's abduction and raping of Witness TN and other Tutsi girls in his house, in April 1994. Thus, the Indictment was defective in this respect. The Chamber will now consider whether this defect was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

2935. The Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief reiterates the language from Paragraph 6.53 of the Indictment, and adds that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali committed, ordered, aided and abetted their subordinates and others in the carrying out of rapes and sexual assaults of Tutsis.<sup>8108</sup> The Chamber also notes that the Prosecution opening statement mentioned rape being used as a tool against Tutsi women. In particular in relation to rape, the Prosecution submitted that Nyiramasuhuko encouraged her son, Ntahobali, to rape Tutsi women.<sup>8109</sup>

Alleged Rape of Seven Tutsi Girls, Including Witness TN

2937. Witness TN's prior statement of 11-12 March 1998 is consistent with this account.<sup>8111</sup> The witness described that on 21 April 1994 Ntahobali, after ordering that six girls—including Witness TN and Philippe's daughter Lillian Umubyeyi—had to go to his house, raped them, one by one. The same night, Witness TN was forced to have sex with soldiers. A few days later, she was raped again by Ntahobali, this time using a handle stick. During the five days the girls were kept in the house, they were repeatedly raped. On 25 April 1994, Shalom told the soldiers they could choose the girls to be their wives, or they were allowed to kill them. Each of the soldiers chose a girl to be his wife. A soldier named Alexis took Witness TN and forced her to go to a refugee camp in Burundi, saying the RPF soldiers were coming. Witness TN described Ntahobali as black, fat and not very tall. She added that he was heavy when he laid on her. The witness explained that she probably could not recognise Shalom if she saw him again, but confirmed Shalom was the person in charge of their hostage while at the house and he ordered their rapes.

2938. The Chamber has carefully analysed all the above material and notes that the Prosecution was in receipt of Witness TN's prior statement of 11-12 March 1998 at the time of the Amended Indictment, on 1 March 2001. The Chamber considers that the Prosecution should have been more diligent and included in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment the specific details regarding Ntahobali's involvement in the abduction and rape of girls in his compound and house.

2939. Nonetheless, the Chamber considers that the evidence contained in Witness TN's summary in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief and in Witness TN's prior statement, which was disclosed in redacted and unredacted forms on 4 November 1998 and 23 April 2001 respectively, provided timely, clear and consistent information and resolved any ambiguity or vagueness in the Indictment. It was also disclosed on 23 May 2001. The Chamber considers that this information did not amount to an expansion of the charges against Ntahobali and provided sufficient notice to enable the Ntahobali Defence to prepare his defence without prejudice, in regard to this allegation.

2940. The Chamber therefore finds the defect in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment was cured with respect to the allegation that Ntahobali abducted, confined and raped seven Tutsi girls in his house, including Witness TN.

Alleged Rape of a Tutsi Girl Near the Roadblock

2941. In addition, the witness summaries for Prosecution Witnesses SX and TB contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief set forth allegations that Ntahobali raped Tutsi women at the roadblock in front of his parents' residence.<sup>8112</sup> Specifically, the summary of Witness SX's anticipated testimony states that Ntahobali took a girl from the roadblock near his mother's house and raped her about 10 metres away from the EER building. Witness SX provided similar information in his statement of 2 December 1997, disclosed on 4 November 1998, nearly six years before the witness was called to testify.<sup>8113</sup>

<sup>8113</sup> 2 December 1997, Statement of Witness SX, disclosed 4 November 1998 (The statement said that around 4.00 pm on the day the barrier was erected, which he estimates to have been approximately two weeks after he learned of President Habyarimana's death on Radio Rwanda, several girls were being beaten by three men, including Ntahobali, who singled out two of the girls and made them go through a water drainage ditch. Ntahobali then gave one of the girls to a soldier and Ntahobali took the other girl towards the place where Witness SX was hiding. Witness SX states that he and nine other people witnessed Ntahobali rape the girl, and then hit her on the head with a club. According to Witness SX's statement Ntahobali then ran towards the barrier telling the other Interahamwe that he had killed the girl; the Interahamwe responded singing, "Power! Power! We have finished the Inyenzi!").

<sup>8114</sup> Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief – Appendix; Witness TB (90) (stated that the witness first saw Ntahobali about 28 April 1994 when the witness saw a Daihatsu pickup drive past the EER building. When Ntahobali stopped the car, he and two soldiers asked everyone to get out and to hand over their identification cards. Ntahobali told all the occupants of the car, except for one girl, whom he identified as an Inyenzi, to pass. His men then began kicking and hitting the girl with rifles, while tearing at her clothes and pushing her in the direction of the forest until she was left wearing only her underwear. Ntahobali was observing this and before they were at the forest he ordered his men to return with the girl whose underwear he tried tearing off while leading her into the forest. Witness TB could not see Ntahobali and the girl in the forest but Witness TB could hear the girl screaming: "I'm dying, I'm dying". After about 30 minutes, Witness TB saw Ntahobali leave the forest and order the soldiers to return to work. Witness TB returned to the forest, in an attempt to try to save the girl, but she was dead. Witness TB saw blood and wounds on her chest, on both sides of her chest were cross marks that had been made with a sharp object. Her vagina also was covered with cuts and she was completely naked.)

<sup>8115</sup> 5 December 1997, Statement of Witness TB, disclosed 15 November 2000 (stated that sometime in the afternoon of 28 April 1994, TB saw a yellow Daihatsu pass by the EER where Witness TB was staying, and that Ntahobali stopped the vehicle. There were three females in the car; one of the three was singled out by Ntahobali who identified her as an Inyenzi. Ntahobali allowed the others in the car to pass by, but Ntahobali's men took the girl singled out and pushed her towards the forest, hitting her with their rifles, and tearing away her clothing until she was wearing only her underclothes. When the soldiers were almost to the forest, Ntahobali called the soldiers to come back, which they did. Ntahobali then went to where the girl was and took her to the forest while tearing at

The information provided by Witnesses SX and TB's summaries contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, together with their previous statements, sufficiently put the Ntahobali Defence on notice with respect to the allegation that Ntahobali abducted a Tutsi girl at the roadblock and raped her near the EER. In addition, the Chamber finds these Prosecution disclosures were timely, clear and consistent. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber concludes that the defect in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment as to this allegation was cured and did not prejudice the Defence in the preparation of its case.

3.6.23.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FA

2944. Witness FA testified that there was a roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's residence.<sup>8119</sup> Witness FA was living with Kazungu.<sup>8120</sup> Kazungu allowed her to live with him because she had told him that her husband died, though in reality he was hiding in the ceiling. She could live there safely because Kazungu intervened on her behalf, since she was a Hutu.<sup>8121</sup> From her house, Witness FA had a clear view of people coming and going from Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8122</sup> There were "white people", purportedly working for the UN, who had rented a wing of Nyiramasuhuko's residence.<sup>8123</sup> On cross-examination, Witness FA testified that the foreigners left at a certain point, but they were still there when the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's residence was erected.<sup>8124</sup> The witness first came to know Nyiramasuhuko's family when she moved into a house in Ngoma commune, six months before April 1994.<sup>8125</sup>

2945. Witness FA testified that over a two-week period after President Habyarimana's death, she saw people going to and leaving three meetings at Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8126</sup> The meetings took place in April 1994 although she was unable to specify precise dates.<sup>8127</sup> Some her clothes. Witness SX could not see the girl any longer but stated that she heard the girl screaming; "I am dying!" After approximately 30 minutes Ntahobali left the forest and went to where the soldiers were on the roadside, telling them to go and do the work. Witness SX's previous statement further sets forth that Witness SX later went into the forest where she found the girl dead, and covered in wounds.).

of those who attended the meetings wore civilian clothes although a few were dressed in military uniform.<sup>8128</sup> All were members of the MRND Party and the Interahamwe.<sup>8129</sup> Besides the occupants of the house, the attendees included the head of MINITRAP, the director of INADES and a person named Kone.<sup>8130</sup> Under cross-examination, she stated that her brother-in-law had also attended MRND meetings in Nyiramasuhuko's house but she did not know his surname.<sup>8131</sup> Although she did not testify to having been present at the meetings, she stated that she never saw Nyiramasuhuko at any of the meetings.<sup>8132</sup>

2946. Witness FA testified that a man who lived in her compound attended the meetings at Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8133</sup> On returning from the second meeting, he came to the witness' home, and informed her and her husband that instructions had been issued during the meeting concerning the killing of Tutsis and that there had been discussions on the issue of identity cards.<sup>8134</sup> Witness FA claimed that the man told her that he was an important Interahamwe and that Tutsis living in the compound should leave and find shelter elsewhere because he did not want to kill them.<sup>8135</sup> The man wore a military uniform and was carrying grenades, hatchets and a sword.<sup>8136</sup> After he left, Witness FA testified that her Tutsi husband hid in the ceiling of their home.<sup>8137</sup>

2947. Witness FA confirmed that she only knew of the meetings at Nyiramasuhuko's house because her neighbour had informed her of them following the second meeting.<sup>8138</sup> She also confirmed that in her statement to Prosecution investigators in November 1996, she did not mention that her neighbour had told her about the killings of Tutsis or his warning that Tutsis would have to leave the compound.<sup>8139</sup> Witness FA further testified that until her neighbour's visit, she had not been aware that her husband was Tutsi.<sup>8140</sup>

2948. Witness FA testified that part of the house she identified as Nyiramasuhuko's was rented out to several tenants and the Nyiramasuhuko family lived in a separate wing.<sup>8141</sup> The witness stated that there were other businesses on the premises where the house was located and that she used to go there to buy vegetables. She was not aware of the existence of a hotel as such.<sup>8142</sup> When questioned as to how she knew whether people entering Nyiramasuhuko's house were attending meetings, Witness FA responded that this was because her neighbour was among those people.<sup>8143</sup>

2950. On the day after the roadblock was set up, a group of university students passed the roadblock on their way home from campus. Some of the students were killed with small axes while others were allowed to pass through the roadblock. She saw Ntahobali grab a girl with long hair and hit her with an axe; the girl died immediately.<sup>8149</sup>

2951. Several days after the incident with the students, but still in April 1994, she saw Ntahobali order a man out of his car, and ask for his identity card. Ntahobali tore up the man's identity card.<sup>8150</sup> Ntahobali then struck the man with an axe and handed him to Kazungu so that he would be killed. The man was then brought to the EER and killed. She did not see the man killed, but when Kazungu returned to the roadblock he told her that the man had been killed.<sup>8151</sup> Witness FA testified that Nyiramasuhuko was present at the roadblock. Nyiramasuhuko wore a uniform but did not carry any weapons; she then stated that Nyiramasuhuko carried a gun. The witness could not say if this was the first time she had seen Nyiramasuhuko at the roadblock.<sup>8152</sup>

2952. Witness FA testified that at around 11.00 p.m. on that same day, she was at home when she heard someone scream, "Shalom is killing me, Shalom is killing me." The man screamed in agony from a distance for more than five minutes.<sup>8153</sup>

2953. Witness FA testified that one afternoon, several days after the incident with the man being taken away by Kazungu, but still in April 1994, she saw Ntahobali stop a soldier who had come to the roadblock from ESO military camp.<sup>8154</sup> Ntahobali pulled the soldier from his red double-cabin vehicle, hit him with an axe and then handed him over to the Interahamwe to be killed.<sup>8155</sup> The Interahamwe took away the soldier's gun. Ntahobali then took the gun and the soldier's vehicle to Nyiramasuhuko's place.<sup>8156</sup> Witness FA acknowledged that her 1996

statement did not mention that Ntahobali hit the soldier with an axe, but did include that Ntahobali went with the Interahamwe to kill the soldier.<sup>8157</sup>

2955. Nyiramasuhuko lived with her husband, her son Ntahobali, Ntahobali’s wife, Nyiramasuhuko’s three daughters and a house servant.<sup>8164</sup> When it was put to Witness FA by the Ntahobali Defence that one of Nyiramasuhuko’s three daughters had been abroad in 1994, the witness stated that she saw all three daughters often between April and July 1994; she did not know their names but she described them as being heavily built.<sup>8165</sup>

2956. Witness FA was unable to identify Nyiramasuhuko in court, testifying only that a certain woman in the courtroom “resembled” Nyiramasuhuko. The witness stated that it had been nearly 10 years since the last time she saw Nyiramasuhuko. Witness FA was unable to identify the person she called Shalom in court.<sup>8166</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

was not to be confused with Ntahobali's father's white Peugeot 504, which had yellow state number plates.<sup>8171</sup> Ntahobali wore ordinary trousers and a sleeveless military jacket.<sup>8172</sup>

2958. The witness testified that this was the first time he had seen Ntahobali, but he also testified that he met him in 1989, when he visited Ntahobali's home in the company of Maurice Ntahobali's driver, when Witness QCB worked for Butare University.<sup>8173</sup> Witness QCB also saw Ntahobali arrive at the BPO on the morning of 28 April 1994, in a Peugeot 505 vehicle.<sup>8174</sup> Witness QCB positively identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>8175</sup>

2959. Witness QCB testified that Léopold Ruvurajabo was asked to produce his identification and refused. Léopold was requested to go to a nearby school, but he refused.<sup>8176</sup> The Interahamwe then asked Shalom Ntahobali "what shall we do with this man", to which Ntahobali replied, "[k]ill him."<sup>8177</sup> The Interahamwe killed Léopold with knives and his body was thrown to the lower part of the road.<sup>8178</sup> The witness had known Léopold for a long time, and testified that Léopold was a Tutsi.<sup>8179</sup> In cross-examination, Witness QCB stated that he met Léopold Ruvurajabo at the roadblock,<sup>8180</sup> however this contradicted his statements made to ICTR investigators on 7 April 1999, where he declared that he had left his home together with Ruvurajabo.<sup>8181</sup>

2960. Witness SS, a Tutsi woman,<sup>8182</sup> testified that on 27 May 1994, soldiers escorted her and other Tutsi refugees from the Butare University Hospital to the préfecture office.<sup>8183</sup> She testified as to a roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8184</sup> The roadblock was made up of two logs placed across the road.<sup>8185</sup> At the roadblock, the witness saw Nyiramasuhuko, members of the Interahamwe, and one soldier called Kazungu, who was carrying a weapon.<sup>8186</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was wearing a military shirt and a kitenge, kanga cloth around her waist.<sup>8187</sup> Witness SS later rectified her testimony and stated that she saw Kazungu at the préfecture office, but not at the roadblock; she did not know the soldier who was with Nyiramasuhuko at the roadblock.<sup>8188</sup>

2961. According to Witness SS, the person who appeared to be in charge of the roadblock at that time was Nyiramasuhuko, because she was the foremost authority there.<sup>8189</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stopped the soldiers escorting the group of Tutsi refugees.<sup>8190</sup> After conversing with her, the soldiers and the refugees went through the roadblock.<sup>8191</sup> Witness SS positively identified Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>8192</sup> The witness had already seen Nyiramasuhuko before 1994, so she was able to recognise Nyiramasuhuko at the roadblock.<sup>8193</sup>

Prosecution Witness SX

2963. Witness SX testified that about two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana, he saw a roadblock erected near the EER in front of the house of Nyiramasuhuko where identity cards were checked, and massacres took place. The witness was able to identify Ntahobali as being present at the roadblock.<sup>8197</sup> Ntahobali wore civilian clothing. Witness SX did not know where Ntahobali lived, or where he had been going, but testified that he often saw him pass by. The witness did not have personal knowledge of Ntahobali's family, but was told that the house near the roadblock in question belonged to Ntahobali's family.<sup>8198</sup>

2964. On cross-examination, Witness SX testified that when he returned from his commune to Butare after the President's death at approximately 1.00 p.m., before the killings started, the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house was not yet in place. There were some roadblocks which had been set up immediately before the President's death but the one in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house was set up on the day of the President's death.<sup>8199</sup> school.<sup>8202</sup> The witness stated that he was hiding at Mungeri's, from where he could not see the road leading to the non-commission officers' school. All he could see was that the road was strewn with bodies as they were dragged away from the roadblock to load them onto vehicles that arrived. He could not see the dead bodies from his vantage point, but saw them when he crossed the road.<sup>8203</sup> He did not know from which direction the people who were killed at the roadblock came. He recognised a few of the people killed at the roadblock but did not know their names.<sup>8204</sup>

2965. On cross-examination, Witness SX stated that he recognised the Presidential Guards at the roadblock by their military uniforms which were different than regular military uniforms in terms of their size and their spots.<sup>8200</sup> He stated that he did not see any white people at the roadblock.<sup>8201</sup> He later stated that Ntahobali was at the roadblock while the Presidential Guard and other soldiers were deployed along the road all the way to the non-commission officers'

2966. Witness SX was able to identify the building in which he was hiding in Prosecution Exhibit 70A, as well as the roadblock and Nyiramasuhuko's house in Prosecution Exhibit 70B.<sup>8205</sup> The building in which Ntahobali lived was a storied building that was a mixed commercial and residential building.<sup>8206</sup>

2967. On the day the roadblock was erected, Witness SX spent two or three hours watching the roadblock from a distance of approximately 100 metres, and he saw Ntahobali questioning people and asking to see their identity cards. He further stated that many people were killed at the roadblock, and that Ntahobali was one of the killers.<sup>8207</sup> He estimated about 500 people were killed.<sup>8208</sup>

2968. Witness SX saw several young ladies at the roadblock on this day. One of the ladies arrived at the roadblock in a yellow Daihatsu. When she arrived, the group she was with were killed after showing their identity cards, but Ntahobali took the young lady in question aside.<sup>8209</sup> Ntahobali and a man identified by the witness as Jean-Pierre took the lady to the vicinity near where the witness was hiding. The witness watched Ntahobali and Jean-Pierre hit the young lady and force her to cross back and forth through a gutter on her stomach.<sup>8210</sup>

2969. Witness SX testified that eventually, the killings at the roadblock slowed down and he left his hiding place and went back towards a workshop near the EER.<sup>8211</sup> Upon returning to his hiding place, Witness SX again saw Ntahobali with the young lady from the incident described above. He was very near them, maybe 20 metres away, and was able to see them through a hole in the wall, which he described as more or less like a window.<sup>8212</sup> It was getting dark, but was not yet dark enough not to see what was happening outside. The witness saw Ntahobali rape the young lady while she was crying out. After he raped her he immediately struck her with a small hatchet in the forehead, killing her.<sup>8213</sup>

2970. Witness SX testified that five people in total, including two men named Rindiro and Munyaneza, were hiding with him and also witnessed the rape.<sup>8214</sup> The last time the witness saw Rindiro and Munyaneza was at the end of the war, when Munyaneza had fled and Rindiro had joined the Rwandan army. At the time of his testimony, Witness SX believed that Munyaneza was still alive but the others were dead, because he had seen them taken away to be killed.<sup>8215</sup>

2971. A short time after Ntahobali departed, Witness SX went to see the body of the young lady; she had a lump at her temple and one on her side and she was covered in blood.<sup>8216</sup> Later that night, he and another person whom the witness did not identify by name, went back and covered her body with grass.<sup>8217</sup> About four days after her death, he and some others went back and buried her body in a wooded lot.<sup>8218</sup>

Prosecution Witness TB

2972. Witness TB, a Tutsi teacher from Butare town,<sup>8219</sup> testified that she knew Ntahobali and his parents, Maurice Ntahobali and Pauline Nyiramasuhuko. She met Ntahobali on several occasions during the events of 1994, including when Ntahobali visited the place where the witness lived, on his way to Pastor Ndamage.<sup>8220</sup> Although she had not seen Ntahobali since 1994, Witness TB was able to positively identify him in court.<sup>8221</sup>

2973. Witness TB testified that a roadblock was set up near the residence of Maurice Ntahobali about four days after the killings had begun, on 21 April 1994.<sup>8222</sup> The roadblock was erected in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house, near the road that goes to the Quartier Arabe, and close to a triangular sign board which stated "Danger".<sup>8223</sup> Witness TB had a clear view of the road from the building where she was staying, in a compound near the Ntahobali's residence.<sup>8224</sup>

2974. The witness testified that there were soldiers and civilians at the roadblock, including Ntahobali, and that she heard Ntahobali tell the soldiers to "work", which she understood to mean to kill people.<sup>8225</sup> From the building where she was staying, the witness had a clear view of the roadblock, and saw people there being beaten to death and being taken away to the EER where they were killed in the forest.<sup>8226</sup>

2975. On one occasion Witness TB saw people approach the roadblock in front of the Ntahobali residence in a yellow Daihatsu.<sup>8227</sup> The vehicle was stopped on the orders of Ntahobali who was with a man identified as Jean-Pierre, and the people in the vehicle were made to show their identity cards. Some of the people were allowed to continue on, and some were detained.<sup>8228</sup> Ntahobali dragged a girl with braids, who had been in the vehicle, down a path between some classroom buildings into the woods.<sup>8229</sup> She saw Ntahobali come back alone and tell the soldiers at the roadblock to keep working, which she understood to mean, keep killing people.<sup>8230</sup> The witness saw the girl with the braids again that evening, on the ground next to a tree, dead and badly beaten.<sup>8231</sup> Witness TB specified that the girl's vagina was full of blood.<sup>8232</sup> The girl's body was later buried by three people, one of whom she identified as Witness SX.<sup>8233</sup>

2976. Witness TB testified that she did not know Witness SX at the time of the alleged incident with the girl in the yellow Daihatsu, but that she recognised him as she often saw him pass by the EER. Witness TB stated that she saw Witness SX after the genocide, but they would only greet each other when passing. Witness TB testified that she had last seen Witness SX in 1998 or 2000.<sup>8234</sup>

Prosecution Witness TG

2977. Witness TG, a Tutsi accountant in 1994,<sup>8235</sup> testified that he knew the Accused Ntahobali, because they had attended Groupe Scolaire together. He and Ntahobali were not in the same class; when the witness was in the sixth year, Ntahobali was in the first year.<sup>8236</sup> In his statement of 4 December 1996, Witness TG said that he and Ntahobali were friends, but in court he testified that they would greet each other but were not friends.<sup>8237</sup> The witness positively identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>8238</sup>

including a bakery.<sup>8241</sup> The bakery was located in the lowest part of the compound near a mosque.<sup>8242</sup> The wall of the bakery which ran perpendicular to the road had two oval shaped vents and a window which was 1.6 metres by 0.6 metres.<sup>8243</sup> The vents and the window were located above the oven.<sup>8244</sup> While he could not see the main road from the room in which he was hiding, he could see the road from the bakery.<sup>8245</sup> The compound was located approximately 700-800 metres from Ntahobali's family home. From this compound, the witness could see Ntahobali's family home and also a roadblock.<sup>8246</sup>

2979. The witness was shown a photograph, in which he identified the junction of the road going towards the Quartier Arabe and the main road, with the university to the left and the centre of Butare to the right. The witness indicated where Ntahobali's house was in 1994 and where the roadblock had been mounted.<sup>8247</sup> Witness TG was unsure of the exact date when the roadblock was mounted, but testified that it must have been by the end of April 1994, because he saw the roadblock when he moved into the bakery.<sup>8248</sup> During the time he was hiding at the bakery, the witness saw people being beaten at the roadblock, some to death, and others being taken to the forest by the EER and killed.<sup>8249</sup> He could hear the sound of gunshots and people being beaten and screaming from the direction of the EER and Ntahobali's home.<sup>8250</sup>

2981. In cross-examination, Witness TG agreed that it may be impossible to distinguish the characteristics of an unknown person coming in a vehicle on the main road, considering the distance of 25 to 35 metres between the oven and a vehicle passing on the road, the metallic bars on the windows which prevented him passing his head through the window, and the sisal sacks which obscured the windows in order to prevent them from being seen from the outside. He stated it would nevertheless be easy to distinguish a person that you already knew.<sup>8253</sup>

Prosecution Witness TQ

2982. Witness TQ, a Hutu, testified that a roadblock was erected in front of Ntahobali's house and was named after Shalom.<sup>8254</sup> Sometime after 12 April 1994, he and a Tutsi woman, whom he was transporting in a Red Cross vehicle, were stopped at the roadblock by Ntahobali.<sup>8255</sup> On cross-examination, Witness TQ later testified that the event took place after 21 April 1994, after Sindikubwabo's visit to Butare.<sup>8256</sup> The witness, who knew the woman to be a Tutsi, instructed her not to show her identity card. Although Ntahobali insisted she was Tutsi, the witness maintained that she was a relative of his. He convinced Ntahobali to allow them to continue on their way. If the woman had been identified as Tutsi, she could not have gone beyond that roadblock.<sup>8257</sup>

2983. Witness TQ further testified that from his vehicle, before approaching the roadblock, he saw Ntahobali and others lifting a corpse downhill from the road and then throwing it into a ditch.<sup>8258</sup> The witness was approximately 31 metres from Ntahobali when he observed this incident.<sup>8259</sup> There were no fewer than 10 corpses already piled in the ditch.<sup>8260</sup>

2984. Witness TQ was shown a photograph and recognised the location as being near Ntahobali's residence.<sup>8261</sup> He pointed out the MSM garage in the photograph and confirmed that to the right of the garage there was an empty spot, and that the roadblock had been erected at this spot.<sup>8262</sup>

2985. On cross-examination, it was put to the witness that in his statement of 28 and 29 July 1998, and in the 133 page hand-written judgment rendered by the Rwandan National Court in January 2003, the witness had not mentioned that he allegedly saw Ntahobali at the roadblock.<sup>8263</sup> The witness responded that in his statement he had not said everything that he knew with respect to Ntahobali.<sup>8264</sup>

2986. Witness TQ identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>8265</sup> The witness said that he knew Ntahobali since childhood because they had attended the same school in Butare.<sup>8266</sup>

Prosecution Witness QI

2987. Witness QI, a Tutsi, testified that Maurice Ntahobali's house was located on the main road leading to Tumba, in the direction of Butare town.<sup>8267</sup> The witness stated that during the war, two UNAMIR soldiers were stationed at Ntahobali's house. After the UNAMIR soldiers left, a roadblock was set up which was manned by civilians, soldiers and Interahamwe. The witness was told that someone called Kazungu was at that roadblock and lived at Ntahobali's house.<sup>8268</sup>

Prosecution Witness TN

2988. Witness TN, a Tutsi aged about 19 in 1994,<sup>8269</sup> testified that in April 1994 she was arrested at her house by Shalom and some soldiers, who ordered her to go to the secteur office.<sup>8270</sup> Other Tutsis were brought to the secteur office, where they were being guarded by Shalom.<sup>8271</sup> At around 2.00 p.m. on 21 April 1994, and only 2 to 3 minutes after they got to the conseiller's house, she and six other girls were taken to Ntahobali's house in a vehicle.<sup>8272</sup> Witness TN identified one of the girls as Lilian Umubyeyi.<sup>8273</sup>

2989. Witness TN testified to going through a roadblock in Butare, located at Mukoni on the lower side of the University, on the way from the conseiller's house to Ntahobali's house.<sup>8274</sup>

2990. Once at his house, Ntahobali locked Witness TN and the other girls inside. He threatened and ordered them to have sex with him.<sup>8275</sup> Ntahobali came in with soldiers and they first took out one girl and then another one. Witness TN could hear the girls scream.<sup>8276</sup> Ntahobali then took out Witness TN and asked her to take off her clothes.<sup>8277</sup> She refused and Ntahobali started to cut up her skirt with a bayonet.<sup>8278</sup> Witness TN stated that she was scared and undressed herself, and Ntahobali then "engaged in sex".<sup>8279</sup> Ntahobali then introduced the handle of a brush into Witness TN's vagina.<sup>8280</sup>

2991. After Ntahobali raped her, Witness TN went back inside the house. She was later asked to come out again.<sup>8281</sup> Ntahobali ordered the soldiers to have sex with Witness TN.<sup>8282</sup> She was raped by three soldiers, among whom she identified one soldier named Alexis.<sup>8283</sup> After they raped her, the soldiers also used handles on her.<sup>8284</sup>

2992. Witness TN testified as to staying in Ntahobali's house for five days, from 21 to 25 April 1994.<sup>8285</sup> She said that Ntahobali ordered the soldiers to have sex with the seven Tutsi girls.<sup>8286</sup> They were raped every day until 25 April 1994.<sup>8287</sup>

2993. Witness TN testified that she was raped for the second time by Ntahobali on 25 April 1994. Ntahobali also used a handle after having raped her.<sup>8288</sup> That day, Witness TN testified that Ntahobali raped her while the other soldiers were raping the other six girls.<sup>8289</sup>

2994. Witness TN also testified that Ntahobali told the soldiers to take the girls away and make them their wives.<sup>8290</sup> One of the soldiers, Alexis, took her to a refugee camp in Burundi.<sup>8291</sup> After having told her that he owned her body, Alexis ordered Witness TN to have sex with three Hutu soldiers.<sup>8292</sup> After seeking refuge at the UNHCR office in the refugee camp, Witness TN was returned to Rwanda.<sup>8293</sup>

2995. When asked whether she was able to identify the person she refers to as Ntahobali in her testimony, Witness TN pointed to one of the security officers.<sup>8294</sup> She explained that her ability to positively identify the Accused was impaired by the circumstances under which she saw Ntahobali and also by the time that had elapsed since she last saw Ntahobali.<sup>8295</sup> Witness TN had previously described the person she referred to as Ntahobali in her testimony to be of average height, average size but not that fat, black and of dark skin.<sup>8296</sup> She did not remember whether he was wearing a beard at that time, but testified that he was not wearing spectacles.<sup>8297</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Patrick Fergal Keane

2996. Patrick Fergal Keane was a BBC correspondent who arrived in Butare on 15 June 1994.<sup>8298</sup> The other members of his group were Mr. Middleton, Mr. Harrison and Madam Rizu Hamid.<sup>8299</sup> He stayed at what he claimed was "the city's last functioning hotel".<sup>8300</sup> Keane acknowledged that in his book Season of Blood, introduced as Prosecution Exhibit 184, he wrote that this hotel was owned by the rector of the University of Butare whose vast extended family had arrived from all over Rwanda and colonised the building.<sup>8301</sup> There were many children and other people at the hotel.<sup>8302</sup> Keane was welcomed by someone who he took to be the rector's wife.<sup>8303</sup>

2998. The main gate of the hotel was guarded by a corporal from the Presidential Guard, wearing a purple or mauve beret. Just across the road, one could easily see from the bedroom windows that there was a roadblock commanded by a "particularly officious militiaman", wearing a purple or mauve beret, who "seemed to constantly move and shout orders to the other Interahamwe".<sup>8305</sup> Military cars were stopped and questioned at the roadblock. Keane agreed that the roadblock was very close to the hotel, so much so that, from Rizu Hamid's bedroom he could see a fire that the Interahamwe had lit at the roadblock and could hear them when they laughed.<sup>8306</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano

3000. Charles Karemano, national secretary of the PSD party until April 1994 and author of Beyond the Barriers: in the maze of the Rwandan tragedy, testified that he travelled through Butare town, from Cyarwa to the préfecture office, on 30 April 1994.<sup>8308</sup> There was a roadblock between the EER school and the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8309</sup> Karemano testified that it was manned by hoodlums; the witness was not sure whether they were civilians and he did not recall if they were wearing uniforms, he believed the roadblock was made of stones or a tree trunk.<sup>8310</sup> The witness testified that killings took place at roadblocks and were instigated by the leaders at the roadblocks.<sup>8311</sup> Karemano was stopped at roadblocks by Interahamwe, and asked to show his identity card. He saw other people stopped at roadblocks, particularly on the University road.<sup>8312</sup> He stated that the rogues and bandits manning the roadblocks were not people appointed by the bourgmestre, préfet, or head of secteur; they were taking power into their own hands.<sup>8313</sup>

3001. Karemano confirmed what he wrote in his book that “[t]he roadblock is a location where one kills. One goes there to exercise one’s capacity to harm in order to track down runaways, to plan assassinations and harm victims. Generally, the killings do not take place on site. The person who is condemned is dragged further down, led far from the barrage, is cut up with machetes and then left for dead or almost dead in a mass grave.” He further stated that this description applies to what prevailed in Butare between April and July 1994.<sup>8314</sup>

3002. In May 1994, Karemano approached the roadblock between the Anglican school and the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8315</sup> At the roadblock, the witness recognised Kagwene, the nephew of his friend, and companion in exile, Augustin.<sup>8316</sup> When Kagwene saw him he told the witness, “[o]ld man you have to save me otherwise I will denounce you”. The witness told those manning the roadblock that he knew the young man and that Kagwene was not an enemy. Those manning the roadblock ordered the witness to wait for their leader, Shalom.<sup>8317</sup> Shalom came and recognised Karemano as a high official of the Habyarimana administration and the founder of the MRND, to which Ntahobali himself, and his parents, belonged. Shalom did not know that the witness had been accused of being an RPF sympathiser, probably the denunciation to which Kagwene was referring.<sup>8318</sup> Shalom let Kagwene go and the witness took him home with the aid of an escort.<sup>8319</sup> Shalom’s order saved Kagwene’s life.<sup>8320</sup>

3003. When directed to page 146 of his book, in which there is reference to a certain “Sharoon” as being in charge of the roadblock, the witness first stated that he did not hear the name properly and that it may be a difficulty with Rwandan pronunciation.<sup>8321</sup> The witness further testified that he did not know this person but knew that he was the son of Maurice Ntahobali and Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and was called Shalom or Sharon. The witness positively identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>8322</sup>

3004. Alexandre Bararwandika testified that between April and July 1994, he lived in the Kabutare neighbourhood. In order to get to work at the university hospital using the route from the préfecture office, Quartier Arabe, he would go through a roadblock between Groupe Scolaire, économat général and the ESO. When he used the route through the Rectorat, at times there was a roadblock by the Rectorat, but at some point in time it was no longer there. There was another roadblock behind the MSM garage; and also one by the university library, the Uwariraye roadblock.<sup>8323</sup> Bararwandika testified that, at about 50 or 100 metres from the MSM garage roadblock was a building belonging to Nyiramasuhuko, but he did not know if that was her residence.<sup>8324</sup>

3005. Bararwandika testified that the roadblocks were set up during the very tense period in April 1994, some immediately after the death of the President, although he could not recall exactly when.<sup>8325</sup> The witness testified that officially, the roadblocks were set-up to prevent infiltration from RPF fighters.<sup>8326</sup> However, he stated that he could not refute that, unofficially, the roadblocks were used to determine ethnicity.<sup>8327</sup>

3006. Bararwandika testified that soldiers manned the roadblock at Groupe Scolaire. Soldiers and a few civilians manned the roadblock in front of the Rectorat. The witness said he had problems to determining who manned the roadblock behind the MSM Garage, since there were people who were half civilians and half soldiers, taking their attire into account. At this roadblock, sometimes people wore sorts of military uniform, for example a military jacket for the top, but the rest would be civilian clothes, or the other way round. Sometimes, those who manned this roadblock would have a gun or a simple grenade. The roadblock at Uwariraye's place was manned by people who looked like those at the MSM garage roadblock, and there too, one would not know whether they were civilians or soldiers.<sup>8328</sup>

3007. Bararwandika saw a corpse of a man next to a roadblock behind the MSM garage, near a mechanic shop, and four corpses of women in the compound of the primary school.<sup>8329</sup> The witness also saw people being arrested at the roadblocks.<sup>8330</sup>

3008. Bararwandika testified that he presented his UNHCR identification card at the roadblocks. He stated that it was highly likely that his UNHCR identification card indicated his nationality as Burundian; it satisfied the people at the roadblocks that his ethnicity was Hutu. At roadblocks, Rwandans had to show identification cards that displayed their ethnicity.<sup>8331</sup>

Nsabimana

3009. In Prosecution Exhibit 113, Nsabimana stated, that “[i]n town, there were some killings at the roadblocks. Some roadblocks were manned by soldiers, others by the Interahamwe, or both at the same time. Among the most formidable roadblocks was the one in front of the house of the University Rector, Ntahobari, whose son Sharom was in charge of it...”<sup>8332</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNBJ

3010. Witness WUNBJ, a Hutu civil servant in 1994 living in Ngoma commune,<sup>8333</sup> testified that within a month of President Habyarimana's death, at the end of May 1994, a roadblock was established in Butare city centre, between the EER Protestant School and the building of Ndimba's son. The roadblock was near Ntahobali's house, the MSM garage and the houses belonging to Mujeri, Ndimba and Mwami. The roadblock was not far from the Hotel Rebero, which belonged to Maurice Ntahobali.<sup>8334</sup> Witness WUNBJ was able to identify the house as Maurice Ntahobali's because he saw a sign in front of the house. The name "Maurice" was on that sign.<sup>8335</sup> The witness clarified that Ntahobali's house was visible from the road of ESO. It was located on the university site, at the outside limits of the EER school, with the MSM garage on its left. After Ntahobali's house, was Mujeri's house, Ndimba's house and Mwami's house.<sup>8336</sup> There was quite a distance between the EER church and Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8337</sup>

3011. Witness WUNBJ passed through the roadblock often on his way to work.<sup>8338</sup> The roadblock consisted of a log laid across the road.<sup>8339</sup> Many people who lived nearby manned the roadblocks.<sup>8340</sup> The roadblock was set up there because there were a lot of refugees who had come to settle in Butare. They were coming from Bugesera and Mayaga, on their way to Mubumbano and Gikongoro.<sup>8341</sup> Witness WUNBJ never witnessed any killings, or any crimes taking place at the roadblock.<sup>8342</sup> He never saw Ntahobali at the roadblock.<sup>8343</sup>

3012. Witness WUNBJ knew Ntahobali as the son of Maurice Ntahobali and Pauline Nyiramasuhuko. He saw Ntahobali "everywhere in Butare",<sup>8344</sup> he saw him during football matches in Huye Stadium quite often as well as when he was going to concerts "at the multipurpose hall, at the MRND party."<sup>8345</sup> He greeted Ntahobali when he saw him, but never conversed with him. Ntahobali did not wear glasses before 1994 and had an average physical appearance. The witness identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>8346</sup>

3013. Witness WUNBJ knew Nyiramasuhuko between April and June 1994, because he worked with her at the préfecture. Nyiramasuhuko studied in the university and was appointed minister after having worked at the préfecture office.<sup>8347</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCUJM

3014. Witness WCUJM testified that he went to Butare between May and June 1994. He went down to Mukoni where he saw a roadblock. There were two other roadblocks in that area, one close to the University and another one between the Ndimba and Mujeri residences.<sup>8348</sup> Civilians manned the roadblock between Ndimba and Mujeri's houses. The witness did not see any weapons.<sup>8349</sup> He did not stop at the roadblock, but just went through.<sup>8350</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness H1B6

3015. Witness H1B6, a Hutu, stated that in April 1994 he knew a place called Hotel Ihuliro which belonged to Maurice Ntahobali, father of the Accused Ntahobali.<sup>8351</sup> The witness averred that he did not know Ntahobali's family that much and that throughout April to July 1994, he never saw Shalom's mother in Butare town.<sup>8352</sup> Towards the end of May 1994 and the beginning of June 1994, a roadblock was erected not far from Hotel Ihuliro. Witness H1B6 testified that it was said that this roadblock was set up for civilian self-defence and that it was manned by civilians.<sup>8353</sup> Identification cards were checked at this roadblock.<sup>8354</sup>

3016. On cross-examination, Witness H1B6 was shown a diagram of Butare town, which he recognised. The witness agreed that the shortest itinerary from his residence to the Butare market, especially in 1994, was from the University Hospital Centre, through ESO, through the Quartier Arabe, and then right up to the market centre. As a result, Kanyabashi's Defence Counsel challenged Witness H1B6's evidence that he used the road going between Hotel Ihuliro and the EER.<sup>8355</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness NMBMP

3017. Witness NMBMP testified that on 6 April 1994 she was in Kigali.<sup>8356</sup> On 12 April 1994 she decided to join her sister in Butare. Her sister lived at the Hotel Ihuliro at that time. Witness NMBMP was accompanied on her trip to Butare by her husband, her children, her sister-in-law, a neighbour with his two children and two other neighbours. They arrived at Hotel Ihuliro on the same day, towards the evening.<sup>8357</sup> Three of the people who accompanied

3018. Witness NMBMP testified that there were around 30 to 40 people at Hotel Ihuliro when she and the others arrived there.<sup>8361</sup> She noted the presence of five UNAMIR peacekeepers who left towards the end of April 1994. The people who accompanied her from Kigali stayed at Hotel Ihuliro, apart from her husband who left for Gitarama on the day following their arrival.<sup>8362</sup> Her husband left for Gitarama on 12 April 1994 or the following day, as he worked there. The witness' husband visited Hotel Ihuliro about three times during her stay at the hotel.<sup>8363</sup> Witness NMBMP did not see any political or Interahamwe meetings being held at Hotel Ihuliro during her stay.<sup>8364</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCNMC

3019. Witness WCNMC testified that some time in April 1994, when she went to the market, she took the Mukoni road. Instead of going through the ESO road, she went through the EER school and used the road which passed by the residence of one Mironko, leading to the préfecture office. She did not notice any roadblocks on the way.<sup>8365</sup> In late May or early June 1994, when Witness WCNMC went again to the market, she used the footpath through the préfecture office.<sup>8366</sup> She testified there was an atmosphere of fear.<sup>8367</sup> On this visit to the market, the witness saw a roadblock which had been erected on the main road just above the EER school, opposite a building belonging to a certain Ndimba.<sup>8368</sup> This roadblock was manned by members of the population who did not appear to be carrying any weapons, and none of whom Witness WCNMC recognised.<sup>8369</sup> At that roadblock, people would be stopped, show their identity card and then be allowed to continue.<sup>8370</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCNJ

3020. Witness WCNJ testified that towards the end of May 1994, he went through a roadblock mounted in front of the EER, close to two storey buildings, one of which belonged to one Ndimba.<sup>8371</sup> On cross-examination, the witness stated that he no longer recalled who the owner of the second house was, but the roadblock was almost exactly in between the two buildings.<sup>8372</sup> Civilians manned this roadblock. The witness alleged that he never met Shalom Ntahobali at any roadblock nor did he see any roadblock at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8373</sup>

3021. The roadblocks were made up of tree trunks that were placed on the road and could be removed at any time. The civilians who manned those roadblocks did not carry any firearms, but only traditional weapons like clubs or sticks.<sup>8374</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCMNA

3022. Witness WCMNA testified that there was a roadblock located not far from the Episcopal church, about 50-70 metres up the road from Mr. Ntahobali's house. As a reference, the witness mentioned a road leaving from the Quartier Arabe, going towards the university. The witness further testified that there was a roadblock about 50 metres from the junction between the road coming from the Rectorat, the Avenue de l'Université, and the road coming from the Quartier Arabe. The roadblock was on the left of that junction.<sup>8375</sup>

3023. Witness WCMNA stated that Ntahobali's house was on the road towards the Rectorat. After the MSM garage, to the left of the road, past the primary school of the Rwanda Episcopal Church and three other houses. The roadblock was located just after the garage, but before the third of the mentioned houses.<sup>8376</sup>

3024. Witness WCMNA added that the next house after Ntahobali's was a petrol station, followed by business premises which the witness thought were called ENOSOL and dealt with solar energy. After the ENOSOL buildings, Mr. Uwariraye's house was about 600 to 700 metres away, however he could not recall whether there was a mosque in between. After Uwariraye's house, was Rusina Amandem's house, followed by the premises of the Université Nationale du Rwanda. He estimated a distance of approximately 600 to 800 metres between Uwariraye's house and the junction where Ntahobali's house was.<sup>8377</sup> The witness testified that he knew precisely where Uwariraye's house was, since he used to pass that way from time to time. It was in a rather isolated compound and anybody passing by could see it. When questioned about the position of the mosque in relation to that house, the witness stated that the mosque was before Uwariraye's house, that is, between the petrol station and the next house; and approximately 600 metres from the junction of the university road.<sup>8378</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCKJ

3025. When questioned during cross-examination about his knowledge of a roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro during the period from April to July 1994, Witness WCKJ testified that around 20 May 1994, when he was going to attend the funeral of the wife of a colleague, on the way to the hospital he passed by Hotel Ihuliro, using the road which would go through the market and the Quartier Arabe. The witness did not know that a roadblock existed in that area and did not see any roadblock.<sup>8379</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness Béatrice Munyenyezi

3026. Béatrice Munyenyezi, wife of Ntahobali during the alleged events,<sup>8380</sup> testified that the first UNAMIR staff arrived at Hotel Ihuliro in 1994, however she could not recall the date or month.<sup>8381</sup> In cross-examination, she testified that a lot of UNAMIR staff members came in January 1994. Most of them found houses downtown, and after 19 April 1994, she thought that there were four UNAMIR soldiers left in the hotel.<sup>8382</sup> She recalled that one of them was Colonel Berena.<sup>8383</sup> By 25 April 1994, there was only one UNAMIR soldier left in the hotel. The witness recalled that the first name of the soldier was Peter, that he was probably from Austria, and he left Hotel Ihuliro on 25 April 1994.<sup>8384</sup>

3027. Munyenyezi testified that her husband got malaria at the end of April 1994.<sup>8385</sup> She stated that he had malaria for at least a week and that he stayed home. His aunt took care of him.<sup>8386</sup> The witness denied that this was a fabricated story.<sup>8387</sup>

Ntahobali

3028. Ntahobali testified that Hotel Ihuliro was located in Mamba cellule, Butare-Town secteur, Ngoma commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>8388</sup> The ground floor of the hotel provided access to the hotel's restaurant, bar and reception, and to a separate grocery shop and pharmacy.<sup>8389</sup> Eight rooms were located on the first floor.<sup>8390</sup> His room was on the ground floor behind the pharmacy.<sup>8391</sup>

3029. Ntahobali testified that after President Habyarimana's death, UNAMIR soldiers stationed in other préfectures came to join those who were in Butare at Hotel Ihuliro. The UNAMIR soldiers did not stay for long; most of them left in a vehicle on 10 April 1994, and moved to Kigali. The remaining UNAMIR soldiers left on 20 April 1994.<sup>8392</sup>

not meet her.<sup>8394</sup> Ntahobali testified that his mother came to Hotel Ihuliro on 28 April 1994, the birthday of his sister's child. He stated that he got malaria on 28 April 1994 and spent a week in convalescence after having received Quinimax injections. He was treated by one of his aunts, a nurse who stayed with them at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8395</sup>

3031. Ntahobali testified that he travelled to Cyangugu on 26 or 27 May 1994 after he noticed that his wife was no longer at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8396</sup> He was able to locate his wife, and they stayed in Cyangugu for over a week.<sup>8397</sup> He left Cyangugu on 5 June 1994 and arrived in Butare on the same day around 6.00 or 7.00 p.m.<sup>8398</sup>

3032. Ntahobali testified that he first noticed a roadblock close to the building belonging to a certain Ndimba, a few metres from Hotel Ihuliro, on the same day he returned from Cyangugu, 5 June 1994, but that he later learned it was erected on 28 May 1994.<sup>8399</sup> When he first approached this roadblock, Ntahobali was asked to present his identity card and was then allowed to pass through.<sup>8400</sup> Ntahobali further testified that this roadblock was actually set up after members of the population received weapons handling training and were provided with weapons.<sup>8401</sup> He stated that when he got back from Cyangugu, the people manning that roadblock informed him about the training which was thereafter confirmed by the conseiller de secteur.<sup>8402</sup> He further testified that he did not see any soldier on patrol around the area of Hotel Ihuliro on the Avenue de l'Université during the events.<sup>8403</sup>

3033. Ntahobali testified that he knew persons who had received training in firearms handling and who were at the roadblock. They had been provided with a firearm to be used in manning the roadblock. Ntahobali mentioned Grégoire, Nyarwaya, Kabalisa, Lambert and Jean-Pierre who lived near Mironko's place at a house belonging to Pascal Habyarimana, the conseiller of Sahera secteur. He stressed that only those who were trained to handle firearms were allowed to carry the gun used at this roadblock.<sup>8404</sup>

3034. Ntahobali testified that on 7 June 1994, he went to man the roadblock near Ndimba's house from 6.00 a.m. to 6.00 p.m., following his conversation with Conseiller Venuste Uwizeye.<sup>8405</sup> Ntahobali stated that there were four or more people at the roadblock on that day: himself, his neighbours Grégoire Ngendahimana, Sokode and Camille. Those who manned the roadblock worked in two shifts, one group worked from 6.00 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. and another worked from 6.00 p.m. to 6.00 a.m.<sup>8406</sup> On that day, many members of the population coming from Bugesera and heading for Mubumbano passed through the roadblock. Another group followed three or four hours later. There were not many vehicles. Ntahobali stated that he did not pay attention to the ethnicity of the refugees who passed through.<sup>8407</sup>

3035. Ntahobali testified that he returned to the roadblock on two other occasions: the first time, one week after 7 June 1994; and the second time, probably on the night between 1 and 2 July 1994, which was the night preceding the day they went to seek refuge at Nyakibanda.<sup>8408</sup> On the first occasion, he went to the roadblock at 6.00 a.m. and stayed there for two to three hours awaiting his watchman to come and replace him.<sup>8409</sup>

3036. Ntahobali testified that no major incidents happened at the roadblock near Ndimba's house from 6 June 1994 to the time they went in exile.<sup>8410</sup> He never saw soldiers posted at this roadblock,<sup>8411</sup> but in case of a problem, ESO soldiers could intervene upon request by the civilian who manned it; however, this never happened.<sup>8412</sup> In cross-examination, Ntahobali testified that he never participated in a night patrol.<sup>8413</sup> He further stated that they had two guards during the day and two at night.<sup>8414</sup> Ntahobali further testified that at this roadblock, there was no iron bar or other kind of material which could have come from the army or the gendarmerie. There were only tree trunks, which were used to block off the road.<sup>8415</sup> Ntahobali stated that those who manned that roadblock carried traditional weapons and a single gun. He added that to his knowledge there were no Tutsis among them.<sup>8416</sup> He further stated nobody was detained at that roadblock.<sup>8417</sup>

3037. Ntahobali testified that the persons who manned the roadblock near Ndimba's house from 6 June 1994 to the time they left Butare were Padiri, who was the person in charge of it, his deputy Grégoire, Aloys Nyarowaya, conseiller Pascal Habyarimana, Jean-Pierre, Lambert, two young men (both nicknamed Kazungu and one of whom was a motorcycle taxi driver), Vernant Gakwaya alias Sokode, Camille Nzabonimana alias Enesol, Jean-Marie, Célestin, Ntabobwa and other night watchmen of the shops located not far away.<sup>8418</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL

3038. Witness WMKL, a Hutu teacher from Rango commune,<sup>8419</sup> testified that in late May 1994 a roadblock was erected on the University road near the MSM garage, and Mujeri's house.<sup>8420</sup> The roadblock was between Ndimba's house and a white house.<sup>8421</sup> There was a distance of 50 to 100 metres between the MSM garage and the roadblock.<sup>8422</sup> The roadblock was manned by ordinary unarmed civilians, not Interahamwe.<sup>8423</sup> The witness passed through the roadblock four times between April and July 1994.<sup>8424</sup> No one was detained at that roadblock.<sup>8425</sup>

3039. Witness WMKL knew the trader Martin Uwariraye and where he lived.<sup>8426</sup> There was a distance of 500 to 1,000 metres between Uwariraye's house and Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8427</sup> It would not be possible to recognise a person at the roadblock from this distance.<sup>8428</sup> On being referred to Prosecution Exhibit 54 (Sketch of Butare town by Witness QCB), the witness did not agree that there was a roadblock outside Nyiramasuhuko's residence.<sup>8429</sup>

3040. Witness WMKL did not see any dead bodies in Butare préfecture between April and July 1994.<sup>8430</sup> He did not hear of Tutsi civilians being detained or killed at roadblocks between April and July 1994.<sup>8431</sup> He heard that people might have taken advantage of the prevailing insecurity to loot the properties of others.<sup>8432</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBUC

3041. Witness WBUC testified that in 1987 she moved to Kigali and lived there until April 1994.<sup>8433</sup> Around 14 April 1994, she and her family moved to Butare, where they stayed at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8434</sup> She left Butare at the beginning of July 1994.<sup>8435</sup> Upon their arrival in Butare, around 14 April 1994, there was no insecurity there and no gunshots. This situation lasted until the beginning of July 1994, when they decided to leave Butare.<sup>8436</sup>

3042. When they arrived in Butare, they first went to the rector's [Maurice Ntahobali's] residence, which was at a house below Gicanda's, in Buye,<sup>8437</sup> and then to Hotel Ihuliro, where they met Ntahobali and his family.<sup>8438</sup>

3043. Witness WBUC testified that the first time she ever went to Hotel Ihuliro was for Ntahobali's wedding in 1993;<sup>8439</sup> the second time was when she fled Kigali after the death of

President Habyarimana.<sup>8440</sup> Witness WBUC testified that Hotel Ihuliro was still under construction and that the building was not completed when they left the hotel in July 1994.<sup>8441</sup> During her stay at Hotel Ihuliro, in the period from April to June 1994, no one guarded the hotel outside.<sup>8442</sup> During May 1994, there were Hutus as well as Tutsi family members and friends at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8443</sup>

3044. Upon her arrival at Hotel Ihuliro, she found about 20 members of Nyiramasuhuko's family and three UNAMIR soldiers there. The soldiers resided at the hotel and left after a few days.<sup>8444</sup> Among the people who stayed at Hotel Ihuliro, there was a Tutsi named Xavier, who was the husband of Leocadie, the sister of Shalom Ntahobali's wife. Xavier arrived at Hotel Ihuliro together with his spouse and children.<sup>8445</sup>

3045. Witness WBUC testified that on one occasion when she went to the market in Butare, on 30 May 1994, she came across two roadblocks. The first one was located close to Hotel Ihuliro and the EER classrooms. Across from the hotel there was a garage and the roadblock was located between the two buildings after the MSM garage. The owner of the first of these two buildings was someone named Mujeri; the owner of the second building was the son of someone named Ndimba.<sup>8446</sup> Witness WBUC testified that this roadblock was about 150 or 200 metres away from Hotel Ihuliro and that it was possible to see the roadblock from the first floor of the hotel. The roadblock was mounted during the last days of May 1994.<sup>8447</sup> On cross-examination, Witness WBUC testified that she started counting the 150 to 200 metres from the road right outside the hotel entrance, on the side facing the EER; this measurement was only an approximation.<sup>8448</sup>

3046. Witness WBUC testified that she never saw Shalom Ntahobali at the roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8449</sup> The roadblock had to be manned by people from the area. Given that Shalom Ntahobali's father was an elder person and was often unwell, and since Shalom Ntahobali resided in that area, it was possible that Shalom Ntahobali had to go and man the roadblocks as well.<sup>8450</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBNC

3047. Witness WBNC, a Hutu, testified that a few days after the assassination of the President, she sought refuge at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8451</sup> At the time, she was accompanied by her three children, her husband's niece and members of the family with whom she had previously sought refuge.<sup>8452</sup> There was a board bearing the name of the hotel in capital letters, although she could not specify the size of the board.<sup>8453</sup> On cross-examination, the witness testified that they decided to move to Butare because there was no fighting there, and there was enough space for them to seek refuge.<sup>8454</sup>

3049. Witness WBNC did not see Nyiramasuhuko until a number of weeks after her arrival at the hotel, but later corrected herself and said that she saw Nyiramasuhuko a few days after arriving.<sup>8457</sup> Between April and July 1994, she saw Nyiramasuhuko at Hotel Ihuliro on three occasions.<sup>8458</sup> Witness WBNC testified that the youngest of the Ntahobali children, Brigitte, was in Germany in April 1994.<sup>8459</sup>

3050. Witness WBNC testified that a roadblock was established near Hotel Ihuliro towards the end of May and beginning of June 1994.<sup>8460</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBTT

3051. Witness WBTT, a foreigner married to a Hutu, testified that she left Rwanda on 20 April 1994.<sup>8461</sup> She called one Captain Perena who came to fetch her, with a jeep belonging to UNAMIR.<sup>8462</sup> After leaving the rector's office, they went downwards and passed right in front of Hotel Ihuliro. She did not notice any roadblock at Hotel Ihuliro or nearby. There was another roadblock at the entrance to the University. She stated that as they were not stopped at that roadblock, they proceeded on their way.<sup>8463</sup>

3052. Witness WBTT left Rwanda for Nairobi on the evening of 20 April 1994. When she got to the UNAMIR residence, the UNAMIR soldiers said they had to leave on that day as well, but they could not take civilians with them. Captain Perena told the witness that he needed to seek authorisation in order to allow civilians to leave with UNAMIR.<sup>8464</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Maurice Ntahobali

3053. Maurice Ntahobali, a Hutu, Nyiramasuhuko's husband and father of Shalom Ntahobali,<sup>8465</sup> testified that Hotel Ihuliro was located in Mamba cellule in Butare-Ville secteur, in Butare.<sup>8466</sup> He acknowledged that the hotel was located in the vicinity of a garage known as the MSM garage.<sup>8467</sup> He owned Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8468</sup> In February 1994, repairs were being undertaken in his home and he therefore went to live in the hotel where he remained until July 1994. In February and March 1994, his son, Shalom Ntahobali, along with Shalom's wife and daughter, also lived at the hotel.<sup>8469</sup>

3054. The witness was at the hotel when President Habyarimana was killed on 6 April 1994. His wife, Nyiramasuhuko, was in Kimihurura neighbourhood in Kigali where she lived alone.<sup>8470</sup> He stated that he remained in the hotel in the days immediately following the President's assassination. Besides his son, Ntahobali, and his son's family, his daughters Clarisse and Denise also came to live at Hotel Ihuliro after 6 April 1994. His daughter Brigitte was not present as she was pursuing her education in Europe at the time.<sup>8471</sup> He testified that there were 50 to 60 people between April and July 1994 at the hotel.<sup>8472</sup>

3055. The witness had no recollection of any political meetings being held at Hotel Ihuliro between the end of 1993 and June 1994 and, as the owner and person in charge of Hotel Ihuliro, he would have been aware of any political meetings or rallies held there.<sup>8473</sup>

3056. Maurice Ntahobali testified that in February 1994, members of UNAMIR were staying at the hotel as guests. UNAMIR soldiers made arrangements to leave Hotel Ihuliro after 6 April 1994, but they left gradually, the last one leaving one or two weeks after 6 April 1994.<sup>8474</sup>

3057. Maurice Ntahobali testified that at no time did Nyiramasuhuko permanently reside at Hotel Ihuliro. He testified that she did visit the hotel in April, May, June and July 1994.<sup>8475</sup>

3058. At the end of May 1994, a roadblock was mounted about 100 metres from Hotel Ihuliro on the right-hand side, looking at the hotel, and facing the hospital.<sup>8476</sup> He explained that on the right-hand side of Hotel Ihuliro, there was a plot belonging to the EER. The witness testified that he was certain the roadblock was erected at that particular point in time, because when Nyiramasuhuko came to the residence at the end of May 1994, Shalom Ntahobali was not there, having gone sometime to retrieve his wife who had left after a dispute with her sister-in-law. When Shalom Ntahobali departed, the roadblock was not there, but rather was mounted in his absence. Shalom Ntahobali returned a couple of days after Nyiramasuhuko had left with two children of their family.<sup>8477</sup>

3059. Maurice Ntahobali further testified that this roadblock was set up within the framework of civilian defence. He described the position of the roadblock: “Well, if you go through toward the workshop and there was a piece of land where there was a garage, and then there was a store or warehouse and a few metres from the third plot is the point at which the roadblock was located”. Asked about the context of this roadblock’s installation, the witness replied that he was not the one setting it up.<sup>8478</sup> He further testified that the roadblock was manned by people from Mamba neighbourhood who would take turns, according to an agreed scheduling.<sup>8479</sup> When the Ntahobali family’s turn came, Shalom Ntahobali went to the roadblock as a representative.<sup>8480</sup> The witness could not give a precise time frame for this.<sup>8481</sup>

3060. Maurice Ntahobali testified that at Hotel Ihuliro, from 21 April 1994 to late May 1994, he did not hear gunshots and people who were crying or screaming, either inside or outside.<sup>8482</sup> He stated that from Hotel Ihuliro, he could see outside, and he could see the roadblock. This roadblock was “set up with some logs, pieces of timber that were interlocking”, so that one could not move between the logs without having to jump over. They were positioned across the road. The roadblock could have been moved, but he never saw it elsewhere. He insisted that if the roadblock had been moved during the day and reinstated during the night, he would have been in a position to see it.<sup>8483</sup> He clarified that the logs were laid on the ground, making it impossible for a vehicle to drive through the roadblock.<sup>8484</sup> It was necessary for the logs to be moved in order to open the roadblock for vehicles to go through. However, it was possible to work through the logs in a zigzag manner for pedestrians.<sup>8485</sup>

3061. The witness further testified that, apart from checking where the people who wanted to pass came from, he was not aware of any other activities going on at the roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8486</sup> Maurice Ntahobali testified that he owned a Peugeot 505.<sup>8487</sup>

3063. Denise Ntahobali testified that in early 1994, her brother, Ntahobali, lived with his wife and child at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8492</sup> About one week after the death of Habyarimana she and her sister, Clarisse Ntahobali, left Cyarwa and went to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8493</sup> She stated that on arriving at the Hotel Ihuliro, she saw her father, Maurice Ntahobali, her brother, Ntahobali, and her brother's wife and child.<sup>8494</sup> She and her sister decided to stay at the Hotel Ihuliro because it was safe and they were later joined by Clarisse Ntahobali's husband and child.<sup>8495</sup>

3064. At the hotel, they found about five UNAMIR soldiers whom she recognised because of their uniforms. The soldiers were from West Africa and one of them was a white man. She did not talk to them.<sup>8496</sup> In her recollection, the UNAMIR soldiers left Hotel Ihuliro about one week after her arrival there.<sup>8497</sup>

3065. Denise Ntahobali testified that there was no roadblock near Hotel Ihuliro at the end of April 1994.<sup>8498</sup> From her room, she could see the main road linking Mukoni and the city centre and what was happening on it; she stated that she did not see any roadblocks on this road.<sup>8499</sup> The witness explained that before 31 May 1994, she could not see the road that linked the main road and the ESO because she did not leave the hotel, but even when she left the hotel on 31 May 1994, she did not see any roadblock on this road.<sup>8500</sup> Since the time when she and her sister arrived at Hotel Ihuliro she did not leave the place. She stayed at home doing domestic chores such as cooking and taking care of Clarisse's child.<sup>8501</sup>

3066. Denise Ntahobali testified that her mother, Nyiramasuhuko, came to the hotel a few days after her arrival, in the early evening.<sup>8502</sup> At that time, about 30 people were living at the hotel including the witness' aunt and her family.<sup>8503</sup> On 31 May 1994, the witness left Hotel Ihuliro with her mother, Nyiramasuhuko, and niece, and they returned to Murambi.<sup>8504</sup> On the way, they encountered a roadblock between the first and second buildings of the EER, covering the two ends of the road. The roadblock was about 100 to 150 metres from Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8505</sup> In her opinion, the roadblock must have been set up about one or two days before, because when her sister-in-law left,<sup>8506</sup> the roadblock had not been set up yet.<sup>8507</sup> The witness testified that this roadblock was manned by members of the public, and when they passed through, they were not asked anything because the gendarmes talked to the people manning the roadblock.<sup>8508</sup> On cross-examination by the Kanyabashi Defence, the witness did not agree to the proposition that the roadblock was located on the main road linking Mukoni and Butare city centre, at the junction between the road that leads to ESO and the university hospital, close to Hotel Ihuliro, and testified, “[a]ll I know is that that roadblock was located on the road that leads to the rectory and on to the university.”<sup>8509</sup>

3067. Clarisse Ntahobali, a Hutu and one of Nyiramasuhuko’s daughters,<sup>8510</sup> testified that she left Rwanda in August 1991 for Canada to pursue higher education; she returned in February 1994 and remained in Rwanda until 18 July 1994.<sup>8511</sup> Her sister, Brigitte, left Rwanda in August 1993 to study in Germany and had never returned to Rwanda.<sup>8512</sup>

3068. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that her parents owned the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8513</sup> The hotel had a basement, lobby and upper floor and the building also contained a bar, restaurant, pharmacy and store.<sup>8514</sup> There was a sign on a high wall in the hotel covering five to six metres, which indicated that the building was a hotel.<sup>8515</sup>

3069. The witness testified that she was present at Hotel Ihuliro in February and April 1994, where she worked, although on her return to Rwanda in February 1994 she resided in Cyarwa in Ngoma commune, approximately one kilometre and a half from Hotel Ihuliro. Five staff members worked at the hotel, two Tutsis and three Hutus. Until 6 April 1994, these persons remained employees there. The witness and Shalom Ntahobali had supervisory roles at the hotel.<sup>8516</sup>

3070. After the death of the President, she remained at home for about a week in Cyarwa.<sup>8517</sup> She subsequently left Cyarwa in the company of her younger sister, Denise, and together they went to Hotel Ihuliro to meet the other members of their family.<sup>8518</sup> On the day she arrived, about 20 people were staying at Hotel Ihuliro, including Ntahobali, his wife and child, and Maurice Ntahobali, who usually lived there, as well as her father and members of the family of Shalom’s wife’s older sister, and these members of that family had come from Kigali. She added that these people had fled Kigali because war had started there, and there were killings being perpetrated by the RPF.<sup>8519</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was not at Hotel Ihuliro when she arrived.<sup>8520</sup> On 6 April 1994, Nyiramasuhuko was living alone in Kimihurura, Kigali.<sup>8521</sup>

3071. The only people living in the hotel apart from the witness’ family members were UNAMIR personnel.<sup>8522</sup> In mid-February 1994, there were about five UNAMIR members who were living at Hotel Ihuliro. They included one Egyptian, one Austrian called Peter, a Zimbabwean and a Togolese. The last one to leave was Peter, who left when the UNAMIR forces departed from Butare once and for all, towards the end of April 1994.<sup>8523</sup>

3072. The witness testified that Nyiramasuhuko visited Hotel Ihuliro two days after her own arrival, spending one or two nights there before leaving for Murambi early in the morning.<sup>8524</sup> She stated that around the same time, more relatives arrived at the hotel, including her maternal aunt; as a result, there were 30 people staying at the hotel.<sup>8525</sup>

3073. Clarisse Ntahobali testified that as of 28 April 1994, there was no roadblock near the hotel.<sup>8526</sup> When Nyiramasuhuko came to Butare, at the end of May 1994, there was a roadblock “quite close to Hotel Ihuliro”.<sup>8527</sup> It had been set up on 27 May 1994 and was located to the right of the hotel, in front of the house of a certain Ndimba.<sup>8528</sup> People in civilian attire manned the roadblock. The witness further testified that she went across that roadblock, and was asked to show her identity card.<sup>8529</sup> The witness testified that she recognised one of the residents of the neighbourhood, one Jean-Pierre, manning the roadblock. She declared that she never saw Shalom Ntahobali at this roadblock.<sup>8530</sup>

3074. Witness CEM, a Hutu, testified that Hotel Ihuliro was identified as such in writing, on the exterior of the building, and consisted of a ground floor and a top floor, although the top floor had not been completed in April 1994.<sup>8531</sup> She first went to the hotel one to two weeks after the President’s death, then two or three times in the second week of April 1994 and once or twice in the fourth week.<sup>8532</sup> There were about 30 people in the hotel during the month of April 1994, some of whom she knew.<sup>8533</sup> She did not see Nyiramasuhuko or Brigitte Ntahobali<sup>8534</sup> at the hotel during her visits in April 1994, but did see Shalom, Denise, Clarisse and Maurice Ntahobali.<sup>8535</sup>

3075. Witness CEM testified that she went to Hotel Ihuliro on three occasions in May 1994, and that by then the number of people staying at the hotel had increased to a little more than 50. On her way to Hotel Ihuliro, she passed through the roadblock at the Hotel Faucon and the one near the school complex. Towards the end of May 1994, a new roadblock manned by civilians had been erected below the EER. She passed through this roadblock, where she was asked for her identity card, and then she was permitted to go on her way.<sup>8536</sup> The witness did not see Shalom Ntahobali at this roadblock.<sup>8537</sup> Witness CEM testified that during her visits to the hotel she did not witness any meetings being held nor did she see any authorities, leaders, people in uniform or Interahamwe.<sup>8538</sup>

3076. Witness CEM disagreed with the Prosecution's suggestions that Shalom Ntahobali was an Interahamwe during April to June 1994, that he was well respected among the Interahamwe as a leader, and that he manned the roadblock that was close to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8539</sup> Witness CEM also testified that Shalom Ntahobali did not take part in the killings. The witness often went to Hotel Ihuliro, where he was living, and stated "every time I went there I saw him [Ntahobali] busy doing other things."<sup>8540</sup> The witness testified that she never visited the hotel at night and agreed that she was unable to provide any information about what Shalom Ntahobali did at night.<sup>8541</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WZNA

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WKNKI

3078. Witness WKNKI, a Hutu student, testified that he saw a roadblock around Maurice Ntahobali's building, close to a building belonging to Ndimba's son.<sup>8545</sup> That roadblock was mounted by the end of May 1994, for the purposes of civilian defence.<sup>8546</sup> Witness WKNKI never saw Nyiramasuhuko or any member of her family, when he went through that roadblock.<sup>8547</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

3079. Nyiramasuhuko admitted to being in Butare on the following dates: 14-15 April 1994; 28-29 April 1994; 10 May 1994; 14-16 May 1994; 30-31 May 1994; 11-12 June 1994; 24 June 1994; and 2 July 1994.<sup>8548</sup>

3080. Nyiramasuhuko testified that most of the observers left Rwanda after 6 April 1994 and very few remained, even though "we" begged them to remain.<sup>8549</sup> UNAMIR and Roger Booh-

Booh did stay on for some time after 6 April 1994, but not for long. A number of Belgian soldiers left.<sup>8550</sup> In cross-examination, Nyiramasuhuko added that she was not present at the préfecture Security Council meeting held on 20 April 1994 in Butare, and that even before that day, around 13 or 15 April 1994, “we” learned that Belgium had prepared a document addressed to the Security Council, asking for the withdrawal of its troops from the country.<sup>8551</sup> Other soldiers remained, who left after 20 April 1994. Belgium had the greatest number of people in Rwanda.<sup>8552</sup>

3081. Nyiramasuhuko testified that on 30 May 1994, on the way from Gikongoro to Butare town, she drove on a tarred road. Starting at the entrance of Butare town, the number of roadblocks had increased since 14 May 1994. Civilians guarded those roadblocks which had been added. On 30 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko saw a roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro, which had been mounted in front of the stalls and the Protestant school (EER). She testified there was another roadblock in town, which was manned by civilians and which she had not seen previously. It was located on the road to the airport after the social welfare school. She believed that it must have been mounted because of the refugee problems. On her way to Butare, Nyiramasuhuko slowed down, but did not stop at the roadblock leading to the airport because it was not set up on the main road. She stopped at the roadblock close to the shops and the EER.<sup>8553</sup> The roadblock was across the road, close to the EER on one side, while the shops were on the other side.<sup>8554</sup>

3082. When Nyiramasuhuko stopped at the roadblock, she was stopped by the people manning it; when they realised who she was, they let her through. She recognised one of the civilians guarding the roadblock. He was the son of one Misigaro Thaddée who had a store in town.<sup>8555</sup> After passing the roadblock, Nyiramasuhuko went to Hotel Ihuliro, where her family was.<sup>8556</sup> She reached Hotel Ihuliro in the afternoon, before 6.00 p.m. As soon as she arrived, Nyiramasuhuko talked with members of her family, who were celebrating her niece’s birthday; but she told them she had come to evacuate them. Nyiramasuhuko stated: “Given the war situation which was prevailing, and since people were fleeing, I did not find that fair. I said to myself that they should be preparing their luggage.”<sup>8557</sup>

3084. Nyiramasuhuko was questioned if she knew that MRND meetings had taken place at the Hotel Ihuliro in 1993 or 1994. She stated that meetings could not take place without the permission of the bourgmestre who was duty-bound to draft a report on any meetings that took

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

3085. Witness D-2-YYYY testified that the roadblock at the Butare garage was located across the road from Maurice Ntahobali's house.<sup>8561</sup> The witness noticed this roadblock for the first time on 21 April 1994 and testified that it was manned by armed soldiers in camouflage uniforms and black berets, and Interahamwe wearing military shirts and casual clothes.<sup>8562</sup> He did not know who was in charge of the roadblock, however, he heard mention of Shalom Ntahobali being in charge of it.<sup>8563</sup>

3086. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu detainee and business owner in April 1994, stated that around 10 April 1994, at the Butare MSM garage roadblock the Interahamwe asked for his identification papers.<sup>8564</sup> He saw other people crossing the roadblocks, having their identity documents checked.<sup>8565</sup>

3087. Witness D-2-13-D was shown Defence Exhibit 41.<sup>8566</sup> He confirmed that there was a BP station located on the other side of the road from Hotel Faucon, and a Shell petrol station between Hotel Faucon and Hotel Ibis.<sup>8567</sup> He stated he might have been confused between BP and Shell because he could not read.<sup>8568</sup>

3088. Witness D-2-13-D confirmed that neither Nyiramasuhuko nor Maurice Ntahobali lived in the house he referred to as "Nyiramasuhuko's residence". He stated that this house was in fact the headquarters of UNAMIR, because he saw UNAMIR members there and he also heard people say so.<sup>8569</sup> The roadblock was near the MSM garage opposite "Nyiramasuhuko's house", though not directly at it.<sup>8570</sup> The witness stated that he had never claimed that Nyiramasuhuko controlled the roadblock.<sup>8571</sup>

3089. Witness D-2-11-D, a Hutu farmer, testified that there was a roadblock located on the road leading to Burundi, between the garage and Ntahobali's home, very close to the junction or the road that went up to ESO.<sup>8572</sup> It was manned by soldiers and Interahamwe armed with Kalashnikovs; by Interahamwe, he meant people wearing military uniform on their top and civilian clothing on the other half below. The witness encountered no difficulty at that roadblock and was allowed to move on.<sup>8573</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

3090. Witness D-2-5-I testified that during the period between April and July 1994, there was a roadblock at MSM garage manned by soldiers and Interahamwe. He said that the soldiers were in command of this roadblock and he later heard that Shalom Ntahobali was in charge of it.<sup>8574</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness Bernadette Kamanzi

3091. Bernadette Kamanzi, the wife of Kanyabashi, testified that she crossed a roadblock located close to Pauline Nyiramasuhuko's residence, manned by armed soldiers and Interahamwe who conducted a thorough search. The witness and those who accompanied her were asked to get down from the vehicle. The witness stated that the roadblock was precisely located on the road from the Hotel Faucon which led to the university campus, and it was very close to the intersection of the ESO. The witness could only recognise Shalom Ntahobali among the people present at that roadblock. Ntahobali wore a camouflage pair of trousers and a shirt of another colour, and he was carrying a gun.<sup>8575</sup>

3092. Kamanzi testified that during her last visit to Mpare, on 1 July 1994, gunshots could be heard from the town. The witness was with Kanyabashi, her sister-in-law Goretti and the latter's child; they crossed roadblocks at Hotel Faucon, at Bihira's house and at Ntahobali's house on that day. Ntahobali repeatedly said to them that they were accomplices.<sup>8576</sup>

3093. Witness D-13-D, a Hutu driver,<sup>8577</sup> testified that at the end of April 1994, he noticed a roadblock below the MSM Garage, situated between two roads, one going from the university to Hotel Ibis, the other leading to ESO, above Ntahobali's residence.<sup>8578</sup> The witness further explained that next to the MSM garage, there was a storey building that belonged to Sindikubwabo's son-in-law, Mujere, and another house that belonged to Ndimba's son,

Venuste. This roadblock was just next to the garage's fence and was also located near a culvert or gutter used for drawing water from the Quartier Arabe to Busenyi.<sup>8579</sup>

3094. Witness D-13-D testified that on the road leading from the university to Hotel Faucon and Hotel Ibis, opposite the MSM Garage, there was also a petrol station called SGP, followed by Ntahobali's residence.<sup>8580</sup> On the same side of the road was the Protestant centre (EER), then the National Pedagogic Institute (IPN).<sup>8581</sup>

3095. Witness D-13-D testified that the roadblock near the MSM Garage was always at the same place.<sup>8582</sup> Between the end of April and early July 1994, he did not see another roadblock in the direction of the Hotel Ibis and Hotel Faucon, between the MSM roadblock and the one at the junction near the church (at Bihira's place).<sup>8583</sup>

3096. Whenever he crossed the roadblock at the MSM garage, Witness D-13-D was stopped and had to show a document which had been signed by Colonel Gatsinzi.<sup>8584</sup> The witness testified that he passed by that roadblock regularly, sometimes every day.<sup>8585</sup> He saw young people manning the roadblock, who were taking turns.<sup>8586</sup> Some of them wore half military and half civilian clothes; some carried firearms.<sup>8587</sup> In cross-examination, the witness added that it was manned by Interahamwe.<sup>8588</sup>

3097. At the beginning of May 1994, but before 10 May 1994, he saw Ntahobali, whom he knew well, at the roadblock.<sup>8589</sup> In total, he saw Ntahobali between five to 10 times at the MSM garage. Ntahobali was wearing a military, camouflage vest.<sup>8590</sup> The witness knew the other people at that roadblock, who were taking turns; however, he heard this was "Shalom's roadblock".<sup>8591</sup>

3098. Witness D-13-D testified that on one occasion, Ntahobali stopped him, searched him and asked him to open the bonnet of his vehicle, looking for ammunition. The witness had to open the booth, but two persons—called Grégoire and Eugène—who were present, told Ntahobali that they knew the witness and that he was allowed to pass through the roadblock. From then on, the witness was not searched anymore.<sup>8592</sup>

3099. During cross-examination by the Ntahobali Defence, it was put to Witness D-13-D that he fabricated charges against Ntahobali; the witness answered that everybody in Butare knew

3.6.23.4.1 Meetings at Hotel Ihuliro

3100. The Prosecution relies exclusively on Prosecution Witness FA to establish that meetings were held at Hotel Ihuliro between 7 and 14 April 1994 and that during such meetings, the issue of how to implement the genocide was discussed.<sup>8596</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FA's testimony on this issue is hearsay, uncorroborated and was contradicted by Defence witnesses, notably Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witnesses Maurice Ntahobali and CEM,<sup>8597</sup> and Ntahobali Defence Witness NMBMP.<sup>8598</sup> Nyiramasuhuko also denied this allegation.<sup>8599</sup>

3101. The Chamber further notes that many of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Defence witnesses are related to or have close ties with Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali and, as such, may have an interest in protecting them. The Chamber is mindful of the fact that in these circumstances, appropriate caution must be exercised when evaluating the Defence evidence. That being said, the Chamber finds the Defence evidence on this particular allegation to be consistent and credible in a number of important respects including the layout of Hotel Ihuliro,<sup>8600</sup> the number of people residing there in April 1994,<sup>8601</sup> and the presence or otherwise of Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>8602</sup>

3102. The Prosecution led no evidence to support Witness FA's account that meetings were held between 7 and 14 April 1994 at Hotel Ihuliro or that Nyiramasuhuko resided there. Three

Defence witnesses testified that no political or Interahamwe meetings took place at Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8603</sup> Maurice Ntahobali, corroborating Nyiramasuhuko's testimony, specifically stated that his wife did not live at Hotel Ihuliro in April 1994.<sup>8604</sup> Four other witnesses testified that Nyiramasuhuko visited rather than resided at the hotel in April 1994.<sup>8605</sup>

3103. In addition to the lack of corroboration of Witness FA's testimony, the Chamber is also of the view that certain aspects of the Defence evidence cast doubt on the veracity of Witness FA's account on this issue. For instance Witness FA asserted that she knew that the people who entered Nyiramasuhuko's house were attending meetings because her neighbour was among those attending.<sup>8606</sup> The Chamber finds this explanation implausible, noting the evidence that at least 30 people were present at Hotel Ihuliro in April 1994 and that part of the hotel contained a grocery shop and a pharmacy.<sup>8607</sup> The Chamber considers that the human activity in the vicinity of the hotel could have been a consequence of the normal comings and goings of those staying or shopping there.

3104. Further, the Chamber notes that Witness FA's testimony contains a number of internal inconsistencies. The witness admitted that in her statement to Prosecution investigators in 1996, she did not mention that her neighbour had spoken to her about instructions to kill Tutsis having been issued at the meeting or his warning that Tutsis should leave the compound.<sup>8608</sup> Instead, her statement was limited to her neighbour's comments on identity cards.<sup>8609</sup> The Chamber considers it unlikely that issues having such a direct impact on the personal security of Witness FA and her Tutsi husband could have been forgotten or regarded as less important than that of identity cards when she gave her statement in 1996. A further inconsistency was brought to light in cross-examination when Witness FA admitted that she only knew of the meetings at Nyiramasuhuko's house because her neighbour had informed her of them following the second meeting.<sup>8610</sup> This directly contradicts her evidence-in-chief that she was an eyewitness to events and saw people going to and leaving three separate meetings at the house she identified as Nyiramasuhuko's.<sup>8611</sup> In addition, while during her evidence-in-chief Witness FA could not recall the dates of the alleged meetings,<sup>8612</sup> in cross-examination she was confronted with the fact that in her statement to Prosecution investigators dated 26 November 1996, she said that the meetings had occurred between 7 and 14 April 1994. She confirmed that to be the case.<sup>8613</sup>

3106. In view of the foregoing, the Chamber does not consider Witness FA's testimony to be convincing or credible in relation to this allegation. Thus, the Chamber does not find that the Prosecution has proven that meetings took place at Hotel Ihuliro in April 1994 or that Nyiramasuhuko lived in the hotel during that period. It is therefore not necessary to discuss Nyiramasuhuko or Ntahobali's knowledge of or involvement in such meetings. Accordingly, the Prosecution has not proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Nyiramasuhuko held meetings with the Interahamwe at Hotel Ihuliro during which the subject of how to implement the genocide in Butare was discussed.

3.6.23.4.2 Mounting of the Roadblock Near Hotel Ihuliro

3107. It is not contested that Maurice Ntahobali owned Hotel Ihuliro and that it was used both as a residence for the Ntahobali family and as a boarding house. What is contested is whether a roadblock was erected between April and July 1994 close to Hotel Ihuliro and what role, if any, Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali had at the roadblock. Only Ntahobali Defence Witnesses WCNJ and WCKJ testified they had never seen a roadblock in that area.<sup>8616</sup> However, in light of the totality of the evidence the Chamber finds this does not raise a reasonable doubt as to whether a roadblock did exist near Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali's house.

3108. As to the exact location of the roadblock, the Chamber has heard consistent testimony from Prosecution and Defence witnesses to the effect that the roadblock was located in the proximity of the EER and the MSM garage, and very close to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8617</sup> More specifically, Witness FA testified that the roadblock was in front of Nyiramasuhuko's residence; Nsabimana Defence Witness Bararwandika testified that Nyiramasuhuko's house was about 50 to 100 metres from the roadblock; Ntahobali Defence Witness WCMNA testified that the roadblock was about 50 to 70 metres from Ntahobali's house.<sup>8618</sup> This account is supported by the Accused Ntahobali's testimony, who himself testified that the roadblock was erected "a few metres" from Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8619</sup> Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL also testified that between the MSM garage and the roadblock there was a distance of about 50 to 100 metres.<sup>8620</sup> The Chamber finds the discrepancy among these witnesses' testimonies concerning the distance of the roadblock from Hotel Ihuliro is minor. Accordingly, the Chamber finds this evidence credible and is satisfied that the roadblock was located at a distance of approximately 50 to 100 metres from Hotel Ihuliro.

3109. There is also a considerable amount of consistent evidence indicating that the roadblock was mounted towards the end of April 1994. Prosecution Witnesses FA, SX, TB, TG, TQ, QCB, Nsabimana Defence Witnesses Charles Karemano and Alexandre Bararwandika, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-YYYY, D-2-13-D, D-2-5-I and D-13-D all gave testimony supporting this assertion.<sup>8621</sup> The Chamber recalls some credibility issues with respect to Prosecution Witness FA, as outlined above in the context of the allegation concerning meetings at Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali's house (). Similarly, Prosecution Witness QCB was a detained person at the time of his testimony and therefore the Chamber will treat his testimony with appropriate caution. Nevertheless, the Chamber finds Witnesses FA and QCB credible concerning the mounting of the roadblock, in light of all the other evidence.

3110. This account is contradicted by Ntahobali Defence Witnesses Maurice Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali, Denise Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witnesses WBNC, WMKL, H1B6, WUNBJ, WCNMC, WBUC, WCUJM, the Accused Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko. According to these witnesses, the roadblock was established not earlier than May 1994.<sup>8622</sup> The Chamber considers that among these witnesses are relatives of the Accused, such as Maurice, Clarisse and Denise Ntahobali who are, respectively, the father and sisters of Ntahobali, and therefore may have had an incentive to absolve him of responsibility for crimes committed at the roadblocks. While their relationship to the Accused does not automatically discredit the testimony of these witnesses, the Chamber will treat their testimony with appropriate caution.

3111. In light of the considerable amount of evidence indicating that the roadblock was mounted at the end of April 1994, the Chamber finds the mentioned testimony of the Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko Defence witnesses fails to raise a reasonable doubt as to the allegation that the roadblock near Hotel Ihuliro was in existence by the end of April 1994.

3112. Furthermore, the Chamber recalls that Prosecution Witness QI also testified that the roadblock was set up after the UNAMIR soldiers left the hotel.<sup>8623</sup> Defence Witnesses WBTT, WBUC, NMBMP, Béatrice Munyenyezi, Denise Ntahobali, Clarisse Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali gave evidence indicating that, by the end of April 1994 the UNAMIR soldiers had already left Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>8624</sup> The Chamber believes that a roadblock could have been mounted in less than a day, and therefore considers that these testimonies, if read in conjunction with the testimony of Witness QI, support the assertion that the roadblock was set up during the last days of April 1994.

3113. Having considered all the evidence, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that in late April 1994 a roadblock was erected near Hotel Ihuliro in Butare town.

3.6.23.4.3 Ntahobali's Role at the Roadblock

3114. The Chamber notes that Ntahobali and his wife, Béatrice Munyenyezi, testified that he had malaria and was convalescing at the Hotel Ihuliro for an entire week around the end of April and beginning of May 1994.<sup>8625</sup> She remembered this happened two or three days before his niece's birthday which was on 28 April 1994.<sup>8626</sup> Ntahobali also claimed to remember very clearly that it was 28 April 1994 that he felt the symptoms because on that day it was his niece's birthday; he saw his mother, Nyiramasuhuko, who he had not seen since 14 April 1994; and he felt very ill and had to go lie down.<sup>8627</sup>

3115. Ntahobali and his wife claimed that he received malarial treatments from an aunt who was trained in giving injections.<sup>8628</sup> This relative was not called to testify to corroborate their account. Furthermore, none of Ntahobali's sisters and other relatives who were at the Hotel Ihuliro during this time period provided testimony to corroborate Ntahobali's testimony that he had malaria at the end of April into the beginning of May 1994.

3116. The Chamber recalls there are credibility issues regarding Munyenyezi and it will therefore view her testimony with appropriate caution (). First, as Ntahobali's wife, the Chamber considers she would have a motive to exculpate him. Furthermore, Munyenyezi testified that she did not hear that the killings between April 1994 and July 1994 were ethnically motivated. She stated that people were killing each other, whether they were Hutus or Tutsis. She further stated that the ethnic group being targeted between April and July 1994 was not Tutsi.<sup>8629</sup> She testified that she did not hear about or see any massive killings in Butare after 19 April 1994.<sup>8630</sup> She added that she never saw dead bodies in Butare after 19 April 1994.<sup>8631</sup> Munyenyezi further stated that she did not see any serious violence in Butare.<sup>8632</sup> In light of the Chamber's findings concerning all of the killings that were occurring throughout Butare préfecture, including at locations within a very short distance of the Hotel Ihuliro, such as the EER, and the roadblock in front of the hotel itself, it is incredible that Béatrice Munyenyezi would not have seen any killings or known that Tutsis were being targeted. The Chamber does not find her testimony to be credible.

3117. Based on Munyenyezi's lack of credibility and the absence of corroboration from any other testifying witnesses who should have had knowledge of Ntahobali's illness, and the late disclosure of the alibi,<sup>8633</sup> the Chamber does not find this alibi evidence to be credible.

3118. Prosecution Witnesses FA, QCB, SX, TB, TG and TQ testified to having seen Ntahobali at the roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro, where he ordered and directly participated in the commission of crimes. Witness FA testified that Ntahobali often manned the roadblock outside Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>8634</sup> Witness FA gave eyewitness testimony that Ntahobali used an axe to kill a girl with long hair,<sup>8635</sup> that Ntahobali hit a man with an axe and handed him over to Kazungu to be killed,<sup>8636</sup> and that he hit a soldier from ESO military with an axe before handing him over to the Interahamwe to be killed.<sup>8637</sup> Witnesses QCB and SX gave eyewitness testimony that Ntahobali questioned people, checked their identity cards and participated in the killing of people at this roadblock.<sup>8638</sup>

3119. Witness TB gave eyewitness testimony that during April 1994, she heard Ntahobali tell the soldiers gathered at the roadblock to "work", which she understood to mean to kill people.<sup>8639</sup> She saw people being beaten to death at the roadblock and being taken away to be killed.<sup>8640</sup> Witness TG gave eyewitness testimony that Ntahobali was present at the roadblock and saw people being beaten at the roadblock, some to death, and others being taken to the forest by the EER and killed.<sup>8641</sup> The witness could hear the sound of gunshots and people being beaten and screaming from the direction of the EER and Ntahobali's home.<sup>8642</sup>

3120. Witness TQ gave eyewitness testimony that he saw Ntahobali and others lifting a corpse downhill from the road near the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house, and throwing it into a ditch. There were at least 10 other corpses in the ditch.<sup>8643</sup>

3121. Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano gave eyewitness testimony that Ntahobali was in charge of the roadblock and that, as the leader of the "hoodlums" positioned there, he was able to spare Kagwene's life.<sup>8644</sup>

3122. In addition, Witness SX identified Ntahobali in court, and testified that he had seen him often in Butare near the EER.<sup>8645</sup> Witness SX further testified that he watched the roadblock for two to three hours from a distance of 100 metres, during which time he saw people killed and that he saw Ntahobali there.<sup>8646</sup> Witness TB also testified that she knew Ntahobali well and she was able to identify him in court.<sup>8647</sup> She said that she could see the roadblock clearly from her compound and that she saw Ntahobali there manning the roadblock in late April 1994.<sup>8648</sup> Witness TG testified that he knew Ntahobali well because they had attended Groupe Scolaire together, and he was able to identify Ntahobali in court.<sup>8649</sup> He further testified to witnessing Ntahobali passing by the roadblock on several occasions in late April 1994.<sup>8650</sup> Witness TQ testified that Ntahobali was manning the roadblock when he was stopped there in late April 1994.<sup>8651</sup> While Witness TQ admitted that he did not mention Ntahobali's presence at the roadblock in his statement of 28 July 1998, the Chamber is satisfied with his explanation that he did not include in that statement everything he knew about Ntahobali.<sup>8652</sup> The statement does not mention any events having occurred at the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house, but rather provides information on separate incidents.

3123. In addition to Witness FA's credibility issues already addressed, the Chamber notes another inconsistency in her testimony concerning the roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro. Witness FA altered her description of what arms Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko carried at various points in time. In her testimony about the soldier alleged to have been killed at the roadblock, Witness FA stated that Ntahobali hit him with an axe before handing him over to be killed; in her previous statement, she failed to mention that he hit him before handing him over.<sup>8653</sup> Although the Chamber considers this is a minor discrepancy in light of what is stated above, in the context of Witness FA's credibility, and considering that this account is not corroborated, the Chamber will not rely on Witness FA's testimony on this issue.

3124. The Chamber observes that Witnesses QCB, SX, TB, TG, TQ and Karemano were able to provide detailed testimony corroborating the claims of the other. Given the high degree of consistency among the testimony of these witnesses, and the fact they were all eyewitnesses, the Chamber finds their accounts credible.

3126. Defence Witnesses WUNBJ, WBUC and WCNJ contradicted this evidence, testifying that they had never seen Ntahobali at the roadblock.<sup>8656</sup> Also Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness CEM denied that Ntahobali manned the roadblock.<sup>8657</sup> However, the Chamber notes that these witnesses were not permanently posted at the roadblock, from its setting up, but just happened to pass by on certain occasions and therefore might have missed the times when Ntahobali was at the roadblock. In any event, the Chamber recalls that Maurice Ntahobali confirmed that Ntahobali went to the roadblock when it was his family's turn;<sup>8658</sup> also Witness WBUC conceded that it was possible that Ntahobali went to man the roadblock, on occasion;<sup>8659</sup> the Accused Ntahobali himself indicated that, at some point in time, he was present at the roadblock.<sup>8660</sup> The Chamber finds the testimony of Witnesses WUNBJ, WBUC, WCNJ and CEM does not raise a reasonable doubt as to whether Ntahobali was present at the roadblock during the relevant time.

3127. The Chamber also recalls the testimony of Nsabimana, who testified that there was a roadblock in front of the house of "Ntahobari", which was manned by a certain "Sharom".<sup>8661</sup> Recalling its finding above concerning the existence of a roadblock near Hotel Ihuliro in late April 1994, and in light of all the other, relevant evidence, the Chamber is satisfied that "Ntahobari" referred to "Maurice Ntahobali" and "Sharom" is a reference to the Accused Shalom Ntahobali.

3128. Having considered all the evidence before it, the Chamber finds the Prosecution has established beyond a reasonable doubt that during the relevant time period, Ntahobali manned the roadblock in front of his parents' residence and utilised the roadblock with the assistance of soldiers and other unknown persons to abduct and kill members of the Tutsi population.

3.6.23.4.4 Abduction, Confinement and Rape of Seven Tutsi Girls, Including Witness TN, 21 and 25 April 1994

3129. The Chamber observes that Witness TN is the only witness who implicates Ntahobali in the abduction and rape of seven Tutsi girls in his house and compound. The Chamber is mindful that Witness TN is a single witness and exercises caution in its analysis of her testimony. The Chamber considers that Witness TN, although a single witness on this event, was a truthful witness, who was brave enough to attend court and give a detailed account of the horrendous rape and abduction allegedly inflicted on her and the other girls by Ntahobali and said soldiers. In the Chamber's view, it is clear from the witness' testimony that these girls were raped by soldiers. What is for the Chamber to determine is whether it was established that Ntahobali played a role in this incident.

3130. The witness testified that she and the other girls were abducted from the secteur office, where they were guarded by Shalom, and were taken to his house.<sup>8662</sup> The witness did not give any further detail concerning the location or the description of the house. As to the identification of Ntahobali, the Chamber notes that in her prior statement, Witness TN explained that on the day of the rape, her abductor was identified by others as "Shalom".<sup>8663</sup> In the statement, she described Shalom as being of average height, average size, black and of dark skin. The witness however explained that she would not be able to identify Ntahobali if she saw him again, given the circumstances of her encounter with him. Accordingly, when asked to identify Ntahobali in court, Witness TN pointed to a security guard.<sup>8664</sup> Although in the Chamber's view Ntahobali's said features could not have changed in any extreme way between 1994, between the time of the alleged rape, and 2002, the time of the witness' testimony in court, it is nevertheless understandable that, after nearly eight years from the abduction and rape, Witness TN was not able to identify Ntahobali in court. In any event, the Chamber notes that the security officer that the witness mistakenly identified as Ntahobali had similar features as those of Ntahobali.<sup>8665</sup>

3131. Taking all the above circumstances into account, although the Chamber does not discredit Witness TN's testimony, particularly in light of the detailed description of her traumatic experience, it nevertheless finds the evidence insufficient to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that the perpetrator of the alleged abduction and rape was Ntahobali or that the rape actually occurred at Ntahobali's house. The Chamber therefore considers that the Prosecution has not discharged its burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt in regard to the allegation that Ntahobali abducted seven Tutsi girls to his house in April 1994; that Ntahobali raped at least four of these Tutsi girls personally and instructed and caused the rape of the seven girls by soldiers.

3.6.23.4.5 Rape and Murder of a Tutsi Girl Near the Roadblock, Around 28 April 1994

Further, it was corroborated by Prosecution Witness TB's testimony which was equally detailed. Both witnesses testified that the girl arrived in a yellow Daihatsu, and that a certain Jean-Pierre was with Ntahobali at the time of the incident.<sup>8666</sup> They also stated that the car was stopped at the roadblock and the people inside the car were asked to show their identity cards.<sup>8667</sup>

3133. Witness TB further testified that she saw Ntahobali drag a girl with braids, who had been in the vehicle, into the woods from her vantage point on the main road near the roadblock, and subsequently saw her dead body with vaginal injuries near a tree in the woods, later that evening.<sup>8668</sup> Witness SX also witnessed the rape from his hiding place, about 20 metres away from Ntahobali and the victim.<sup>8669</sup> The witnesses' descriptions regarding the subsequent burial of the body are also consistent. Witness SX testified that about four days after the girl's death he and some others buried her body in a wooded lot.<sup>8670</sup> Similarly, Witness TB testified that the girl's body was later buried by three people, one of whom she identified as Witness SX.<sup>8671</sup>

3135. In light of all of the foregoing, the Chamber finds Witnesses TB and SX credible with respect to this allegation, and finds the evidence establishes beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali raped and murdered the young woman who arrived at the roadblock in a yellow Daihatsu, around the end of April 1994.

3.6.23.4.6 Order to Kill Léopold Ruvurajabo at the Roadblock, 21 April 1994

3136. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution relies solely on Witness QCB, a detained witness, to establish that on 21 April 1994, Ntahobali instructed the Interahamwe to kill a certain Léopold Ruvurajabo, and thus the Chamber must treat his testimony with an appropriate caution.

3138. Further, the Chamber notes that while Witness QCB admitted he was implicated in other killings, such as in the attacks that took place at Kabakobwa (), he played no role in the present incident; his evidence is that of an eyewitness. Therefore, the Chamber does not consider Witness QCB might have had any personal interest in lying about the facts or inculpating Ntahobali.

3139. The Chamber further observes that Witness QCB's testimony was detailed. The Chamber has noted a minor inconsistency between the witness' testimony and his previous statement, namely the exact location where the witness met with Ruvurajabo on the day he is alleged to have been killed.<sup>8674</sup> The Chamber considers this inconsistency does not relate to a material fact and finds Witness QCB credible with respect to this incident.

3140. In light of the above, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that on 21 April 1994, Ntahobali instructed the Interahamwe to kill a certain Léopold Ruvurajabo, a Tutsi, at the roadblock near Hotel Ihuliro.

3.6.23.4.7 Crimes Committed at the Roadblock

3141. The Chamber was presented with compelling evidence indicating that at the roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro crimes were committed against Tutsis by the Interahamwe. The testimonies of Prosecution Witnesses FA, QCB, SX, TB and TG support the allegation that people were beaten and killed at the roadblock.<sup>8675</sup> Further, Witnesses TN, SX and TB also gave evidence of rapes being carried out in the vicinity of the roadblock.<sup>8676</sup> The Chamber observes that these were all eyewitnesses.

3142. The Chamber further recalls the testimony of Nsabimana Defence Witness Bararwandika, that he saw a corpse at the roadblock.<sup>8677</sup> This testimony supports the Prosecution assertion that crimes were committed at the roadblock.

3143. In The Truth About the Massacres in Butare, Nsabimana wrote about killings being regularly committed at roadblocks, and described the roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro as being "one of the most formidable".<sup>8678</sup> The Chamber notes that Nsabimana's account on this issue is corroborated by that of other witnesses, as outlined above, and it will therefore rely on his testimony.

3144. Having considered all the evidence before it, the Chamber finds it has been established beyond a reasonable doubt that crimes, in particular beatings, rapes and killings, were carried out against mostly Tutsis, at the roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro.

3.6.23.4.8 Nyiramasuhuko's Role at the Roadblock

3145. Witness FA testified that people were killed at the roadblock from April until June 1994, and that Nyiramasuhuko was in control of the roadblock.<sup>8679</sup> Witness FA testified that Nyiramasuhuko was present at the roadblock when a man was ordered from his car and taken away by Kazungu to be killed.<sup>8680</sup> She also testified that several days later a soldier was handed over to the Interahamwe to be killed, and Nyiramasuhuko refused to intervene.<sup>8681</sup>

3147. While Witness SS was able to identify Nyiramasuhuko in the courtroom at the time of her testimony, Witness FA was unable to do so, but could only testify that a certain woman in the courtroom "resembled" Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>8685</sup> However, the Chamber is mindful that nearly 10 years had passed since Witness FA last saw the Accused, and therefore, the witness might not have had a clear recollection, as she also stated in court.<sup>8686</sup>

3148. Witnesses FA and SS gave first-hand eyewitness testimony regarding the sighting of Nyiramasuhuko at the roadblock on different occasions.<sup>8687</sup> The Chamber also notes that a number of Defence witnesses maintained that Nyiramasuhuko did not reside at Hotel Ihuliro, but that Nyiramasuhuko visited the hotel on a number of occasions in April, May and June 1994 (). The Chamber is satisfied that the evidence presented establishes beyond a reasonable doubt that Nyiramasuhuko was present at the roadblock, on occasions during the relevant time.

3149. However, the Chamber notes that only Witness SS testified to the extent that Nyiramasuhuko was exercising authority at the roadblock.<sup>8688</sup> Witness FA only stated that Nyiramasuhuko was present during a few incidents. Moreover, the Chamber recalls that Witness FA's testimony suffers from a number of contradictions and therefore it must exercise caution in its assessment.

3150. The Chamber considers Witness SS' testimony to be uncorroborated, since no other witness testified as to Nyiramasuhuko's role of authority at the roadblock, and further observes that Nyiramasuhuko's presence at the roadblock on certain occasions does not, as such, entail that she was giving orders or supervising the commission of any crime. Thus, in considering the totality of the evidence, the Chamber finds that, although the Prosecution has established that Nyiramasuhuko was present at the roadblock in question during occasions in the relevant time period, it has not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Nyiramasuhuko also manned that roadblock. Nor is the Chamber satisfied that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that during the relevant time period, Nyiramasuhuko utilised the roadblock with the assistance of soldiers and other unknown persons, to abduct and kill members of the Tutsi population.

3.6.24 Killing of Rwamukwaya Family, April 1994

3.6.24.1 Introduction

3151. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, Ntahobali travelled throughout Butare préfecture searching for Tutsis. When the Tutsis were located, Ntahobali abducted them and took them to various locations, where they were executed.<sup>8689</sup> The Prosecution specifically alleges that Ntahobali is responsible for killing the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8690</sup> In support of its submission, it relies on Prosecution Witnesses FA, TG, SJ, SU, SS, TQ, QCB, TE, RN, QF, ST, TF and Expert Witness André Guichaoua and Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-13-O, D-2-14-W and D-13-D.

3152. The Ntahobali Defence denies Ntahobali's involvement in the killing of the Rwamukwaya family, and any subsequent looting or taking of the deceased's car.<sup>8691</sup> It further suggests that the Rwamukwaya family was still alive in mid-May 1994.<sup>8692</sup> In support of its submissions, the Defence relies on Witnesses WQJMP, Innocent Rutayisire, Béatrice Munyenyezi, Nsabimana, Shalom Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko.

3153. Ntahobali also relies on an alibi, asserting that from 28 April 1994 until 5 May 1994 he was sick in bed with malaria.<sup>8693</sup>

3.6.24.2 Preliminary Issues

Failure to Plead Killing of the Rwamukwaya Family

3154. The Ntahobali Defence submits that the specific allegation concerning the killing of the Rwamukwaya family, and looting and use of their vehicle, was not pled in the Indictment and should therefore be disregarded.<sup>8694</sup> Paragraph 6.35 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, Ntahobali travelled throughout Butare préfecture locating, abducting and executing Tutsis. In addition, Paragraph 6.39 generally alleges that the entire préfecture of Butare was the scene of massacres of the Tutsi population involving, among others, Ntahobali.<sup>8695</sup> However, the Chamber notes that the Indictment does not mention the murder of the Rwamukwaya family.

3155. The Chamber recalls that where the Prosecution alleges that an accused personally committed criminal acts, it must plead with the greatest precision the identity of the victim, the place and approximate date of the alleged criminal acts, and the means by which they were committed (). The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment provides no such information with respect to the killing of the Rwamukwaya family although, having regard to the dates of the statements of Witnesses TE, RN, QF, ST, TF, FA and TG, it is clear the Prosecution was aware of the details of the killing in November and December 1996, well before the filing of the Amended Indictment on 1 March 2001.<sup>8696</sup> Such information should have been contained in the Indictment and the Chamber finds that its absence renders the Indictment defective in this respect. The Chamber will now consider whether this defect was cured through subsequent disclosure by the Prosecution of timely, clear and consistent information.

3156. The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief outlines that the Prosecution intended to rely on Witnesses TE and RN to testify in relation to this event.<sup>8697</sup>

3157. Witness TE's summary indicates that he would testify that Ntahobali went to the Rwamukwaya house. The witness heard that the dead bodies of the Rwamukwaya family were found not far from Nyiramasuhuko's house, near the laboratory, and heard that Ntahobali drove around in Rwamukwaya's car.<sup>8698</sup> Witness TE's previous statement was disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998, two years and eight months prior to the commencement of the trial on 11 June 2001.<sup>8699</sup> The Chamber notes that the victim's name, Rwamukwaya, is only revealed in the French version of Witness TE's statement, disclosed on 4 November 1998. The victim's name is redacted in the English version of Witness TE's statement, disclosed on 4 November 1998.

3158. Witness RN's summary in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief indicates that he would testify as to Ntahobali killing a certain Mr. Rwamukwaya and confiscating his white Peugeot 504.<sup>8700</sup> Witness RN's previous statement indicates that Ntahobali killed Rwamukwaya during the early part of the genocide in Butare, after which he confiscated his white Peugeot. The disclosure of Witness RN's prior statement on 30 March 1999, two years and two months before the commencement of trial on 11 June 2001,<sup>8701</sup> was consistent with the summary of Witness RN's evidence in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief.

3159. The Chamber observes that four other witness statements, namely those belonging to Witnesses QF, ST, TF and TG, disclosed to the Ntahobali Defence on 4 November 1998, provide information concerning the killing of the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8702</sup> Witness QF's statement states that the witness saw Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali leaning against a white Peugeot pickup, parked on the side of the road. She knew this car was not their own, and recognised it as belonging to the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8703</sup> Witness ST's statement states the witness was told by the Rwamukwaya family's neighbours that they had seen the Rwamukwaya family being taken away by Ntahobali. She subsequently saw Ntahobali at an event in Ngoma driving a white Peugeot pickup.<sup>8704</sup> In Witness TF's statement it is written that when the witness returned to Butare, she heard a lot of disgusting stories from friends and surviving family members about Ntahobali killing people, including members of the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8705</sup> Witness TG's statement states that Ntahobali killed a certain Mr. Rwamukwaya, stole his Peugeot 504 pickup and used it for his subsequent genocidal activities.<sup>8706</sup>

3160. Although neither Witness RN nor Witness TE testified at trial, and the disclosure of Witness TE's statement was redacted, the Chamber considers that the information contained in Witnesses RN and TE's summaries in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, was both clear and consistent with the information contained in their respective statements. Further, the statements were disclosed in a timely manner thus providing adequate notice of this allegation before the beginning of the Prosecution case. With respect to the statements of Witnesses QF, ST, TF and TG, the Chamber notes they were disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998, and further observes that when considered in conjunction with the statements of Witnesses RN and TE, provided the Defence with additional information with respect to this allegation.

3161. By reason of the information contained in Witnesses RN and TE's summaries in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, as outlined above, along with the statements of Witnesses QF, ST, TF and TG, the Chamber considers the Defence was provided with clear, timely and consistent information, which sufficiently put Ntahobali on notice of the allegation against him concerning the killing of the Rwamukwaya family, and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence case.<sup>8707</sup>

<sup>8702</sup> 17 December 1996, Statement of Witness QF, disclosed 4 November 1998; 14 November 1996, Statement of Witness ST, disclosed 4 November 1998; 13 November 1996, Statement of Witness TF, disclosed 4 November 1998; 4 December 1996, Statement of Witness TG, disclosed 4 November 1998.

3162. As additional information, the Chamber notes that when the Prosecution Motion to Drop and Add Witnesses was filed on 12 January 2004,<sup>8708</sup> the Prosecution sought to add, inter alia, Witness FA who was intended to testify to several events occurring at the roadblock near Hotel Ihuliro. The summary of Witness FA's prospective evidence contained in the Prosecution motion indicates the witness was intended to testify as to hearing Ntahobali say to an Interahamwe named Kazungu: "Get up Kazungu. Let's go. Today we will start with killing [a Tutsi named] Rwamukwaya".<sup>8709</sup> The Prosecution disclosed the redacted statement of Witness FA on 12 January 2004, the same day as it filed its motion.<sup>8710</sup> The Chamber observes that the summary of Witness FA's prospective evidence was consistent with her written statement. Further, it was consistent with the previously disclosed statements of Witnesses RN and TE.<sup>8711</sup> For that reason, although the Chamber considers that the Defence was already provided with sufficient notice that the allegation of Ntahobali killing one Rwamukwaya and looting his vehicle, was clearly in issue by reason of the inclusion of Witnesses RN and TE in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, the Defence was provided with additional notice concerning this allegation, when Witness FA was permitted to testify, on 30 June 2004.

3163. The Chamber further recalls that the Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko Defence requested the exclusion of Prosecution Witness FA's testimony, on the grounds that they did not receive sufficient notice of that testimony, and asked the Chamber to find that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali's right to prepare their defence had been violated.<sup>8712</sup> The Chamber has already ruled upon this issue in its Decision of 30 March 2004 which, inter alia, granted the Prosecution's motion to add three new witnesses, including Witness FA, to its witness list.<sup>8713</sup> For the reasons already outlined in a separate section of this Judgement, the Chamber finds no reason to reconsider its earlier ruling ().

Prosecution Witness FA

3164. Witness FA, a Hutu, testified that on one occasion, she saw Ntahobali talking to a man named Kazungu at the roadblock close to Hotel Ihuliro, telling him that they were going to go kill, and they were going to start with Rwamukwaya's family.<sup>8714</sup> She testified that, in the period from April until June 1994 people were killed at this roadblock, which was often manned by Ntahobali.<sup>8715</sup> Witness FA subsequently saw Ntahobali come to talk to Kazungu, who lived in Witness FA's compound, while she was at home.<sup>8716</sup> It was then that Ntahobali told Kazungu: "What are you still doing here? We have to go and kill, and we have to start

3165. When confronted with the assertion that her description of the vehicle as contained in her written statement as being a “Hilux” was hearsay, Witness FA clarified that in explaining the vehicle as “a white vehicle described by others as a ‘Hilux’”, she intended to portray that people referred to this type of a vehicle as a “Hilux”, and not that people told her so.<sup>8721</sup>

3167. Witness FA testified that although she did not know the exact date when the members of the Rwamukwaya family died, it happened on the same day that Ntahobali told Kazungu that they had to go kill, starting with the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8725</sup> Witness FA subsequently stated that Kazungu allegedly killed the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8726</sup> Kazungu told the witness that the family members died, after which Kazungu brought some of their clothes to his own wife, Rachel.<sup>8727</sup>

Prosecution Witness SS

3168. Witness SS, a Tutsi, arrived at the préfecture office with other Tutsis on 27 May 1994.<sup>8728</sup> She testified that Nyiramasuhuko arrived at the préfecture office in a pickup, covered with something like mud and black paint and had no metal frame at the back, together with Kazungu and a driver. She heard that Ntahobali was driving and that the vehicle belonged to Rwamukwaya.<sup>8729</sup>

invaded it.<sup>8731</sup> From the compound's bakery, the witness often saw Ntahobali passing on the main road. Ntahobali was driving a Peugeot 504 that was originally white but was soiled on the side in a kind of camouflage.<sup>8732</sup> Witness TG had seen that vehicle before April 1994 and knew it had belonged to a businessman called Rwamukwaya, who was Tutsi.<sup>8733</sup> The compound was located approximately 700 to 800 metres from Ntahobali's family home.<sup>8734</sup> From this compound, the witness could see Ntahobali's family home and also a roadblock.<sup>8735</sup>

Prosecution Witness TQ

3170. Witness TQ, a Hutu, testified that around 20 to 21 June 1994, there were no longer refugees at the préfecture office, and there was a Peugeot pickup truck that belonged to a man named Rwamukwaya, who was killed during the genocide and who was a neighbour of Nyiramasuhuko. Shalom was driving his mother, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, in this vehicle.<sup>8736</sup>

Prosecution Witness SJ

3171. Witness SJ, a Tutsi seeking refuge at the préfecture office as of April 1994, testified to attacks on the refugees at the préfecture office during June 1994.<sup>8737</sup> She testified that Ntahobali arrived at the préfecture office on board a white Peugeot pickup that was open at the back and covered with cow dung, such that it resembled a military vehicle.<sup>8738</sup> Ntahobali was accompanied by more than 10 Interahamwe who were armed.<sup>8739</sup> Witness SJ was unable to remember the exact time at which they arrived.<sup>8740</sup>

Prosecution Witness SU

3172. Witness SU, a Tutsi homemaker in 1994, arrived at the Butare préfecture office on 28 May 1994.<sup>8741</sup> She testified that at around 10.00 p.m. one Friday evening, Nyiramasuhuko arrived at the préfecture office accompanied by her uniformed security guard and an armed driver aboard a camouflaged dark-coloured Toyota Hilux.<sup>8742</sup> The Hilux did not have a hood over it and those present said it belonged to one Rwamukwaya, who had been killed.<sup>8743</sup> It was said that Ntahobali took this vehicle from one Rwamukwaya when he was killed.<sup>8744</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

3174. André Guichaoua's Expert Report made reference to the arrival of the Ntahobali family at Bukavu on 18 July 1994, with a fleet of heavily laden vehicles, including a Peugeot 504 driven by Ntahobali. The Peugeot 504 had been owned by Rwamukwaya, an assassinated Tutsi businessman from Butare, whose family subsequently requested the restitution of this unduly appropriated property.<sup>8750</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Innocent Rutayisire

3175. Innocent Rutayisire, a trader,<sup>8751</sup> ran a restaurant located opposite Hotel Ibis.<sup>8752</sup> He testified that there were many pickup trucks, including Peugeot 504 pickups, in Butare town.<sup>8753</sup> When shown two Defence Exhibits of video footage shot by the BBC, he identified a white Peugeot and testified that the DGB (Coffee Pilot Project) project also had many white Peugeot 504 pickup trucks.<sup>8754</sup> The conseiller of Sahera, Pascal Habyarimana, also owned a white Peugeot 504 pickup.<sup>8755</sup>

Nsabimana

3176. Nsabimana testified that there were a number of Peugeot 504 vehicles in Butare town at the time.<sup>8756</sup> The DGB (Coffee Pilot Project), of which he was director,<sup>8757</sup> had similar Peugeot 504 vehicles which no one else in Butare had. The main difference between the two vehicles concerned the vehicle's rear: the Peugeot 504s that DGB owned were newer and their rear corner frames were straight.<sup>8758</sup> By comparison, the older Peugeot 504s, seen in town, had rounded rear frames. Nsabimana bought himself one of the DGB-style Peugeot 504s while working with the DGB.<sup>8759</sup>

3177. In cross-examination, Nsabimana testified that he only found out about the death of Rwamukwaya during the course of these proceedings; he did not know of Rwamukwaya's death in April 1994.<sup>8760</sup>

3178. Nsabimana acknowledged that in a telephone conversation with Alison Des Forges in March 1996, he stated that he saw a disguised Peugeot 504 pickup in town owned by somebody that he knew.<sup>8761</sup> Nsabimana further testified that he saw the vehicle from behind, and one would say there was mud on it. The back part of the pickup was in a square form.<sup>8762</sup> There were two people within the front part of the cabin, and two red containers of either petrol or gas oil in the back part of the pickup.<sup>8763</sup> When he asked his driver, Manase, who it was, he learned that it was Ntahobali.<sup>8764</sup> Manase did not specify whether the driver or the passenger was Ntahobali.<sup>8765</sup>

3179. Nsabimana saw the Peugeot 504 pickup in question at the beginning of April 1994, most probably before 25 April 1994. Nsabimana was already préfet at the time of this sighting, and was on his way to work. Nsabimana was coming from Mbazi, and had just gone through a roadblock at Karubunda, when the Peugeot 504 was going down at high speed towards ERP, where people got petrol. Since the two cars were travelling in opposite directions, at one point the two vehicles were face to face.<sup>8766</sup>

3180. Nsabimana thought the car he saw belonged to a trader who lived in a neighbourhood towards the EER, where he believed shoes were sold. While he could not initially recall the name of the car's owner, when it was suggested to him, he agreed it was Rwamukwaya. The Peugeot 504 owned by Rwamukwaya did not have a square back; the back of that pickup had rounded corners. Nsabimana did not see Rwamukwaya after 25 April 1994.<sup>8767</sup>

3181. In cross-examination, Nsabimana testified that he was mistaken when he told Des Forges that the owner of the Peugeot 504 in which he saw Ntahobali, was Rwamukwaya. Nsabimana clarified that he actually saw Ntahobali in a Peugeot 504 with square rear frames, whereas Rwamukwaya's vehicle had rounded rear frames.<sup>8768</sup>

3182. Béatrice Munyenyezi, wife of Ntahobali during the alleged events, testified that she had heard about a businessman in Butare by the name of Rwamukwaya, but had never seen him in person.<sup>8769</sup> She had never seen any kind of Peugeot in Ntahobali's hands, and stated her husband did not kill Rwamukwaya. She further stated that her husband did not have to kill anyone to get a car because he could afford to buy his own car. She never saw a Peugeot 504 pickup among the convoy leaving Hotel Ihuliro during their flight from Butare on 3 July 1994.<sup>8770</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WQMJP

3183. Witness WQMJP testified that he worked in a building located on Avenue de l'Université, in the proximity of Rwamukwaya's house. Therefore, he knew the Rwamukwaya family. Rwamukwaya lived in a residential building located behind the commercial building, a part of which Witness WQMJP occupied, but within the same compound.<sup>8771</sup> Witness WQMJP testified that Rwamukwaya lived with his wife, four daughters and a son called Hermann, who was over 10 years old, a young man who was probably still in secondary school. Rwamukwaya owned a white Peugeot pickup with two doors.<sup>8772</sup>

3185. Witness WQMJP returned to Butare three times after the downing of the President's plane in the period April to mid-May 1994.<sup>8776</sup> His second trip was around 10 May 1994.<sup>8777</sup> During this second trip back, he spoke to Rwamukwaya for about 10 minutes about his first trip,<sup>8778</sup> in the inside courtyard of the compound.<sup>8779</sup>

3186. Rwamukwaya told Witness WQMJP that the situation was difficult and that it was hard to obtain foodstuffs.<sup>8780</sup> The witness told Rwamukwaya that he had experienced difficulties moving around outside.<sup>8781</sup> This was the last time that Witness WQMJP saw Rwamukwaya.<sup>8782</sup>

were on University Avenue, on their way to the town centre, they passed by Rwamukwaya's where they saw soldiers and civilians standing at the road.<sup>8785</sup> They did not stop because the witness was afraid he could be the subject of looting.<sup>8786</sup> They therefore continued down the street and instead stopped at the house of a friend named Rufuku.<sup>8787</sup> Rufuku informed Witness WQMJP that Rwamukwaya's son, Hermann, had been killed by soldiers.<sup>8788</sup> Rufuku said that Rwamukwaya himself was still alive and at his home.<sup>8789</sup>

3188. Witness WQMJP stated he did not offer his condolences to his landlord Rwamukwaya for losing his son because he would have first had to open up his own place of work in order to get to Rwamukwaya's house. As there was a lot of looting going on, Witness WQMJP was afraid that his shop would become the subject of looting, and consequently he did not even consider going to Rwamukwaya's house. In cross-examination by the Prosecution, Witness WQMJP testified that he was unaware that Rwamukwaya himself and his family had been killed – he was told that Hermann had been killed by soldiers, but Rwamukwaya was still alive. He testified that he only learning at the time of his testimony of the death of the Rwamukwaya family. The witness subsequently stated that he learned of Rwamukwaya's death when he arrived in Canada. He first testified that the wife of Sokode Gakwaya had told him, and then stated that it was Sokode's daughter, Honorine Gakwaya, who told him of his landlord's death.<sup>8790</sup>

3189. Ntahobali testified that he never attacked any members of the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8791</sup> According to Ntahobali, Rwamukwaya was killed by his business colleagues, because he had a carpentry workshop and there was competition between him and his collaborators or associates.<sup>8792</sup> Ntahobali denied that Venant Gakwaya, alias Sekode Gakwaya, intervened to prevent the Accused from killing Rwamukwaya, his wife and six children who were neighbours of Mr. Gakwaya.<sup>8793</sup> He testified that he knew nothing about the claim that Rwamukwaya and his family were subsequently killed the night after Mr. Gakwaya's alleged intervention.<sup>8794</sup>

With respect to the allegation of stealing Rwamukwaya's vehicle and using it to convey Tutsis, Ntahobali testified that he did not know how to drive a vehicle.<sup>8798</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

3191. Nyiramasuhuko denied that her family owned a white Peugeot pickup 504 which was driven by her son, Ntahobali, and was said to have belonged to one Rwamukwaya Gaeten.<sup>8799</sup>

3192. Witness D-2-13-O, a driver from Gishamvu,<sup>8800</sup> testified that in April 1994 he saw six corpses below the IRST roadblock.<sup>8801</sup> Although unable to give a precise date, he saw the corpses approximately one week after he went to take care of his injured nephew, Théophile, which he did two or three days after the killings in Butare started, around 20 April 1994.<sup>8802</sup> Witness D-2-13-O identified the corpses at the IRST roadblock as belonging to the family of Rwamukwaya, a Butare businessman who owned a shop that was on the road leading to the University, opposite the Protestant school, between the school and the church, and below Mironko's house.<sup>8803</sup>

3193. Witness D-2-13-O clarified that the corpses were in a pit approximately 10 metres from the road, below the roadblock, alongside the fence separating the IRST and the university laboratory.<sup>8804</sup> The witness was going from his house to the hospital when he saw the corpses.<sup>8805</sup>

3194. The witness knew Rwamukwaya's wife, Jeanne, who worked in Rwamukwaya's shop selling sandals because she came from his home secteur; but he did not personally know Rwamukwaya's children.<sup>8806</sup>

3195. The witness knew Rwamukwaya owned a Peugeot because Butare was a small town, and everyone knew who owned what.<sup>8807</sup> After seeing the corpses of the Rwamukwaya family, Witness D-2-13-O saw the vehicle in question more than once in the period between April and July 1994, and stated it was a vehicle in which Shalom, the son of "popular person" Maurice Ntahobali, moved about.<sup>8808</sup> The witness saw Ntahobali personally driving the Peugeot 504 in question on several occasions during the period the witness' wife was in the hospital, namely a few days before 20 April 1994, when he brought his wife to the hospital and in May 1994 when they left.<sup>8809</sup>

The Chamber notes that the Index to the English transcript for 8 November 2007 states that "Witness D-10-13-0" gave evidence in cross-examination on the day in question. Noting there is no Witness D-10-13-0 in the current proceedings, and having regard to the testimony of Witness D-2-13-O on the preceding and subsequent days, and the French transcript for 8 November 2007, the Chamber is of the view the English transcript intends to make reference to Witness D-2-13-O, and ascribes the testimony given on this day to this witness.

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-13-D

3197. Witness D-13-D, a Hutu driver,<sup>8811</sup> testified that Rwamukwaya used to sell shoes on the road leading from downtown to the university, opposite the Protestant school known as the EER. After he resumed his work at the end of April to early May 1994, the witness did not see Rwamukwaya again.<sup>8812</sup>

3199. Witness D-13-D agreed with the Ntahobali Defence's proposition, that there were many Peugeot cars in Butare town in 1994 and confirmed that a certain Pierre Nsonera also owned a Peugeot 504 at that time.<sup>8814</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-14-W

3200. Witness D-2-14-W, a Hutu teacher,<sup>8815</sup> testified that he was told that Ntahobali was involved in the acts of violence which led to the death of Rwamukwaya, a Tutsi businessman operating a shoe shop in Butare town. He learned this information between April and July 1994. He could no longer remember who told him, although many people talked about that incident at the time, namely the male adults in his neighbourhood.<sup>8816</sup>

3201. Witness D-2-14-W heard that Ntahobali had seized Rwamukwaya's vehicle after his death.<sup>8817</sup>

3.6.24.4 Deliberations

3202. It is not contested that Rwamukwaya was killed.<sup>8818</sup> Ntahobali acknowledged this in his testimony.<sup>8819</sup> The issues for the Chamber to determine are: whether the other members of the Rwamukwaya family were also killed and whether Ntahobali played a role in this killing.

Killing of the Rwamukwaya Family

3203. Witness FA testified to hearing Ntahobali tell Kazungu, “[w]e have to go and kill, and we have to start with the Rwamukwaya family.”<sup>8820</sup> She testified that the Rwamukwaya family died on the day that Ntahobali told Kazungu that they had to go kill, starting with the Rwamukwaya family, and that Kazungu told her that the family members died.<sup>8821</sup>

3204. The Chamber notes some credibility issues concerning Witness FA. In cross-examination, Witness FA confirmed that she did not make reference in her previous written statement to the death of the Rwamukwaya family, nor did she mention that Kazungu returned from the Rwamukwaya home with their clothes for his wife.<sup>8822</sup> The Chamber considers that the failure of Witness FA to refer specifically to the death of Rwamukwaya’s family in her statement, as opposed to only Mr. Rwamukwaya, does not of itself cast doubt on Witness FA’s credibility as to the deaths. Witness FA explained that she did not mention the death of the Rwamukwaya family because she tried to be brief in her statement.<sup>8823</sup> The Chamber finds this to be a plausible and believable explanation.

3205. The Chamber also observes that Witness FA was not an eyewitness to the death of the Rwamukwaya family, and her conclusion that the Rwamukwaya family was dead is based on hearsay. Nevertheless, the Chamber observes that Witness FA’s account is corroborated by the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses TQ, SU and Guichaoua, Nsabimana, Ntahobali Defence Witness WQMJP, Ntahobali, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-13-O, D-2-14-W and D-13-D.<sup>8824</sup>

roadblock as belonging to the family of Rwamukwaya in April 1994, approximately nine days after the killings in Butare started, around 20 April 1994.<sup>8827</sup> The Chamber observes the witness knew Rwamukwaya and his wife Jeanne by name.<sup>8828</sup> Although the Chamber notes that the evidence of Prosecution Witness SU and Defence Witness D-2-14-W is hearsay, it considers their account consistent with the testimony of Witnesses FA, TQ and D-2-13-O. Guichaoua also described Rwamukwaya as an assassinated Tutsi businessman from Butare.<sup>8829</sup> 3207. Witness WQMJP testified to an encounter with Rwamukwaya on the occasion of his second trip to Butare, and finding out about the death of Rwamukwaya's son on his third trip to Butare.<sup>8830</sup> The Chamber considers that Witness WQMJP's evidence with respect to his knowledge of Rwamukwaya was detailed and internally consistent upon cross-examination. With respect to the death of the Rwamukwaya family, the Chamber recalls that Witness WQMJP testified to conversing with Rwamukwaya during his second trip to Butare, around 10 May 1994 and that around 19 or 20 May 1994, the time of his third trip to Butare, Rufuku informed him that Rwamukwaya's son, Hermann, had been killed by soldiers, but that Rwamukwaya himself was still alive and at his home.<sup>8831</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness WQMJP's conclusion that Rwamukwaya was alive is based on hearsay. When weighed against the combined corroborative testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FA, SU, TQ, Guichaoua, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-13-O, D-2-14-W and D-13-D, the Chamber considers it does not raise a reasonable doubt as to Rwamukwaya's death. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has established beyond a reasonable doubt that Rwamukwaya and his family were killed.

Ntahobali's Role

3208. The Chamber notes that Ntahobali and his wife, Béatrice Munyenyezi, testified that he had malaria and was convalescing at the Hotel Ihuliro for an entire week around the end of April and beginning of May 1994.<sup>8832</sup> For the reasons set out in the Hotel Ihuliro roadblock section of this Judgement the Chamber does not find this alibi evidence to be credible ().

3209. Witness FA testified to several killings which occurred at the roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro, from April 1994 until June 1994.<sup>8833</sup> Witness FA did not give any dates as to when she heard Ntahobali's spoken threat to kill the Rwamukwaya family, or when the Rwamukwaya family died, but stated the latter event occurred on the day Ntahobali told Kazungu that they had to go kill, starting with the Rwamukwaya family.<sup>8834</sup>

3210. Defence Witness D-2-13-O estimated he identified six corpses as belonging to the Rwamukwaya family,<sup>8835</sup> approximately one week after he took care of his nephew. This was two or three days after the killings in Butare started, on 20 April 1994.<sup>8836</sup> Based on his testimony, the Chamber concludes his sighting occurred on 29 or 30 April 1994. This is consistent with Witness FA's evidence as to the timing of the establishment of the roadblock, and with the Chamber's previous finding that a roadblock was erected near Hotel Ihuliro by the end of April 1994 (). Further, Witness FA testified that she saw Ntahobali and Kazungu talking about the killing of the Rwamukwaya family at that roadblock.<sup>8837</sup> In these circumstances, the Chamber finds Witness FA's account on this issue credible, and estimates the threat to kill the Rwamukwaya family occurred towards the end of April 1994.

3211. No witness testified as to personally seeing the killing of the Rwamukwaya family. Apart from Witness FA's evidence concerning Ntahobali's threat, only Witness D-2-14-W testified as to being told that Ntahobali was involved in the acts of violence which led to the death of Rwamukwaya and that everyone was talking about this between April and July 1994.<sup>8838</sup> Witnesses SU, TQ and D-2-13-O do not link his death to Ntahobali. Witness D-13-D refers to Ntahobali being an evil-doer, but does not attribute responsibility for the Rwamukwaya family's deaths to Ntahobali. As such, little direct evidence supports the allegation that Ntahobali was responsible for the deaths of the Rwamukwaya family.

3212. Nevertheless, significant circumstantial evidence supports the Prosecution case.<sup>8839</sup> In particular, the Chamber recalls that Witness FA heard Ntahobali announce his intention to kill the Rwamukwaya family sometime in April 1994, and that Witness D-2-13-O saw their six corpses around 29 or 30 April 1994.<sup>8840</sup>

3213. Furthermore, the Chamber has considered the evidence of numerous witnesses who testified to seeing Ntahobali in possession of Rwamukwaya's vehicle. Prosecution Witnesses TG, TQ, Guichaoua, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-13-O, D-13-D and Nsabimana all testified that Rwamukwaya owned a Peugeot 504 pickup.<sup>8841</sup> Prosecution Witnesses TG, SS, TQ, Guichaoua and Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-O also testified to subsequently seeing or hearing of Ntahobali's use of Rwamukwaya's Peugeot 504.<sup>8842</sup> Witness TG testified he often saw Ntahobali passing on the main road in Rwamukwaya's Peugeot 504, during the time he was hiding at a compound, between 26 April 1994 and 2 July 1994.<sup>8843</sup> Witnesses SS and SU placed Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali in a vehicle which people said belonged to Rwamukwaya, at the Butare préfecture office around 27 and 28 May 1994.<sup>8844</sup> Guichaoua similarly placed Ntahobali in possession of a Peugeot 504 belonging to the deceased Rwamukwaya as of 18 July 1994.<sup>8845</sup> Witness TQ stated that Ntahobali was driving Rwamukwaya's Peugeot 504, in June 1994.<sup>8846</sup> Witness D-2-13-O stated that he saw Ntahobali personally driving Rwamukwaya's Peugeot 504 on several occasions between the end of April and the end of May 1994.<sup>8847</sup> Witness D-13-D testified that he also saw Ntahobali on numerous occasions between the end of April and July 1994, moving about Butare town in a Peugeot 504 pickup that belonged to Rwamukwaya.<sup>8848</sup>

3214. Nsabimana also testified to seeing Ntahobali in a Peugeot 504 in April 1994.<sup>8849</sup> Nsabimana stated his sighting could easily have been before 25 April 1994.<sup>8850</sup> In a telephone conversation with Alison Des Forges in March 1996, Nsabimana stated that he saw a disguised Peugeot 504 pickup in town owned by somebody that he knew.<sup>8851</sup> Nsabimana thought the car in question belonged to a trader who lived in a neighbourhood towards the EER where he believed shoes were sold.<sup>8852</sup> While he could not initially recall the name of the car's owner, when it was suggested to him, he agreed it was Rwamukwaya.<sup>8853</sup> Further, Nsabimana's driver told him Ntahobali was driving the car.<sup>8854</sup> In contrast, at trial Nsabimana testified he was mistaken when he told Des Forges he saw Ntahobali driving Rwamukwaya's vehicle, but stated that he actually saw Ntahobali in a different Peugeot 504.<sup>8855</sup> The Chamber considers that while Nsabimana does not stand to benefit directly from claiming to have mistakenly identified Ntahobali, he may nevertheless have departed from his prior statement in an attempt to protect Ntahobali. Further, in light of the consistency among the above-mentioned testimonies, the Chamber is satisfied that the Peugeot 504 in which Nsabimana saw Ntahobali is the one belonging to Rwamukwaya.

3215. In light of all the foregoing, the Chamber notes that the sightings of Ntahobali with Rwamukwaya's vehicle occurred parallel to or shortly after the time when the Rwamukwaya family was allegedly killed.<sup>8856</sup> In the Chamber's view, the proximity between the killing of the Rwamukwaya family and the sightings of Ntahobali in Rwamukwaya's vehicle establishes a link between the killing and the circumstances in which Ntahobali came into possession of the vehicle.

3216. The Chamber notes that in testifying that they saw Ntahobali in the vehicle which belonged to the recently deceased Rwamukwaya family, Kanyabashi Defence witnesses may have had a motive to deflect liability from Kanyabashi. The Chamber thus treats their evidence with appropriate caution. Nevertheless, in light of all the other evidence before it, the Chamber considers that Witness D-2-13-O's account in this particular instance was reliable and finds him credible for the present purposes.

3219. The Chamber considers that Witness FA heard Ntahobali announce his intention to kill the Rwamukwaya family sometime in April 1994.<sup>8859</sup> Furthermore, Witness D-2-13-O estimated seeing the six corpses of the Rwamukwaya family around 29 or 30 April 1994.<sup>8860</sup> Subsequently, as set out above, numerous witnesses testified to seeing Ntahobali in Rwamukwaya's Peugeot. Given the narrow time frames involved between Ntahobali's threat pronounced against the Rwamukwaya family, the sighting of their bodies, and the first sightings of Ntahobali in a vehicle known to have belonged to Rwamukwaya, the Chamber is of the view that the inference drawn as to Ntahobali's responsibility in the killing of the Rwamukwaya family is the only reasonable conclusion based on the totality of the evidence.<sup>8861</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali is responsible for killing the Rwamukwaya family, on or about 29 or 30 April 1994.

3.6.25 Actions at Roadblocks – Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje, April 1994

3220. Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that on several occasions between 20 April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers, militiamen and certain members of the civilian population to search for Tutsis who had escaped the massacres, in order to exterminate them. These instructions were given notably on 21 April in Butare, in late April in Save, and in June 1994 near Butare.<sup>8862</sup>

3221. Paragraph 5.8 of the Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, incitement to hatred and violence was propagated by various prominent persons, including members of the Government and local authorities. Ndayambaje and others publicly incited the people to exterminate the Tutsi population and its “accomplices.”<sup>8863</sup> The Indictment also alleges that in June 1994, Ndayambaje incited the population to kill Tutsis.<sup>8864</sup>

3222. All of the Indictments further allege that on 27 April 1994, the Interim Government ordered that roadblocks be set up, knowing that they were being used to identify the Tutsis and their “accomplices” for the purpose of eliminating them.<sup>8865</sup>

3223. The Prosecution submits that Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje knew of the plan to use roadblocks to control people’s movements and to capture and kill Tutsis.<sup>8866</sup> It asserts that Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje were instrumental in ensuring that persons at the roadblocks understood their role and implemented the plan.<sup>8867</sup> It further submits that Kanyabashi reminded persons manning roadblocks to be careful and ensure that no enemy went through.<sup>8868</sup> As to its case against Kanyabashi, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witnesses TA, FAM and QJ.<sup>8869</sup> Witness RK also testified as to Kanyabashi’s involvement at a roadblock in Save.<sup>8870</sup> As to its case against Ndayambaje, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness FAU.<sup>8871</sup> Witness FAL also testified as to Ndayambaje’s ordering the erection of roadblocks in Bishya.<sup>8872</sup>

3224. Apart from the preliminary issues considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence asserts that there is no credible evidence to indicate that Kanyabashi was responsible for setting up roadblocks where Tutsis were allegedly murdered.<sup>8873</sup>

3225. The Ndayambaje Defence questions the credibility of the Prosecution witnesses who testified that Ndayambaje ordered that roadblocks be erected or asked those manning the roadblocks to hunt down Tutsis.<sup>8874</sup>

3.6.25.2 Preliminary Issues

Kanyabashi Indictment

3226. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that Kanyabashi was not charged with criminal conduct at roadblocks and that the issue of roadblocks was not mentioned in any paragraph of the Kanyabashi Indictment in support of counts.<sup>8875</sup>

3228. However, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, which was pled in support of Counts 1-9 against Kanyabashi, asserts that Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers, militiamen, and certain civilians to search for and exterminate Tutsis who had escaped. It provides that Kanyabashi gave these instructions notably on 21 April in Butare, in late April in Save, and in June 1994 near Butare.<sup>8877</sup> The alleged purpose of roadblocks – to search for and exterminate Tutsis – was alleged in that paragraph. Nonetheless, the Prosecution did not include an assertion that roadblocks were a location where instructions were given to search out Tutsis. For this reason, the Chamber finds Paragraph 6.45 to be defective.

3229. The Chamber has reviewed the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and prior witness statements disclosed to the Defence. Witness RK's witness summary in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Kanyabashi came to a roadblock at Save with one soldier, spoke to a group of about 10 people saying there were people whose bodies had not been found, including a specific person whom Kanyabashi wanted found. It also states that Kanyabashi said that anyone who found these bodies would be rewarded.<sup>8878</sup>

3230. Furthermore, Witness RK's unredacted statement of 19 June 1995, disclosed on 14 December 2001, repeats that Witness RK saw Kanyabashi at Save market in April 1994. It names the person Kanyabashi was looking for and provides that the witness hid the person in his home.<sup>8879</sup> Witness RK's statement of 4 July 1996, disclosed on 12 February 2002, also named the person allegedly sought by Kanyabashi, and provides that Kanyabashi came to one of the Save roadblocks in his white Peugeot and offered a reward.<sup>8880</sup>

3231. The Chamber notes Witness RK testified starting on 15 April 2004, over 2 years after the disclosure of the above-mentioned statements. In addition, the information contained in these statements was clear and consistent to the extent that the Prosecution alleged that Kanyabashi came to the Save roadblock, was looking for a man and offered a reward. The Chamber concludes that the information as to this allegation was provided in timely, clear and consistent disclosures and falls under Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, which was pled in support of counts. Therefore, the Chamber finds the defect in the Indictment was cured.

Ndayambaje Indictment

3232. The Ndayambaje Defence asserts that there is no reference to Ndayambaje's involvement in roadblocks in the Ndayambaje Indictment. It further submits that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.33 of the Indictment, which allege that Ndayambaje incited the people to exterminate Tutsis and which are pled in support of counts, are too general to provide notice of this allegation. Therefore, the Ndayambaje Defence asserts these Paragraphs of the Indictment were defective and were not cured through subsequent disclosures.<sup>8881</sup>

3233. The Chamber notes that the paragraphs of the Ndayambaje Indictment that refer to roadblocks do not name Ndayambaje, nor do they allege that he was responsible for ordering roadblocks or inciting those persons who manned the roadblocks.<sup>8882</sup> Furthermore, Paragraph 6.33 of the Ndayambaje Indictment merely states that Ndayambaje incited the population to kill Tutsis. There is no mention of roadblocks or orders to search for and exterminate Tutsis. The allegations that Ndayambaje ordered that roadblocks be erected and encouraged those at roadblocks to search for and kill Tutsis are therefore new charges which would have required an amendment of the Indictment.<sup>8883</sup> The Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.33 of the Ndayambaje Indictment cannot be cured by subsequent disclosures. Thus, the Chamber need not analyse subsequent disclosures to determine whether the Indictment was cured.

3.6.25.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness RK

3234. Witness RK, a Hutu farmer,<sup>8884</sup> stated that in early April 1994 Tutsis were being sought and killed by Hutus. There were four roadblocks in his secteur. Two had been erected when the Inkotanyi attacked and the other two were erected after the President was killed.<sup>8885</sup> The witness testified that on one occasion he saw four soldiers at a roadblock in Save.<sup>8886</sup> Tutsis were arrested and killed the next day at Rwabuye.<sup>8887</sup> He later referred to that location as Rwagumbuye.<sup>8888</sup>

3235. On or about the same day that he saw the four soldiers at the roadblock in Save, Witness RK hid eight Tutsi neighbours in his home, all of whom belonged to the same religious group.<sup>8889</sup> These included a Tutsi university lecturer, his wife and five children, and another unrelated woman.<sup>8890</sup> These people were previously hiding in the house of another man but Witness RK went to fetch them when it appeared that house would be searched.<sup>8891</sup> Initially, the witness stated that these Tutsis remained hidden in his house for three weeks.<sup>8892</sup> Later he stated that they remained there for a period of approximately six weeks.<sup>8893</sup> He was extremely afraid because if he was discovered sheltering Tutsis, he could have been killed along with the people he was hiding.<sup>8894</sup>

3236. After the beginning of April 1994, Witness RK sometimes went to the Save roadblock on Gatoki Road.<sup>8895</sup> The roadblock was near the market.<sup>8896</sup> On one such visit, about three weeks after the soldiers had visited the roadblock, he saw Kanyabashi drive up to the roadblock in a white Peugeot vehicle, accompanied by a soldier.<sup>8897</sup> He heard Kanyabashi tell the dozen people manning the Save roadblock: "I think there is someone hiding in this area since we haven't found his body among the bodies that we had seen. I am looking for him. And anyone who finds him will get a reward."<sup>8898</sup> Witness RK later estimated that there were less than 10 people manning the roadblock and named four of them.<sup>8899</sup> The Tutsis were not found in Witness RK's home because no house-to-house search was carried out in the area. It was believed that the fugitives were around the hill area.<sup>8900</sup>

3238. Also on cross-examination, the witness stated that he was aware of a disagreement between Kanyabashi and the university lecturer before the war because Kanyabashi would not allow the university lecturer to brew fruit juice.<sup>8903</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence asserted that Witness RK had come to testify against Kanyabashi as requested by the university lecturer because the lecturer was unhappy that Kanyabashi did not give him a permit to make juice and would not allow him to practice his religion.<sup>8904</sup> Witness RK answered that the university lecturer had no interest in Witness RK appearing in court. He further stated that Tutsis were dying for nothing, that he hid the university lecturer in his home because he pitied him and that he was not paid to protect the lecturer.<sup>8905</sup>

3239. Witness RK testified that although Kanyabashi was the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune and had no jurisdiction over Shyanda commune, during the war anyone in authority could search for people in any area without seeking permission of the relevant bourgmestre. Asked whether the Shyanda bourgmestre ordered the killing of Tutsis, Witness RK stated that, to the contrary, the Shyanda bourgmestre saved Tutsis, including some Tutsi women who were going to be killed. There had been an announcement over the radio that Tutsis were not to be killed, and those women were not killed. In addition, the Shyanda bourgmestre brought about 20 Tutsis to the RPF when they took over.<sup>8906</sup>

3240. Witness RK said that when Kanyabashi spoke to those at the roadblock in Save, it was the first time that he had seen Kanyabashi in Save, although he had previously seen Kanyabashi in Butare.<sup>8907</sup> Witness RK identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>8908</sup>

Prosecution Witness TA

3241. Witness TA, a Tutsi, gave evidence pertaining to the existence of numerous roadblocks in Butare and the surrounding communes.<sup>8909</sup> There were roadblocks more or less everywhere.<sup>8910</sup> She was sometimes beaten at the roadblocks despite the fact that she said she was Hutu.<sup>8911</sup> There was a roadblock near the residence of the President of the Republic.<sup>8912</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika

3242. Alexandre Bararwandika, a Burundian Hutu relief worker,<sup>8913</sup> testified that he met the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune, Kanyabashi, on a few occasions.<sup>8914</sup> On one such occasion, Kanyabashi encouraged him and others by giving them documents that enabled them to transport a girl to safety through roadblocks to a family in Karubanda.<sup>8915</sup> Bararwandika also remembered Kanyabashi personally filling in the required forms to facilitate the safe movement of four Tutsi children that the witness had picked up from Rango through the roadblocks in Cyarwa, Tumba, Mukoni and at the MSM garage.<sup>8916</sup>

3.6.25.4 Deliberations

3243. Witness RK testified that while he was hiding eight Tutsis in his home, including a Tutsi university lecturer, he encountered Kanyabashi at a roadblock.<sup>8917</sup> Kanyabashi asked the population's help to find this Tutsi university lecturer and offered a reward to anyone who found him.<sup>8918</sup> Witness RK provided a substantial number of significant details as to this incident, including the fact that Kanyabashi was driving a white Peugeot, that there was a soldier in the back seat, and he also named four of the persons who were manning the roadblock.<sup>8919</sup> In the Chamber's view, these details buttress the credibility of the witness.

3244. The Chamber notes that Witness RK testified that Kanyabashi said he had not found the body of the Tutsi university lecturer among the bodies he had seen.<sup>8920</sup> The clear implication of this language is that Kanyabashi expected the man to be dead. If the man were found not to be dead, he would offer a reward for whoever found him.

3245. Witness RK was confronted with his prior statement of June 1995 in which he said that Kanyabashi addressed a crowd at the Save market and did not mention the Save roadblock. Witness RK explained that the Save roadblock was 20 to 30 metres away from the market and he therefore was referring to the same location and incident in both his prior statement and his testimony.<sup>8921</sup> The Chamber finds that this is a minor discrepancy and accepts Witness RK's explanation.

3246. Witness RK also said that Kanyabashi had a disagreement with the Tutsi university lecturer, due to disputes about the man's religion and a permit to produce juice.<sup>8922</sup> Although these disagreements might have given the Tutsi university lecturer some motive to implicate Kanyabashi, the Chamber considers this would not give Witness RK any motive to lie since he was not a party to the dispute. Furthermore, the Chamber is convinced by Witness RK's testimony that he took several Tutsis into his home because Tutsis were being killed for no reason and he pitied them.<sup>8923</sup> The witness did not accept money to protect these Tutsis and the Chamber believes his testimony that he did not agree to lie for the Tutsi university lecturer.<sup>8924</sup>

3247. Furthermore, when given the opportunity to implicate another bourgmestre in the killing of Tutsis, Witness RK defended him, stating the bourgmestre of Shyanda commune did not participate in any killings, and in fact, protected about 20 Tutsis until the arrival of the RPF.<sup>8925</sup> Therefore, it was clear that Witness RK was not simply attempting to implicate any or all authority figures. The Chamber also notes that it may rely on uncorroborated testimony to prove a material fact.<sup>8926</sup> In sum, the Chamber finds Witness RK's testimony to be credible on the issue under consideration.

3249. In sum, the Chamber finds beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi drove to a roadblock in Save, asked the 10 to 12 people manning the roadblock to search for a Tutsi university lecturer with whom he had a dispute and offered a reward for his capture.

3.6.26 Actions at Roadblocks – Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, Late April 1994

3.6.26.1 Introduction

3250. All of the Indictments allege that on 27 April 1994, the Interim Government ordered that roadblocks be set up, knowing that the roadblocks were being used to identify the Tutsis and their "accomplices", for the purpose of eliminating them.<sup>8928</sup> All of the Indictments further allege that the incitement to ethnic hatred and violence was a fundamental part of the plan put in place. The Indictments allege that the incitement was articulated before and during the genocide by members of the Government and local authorities.<sup>8929</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo propagated incitement to hatred and violence.<sup>8930</sup> The Indictment further alleges that between April and June 1994, Nteziryayo and Nsabimana both incited and also aided and abetted the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>8931</sup>

3251. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana incited the population to commit genocide at the roadblocks put in place.<sup>8932</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana gave instructions to those manning a roadblock at Hotel Faucon not to let any Inyenzi, meaning Tutsi, pass through the roadblock.<sup>8933</sup> The Prosecution relies on Witness QJ in support of its submissions.

3252. The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo incited the population to commit genocide at roadblocks for which reason he is responsible pursuant to both Article 6 (1) and 6 (3) of the 3253. The Nsabimana Defence submits that it did not receive adequate notice in the Indictment regarding the allegation of incitement, in general, and at the Hotel Faucon roadblock specifically.<sup>8936</sup> The Nsabimana Defence submits that the Indictment was impermissibly vague.<sup>8937</sup> As to the substance of the allegations, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Witness QJ did not testify credibly. The Nsabimana Defence also submits that Witness QJ was a member of Ibuka and that as such, he falsified his trial testimony.<sup>8938</sup>

The Nteziryayo Defence submits that it did not receive adequate notice in the Indictment regarding the allegations of incitement at the roadblocks in Mugusa commune.<sup>8939</sup> As to the substance of the allegations, the Nteziryayo Defence submits that Witness QBV did not testify credibly.<sup>8940</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence relies on Witness AND-16 in support of this submission.<sup>8941</sup>

Nsabimana Indictment

3255. Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment all relate to allegations of incitement. These paragraphs generally allege that Nsabimana incited the population to kill Tutsis and further indicate that the incitement occurred in Butare préfecture. While Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 allege that Nsabimana publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis over a four-month period in Butare préfecture, these paragraphs fail to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. In particular, no reference is made to incitement occurring at the Hotel Faucon roadblock, or to any killings that allegedly resulted from the incitement. The Chamber therefore finds each of these paragraphs to be defective.

3256. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to incitement were cured of their respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

killed.<sup>8943</sup> The summary for Witness FAR indicates that on or about 20 April 1994, he saw Nsabimana and Kanyabashi address a meeting of 1,000 people at the Ngoma football field, and that Nsabimana spoke of erecting roadblocks, arming the population, and enemy infiltration. The summary states that the word “enemy” meant Tutsi. This summary further states that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi spoke at a secteur meeting days later, where they discussed military training, and that killings started soon after.<sup>8944</sup> The summary for Witness SJ states that the witness saw the préfet give a letter to the soldiers and heard the préfet say that the letter would allow them to pass through the roadblocks. Witness SJ saw the buses return empty.<sup>8945</sup> The Chamber notes that only the summary for Witness FAR refers to alleged statements made by Nsabimana about roadblocks. However, this summary refers only to incitement which took place at the Ngoma football field, not at the Hotel Faucon roadblock.

3258. The Chamber next considers the prior statements of the witnesses. In his first statement of 8 May 1996, Witness QJ discussed various roadblocks including the roadblock erected opposite the Hotel Faucon.<sup>8946</sup> This first statement makes no mention of Nsabimana. Witness QJ’s second and third statements of 21 November 1996 and 22 January 1997 respectively also make no mention of Nsabimana.<sup>8947</sup> In his final statement dated 28 October 1997, Witness QJ states that “in mid-April, perhaps the 20th” he personally heard Nsabimana giving orders to people manning the Hotel Faucon roadblock not to let any Inyenzi through.<sup>8948</sup> The statement recounts another incident as well. Witness QJ stated that in late April 1994, he went to the préfecture offices and saw a sous-préfet telling people who had taken refuge in the offices that Nsabimana had given orders that laissez-passeurs were to be issued to them so that they could return home safely. Witness QJ stated that the people were systematically arrested at roadblocks and killed.<sup>8949</sup>

3259. In her prior statement of 3 December 1996, Witness SJ told investigators that she heard Nsabimana tell refugees boarding buses that a letter which had been given to them would allow them to pass through roadblocks.<sup>8950</sup> Witness SJ makes no mention of the Hotel Faucon roadblock. In his prior statement of 21 February 2001, Witness FAR told investigators about statements made by Nsabimana at the Ngoma football field but makes no mention of the Hotel Faucon roadblock.<sup>8951</sup>

3260. Witness QJ’s fourth statement of 28 October 1997 was the only disclosure which outlined alleged statements made by Nsabimana at the Hotel Faucon roadblock, namely that Nsabimana gave orders to people manning the Hotel Faucon roadblock not to let any Inyenzi through.<sup>8952</sup> The Prosecution disclosed this statement to the Defence on 15 June 1999. However, this disclosure was not consistent with the summary of Witness QJ’s anticipated evidence contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief which made no mention of these alleged statements made by Nsabimana at the Hotel Faucon; the summary made clear that the only matter about which Witness QJ was expected to testify with respect to Nsabimana was about the issuance of false laissez-passers after which refugees were arrested and killed, which the Chamber recalls was also contained in Witness QJ's fourth statement. The Chamber recalls that the mere service of witness statements by the Prosecution pursuant to the disclosure requirements of the Rules does not suffice to inform the Defence of material facts that the Prosecution intends to prove at trial.<sup>8953</sup> Therefore, this disclosure was not sufficient to put Nsabimana on notice of this allegation.

3261. The Chamber thus considers that with regard to this specific allegation, Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were not cured of their defects, such that the Chamber therefore declines to make any finding in respect of the allegation that Nsabimana gave instructions to those manning a roadblock at Hotel Faucon not to let any Inyenzi pass through the roadblock.

Nteziryayo Indictment

3262. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that the Indictment is unduly vague and did not adequately inform Nteziryayo of the material facts of the allegations brought against him.<sup>8954</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence further submits that the testimony of Prosecution Witness QBV on the issue of Nteziryayo's alleged incitement at the Mugusa commune roadblock falls outside the scope of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment such that it should be excluded.<sup>8955</sup> The Chamber recalls that in its Decision of 25 February 2009, it denied Nteziryayo's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence and stated that it would address issues relating to alleged defects in the Indictment, vagueness, credibility and evaluation of evidence in its final deliberations.<sup>8956</sup>

3263. The Chamber notes that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.31 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment all allege that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis in Butare préfecture between April and June or July 1994. While Paragraphs 5.8, 6.31 and 6.53 allege that Nteziryayo publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis over a three to four month period in Butare préfecture, these paragraphs fail to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. In particular, no reference is made to any incitement occurring at a roadblock in Kibilizi secteur, Mugusa commune, or to any killings that allegedly resulted from the incitement. The Chamber therefore finds each of these paragraphs to be defective.

state that Nteziryayo's incitement at public rallies would be relied on as part of the Prosecution case.

3265. The Chamber further observes that the summary of Witness QBV's anticipated testimony contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief includes reference to statements made by Nteziryayo. The witness summary for Witness QBV states that Tutsis from Shyanda were pursued by Hutus and took refuge in Mugusa commune. Witness QBV and others were protecting the Tutsis. On about 23 April 1994, Nteziryayo and Colonel Muvunyi passed through the commune when some asked Nteziryayo what to do about the attack on the Tutsis from Shyanda, by Hutus. According to the witness summary, Nteziryayo replied: "Don't you know how to kill? Kill them and eat their cows. I am going now, if I discover tomorrow that you have not started to kill, I will bring in soldiers who will kill you systematically with bullets. You are the ones who know your Tutsi neighbours." Nteziryayo then asked: "If a snake twirls itself around your favorite small gourd, do you ignore it or you kill the snake and break the gourd? You kill the snake and break the gourd." The witness summary goes on to state that Muvunyi then "handed over about 20 grenades. The killings started the following morning. Witness QBV was one of the attackers. They exterminated all the Tutsis in the secteur in two days of extensive work. Witness QBV and others almost finished the work. Nteziryayo asked them to complete the good work quickly."<sup>8958</sup> Witness QBV was listed in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief as a witness against Nteziryayo on the count of direct and public incitement to commit genocide, and subsequently testified at trial.

3266. The Chamber notes that Witness QBV's first statement of 11 October 1999 provides a similar account to that set forth in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief. The statement indicates the same date and same location for the alleged incident, and recounts similar words attributed to Nteziryayo at the roadblock. The 11 October 1999 statement also indicates that the following day, Nteziryayo and Muvunyi returned and Nteziryayo told Witness QBV and the others "to complete the good 'work' quickly."<sup>8959</sup> This statement was first disclosed in redacted form on 1 December 1999, well before Witness QBV was called to testify on 14 March 2002.

3267. In addition, the Chamber notes that Witness QBV's second statement of 11 May 2000, which supplemented his earlier statement, states that on 23 April 1994, Nteziryayo was at the Mugusa commune roadblock and said "[d]on't you know how to kill? Kill them and eat all their cattle", and that he was referring to Tutsis.<sup>8960</sup> This statement was first disclosed on 15 November 2000, again well before Witness QBV was called to testify.

3268. The Chamber notes that the information contained in the summary of anticipated evidence annexed to the Pre-Trial Brief and Witness QBV's prior statements is clear and consistent. The summary of anticipated evidence makes clear that the Prosecution intended to lead evidence through Witness QBV of inciting statements made by Nteziryayo, in Mugusa commune, on or about 23 April 1994 in support of Counts 1 and 4.

3269. For the reasons stated above, the Chamber considers the defect in Paragraphs 5.8, 6.31 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, read in the context of the Indictment as a whole, was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures. The information contained in the summary of Witness QBV's anticipated evidence annexed to the Pre-Trial Brief, along with the disclosure of his prior witness statements, provided timely, clear and consistent details on the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population in Butare préfecture to kill Tutsis between April and June 1994.

3.6.26.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QBV

3271. Nteziryayo saw Witness QBV was carrying an axe and asked the witness his ethnicity and how he came to be in possession of the axe. Witness QBV told him that it had been given to him by soldiers from the Gikonko barracks.<sup>8971</sup> The conseiller, Gasana, told Nteziryayo that Witness QBV had previously undergone weapons training.<sup>8972</sup> Witness QBV testified that Nteziryayo then asked him, along with a conseiller, a businessman, and the president of the Interahamwe, to lead attacks to eliminate Tutsis and promised that if the work was well done, he would get jobs for them and that the land belonging to Tutsis would be given to them. Witness QBV understood "work" meant "hunt for the Tutsis and kill them."<sup>8973</sup>

3273. After making these remarks, Nteziryayo explained what he meant by these words, “that there were Hutus who had married Tutsis and the Hutus want to hang on to the Tutsis and considered them as their in-laws ... the Hutus, should be considered as enemies and they too have to parish [sic].”<sup>8978</sup>

3274. Witness QBV testified that after Nteziryayo addressed the crowd, Muvunyi went to the back of the red pickup vehicle, picked three rifles, two Kalashnikovs and one M16 which he gave to Nteziryayo. Nteziryayo in turn handed the weapons to the conseiller. Colonel Muvunyi gave a cartridge box to Nteziryayo, which he then gave to the conseiller. Muvunyi then gave a box of 30 Chinese-type grenades to Nteziryayo which he gave to the businessman.<sup>8979</sup> Muvunyi gave a carton of matches to Nteziryayo who handed them over to Leodomir Mwimpanzu, the secteur President of the MRND Party.<sup>8980</sup> After distributing the arms, Nteziryayo told Witness QBV, the conseiller, the businessman and the MRND secteur president, that they would need these weapons “to kill the Tutsis, and those who do not have these weapons should use traditional weapons. With respect to the matches, you will need them to burn the houses of the Tutsis, and if you need petrol, then you can go and get it ... at the Mugusa commune office.”<sup>8981</sup> According to Witness QBV, Nteziryayo also said that he had noticed that some places did not have roadblocks, that more roadblocks should be constructed, and that they would come back the following day to make sure that they had started to kill the Tutsis.<sup>8982</sup>

3275. In cross-examination, Witness QBV agreed that he went to the ISAR on 20 April 1994, but subsequently said this was in May or June 1994; he denied that on this occasion he received grenades from Kabalira and Colonel Gasarabwe.<sup>8983</sup> In cross-examination, the Nteziryayo Defence referred Witness QBV to his previous statement of 16 August 2001.<sup>8984</sup>

That statement claimed that on 20 April 1994, Witness QBV was at the ISAIR (sic) in Rubona where:

Colonel Gasarabwe took the floor and said that the Tutsis were RPF accomplices. He urged the youth not to spare a Tutsi woman in order to rape or hide them ... it was necessary to sweep the dead, to wash it outside, and not towards the inside. In other words, the idea was not to kill only the men and spare the woman, but to kill everyone without exception. Martin Kabalira was the next to speak and said, “if a snake coils up around a calabash, we must not save the calabash, because, as the snake has to be killed, the calabash has to be broken. I believe he was alluding to the inter-ethnic marriages involving Tutsi women, meaning that the marriages were to be broken. At the end of the meeting, when Martin Kabilira realised that not all the youth were armed, he personally distributed Chinese-made grenades and hatches [sic], and the colonel also distributed some guns.<sup>8985</sup>

3276. When it was put to Witness QBV that his oral testimony that he did not receive any weapons from Kabalira contradicted his statement which states that he did receive weapons from Kabalira, Witness QBV testified that his statements were being confused: Kabalira was at ISAR but Nteziryayo distributed weapons on 22 April 1994.<sup>8986</sup>

3279. Witness QBV told the Tribunal that at the meeting at the Mugusa commune office, he noted that Nteziryayo wielded a lot of power and influence on the community.<sup>8995</sup> According to the witness, after the introductions were made, the bourgmestre sought Nteziryayo's advice on what to do with the Tutsi refugees who had sought shelter for themselves and their livestock in Mugusa commune. In answer to this, Nteziryayo expressed his displeasure at the foot-dragging by the Hutus of Mugusa commune. Nteziryayo said that in other communes, people had already finished killing the Tutsis and "here you continue to protect them". He said he was going to Muyaga to hold another meeting.<sup>8996</sup> Nteziryayo and Colonel Muvunyi then left in the red dual cabin pickup truck.<sup>8997</sup>

3280. Witness QBV testified that the killing of Tutsis began in Mugusa commune later that day after the visit by Nteziryayo. According to the witness, when Nteziryayo and Colonel Muvunyi left the Mugusa commune office, they left behind some soldiers. At about 7.00 p.m., the soldiers, together with some policemen, shot and killed Tutsi refugees who had sought shelter at the Mugusa commune office. Witness QBV testified that after the shooting, bodies of the Tutsi victims were scattered everywhere at the commune office.<sup>8998</sup> He saw the shooting with his own eyes.<sup>8999</sup> He left the commune office at 7.00 p.m.<sup>9000</sup>

3281. Witness QBV testified that he started attacking after he was instructed to do so by Nteziryayo and Muvunyi on 22 April 1994.<sup>9001</sup> In Kibilizi secteur, Interahamwe commenced attacks on the Tutsis by burning 100 houses on the evening of 22 April 1994.<sup>9002</sup> According to the witness, the killings started early the following morning, 23 April 1994.<sup>9003</sup> Witness QBV took the initiative in leading the killings because he killed the first two people.<sup>9004</sup> He gave the names of the first and second persons he killed.<sup>9005</sup> Witness QBV told the Tribunal that he also hit a third person on the head and left him for dead. That person recovered and went to his home where he was later attacked on 25 April 1994 by the Interahamwe and finally killed.<sup>9006</sup> Witness QBV felt responsible for the death of this third person because he was the one who led the attacks.<sup>9007</sup> When it was put to Witness QBV that his confession of 22 February 1999 stated that the attacks occurred on 25 April 1994, Witness QBV testified this was a mistake and the attack occurred on 23 April 1994.<sup>9008</sup> When it was put to him that his confession of 22 February 1999 also failed to mention Nteziryayo's role in the attacks, despite listing other perpetrators and ringleaders, Witness QBV testified that he was not asked to talk about Nteziryayo.<sup>9009</sup>

3282. Witness QBV testified that he and the Interahamwe used the arms distributed to them by Nteziryayo and Colonel Muvunyi to attack the Tutsis, and used matches to burn their houses.<sup>9010</sup> Witness QBV testified that he killed the first and second persons in the commune, using a club; he killed them because Nteziryayo and Muvunyi had told them to hunt for the Tutsis and kill them because they were “our enemies.”<sup>9011</sup> They followed his orders because they came from a high ranking officer.<sup>9012</sup>

3283. Witness QBV testified that at around 1.00 p.m. on 23 April 1994, as he was manning the Kibilizi roadblock, Nteziryayo and Colonel Muvunyi returned in a military jeep from the direction of Muyaga.<sup>9013</sup> Witness QBV testified that the Interahamwe had already killed 50 Tutsis and thrown their bodies in the gullies on the lower side next to the road. Nteziryayo commended the Interahamwe for a job well done, and encouraged them to continue with the work. He told them that it was not proper to leave the dead bodies strewn on the road because there were satellites that could show pictures of the bodies to white men, and ordered them to put the corpses in latrines that were at the centre.<sup>9014</sup> Witness QBV testified that Nteziryayo urged them to destroy the shells of the houses that they had burnt, and in their place, “plant banana trees or potatoes” so that no traces of the houses remained “because there were whites sent by the United Nations, who were going to visit the country.”<sup>9015</sup>

3284. In cross-examination, when it was put to Witness QBV that a portion of his statement of 16 August 2001 stated that after the attack on ISAR on 20 April 1994, Martin Kabalira recommended “quickly bury[ing] the bodies and ... plant[ing] banana trees where the destroyed houses once stood in order to conceal any traces thereof, so as not to be seen by foreigners”,<sup>9016</sup> Witness QBV testified that it was Nteziryayo and not Kabalira who gave such instructions.<sup>9017</sup>

3285. According to Witness QBV, during the killings, the Interahamwe spared the lives of Tutsi women and girls. On learning this, Nteziryayo warned the Interahamwe of the danger inherent in not exterminating the Tutsis in their entirety. According to the witness, Nteziryayo told the gathering, “[t]hose people you have spared ... [are] the same people who are going to create problems for us later on.” Nteziryayo further counselled the Interahamwe “to sweep everything and move the rubbish out of the house”, rather than “sweeping the house but moving the dirt within the house”, as they were doing. Witness QBV told the Tribunal that he understood the words “to move the rubbish” to mean to kill “those people [the Tutsi women

3286. Witness QBV testified that he subsequently came to learn that approximately 22,000 people died in Mugusa commune in 1994.<sup>9020</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-16

3288. Witness AND-16, a Hutu trader from Mugusa commune, testified that several new roadblocks were erected in his commune around 21 or 22 April 1994, on the orders of the new conseiller, Gasana.<sup>9026</sup> The main roadblock was the Sakindi roadblock in Kibilizi secteur, and it was under the responsibility of Witness QBV.<sup>9027</sup> Witness QBV controlled that roadblock.<sup>9028</sup>

3289. Witness AND-16 testified that he went to the Sakindi roadblock at either 2.00 or 3.00 p.m. on 22 April 1994 and saw corpses. The witness said he got information about the corpses and was told it was Witness QBV who stopped those people and killed them after having asked them to show them their identification cards.<sup>9029</sup> Weapons were not distributed at the roadblock manned by Witness QBV on 22 April 1994, or prior to this date in the secteur.<sup>9030</sup> Those present at the roadblock had traditional weapons including clubs, and those that had weapons had obtained them from elsewhere.<sup>9031</sup> People killed at the roadblock were killed with traditional weapons such as clubs and hoes, and not with guns or other modern weapons.<sup>9032</sup>

3290. Witness AND-16 testified that Nteziryayo did not go to Mugusa commune between April and June 1994, and that he never met Nteziryayo in this time period in either Kibilizi secteur or Mugusa commune.<sup>9033</sup> Witness AND-16 further testified that he did not hear anyone mention that Nteziryayo was in Mugusa commune during this period of time.<sup>9034</sup> Witness

AND-16 did not know Nteziryayo at the time and therefore did not know anything about him.<sup>9035</sup>

3291. Witness AND-16 also testified that weapons were not distributed by Nteziryayo at the Kibilizi secteur roadblock on 22 April 1994. Witness AND-16 testified that no one at the roadblock was killed with modern weapons. Witness AND-16 also testified that Nteziryayo did not order that the number of roadblocks be increased in Mugusa commune. According to Witness AND-16, no new roadblocks were erected.<sup>9036</sup>

3.6.26.4 Deliberations

3292. Witness QBV was the only witness to testify that Nteziryayo incited the population at a roadblock in Kibilizi secteur, Mugusa commune, on 22 April 1994. Witness QBV testified that on 22 April 1994, at a roadblock on the Butare-Mugusa road in Kibilizi secteur at about 2.00 p.m.<sup>9037</sup> Nteziryayo made a statement to the crowd gathered at the roadblock.<sup>9038</sup> The statement encouraged the crowd to hunt for and kill Tutsis.<sup>9039</sup> Nteziryayo told the audience “[i]f a snake twists itself around your gourd, do you ignore it, or are you going to kill the snake and spare the gourd or break both of them, kill both of them?”<sup>9040</sup> Nteziryayo explained what he meant by these words: “That there were Hutus who had married Tutsis and the Hutus want to hang on to the Tutsis and considered them as their in-laws ... the Hutus, should be considered as enemies and they too have to parish [sic].”<sup>9041</sup> Thereafter Muvunyi took various weapons from the back of the vehicle in which they arrived and gave them to Nteziryayo, and Nteziryayo in turn distributed these weapons among the conseiller, a businessman,<sup>9042</sup> and the secteur President of the MRND Party.<sup>9043</sup>

Colonel Gasarabwe took the floor and said that the Tutsis were RPF accomplices, he urged youth not to spare a Tutsi woman in order to rape or hide them and said that it was necessary to sweep the dead and wash it outside, not inside. Martin Kabalira was the next to speak and said, “if a snake coils up around a calabash, we must not save the calabash, because, as the snake has to be killed, the calabash has to be broken. I believe he was alluding to the inter-ethnic marriages involving Tutsi women, meaning that they were to be broken up. At the end of the meeting, when Martin Kabilira realised that not all the youth were armed, he personally distributed Chinese-made grenades and hatches [sic], and the colonel also distributed some guns.<sup>9046</sup>

3295. While Witness QBV’s prior statement outlines almost identical statements to those that Witness QBV attributed to Nteziryayo at the roadblock on 22 April 1994 in his testimony before this Tribunal, his written statement ascribed such statements to one Colonel Gasarabwe and one Martin Kabalira at ISAR. Further, Witness QBV’s prior statement stated that Martin Kabilira personally distributed Chinese-made grenades and hatches (sic), and the colonel also distributed some guns.<sup>9047</sup> This was almost identical to Witness QBV’s oral testimony before this Tribunal as to distribution of weapons at the roadblock on 22 April 1994, which he nevertheless attributed to Nteziryayo.<sup>9048</sup>

3296. Further, Witness QBV’s prior statement of 16 August 2001 also stated that “one last recommendation of Martin Kabalira was to quickly bury the bodies and to plant banana trees where the destroyed house once stood in order to conceal any traces thereof, so as not to be seen by foreigners.”<sup>9049</sup> This contrasted with Witness QBV’s testimony that Nteziryayo urged them to destroy the shells of the houses that they had burnt, and “plant banana trees or sweet potatoes” so that no traces of the houses remained “because there were whites sent by the United Nations, who were going to visit the country.”<sup>9050</sup>

3297. Witness QBV responded that his statements were being confused: Kabalira was at ISAR but Nteziryayo distributed weapons on 22 April 1994.<sup>9051</sup> Witness QBV further testified that it was Nteziryayo and not Kabalira who gave such instructions to conceal traces of the attacks.<sup>9052</sup>

3298. Other inconsistencies between Witness QBV’s previous statements and his trial testimony emerged as well. The Nteziryayo Defence referred Witness QBV to his statements of 11 October 1999 and 11 May 2000 both of which outlined that Muvunyi distributed grenades to the youths who had undergone training on 23 April 1994.<sup>9053</sup> In contrast, Witness QBV testified at trial that the distribution of weapons took place on 22 April 1994 and not 23

April 1994. Witness QBV further testified that when the Tribunal's investigators read his previous statement back to him, he noticed the date was wrongly recorded and pointed out to the Tribunal investigators the possible translation error.<sup>9054</sup>

3299. Furthermore, Witness QBV testified that he had participated in weapons training on 7 April 1994 at the Mugusa commune office.<sup>9055</sup> On cross-examination the Nteziryayo Defence pointed out that in his previous statement of 11 October 1999, Witness QBV stated that he was not given grenades because he had not previously undergone weapons training.<sup>9056</sup> Further, in his previous statements of 11 May 2000 and 30 March 2001, he did not mention that he had undergone training, despite describing the training that others had undergone in his latter statement.<sup>9057</sup>

3300. On cross-examination the Nteziryayo Defence pointed out that no mention was made in his previous statements regarding the distribution of rifles, Kalashnikovs, an M16 and a box of cartridges at the roadblock on 23 April 1994.<sup>9058</sup> Witness QBV testified that he did not tell the whole truth in his statements to the Tribunal's investigators because he was detained with relatives of Nteziryayo, including Nteziryayo's brother-in-law and he was afraid for his safety.<sup>9059</sup> Witness QBV testified that Nteziryayo's relatives put pressure on him to talk about events in a way which did not incriminate Nteziryayo; to deny having seen Nteziryayo and to testify before the Tribunal that Muvunyi, and not Nteziryayo, distributed weapons.<sup>9060</sup> Witness QBV testified that he informed the Prosecutor's office of the pressure he was being put under and these individuals were transferred to another prison yard. The witness explained that in his subsequent statements, he gave further details and that he told the whole truth in his testimony before the Tribunal.<sup>9061</sup>

3301. The Chamber accepts that Witness QBV may have been under pressure from his co-detainees not to testify against Nteziryayo. Witness QBV testified that the pressure began upon his arrival in prison in February 1999.<sup>9062</sup> This pressure continued, and letters were written to him telling him that he should implicate Muvunyi before the Tribunal and testify that he never saw Nteziryayo in Mugusa commune. Witness QBV testified that when he swore to tell the truth before the Tribunal "that was when I started telling the whole truth on the events."<sup>9063</sup>

3302. The Chamber observes that this pressure does not explain the inconsistencies between Witness QBV's previous statements and his trial testimony. The Chamber recalls in particular that while Witness QBV's statement of 16 August 2001 provides a nearly identical recitation of allegedly inciting statements about which Witness QBV testified before this Tribunal, there are discrepancies between his statement and his testimony as to where and when these statements occurred, and who pronounced the statements in question; in his testimony, the inflammatory statements in issue were spoken by Nteziryayo on 22 April 1994 at the Kibilizi roadblock, whereas in his 16 August 2001 statement the same words are attributed to Kabalira at the ISAR on 20 April 1994.<sup>9064</sup> Furthermore, Witness QBV testified at trial that Nteziryayo distributed weapons, including “Chinese made grenades” after his speech,<sup>9065</sup> in contrast to his prior statement of 16 August 2001 where Witness QBV stated that Kabalira distributed “Chinese-made grenades.”<sup>9066</sup>

3303. The Chamber considers that while the pressure exerted upon Witness QBV in prison to implicate Muvunyi alone may explain his implication of Muvunyi, it does not explain why Witness QBV gave a statement placing the exact same events on a different day, in a different location, and implicating different people.

3305. Furthermore, Witness QBV’s testimony regarding the alleged inciting statements of Nteziryayo is contradicted by the testimony of Witness AND-16. Witness AND-16 testified that he was at the Kibilizi secteur roadblock on the day Nteziryayo allegedly made the inciting statements<sup>9069</sup> and denied Nteziryayo’s presence.<sup>9070</sup> Witness QBV himself corroborated Witness AND-16’s testimony, testifying that Witness AND-16 was present on 22 April 1994.<sup>9071</sup>

3306. Given the differences between Witness QBV’s trial testimony and his previous statements, and given his status as a detained witness awaiting sentencing at the time of his testimony, the Chamber finds that absent additional corroboration, the Prosecution has not proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at the roadblock in Kibilizi secteur, Mugusa commune, on or about 22 and 23 April 1994.

3.6.27 Tumba Secteur Killings, Late April 1994

3307. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that from 20 April 1994, massacres became widespread within Butare préfecture, and Tutsis were killed where they had sought refuge, thinking that authorities would protect them.<sup>9072</sup> Between April and July 1994, to ensure that the massacres were carried out in an efficient and unflagging manner, Kanyabashi not only incited the population, but he also aided and abetted the population in the slaughter of Tutsis in Butare.<sup>9073</sup>

3308. The Prosecution submits that Kanyabashi, in his role as Ngoma bourgmestre, pursued a strategy in collaboration with other authorities, whereby Tutsi refugees were made to believe that they would find refuge in communal places, and when Tutsis assembled in those places to seek sanctuary, they were attacked. The Prosecution contends that Kanyabashi played a crucial role in furthering massacres in several secteurs of Ngoma commune, including Tumba secteur.<sup>9074</sup> Specifically, the Prosecution relies on Prosecution Witness FAC in support of the submission that in late April 1994, Kanyabashi told people in Ngoma commune to inform Tutsis who were hiding that the war was over and they could return to normal life. Tutsis who believed this message came out of hiding and were taken to the Tumba secteur office. When Tutsis arrived at the Tumba secteur office, the acting conseiller of the secteur instructed Interahamwe and soldiers to detain and kill them.<sup>9075</sup>

3309. In addition to submissions on the vagueness of Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that evidence adduced by the Prosecution does not clearly establish a link between Kanyabashi and the deaths of Tutsis at the Tumba secteur office. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that the acting conseiller was responsible for ordering killings at the Tumba secteur office. The Kanyabashi Defence avers that Kanyabashi was not present at the Tumba secteur office when people were killed there.<sup>9076</sup>

3310. The Kanyabashi Defence further submits that the massacres that took place in Ngoma commune at the end of April 1994 were carried out by soldiers, over whom Kanyabashi had no power.<sup>9077</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence also contends that Prosecution Witness FAC was a member of a group whose mission was to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>9078</sup> In support of these submissions, the Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-YYYY, D-2-5-I and D-2-13-D.

3.6.27.2 Preliminary Issues

3311. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, which alleges that between April and July 1994, Kanyabashi aided and abetted the slaughter of

Tutsis in Butare, is impermissibly vague, and as a result, the Accused was unable to prepare his defence. The Kanyabashi Defence contends that this paragraph fails to indicate a specific time frame or location, nor does it indicate how Kanyabashi allegedly aided and abetted the population in killing Tutsis. The Kanyabashi Defence avers that Paragraph 6.58 does not refer to any particular killings or identify any victims.<sup>9079</sup>

3312. The Kanyabashi Defence further submits that Paragraph 6.58 charges Kanyabashi with responsibility under Article 6 (1) and (3) of the Statute, without identifying Kanyabashi's subordinates, their actions or what Kanyabashi purportedly knew of those actions.<sup>9080</sup>

3313. The Chamber observes that Paragraph 6.58 does not identify Kanyabashi's subordinates. Nevertheless, the Chamber considers that Kanyabashi's subordinates can be inferred from reading Paragraph 6.58 alongside other relevant paragraphs in the Kanyabashi Indictment. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 4.3 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that Kanyabashi exercised authority over his subordinates in his capacity as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune. Paragraph 6.29 of the Kanyabashi Indictment further states that Ngoma commune was the site of numerous massacres in which Kanyabashi was either directly involved or in which his subordinates, as set out in Paragraph 6.32, were implicated. According to Paragraph 6.32 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, those subordinates include "conseillers de secteur."<sup>9081</sup>

3314. The Chamber recalls that in its Decision of 31 May 2000,<sup>9082</sup> it ordered the Prosecution to specify the identity of the subordinates referred to in Paragraph 6.29 of the Amended Kanyabashi Indictment, filed on 12 August 1999. The Prosecution amended Paragraph 6.29 of the Amended Kanyabashi Indictment, filed on 29 June 2000, to state that Ngoma commune was the site of numerous massacres, in which Kanyabashi was either directly involved or in which his subordinates, as set out in Paragraph 6.32 below, were implicated. Paragraph 6.32 of the Amended Indictment states that Kanyabashi ordered his subordinates, notably conseillers de secteur and commune policemen, to go to Kabakobwa cellule to eliminate refugees.

3315. The Chamber therefore does not agree with the Kanyabashi Defence that Paragraph 6.58 failed to identify Kanyabashi's subordinates. The Chamber considers that it can be inferred from reading Paragraph 6.58, in the context of the Indictment as a whole, that Kanyabashi is accused of being responsible for the actions of conseillers de secteurs. In this instance, the Prosecution's submission in respect of Article 6 (3) of the Statute is that Kanyabashi should be held responsible for the actions of the conseiller of Tumba secteur, who allegedly oversaw the killings of Tutsis at Tumba secteur office in late April 1994.

3316. However, the Chamber agrees with the Kanyabashi Defence that Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment is impermissibly vague with regard to the time and location of this allegation. Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment is therefore defective, it could not have put Kanyabashi on notice that the Prosecution would lead evidence on a specific incident in late April 1994 whereby Kanyabashi allegedly encouraged Tutsis to come out of hiding and as a result, they were killed at the Tumba secteur office. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will proceed to determine whether this defect was cured through subsequent disclosure.

3317. The Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists a single witness, Prosecution Witness FAC, who was expected to testify that around 25 April 1994 he attended a meeting at Tumba secteur, where Kanyabashi stated that Tutsis should come out of hiding because peace had been restored. The summary of Witness FAC's expected testimony further states that Tutsis came out of hiding, assembled at the secteur office, and were killed by armed attackers.<sup>9083</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FAC is listed in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief as a witness against Kanyabashi on the count of conspiracy to commit genocide and direct and public incitement to commit genocide.

3318. The Chamber notes that Witness FAC's 23 February 2000 statement avers that about one week after the genocide started, Kanyabashi came to Tumba secteur and stated that Tutsis who were hiding should come out because peace had been restored. This statement indicates that as soon as Tutsis came out of their hiding places, they assembled at the Tumba secteur office to receive information about the return of peace, however they were killed by armed soldiers and youth.<sup>9084</sup> The Chamber notes that the Kanyabashi Defence had several years to investigate this allegation. Witness FAC's 23 February 2000 statement was disclosed to the Defence in December 2000, well before his testimony on 3 March 2004, and the commencement of the Kanyabashi Defence case in July 2007.

3319. The Chamber therefore considers that the defect in Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures. The information contained in the summary of Witnesses FAC's testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and Witness FAC's 23 February 2000 statement provided timely, clear and sufficiently consistent details on the allegation that around 23 April 1994, Kanyabashi came to Tumba secteur, stated that Tutsis who were hiding should come out because peace had been restored, and when Tutsis came out and convened at the Tumba secteur office, they were killed there by armed soldiers and Interahamwe. Consequently, Kanyabashi was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence.

3.6.27.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FAC

3320. Witness FAC, a Hutu and detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>9085</sup> testified that during the genocide, he often went to a local bar in a small house in Tumba secteur.<sup>9086</sup> The bar was situated on the road that led to the Tumba secteur office.<sup>9087</sup> Witness FAC stated that there was no movement during that period; one could not go beyond one's house. However, Witness FAC was able to go to that bar at any time. On two occasions, when he was drinking with friends at that bar, Witness FAC encountered Kanyabashi. One of those encounters took place in April 1994 and the other took place approximately one month later.<sup>9088</sup>

3321. Witness FAC testified that approximately three days after the genocide erupted, on or about 23 April 1994, Kanyabashi came by the bar between 10.00 and 10.30 a.m.<sup>9089</sup> Kanyabashi was in a white saloon vehicle and was driving in the direction of Tumba secteur. There was no one else in the vehicle, other than Kanyabashi and the driver.<sup>9090</sup> There were more than 10 people at the bar.<sup>9091</sup> Kanyabashi parked his car, spoke to them from his vehicle, and then left. Kanyabashi told them that the war was over, and they should tell all Tutsis, especially those hiding in houses and in sorghum fields, that they could go back to normal life.<sup>9092</sup>

3322. Witness FAC testified that he had hidden two Tutsis in his home.<sup>9093</sup> On account of what Kanyabashi said, Witness FAC and others went to get Tutsis they had hidden, and took them to the secteur office. Witness FAC brought two Tutsis who he had been hiding to the secteur office.<sup>9094</sup> Witness FAC testified that they were all convinced that the war was over; when they took Tutsis to the Tumba secteur office, they thought these Tutsis would receive “exemplary punishment.”<sup>9095</sup>

3323. However, upon their arrival at the office, a man named Sostene Munyemana, who was running the secteur, asked the Interahamwe to kill the Tutsis.<sup>9096</sup> Munyemana assembled people in the compound, in front of the office. When the number of people had grown, he asked that they be killed. The Interahamwe, under the supervision of two soldiers, killed the Tutsis who had been brought to the office. The soldiers were Munyemana’s guards.<sup>9097</sup> Witness FAC testified that he begged the attackers to spare the two people he had brought to the office, and the soldiers asked him to pay 3,000 francs in return. Since Witness FAC did not have the money, the two Tutsis were killed in his presence.<sup>9098</sup>

3324. Witness FAC testified that he was about three metres away from the area outside the secteur office where people were killed. Approximately 80 people were killed in the compound in front of the office, and approximately 70 people were killed inside the secteur office.<sup>9099</sup> People who were killed outside the secteur office were made to lie on the ground. Young people used clubs and various other instruments to kill.<sup>9100</sup> Witness FAC estimated that there were between 30 and 40 attackers.<sup>9101</sup> Soldiers shot those who attempted to run away. In this manner, the soldiers killed four people who attempted to run away, while the other people were killed by youth. The killings lasted for approximately 40 minutes, as people continued to bring Tutsis to the secteur office.<sup>9102</sup> Witness FAC testified that afterward, they were asked to remove the bodies of the victims in the secteur office, and he saw injections in their arms.<sup>9103</sup>

3325. Witness FAC testified that Kanyabashi was not present at the secteur office.<sup>9104</sup> Witness FAC testified that he knew Kanyabashi very well. Kanyabashi was a friend of his when Witness FAC was studying. He used to meet Kanyabashi every day. Witness FAC identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>9105</sup>

3326. Witness FAC testified that he was subsequently detained in Rwanda for the role he played in bringing the two Tutsis from his house to the secteur office where they were killed.<sup>9106</sup> According to Witness FAC, the Rwandan judicial system provides that whoever is present where killings are carried out is implicated in the crime. He was held responsible for conniving against the two people he took to the secteur office.<sup>9107</sup> Witness FAC testified that he did not personally kill anyone, but he was present during the killings. Witness FAC stated that he could not dissociate himself from the group of killers. He supported them.<sup>9108</sup>

3327. Witness FAC testified that he did not believe he did anything wrong, because he acted in accordance with instructions he had been given. When he led the two Tutsis to the secteur office, he did not think they would be killed there.<sup>9109</sup> He thought those Tutsis would live, and that he would be compensated for having hidden them. He believed there was shared responsibility for the death of those two people. He stated, “[o]ne could not have refused to obey the orders of the boss.”<sup>9110</sup> Witness FAC testified that he first denied that he was responsible for the death of those people. After four years of detention, he confessed to having committed those acts.<sup>9111</sup>

3328. Witness FAC testified that he had long-running problems with his eyes. Witness FAC conceded that he was in frail health, and that he had health problems subsequent to a car accident. When asked if he was sane, Witness FAC stated: “I cannot say that I am insane, but I cannot say that I am normal just like anybody else. All I can tell you is that I am narrating things to you that I experienced myself and things I saw myself.”<sup>9112</sup>

3329. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu former civil servant,<sup>9113</sup> testified that from 19 to 21 April 1994, he had been assigned to guard one of Ngoma commune's border areas at Mukura bridge on the border between Ngoma and Gishamvu communes.<sup>9114</sup> On 21 April 1994, the witness intended to stay at home but on receiving a message from a colleague, he went to Mukura bridge at 8.30 or 9.00 a.m.<sup>9115</sup> He went home around noon.<sup>9116</sup> In cross-examination the witness was confronted with his previous statement of 19 November 2004 in which he stated that he did not work on 21 April 1994. The witness explained this contradiction by saying that he had told the investigator that he had a rest day that day, not that he had rested that day.<sup>9117</sup>

3330. Witness D-2-YYYY stated that on 22 April 1994, Kanyabashi chaired a meeting at the commune office, which started at 8.30 a.m. After the meeting, Kanyabashi remained at the commune office until 1.30 p.m. and then went home for two hours.<sup>9118</sup> He returned to the commune office at 3.30 p.m. and went home for the day at about 5.00 p.m.<sup>9119</sup> The witness ate at Kanyabashi's house from 3.30 to 5.00 p.m. before returning to the commune office where he stayed the night.<sup>9120</sup>

3331. Witness D-2-YYYY remained at the commune office until 5 p.m. the following day, 23 April 1994.<sup>9121</sup> After 5.00 p.m., he was posted to guard Kanyabashi's residence with Witness D-2-5-I and spent the night there. Kanyabashi left his home with Witness D-2-5-I at 6.00 p.m. and returned around 7.00 or 7.30 p.m. He did not go out again.<sup>9122</sup>

3332. On 24 April 1994, Witness D-2-YYYY was on guard at Kanyabashi's house until 5.00 p.m. Kanyabashi did not go out that day. Witness D-2-YYY testified that he remembered what happened between 21 and 24 April 1994 because it was the first time in his life he had experienced such events.<sup>9123</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

3333. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant, testified that on 22 April 1994, he rested at home until 5.00 p.m. when he reported for work at the commune office where he spent the night.<sup>9124</sup> On 23 April 1994, the witness remained at the commune office; at 5.00 p.m. Kanyabashi arrived and asked the witness to accompany him.<sup>9125</sup> Kanyabashi, the witness and another person drove to Mukoni and the Hotel Faucon, where they were shot at. In view of the prevailing insecurity, the witness spent the night at Kanyabashi's house.<sup>9126</sup> He denied being on duty with Witness D-2-YYYY on 23 April 1994.<sup>9127</sup>

3334. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu detainee, testified that Witness FAC was a member of a group of people in Butare prison who were trying to incriminate Kanyabashi. Witness D-2-13-D contended that Witness FAC and others came to his cell in prison and attempted to recruit him to testify against Kanyabashi.<sup>9128</sup>

3335. The Prosecution adduced evidence from a single factual witness, Prosecution Witness FAC, in support of the contention that Kanyabashi is responsible for conspiring to bring about the massacre of Tutsis at the Tumba secteur office around 23 April 1994. Specifically, the Prosecution asserts that Kanyabashi told people gathered at a bar in Butare town, including Prosecution Witness FAC, that they should inform Tutsis who were hiding that it was safe to come out. Allegedly, on account of Kanyabashi's words, Witness FAC led two Tutsis who had been hiding in his home to the Tumba secteur office, where they were subsequently killed on the instructions of the acting conseiller of the secteur, who was overseeing Interahamwe and two soldiers in killing Tutsis there.<sup>9129</sup>

3336. The Chamber observes that the Kanyabashi Defence does not appear to contest that Tutsis were killed at Tumba secteur office around 23 April 1994.<sup>9130</sup> The Chamber further notes that it is not contested that Kanyabashi was absent from the Tumba secteur office when Witness FAC allegedly witnessed Tutsis being killed there.<sup>9131</sup>

3337. The issues of contention are whether, around 23 April 1994, Kanyabashi told Prosecution Witness FAC to take Tutsis who had come out of hiding to the Tumba secteur office, and if so, whether Kanyabashi was acting in concert with or had control over the actions of the conseiller of the secteur, who purportedly oversaw the Interahamwe and soldiers killing Tutsis at the Tumba secteur office.

3339. The Chamber recalls that Witness FAC testified that his encounter with Kanyabashi at the bar, where Kanyabashi allegedly stated that Tutsis should come out of hiding, took place around 10.00 a.m., on or about 23 April 1994.<sup>9135</sup> The Chamber notes that the Kanyabashi Defence led alibi evidence through Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-5-I, that if believed, would provide Kanyabashi with an alibi for several periods of time between 22 and 24 April 1994. The Chamber further notes that the testimony of Witness D-2-YYYY, if believed, would provide Kanyabashi with an alibi for the following periods: between 8.30 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. and 3.30 and 5.00 p.m. on 22 April 1994;<sup>9136</sup> between 5.00 and 6.00 p.m. and between 7.00 p.m. and 12.00 midnight on 23 April 1994;<sup>9137</sup> and until 5.00 p.m. on 24 April 1994.<sup>9138</sup> Similarly, the testimony of Witness D-2-5-I, if believed, would provide Kanyabashi with an alibi for the entire evening of 23 April 1994, from 5.00 p.m.<sup>9139</sup> Further, as regards 22 and 24 April 1994, the alibi evidence covers most of the day up to 5.00 p.m., the time when Witness D-2-YYYY left Kanyabashi at the commune office and his home respectively. The Chamber observes that the alibi evidence of Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-5-I, even if believed, does not cover the morning of 23 April 1994. Regardless, the Chamber considers that there is no need, in the instant case, to assess whether the Prosecution has eliminated the reasonable possibility that the alibi is true.<sup>9140</sup>

3340. The Chamber notes that Witness FAC provided a detailed account of killings he witnessed at the Tumba secteur office. Nevertheless, in the Chamber's view, the Prosecution has failed to adduce sufficient evidence to establish that Kanyabashi told Witness FAC to bring Tutsis who had been hiding to the secteur office.

3341. The Chamber notes that Witness FAC's testimony consistently imputes responsibility on Kanyabashi for the fate that befell the two Tutsis that Witness FAC took to the secteur office, but his testimony was ambiguous regarding whether Kanyabashi explicitly told people to escort Tutsis who had come out of hiding to the Tumba secteur office. The Chamber observes that when Witness FAC was asked which authorities instructed them to take Tutsis to the secteur office, Witness FAC responded, "[a]s regards the fact of leading people to the secteur office, it was communal administration that gave us those instructions and that administration was represented by Kanyabashi."<sup>9141</sup> Similarly, when Witness FAC testified that Kanyabashi was the authority who gave them "those instructions",<sup>9142</sup> it is unclear whether Witness FAC meant to say that Kanyabashi told them that Tutsis should come out of hiding or that Kanyabashi said that Tutsis should come out of hiding and assemble at the secteur office.

3342. The Chamber observes that Witness FAC gave contradictory evidence on this point. On several occasions, Witness FAC testified that the only thing Kanyabashi said at the bar in late April 1994 was: "Come over. I want to tell you something. Now, there's peace. Tell the Tutsis in your house [and] that are hiding in the sorghum fields to come out."<sup>9143</sup> However, Witness

FAC also appeared to testify that Kanyabashi instructed them to take Tutsis to the secteur office.<sup>9144</sup>

3344. In light of all of the foregoing, the Chamber considers that the Prosecution has failed to adduce sufficient evidence to establish that Kanyabashi was acting in concert with the individual who was overseeing the Interahamwe and soldiers in killing Tutsis at the Tumba secteur office. Witness FAC's evidence did not clearly establish that the individual in charge of the secteur office when Witness FAC arrived was a properly appointed conseiller, over whom Kanyabashi had effective control. The Chamber also considers that the Prosecution failed to adduce sufficient evidence to establish that Kanyabashi exercised control over the Interahamwe and soldiers who were killing people at the Tumba secteur office.

3345. Taking into account the gaps in the evidence led, the fact that Witness FAC was an uncorroborated witness on this allegation, and considering Witness FAC's status as a detained accomplice witness, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi told Hutus to lead Tutsis to their death at the Tumba secteur office or that Kanyabashi authorised or had control over the actions of the Interahamwe, soldiers and civilians who killed Tutsis at the Tumba secteur office, around 23 April 1994.

3.6.28 Bishya Trading Centre, Late April 1994

3.6.28.1 Introduction

3346. Paragraph 5.8 of the Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, prominent figures of authority propagated incitement to hatred and violence. Ndayambaje and others publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis and their “accomplices”.<sup>9152</sup> The Prosecution submits that by making public statements calling for the extermination of the Tutsi population, Ndayambaje gave effect to the Interim Government’s plan to commit genocide. The public took heed of Ndayambaje’s statements and Tutsis were killed as a result. Ndayambaje was an influential figure in Muganza commune during the time frame covered by Paragraph 5.8 of the Indictment; he was the former bourgmestre of Muganza commune and was reappointed to that position in June 1994. He used his position of authority to rally the public into killing Tutsis. In this connection, the Prosecution alleges that in April 1994, Ndayambaje incited members of the public at the Bishya trading centre to attack Tutsis who had gathered on Kabuye Hill.<sup>9153</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAU and FAG.

3347. In addition to its submission on defects in the Indictment, considered below, the Ndayambaje Defence submits that the Prosecution evidence lacks credibility and cannot be relied on.<sup>9154</sup>

3.6.28.2 Preliminary Issues

3348. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that Paragraph 5.8 of the Ndayambaje Indictment is impermissibly vague; it does not provide any specific examples of public incitement by Ndayambaje. In particular, Paragraph 5.8 does not contain any information on when or where such incitement took place, the target audience, the nature and content of the inflammatory utterances or the link between the incitement and any crime.<sup>9155</sup>

3349. Paragraph 5.8 is general in nature and, aside from alleging that Ndayambaje publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis over a four-month period, it fails to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. The Chamber therefore considers it to be defective. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraph 5.8 was cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

3350. The allegation that Ndayambaje incited members of the public to kill Tutsis at the Bishya trading centre does not feature in the summaries of Witnesses FAG and FAU’s expected testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief.<sup>9156</sup> Witnesses FAG and FAU were the only Prosecution witnesses who testified on this particular incident of alleged incitement involving Ndayambaje.

3351. The summary of Witness FAG's expected testimony states that Kanyenzi ordered the witness to go to Kabuye Hill with Burundian refugees to exterminate Tutsi survivors. No reference is made to Ndayambaje's involvement in the issuance of this order nor does the witness suggest that Ndayambaje incited people to join in the killings at Kabuye Hill. Witness FAU's expected testimony states that Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo incited a 1,000-person crowd to kill Tutsis in May 1994. This does not relate to the allegation at Bishya, which allegedly took place in April 1994 and involved a much smaller audience. The Prosecution did not include any additional information in the Pre-Trial Brief relating to this allegation, and did not reference this event in its opening statement.

3352. The Chamber concludes that the Ndayambaje Defence did not receive proper notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence as to this allegation. Subsequent Prosecution disclosures failed to cure the Indictment's defects. Accordingly, the Chamber will not consider the Prosecution evidence insofar as it relates to this allegation.

3.6.29 Replacement of Conseillers, Late April 1994

3.6.29.1 Introduction

3353. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that following 20 April 1994, Kanyabashi was responsible for the dismissal of civil servants and political appointees who did not approve of or participate in the killing of Tutsis with enough zeal.<sup>9157</sup> The Indictment further alleges that around late April 1994, Kanyabashi removed certain conseillers de secteur in his commune and replaced them with people who were known to have taken part in, or shown approval of, the murdering of Tutsis.<sup>9158</sup>

3354. In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAL and QA, and Prosecution Expert Witnesses André Guichaoua and Alison Des Forges.<sup>9159</sup>

3355. In addition to its submissions on defects in the Kanyabashi Indictment considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that the Prosecution failed to adduce sufficient evidence showing that Kanyabashi was responsible for replacing certain officials. The Defence also asserts that Witness QA failed to testify truthfully at trial. Finally, the Defence asserts that the testimony of the Prosecution expert witnesses was insufficient to prove that Kanyabashi replaced certain officials.<sup>9160</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on Defence Witness D-2-21-T.<sup>9161</sup>

3.6.29.2 Preliminary Issues

3356. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the allegations against Kanyabashi are unduly vague and were not sufficiently pled in the Indictment. It asserts that the Indictment failed to include “essential facts” which would allow it to prepare Kanyabashi’s defence, notably the identity of the conseillers whom Kanyabashi allegedly replaced.<sup>9162</sup>

3357. The Chamber notes the Prosecution’s allegation that Kanyabashi replaced conseillers with people in favour of killing Tutsis forms part of its case in eight of the nine counts brought against Kanyabashi. The Chamber considers the identity of the replaced officials to be material to these counts. Paragraph 6.26 of the Kanyabashi Indictment does not put forth the identities of the officials who Kanyabashi is alleged to have replaced. Paragraph 6.30 provides additional detail, specifying the approximate date and geographic location where the alleged replacements occurred; however this paragraph also does not indicate the identity of the replaced officials. In omitting the material facts regarding the replacement of which officials were to be at issue, the Chamber finds that the information contained in Paragraphs 6.26 and 6.30 of the Indictment did not provide adequate details to enable Kanyabashi to prepare his defence. The Chamber concludes that Paragraphs 6.26 and 6.30 of the Kanyabashi Indictment are unduly vague and are therefore defective.

3359. The Chamber notes that the summary of the anticipated testimony of Witness QA contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief does not mention Kanyabashi’s replacement of officials, nor provide additional facts. However, the Prosecution later disclosed Witness QA’s prior statements of 14 May 1996 and 20 June 1995. Witness QA’s 14 May 1996 statement, disclosed originally to the Kanyabashi Defence on 4 December 2000, indicates that Kanyabashi appointed a man named Jacques Habimana to replace a conseiller.<sup>9163</sup> This disclosure was made to the Defence well in advance of Witness QA’s testimony, 18 March 2004. Furthermore, Witness QA’s statement of 20 June 1995, disclosed to the Kanyabashi Defence originally on 22 January 2004, indicates that a conseiller named Jacques replaced a conseiller who had been murdered.<sup>9164</sup>

3360. In addition, the Chamber observes that further information regarding the circumstances of Kanyabashi’s role in replacing conseillers with people in favour of killing Tutsis is contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. The witness summaries contained in the Appendix provided notice that Kanyabashi would be accused of replacing

<sup>9162</sup> Kanyabashi Closing Brief, para. 616. The Kanyabashi Defence previously raised this issue in a Preliminary Motion arguing that Paras. 6.26 and 6.30, among others, be deleted from the Indictment because of their vagueness and imprecision. The Defence argued that, in the allegedly deficient paragraphs, “[s]pecific mention is not made of those who were dismissed nor at what point in time their dismissal took place... [i]n brief, this text is so vague and ambiguous that it must be set aside.” Prosecutor v. Kanyabashi, Case No. ICTR-96-15-I, Preliminary Motion Based on Rule 72 B(ii) of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence, 9 October 1999, para. 42. In its Decision, the Chamber dismissed the Defence’s request to set aside the Indictment but held that that “the Prosecution must clearly distinguish the acts for which the Accused incurs criminal responsibility under Article 6 (1) of the Statute from those for which he incurs criminal responsibility under Article 6 (3).” Kanyabashi, Decision on Defence Preliminary Motion for Defects in the Form of the Indictment (TC), 31 May 2000, p. 8.

conseillers through the summaries of anticipated evidence of two witnesses who did not testify at trial, Prosecution Witnesses QC and QE.

3361. Witness QC's summary in the Pre-Trial Brief states that Kanyabashi "appointed a notorious extremist, Jacques Habimana of the MDR-PAWA party."<sup>9165</sup> Witness QE's summary in the Pre-Trial Brief states that "[i]n the case of the Conseiller who was killed, Kanyabashi replaced him with Jacques Habimana, an extremist."<sup>9166</sup> The summary further states that Witness QE heard Habimana giving instructions to killers. The information contained in the summaries of anticipated evidence of Witnesses QC and QE is consistent with that provided in Witness QA's previous statements.

3362. The Chamber considers that the information contained in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, combined with the disclosures of Witness QA's previous statements, gave the Defence notice that Kanyabashi was accused of replacing conseillers with people in favour of killing Tutsis. Kanyabashi was thereby informed of the material facts that the Prosecution intended to prove at trial, he was able to prepare his defence, and the defect in the Kanyabashi Indictment was thereby cured. Accordingly, the Chamber will proceed to consider the evidence brought in respect of this allegation.

Prosecution Witness QA

3363. Witness QA, a Hutu worker in 1994, identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>9167</sup> Witness QA stated that he knew Kanyabashi before the events,<sup>9168</sup> and averred that Kanyabashi was very respected by everyone, including Tutsis, and that he was loved by the population.<sup>9169</sup> He stated that Kanyabashi was the authority to whom the population listened most.<sup>9170</sup>

3364. Witness QA testified that during April 1994, Sayidi Munanyankumburwa was the secteur conseiller of Ngoma commune. Witness QA further testified that in April 1994, Munanyankumburwa had disappeared and had left with the stamp from the secteur office. Kanyabashi organised a meeting in Ngoma commune, the purpose of which was to ask Munanyankumburwa for the stamp of the commune. Witness QA testified that he heard Kanyabashi speak with a close relative of conseiller Sayidi Munyankumburwa.<sup>9171</sup> Witness QA testified that Kanyabashi stated to the relative: "I need to get that stamp of the secteur back. So, Mr. Hussein, I am asking you to go with Sayidi – go to Sayidi, tell him that there will be no problem. I will ensure his safety."<sup>9172</sup> This discussion was held in public.<sup>9173</sup>

3365. Witness QA testified that in early May, he attended another meeting convened and chaired by the conseiller at the Ngoma secteur office, who told the people that Kanyabashi had ordered him to hold the meeting. Witness QA testified that when the conseiller entered the venue, soldiers took the conseiller away and killed him.<sup>9174</sup> The witness explained that the soldiers targeted the conseiller because he was investigating the death of a young man named Bosco, son of Gasinya.<sup>9175</sup> Witness QA testified that the soldiers said that the conseiller was an accomplice of the Tutsis because he wanted to investigate Bosco's death.<sup>9176</sup> Witness QA further testified that the conseiller's death was not investigated.<sup>9177</sup>

3366. Witness QA stated that Kanyabashi appointed a man named "Jacque" to replace Munyankumburwa as the conseiller. Witness QA described "Jacque" as a very influential person during the events at issue.<sup>9178</sup> Witness QA testified that "Jacque Habimana" was the person who led the massacres in his area.<sup>9179</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

3367. In his Expert Report, André Guichaoua identified Jacques Habimana as a store-keeper turned private journalist. The Report indicated that Kanyabashi appointed Habimana as conseiller of Ngoma secteur, to replace Said Munyankumburwa who had been assassinated. The Report described Habimana as "notorious" and indicated that his "killing zeal was demonstrated on 29 April 1994, during the attack on Ngoma Church."<sup>9180</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

3368. In her Expert Report, Alison Des Forges indicated that Jacques Habimana "exploited his connections with militia to attack Tutsi as well as to build a personal base of power that got him installed as councilor of Ngoma sector."<sup>9181</sup>

3.6.29.4 Deliberations

3369. The Prosecution adduced evidence from one factual witness and two expert witnesses in support of Paragraphs 6.26 and 6.30 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. These Indictment Paragraphs seek to attribute responsibility to Kanyabashi for replacing conseillers with people in support of killing Tutsis.

3370. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution Closing Brief states that "Witness FAL testified that Joseph Kanyabashi said that Ndayambaje was being appointed as Burgomaster because Christologue who had been Burgomaster of Muganza commune had not been sufficiently active."<sup>9182</sup> The Chamber observes that Witness FAL gave no such testimony.

Rather, Witness FAL testified that Nteziryayo said he came to install Ndayambaje because Chrisologue was not active enough.<sup>9183</sup>

3371. As regards Witness QA, the Chamber recalls the existence of serious credibility issues surrounding his testimony. When recalled by the Chamber for further questioning in 2008, Witness QA admitted that regarding his original testimony in 2004 “in everything that I said, there are only a few things that are truthful. For the most part, my testimony was lies.”<sup>9184</sup> Although Witness QA did not specifically admit that his 2004 testimony regarding Kanyabashi’s appointment of conseillers was false, his admission of lying under oath regarding most of his testimony undermines his credibility as a witness. Accordingly, the Chamber does not find Witness QA’s account of the meeting as a whole to be reliable or credible.

3372. Guichaoua and Des Forges also provided evidence of Kanyabashi’s replacing conseillers with people in favour of killing Tutsis. Guichaoua’s Report indicates that Kanyabashi appointed Jacques Habimana as conseiller and that Habimana showed a zeal for killing Tutsis.<sup>9185</sup> Des Forges’ Report states Habimana was installed as conseiller of Ngoma secteur based in part upon his attacks upon Tutsis.<sup>9186</sup>

3373. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that these Reports are insufficient, in and of themselves, to prove the material facts of the allegation at hand. It argues that as Expert Witnesses, Des Forges and Guichaoua could not testify as to facts, but instead were limited in their testimony to offering their expert opinion.<sup>9187</sup>

3374. The Chamber recalls that in its 24 June 2004 Decision, the contents of Guichaoua’s Report, Prosecution Exhibit 136, were admitted into evidence, over Defence objections.<sup>9188</sup> Furthermore the Chamber recalls that in its 7 June 2004 Decision, the contents of Des Forges’ Report, Prosecution Exhibit 110, were accepted into evidence over Defence objections.<sup>9189</sup>

3375. The Chamber notes that as previously set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (), “while the report and testimony of an expert witness may be based on facts narrated by ordinary witnesses or facts from other evidence, an expert witness cannot, in principle, testify himself or herself on the acts and conduct of accused persons without having been called to testify also as a factual witness and without his or her statement having been disclosed in accordance with the applicable rules concerning factual witnesses.” Furthermore, “the role of expert witnesses is to assist the Trial Chamber in its assessment of the evidence before it, and not to testify on disputed facts as would ordinary witnesses.”

3376. In the instant case, given Witness QA’s lack of credibility, the only evidence introduced supporting the allegation that Kanyabashi replaced conseillers with people who were in favour of killing Tutsis comes in the form of the Expert Reports accepted into evidence. Absent additional corroborating evidence from witnesses testifying to the material facts of the case, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has not proven this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>9190</sup> Because the Chamber has concluded that Witness QA's testimony is unreliable for independent reasons, it need not address the impact of Witness D-2-21-T's testimony on his credibility.

3.6.30 Meetings with Interahamwe, 7 and 12 May 1994

3377. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that from late 1990 to July 1994, members of the government, political leaders and others conspired to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition.<sup>9191</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and others allegedly developed, adhered to and executed this genocidal plan by organising, ordering and participating in massacres of Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>9192</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that between 9 April and 14 July 1994, numerous Cabinet meetings were held in Kigali, Gitarama and Gisenyi. During this period, ministers, including Nyiramasuhuko, were regularly briefed on massacres of the civilian population.<sup>9193</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment contends that Interim Government Cabinet members supported and implemented the extermination plan,<sup>9194</sup> and MRND leaders chose to provide support to Interahamwe members.<sup>9195</sup>

3378. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko was an active member of the Interim Government, a member of the MRND and an influential figure in Butare throughout the period of April to July 1994.<sup>9196</sup> According to the Prosecution, the Interim Government continued to function between 9 April and 14 July 1994 – it was able to hold regular meetings, make political appointments, and issue directives and instructions, which were then carried out.<sup>9197</sup> The Prosecution avers that Government Cabinet meetings were held concurrently with meetings of MRND Ministers, and Nyiramasuhuko participated in most of these meetings.<sup>9198</sup> Nyiramasuhuko supported the Interim Government's plans and objectives, and did her part to ensure these objectives were carried out.<sup>9199</sup>

3379. The Prosecution contends that Nyiramasuhuko was fully and actively in agreement with the Interim Government's objective to commit genocide.<sup>9200</sup> Nyiramasuhuko played an active role in ensuring the Interim Government's agreement to commit genocide was elaborated, adhered to and executed in Butare préfecture.<sup>9201</sup> The Prosecution submits that the Interim Government's meetings and directives reveal that between 9 April and 14 July 1994 the Interim Government agreed, and engaged in concerted and coordinated action, to commit genocide, and to incite, aid and abet massacres of Tutsi and Hutu moderates.<sup>9202</sup>

3380. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko's notes of meetings demonstrate coordination between the Interim Government and Interahamwe,<sup>9203</sup> who committed many atrocities in Butare.<sup>9204</sup> Nyiramasuhuko's meetings with the Interahamwe show that Nyiramasuhuko had a relationship with the Interahamwe, which entailed the Interahamwe following Nyiramasuhuko's orders.<sup>9205</sup> MRND leaders, in collaboration with others, provided support to those Interahamwe members most devoted to their cause.<sup>9206</sup> The Prosecution contends that members of this "organised militia" were led and financed by prominent figures from the President's entourage, and transported in public administration vehicles.<sup>9207</sup>

3381. Specifically, the Prosecution submits that on 7 May 1994 in Murambi, Gitarama préfecture, Nyiramasuhuko attended a Cabinet meeting which had civil defence on its agenda.<sup>9208</sup> The Prosecution posits that the Interim Government's "civil defence" programme was a component of its genocidal strategy.<sup>9209</sup> On the same day, Nyiramasuhuko met with the national Chairman of the Interahamwe, Robert Kajuga, and other members of the Interahamwe national committee.<sup>9210</sup> The Prosecution submits that this meeting was one of a series of important mobilisation meetings.<sup>9211</sup> Nyiramasuhuko discussed with Kajuga how the situation was under the Interahamwe's control, and the Interahamwe's need for laissez-passeurs for their vehicles.<sup>9212</sup> The Prosecution puts forth that the Interahamwe's presence in a corner during the 7 May 1994 Interim Government Cabinet meeting, Kajuga's remark that the situation was under the Interahamwe's control, and Nyiramasuhuko's discussion on government assistance to the Interahamwe, all demonstrate collaboration between the Interim Government and the Interahamwe in the midst of wide-scale massacres against the Tutsis.<sup>9213</sup>

3382. The Prosecution further contends that on 12 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko attended an MRND Political Bureau meeting for MRND Ministers, which lasted until 13 May 1994. Civil defence was again slated as an agenda item. At that meeting, Nyiramasuhuko discussed assistance for the Interahamwe. Her notes on this meeting indicate, inter alia, that the Interahamwe would contribute to civil defence, and that there were wounded Interahamwe who needed treatment, food, means of communication and a command post.<sup>9214</sup>

3383. The Prosecution submits that the 7 May 1994 and 12 May 1994 meetings between Nyiramasuhuko and the Interahamwe are linked. At the former, Nyiramasuhuko discussed the Interahamwe's need for food, treatment and laissez-passeurs. Five days later, she formally met with the Interahamwe and MRND politicians for further discussion on this issue.<sup>9215</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on Prosecution Expert Witnesses André Guichaoua and on Nyiramasuhuko's testimony.

3384. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not contest the Prosecution's assertion, in Paragraph 6.13 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, that "numerous Cabinet meetings were held successively in Kigali, Gitarama and Gisenyi." However, it rejects the allegation that between 9 April and 14 July 1994, ministers, including Nyiramasuhuko, received "regular briefings" on the situation with regard to civilian massacres.<sup>9216</sup>

3385. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not contest that on 7 May 1994 Nyiramasuhuko attended a Cabinet meeting in Murambi,<sup>9217</sup> and that she spoke with Kajuga around the time of this Cabinet meeting. It submits, however, that Prosecution Expert Witness Guichaoua incorrectly characterised the 7 May 1994 encounter between Nyiramasuhuko and members of the Interahamwe national committee as a formal meeting. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence argues that Nyiramasuhuko encountered Kajuga by chance during a break in the meeting.<sup>9218</sup> The Defence rejects the Prosecution's assertion that this meeting is evidence of collaboration between the Interim Government and the Interahamwe.<sup>9219</sup>

3386. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not contest that from 12-13 May 1994 Nyiramasuhuko attended an MRND Political Bureau meeting. The Defence submits that it was only at this 12 May 1994 meeting that Nyiramasuhuko understood that Kajuga and other Interahamwe members had come to Murambi on 7 May 1994 to meet MRND leaders.<sup>9220</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence argues that her notes from the 12 May 1994 MRND Political Bureau meeting indicate that a decision was taken at the 12 May 1994 meeting, that the Interahamwe's requests for food, healthcare, and means of communication as well as the Interahamwe's contribution to civil defence, would be conditional on identifying the "real" Interahamwe, as opposed to "killers" who proclaimed to be Interahamwe.<sup>9221</sup> The Defence submits that Nyiramasuhuko's notes indicate that MRND Ministers did not discuss the extermination of Tutsis, but rather talked about whether they had a reasonable chance of winning the war.<sup>9222</sup> In

3387. The Ntahobali Defence submits that Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is impermissibly vague,<sup>9224</sup> even when read in the context of the Indictment as a whole.<sup>9225</sup> This paragraph fails to specify the elements of the crime of conspiracy to commit genocide.<sup>9226</sup>

3388. The Chamber recalls its 1 November 2000 Decision, whereby the Chamber stated that Paragraph 5.1 adequately sets out sufficient particulars to enable the Accused to understand the conspiracy charge.<sup>9227</sup> Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges an agreement with genocidal intent, identifies Nyiramasuhuko as a conspirator, specifies alleged co-conspirators, sets out components of the agreement, and describes modes by which named participants participated in executing the plan. The Chamber thus finds that Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment was not defective for failing to elaborate on the elements of the crime of conspiracy to commit genocide.

3389. The Ntahobali Defence, on behalf of Nyiramasuhuko, submits that Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment fails to allege a criminal act by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>9228</sup> The Chamber recalls that conspiracy to commit genocide is a crime under Article 2 (3)(b) of the Statute. This crime requires "an agreement between two or more persons to commit the crime of genocide" (). As such, the Prosecution must allege the existence of such an agreement, which it did in Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment. The Chamber thus finds that Paragraph 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment was not defective for failing to allege that Nyiramasuhuko committed a criminal act.

3390. Nevertheless, the Chamber notes that the material facts supporting a charge must be pled in the Indictment with sufficient precision to provide notice to the Accused.<sup>9229</sup> The Prosecution's theory is that Nyiramasuhuko's meetings with the Interahamwe provide evidence of concerted and coordinated action between the Interim Government and the Interahamwe. This collaboration reveals an agreement to commit genocide in Butare, which was thereafter perpetrated through methods elaborated in the Indictment.<sup>9230</sup>

3391. The question remains as to whether Nyiramasuhuko had adequate notice that the Prosecution would lead evidence on her participation in these two particular meetings in support of the conspiracy charge. The Chamber notes that neither the 7 May 1994 meeting

The Chamber thus finds the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment defective. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will proceed to determine whether this defect was cured through the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information.

3392. The Chamber has reviewed the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and its Appendix, as well as the Prosecution opening statement. The Chamber observes that there is no specific mention of the 7 May 1994 or the 12 May 1994 meetings in these potentially curing materials. The Chamber concludes that the defect in the Indictment was not cured in the instant case. As such, the Chamber declines to make a finding as to these two meetings.

3.6.31 Kamena Stadium Meeting, 10 May 1994

3.6.31.1 Introduction

3393. Each Indictment alleges that from late 1990 to July 1994, Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. They, together with others, allegedly adhered to and executed this plan and in doing so organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>9231</sup> The Indictments further allege that the massacres and assaults perpetrated in Butare préfecture were the result of a strategy adopted by figures of authority, including Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, who conspired to exterminate the Tutsi population.<sup>9232</sup> Moreover, the Indictments of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, and Nsabimana and Nteziryayo allege that Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, in their positions of authority and acting in concert with others, participated in a common scheme to massacre the Tutsi population.<sup>9233</sup> The Nsabimana Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres, including at least one convened by Nyiramasuhuko in April 1994 during which the progress of the massacres was discussed as well as the means by which to complete them.<sup>9234</sup>

3394. As part of its case against Nyiramasuhuko in respect of the charge of conspiracy to commit genocide, the Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko attended formal and informal meetings at the Butare préfecture office and other locations which were also attended by local authorities.<sup>9235</sup> It further submits that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings in Butare préfecture during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis.<sup>9236</sup> With regard to Kanyabashi, the Prosecution submits that his role in the genocide conspiracy was,

inter alia, to attend meetings, give instructions to kill Tutsis in hiding and use his position and power to incite the population to join in the killings.<sup>9237</sup>

3395. The Prosecution contends that on 10 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko met with the youth wing of all parties in Butare. Relying on the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko and Expert Witness Guichaoua, the Prosecution argues that the meeting of 10 May 1994 was an important mobilisation meeting that was also attended by Nsabimana and Kanyabashi.<sup>9238</sup> The Prosecution cites this particular meeting as one of a series of meetings in support of the specific count of conspiracy to commit genocide.<sup>9239</sup>

3396. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not dispute that on 10 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko attended a meeting with the youths of all the parties in Kamena Stadium in Butare.<sup>9240</sup> It denies that the meeting or the subsequent reception attended by Nsabimana and Kanyabashi was part of a conspiracy to commit genocide.<sup>9241</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Kanyabashi was not involved in the meeting of 10 May 1994.<sup>9242</sup> The Nsabimana Defence makes no specific submissions in relation to this allegation. The Defence teams rely on the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana.

3.6.31.2 Preliminary Issues

Nyiramasuhuko

3397. The Chamber notes the Prosecution's allegation that Nyiramasuhuko participated in a number of meetings. This allegation forms part of the Prosecution's case in relation to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. Besides specific allegations concerning Nyiramasuhuko's involvement in Cabinet meetings<sup>9243</sup> and meetings at the préfecture office, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment does not allege that Nyiramasuhuko attended, chaired, convened or in any other way participated in meetings during which the planning of the genocide was discussed. Nor are there any facts or circumstances set forth in the Indictment from which it could be inferred that Nyiramasuhuko was involved in other meetings of this kind. The Chamber considers Nyiramasuhuko's alleged participation in meetings to be material to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. It constitutes one of the means by which the alleged conspiracy was committed and is a key element of the conduct imputed to the Accused. For these reasons, the Chamber considers that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is defective in this respect vis-à-vis Nyiramasuhuko.

3398. The Chamber must then determine whether the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief contains reference to three witnesses (Witnesses FAS, QBP and QF) who were expected to testify that Nyiramasuhuko participated in or addressed meetings or rallies in locations including Mbazi Stadium and Cyarwa in April and May 1994.<sup>9244</sup> In view of the fact that the specific meeting at Kamena Stadium is not mentioned in any disclosures subsequent to the Indictment, the Chamber finds that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not have sufficient notice of this meeting. Thus, the Chamber considers that the defect in the Indictment has not been cured and declines to make a finding in respect of this allegation.

Nsabimana

3399. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is impermissibly vague because it does not give an indication of the meeting dates, venues, attendees or the number of meetings. It also argues that Paragraph 6.28 does not clearly state whether the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was discussed at every meeting, or only those convened by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>9245</sup>

3400. The Indictment does not mention a meeting at Kamena Stadium or specify that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi were present at such a meeting. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is defective.

3401. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraph 6.28 was cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists seven witnesses who were expected to testify that Nsabimana participated in meetings, five of whom eventually gave evidence at trial.<sup>9246</sup> The alleged meetings described in the witness summary grid cover the period from April to June 1994 and are said to have taken place in various venues in Butare including the préfecture office, Ngoma football field, Ngoma Parish, Mbazi Stadium and MRND Headquarters. Those involved in such meetings included Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi, bourgmestres and members of the public.

3402. In view of the fact that the specific meeting at Kamena Stadium is not mentioned in any of the prior Prosecution disclosures, the Chamber finds that the Nsabimana Defence did not have sufficient notice of this meeting. Thus, the Chamber considers that the defects in the Indictment have not been cured and therefore declines to make a finding in respect of this allegation.

Kanyabashi

3403. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the youth meeting of 10 May 1994 was not part of the Prosecution's evidence until Nyiramasuhuko gave evidence about it in 2005.<sup>9247</sup> The Chamber notes that the Kanyabashi Indictment contains four paragraphs that deal with Kanyabashi's involvement in meetings: Paragraph 5.8 concerns meetings in May 1994 in Cyarwa secteur, Ngoma commune during which Kanyabashi allegedly incited residents to kill Tutsis; Paragraph 6.35 describes a specific meeting on the football field adjacent to Ngoma Church at the end of April 1994; Paragraph 6.43 relates to meetings that took place at the Butare préfecture office on unspecified dates; and the first sentence of Paragraph 6.44 covers meetings between 20 April and June 1994 at unspecified locations involving, inter alia, Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, during which the evolution of the massacres was discussed, among other topics.

3405. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will now consider whether the defects have been cured. The Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists six witnesses who were expected to testify that Kanyabashi participated in meetings other than those that could reasonably be covered by Paragraphs 5.8, 6.35 or 6.43 exclusively.<sup>9248</sup> All of these witnesses were listed in support of the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. The alleged meetings described in the witness summary grid are said to have taken place in April 1994 at various locations, including Tumba secteur in Ngoma commune and Kabuga.

3406. In view of the fact that the specific meeting at Kamena Stadium is not mentioned in any of the Prosecution disclosures, the Chamber finds that the Kanyabashi Defence did not have sufficient notice of this meeting. The Chamber considers that the defects in the Indictment have not been cured and therefore declines to make a finding in respect of this allegation.

3407. The Chamber notes that in any event, even if the defects in the Indictments were found to have been cured as regards Kanyabashi and Nsabimana, the evidence brought by the Prosecution was not sufficient to establish that Kanyabashi and Nsabimana participated in the meeting at Kamena Stadium.

3.6.32 Security Council Meetings, 16 and 31 May 1994

3.6.32.1 Introduction

3408. Relying on evidence led by the Defence, the Prosecution Closing Brief alleges that Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi took part in two Security Council meetings in furtherance of the general conspiracy to commit genocide. The meetings took place on 16 and 31 May 1994. The Prosecution pled the alleged conspiracy in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment,<sup>9249</sup> the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment<sup>9250</sup> and the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>9251</sup>

3409. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko conspired with influential figures, including Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, to carry out genocide in Butare.<sup>9252</sup> She attended formal and informal meetings at the BPO and other locations which were also attended by local authorities.<sup>9253</sup> The Prosecution contends that on 16 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko attended a Security Council meeting at the BPO, at which participants discussed aspects of civilian defence including organising night patrols, establishing more roadblocks and training people how to handle weapons.<sup>9254</sup> The Prosecution further submits that Nyiramasuhuko attended a Security Council meeting on 31 May 1994, chaired by Nsabimana, where civil defence, “clearing the forest”, bourgmestres’ requests for guns and machetes, recruitment of youth, roadblocks, and the evacuation of orphans were discussed.<sup>9255</sup>

3410. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings with local authorities in Butare préfecture, including Minister Nyiramasuhuko and Bourgmestre Kanyabashi,<sup>9256</sup> during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis.<sup>9257</sup> In this respect, the Prosecution contends that Nsabimana chaired two préfecture Security Council meetings held at the MRND Palace on 16 May 1994<sup>9258</sup> and 31 May 1994<sup>9259</sup> which furthered the agreement to kill Tutsis. The Prosecution also submits that in addition to Nsabimana’s direct participation in these meetings, Nsabimana is responsible pursuant to Article 6 (3) for instructing bourgmestres, who were his subordinates, to kill Tutsi civilians and for distributing weapons to those bourgmestres.<sup>9260</sup>

3411. The Prosecution submits that Kanyabashi’s role in the genocide conspiracy was, inter alia, to attend meetings and, using his authority as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune, to instruct the population to clear the bushes, fully aware this phrase was double-speak for killing Tutsis in hiding.<sup>9261</sup> Kanyabashi was heavily involved in planning the killings, and meeting with his administrative subordinates and others to provoke them into action.<sup>9262</sup> He attended Security Council meetings with Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and other authorities in Butare,<sup>9263</sup> and used his position and power to incite the population to kill.<sup>9264</sup>

3412. The Prosecution relies on the testimonies of Expert Witness Guichaoua, as well as Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana.

3413. Apart from its submissions on the vagueness of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not dispute that she attended the two Security Council meetings of 16 and 31 May 1994 at the MRND Palace. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence claims she only observed the 16 May 1994 meeting,<sup>9265</sup> and the 31 May 1994 meeting had nothing to do with a conspiracy to commit genocide.<sup>9266</sup> The Butare Security Council was not concerned with perpetrating massacres, but was focused on collaboration between civilians and soldiers to restore peace and security in Butare.<sup>9267</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence relies on Nyiramasuhuko's testimony.

3414. In addition to its submissions on the vagueness of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Nsabimana was not involved in the 16 May 1994 meeting.<sup>9268</sup> The Nsabimana Defence also challenges Nyiramasuhuko's purported attendance at the 16 May 1994 meeting.<sup>9269</sup> The Nsabimana Defence does not dispute that Nsabimana presided over the Security Council meeting of 31 May 1994,<sup>9270</sup> but submits that Nyiramasuhuko did not attend this meeting and Nsabimana did not subsequently learn of Nyiramasuhuko's participation in that meeting. The Nsabimana Defence proposes that on 31 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko took part in another, concurrent Security Council meeting. Further, Nsabimana did not promote civil defence at that meeting.<sup>9271</sup> The Defence relies on the testimony of Nsabimana and Expert Witness Guichaoua.

3415. In addition to its submissions on the vagueness of the Kanyabashi Indictment the Kanyabashi Defence submits that the Prosecution failed to prove that Kanyabashi participated in a conspiracy or that meetings to plan the genocide took place.<sup>9272</sup> Nyiramasuhuko's notes on the 16 and 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings do not indicate that Kanyabashi took the floor at either meeting, or that Kanyabashi had control over what was happening in his commune.<sup>9273</sup> Further, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that "clearing bushes" is not criminal conduct per se.<sup>9274</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens.

3.6.32.2 Preliminary Issues

Sufficiency of the Indictment as to Conspiracy and Meetings in Furtherance of the Conspiracy

3416. The Chamber notes the Prosecution's allegation that Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi participated in a number of meetings, including the Security Council meetings of 16 and 31 May 1994, forms part of the Prosecution's case against each Accused in relation to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide.

3417. Each Indictment contains paragraphs pertinent to the Prosecution's conspiracy charge: namely Paragraphs 5.1, 6.52 and 6.56 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment; Paragraphs 5.1, 6.57 and 6.61 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment; and Paragraphs 5.1 and 6.62 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. The Chamber will address these paragraphs together.

3418. Paragraph 5.1 of each Indictment alleges a conspiracy existed between, inter alia, Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population; the Accused executed the plan by organising, ordering and participating in massacres of Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>9275</sup> Each Indictment also alleges that, inter alia, Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, adopted a strategy at the national and local level that resulted in massacres and assaults,<sup>9276</sup> and that in their positions of authority, the Accused participated in a common scheme to massacre the Tutsi population.<sup>9277</sup>

3419. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Paragraph 5.1 is impermissibly vague,<sup>9278</sup> even when read in the context of the Indictment as a whole.<sup>9279</sup> In particular, the Indictment paragraphs fail to specify the elements of the crime of conspiracy to commit genocide.<sup>9280</sup>

3420. The Chamber recalls its 1 November 2000 Decision, whereby the Chamber stated that Paragraph 5.1 adequately sets out sufficient particulars to enable the Accused to understand the conspiracy charge.<sup>9281</sup> The Chamber thus finds that Paragraph 5.1 was not defective for failing to elaborate on the elements of the crime of conspiracy to commit genocide. This finding applies equally to Paragraph 5.1 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment.

<sup>9281</sup> Nyiramasuhuko & Ntahobali, Decision on Arsène Shalom Ntahobali's Preliminary Motion Objecting to Defects in the Form and Substance of the Indictment (TC), 1 November 2000, para. 29. Para. 5.1 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges an agreement with genocidal intent, identifies Nyiramasuhuko as a conspirator, specifies alleged co-conspirators, sets out components of the agreement, and describes modes by which named participants participated in executing the plan. The Chamber notes the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not allege that Indictment Paras. 6.52 and 6.56 were vague in this Motion.

3422. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Paragraphs 6.52 and 6.56 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment are impermissibly vague.<sup>9283</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence asserts that the Prosecution did not plead the elements constituting the conspiracy charge in the Indictment or the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, but only alleged these elements after Prosecution Expert Witness Guichaoua obtained Nyiramasuhuko’s diary. Nyiramasuhuko’s Defence submits that even if the Chamber were to conclude that the 16 May 1994 and 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings provide evidence of the existence of a genocide conspiracy, the Chamber cannot convict Nyiramasuhuko on this evidence because the Prosecution failed to notify Nyiramasuhuko of its intention to lead evidence on these meetings in support of the conspiracy charge.<sup>9284</sup>

3424. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the 16 and 31 May 1994 meetings were not pled in the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>9286</sup>

3425. The Chamber notes that the material facts supporting a charge must be pled in the Indictment with sufficient precision to provide notice to the Accused.<sup>9287</sup> Here, the Prosecution did not specifically plead the 16 and 31 May 1994 May Security Council meetings in any of the Indictment paragraphs relating to conspiracy against any of the Accused.

3426. The Chamber further observes that Paragraph 6.32 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that Nyiramasuhuko took part in numerous meetings at the préfecture office. Other than the one meeting pled that Nyiramasuhuko allegedly called in April 1994, Paragraph 6.32 does not allege the manner of Nyiramasuhuko’s involvement in other meetings. The paragraph does not specify whether she attended, chaired, convened or in any other way participated in other meetings, at the BPO or elsewhere, during which the planning of the genocide was allegedly discussed. The Chamber considers Nyiramasuhuko’s alleged participation in meetings to be material to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. It constitutes one of the means by which the alleged conspiracy was committed and is a key element of the conduct imputed to Nyiramasuhuko which forms the basis of the conspiracy charge. The Chamber thus concludes that the Prosecution's failure to plead either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings renders the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment defective vis-à-vis Nyiramasuhuko.

3427. The Chamber further observes that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres at which the progress of the massacres and the means by which to complete them was discussed. Only one meeting is specified, i.e. the April 1994 meeting allegedly convened by Nyiramasuhuko. The Chamber notes that other than one meeting in April 1994, Paragraph 6.28 fails to specify the dates or location of the other alleged meetings, or how many meetings took place. The Chamber considers Nsabimana's alleged participation in meetings to be material to the count of conspiracy to commit genocide. It constitutes one of the means by which the alleged conspiracy was committed and is a key element of the conduct imputed to Nsabimana which forms the basis of the conspiracy charge. The Chamber thus concludes that the Prosecution's failure to plead either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings renders the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment defective vis-à-vis Nsabimana.

3428. Lastly, the Chamber observes that Paragraph 6.43 of the Kanyabashi Indictment relates to meetings that took place at the BPO between some of the préfecture's main authorities on unspecified dates as well as one meeting that took place between Kanyabashi and Nsabimana in June 1994. Notwithstanding the reference in Paragraph 6.43 to a meeting that occurred in June 1994 at the BPO, the paragraph fails to include any time period with respect to the other meetings. Further, Paragraph 6.44 pleads a series of meetings between the authorities at which the massacres were discussed, but fails to identify either the time or location of the meetings. Insofar as the Indictment does not mention either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings, it is therefore defective.

3429. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber finds the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment defective by reason of the failure of any of these paragraphs to refer to the Security Council meetings held on 16 and 31 May 1994 at the MRND Palace.

3430. The Chamber notes as well that it cannot convict on the basis of Paragraph 6.61 since this Paragraph was not pled in support of any counts against Nsabimana.<sup>9288</sup>

3431. The Chamber must next determine whether each of the Indictments is cured of its respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment

3432. The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Witnesses FAS, QF, RD, SJ, SU and SS were all expected to testify that Nyiramasuhuko participated in or addressed meetings or rallies in various locations. The Prosecution listed Witnesses SJ, SU, SS and RD as expected to testify to Nyiramasuhuko's participation in meetings at the BPO, where other

préfecture authorities such as Nsabimana or Kanyabashi were present.<sup>9289</sup> The Prosecution listed Witnesses QF and FAS as testifying to Nyiramasuhuko's participation in meetings at Cyarwa and Mbazi Stadium respectively. These witnesses were listed in support of the count of conspiracy to commit genocide, and all but Witnesses QF and RD testified at trial.

3433. The Chamber notes that the Nyiramasuhuko Chapter of the Prosecution Closing Brief claims the Security Council meetings took place at the BPO,<sup>9290</sup> although the Nsabimana Chapter of the Prosecution Closing Brief alleges the meetings took place at the MRND Palace.<sup>9291</sup> Indeed, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not dispute that Nyiramasuhuko attended the two Security Council meetings of 16 and 31 May 1994 and states they took place at the MRND Palace.<sup>9292</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber considers any information in the Pre-Trial Brief and witness statements that refer to Nyiramasuhuko's participation at meetings at the BPO did not suffice to put her on notice of the two MRND meetings.

3434. The Prosecution failed to refer to the alleged 16 and 31 May 1994 meetings at the MRND Palace in its Pre-Trial Brief and its opening statement. In light of the lack of any reference to the specific meeting at the MRND Palace of 16 or 31 May 1994 in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or its opening statement, the Chamber concludes that Paragraph 6.32 was not cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. In addition, the Defence did not have sufficient notice that the Prosecution would lead evidence on Nyiramasuhuko's participation in either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meeting in support of the conspiracy charge alleged under Paragraphs 5.1, 6.52 and 6.56. The Chamber thus declines to make any finding as to Nyiramasuhuko's responsibility with respect to either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings. The Chamber nevertheless considers that evidence led with respect to the content of these meetings may be assessed, where relevant, against other allegations.

Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment

3435. The witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists seven witnesses, Witnesses FAC, FAI, FAR, FAS, QA, SJ and ST, who were expected to testify that Nsabimana participated in meetings.<sup>9293</sup> The meetings referred to cover the period from April to June 1994 and are said to have taken place in various venues in Butare including the BPO, Ngoma football field, Ngoma Parish, Mbazi Stadium and MRND Headquarters. The individuals involved in these meetings included Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi, bourgmestres and members of the public.

3436. Witness ST's statement of 20 November 1997 states he saw Nsabimana at a meeting at MRND Headquarters about 19 or 20 April 1994 with bourgmestres, military heads and political leaders.<sup>9294</sup> In view of the specified dates, this witness does not refer to the meetings in question which occurred on 16 and 31 May 1994.

3437. Witness SJ's statement of 3 December 1996 indicated that he saw Nyiramasuhuko holding meetings with Nsabimana at the préfecture office in April 1994 and that Nyiramasuhuko organised one meeting with all of the bourgmestres in the BPO courtyard.<sup>9295</sup> The Chamber notes that the approximate date of this alleged meeting was April 1994. No date is provided with respect to the second "bourgmestres" meeting. In the Chamber's view, this summary fails to refer to the May 1994 Security Council meetings in question.

3438. The remaining five witnesses included by the Prosecution in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief,<sup>9296</sup> did not identify a meeting involving Nsabimana on or around 16 or 31 May 1994 occurring at the MRND Palace.

3439. As such, the Prosecution failed to refer to the alleged 16 and 31 May 1994 meetings at the MRND Palace in its Pre-Trial Brief and its opening statement. Accordingly the Chamber finds that the Nsabimana Defence did not have sufficient notice that the Prosecution would lead evidence on Nsabimana's participation in either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings in support of the conspiracy charge alleged under Paragraphs 5.1, 6.57 and 6.61. The Chamber declines to make any finding as to Nsabimana's responsibility with respect to either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings. Nevertheless, evidence led with respect to the content of these meetings may be assessed, where relevant, against other allegations.

3440. The Chamber also notes that the evidence brought by the Prosecution is not sufficient to establish that the participants at the 16 and 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings at the MRND Palace discussed matters in furtherance of an agreement between Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana to commit genocide.

Kanyabashi Indictment

3441. In the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, only the summary of Witness SU refers to an unspecified meeting in Butare, attended by Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi and others.<sup>9297</sup> Witness SU's prior statement of 20 November 1996 stated that leaders held meetings on Mondays and Fridays at the BPO which were attended by Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi, Sibomana, Rekeraho and bourgmestres, including those of Huye and Ngoma communes.<sup>9298</sup> The Chamber notes that this lacks specificity, allowing for meetings on nine days in the month of May 1994. Further, neither the summary of anticipated evidence nor Witness SU's previous statement mentions meetings on 16 and/or 31 May 1994.

3442. Recalling that the Security Council meetings took place at the MRND Palace,<sup>9299</sup> the Chamber considers any information in the Pre-Trial Brief and witness statements that refers to Kanyabashi's participation at meetings at the BPO does not suffice to put Kanyabashi on notice of the two meetings he allegedly attended at the MRND.

3443. The Prosecution failed to refer to the alleged 16 and 31 May 1994 meetings at the MRND Palace in its Pre-Trial Brief and its opening statement. Accordingly, the Kanyabashi Defence did not have sufficient notice of these meetings or that the Prosecution would lead evidence on Kanyabashi's participation in either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meeting in support of the conspiracy charge alleged under Paragraphs 5.1 and 6.62. The Chamber thus declines to make any finding as to Kanyabashi's responsibility with respect to either the 16 or 31 May 1994 Security Council meetings. Nevertheless, evidence led with respect to the content of these meetings may be assessed, where relevant, against other allegations.

3.6.33 Security Council Meeting, 20 May 1994

3.6.33.1 Introduction

3444. Paragraph 5.1 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from late 1990 to July 1994, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. They allegedly developed, adhered to and executed this genocidal plan by organising, ordering and participating in massacres of Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>9300</sup> Paragraphs 6.31 and 6.32 of the Indictment allege that between April and June 1994, Nteziryayo, the official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture, incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture, and Nsabimana incited and aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>9301</sup> Finally, Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 allege that between April and July 1994, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo not only incited, but also aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>9302</sup>

3445. The Prosecution submits that by attending the Security Council meeting of 20 May 1994, Nteziryayo was involved in the planning of genocide. Nteziryayo attended this meeting in his capacity as the person responsible for the civil defence programme in Butare. The agenda of this meeting was to extend the genocidal plan to the border communes. Nteziryayo's decision to speak on the issue of guerrilla warfare and the RPF tactics during subsequent border commune meetings showed that he was involved in the planning stage of these meetings.<sup>9303</sup> The Prosecution did not call any witnesses to testify on this allegation.

3446. Although the Prosecution did not make any submissions in respect to Nsabimana's alleged role in the 20 May 1994 Security Council meeting, the Nsabimana Defence submits that this specific meeting is not alleged in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, nor the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or subsequent disclosures by the Prosecution.<sup>9304</sup>

3447. In the alternative, the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Defences do not dispute that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo attended the Security Council meeting on 20 May 1994. What is contested is that the meeting was held in pursuance of a genocidal plan.<sup>9305</sup> The Nsabimana Defence further asserts that the minutes of this meeting made no reference to a resolution on the extermination of Tutsis as alleged by the Prosecution.<sup>9306</sup>

3448. The Chamber observes that the Security Council meeting of 20 May 1994 is not specifically pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective in this regard.

3449. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will examine whether the defect was cured through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Having considered the Prosecution opening statement and the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and its Appendix, the Chamber finds that no reference was made to the Security Council meeting of 20 May 1994 in any of these potentially curative documents. As a result, the Chamber considers that the defect in the Indictment has not been cured. In any event, no witnesses were called by the Prosecution to testify about this alleged meeting of 20 May 1994. Thus the Chamber will not make any finding on this allegation.

3.6.34 The Tour of Meetings in the Border Communes, May – June 1994

3450. Paragraph 5.8 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment provides that from April to July 1994, incitement to hatred and violence was propagated by various prominent persons, including Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, who publicly incited the people to exterminate the Tutsi population and its “accomplices”.<sup>9307</sup> Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 of the Indictment allege that between April and June 1994, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo not only incited but also aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>9308</sup> Paragraph 6.31 of the Indictment further provides that between April and June 1994, Nteziryayo, the official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>9309</sup> Finally, Paragraph 6.32 of the Indictment alleges that between April and June 1994, Nsabimana not only incited but also aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>9310</sup>

3451. Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres, including at least one convened by Nyiramasuhuko in April 1994 during which the progress of the massacres was discussed as well as the means by which to complete them.<sup>9311</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings in Butare préfecture during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis. Nsabimana’s role in the conspiracy to commit genocide was, inter alia, to convene and attend meetings to give effect to the plan.<sup>9312</sup>

3452. The Prosecution submits that the genocide was planned, extended and put into effect at a series of meetings chaired and organised by Nsabimana in Rwanda's communes bordering Burundi in May and June 1994 and to which Nsabimana invited Nteziryayo to speak on military matters. At these meetings, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo promoted the campaign of genocide and incited the population to kill infiltrators and the accomplices of the RPF.<sup>9313</sup> Nteziryayo, as the main speaker in these meetings, used words such as "infiltrators" and "accomplices" in order to extend the plan of the Interim Government to incite the population to kill Tutsi civilians.<sup>9314</sup> The Prosecution further submits that Nteziryayo made public statements inciting people to exterminate the Tutsi population not in his personal capacity, but as part of the genocidal plan of the Interim Government.<sup>9315</sup>

3453. The Prosecution specifies meetings that took place in: (1) Nyakizu and Kigembe communes on 21 May 1994; (2) Muyira and Ntyazo communes on 22 May 1994; (3) Kirarambogo, Muganza commune, in the afternoon of 23 May 1994; (4) Gikore secteur, Nyaruhengeri commune, in the morning of 24 May 1994; (5) around mid-June 1994 in Muyaga commune and (6) in mid- to late June 1994 in Kibayi commune. The Prosecution relies upon the testimonies of Prosecution Witnesses FAI, RV, FAH, FAB, QBY, QBU and FAK, as well as Prosecution Expert Witnesses Des Forges and Ntakirutimana.

3454. The Nsabimana Defence does not dispute that Nsabimana attended meetings at Nyakizu and Kigembe in May 1994 or that Nsabimana spoke, but disputes the purpose of these meetings. Nsabimana's speeches during the Nyakizu and Kigembe meetings were a call for peace and to restore calm.<sup>9316</sup> In this regard, the Nsabimana Defence relies on the testimony of Nsabimana Defence Witnesses AGWA and TWW and Nsabimana.<sup>9317</sup>

3455. The Nsabimana Defence made no submissions with respect to the alleged meeting in Muyira commune on 22 May 1994. With respect to the afternoon meeting of the same day in Ntyazo commune, the Nsabimana Defence does not dispute that Nsabimana attended the swearing-in ceremony of the bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994, but contests the words attributed to Nsabimana. Nsabimana did not incite the population to kill Tutsis. Rather, he asked the population to be vigilant because they were living in an area where fighting was going on, not to be surprised by the Inkotanyi who were not far away, and to flee on the arrival of the Inkotanyi.<sup>9318</sup> Nsabimana asked the population to unite, not to stoop to killing and stated that nobody had the right of life and death over his neighbour.<sup>9319</sup> The Nsabimana Defence relies on the testimony of Nsabimana Defence Witness AND-75, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo.<sup>9320</sup>

3456. The Nsabimana Defence specifies that none of the Prosecution witnesses who testified on the border commune meetings held in Muyira, Muyaga, Muganza, Nyaruhengeri and Kibayi

communes mentioned the presence and/or participation of Nsabimana in these meetings.<sup>9321</sup> It was rather Defence witnesses, especially those of Nteziryayo, who placed and involved Nsabimana in these meetings.<sup>9322</sup>

3457. The Nteziryayo Defence made no submissions with respect to the meetings in Nyakizu and Kigembe communes on 21 May 1994, or Muyira commune on 22 May 1994. With respect to the afternoon meeting of the same day in Ntyazo commune, the Nteziryayo Defence does not dispute that Nteziryayo attended the swearing-in ceremony of the bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994, but contests the words attributed to Nteziryayo.<sup>9323</sup> Nteziryayo spoke at this meeting to urge the population to condemn all troublemakers and to encourage peace.<sup>9324</sup> He warned the population about the fighting and infiltration tactics of the RPF troops.<sup>9325</sup> Neither Nteziryayo, nor Nsabimana, incited the population to kill Tutsis.<sup>9326</sup>

3458. Apart from alleging lack of notice with respect to the meeting in Gikore secteur, Nyaruhengeri commune,<sup>9327</sup> the Nteziryayo Defence contends the meeting in Gikore secteur discussed peace and security.<sup>9328</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence does not contest that Nteziryayo attended a meeting in Mamba secteur, Muyaga commune, but submitted the meeting occurred on 23 May 1994, and its purpose was the restoration of peace, not incitement.<sup>9329</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence does not contest that Nteziryayo attended a meeting in Kibayi commune, but contends it was held on 24 May 1994 at a football pitch near Kibayi commune office. It was the only meeting he attended in Kibayi commune and the only time he went there together with Nsabimana between April 1994 and July 1994.<sup>9330</sup> The Defence points out that Nteziryayo's speeches during the border commune meetings related to guerrilla warfare and the use of explosives, and did not incite the population to kill Tutsis, as alleged by the Prosecution.<sup>9331</sup>

3459. The Nteziryayo Defence relies upon the testimony of Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-75, AND-11, AND-53, AND-64, AND-41, AND-59, AND-73, AND-29, AND-60, Ntahobali Defence Witness H1B6 and the Accused Nsabimana and Nteziryayo.

3.6.34.2 Preliminary Issues

Nsabimana

3460. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment are unduly vague and did not permit Nsabimana to adequately prepare his defence since they fail to specify how, when and in what way, Nsabimana allegedly incited the population to commit genocide.<sup>9332</sup> Similarly, Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to meetings is impermissibly vague because it does not give an indication of the dates, venues, attendees or the number of meetings. The Nsabimana Defence also argues that Paragraph 6.28 does not clearly state whether the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was discussed at all of the meetings, or only the meeting or meetings convened by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>9333</sup>

3461. The Nsabimana Defence asserts that evidence brought by Nteziryayo Defence witnesses against Nsabimana with regard to the meetings in Muganza, Nyaruhengeri and Muyaga communes should be excluded as they do not form part of the Prosecution case against Nsabimana.<sup>9334</sup> The Prosecution's reliance upon these meetings is an attempt to bring additional charges against Nsabimana and is therefore unfair.<sup>9335</sup>

3462. The Chamber observes that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59 fail to specify the times and places at which both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo are alleged to have incited the population to commit genocide and are therefore defective. The Chamber further finds that Paragraph 6.31 also failed to specify the locations and dates where Nteziryayo, in his role as official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture, incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture, and is therefore defective.

3463. With regard to Paragraph 6.28, the Chamber observes that this paragraph fails to specify the number and dates of the alleged meetings with bourgmestres. Concerning the purpose of the meetings, a plain reading of Paragraph 6.28 suggests that the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was only discussed at a single meeting which was convened by Nyiramasuhuko. However, Paragraph 6.28 refers to meetings in the plural. Accordingly, there is confusion as to how many meetings Nsabimana participated in, how many were convened by Nyiramasuhuko and what was discussed at the meetings. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is also defective.

Nyakizu and Kigembe Commune Meetings, 21 May 1994 and Muyira Commune Meeting, 22 May 1994

3465. The Chamber notes that no mention was made of Nsabimana's alleged incitement to kill Tutsis at the meetings at Nyakizu and Kigembe communes on 21 May 1994, or at Muyira commune on 22 May 1994 in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, nor in the Prosecution opening statement. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 were not cured of their defects with respect to these meetings.

3466. As regards Paragraph 6.28, the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists seven witnesses who were expected to testify that Nsabimana participated in multiple meetings, described in the witness summary grid as taking place between April and June 1994 in various venues in Butare, including the préfecture office, Ngoma football field, Ngoma Parish, Mbazi Stadium and MRND Headquarters.<sup>9336</sup>

3467. The Chamber observes however that no mention was made of the meetings at Nyakizu and Kigembe communes on 21 May 1994, or at Muyira commune on 22 May 1994, in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, nor in the Prosecution opening statement. The Chamber thus concludes that Paragraph 6.28 was not cured of its defects.

Ntyazo Commune Meeting, 22 May 1994

3468. The summary of Witness FAI's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief stated that in a meeting on 22 May 1994, Nteziryayo and Nsabimana urged people of Ntyazo to search for and kill all surviving Tutsis. They asked young Hutus to register and join the army en masse. Nsabimana urged the bourgmestre to sensitise the youth to join the army, at the same time ordering Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to provide the reinforcement requested by the bourgmestres.<sup>9337</sup>

3469. In his previous statement of 24 February 2000, Witness FAI stated that Nsabimana spoke at a meeting attended by Nteziryayo, Muvunyi and Simba, in which he urged the people of Ntyazo to search for and kill all remaining Tutsis and for young Hutus to join the army en masse. Nteziryayo reiterated what Nsabimana had said and pointed out that young Hutus could go to the Ntyazo commune office, Nyanza sous-préfecture office and Butare préfecture office to register. The statement did not specify the date of the meeting but it is clear that it took place before 25 May 1994 when Witness FAI fled Ntyazo commune.<sup>9338</sup> In a redacted version of his previous statement of 22 October 2000, Witness FAI stated that around late May 1994, the genocide was all but over in the Ntyazo area and that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo made speeches urging the Hutus to continue the genocide.<sup>9339</sup>

3470. Considering the information contained in the summary of Witness FAI's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief and the contents of his previous statements, the Chamber finds that the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Defence had clear, timely and consistent notice of the allegation that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at a meeting on 22 May 1994, in Ntyazo commune. The Chamber therefore concludes that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.28, 6.31, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59 were cured of their defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures in relation to the allegation that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at a meeting in Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994.

Muganza, Nyaruhengeri, Muyaga and Kibayi Commune Meetings

3471. The Chamber observes that no mention was made of Nsabimana's alleged incitement to kill Tutsis at the meetings of Muganza commune on 23 May 1994, at Gikore in Nyaruhengeri commune on 24 May 1994, in Kibayi commune around mid-June 1994, or in Muyaga commune around mid-June 1994 in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, nor in the Prosecution opening statement. Therefore, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59 were not cured of their defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. As a result, the Chamber declines to make findings in respect of these allegations against Nsabimana. The Nsabimana Defence request for exclusion of evidence is therefore moot.

3472. The Nteziryayo Defence requests that the Prosecution evidence regarding inciting speeches that Nteziryayo allegedly made in the communes of Muyaga, Nyaruhengeri (Gikore) and Muganza (Kirarambogo), as well as the alleged ensuing killings, be excluded as they fall outside the scope of the Indictment.<sup>9340</sup>

3473. As indicated earlier, the Chamber observes that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59 are defective. The Chamber further finds that Paragraph 6.31 also failed to specify the locations and dates where Nteziryayo, in his role as official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture, incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture and is therefore defective.

Nyakizu and Kigembe Commune Meetings, 21 May 1994 and Muyira Commune Meeting, 22 May 1994

3475. The Chamber recalls that no mention was made of the meetings at Nyakizu and Kigembe communes on 21 May 1994, or at Muyira commune on 22 May 1994 in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, nor in the Prosecution opening statement. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32, 6.53 and 6.59 were not cured of their defects with respect to these meetings.

Kirarambogo, Muganza Commune Meeting, 23 May 1994

3476. The Chamber recalls that a defect in an indictment could be cured through a Prosecution motion for addition of a witness, provided any possible prejudice to the Defence was alleviated by, for example, an adjournment to allow the Defence time to prepare for cross-examination of the witness.<sup>9341</sup>

3477. In the instant case, the Chamber notes that on 16 May 2001 the Prosecution filed its “Supplemental Motion for the Transfer of Detained Witnesses Under Rule 90 bis” by which the Prosecution sought to add four detained witnesses, including Prosecution Witness RV, who by oversight had been excluded from the Prosecution’s list of intended witnesses included in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief filed on 12 April 2001.<sup>9342</sup>

3479. In the Chamber’s view, this put the Nteziryayo Defence on notice that the Prosecution intended to lead evidence of various meetings, including the Kirarambogo meeting, in support of its allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population, as alleged in Paragraphs 5.8, 6.31 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. In addition, Witness RV only started his testimony on 16 February 2004, allowing ample time for the Nteziryayo Defence to prepare its defence.

Nyaruhengeri Commune Meeting, 24 May 1994

3480. The Chamber observes that the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief makes no reference to a meeting held at Gikore secteur, Nyaruhengeri commune. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Witness FAH with respect to this allegation.<sup>9345</sup>

3481. The Chamber observes that the summary of the intended evidence of Witness FAH provided in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief refers to an inciting speech given by Nteziryayo but fails to give any information as to the time and location of the alleged incident of incitement.<sup>9346</sup> These details only appear in Witness FAH’s statement of 7 April 1999, disclosed on 15 November 2000. In this statement, Witness FAH declared that towards the end of April 1994, the conseiller of Gikore secteur informed the population of a meeting with the bourgmestre and the préfet at the Gikore Centre in Nyarunazi cellule. Among others, Préfet Nteziryayo, Colonel Muvunyi, the President of the Court of First Instance, Ruzindaza, and the bourgmestre of Nyaruhengeri were in attendance. Préfet Nteziryayo spoke about the security situation and invited the population to fight together to stop the Inkotanyi who were already in Butare préfecture. Nteziryayo further asked those who could not go to the front to post themselves at the roadblocks, conduct a thorough search of the Tutsis and kill them because the Tutsis are “a bad race, a race of serpents”.<sup>9347</sup>

3482. In the Chamber’s view, the details regarding the location and the time of the alleged incident of incitement equally amount to material information that should have been mentioned in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. In the absence of such details, the Chamber finds that Nteziryayo was not served with clear and consistent information allowing him to properly understand the charges brought against him in the instant case. Therefore, the defect in the Indictment is not cured and the Chamber will not make any finding in respect of this meeting.

Muyaga Commune Meeting, Around Mid-June 1994

3483. Witnesses QBY and FAB’s anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief stated that around 5 June 1994, Nteziryayo attended a meeting in Muyaga commune during which Nteziryayo made a speech asking the population to kill the Tutsis.<sup>9348</sup> In his prior statement of 3 November 1999, disclosed on 10 December 1999, Witness QBY stated that between 4 and 5 June 1994, Nteziryayo spoke during a meeting held at Muyaga commune office; Nteziryayo addressed the population saying, “[h]unt down the Tutsis who are still alive, kill them and kill those who are hiding them”.<sup>9349</sup> The Chamber observes that the information contained in his previous statement is consistent with the information contained in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. In addition, Witness FAB, through his prior statement of 11 April 1999, disclosed on 15 November 2000, stated that sometime between 3 and 5 June 1994, Nteziryayo, among others, came to Mamba secteur, Muyaga to hold a meeting. In his speech, Nteziryayo stated that the Inkotanyi were not far away in Ntyazo and the Hutus should kill all the Tutsis and not spare anyone.<sup>9350</sup>

3484. Witness QBY started his testimony on 19 April 2004 and Witness FAB started his testimony on 5 April 2004, over three years after the above disclosures, thereby allowing sufficient time for the Defence to prepare.

3485. Considering the above, the Chamber finds that Nteziryayo had clear, timely and consistent notice of the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at a meeting held in Muyaga commune. Therefore, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.31, 6.53 and 6.59 were cured of their defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

Kibayi Commune Meeting, Around Mid- to Late June 1994

3487. Witness FAK's statement of 24 February 2000 stated that the witness attended a meeting in May 1994 held in the courtyard of the Kibayi commune office which was attended by Préfet Nteziryayo among others. At this meeting Préfet Nteziryayo told the people to kill Tutsis, including Tutsi girls protected by young Hutus. Nteziryayo said, "[w]hen you are cleaning your home, you gather the ashes around the cauldron, collect it and throw it away". Everyone returned to their respective areas to carry out the instructions of Préfet Nteziryayo particularly concerning the search for and elimination of the young girls and women protected by young Hutus. This operation continued until June 1994.<sup>9352</sup>

3489. Witness QBU's statement of 10 October 1999 discusses events in Kibayi commune in April 1994. It also stated that in May 1994, a meeting was held on the football field near the commune office. It was led by Colonel Nteziryayo, the new préfet, Colonel Muvunyi and Bourgmestre Kajyambere, and attended by the population and all the secteur and cellule officials. The new préfet, Nteziryayo, stated, "when you sweep your house, you must remove the garbage", meaning that all the Tutsis survivors were to be found and killed. He went on to say that all the Tutsi girls, women and children were also to be killed. The préfet and the bourgmestre both emphasised that the Tutsis' houses were to be destroyed and that a thorough search of the houses and the surrounding forest was to be conducted. After the delegation had left, the people resumed searching the houses and the surrounding bushes for survivors to kill them.<sup>9354</sup>

3492. With respect to the timing of the meeting in question, the Chamber observes that both the summary of anticipated testimony in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and the prior witness statements of Witnesses FAK and QBU place the meeting in May 1994. Nevertheless, the

Chamber notes that the witnesses' statements both refer to "Préfet Nteziryayo" or "the new Préfet Nteziryayo" being present at the meeting. In the Chamber's view therefore, the meeting about which these witnesses were intended to testify must have taken place after 21 June 1994, the date on which Nteziryayo took office as préfet. This was born out by the witnesses' evidence at trial; Witness FAK testified that the meeting was probably around 18 or 19 June 1994,<sup>9355</sup> and both Witnesses FAK and QBU testified that Nteziryayo told them that he had just been appointed préfet.<sup>9356</sup>

3493. Therefore, having regard to the content of Witness FAK's and QBU's statements which refer to Nteziryayo as préfet at the time of the meeting, the Chamber is of the view that the Nteziryayo Defence was on notice that the meeting about which these witnesses would testify must have occurred in late June 1994. The Chamber considers this discrepancy concerning dates minor and not such as to violate the right of the Accused to adequate notice. In the circumstances the Chamber is of the view that the Nteziryayo Defence was on notice that it would need to defend itself against the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population by speeches he gave at a meeting at or near the Kibayi commune office sometime after Nteziryayo assumed office as préfet.

3494. With respect to the killings which allegedly took place after the meeting, as previously noted, no mention is made of these killings in the respective summaries of Witness FAK and QBU's expected evidence in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. While Witness FAK's second witness statement says he personally participated in killing two Tutsis, a woman and child, on the orders of Conseiller Jean-Bosco Ndagijimana,<sup>9357</sup> the prior statement of Witness QBU only refers generally to people carrying out searches in order to kill Tutsis.<sup>9358</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber considers that the Nteziryayo Defence was not provided with adequate notice that the Prosecution intended to plead resultant killings as part of its case against Nteziryayo.

3495. The Prosecution witnesses' statements were disclosed to the Defence in December 1999 and December 2000, well before the witnesses commenced giving their evidence in April 2004. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to incitement, as well as Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 relating to aiding and abetting were cured by the disclosure of clear, consistent and timely information. Furthermore, the Chamber considers the Defence did not suffer any prejudice and that the Defence's right to prepare its case was not violated.

Nteziryayo's Request for Exclusion of Evidence

3496. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that at the time of filing the Nteziryayo Closing Brief its motion requesting the exclusion of portions of evidence of several Prosecution witnesses, including Witnesses FAH, RV, QBY, FAB, FAK and QBU filed on 23 January 2009,<sup>9359</sup> was pending.<sup>9360</sup> The Chamber observes that on 25 February 2009 the Chamber denied that motion in its entirety. The Chamber considered it was inappropriate to deal with the motion during trial and chose to decide such issues in its final deliberations.<sup>9361</sup>

3497. Having regard to the Chamber's finding that the Nteziryayo Defence received sufficient notice of the specific allegation regarding the meetings in Muganza and Muyaga communes, the Chamber considers there is no reason to exclude the evidence of Witnesses RV, QBY and FAB who testified to these meetings. Therefore, the Defence request is dismissed.

3498. For similar reasons, Chamber considers there is no reason to exclude the evidence of Witnesses FAK and QBU on this point.

3499. As for the Defence request for exclusion of the evidence of Witness FAH on the Nyaruhengeri meeting, the Chamber finds it moot on the ground that the defect in the Indictment is not cured in this regard.

3.6.34.3 Evidence

3.6.34.3.1 Ntyazo Commune Meeting, 22 May 1994

Prosecution Witness FAI

3500. Witness FAI, a Hutu civil servant in 1994, detained in Rwanda at the time of his testimony for crimes committed during the genocide following a guilty plea,<sup>9362</sup> testified that in the afternoon of 22 May 1994, he attended the swearing-in ceremony of Mathieu Ndahimana, the new bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune.<sup>9363</sup>

3501. The ceremony lasted between one and two hours.<sup>9364</sup> It was held outside in the courtyard of a school at Nyakayaga, in Buye secteur, less than three kilometres from the Burundian border.<sup>9365</sup> It was attended by Préfet Nsabimana, Lieutenant Colonel Nteziryayo, Colonel Muvunyi, Colonel Simba, the Vice-Rector of the National University of Rwanda, the President of the Court of First Instance in Butare and Chief Warrant Officer Rekeraho. His relative, Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-75 was also present.<sup>9366</sup> Préfet Nsabimana chaired the ceremony. Nsabimana welcomed the visitors, reminded the audience that the country was at war and asked the people not to sleep and rather be vigilant in order to fight the enemy and his accomplices.<sup>9367</sup> Witness FAI understood the "enemy" to mean the RPF and "accomplices" to mean all Tutsis. Even a small child would have understood it in this way.<sup>9368</sup>

3502. Nteziryayo was introduced as the person responsible for civil defence.<sup>9369</sup> He also spoke at the ceremony, echoing what the préfet had said.<sup>9370</sup> Nteziryayo said that the préfet was experiencing difficulties since there was a war and asked the people to be even more vigilant so as to fight the enemy and his accomplices, which the witness understood to mean the Tutsis.<sup>9371</sup> Nteziryayo's speech was long. He encouraged the youths present to receive military training at the army's military camp.<sup>9372</sup>

3503. The meeting was followed by massacres of Tutsis.<sup>9373</sup> Witness FAI fled Butare with his family on 25 May 1994 due to the advance of the RPF. Many people were fleeing at this time.<sup>9374</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-75

3505. Nsabimana presided over the meeting. He introduced Nteziryayo, Simba and Muvunyi as senior army officers.<sup>9380</sup> The three of them wore military uniform. The witness did not recall mention of the Vice-Rector of the National University of Rwanda during the introduction of the dignitaries, but stated that the President of the Court of First Instance of Butare was announced.<sup>9381</sup>

3506. After the swearing-in ceremony, the préfet addressed the new bourgmestre and stated that he was appointed to ensure security; he further called upon the population to be vigilant because they were living in an area that was close to where the fighting was going on.<sup>9382</sup>

3507. Nsabimana condemned the killings.<sup>9383</sup> Everybody who attended the meeting could hear what he said.<sup>9384</sup> The witness understood that when Préfet Nsabimana told the population to remain vigilant, he meant that if ever the Inkotanyi arrived in their area, they should take flight.<sup>9385</sup>

3508. Muvunyi spoke at the meeting to warn the population to be vigilant because they could be attacked from Bugesera or Burundi.<sup>9386</sup> Muvunyi further stated that the members of the population had to flee because Inkotanyi were killing everyone they found. They were the enemies, not the Tutsis.<sup>9387</sup>

3509. Witness AND-75 testified that Nteziryayo took over and informed the population about the fighting tactics of RPF troops. Nteziryayo stated that the RPF concealed guns and ammunitions in baskets and once in the forests, they took them out and fired at the fleeing population before taking control of the area. He further stated that the RPF disguised themselves as missionaries or Muslims to avoid being identified, and set deadly traps everywhere. Nteziryayo urged the population to stay away from suspect objects which might be mines and to report any location where they would find any such object. Nteziryayo did not call for the massacre of Tutsis by labelling them accomplices.<sup>9388</sup>

3511. Witness AND-75 testified that no killings took place after the meeting.<sup>9395</sup> The RPF took control of the northern part of Ntyazo commune three days after the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>9396</sup>

Nteziryayo

3512. Nteziryayo testified that in the afternoon of 22 May 1994, he attended a meeting at a football pitch in Mbuye secteur, Ntyazo commune to swear in the new bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune, Mathieu Ndahimana.<sup>9397</sup> Attendees included: Nsabimana; Tharcisse Muvunyi, the area commander; Mathias Bushishi, the Public Prosecutor; Sylvain Harindintwari, the person in charge of the intelligence in the préfecture; Ruzindaza, President of the Butare Court of First Instance; Nshimyumuremyi the Vice-Rector; Cyprien Musabirema, the person in charge of ORINFOR, the Rwandan information agency; Warrant Officer Rekeraho; and Aloys Simba, who was in charge of the civil defence for Butare and Gikongoro.<sup>9398</sup>

3513. Due to its proximity to the war front, only about 200 to 250 people attended. One could hear the detonation of weapons during the meeting.<sup>9399</sup>

3514. Nteziryayo testified that after the swearing-in of Ndahimana, Nsabimana delivered a speech condemning violence in all forms, expressing regret over what had happened in Ntyazo commune, and encouraging the people to work towards peace. He also called on the new bourgmestre to strive to seek peace and fight all troublemakers. He reminded the population that they had to go about their daily activities, in particular, farming and trade, in order to fight hunger. Finally he talked about information regarding possible attacks by the RPF from Burundi.<sup>9400</sup>

3515. Nteziryayo testified that Lieutenant Colonel Muvunyi spoke in his capacity as area commander, and that he gave the population information on the state of the war and security advice. He urged the young people to join the army or to enlist in the Rwandan Armed Forces.<sup>9401</sup>

3516. Nteziryayo testified that Ruzindaza, the President of the Court of First Instance spoke at the meeting. In his speech, Ruzindaza underscored the issues of patriotism and bravery, and urged the young people to join forces and not be afraid to die for their country. He also spoke on the issue of abiding the law.<sup>9402</sup>

3517. Nteziryayo testified that Colonel Simba introduced himself as the officer in charge of civil defence for the Gikongoro and Butare préfectures, explained to the population that civil defence had just been established and that the population would be trained in weapons-handling and basic military tactics. Simba pointed out that the goal of civil defence was to confront any infiltration by the RPF.<sup>9403</sup>

3518. Nteziryayo testified that when it was his turn to speak he condemned all troublemakers and encouraged peace. He spoke about guerrilla warfare and its devastating consequences, especially in the northern préfectures of Byumba, Ruhengeri and Kibungo. He explained that those involved in guerrilla warfare were hard to detect. Small groups of people, i.e. groups of two or three, would infiltrate the population and do everything to look like the local people, by adjusting to their clothes and daily conduct. The infiltrators would study the customs and attitudes of the region and take this opportunity to traffic weapons or set traps against the population. They would move from one activity to the other and would “change colours like chameleons”.<sup>9404</sup>

3519. Nteziryayo agreed that he told the population: about the fighting tactics of the RPF troops and how they were camouflaged; that the Inkotanyi were carrying guns and ammunition in baskets; that the RPF would then take over the evacuated location; that the Inkotanyi would disguise themselves as missionaries, Muslims or farmers to avoid being identified and to collect money; and that the RPF would set deadly traps all over the place. He warned the population to avoid getting close to any mines and to report the locations of such metals and mines.<sup>9405</sup> Nteziryayo pointed out that he did not say that these Inkotanyi were actually present in the commune, but that he was speaking in general terms.<sup>9406</sup> Nteziryayo also talked about explosives, especially about grenades that the infiltrators buried in public places causing massive destruction.<sup>9407</sup>

3520. Nteziryayo did not call on the youth to join the army and the gendarmerie, or to report at their camps to receive military training with the purpose of turning them into combatants to fight the RPF and continue killing the Tutsis. He was not in a position to give instructions for training, especially training on the manipulation of weapons.<sup>9408</sup>

3521. At no time did Nteziryayo incite the population to exterminate or to murder the Tutsis or seek to incite the murder or killing of women, children or anyone else. He did not hear anybody make statements inciting the population to use violence or to exterminate the Tutsis. He further testified that he did not hear Nsabimana ask the audience to fight the accomplices of the enemy – referring to the Tutsis – or Lieutenant Colonel Simba call the Hutus to attack the Tutsi population.<sup>9409</sup>

3522. Nsabimana testified that he swore in the new bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994.<sup>9410</sup> The ceremony took place at about 3.00 or 4.00 p.m. on a football field.<sup>9411</sup> Nteziryayo, Colonel Simba, Sous-préfet Hakizamungu and Rekeraho were present but Muvunyi, Vice-Rector Nshimyumuremyi and Ruzindaza, the President of the Court of First Instance in Butare, did not attend the meeting.<sup>9412</sup>

3523. The sound of shelling by the RPF could be heard nearby so he was in a hurry to leave. The meeting did not last more than one hour. Nsabimana spoke for between five and 10 minutes.<sup>9413</sup> He introduced himself, reminded the population that they needed to live in peace, and told the new bourgmestre that he was now in charge of a family.<sup>9414</sup>

3524. He could not remember if Nteziryayo spoke at the meeting. Colonel Simba gave the military salute, which elicited applause from the audience. Simba talked about infiltration, attacks and recruitment into the army. He did not incite those present to kill Tutsis.<sup>9415</sup>

3525. Nsabimana denied that during his speech at the swearing-in ceremony at Ntyazo, he asked the population not to go to sleep, to be vigilant in order to fight the enemy who was the RPF and its Tutsi accomplices, and to seek out and kill surviving Tutsis.<sup>9416</sup> Witness FAI's testimony that Nteziryayo repeated the same message is not true.<sup>9417</sup>

Prosecution Witness RV

3526. Witness RV, a Hutu and former civil servant, was a detainee in Rwanda at the time of his testimony.<sup>9418</sup> The witness testified that he made a written confession to the government authorities in Rwanda in 2001.<sup>9419</sup> He confessed that he participated in meetings organised by the administration in 1994, that he organised meetings in secteurs, and that he played a role in abductions and murders. He also admitted selling properties belonging to Tutsis who had been killed or had fled. At the time of his testimony, he did not know whether his confession had been accepted or whether he would have to appear before the Rwandan judicial system.<sup>9420</sup>

3527. The witness testified that he took part in three meetings in Kirarambogo between April and June 1994.<sup>9421</sup> One of these meetings was chaired by Nteziryayo on around 25 May 1994.<sup>9422</sup> The meeting was attended by, among others, Colonel Muvunyi, the Butare commander, Jean-Baptiste Ruzindaza, chairman of the First Instance Tribunal in Butare, and the sous-préfet of Gisagara sous-préfecture.<sup>9423</sup> The witness testified that during this period, Nteziryayo was the chairman of the civil defence committee in Butare préfecture.<sup>9424</sup>

3528. The witness testified that during the meeting, Dominique Ntawukulilyayo first introduced the visitors to the local population. Then Nteziryayo took the floor, followed by Jean-Baptiste Ruzindaza and Ambrors who was in charge of immigration and emigration in the préfecture.<sup>9425</sup> Nteziryayo explained that he was responsible for instructing the population on how to use traditional weapons such as bows and arrows and spears. Nteziryayo added that he was also responsible for instructing the youth to join the army. Nteziryayo also told the attendees that they should exterminate all the accomplices so that when the Tutsis returned from exile there would not be any witnesses to tell them what had happened.<sup>9426</sup> Finally, Nteziryayo said that the population should not hide accomplices.<sup>9427</sup>

3529. The witness stated that prior to the meeting in Kirarambogo, there had been a lull in the killings. After the meeting, many people who had survived previous massacres were killed, especially women.<sup>9428</sup>

3530. The witness indicated that he did not remember the exact date of the meeting; he asked someone who lost his wife after what was said at that meeting, and that person told him that his wife was killed on 25 May 1994, but the witness could not confirm whether the Kirarambogo meeting actually took place on 25 May 1994.<sup>9429</sup>

3531. Witness AND-73, a Hutu teacher from Muganza commune,<sup>9430</sup> testified that on 23 May 1994 at approximately 3.00 p.m., a meeting was held in his secteur, led by the préfecture officials.<sup>9431</sup> The witness arrived at the meeting venue at 11.00 a.m., because the meeting was originally supposed to have been held at 10.00 a.m.<sup>9432</sup> The meeting took place in the Kirarambogo locality, which is located between Muganza and Kibayi communes, at the market square of Nyabitare.<sup>9433</sup> At the time, the witness understood that the préfet would preside over the meeting, but he did not know who else was going to attend.<sup>9434</sup>

3533. Five people spoke at the meeting.<sup>9439</sup> Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana, opened the meeting, and was followed by Préfet Nsabimana, then by the Butare area commander, Colonel Muvunyi, then by Nteziryayo, and finally a man named Ruzindaza.<sup>9440</sup> No public address system was used,<sup>9441</sup> and it appeared to the witness that not even the bourgmestre knew the meeting's agenda before it began.<sup>9442</sup> Bourgmestre Bimenyimana thanked the attendees for waiting, and introduced the préfet to preside over the meeting.<sup>9443</sup> Nsabimana then told the inhabitants that they were in a period of insecurity, asked them to avoid involvement in acts of violence, and to refrain from killing because he believed that all people had a right to life. Nsabimana thereafter asked the people to go back to work, stressing the need to develop agriculture in the area. He finished by asking the members of the population to fight "troublemakers", and asked the "troublemakers" to stop their evil acts.<sup>9444</sup>

3534. Colonel Muvunyi took the floor after Nsabimana. Muvunyi told the crowd that the war was close to them, in neighbouring communes such as Mugusa and Muyira. He asked the inhabitants to stay vigilant and to ensure their own safety. If the inhabitants heard gunshots, Muvunyi instructed them not to flee until they determined where the enemy was so they could flee in the opposite direction. At this moment, the witness observed the soldiers accompanying Colonel Muvunyi shoot their guns into the air before the Colonel had finished his speech.<sup>9445</sup> The gunshots frightened the people attending the meeting, including the witness, and they began to disperse, but did not know which way to go.<sup>9446</sup> Colonel Muvunyi called the people back and said: "If it had been a real attack, do not act like you have just reacted. First of all, you need to locate the enemy so that you can flee in the opposite direction away from the enemy."<sup>9447</sup>

3535. Subsequently Nteziryayo took the floor. Nteziryayo stressed the fact that the community was experiencing a difficult war period. However, Nteziryayo did not believe that there would be a large-scale attack because the RPF had adopted guerrilla tactics, and he explained to the crowd what guerrilla warfare consisted of. Nteziryayo explained that the RPF would infiltrate a region in order to obtain information as to how those inhabitants lived. Such information could include their habits, religious customs, religious membership, and when market days and religious services were held. The enemy would then use this information to supply accomplices with weapons without being noticed, perhaps by transporting weapons in baskets with produce that they would sell on market days.<sup>9448</sup>

3536. Nteziryayo told the inhabitants that the infiltrators could do manual work such as tilling the land, or own a small business such as selling clothing, shoes, milk or drinks. He told the population that they should report unknown people in the area to the authorities. Nteziryayo then warned people of the risk of mines in fields and on the hills, and told them to be careful if they came across something that they did not recognise. He reminded the people that they resided in a border area, where an attack from Burundi could take place, and asked the people to report to the local authorities if any such attack were to occur. The witness believed that the purpose of Nteziryayo's speech was to warn the inhabitants of potential dangers and to remind them to remain vigilant. He also estimated that the border of Burundi was seven kilometres away.<sup>9449</sup>

3537. The last person to speak was Ruzindaza, the President of the Butare Court of First Instance.<sup>9450</sup> Sous-préfet Dominique Ntawukulilyayo did not take the floor at the meeting.<sup>9451</sup>

3538. The witness listened closely to all of the speeches, and testified that neither Nteziryayo, nor any other speaker, said anything concerning the killing of Tutsis, or anything that could be considered incitement.<sup>9452</sup> The witness would have noticed such remarks because he had people to protect who were living at his house.<sup>9453</sup> According to the witness, anyone who testified that such remarks were made would be lying, and no "unfortunate incidents" occurred after the speeches were made.<sup>9454</sup> When it was put to him that Witness RV stated that Nteziryayo during his speech reminded the population that it had to exterminate all accomplices so that the Tutsis in exile would not have any witnesses, the witness replied that he never heard such a statement, and that the statement was a lie.<sup>9455</sup> When told that Witness RV testified that after the meeting many people were killed, the witness responded that he did not witness, nor hear anyone speak of, such events.<sup>9456</sup> The witness also stated that no one present at the meeting followed it better than him. He clarified this to mean that he followed the meeting "attentively".<sup>9457</sup>

3539. At the end of the meeting, the dignitaries left using the same road that they arrived from.<sup>9458</sup> None of the speakers spoke for more than 20 minutes, and some spoke for less than 15 minutes. The entire meeting lasted an hour and a half, and around 5.00 p.m., the witness was on his way home.<sup>9459</sup> Pierre Canisius Kagyambere, the bourgmestre of Kibayi commune, did not attend the meeting.<sup>9460</sup>

3540. The witness testified that after the meeting on 23 May 1994, he did not witness killings and massacres in the Kirarambogo area, and that, in fact, the security situation improved.<sup>9461</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-29

3541. Witness AND-29, a Hutu trader from Muganza commune,<sup>9464</sup> testified that a meeting was held in Nyabitare Market Square on 23 May 1994.<sup>9465</sup> Between 200 and 300 people attended it. The meeting was intended to start at 10.00 a.m. but it actually started at 3.00 p.m.<sup>9466</sup> The meeting started late because another meeting was being held in Muyaga commune.<sup>9467</sup> The witness left his shop and arrived at the meeting a few minutes before 3.00 p.m.<sup>9468</sup> The witness sat some 15 metres from the dignitaries.<sup>9469</sup>

3542. The dignitaries arrived in vehicles, which they parked about a hundred metres from the venue of the meeting. Among the dignitaries, he recognised Chrysologue Bimenyimana, the bourgmestre of Muganza commune, Nteziryayo, Préfet Nsabimana, Colonel Muvunyi and someone called Ruzindaza.<sup>9470</sup> There were also between five and six soldiers who looked like they were escorting Muvunyi as they followed him when he left. The soldiers wore camouflage attire and black berets.<sup>9471</sup> There were also two gendarmes in camouflage attire and red berets who were escorting Préfet Nsabimana.<sup>9472</sup>

3543. The first person who took the floor was the commune bourgmestre. He thanked members of the population who had been patient, because the meeting had started late, but he announced that the dignitaries had informed him that they had already started by holding another meeting at another location. He started by introducing the préfet, saying, “[t]his is our préfet, Mr. Nsabimana.” The bourgmestre was brief in his message, and at the end of his message he sat down.<sup>9473</sup>

3544. Préfet Nsabimana took the floor, thanked the inhabitants and introduced the dignitaries who came with him. They got up and everyone applauded them. Nsabimana then said that, among the dignitaries who had accompanied him, there were three who would speak about the theme of the meeting. Nsabimana said that the first would be Colonel Muvunyi, and that the next would be Nteziryayo, who everyone already knew, because he was a native of Kibayi commune. Nsabimana mentioned Mr. Ruzindaza, who some knew because he was the President of the Court of First Instance in Butare. Then the préfet denounced those people who had involved themselves in killings. He asked all the inhabitants to continue with their day-to-day activities, be they agriculture or trade. Nsabimana mentioned Rwamiko secteur as an example because the shops were open as he passed by. Nsabimana urged that even schools should be opened. Nsabimana said that the purpose of the meeting was to restore the normal times that reigned before.<sup>9474</sup>

3545. After Préfet Nsabimana, Colonel Muvunyi took the floor and thanked the local inhabitants. Muvunyi stated that fighting was going on in Ntyazo commune, and he requested the youths to respond positively when asked to join the army. Muvunyi said when the inhabitants were to hear gunshots they should not flee before they knew exactly where the person who was shooting was standing. A moment later there was gunfire, and the crowd dispersed. Muvunyi called the population back because it had dispersed in disorder, and said that this was just an example so that they would be aware of what gunfire sounded like. Muvunyi said that they needed to know exactly from where the gunshots were coming before they started to flee.<sup>9475</sup>

3546. Thereafter Nteziryayo took the floor and repeated what the earlier speakers had said. Nteziryayo said that fighting was ongoing in Ntyazo commune and Muhira commune and warned the inhabitants to avoid picking up any metal objects they may find because they could be explosives. Nteziryayo said that whenever the population saw such objects, they should ask for the assistance of the authorities. Nteziryayo said that since the war was ongoing in the form of guerrilla tactics, it was being waged by small groups of people who would be disguised as pastors or they would be in attire which was “a bit special”. There would be people who would be carrying baggage or baskets, and in those baskets, there could be firearms. If such a person came into the crowd, they would shoot and would kill members of the population; that is how the RPF would take over areas which had been left by members of the local population.<sup>9476</sup>

3547. Nteziryayo wore a khaki military uniform at the meeting. The main objective of his speech was to address the issue of security, as was the objective of all the speeches. The witness was present throughout the entire meeting. Nteziryayo did not say anything about exterminating Tutsis. The meeting lasted about one and a half hours.<sup>9477</sup>

3548. Ruzindaza, who had been introduced as President of the Court, spoke after Nteziryayo.<sup>9478</sup> At the beginning of his speech Ruzindaza greeted the local inhabitants; then he said that no one was above the law, and that, as had already been mentioned by the préfet, anyone caught breaking the law and being involved in reprehensible acts would be punished. He said that youths should not be afraid of joining the army, and mentioned a Rwandan proverb, “[i]f you refuse to spill your blood for your hill or for your territory, the dogs will drink that blood easily”.<sup>9479</sup> The witness said these words were intended for those who were afraid to join the army because they were afraid of death. The witness said Ruzindaza was referring to youths or young men who were afraid of being enrolled into the army.<sup>9480</sup>

3549. The bourgmestre closed the meeting by thanking again the members of the population for having followed the meeting attentively. He also asked members of the population to go

Nteziryayo

3550. Nteziryayo testified that the delegation arrived at Kirarambogo in Nyirakanwero cellule, Nyabitare secteur, in Muganza commune between 3.00 and 3.30 p.m. on 23 May 1994.<sup>9482</sup> About 250 to 300 persons attended the meeting.<sup>9483</sup>

3552. Nteziryayo testified he spoke on guerrilla warfare and explosives, but did not, as Witness RV alleged, "sensitise" anyone to undergo training in the handling of traditional weapons and other weapons. He was not in charge of sensitising the youth so that they could join the army and did not remind the population to exterminate all accomplices in order to prevent witnesses from speaking about the events in Rwanda upon their return to the country. He did not speak about civil defence, and did not ask the population not to hide accomplices.<sup>9488</sup>

3553. In cross-examination, Nteziryayo confirmed that he had said in his speech in Kirarambogo that the RPF had changed its tactics so that there would not be a large-scale attack, now that they had adopted guerrilla tactics, and that he had explained that the enemy would infiltrate a region in order to get information about how the locals lived.<sup>9489</sup> He also agreed that when he told the population of Kirarambogo that the enemy infiltrated an area, he meant that the RPF was blending in with the local population; Nteziryayo denied that when he said that the infiltrators would get in touch with accomplices they have in that area, he was in fact, informing the population that the mostly Tutsi RPF guerrilla fighters would get in touch with mostly Tutsi supporters within the area, who would give them supplies.<sup>9490</sup>

3554. Nteziryayo testified that his message did not incite members of the population to exterminate or to kill the Tutsis and none of the speakers present at Kirarambogo uttered any words inciting members of the population to carry out acts of violence.<sup>9491</sup> In cross-examination, Nteziryayo admitted that he did not personally investigate the cases he had heard broadcasted on the radio and in the press about RPF accomplices having weapons and ammunition.<sup>9492</sup> He further admitted that he did not have any specific information about the existence of RPF guerrilla infiltrators and armed accomplices in Muganza commune on 23 May 1994, but he stated that in his speech he did not make such allegation but that he only warned about the danger in general terms and asked the population to be careful, to seek information, and to watch those people crossing the border to and from Burundi.<sup>9493</sup>

3555. Nteziryayo testified that he did not attend any other meeting in the Kirarambogo region between April and July 1994,<sup>9494</sup> but that this was not the only time he went to Muganza commune.<sup>9495</sup> Contrary to Witness RV's testimony, Nteziryayo did not chair or even attend any meeting around 25 May 1994 at Kirarambogo.<sup>9496</sup>

3556. Nteziryayo testified that after the end of the Kirarambogo meeting late in the evening, the delegation returned to Butare town.<sup>9497</sup> In the days after the meeting the situation in Muganza commune was relatively calm until the population fled following the outbreak of fighting in that region between the Government forces and the RPF.<sup>9498</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBY

3557. Witness QBY, a Hutu farmer from Muyaga commune and a detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>9499</sup> testified that he attended a meeting at the Mamba secteur office one morning at about 9.00 or 10.00 a.m. between late May and the early part of June 1994; he clarified that it occurred around either 5 May or 5 June 1994.<sup>9500</sup> The meeting was attended by over 2,000 people.<sup>9501</sup> The officials in attendance included Colonel Muvunyi; Nteziryayo; Kalimanzira; Martin Kabalira; Dominique Ntawukulilyayo, the sous-préfet; the witness' bourgmestre, Fidèle Nzamwita; and the president of the court, Ruzindaza.<sup>9502</sup> The officials arrived at the meeting in vehicles where they found members of the population sitting on the ground awaiting them. There were officials who came from Butare and they all took the floor and spoke using a loudspeaker.<sup>9503</sup>

3558. Colonel Muvunyi spoke while standing on a table which was about six steps or about 6.4 metres away from where the witness was. Muvunyi said that he had come to show them how three Inkotanyi could take over a commune.<sup>9504</sup> The witness testified that after Muvunyi said this, he heard gunshots, although he did not know where they came from. As a result of the sound of gunfire, there was pandemonium among the crowd, and people fell one on top of another.<sup>9505</sup> In total, Muvunyi spoke for about four minutes.<sup>9506</sup>

3559. After the gunshots, Muvunyi introduced Nteziryayo as the new préfet of Butare.<sup>9507</sup> The new préfet also climbed on top of the table. Nteziryayo introduced himself as an officer based in Ruhengeri. The witness described Nteziryayo as a tall, black man with sideburns and a receding hairline.<sup>9508</sup> He was wearing khaki-coloured attire, with a short-sleeved white shirt. He wore no hat or spectacles. The witness had never seen him before this day.<sup>9509</sup> Nteziryayo arrived with Muvunyi in a military jeep the colour of military uniforms like plantain leaves and was with a bodyguard.<sup>9510</sup>

3560. Nteziryayo spoke to the crowd for about 10 minutes saying: “You Rwandans sometimes have lice. These are eggs between – inside of which there are small lice or tiny lice.”<sup>9511</sup> The witness understood this to mean that when the lice were killed, the eggs also had to be destroyed.<sup>9512</sup> When both Nteziryayo and Muvunyi spoke, they mounted the table which was about 85 centimetres high.<sup>9513</sup> Nteziryayo did not talk of security matters. The witness testified that Nteziryayo only told the population to kill those who looked like Tutsis and never talked about killing the Inkotanyi. According to the witness’ testimony, Nteziryayo said that they should flush out the Tutsis and kill them along with their offspring.<sup>9514</sup>

3561. Apart from Muvunyi and Nteziryayo, other people who spoke at the meeting included the President of the Court, Ruzindaza,<sup>9515</sup> Sous-préfet Dominique Ntawukulilyayo; Martin Kabilira; Callixte Kalimanzira; and the bourgmestre of their commune, Nzamwita. Each of these officials, except for Nzamwita, incited the population to kill the Tutsis.<sup>9516</sup> The meeting ended between 12.30 and 1.00 p.m. Muvunyi and Nteziryayo told the people that they were going to deliver the same message to the people of Mugusa commune.<sup>9517</sup>

including Ntawuhiganayo, whom he had seen at the first meeting, encouraging people to go to places where survivors were to be found and to arrest them.<sup>9520</sup>

3563. The witness testified that he got to know Nteziryayo from the second meeting he attended in Butare. The witness testified that he did not know what commune Nteziryayo came from nor did he know what position he held in 1994. The witness testified that he knew Nteziryayo was a soldier working in Ruhengeri because Nteziryayo said so himself.<sup>9521</sup> He did not see Nteziryayo after the war, because they all fled.<sup>9522</sup>

3564. The witness did not know when Nteziryayo was appointed préfet but when Nteziryayo came to their area, he introduced himself as the new préfet of Butare. The witness testified that he again saw Nteziryayo when the Tutsis were being killed, and had not seen him since the war ended.<sup>9523</sup> He was not asked to identify Nteziryayo in court.

Prosecution Witness FAB

3565. Witness FAB, a Hutu farmer living in Muyaga commune in 1994,<sup>9524</sup> testified that in June 1994, between about 11.00 a.m. and noon,<sup>9525</sup> he attended a meeting that was held at the Mamba secteur office, in Muyaga commune. The witness knew about the meeting from public announcements and posters that were put up by the commune authorities.<sup>9526</sup> Nteziryayo arrived in a dark sedan vehicle with the sous-préfet a few minutes after 11.00 a.m., after a meeting with the commune authorities in the commune buildings.<sup>9527</sup> The purpose of the meeting was to introduce the new préfet, Nteziryayo. The witness testified that almost the entire population of the commune, approximately 3,000 people, except children, attended the meeting. Many government officials were also present including Fidèle Nzamwita who was the bourgmestre of Muyaga commune, Colonel Muvunyi, Ruzindaza who was president of the Butare Tribunal, the sous-préfet of Busoro, all the commune officers and the new préfet, Nteziryayo.<sup>9528</sup> The witness testified that the Tutsi population in his commune did not participate in this meeting even though some of them were alive. After the meeting the Tutsis who were alive were killed.<sup>9529</sup> All the speakers stood on a table during their speeches and used a microphone.<sup>9530</sup>

3566. The bourgmestre introduced Nteziryayo as the new préfet.<sup>9531</sup> Nteziryayo made a speech during which he said that they were about to win the war against the RPF and the Inkotanyi, and asked for the “contribution” of the people. The “contribution” that Nteziryayo asked for was that the population arrest and kill “without any mercy” the Tutsis and the

Inkotanyi.<sup>9532</sup> Nteziryayo asked the crowd to arrest the children, women and old people and to kill them all. According to the witness, Nteziryayo spoke about Tutsi women and Hutu women who were married to Tutsis. He asked them to disembowel them if they were pregnant. Nteziryayo further told those at the meeting that “if you want to destroy lice, you must also kill the eggs”. The witness said this meant that if they were to kill Tutsi elders, they also needed to kill the children.<sup>9533</sup> The witness recalled that Nteziryayo stood about 7.4 metres from the witness when he spoke.<sup>9534</sup>

3567. After Nteziryayo, Muvunyi and Ruzindaza spoke respectively and called upon the people to kill the Tutsis. Muvunyi asked them to teach their children how to kill. He further asked them to kill, and to exterminate all survivors. Ruzindaza held a bible during his speech and asked the crowd not to go for confessions because they were in difficult times; he said they had to kill and that they would confess after the war.<sup>9535</sup> After Ruzindaza spoke, Muvunyi took the floor again.<sup>9536</sup> After the meeting the crowd dispersed and, upon return to their respective homes, started killing the surviving Tutsi population. The witness testified that the majority of the Tutsis who were killed were his neighbours and that the next morning he saw the bodies of two female Tutsis.<sup>9537</sup>

3568. The witness clarified that the meeting was held sometime in mid-June 1994, and not between 3 or 5 June 1994 as indicated in his previous statement of 11 April 1999. He conceded that he might have made a mistake about the date of the meeting when he gave his statement, but that he realised his mistake during the Gacaca sessions.<sup>9538</sup>

3569. The witness testified that he would not be able to recognise Nteziryayo because he only saw him on one occasion in 1994 and had not seen him since.<sup>9539</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-60

3570. Witness AND-60, a Hutu accountant from Muyaga commune,<sup>9540</sup> testified that he attended a meeting held on 23 May 1994 in Mamba secteur, Rugunga cellule, in a small eucalyptus forest or woods.<sup>9541</sup> The meeting started at approximately 11.15 a.m.<sup>9542</sup> The witness estimated that there were 600 to 800 people at the meeting.<sup>9543</sup>

other men were the authority figures at the meeting.<sup>9544</sup> On cross-examination, the witness also stated that he saw Dominique Ntawukulilyayo at the meeting.<sup>9545</sup> The meeting was chaired by Préfet Nsabimana.<sup>9546</sup>

3573. Nsabimana said in his speech that the local inhabitants were saddened by the tragedy that had befallen the country, and asked the population to be courageous and strong. Nsabimana further said that disturbances had occurred throughout the country following the President's death and in that very commune. Nsabimana added that he was saddened by the fact that wrongdoers had looted and set fire to the commune office and killed refugees there. Nsabimana asked the population to remain calm within the area without discriminating ethnically and to remain vigilant with regard to the restoration of peace as they could not trust their Burundian neighbours. Nsabimana reminded the population that five out of eight secteurs of the commune bordered Burundi and that attacks from Burundi could threaten the peace. Finally, Nsabimana said that the population should not attack one another because it would enable the enemy to commit certain acts and then accuse the population of having committed them against fellow citizens.<sup>9549</sup>

3574. Colonel Muvunyi, who was the area commander of Butare, spoke next. He spoke of how the war developed, and said that the army was fighting against the enemy and was in a good position to conquer them. Muvunyi stated that the war was taking place in Ntyazo commune, a neighbouring commune, and in the Bugesera area, but that the population should not be frightened.<sup>9550</sup> Muvunyi then told the population to be careful when they heard gunfire and not to flee without knowing where they were going otherwise they could flee right into the hands of the enemy. Immediately after, gunshots were fired by the soldiers and the audience all ran, before Colonel Muvunyi signalled them to return to their seats. Colonel Muvunyi then told the population that they had not done what they had been told to do and that next time they heard gunshots they should not run into the hands of the enemy.<sup>9551</sup>

3575. Ruzindaza spoke next, but only for a very short time. The witness stated that Ruzindaza spoke of evil-doers in the commune and asked the bourgmestre to continue his investigations so that these people could be found guilty and punished. Ruzindaza said that the country had been attacked, but that it should not be abandoned and that everyone should stand ready to defend it, especially those who were young and physically capable. The witness stated that Ruzindaza then mentioned the proverb, “[i]f you refuse to spill your blood for the country, dogs will come and drink that blood readily”. The witness testified that after Ruzindaza had spoken, the bourgmestre gave a vote of thanks to the officials and reminded the local inhabitants to transmit the message which had been issued to other local inhabitants to ensure that people worked together to maintain peace and security.<sup>9552</sup>

3576. Nteziryayo also took the floor and spoke about guerrilla warfare, which he said was being used as a tactic of the enemy. Nteziryayo told the local inhabitants that they thought that the Inkotanyi were many in number and that they would make a lot of noise and cause a lot of damage when they attacked. Nteziryayo stated that the Inkotanyi had changed their tactics and that they could send only two to three individuals, who could be disguised in monk’s clothing or as someone going to the market, and that they would be carrying baskets with food. Nteziryayo further said that the Inkotanyi could target their actions in order to kill people and the authorities, so that they could control the location they were in. Nteziryayo went on to say that if the inhabitants saw any unknown people in the community then those people should be taken to the nearest authority to be questioned. Finally, Nteziryayo warned the inhabitants not to pick up anything that they saw on the road, because the object may explode. Nteziryayo’s speech lasted approximately 15 minutes.<sup>9553</sup> Nteziryayo did not use any proverb referencing the elimination of lice, or incite the killing of children, women and old people.<sup>9554</sup> Nteziryayo wore military uniform.<sup>9555</sup>

3577. There was no question and answer session at the end of the meeting, and the meeting ended at about 1.00 p.m. The witness was present for the entirety of the meeting and maintained that its purpose was the restoration of security. According to the witness he did not hear any words at the meeting inciting people to kill. The witness stated that the atmosphere at the end of the meeting was one of calm, with less fear, and that no killings took place after the meeting.<sup>9556</sup>

Nteziryayo was not préfet on 23 May 1994, when the meeting took place.<sup>9558</sup> He also was not an army officer from Ruhengeri.<sup>9559</sup>

3579. About 500-600 persons attended the meeting which was chaired by Préfet Nsabimana. The bourgmestre of Muyaga commune took the floor welcoming the delegation.<sup>9560</sup> Each of the speakers addressed the same subjects they had spoken about in the other communes.<sup>9561</sup> Contrary to what Witness QBY testified, Ruzindaza did not say that a Hutu student must kill a Tutsi student or that an old Hutu person must kill an old Tutsi person, or that when you are a coffee farmer, you must know how to pick the good coffee from the bad coffee and this is how the distinction has to be between a Hutu and a Tutsi.<sup>9562</sup>

3580. Nteziryayo made a speech identical to the one he made the day before in Ntyazo commune. He did not say that everyone had to kill those that looked like a Tutsi, as Witness QBY alleged. He did not make statements that were likely to incite the population to exterminate or to kill Tutsis, or to kill women and children of any ethnic group whatsoever. According to the Accused, none of the speakers at Muyaga invited the population to resort to any kind of violence.<sup>9563</sup> Neither Martin Kabalira nor Callixte Kalimanzira was at that meeting. Therefore, contrary to the assertions of Witness QBY, Kabalira did not tell the population that they should kill the enemy, and only thereafter they could recite their prayers; and Kalimanzira did not say during the meeting that one weeds out the weeds from the rice, implying that it was, therefore, necessary to separate the Tutsis from the Hutus.<sup>9564</sup>

3581. At the end of the meeting, there was a small reception organised by the bourgmestre of Muyaga commune. Nteziryayo did not take part in other meetings in Muyaga commune or go to Muyaga commune any other time between April and July 1994.<sup>9565</sup>

3582. Nteziryayo did not get any information on the prevailing security status in Muyaga commune after that meeting was organised, or if the local population killed anyone. He only received information on the fighting between the RPF and Government forces which had reached the Muyaga government after Ntyazo, forcing the population to migrate.<sup>9566</sup>

having pled guilty to killing three persons.<sup>9568</sup> He testified that a series of meetings were held between April and July 1994.<sup>9569</sup> Witness FAK attended only one meeting during this time at the Kibayi commune office,<sup>9570</sup> since the others were only for authorities, and not the general population.<sup>9571</sup>

3584. The meeting Witness FAK attended was held on a football pitch located in front of the Kibayi commune office and was chaired by Nteziryayo.<sup>9572</sup> The purpose of the meeting was to introduce Nteziryayo as the new préfet.<sup>9573</sup> On cross-examination, the witness testified that even though his statement said the meeting occurred in May 1994, it actually took place in June 1994; however, he could not remember the particular date given the time that has elapsed since then.<sup>9574</sup> He specified that the meeting could have been held on 18 or 19 June 1994.<sup>9575</sup> Nteziryayo was préfet as he told them that he had just been appointed.<sup>9576</sup> When it was put to the witness that Nteziryayo was appointed préfet on 17 June 1994, the witness claimed Nteziryayo was a préfet when he came to Kibayi.<sup>9577</sup>

3585. The bourgmestre of Kibayi informed the secteur's population of the meeting; the meeting was intended for the entire population of Kibayi commune.<sup>9578</sup> He later stated that he had been informed of the meeting by the responsable, Jérémie Ndaribumbye.<sup>9579</sup> The witness' statement of 24 February 2000 that stated he was informed of the meeting by Conseiller Ndagijimana was incorrectly recorded.<sup>9580</sup>

Authorities present at the meeting included, inter alia, the Kibayi bourgmestre, Canisius Kajyambere, the only bourgmestre present,<sup>9581</sup> who introduced the speakers; Muvunyi, Nteziryayo, the secteur conseillers and the responsables de cellule.<sup>9582</sup> The meeting started between 9.00 a.m., the scheduled time, and 10.00 a.m., and ended at about 2.00 p.m.<sup>9583</sup> It was attended by more than 1,000 people.<sup>9584</sup> The witness went to the meeting on time and was present from the beginning to the end.<sup>9585</sup>

3587. The first speaker at the Kibayi meeting was the bourgmestre of Kibayi commune, who introduced Nteziryayo and Muvunyi.<sup>9586</sup> Nteziryayo took the floor and introduced himself as the new préfet.<sup>9587</sup> He thanked them for having killed Tutsis. Nteziryayo also instructed the population as to how to conduct its work in killing Tutsis; the attendees were to kill Tutsi children who were to be found at their grandparents' houses.<sup>9588</sup> Nteziryayo also asked the attendees to abduct and kill the Tutsi women who were illegally taken as wives by young Hutu men in an effort to save their lives.<sup>9589</sup> The attendees were also instructed to kill any Hutu men who refused to let them take their wives.<sup>9590</sup> However, the attendees were told to spare any Tutsi women who were legally married to Hutu men prior to the war and who had children with those same Hutu men<sup>9591</sup> because these Tutsi women were praying to a Hutu god and not a Tutsi god.<sup>9592</sup> Witness FAK explained that there was no mention of the last statement in his previous statement because they were not all "true reflections".<sup>9593</sup> Nteziryayo did not mention the impending attacks of the RPF.<sup>9594</sup> Witness FAK was approximately 4.6 metres away from Nteziryayo at the meeting.<sup>9595</sup>

3588. When Nteziryayo was finished, Muvunyi took the floor. It was the first time the witness saw Muvunyi.<sup>9596</sup> Muvunyi asked the audience how they would conduct themselves when the Inkotanyi arrived. As a test-case, gendarmes located downhill from the meeting venue fired shots in the air, causing the audience to scatter. The audience was called back by the security personnel and Muvunyi told them not to flee. They were asked: "You are to behave in this manner the day the Inkotanyi fire? If you are not able to confront or to face the fighting, you had better run away to Gikongoro or to Zaire".<sup>9597</sup> Muvunyi told them, "[y]ou are refusing to spill your blood for your country and the dogs will drink it for free".<sup>9598</sup> The witness considered that President Ruzindaza of the Court of First Instance did not make this statement.<sup>9599</sup> Muvunyi stated that there were some Inyenzi in the rice plantation in Ntyazo and said that he was going to bring youngsters to flush out those Inyenzi.<sup>9600</sup> Despite Muvunyi's words, the speakers made no mention that the attackers were the RPF.<sup>9601</sup>

3589. After Colonel Muvunyi, Kibayi Bourgmestre Kajyambere took the floor to end the meeting and asked the audience to put the instructions they had been given into practice.<sup>9602</sup> After this meeting, the audience dispersed to their respective secteurs and went home to comply with the instructions they had received.<sup>9603</sup> After the Kibayi meeting, people who had hidden Tutsis in their houses killed them as “they had to proceed to the extermination of the survivors.”<sup>9604</sup> The day after the meeting Witness FAK personally killed a Tutsi.<sup>9605</sup>

3590. The day after the Kibayi meeting, Witness FAK went to the Gatundo<sup>9606</sup>/Gatuna roadblock along with Augustin Rwabuhungu and one Laurent where they found the conseiller. At the roadblock, Augustin Rwabuhungu said that he had a Tutsi girl hidden in his house.<sup>9607</sup> Accordingly, the conseiller asked Rwabuhungu to bring her but he refused to follow the conseiller's instructions, asking the conseiller to ask someone else.<sup>9608</sup> The conseiller said to him, “[y]ou have taken the goods, destroyed the houses and yet you are still keeping these people. You better go and bring her.”<sup>9609</sup>

3593. Witness FAK knew Witness QBU for a brief period in prison but they did not share a cell in prison.<sup>9616</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBU

3594. Witness QBU, a Hutu farmer from Kibayi who had pled guilty to participating in the killings in 1994 and was a detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>9617</sup> testified that around the end of May or early June 1994, a meeting to incite those present to commit killings was convened by Nteziryayo and attended by inhabitants of the commune.<sup>9618</sup> The meeting was held at a football field in Nyabisagara cellule, Mukindo secteur.<sup>9619</sup> The meeting started around

11.00 a.m. and finished around 2.30 p.m.<sup>9620</sup> Bourgmestre Kajyambere opened the meeting and spoke briefly before introducing Nteziryayo who said he was now the préfet.<sup>9621</sup> Jean-Baptiste Habyarimana was replaced by Nteziryayo as préfet; Nteziryayo was the only other préfet Witness QBU saw.<sup>9622</sup> Nteziryayo was wearing a short sleeved green suit at the meeting.<sup>9623</sup> Muvunyi was also present.<sup>9624</sup>

3595. When the witness was shown the official letter of appointment showing Nteziryayo took up duties as the préfet of Butare on 21 June 1994,<sup>9625</sup> Witness QBU contested the validity of the letter stating that “it is giving ... the date of [Nteziryayo’s] appointment ... as much later than the actual appointment.”<sup>9626</sup>

3596. Nteziryayo told the meeting to hold fast in their struggle against the enemy and added that the enemy was no other than the Tutsi.<sup>9627</sup> Nteziryayo said that “young men are taking Tutsi girls as their girlfriends whereas those girlfriends should die” and “[g]randparents [who] had hidden their grandchildren ... should [also] die.”<sup>9628</sup> Nteziryayo told the meeting that “any Hutu hiding a Tutsi or who resisted in his attempt to hide a Tutsi, ... had to die.”<sup>9629</sup> Nteziryayo told the people present that “the Tutsis were snakes that we were keeping in our houses.”<sup>9630</sup> Nteziryayo said “[i]f you remember that when you clear, when you sweep ashes, you take it out of the house, you do not keep it inside the house.”<sup>9631</sup> Nteziryayo told those present at the meeting that they had to search everywhere and that the issue had to be resolved by the next day.<sup>9632</sup> From these words, the witness and the rest of the population understood that they needed to “fish out the Tutsis from their grandparents [and] there [sic] uncles”.<sup>9633</sup>

3597. Muvunyi was the last speaker.<sup>9634</sup> Muvunyi said the Inkotanyi were at Ntyazo and asked the population to be ready to face them.<sup>9635</sup>

getting late they returned the children to their homes and re-collected them again the next day, when they drowned the children in the Akanyaru River.<sup>9637</sup>

3599. Witness QBU and others carried out these killings because they felt that they were fighting the enemy, namely the Tutsi as Nteziryayo informed them.<sup>9638</sup> Members of the RPF had not yet infiltrated Kibayi at the time.<sup>9639</sup>

3600. Although Witness QBU had seen Nteziryayo on several occasions during the war in 1994, he had not seen him since the war ended.<sup>9640</sup> Witness QBU positively identified Nteziryayo in court.<sup>9641</sup>

3601. Witness QBU was detained and attended Gacaca proceedings with other detainees from his home commune,<sup>9642</sup> but he did not take part in the same Gacaca sessions as Prosecution Witness FAK.<sup>9643</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Evariste Ntakirutimana

3602. Evariste Ntakirutimana testified as an expert in the fields of social linguistics, discourse analysis, lexicology, semantics and language planning.<sup>9644</sup> Ntakirutimana's Expert Report, tendered as Prosecution Exhibit 158, analyses the use of numerous proverbs and phrases in Rwanda during the events in 1994.<sup>9645</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that references to removing lice convey the image of parasites getting into ones clothing. Since old mothers and fathers in villages pick lice from their clothes, thus eliminating them, one can extrapolate the proverb to mean that one needed to eliminate anything that can disturb one's life or situation.<sup>9646</sup>

Nsabimana

3603. Nsabimana testified that he went to Kibayi<sup>9647</sup> with Nteziryayo for an impromptu civilian defence meeting sometime after mid-May 1994, arriving around 3.00 p.m.<sup>9648</sup> The meeting was at a football field approximately 500 metres from the commune office and not many people were present. Bourgmestre Pierre Kajyambere, Nsabimana, Nteziryayo and Kalimanzira were present.<sup>9649</sup>

3604. Nsabimana was introduced as the new préfet and spoke from the back of Kalimanzira's pickup. Nsabimana and Kalimanzira spoke about the arrival of the RPF in the area – they said fleeing would not be useful, that it would be better to stay and die at home. Nteziryayo spoke about explosives saying that one had to be careful and the theme was the RPF had arrived.<sup>9650</sup> Nsabimana believed the meeting in Kibayi with Nteziryayo and Kalimanzira was in fact the initiation or launching of the civilian defence programme.<sup>9651</sup>

3605. Nteziryayo testified that in accordance with the timetable agreed at a Security Council meeting of 20 May 1994, a tour of meetings took place in Butare's southern communes between 22 and 26 May 1994.<sup>9652</sup> In the context of this tour, meetings were scheduled in Kibayi commune on the morning of 24 May 1994 and in the afternoon in Gikore secteur in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>9653</sup> Apart from Lieutenant Colonel Simba, all the members who spoke at each meeting during the tour always addressed the same topics, including Nteziryayo.<sup>9654</sup>

3606. The meeting on 24 May 1994 was the only meeting he attended in Kibayi commune and the only time he went there together with Nsabimana between April 1994 and July 1994.<sup>9655</sup> Nteziryayo was dressed in military uniform.<sup>9656</sup>

3607. The meeting was held on a football pitch near Kibayi commune office, in Mukindo secteur, Kibayi commune on 24 May 1994 in the morning.<sup>9657</sup> Between 400 and 500 persons attended the meeting, but not a thousand or more as asserted by Witness FAK.<sup>9658</sup> In cross-examination he stated about 500 to 700 persons attended the meeting.<sup>9659</sup>

3609. The purpose of the meeting was not to introduce himself as the new préfet and Nteziryayo did not introduce himself in this way. The meeting was to discuss the restoration of peace. The meeting's themes, as with the previous meetings, was the development of the commune, its freedom from the "hunger campaign", the problem of the flight of the populations from RPF attacks from Burundi and the encouragement of striving for peace.<sup>9665</sup>

3610. Nteziryayo visited the southern communes, including Kibayi commune not on his own initiative, but at the invitation of the préfecture authorities – he was convinced that he was going to contribute to the activities aimed at calming the population and helping them prevent the dangers awaiting them. It was in this spirit that he advised them about infiltrators and how to protect themselves.<sup>9666</sup>

3611. Nteziryayo talked again about guerrilla warfare, the use of explosives and informed the population of possible attacks by the RPF from Burundi.<sup>9667</sup> When he told the population that the enemy would infiltrate an area, he was referring to the RPF blending in with the local population.<sup>9668</sup> Insofar as Witness AND-73 testified that Nteziryayo told the population that the "infiltrators ... would get in touch with [their] accomplices in [the] area", Nteziryayo denied that he meant that the "mostly Tutsi RPF guerilla fighters" would get in touch with their Tutsis supporters within the area.<sup>9669</sup> Nteziryayo did not personally undertake any investigations about the RPF's accomplices but it was public information that the RPF's accomplices were moving around with weapons and ammunition; it had been broadcast over the radio and reported by the press.<sup>9670</sup>

3612. He did not, as alleged by Witness FAK, instruct the population to kill Tutsis; thank them for having killed Tutsis; encourage them to kill Tutsi children living in the homes of their grandparents; ask the population to abduct and kill Tutsi girls married to Hutus and everyone who refused to hand them over, but spare "legally married" Tutsi women who had borne children with Hutus. He did not speak on ethnic issues but asked them to strive for peace.<sup>9671</sup>

3613. Contrary to the evidence of Witness QBU, he did not say that people should be steadfast in the fight against the Tutsis and that if youngsters had taken Tutsi girls as their concubines, these concubines had to die; or that grandparents and uncles who had hidden their grandchildren should die, on the day of the meeting.<sup>9672</sup> He also did not say people should search homes and the Makwaza forest and if a Hutu hiding a Tutsi tried to protect the Tutsi, the Hutu had to die along with the Tutsi.<sup>9673</sup> Contrary to the evidence of Witness QBU, at the time of the meeting on 24 May 1994, Nteziryayo was not an army major, but a lieutenant-colonel.<sup>9674</sup>

3614. Nteziryayo was present throughout the meeting and at no time did he or any of the other speakers issue orders that women and children, Tutsis or otherwise, should be killed.<sup>9675</sup> Muvunyi, in his capacity as area commander, gave the population information on the progress of the war. He explained to the population that the fighting was not very far away; he urged the young people to join the army; he advised what people should do when they heard gunshots and warned they should not run blindly or panic; they should only flee after locating from where the gunshots were fired.<sup>9676</sup>

3615. Contrary to the evidence of Witness FAK, it was Ruzindaza and not Muvunyi who stated, “[y]ou are refusing to shade [sic] your blood for your country, whereas the dogs are drinking the said blood for free.”<sup>9677</sup> Contrary to Witness FAK, he did not hear Muvunyi say during his speech that Inyenzi were hiding in the rice plantation in Ntyazo and that he was going to bring youngsters to flush out those Inyenzi. Moreover, given the distance between Ntyazo and Kibayi he would not be expected to utter such words in Kibayi commune.<sup>9678</sup>

3617. After the meeting, there was peace in Kibayi commune that lasted until there were clashes between the RPF and Government forces forcing the population to flee to neighbouring countries.<sup>9680</sup>

going to be long, because the authorities were scheduled to hold another meeting at Gikore.<sup>9686</sup> The meeting on 24 May 1994 was the only meeting chaired by Préfet Nsabimana in the said commune after 6 April 1994; no other meetings chaired by any figure of authority from Butare were held.<sup>9687</sup> As a civil servant he was always informed of the holding of meetings.<sup>9688</sup> In the period between 7 April 1994 and 7 July 1994, the witness attended only one (restricted committee) meeting that was convened and chaired by the Kibayi bourgmestre and only one meeting convened and chaired by Préfet Nsabimana, namely the one of 24 May 1994.<sup>9689</sup>

3620. The dignitaries arrived in three vehicles at 10.30 a.m.<sup>9690</sup> They met the bourgmestre at the commune office upon arrival and then walked with the bourgmestre to the field where the meeting was to take place.<sup>9691</sup> The dignitaries sat on metal chairs facing SERAI or the road that leads to Juma secteur. In front of the dignitaries were tables. Behind the dignitaries were the benches where the population sat. Some of the population chose to stand in the field not far from there in a location shown to them by a commune policeman.<sup>9692</sup>

security by reinforcing and conducting night rounds in their homes and in the entire commune.<sup>9702</sup> Nsabimana did not incite the population to kill.<sup>9703</sup> Nsabimana's speech lasted 15 to 20 minutes.<sup>9704</sup>

3624. After Nsabimana, Colonel Muvunyi took the floor. He also asked the population to reinforce security and restore peace in the commune; he asked the youth to be ready to heed the call of the army, and not to hide; he also broached the issue of guerrilla warfare. His message lasted five to 10 minutes.<sup>9705</sup>

3625. Colonel Nteziryayo spoke after Colonel Muvunyi.<sup>9706</sup> Nteziryayo spoke along the same lines as the previous speakers: he invited the population to remain united and to work towards peace with their neighbours by avoiding or by not listening to those who would incite them to commit killings. Furthermore, he said that the people should not attack anyone on the grounds of their ethnicity or because of their property, because everyone was the son or daughter of Rwanda. He revisited the issue of explosives and guerrilla warfare.<sup>9707</sup> He then asked members of the population to keep striving towards maintaining the security of the population.<sup>9708</sup> Nteziryayo did not incite the population to kill,<sup>9709</sup> and idiomatic expressions and proverbs referring to Tutsis as "ash" that needed to be "cleaned up" and thrown out were not used that day.<sup>9710</sup> When Nteziryayo referred to the accomplices of the RPF guerrillas, he was not necessarily only referring to Tutsis since even Hutus sent their children to the front.<sup>9711</sup> His speech was not very long.<sup>9712</sup> Nteziryayo was not préfet at the time of the meeting.<sup>9713</sup> The only time Nteziryayo came to Kibayi commune was the occasion of this meeting.<sup>9714</sup>

3626. After Nteziryayo, the bourgmestre took the floor to thank members of the population and encourage them to strengthen peace. He asked them to return to their homes and convey the message of the meeting to those who lived in their respective cellules.<sup>9715</sup> The population came away from the meeting resolved to ensure peace; there were no further killings or massacres after the meeting of 24 May 1994.<sup>9716</sup>

3628. Witness AND-53, a Hutu farmer from Kibayi commune,<sup>9722</sup> attended a meeting held in Kibayi commune on 24 May 1994.<sup>9723</sup> He was certain of this date because the meeting was so important.<sup>9724</sup> The meeting was convened by Préfet Nsabimana. Bourgmestre Kajyambere announced that a meeting chaired by the préfet would be held and asked the conseillers to inform members of the population.<sup>9725</sup> The responsable de cellule in the secteur,<sup>9726</sup> appointed a man with a whistle to go around and announce the meeting.<sup>9727</sup>

3629. Witness AND-53 went to the meeting on foot, a distance of about 5 to 6 kilometres.<sup>9728</sup> He set off for the meeting at 9.30 a.m. and arrived at the meeting's venue a few minutes before 11.00 a.m. when the meeting began.<sup>9729</sup> The meeting took place on the football field of Kibayi commune, which was about 150 metres downhill from the commune office.<sup>9730</sup> On arriving at the meeting he saw seating arrangements had been made for the authorities and the ordinary attendees, but there was no dais.<sup>9731</sup> The witness sat on the football pitch about 20 metres from the speakers.<sup>9732</sup> Between 500 and 700 people attended the meeting,<sup>9733</sup> but there were no Tutsis as they had not yet come out of hiding.<sup>9734</sup> He knew one person at the meeting who was of Twa ethnicity, but the rest of the attendees were Hutus.<sup>9735</sup>

what the authorities did at the commune office, but five to 10 minutes after their arrival, they all moved down to the football pitch to start the meeting.<sup>9739</sup>

3631. Witness AND-53 recognised the bourgmestre of Kibayi commune Pierre Canisius Kajyambere, Préfet Nsabimana and Colonel Nteziryayo.<sup>9740</sup> While unable to describe the exact seating arrangements, Nteziryayo sat at the high table or grand stand with the other dignitaries in the same row as the préfet and the bourgmestre.<sup>9741</sup>

3632. The first speaker at the meeting was Pierre Canisius Kajyambere.<sup>9742</sup> Kajyambere thanked the population for attending before asking the audience to listen carefully as it was an important meeting, as the security situation was going to be discussed.<sup>9743</sup> Kajyambere then passed the floor to Nsabimana to chair the meeting,<sup>9744</sup> who then announced the order of the speakers.<sup>9745</sup> Kajyambere's speech lasted roughly five minutes.<sup>9746</sup>

3633. Nsabimana began by introducing the other authorities that had come to the meeting; he introduced Colonel Muvunyi as commander of the ESO; Nteziryayo as a high ranking officer and native of the commune; Ruzindaza as the President of the Court of First Instance of Butare; and finally Dominique Ntawukulilyayo as the sous-préfet of Gisagara sous-préfecture. Nteziryayo was introduced as a colonel.<sup>9747</sup> Nsabimana invited the remaining members of the delegation to stand and greet the audience, who got to their feet and applauded.<sup>9748</sup>

3634. Nsabimana talked about the problem of security. Nsabimana asked the population to ensure that there was security, to live in harmony and not to engage in killings.<sup>9749</sup> Nsabimana asked the population to go about their day-to-day activities, and to assist those who were at the war front.<sup>9750</sup> Nsabimana asked the population for more security, as infiltrators could filter in from Burundi as the commune was on the border.<sup>9751</sup> These were the only subjects Nsabimana addressed in his speech.<sup>9752</sup> In cross-examination the witness said that Nsabimana asked the local inhabitants to participate in night patrols and man roadblocks.<sup>9753</sup> Nsabimana's speech lasted between 50 and 60 minutes.<sup>9754</sup>

3635. Colonel Muvunyi spoke next. Colonel Muvunyi invited the population to live in peace and harmony and said that the battlefield had advanced to Ntyazo and Muyira communes, and to around Ntyazo Hill. Kibayi commune was about to be attacked, and therefore the population had to be vigilant, to guard roadblocks well, to carry out night patrols and to hand over to the local authorities anyone identified as an unknown person in the region. Colonel Muvunyi called upon the youngsters to join the army in order to safeguard the sovereignty of the country and asked the population not to flee at the time the RPF were entering the region, until they had first identified the location from which the shooting was coming from. Colonel Muvunyi then staged a demonstration where shots were fired, and afterwards told the crowd that they had not responded well and that they should not have started fleeing until they had identified where the gunshots were coming from.<sup>9755</sup> Colonel Muvunyi did not mention anything about guerrilla tactics.<sup>9756</sup> Colonel Muvunyi's speech lasted 40 minutes.<sup>9757</sup>

3636. Nteziryayo spoke to the crowd after Colonel Muvunyi.<sup>9758</sup> Nteziryayo reiterated the comments of the previous speakers on security. He asked the population to co-exist peacefully and to avoid killings, and talked about the guerrilla war the RPF were fighting; how a group of two or three people could infiltrate the population, and could be dressed as clergymen, Muslims or Reverend Fathers. Nteziryayo said that the infiltrators could be carrying guns in baskets on top of their heads as if they were going to the market, when actually they were going to use the guns to kill people in places like the commune office. Nteziryayo told the population to be attentive to unknown objects as these could be mines laid by the infiltrators. Nteziryayo commented on the shooting demonstration and talked about the suffering those in the north of the country had experienced during the war.<sup>9759</sup> Nteziryayo never made any statements that would incite Hutus to kill the Tutsis,<sup>9760</sup> or told the audience that he was their préfet.<sup>9761</sup> Nteziryayo's speech lasted about 25 minutes.<sup>9762</sup>

3637. Ruzindaza then took the floor.<sup>9763</sup> Ruzindaza said that all people were equal before the law and that those who were killing people were going to be prosecuted. Ruzindaza invited young people to join the army and used the proverb, "[y]ou are refusing to give your blood to the country or to the nation and the dogs are drinking this blood for free".<sup>9764</sup> He did not hear Ruzindaza refer to any biblical speech or text, or see a Bible in Ruzindaza's hands.<sup>9765</sup> Ruzindaza's speech lasted not more than 20 minutes.<sup>9766</sup>

3638. Bourgmestre Kajyambere closed the meeting. After thanking the population for attending, he closed by saying that the guests were in a hurry as they had to attend another meeting in Gikore.<sup>9767</sup> He asked the population to go and implement what was heard at the meeting.<sup>9768</sup> The meeting finished at 2.00 p.m.<sup>9769</sup>

3639. The only two speakers to talk about the RPF “Inkotanyi” or enemy were Colonel Muvunyi and Nteziryayo.<sup>9770</sup> He stated that none of the speeches made at the meeting incited the local population to commit killings.<sup>9771</sup> The witness did not hear any speaker say “[w]hen you gather ashes, you don’t keep them inside the house, you send them outside the house”,<sup>9772</sup> nor did he hear Nteziryayo instruct the audience to kill illegally married Tutsis, but spare legally married Tutsis.<sup>9773</sup>

3641. Between 6 April 1994 and the end of May 1994 the witness was not aware of any other meeting held at the Kibayi commune office.<sup>9780</sup> The meeting on 24 May 1994 was the only meeting that took place in Kibayi commune.<sup>9781</sup>

There were two rows of chairs reserved for the dignitaries but only some of them were occupied and the rest were used by members of the population.<sup>9790</sup> Nteziryayo sat in the front row.<sup>9791</sup> Préfet Nsabimana sat next to the Kibayi bourgmestre, Canisius Kajyambere.<sup>9792</sup> Witness AND-64 sat 42 metres away from where the dignitaries sat during the meeting.<sup>9793</sup> He followed the meeting from the beginning to the end and followed all the speeches which were made.<sup>9794</sup>

3645. Witness AND-64 testified that the commune's agronomist named Masima took the floor first for less than three minutes,<sup>9795</sup> he asked the attendants to welcome the dignitaries, to sit down and follow the meeting calmly, then gave the floor to the bourgmestre who, in turn, thanked the population and introduced the dignitaries including Nsabimana as the new préfet.<sup>9796</sup> The witness did not know Nsabimana before then.<sup>9797</sup> Nsabimana had been appointed as the new préfet around the end of April 1994.<sup>9798</sup> The bourgmestre asked the préfet to preside over the meeting and gave him the floor.<sup>9799</sup> In his address, Nsabimana condemned the killings and acts of violence which were purportedly perpetrated in the commune, and urged members of the population to assist the bourgmestre and local authorities to combat those acts. Finally he asked members of the population to remain vigilant in order to counter any attacks from abroad.<sup>9800</sup> Nsabimana's speech was concerned with the return of security and safety to Kibayi.<sup>9801</sup>

3646. The witness disagreed with the evidence of Witness AND-11 as to who introduced the dignitaries; it was the bourgmestre who gave the floor to the préfet who in turn introduced the dignitaries.<sup>9802</sup> Nsabimana condemned the killings of Tutsis.<sup>9803</sup> He could not remember the duration of Nsabimana's speech.<sup>9804</sup>

3647. Muvunyi addressed the crowd after Nsabimana. He stated that the fighting was going on in communes neighbouring Kibayi. Gunshots were fired in the air causing the population to disperse; Muvunyi told the population that in the event of gunshots they needed to ensure where the gunfire was coming from so as to avoid running towards the attackers. Muvunyi told them that the RPF were on Kibayi's doorstep – they were already occupying some of the communes of Butare préfecture, namely, Muyira, Ntyazo and Muyaga.<sup>9805</sup>

3648. After Muvunyi, Nteziryayo took the floor.<sup>9806</sup> Nteziryayo attended the meeting in his capacity as colonel, not préfet.<sup>9807</sup> Nteziryayo did not introduce himself as préfet when he took the floor.<sup>9808</sup> Nteziryayo wore a khaki military uniform, he stated that Inkotanyi had changed strategy and they were now engaged in guerrilla warfare; he asked members of the population to take care of their own security and check on unknown people who were entering the commune's territory. He also said that the RPF had the habit of planting bombs or explosives in areas that were frequented by large numbers of people such as market squares, places of worship or bars, and, therefore, the population needed to avoid picking up any metal objects that they were unable to identify.<sup>9809</sup> Nteziryayo's speech concerned the building of the country and the safety of property and people; he did not utter any inciting words.<sup>9810</sup>

3649. Ruzindaza spoke next and said, “[y]ou are refusing to spill your blood for your nation and dogs can freely drink your blood.” After Ruzindaza's address, the bourgmestre closed the meeting because the dignitaries had to go for other meetings held elsewhere.<sup>9811</sup> None of the speakers during the meeting incited or called upon people to commit any act of violence.<sup>9812</sup>

3650. After the 24 May 1994 meeting, no further killings occurred in Kibayi commune.<sup>9813</sup> Tutsi people who had been in hiding were able to come out and go to the market place, and children were able to go back to school<sup>9814</sup> and the population was in a jubilant mood because they were no longer afraid.<sup>9815</sup> Peace and calm were restored, and this lasted until the witness fled on 18 July 1994.<sup>9816</sup>

3651. Contrary to the evidence of the Prosecution witnesses, roadblocks were not mounted after the meeting,<sup>9817</sup> and the meeting's purpose was not to incite people.<sup>9818</sup> Witness AND-64 disagreed with Witness QBU's testimony with respect to the start and end times of the meeting, the number of people who attended, the bourgmestre's introduction of Nteziryayo as préfet, as well as the content of Nteziryayo's speech – he did not use idiomatic expressions concerning the clearing of ashes or give instructions to kill Tutsi girls.<sup>9819</sup>

3652. Witness H1B6, a Hutu student in 1994, testified that he attended two meetings organised by préfecture authorities five or six days before the end of May 1994.<sup>9820</sup> The first meeting took place in Kibayi commune<sup>9821</sup> and the second was in Gikore secteur on the afternoon of the same day.<sup>9822</sup> The Kibayi meeting was part of a tour in the communes to restore security.<sup>9823</sup> Witness H1B6 did not deliberately go to Kibayi to take part in the meeting.<sup>9824</sup>

3653. Witness H1B6 left the Butare préfecture office on the morning of the meetings at around 9.30 a.m. and arrived at Kibayi's commune office around 10.00 a.m. or 10.30 a.m.<sup>9825</sup> The meeting started around half or one hour later.<sup>9826</sup> It took place on the football field near the commune office.<sup>9827</sup> There were about 200 attendants at the Kibayi meeting.<sup>9828</sup> Four speakers took the floor at that meeting, namely the Kibayi bourgmestre, Pierre Kajyambere, who welcomed the guests,<sup>9829</sup> Nteziryayo, Nsabimana, Ruzindaza and Colonel Muvunyi.<sup>9830</sup> Nsabimana told the attendants that there have been killings and that was unfortunate but that nobody should engage in revenge or reprisals. He also asked the population to be vigilant and be ready to fight the enemy, i.e. the RPF Inkotanyi.<sup>9831</sup>

3654. The second speaker was Nteziryayo.<sup>9832</sup> Nteziryayo attended the meeting in his capacity as a high ranking soldier in the commune in charge of policing at the Ministry of the Interior – he had come to assist to restore security in the préfecture.<sup>9833</sup> He said it was unfortunate that killings took place and that he himself lost some relatives. He invited the attendants to be courageous and advised them on how to avoid traps set by the Inkotanyi, namely they should hand over to authorities any new individual who arrived in the commune but not kill them and they should not get close to unusual equipment and suspicious metallic objects they had not seen before.<sup>9834</sup>

3655. Colonel Muvunyi dealt with military issues; he explained the guerrilla warfare in which the Inkotanyi were engaged and told the audience how to behave in case they heard shots fired. He advised them to lie on the ground and wait, and not to scatter all over and run towards the enemy.<sup>9835</sup>

3657. The last person to speak was the bourgmestre who brought the meeting to an end, after which the convoy headed to Gikore.<sup>9837</sup> The Kibayi meeting ended around 1.00 p.m. or 1.30 p.m. None of the speakers called on the population to kill Tutsis; rather, they said that the killings had come to an end and urged people to resume their activities. The population was calm and worried, and thereafter everybody went home.<sup>9838</sup>

3658. It is not disputed that (1) both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo made speeches during the swearing-in ceremony of the Ntyazo bourgmestre and (2) Nteziryayo spoke at meetings held in Kirarambogo, Muganza commune; Muyaga and Kibayi communes. The issue in contention is the content and the consequences of the speeches made by the Accused during these meetings.

3.6.34.4.1 Ntyazo Commune Meeting, 22 May 1994

3659. Prosecution Witness FAI, Defence Witness AND-75, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo all testified that they attended the swearing-in ceremony of Mathieu Ndahimana, bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune, on 22 May 1994. Witness FAI testified that the ceremony took place in the courtyard of a school in Nyakayaga, Buye secteur,<sup>9839</sup> while Witness AND-75, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo testified that it took place on a football pitch.<sup>9840</sup> In addition, Nsabimana's testimony differed from that of Witnesses FAI, AND-75 and Nteziryayo with respect to the length of the meeting and the attendees present.<sup>9841</sup> The Chamber does not consider these discrepancies to be important. The witnesses are consistent on the salient features of the meeting: that it was the swearing-in ceremony of Mathieu Ndahimana, that the meeting took place in the afternoon of 22 May 1994, that shelling could be heard during the ceremony and that both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo spoke at the meeting. The Chamber therefore finds that the witnesses testified to the same event.

3660. Witness FAI was the Prosecution's only witness to testify in respect of the swearing-in ceremony of the bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994. Witness FAI testified that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo spoke at the swearing-in ceremony asking those present at the meeting not to sleep and to be vigilant in order to fight the enemy and his accomplices, by which he meant the RPF and the Tutsis.<sup>9842</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FAI's testimony on this point is uncorroborated.

3661. The Chamber recalls that Witness FAI was a detained witness at the time of his testimony and therefore his testimony should be viewed with appropriate caution. Witness FAI pled guilty to genocide in Rwanda in 1997 and had not been sentenced at the time of his testimony.<sup>9843</sup> Witness FAI downplayed his role in the genocide before the Tribunal, stating that the accusations brought against him by the authorities related to associating with offenders, rather than his own participation.<sup>9844</sup> Furthermore, he may have an interest in attributing responsibility for acts he committed during the genocide as being authorised by the authorities and therefore officially sanctioned in order to potentially reduce his sentence. These aspects affect the credibility of this witness.

3662. The Chamber recalls that in his previous statement of 24 February 2000, Witness FAI stated that Nsabimana incited the inhabitants of Ntyazo to track down and kill any possible Tutsi survivors. Witness FAI denied that there was any difference between this statement and his testimony at trial that Nsabimana asked the population to remain vigilant and to combat the enemy and its accomplices.<sup>9845</sup> The Chamber takes the view that this is not a significant discrepancy between the two versions of Nsabimana's speech; the witness testified that he understood the language used by Nsabimana to mean that Tutsis should be killed.<sup>9846</sup>

3663. Witness FAI's testimony is contradicted by Witness AND-75 who testified that Nsabimana spoke at the meeting to condemn the killings.<sup>9847</sup> Nsabimana asked the population to be vigilant because they were living in an area that was close to the fighting and stated that if ever the Inkotanyi arrived in their area, they should flee.<sup>9848</sup> Witness AND-75 testified that Nteziryayo spoke about the fighting and infiltration tactics of RPF troops and warned them about landmines.<sup>9849</sup> Nteziryayo did not call for the massacre of Tutsis by labelling them accomplices (of the RPF).<sup>9850</sup> Witness AND-75 testified that those who attended the meeting felt reassured by the authorities.<sup>9851</sup>

3664. In light of the contradicting testimony of Witness AND-75, whose presence at the swearing-in ceremony of Mathieu Ndahimana was confirmed by Witness FAI, and the status of Witness FAI as accomplice,<sup>9852</sup> the Chamber finds it necessary to seek corroboration of Witness FAI's testimony in respect of this allegation. In the absence of any corroborating evidence brought by the Prosecution, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has not established beyond a reasonable doubt that Nsabimana and/or Nteziryayo told the population to fight the "enemy" and its "accomplices", meaning Tutsis, at the public swearing-in ceremony of the bourgmestre of Ntyazo commune on 22 May 1994.

3.6.34.4.2 Kirarambogo, Muganza Commune Meeting, 23 May 1994

3665. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of a single witness, Witness RV, in support of its allegation that Nteziryayo made an inciting speech during a meeting at Kirarambogo around 25 May 1994.<sup>9853</sup>

3666. The Chamber considers that because of his status as a detainee and also an accomplice, Witness RV may have had an incentive to implicate Nteziryayo or enhance Nteziryayo's role in the crimes in order to benefit from better treatment in connection with his own case, which was pending before the Rwandan judicial authorities when he testified in 2004.<sup>9854</sup> Consequently, his testimony will be treated with appropriate caution.

3667. Witness RV testified that, in his speech, Nteziryayo stated that he was responsible for instructing: (1) the population about how to use traditional weapons such as bows and arrows and spears; and (2) the youth to join the army. Nteziryayo also asked those who attended the meeting to exterminate all Tutsi accomplices.<sup>9855</sup> Witness RV further testified that after the meeting many people who survived previous massacres were killed, especially Tutsi women.<sup>9856</sup>

3668. The Chamber notes Witness RV's testimony to the effect that he took part in three meetings in Kirarambogo between April and June 1994.<sup>9857</sup> One of these meetings was chaired by Nteziryayo on around 25 May 1994 but he could not remember the exact date.<sup>9858</sup> The Chamber observes that Witness RV was a figure of authority at the time the meeting was alleged to have taken place. He affirmed that he convened and organised the meeting at issue.<sup>9859</sup> The Chamber thus considers that the ambiguity of his testimony as to the date of the meeting undermines his credibility.

3669. Nevertheless and in light of Witness RV's status as an accomplice witness as elaborated above, and in light of the credibility problems arising from his testimony, the Chamber finds it necessary to assess the existence of corroborating evidence with respect to this meeting. Noting the absence of any corroborating evidence brought by the Prosecution, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has not established beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at a public meeting in Kirarambogo, Muganza commune on 23 May 1994.

3.6.34.4.3 Muyaga Commune Meeting, Around Mid-June 1994

3670. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witnesses FAB and QBY. The Chamber notes that Witness QBY was a detainee at the time of his testimony and that he may have had a motive to implicate the Accused or enhance the Accused's role in the crimes. As a result, Witness QBY's testimony will be assessed with appropriate caution.

3671. The Chamber observes that Witness QBY's testimony corroborates that of Witness FAB in that Nteziryayo stood on a table while addressing the population during this meeting. Nteziryayo urged the audience to hunt down, flush out and kill Tutsis without any distinction.<sup>9860</sup> In addition, both witnesses testified that Nteziryayo used the words "lice" and "eggs" in his speech, which the witnesses understood to mean Tutsis and their offspring that needed to be killed.<sup>9861</sup> Ntakirutimana corroborated their understanding that proverbs referring to killing lice conveyed the idea that one needed to eliminate anything that disturbed one's life or situation.<sup>9862</sup> Witnesses FAB and QBY indicated that Nteziryayo made his speech after having been introduced as the new préfet of Butare.<sup>9863</sup> Both Witnesses QBY and FAB further testified that they attended the meeting from start to end and that after the meeting, killings of Tutsis occurred.<sup>9864</sup>

3672. Witness QBY placed the meeting around either 5 May 1994 or 5 June 1994 whereas Witness FAB referred to mid-June 1994.<sup>9865</sup> The Chamber considers that these are both estimates which do not automatically cast doubt on the witnesses' credibility, given the length of time that had elapsed since the event. The Chamber notes that Witnesses QBY and FAB are adamant that on the day of the meeting, Nteziryayo already held his position as préfet of Butare.<sup>9866</sup> Witness FAB even testified that the purpose of the meeting was to introduce Nteziryayo as the new préfet.<sup>9867</sup> Flowing from that, it appears that the meeting may have occurred on or after 21 June 1994, as Nteziryayo was appointed préfet of Butare on or around 17 June 1994, and his swearing-in ceremony took place on 21 June 1994.

3673. The Defence brought evidence regarding a meeting on 23 May 1994 in Mamba secteur, Muyaga commune, which contained similarities to the meeting testified to by Witnesses QBY and FAB.<sup>9868</sup> The Chamber does not exclude the possibility that this other meeting, as asserted by the Defence, actually occurred, however this evidence has no bearing upon the Chamber's assessment of the evidence related to the June 1994 meeting testified to by Witnesses QBY and FAB.

3674. The Chamber observes that there are discrepancies between the testimonies of Witnesses QBY and FAB with regard to the identity of the officials present at the meeting, the number of people who spoke and the order of the speeches made on that day.<sup>9869</sup> However, the Chamber finds that these discrepancies are minor and do not materially affect the credibility of the witnesses. The witnesses corroborated each other as to Nteziryayo's actions and words during the course of the meeting, and to the fact that killings of Tutsis occurred after the meeting. In the Chamber's view, the two witnesses provided specific and convincing evidence as elaborated above to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that during a meeting held in Muyaga commune around mid-June 1994, Nteziryayo incited people to kill Tutsis. The Chamber further finds this meeting was public and attended by the general population.<sup>9870</sup>

3.6.34.4.4 Kibayi Commune Meeting, Mid- to Late June 1994

3675. All of the witnesses testified to attending a meeting held at a football field next to the Kibayi commune office in 1994.<sup>9871</sup> Prosecution Witnesses FAK and QBU gave conflicting evidence as to whether the meeting in question occurred in May or June 1994. While the previous statement of Witness FAK said the meeting occurred in May 1994, he testified that it actually took place in early June and estimated around 18 or 19 June 1994.<sup>9872</sup> Similarly, Witness QBU testified about a meeting that occurred around the end of May or early June 1994.<sup>9873</sup>

morning of 19 June 1994,<sup>9881</sup> although Nteziryayo testified that the swearing-in ceremony took place on 21 June 1994.<sup>9882</sup> Having regard to the foregoing testimony, the Chamber is of the view that the meeting about which Witnesses FAK and QBU testified must have taken place after Nteziryayo assumed office as préfet.

3678. The Defence seeks to discredit the Prosecution witnesses not only on the basis that they confessed to committing crimes during the genocide and were detained together,<sup>9883</sup> but also because of the alleged inconsistency in their testimony, namely that Nteziryayo was préfet in May 1994 although he was not appointed to this post until the following month.<sup>9884</sup> In reply to the Prosecution's case, the Nteziryayo Defence led evidence from Nteziryayo as well as Defence Witnesses AND-11, AND-53, AND-64 and H1B6 about a meeting that occurred on 24 May 1994. Nteziryayo testified the meeting he attended at Kibayi was part of the tour of meetings that took place in Butare's southern communes between 22 and 26 May 1994, in accordance with the timetable agreed at the Security Council meeting of 20 May 1994.<sup>9885</sup>

3679. The Chamber considers the testimony of Nteziryayo and Witnesses AND-11, AND-53, AND-64 and H1B6 as to the meeting that occurred on 24 May 1994 to be mutually consistent. In particular, the testimonies were consistent with respect to such significant features as the arrival of the dignitaries at the meeting, the speakers who attended the meeting, the order in which they spoke, the purpose of the meeting and the content of the speakers' respective speeches. Most notably, Nteziryayo, as well as Defence Witnesses AND-11, AND-53, AND-64 and H1B6, all testified that Nsabimana chaired the meeting in his role as the préfet of Butare, while Nteziryayo attended in his capacity as a colonel.<sup>9886</sup>

3680. The Chamber is mindful that there are also some similarities common to both the Prosecution and the Defence's evidence. For example, all the witnesses testified that the meeting they attended occurred in the same venue, namely the football pitch next to the Kibayi commune office,<sup>9887</sup> at more or less approximately the same time, namely the morning;<sup>9888</sup> all the witnesses also testified to the presence of the Kibayi bourgmestre;<sup>9889</sup> with the exception of Prosecution Witness QBU and Defence Witness AND-11, all the witnesses testified about Colonel Muvunyi's speech and the firing of gunshots as a test for the population.<sup>9890</sup> However the Chamber considers these similarities are fortuitous. The Chamber considers that meetings held in the commune involving senior government figures would likely take place at or near the Kibayi commune office, and be attended by the Kibayi bourgmestre. As for the content of Colonel Muvunyi's speech, it is not unlikely that he gave the same or similar speeches on multiple occasions.

3681. The Chamber also notes the patent differences between the opposing parties' evidence. The most salient difference between the Prosecution and Defence evidence concerns Nteziryayo's alleged position at the time of the meeting; according to the Prosecution witnesses, Nteziryayo was préfet at the time of the meeting, whereas the Defence maintains Nsabimana was préfet. Noting that both Prosecution witnesses knew Nteziryayo during 1994<sup>9891</sup> and both positively identified Nteziryayo in court,<sup>9892</sup> the Chamber considers this significant discrepancy cannot be attributed to a case of misidentification. Additionally, while the Prosecution witnesses testify to the presence of only three speakers at the meeting, the Defence witnesses make reference to the attendance of other significant dignitaries, including, inter alia, Nsabimana and Ruzindaza.<sup>9893</sup>

3682. Having had regard to the totality of the evidence before it, the Chamber considers the evidence led by the parties refers to two different meetings.

3683. Even if the Chamber were to accept Nsabimana's testimony to the effect that there was a round of meetings held in the border communes between 22 and 26 May 1994, of which one meeting may have been held in Kibayi commune around 24 May 1994, the Chamber does not consider that the Prosecution relied on that meeting as part of its case against Nteziryayo. While the summary of anticipated evidence of Witness FAQ in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief showed that Witness FAQ would testify about a meeting held on 25 or 26 May 1994 at the Kibayi commune office, Witness FAQ did not ultimately testify at trial. The Prosecution did not lead other evidence as to a meeting held at or near the Kibayi commune office on or around 25 or 26 May 1994.

3684. The Chamber observes that Nteziryayo testified that the meeting on 24 May 1994 was the only meeting he attended in Kibayi commune between April and July 1994.<sup>9894</sup> Defence Witnesses AND-11 and AND-53 similarly testified that the meeting on 24 May 1994 was the only meeting that took place in Kibayi commune.<sup>9895</sup> In contrast, Prosecution Witness FAK testified that a series of meetings were held between April and July 1994 at the Kibayi commune office, only one of which Witness FAK attended since the others were only for authorities, and not the general population.<sup>9896</sup> Nsabimana also testified to an occasion where he visited Kibayi commune together with Nteziryayo, which Nteziryayo refuted.<sup>9897</sup> In the circumstances, while the Chamber considers that a meeting may have taken place on 24 May 1994, as the Defence contends, the Chamber finds a second meeting took place in Kibayi commune around mid to late June 1994 when Nteziryayo was préfet and which is the subject of present consideration. Accordingly, the Chamber considers that the evidence led by the Defence is not relevant.

3685. Having established that the Defence evidence does not rebut the Prosecution evidence with respect to the meeting at the Kibayi commune office where Nteziryayo was préfet, the Chamber will now consider the Prosecution evidence with respect to the allegation of incitement at the later Kibayi meeting.

3687. The Chamber accepts that while in detention, Prosecution Witnesses QBU and FAK did not attend the same Gacaca proceedings.<sup>9900</sup> They met briefly in prison but did not share a cell.<sup>9901</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber is satisfied that the witnesses did not discuss their experiences while detained together.

3688. The Chamber considers the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses FAK and QBU was mutually consistent. Both witnesses testified that the meeting was held at a football pitch located in front of the Kibayi commune office;<sup>9902</sup> Nteziryayo was either préfet or being introduced as préfet at that meeting.<sup>9903</sup>

3689. During this meeting, Nteziryayo made inflammatory statements calling upon the population to abduct and kill Tutsi women married to Hutus, as well as their Hutu husbands, if they refused to be separated from their wives.<sup>9904</sup> Nteziryayo further instructed the population to flush out Tutsi children from their grandparents' houses and kill them.<sup>9905</sup> Finally, both witnesses testified to the presence of the same speakers at the meeting (the Kibayi bourgmestre, Nteziryayo and Muvunyi<sup>9906</sup>) and to the ensuing killings following Nteziryayo's speech.<sup>9907</sup>

3691. Having regard to the detailed and consistent nature of the evidence of Witnesses FAK and QBU, both internally and vis-à-vis each other's evidence, the Chamber considers it established that Nteziryayo, in his capacity as préfet, attended a public meeting on a football pitch next to the Kibayi commune office in Nyabisigara cellule, Mukindo secteur, Kibayi commune, which was intended for the population of that commune<sup>9912</sup> and at which he incited the population to flush out and kill the remaining Tutsi survivors in the commune. As a result of this incitement, members of the population carried out searches and killed surviving Tutsis.

3.6.35 Megaphone Announcements and Directives, Late May and June 1994

3.6.35.1 Introduction

3692. The Kanyabashi Indictment and the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that from April to July 1994 prominent persons, including Nsabimana and Kanyabashi engaged in incitement to hatred and violence.<sup>9913</sup> Kanyabashi "not only called on, but aided and abetted

the population to slaughter Tutsi in Butare préfecture.<sup>9914</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment similarly alleges that Nsabimana “not only incited, but aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsi in Butare préfecture.”<sup>9915</sup>

3693. The Kanyabashi Indictment also alleges that on several occasions between 20 April and June 1994, notably in June 1994 near Butare town, Kanyabashi “encouraged and instructed soldiers and militiamen, and certain members of the civilian population, to search for the Tutsis who had escaped the massacres, in order to exterminate them.”<sup>9916</sup> Further, the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that in or around late May 1994, on at least one occasion, Kanyabashi drove through Butare town and used a megaphone to encourage the population to systematically search for the enemy as a result of which, immediately afterwards, more Tutsis were killed in Ngoma commune.<sup>9917</sup> During this period, the search for and elimination of Tutsis took place throughout Butare.<sup>9918</sup>

made to further the extermination of Tutsis.<sup>9927</sup> Nsabimana's role in the conspiracy to commit genocide was, inter alia, to convene and attend meetings to give effect to the plan.<sup>9928</sup> The Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Prosecution Witness FAC and Expert Witness Ntakirutimana.

3696. Further, the Prosecution submits that around late May 1994 and in mid-June 1994, Kanyabashi drove through Butare town and used a megaphone to incite the population to search for the "enemy", at a time when Tutsis were considered "enemies". Immediately after this announcement, searches were conducted under the guise of communal work. Tutsis who were hiding were flushed out and killed. The Prosecution contends that after Kanyabashi's megaphone announcement in June 1994, Tutsis who had been hiding in a mosque were killed.<sup>9929</sup> In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses QI, QJ and TK and Expert Witness Ntakirutimana.

3697. In addition to its submissions on the vagueness of Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that only circumstantial evidence supports the contention that Kanyabashi intended for Tutsis to be killed when he issued orders to clear bushes. Clearing bushes is not per se criminal conduct and could have been aimed at preventing the RPF from advancing.<sup>9930</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence submits that there is no conclusive evidence that Tutsis were found or killed as a result of the clearing operation carried out pursuant to Kanyabashi's 24 May 1994 Directive on umuganda.<sup>9931</sup> As concerns the subsequent cemetery meeting, the Kanyabashi Defence submits Kanyabashi was not present. The Kanyabashi Defence also submits the purpose of the bush-clearing was not to kill civilians, but to prevent the impending approach of the RPF. As such, no criminal consequence is alleged.<sup>9932</sup> Lastly, the Kanyabashi Defence challenges the credibility of Witness FAC who was a detainee and part of a group that fabricated false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>9933</sup> The Defence relies upon the testimony of Nsabimana.

3698. Further, the Kanyabashi Defence contends that Kanyabashi never incited the population with a megaphone, and submits that Prosecution Witnesses QJ, TK and QI's evidence on this allegation is vague, inconsistent and lacks credibility. The Defence submits that there is no conclusive evidence that Tutsis were killed as a result of the megaphone announcement.<sup>9934</sup>

3699. The Kanyabashi Defence also submits that Prosecution Witnesses QJ, QI and TK attended meetings of the Ibuka association where they were asked to falsely accuse Kanyabashi of using a megaphone from a moving vehicle to incite people to kill Tutsis.<sup>9935</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-14-W, 3700. Regarding Nsabimana, in addition to its submissions on the defective nature of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment with respect to this allegation, considered below, the Nsabimana Defence denies that Nsabimana was present at the cemetery meeting in question and submits Witness FAC's testimony is false.<sup>9937</sup> In support of these contentions, the Nsabimana Defence relies upon the testimony of Nsabimana.

Paragraphs 6.45 and 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment

3701. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleging that Kanyabashi instructed searches of Tutsis is impermissibly vague insofar as it fails to specify the material facts underpinning this allegation, such as an identifiable crime or specific incident, such that Kanyabashi was unable to prepare his defence.<sup>9938</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence also submits that Paragraph 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleging that Kanyabashi aided and abetted the killing of Tutsis throughout Butare préfecture is vague for failing to provide a specific time or location of any such incidents, failing to outline any specific actions of Kanyabashi's, and failing to identify any victims. The Kanyabashi Defence also argues that the meeting about which Prosecution Witness FAC testified is not mentioned in the Kanyabashi Indictment and that the Indictment is therefore defective.<sup>9939</sup>

3702. Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that between 20 April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers, militiamen and civilians to search for Tutsis in order to exterminate them. Although the time frame of "20 April to June 1994" is broad, the Chamber notes that the same paragraph alleges that these instructions were notably given on three specific occasions, including 21 April in Butare, in late April in Save and in June 1994 near Butare [town].<sup>9940</sup> Paragraph 6.58 states that between April and July 1994, Kanyabashi "not only called on, but aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsi in Butare préfecture."

3703. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution alleged at trial that Kanyabashi ordered umuganda or searches for Tutsis on 27 May 1994, in order to kill them.<sup>9941</sup> The Prosecution also alleged Kanyabashi gave orders sometime in June 1994 at a meeting held at the cemetery next to Butare University where authorities, including Kanyabashi, incited people to continue the searches, carry out patrols and set up roadblocks.<sup>9942</sup>

<sup>9936</sup> The Chamber notes that it has previously set out the evidence of Witness D-2-21-T as it relates to the alleged fabrication claim (). The Chamber will take this evidence into account in the Deliberations section.

3705. The Chamber has reviewed the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and its Appendix, and the Prosecution opening statement, neither of which make any reference to Kanyabashi's alleged orders or to the May 1994 Directive for umuganda to search for and kill Tutsis. The Chamber concludes that the defects in Paragraphs 6.45 and 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment were not cured with reference to the allegation that Kanyabashi ordered umuganda or searches for Tutsis on 27 May 1994, in order to kill them. As such, the Chamber declines to make a finding on the allegation concerning the issuance of a directive in May 1994 calling for umuganda. In any event, the Chamber considers that the evidence led by the Prosecution was not sufficient to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi ordered the population to kill Tutsis in late-May 1994.

3706. With reference to orders for searches given at a cemetery meeting in June 1994, Paragraph 6.45 refers to one event which occurred in June 1994 near Butare, when instructions were given. However, the Chamber considers the reference to both the time period and location is vague. While the Chamber is mindful that it is not always possible to provide a precise date, the reference also fails to adequately identify with any precision the location as to where Kanyabashi is alleged to have incited the population to commit genocide.<sup>9943</sup> Paragraph 6.58 similarly fails to provide any instances of aiding and abetting by Kanyabashi. The Chamber thus finds that Paragraphs 6.45 and 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment are defective for failing to provide Kanyabashi with adequate notice that he would be held responsible for issuing specific orders to the population at a cemetery meeting to search for Tutsis at particular locations within and around Butare town in June 1994. The Chamber will consider below whether the Indictment is cured of its defects.

Paragraphs 6.28, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment

3708. Paragraph 6.28 alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres at which the progress of the massacres and the means by which to complete them was discussed. Insofar as the cemetery meeting's participants are said to have been bourgmestres and in light of the alleged presence of, inter alia, Bourgmestre Kanyabashi at the cemetery meeting, the Chamber considers the June meeting in question can be characterised as a meeting among bourgmestres. However, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.28 only specifies one meeting, namely one convened by Nyiramasuhuko in April 1994, but fails to specify the number, dates or location of other alleged meetings. With respect to Paragraphs 6.32 and 6.53, the Chamber agrees these paragraphs are vague as they fail to provide any details of incidents upon which the Prosecution would rely.

3709. Insofar as Paragraphs 6.28, 6.32 and 6.53 do not refer to any meeting held in June 1994 in the cemetery next to Butare University, the Chamber finds these paragraphs of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment defective.

Curing of Indictment Defects

3710. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists one witness, Witness FAC, who was expected to testify with respect to both Kanyabashi's and Nsabimana's role at the meeting at the cemetery next to the University of Butare in June 1994. Witness FAC was expected to testify that Kanyabashi convened a rally held in the cemetery next to Butare University, and both Préfet Nsabimana and Bourgmestre Kanyabashi stated that any Hutus sheltering Tutsis should be eliminated. Following the meeting, the population killed many Tutsis and understood that they could kill with impunity.<sup>9947</sup>

3711. Witness FAC's statement of 23 February 2000 indicated that in early June 1994, he attended a rally held in the cemetery next to Butare University and convened by Kanyabashi, at which Préfet Nsabimana and Minister of Interior Kalimanzira were also present. Two thousand persons attended the rally which lasted about one and a half hours. Préfet Nsabimana said any Hutus that sheltered a Tutsi should be eliminated. Kanyabashi spoke along the same lines.<sup>9948</sup>

3712. The Chamber observes that Witness FAC's previous statement is consistent with the summary of his expected testimony contained in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief. Witness FAC's previous statement was disclosed to the Defence in December 2000, well before the commencement of Witness FAC's testimony in March 2004. The Chamber therefore finds that both Defence teams received sufficient notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence with respect to the allegation in support of Counts 1 and 4 of the Kanyabashi Indictment and the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment.

3713. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that the defect in Paragraphs 6.45 and 6.58 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, as well as Paragraphs 6.28, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, were cured by the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information and the Defence did not suffer prejudice in the preparation of its case.

3714. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, alleging that Kanyabashi incited the population of Butare town with a megaphone in or around late May 1994, is impermissibly vague insofar as it fails to specify a precise date or place for this incident, and does not identify a victim. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that, as such, Kanyabashi was unable to prepare his defence.<sup>9949</sup>

3715. Paragraph 5.8 alleges that from April to July 1994, prominent figures of authority propagated incitement to hatred and violence, that Kanyabashi and others publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis and their “accomplices”, and that in or around late May 1994, on at least one occasion, Kanyabashi drove through Butare town and used a megaphone to encourage the population to systematically search for the enemy as a result of which, immediately afterwards, more Tutsis were killed in Ngoma commune.<sup>9950</sup> The Chamber observes that the latter sentences in Paragraph 5.8 concerning the megaphone announcements identify the alleged perpetrator (Kanyabashi), the alleged crime (incitement), the location of this incident (Butare town), the approximate time of the allegation (on at least one occasion in or around late May 1994), and the means by which it was committed (by megaphone while driving through town). The Chamber finds that Paragraph 5.8 was sufficiently precise to provide notice to Kanyabashi of the Prosecution’s intention to lead evidence on this allegation with respect to an incident of incitement by megaphone occurring around late May 1994.

3716. Insofar as the Prosecution also relied upon Prosecution Witness QI, who testified about a megaphone announcement made by Kanyabashi in mid-June 1994,<sup>9951</sup> the Chamber observes that Paragraph 5.8 states that Kanyabashi incited the population with a megaphone from a vehicle “on at least one occasion”. As such, evidence led in support of this allegation may relate to more than one incident of incitement via megaphone in Butare town during the said period. The Chamber considers that evidence about a megaphone announcement by Kanyabashi in mid-June 1994 falls within the scope of Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.

3717. In respect of the instructions issued by megaphone in June 1994, the Chamber also notes that one of the three occasions identified in Paragraph 6.45 on which the Prosecution alleged Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed searches of Tutsis occurred in June 1994 near Butare [town].<sup>9952</sup> In addition to specifying an approximate period of time during which the alleged orders were given (in June 1994), Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment also identifies the alleged perpetrator (Kanyabashi), the alleged crime (ordering his subordinates to search for Tutsis in order to exterminate them), the identity of his alleged subordinates (soldiers, militiamen and members of the civilian population), and the location of Kanyabashi’s alleged instructions (Butare town). While the Prosecution could have employed precise legal terms to indicate the alleged criminal conduct, in the Chamber’s view, it is nevertheless clear that where Paragraph 6.45 refers to Kanyabashi instructing soldiers, militiamen and civilians to search for Tutsis, this sentence is alleging that Kanyabashi ordered these groups to search for Tutsis in order to exterminate them. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that Paragraph 6.45 was sufficiently precise to provide notice to Kanyabashi of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence in relation to an incident of incitement by megaphone occurring in June 1994.

3718. In any event, the Chamber notes the Kanyabashi Defence did not object to the testimony of Witness QI with respect to the megaphone incident of mid-June 1994 at trial.

Notice of Alleged Mosque Killings and the Killing of Tutsi Boys at the BPO

3719. Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that immediately after Kanyabashi's megaphone announcement in Butare town, more Tutsis were killed in Ngoma commune.<sup>9953</sup> The Prosecution relied on Witness QI in submitting that two watchmen were killed at a mosque following Kanyabashi's alleged announcement. The Prosecution also led evidence through Witness TK that after Kanyabashi's announcement soldiers found her and other Tutsis at the convent where they were seeking refuge, and took the Tutsi boys to the BPO where they were subsequently killed.<sup>9954</sup>

3720. Paragraph 5.8 does not indicate that the Prosecution would lead evidence on either the death of two particular individuals at a mosque or the taking of Tutsi men from the convent where Witness TK was hiding and their subsequent killing at the BPO following Kanyabashi's announcement, and is therefore defective. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will determine whether these defects were cured through the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information.

3722. The Chamber notes that the finding of Tutsis boys at a convent and their subsequent killing at the BPO was not mentioned in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, its Appendix or the Prosecution opening statement. Further, the summary of Witness TK's anticipated evidence makes no mention of Kanyabashi, and Witness TK was not listed as being brought in support of any counts against Kanyabashi. The taking of five boys from the convent and their subsequent disappearance were mentioned for the first time in Witness TK's statements of 14

3.6.35.3 Cemetery Meeting – Kanyabashi and Nsabimana, Late May to Early June 1994

3.6.35.3.1 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FAC

them peace had returned and gave instructions for them to lead people to the secteur office.<sup>9971</sup> After speaking to people, Kanyabashi left for Cyarwa-Sumo secteur.<sup>9972</sup>

3727. After hearing Kanyabashi's words, Witness FAC returned home to get the two Tutsis he was hiding, in order to bring them to the secteur office. A person at the secteur office took the two Tutsis and requested that the Interahamwe kill them.<sup>9973</sup> Responsibility for the death of the two Tutsis was a shared responsibility and Witness FAC was not trying to exculpate himself by blaming Kanyabashi.<sup>9974</sup> Witness FAC took the two Tutsis to the secteur office because Kanyabashi had said that peace had been restored and they were all convinced that the war was over.<sup>9975</sup> In cross-examination, Witness FAC said he had already taken the two Tutsis to the secteur office well before Kanyabashi's visit of 23 or 24 April, approximately four weeks before.<sup>9976</sup>

3728. Witness FAC testified that he saw Kanyabashi at the beginning of the month of June. Kanyabashi was passing through the road of Ntumba going towards the secteur office; he was with his driver, and he told the witness and his friends that the Tutsis should come out of hiding because the war was about to end.<sup>9977</sup> Kanyabashi asked the population to search the neighbouring woods. Kanyabashi said he had sought the assistance of the population of three other communes and asked them to go and meet them to help them search the neighbouring bushes or woods, in order to determine whether RPF soldiers had infiltrated or Tutsis had sought refuge therein.<sup>9978</sup> They were supposed to search to make sure no one was hiding nearby.<sup>9979</sup> Kanyabashi was accompanied by other authorities, namely Kalimanzira and Nsabimana. Kanyabashi asked whether Inkotanyi soldiers were hiding.<sup>9980</sup>

3729. On cross-examination, he stated that he arrived at the bar at 8.30 a.m. and Kanyabashi passed by two hours later.<sup>9981</sup> Kanyabashi slowed down and spoke from his vehicle: "The war is almost over. We are going to search in the woods surrounding the town to find out whether the Inkotanyi, that is RPF soldiers, have infiltrated their ranks or whether the Tutsi who had sought refuge therein." Kanyabashi added that he had convened the inhabitants of three communes and that they were going to search three sites and meet thereafter in the cemetery next to the University.<sup>9982</sup> Kanyabashi stayed only about one or two minutes and then hurried towards other secteurs.<sup>9983</sup>

with some friends.<sup>9985</sup> The woods were about 20 minutes away from his house.<sup>9986</sup> At about 10.00 a.m. everyone was in the woods and the searches had started.<sup>9987</sup> Witness FAC participated in the ensuing search operation. Witness FAC confirmed that he was referring to the exercise that took place on 27 May 1994, where inhabitants of several secteurs of his commune were called upon to clear bushes on the road leading to the National University.<sup>9988</sup> People from Shyanda, Huye and Mbazi communes also came to help them work; including people from Ngoma commune, people from four communes participated in the search in the bushes and woods. They also searched for Tutsis in caves, as they were determined to kill all of them.<sup>9989</sup>

3731. Witness FAC testified that they were unable to clear all the bushes; they began on the stretch of road between Curbhamatera and the laboratory, and were told to continue elsewhere, including rivers. They were told to flush people out of river banks.<sup>9990</sup> They searched Mukoni and the woods before it, as well as the woods called Arboretum, near the match factory and the hospital. The whole search lasted about two hours and then they all went to the cemetery.<sup>9991</sup>

3732. Witness FAC testified that they arrived at the cemetery between 10.30 and 11.30. a.m. The meeting took place in a broad space with no trees.<sup>9992</sup> There they met Kanyabashi and other authorities, namely Kalimanzira, Préfet Nsabimana and Colonel Nteziryayo.<sup>9993</sup> Approximately 2,000 people attended, including people from other communes.<sup>9994</sup> The authorities asked them if they had found any Tutsis or RPF soldiers and they answered that they had not found anything but three bodies. Then the authorities made speeches to thank those who participated in the search. Kalimanzira spoke first for about 10 to 15 minutes, then Nsabimana and Kanyabashi spoke.<sup>9995</sup>

decide against those people because when the RPF took over the country, they would tell their secrets.<sup>9998</sup> Nteziryayo did not speak.<sup>9999</sup>

3734. Witness FAC agreed that Rwanda was in a situation of war and was about to fall into the hands of the RPF at the time of this meeting but denied that the searches were conducted solely to counter the advance of the RPF and that there was a question of killing Tutsis.<sup>10000</sup> The searches were to ensure that there were no Tutsis in hiding who could return to attack Hutu children at a later date.<sup>10001</sup>

3736. Witness FAC identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>10010</sup> He had known Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of Ngoma since 1993 when the witness went to Butare to study with the “Brothers of Charity” and met Kanyabashi there. They prayed together and he considered Kanyabashi to be one of his friends.<sup>10011</sup>

3737. Witness FAC failed to identify Nsabimana in court, but instead pointed out Nteziryayo.<sup>10012</sup> The witness justified this by explaining that he did not see very well, a problem he had had since his childhood.<sup>10013</sup> Witness FAC testified that he did not know Nsabimana very well, having seen him only three times; he never met him again after the events.<sup>10014</sup> He described Nsabimana as a middle-aged man, not very fair in complexion, very tall with a broad chest and a scar on his forehead; he testified that Nsabimana was the préfet of Butare.<sup>10015</sup>

3738. When it was put to Witness FAC that neither his confession of 28 November 1999 nor his statement of 23 February 2000 mentioned a meeting with Kanyabashi at the bar before the cemetery meeting, he testified that his sighting was mentioned on the first page of his confession of 30 November 1999.<sup>10016</sup>

3739. Witness FAC was subsequently detained in Rwanda for the role he played in bringing two Tutsis to the secteur office where they were killed.<sup>10017</sup> According to Witness FAC, the Rwandan judicial system provides that whoever is present where killings are carried out is implicated in the crime. He was held responsible for conniving against the two people he took to the secteur office. Witness FAC testified that he did not personally kill anyone, but he was present during the killings. Witness FAC stated that he could not dissociate himself from the group of killers. He supported them.<sup>10018</sup>

3740. He conceded that he was in frail health, and had health problems subsequent to a car accident. When asked if he was sane, Witness FAC stated: “I cannot say that I am insane, but I cannot say that I am normal just like anybody else. All I can tell you is that I am narrating things to you that I experienced myself and things I saw myself.”<sup>10019</sup>

3741. Nsabimana denied the evidence of Witness FAC and testified that he never attended a meeting convened by Kanyabashi at the cemetery<sup>10020</sup> of the National University of Rwanda.<sup>10021</sup> Nsabimana referred to a Prosecution witness, whose pseudonym he could not recall, who testified to searches and “talked about something at the university cemetery”.<sup>10022</sup> Nsabimana went to see the director of Cabinet at that very cemetery and saw him quarrelling with the population that had just conducted searches in the Arboretum forest. Nsabimana did not stay there long. He did not take the floor, and left immediately.<sup>10023</sup>

Nteziryayo

3742. Nteziryayo denied he ever took part in a meeting at the cemetery located near the National University of Rwanda in Butare together with Kalimanzira, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana on 5 June 1994 or on any other time between April and July 1994, as alleged by Witness FAC.<sup>10024</sup>

3743. The issue in question is whether a meeting took place at the cemetery next to the University of Butare, at which Kanyabashi and Nsabimana incited the population to search for and kill Tutsis.

3744. Witness FAC testified that Kanyabashi passed by a bar he frequented in early June and informed the people it was necessary to search the woods surrounding the town for Inkotanyi infiltrators (RPF soldiers) or Tutsis who were hiding. Kanyabashi informed them he had convened the inhabitants of three communes and that they were going to search three sites and meet thereafter in the cemetery next to the University.<sup>10025</sup> Kanyabashi stayed only about one or two minutes before hurrying on to inform other secteurs.<sup>10026</sup> After carrying out searches in Mukoni, Arboretum and the surrounding woods near the match factory and the hospital for a period of about two hours, Witness FAC and his companions all went to the cemetery, where they arrived sometime between 10.30 a.m. and 11.30 a.m.<sup>10027</sup> There they met Kanyabashi, Kalimanzira, Préfet Nsabimana and Colonel Nteziryayo.<sup>10028</sup> Approximately 2,000 people attended, including people from other communes.<sup>10029</sup>

3746. Noting that the Director of Cabinet at the time was Kalimanzira, who Witness FAC also identified as being present at the meeting in the cemetery, and that both Nsabimana and Witness FAC referred to searches in Arboretum forest, the Chamber is of the view that Nsabimana's evidence on cross-examination is consistent with the account of Witness FAC as to the occurrence of a meeting in the cemetery next to Butare University. For this reason, the Chamber finds that Nsabimana's testimony that he never attended a meeting convened by Kanyabashi at the cemetery of Butare University is not credible.

3747. Witness FAC's evidence as to the purpose of the meeting and the speeches by Kanyabashi and Nsabimana makes clear that the security of the region was the major issue. The authorities advocated establishing patrols and roadblocks and searching for those still in hiding.<sup>10036</sup> While Witness FAC agreed Rwanda was in a situation of war and was about to fall into the hands of the RPF at the time of this meeting, he denied that the purpose of the searches was to counter the RPF advance.<sup>10037</sup> The searches were to ensure that there were no Tutsis in hiding who could return to attack Hutu children at a later date.<sup>10038</sup> After the meeting, the population went back to their hills and did as instructed by the authorities.<sup>10039</sup> They therefore began to arrest people at roadblocks<sup>10040</sup> and looting began, which lasted for two weeks.<sup>10041</sup>

3748. Witness FAC was the Prosecution's only witness to testify in respect of this meeting at the cemetery next to Butare University.<sup>10042</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FAC's testimony on this meeting is uncorroborated despite his evidence that 2,000 people purportedly attended the meeting in question.<sup>10043</sup> Witness FAC was a detained accomplice witness at the time of his testimony for the role he played in bringing two Tutsis to the secteur office, allegedly pursuant to Kanyabashi's orders, where they were killed.<sup>10044</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber agrees with the Kanyabashi Defence submissions that he may have had an incentive to testify against an Accused before this Tribunal to deflect his own potential liability and gain favour with Rwandan authorities.<sup>10045</sup> The Chamber considers it significant that Witness FAC acknowledged that the only manner for him to get out of prison was to admit a certain level of responsibility.<sup>10046</sup> Additionally, the Chamber observes that this witness acknowledged that he first denied responsibility for killing two people, but later confessed to the killings after four years of detention.<sup>10047</sup> Witness FAC said he confessed in part because he wanted to be pardoned.<sup>10048</sup> The Chamber will therefore consider Witness FAC's testimony with appropriate caution.

3749. The Chamber considers Witness FAC frequently confused his accounts of his two encounters with Kanyabashi, the first which occurred around 23 April 1994 when Kanyabashi came to the secteur asking the population to tell all the Tutsis in hiding to come out because peace had been restored,<sup>10049</sup> and the second which occurred in June on the morning of the meeting at the cemetery next to Butare University when Kanyabashi talked about searches.<sup>10050</sup>

3750. Witness FAC's testimony of both encounters otherwise bears several similarities: Witness FAC testified that both meetings were purportedly preceded by Kanyabashi passing by the witness' local bar in the morning at similar times.<sup>10051</sup> However, when it was put to Witness FAC that he did not mention a meeting with Kanyabashi at the bar before the cemetery meeting in either his confession of 28 November 1999 or his statement of 23 February 2000, Witness FAC answered that his sighting of Kanyabashi was mentioned on the first page of his confession of 30 November 1999.<sup>10052</sup> Having reviewed the witness' confession, the Chamber notes that Witness FAC mentions Kanyabashi stopping at the bar only before the first meeting in April, but there is no reference to the bar encounter prior to the second meeting in June.<sup>10053</sup>

3751. Further, on both occasions Kanyabashi convened a meeting for later the same day, he stayed only a few minutes at both encounters,<sup>10054</sup> and similar people appear to have been present at both meetings.<sup>10055</sup> With respect to this last point, the Chamber accepts Witness FAC's explanation that the same businessmen were always at the bar because the town was a small place.<sup>10056</sup>

3752. The Chamber further notes that the witness' account is also internally inconsistent. Witness FAC contradicted himself insofar as he first testified that Kanyabashi was with Nsabimana and Kalimanzira when he came by the bar in June,<sup>10057</sup> whereas he later testified that Kanyabashi was alone when he instructed people at the bar to participate in a clearing exercise and that he did not see any préfet.<sup>10058</sup> Further, Witness FAC stated he went to Arboretum forest on the same day he first met Kanyabashi at the bar,<sup>10059</sup> but later testified that they searched the woods after the second occasion that he met Kanyabashi at the bar.<sup>10060</sup> Witness FAC's inability to clearly differentiate between his encounters with Kanyabashi casts doubt on the veracity of his testimony. Further, while Witness FAC testified that Kanyabashi arrived at the bar at about 10.00 a.m. or 10.30 a.m. in his car with his driver,<sup>10061</sup> this also contradicts his later testimony that the second time he saw Kanyabashi, Kanyabashi came very early in the morning, at dawn.<sup>10062</sup> Moreover, this is inconsistent with his testimony that after Kanyabashi's departure, the witness returned home to fetch weapons at 8.30 a.m.,<sup>10063</sup> conducted searches which lasted two hours,<sup>10064</sup> and arrived at the cemetery sometime between 10.30 a.m. and 11.30 a.m.<sup>10065</sup> In light of the foregoing inconsistencies, the Chamber finds that Witness FAC is not credible with respect to his account of the meeting in June 1994.

3753. In light of the conflicting and often confused evidence of Witness FAC, and the lack of any corroborative testimony to support Witness FAC's account of what was said at the cemetery meeting in June 1994, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has not established beyond a reasonable doubt that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi instructed the population to search for and kill Tutsis in hiding at a meeting held in June 1994 at the cemetery next to Butare University in furtherance of a plan to exterminate Tutsis.

3.6.35.4 Megaphone Announcements – Kanyabashi, May and June 1994

3.6.35.4.1 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QJ

3754. Witness QJ, a Tutsi waiter in 1994,<sup>10066</sup> testified that in May 1994 he saw Kanyabashi at the Hotel Faucon roadblock.<sup>10067</sup> Kanyabashi was seated in the passenger seat of a Toyota pickup truck, between two individuals. On one side of Kanyabashi was the driver, and on the other side was someone holding a megaphone.<sup>10068</sup> Kanyabashi made announcements from the vehicle, using a megaphone, stating, “[t]he bourgmestre of Ngoma commune is informing people of Ngoma that the enemies are among us and you are requested to seek them everywhere.”<sup>10069</sup> This announcement was repeated several times.<sup>10070</sup> Witness QJ testified that when Kanyabashi used the word “enemy”, it meant Tutsis.<sup>10071</sup>

3755. Witness QJ saw Kanyabashi make this announcement on two occasions.<sup>10072</sup> He later stated that he saw Kanyabashi make this announcement himself once.<sup>10073</sup> Witness QJ identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>10074</sup> Similar announcements from a vehicle were made elsewhere by people other than Kanyabashi. These announcements were made very frequently.<sup>10075</sup> As a result of this announcement, searches were carried out in the bush around the city and in various houses.<sup>10076</sup> The search was called umuganda, or communal work.<sup>10077</sup> This “work” entailed seeking out people in hiding.<sup>10078</sup> Among the people conducting the search were people carrying whistles and others carrying guns, which they would fire in the air

3756. Witness QJ was married to Witness TK.<sup>10080</sup> Witness QJ stated that they did not discuss the events of April to July 1994.<sup>10081</sup> He testified that he did not know of his wife's plans to testify before this Tribunal.<sup>10082</sup>

Prosecution Witness TK

3757. Witness TK, a Tutsi teacher,<sup>10083</sup> testified that after the death of President Habyarimana she fled with her family to Butare town where they hid in a convent, in a storage room.<sup>10084</sup> The place they hid was in the middle of town.<sup>10085</sup> She hid with over 10 other Tutsis beneath a pile of wood.<sup>10086</sup> She was separated from a nearby road by a wall and buildings.<sup>10087</sup> At the end of May 1994, while hiding, she heard an announcement by someone in a vehicle.<sup>10088</sup> The announcement was made with a megaphone.<sup>10089</sup> The speaker was not Kanyabashi, but a messenger.<sup>10090</sup> The message delivered was that the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune wished to inform the population that the enemy was still among them, the enemy was hiding in their midst, and they had to find the enemy wherever they were hiding.<sup>10091</sup>

rifles. They forced the young men to kneel, tied them up and beat them.<sup>10099</sup> The soldiers locked up the members of the group, and stated that they would bring Interahamwe to kill them that evening. However, the next morning the soldiers took them to the préfecture, where the young men were killed.<sup>10100</sup>

3759. In 1995, Witness TK married Witness QJ. Witness TK testified that they did not discuss the events that took place between April to July 1994.<sup>10101</sup> Witness TK stated that her husband never told her that he testified before this Tribunal in 2001. She told her husband that she was going to Arusha, but did not tell him that she was going to Arusha as a witness in this case.<sup>10102</sup>

Prosecution Witness QI

bushes.<sup>10115</sup> Kanyabashi stated that everybody should die, including children, old men and women. Kanyabashi stated that Kagame ran away when he was a child, and then returned in 1994 to attack the country.<sup>10116</sup> Witness QI identified Kanyabashi by his voice, since Kanyabashi used a megaphone, and by sight.<sup>10117</sup> The distance between Witness QI's hiding place and Kanyabashi was about 200 metres.<sup>10118</sup>

3762. Witness QI stated that there is a difference between an announcement to clear the bush and an announcement stating that people should be killed.<sup>10119</sup> On cross-examination, Witness QI testified that he saw Kanyabashi making announcements from his vehicle on two different occasions.<sup>10120</sup>

3763. Witness QI testified that Kanyabashi's instructions were carried out the next day.<sup>10121</sup> Everything that was said about flushing people out was implemented near the house, and so he saw the orders being implemented.<sup>10122</sup> Witness QI testified that he saw people clearing the woods, hacking those caught hiding with machetes, and throwing grenades into the bushes to flush out people who were hiding in them.<sup>10123</sup> The killers were Hutus and they were looking for Tutsis.<sup>10124</sup> In cross-examination Witness QI testified that he learned after the event about grenades being thrown at those in hiding.<sup>10125</sup>

3764. Witness QI testified that attackers and soldiers looked for people in the valley and in a nearby cemetery.<sup>10126</sup> Attackers killed people who had spent the night in a nearby mosque. While clearing the bushes, attackers found two elderly watchmen who worked at the mosque and took them away.<sup>10127</sup> Witness QI stated that he personally witnessed what happened at the mosque because it was opposite his hiding place.<sup>10128</sup> Approximately 100 metres separated the house where Witness QI was hiding and the mosque.<sup>10129</sup>

3765. Witness QI conceded that he relied on someone to tell him whether it was safe to leave the hiding place or whether there were killers outside, because he did not have a clear sight of what was happening outside.<sup>10130</sup> Witness QI did not hear megaphones mentioned at any of the trials he attended.<sup>10131</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAM

3766. Witness FAM, a Hutu and detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>10132</sup> testified that in April 1994 he saw Kanyabashi in a white vehicle, from which a message was broadcast by megaphone. A man on board the vehicle made an announcement in the name of Bourgmestre Kanyabashi.<sup>10133</sup> As a result of the announcement, some Tutsis came out of hiding.<sup>10134</sup>

Prosecution Witness QP

3767. Witness QP, a 15-year-old Tutsi in 1994,<sup>10135</sup> testified that Kanyabashi was the bourgmestre of her commune, and that she would see him when he came for meetings.<sup>10136</sup> Witness QP stated that on a Thursday in April 1994 at about noon, she was at her home when she heard an announcement being broadcast by megaphone. She went to the road in order to hear the message clearly, and saw Kanyabashi inside a moving vehicle. A man in green uniform drove the car.<sup>10137</sup> Kanyabashi was speaking into a microphone and repeated three times, “[h]e who will burn the weeds must first gather them.”<sup>10138</sup> Witness QP was about 30 metres away from Kanyabashi at that time.<sup>10139</sup> After approximately 15 minutes, the vehicle transporting Kanyabashi and his companion returned, this time in the opposite direction. Kanyabashi was still using the megaphone, repeating, “[t]hose that should kill the weeds shall first of all assemble them.”<sup>10140</sup> Witness QP went home and asked her father what those words meant. Her father explained that Tutsis were to be killed.<sup>10141</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Évariste Ntakirutimana

3768. Évariste Ntakirutimana testified as an expert in the fields of social linguistics, discourse analysis, lexicology, semantics and language planning.<sup>10142</sup> Ntakirutimana’s Expert Report, tendered as Prosecution Exhibit 158, analyses the use of numerous proverbs and phrases in Rwanda during the events in 1994.<sup>10143</sup>

attacking group.<sup>10146</sup> Ntakirutimana declined to identify “Tutsis” as the enemy but admitted that generally speaking one could deduce that the Hutus were attacked and the Tutsis were the attackers.<sup>10147</sup> In his Report, Ntakirutimana reported that in daily Rwandan culture the “enemy” was understood to be Tutsis,<sup>10148</sup> and outlined numerous examples of its usage during the conflict and proverbs referring to “the enemy”.<sup>10149</sup>

3770. Ntakirutimana testified that gukora has several meanings in Kinyarwanda, including to do something bad, to work arduously and thank you.<sup>10150</sup> In his Report, Ntakirutimana wrote that “gukora” was synonymous with to work, to kill, to remove, to clean, communal work, umuganda, finish the job, rape, take away.<sup>10151</sup> To work could be going to destroy someone’s house, or to raid and steal from someone.<sup>10152</sup> In the context of the 1994 conflict, “to work” meant “to kill”. You must work with a weapon, and what you do with the weapon is quite clear. If you do work, you will get the Tutsi land.<sup>10153</sup> The operation to eliminate the enemy or the snake was a euphemism for “work”.<sup>10154</sup>

3771. Ntakirutimana testified that the original concept of umuganda in the countryside meant assisting somebody or lending a helping hand in a building project for example. In the Second Republic, umuganda referred to communal work for the purposes of development where all people were expected to make their contribution to developing Rwanda. In the context of 1994 however, the concept of assisting or lending a helping hand was an invitation for everyone to take part in the war.<sup>10155</sup> In his Report Ntakirutimana wrote that the term “umuganda” in the context of 1990 to 1994 meant mobilising the Hutu majority for the need of the cause.<sup>10156</sup>

3772. Ntakirutimana explained that couch grass are weeds that invade farms quickly and are difficult to destroy.<sup>10157</sup> Since weeds always come after the good grain has been planted, such proverbs recall the relationship between good and bad.<sup>10158</sup> Speakers employing proverbs which refer to couch grass or weeds bridged the communication gap with peasants since such metaphors put the peasant in his daily context; peasants directly understood they had to fight the couch grass with all means at their disposal and that such weeds must be cast aside.<sup>10159</sup>

3773. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>10160</sup> testified that he never heard Kanyabashi broadcast messages by megaphone.<sup>10161</sup> Witness D-2-5-I named three drivers of Ngoma commune, and stated that one of these drivers, Shinani, often used a loudspeaker or megaphone to broadcast messages in the commune.<sup>10162</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

3774. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>10163</sup> testified that between April and July 1994 he resided 50 metres from a road that ran from Butare town to Tumba secteur. There was a nun's residence between his house and that road.<sup>10164</sup> From his house, he would be able to hear a message delivered via megaphone from a vehicle on the road. Anyone at his house at the time could clearly hear the voices of people on the road, and someone standing in his house could clearly see what was happening on the road.<sup>10165</sup>

3775. Witness D-2-YYYY testified that between April and July 1994, Kanyabashi drove himself.<sup>10166</sup> During this period, Witness D-2-YYYY saw Kanyabashi driving himself on several occasions.<sup>10167</sup> Between April and July 1994 he did not hear any message being broadcast using a megaphone from a vehicle on that road.<sup>10168</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY stated that prior to 6 April 1994, when there was an urgent message for the population of Ngoma commune, the university public address system was placed on a vehicle and commune staff would drive around the secteurs of Ngoma commune, transmitting the message.<sup>10169</sup> Between January and July 1994, Mathias Nsanzabahizi and Cyrille were drivers for Ngoma commune.<sup>10170</sup> At some point, the latter went into hiding.<sup>10171</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY testified that after 6 April 1994, the system for conveying messages from the commune to the population changed; vehicles were no longer used to carry messages.<sup>10172</sup> publicly broadcast would have come to his attention. If an announcement had been made he would have learned of it. At that time people shared information easily, so news circulated rapidly within the population. Between April and July 1994 Witness D-2-14-W never heard Kanyabashi ask the population to commit criminal acts, nor did he subsequently learn of Kanyabashi doing so.<sup>10175</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-O

3777. Witness D-2-13-O, a Hutu driver,<sup>10176</sup> testified that he never heard Kanyabashi speaking with a megaphone nor did he ever hear that Kanyabashi used a megaphone to address the population.<sup>10177</sup> Witness D-2-13-O's village was not far from Butare town.<sup>10178</sup> If such a message had been spread using a megaphone, he would have heard it.<sup>10179</sup> Witness D-2-13-O stated that before the war a préfecture vehicle would go around town announcing that there was community labour. That vehicle did not travel around town delivering that message during the war.<sup>10180</sup> Witness D-2-13-O underscored that Kanyabashi had a Tutsi wife, and several people who knew Kanyabashi said that he was an accomplice. In Witness D-2-13-O's opinion, the same Kanyabashi who assisted many Tutsis could not have asked members of the population to kill Tutsis.<sup>10181</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WKKTD

3778. Witness WKKTD, a Hutu teacher who resided in Ngoma secteur, Ngoma commune,<sup>10182</sup> testified that between April and June 1994 he did not see or hear of anyone moving around town broadcasting messages with a megaphone.<sup>10183</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL

3779. Witness WMKL, a Hutu teacher,<sup>10184</sup> testified that in 1994 he did not hear any messages being broadcast by megaphone in Butare town.<sup>10185</sup> From April to July 1994 he did not hear messages from Kanyabashi being disseminated with a megaphone.<sup>10186</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-17

3780. Witness AND-17, a Hutu gardener,<sup>10187</sup> worked at the same business establishment as Witness QJ from April to July 1994.<sup>10188</sup> Witness AND-17 testified that Witness QJ could not

Fellow workers at the hotel also viewed Witness QJ as a Hutu. They did not know that Witness QJ was a Tutsi.<sup>10191</sup>

3781. Witness AND-17 testified that from the room occupied by Witness QJ, he would not have been able to see what was happening on the main road<sup>10192</sup> and that apart from when he left the business premises to visit his parents in April 1994, he was with Witness QJ every minute of the day between April and June 1994.<sup>10193</sup> Witness AND-17 testified that he visited Witness QJ's room for a daily beer and cigarette. After approximately 30 minutes Witness AND-17 would return to his place of work within the business' premises.<sup>10194</sup> Witness AND-17 testified that between April and June 1994, Witness QJ would go for walks, alone, in the garden in front of his room.<sup>10195</sup> Witness QJ was not obliged to tell Witness AND-17 about his movements.<sup>10196</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-21-B

3784. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu detainee who pled guilty to participating in attacks at Kabakobwa,<sup>10204</sup> testified that he knew of three vehicles that belonged to the commune office in 1994: a white station wagon which he saw Kanyabashi driving, a green Toyota which he saw Nsanzabahizi driving, and a truck. He saw these vehicles in circulation before the war.<sup>10205</sup>

3785. Witness D-2-17-I, a Hutu who worked at a convent in Ngoma commune from April to July 1994,<sup>10206</sup> testified that while he was at the convent, between 7 April and July 1994, he never heard any message from Kanyabashi saying that the enemy was hiding among the population and that they should look for the enemy everywhere.<sup>10207</sup> During this period he left the convent to return to his home on four occasions.<sup>10208</sup>

3786. Witness D-2-17-I testified that approximately 13 people hid at the convent under stacks of wood. These people were discovered and removed by soldiers around May 1994. Around four soldiers arrived at the convent at about 1.00 p.m. and asked that pieces of wood be removed to ensure that there was no one hiding beneath. The soldiers removed the wood and those found hiding there were “flushed out”. The soldiers asked the people who had been discovered to show their identity cards, and subsequently evacuated them.<sup>10209</sup>

3787. Witness D-13-D, a Hutu who resided in Huye commune from April to July 1994,<sup>10210</sup> testified that at no point while he was in Butare town did he hear megaphone messages from Kanyabashi, asking the population to carry out community work. He never heard other members of the population discuss any such message.<sup>10211</sup> Before April 1994 he never heard of a megaphone being used to make announcements in Ngoma commune. He stated that if someone used a megaphone to make an announcement in Ngoma commune, and he was in Huye commune where he lived, he would not have been able to hear it.<sup>10212</sup>

3788. Witness D-13-D testified that he was detained at the Huye commune jail for three months and after that, he was held at Rwandex prison.<sup>10213</sup> While he was detained, members of an association called Ibuka tried to incite him to give false evidence against three individuals, including Kanyabashi.<sup>10214</sup> Witness D-13-D stated he was tried and acquitted, but not released. He was asked to implicate these three people as a precondition for his release.<sup>10215</sup> He testified that he was also a victim of this group. His cousins, who were members of Ibuka, told him what was discussed at their meetings, including plans to put him in prison. He contended that he was imprisoned although he never participated in killings.<sup>10216</sup> Witness D-13-D testified that while he was in prison, during the course of Gacaca proceedings, he learned that two women, who were influential Ibuka members, falsely accused many people who they did not know.<sup>10217</sup> Witness D-13-D stated, regarding one of these women in particular that as long as you had a broad nose it was sufficient to implicate you.<sup>10218</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Expert Witness Eugène Shimamungu

3789. In his Expert Report and at trial Eugène Shimamungu opined that Inyenzi was a nom de guerre coined by one Alloys Ndurumbe, the leader of a Tutsi incursion group which sought to destabilise the Rwandan government in the 1960s.<sup>10219</sup> His Report claimed that it was surprising to hear sensation seekers claim that this term was used to denigrate Tutsis.<sup>10220</sup> At trial Shimamungu testified that this word was used throughout the 1960s in Rwanda to identify all Tutsi incursions into Rwanda, and the term reappeared in the 1990s because the conflicts were led by people who had the same claims as those in the 1960s.<sup>10221</sup> Shimamungu denied that the term was used historically by those who did not like Rwandan Tutsis.<sup>10222</sup>

3790. Shimamungu testified that the word Inkotanyi, dating from the 19th century, was revived by the RPF in 1990 who became known as the RPF-Inkotanyi and occasionally, Inyenzi-Inkotanyi. The word Inkotanyi meant die-hard combatant and its Kinyarwanda root word, jukota, meant “to devour” and thus also carried an extreme meaning so that if a group is so called, it is feared.<sup>10223</sup>

3791. In the context of Sindikubwabo’s speech, Shimamungu opined that people identified as belonging to “enemy circles” included social groups from which members of the RPF were enlisted and recruited: mainly Tutsi refugees who are members of the NRA; Tutsis within the country; Hutus dissatisfied with the current regime; the unemployed within Rwanda and abroad; foreigners married to Tutsi women; Nilo-Hamitic tribes in the region and criminals at large.<sup>10224</sup>

3792. The Chamber will consider two issues: (1) whether Kanyabashi drove through Butare town with a megaphone around late May 1994 and in mid-June 1994, inciting the population to search for the enemy; and (2) whether Tutsis were killed immediately after Kanyabashi's megaphone announcements.

3793. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber notes that the Defence asserts that Prosecution Witnesses QI, TK and QJ were Ibuka members who were induced to falsely testify as to this allegation against Kanyabashi. For the reasons set out elsewhere in this Judgement, the Chamber finds that the testimony of Defence Witnesses D-2-21-T, D-13-D and D-2-18-O as to the alleged Ibuka membership of Witnesses QI, TK and QJ does not undermine the credibility of these Prosecution witnesses ().

3.6.35.4.2.1 Megaphone Announcement in Butare Town, Late May 1994

3794. The Prosecution adduced evidence from Witnesses QJ and TK in support of the allegation that around late May 1994, Kanyabashi drove through Butare town and used a megaphone to incite the population to search for the enemy.

3795. The Chamber recalls that Witness QJ testified that he is married to Witness TK, which was confirmed by Witness TK.<sup>10225</sup> Both witnesses also testified that they had never discussed the events of April to July 1994 together, and did not know of each other's plans to testify before this Tribunal.<sup>10226</sup> The Chamber recalls its previous finding that while it does not believe that these witnesses never discussed the events at issue in this case, or their plans to testify before this Tribunal, this alone does not undermine Witness TK or Witness QJ's credibility ().

3796. Witness QJ testified that in May 1994 he saw Kanyabashi make an announcement from a Toyota pickup, at the Hotel Faucon roadblock.<sup>10227</sup> Witness QJ recounted that Kanyabashi stated, "[t]he bourgmestre of Ngoma commune is informing people of Ngoma that the enemies are among us and you are requested to seek them everywhere."<sup>10228</sup> Witness QJ testified that as used by Kanyabashi, the word "enemy" meant Tutsis.<sup>10229</sup> Similar announcements were made very frequently, including by people other than Kanyabashi,<sup>10230</sup> and on one occasion in May 1994 Witness QJ saw Kanyabashi make this announcement himself.<sup>10231</sup> Witness QJ's testimony that Kanyabashi was in a Toyota pickup is corroborated by Witness D-2-13-D's testimony that the Ngoma commune office owned such a vehicle.<sup>10232</sup>

3799. The credibility of Witness AND-17's testimony is further undermined by the fact that he made several implausible statements under oath. He testified that between 7 April 1994 and the end of June 1994, he never heard of roadblocks in Butare town, he never heard that people had to show identity cards at roadblocks, and that when he travelled to and from the hotel during this period he did not see any dead bodies anywhere.<sup>10243</sup> The Chamber finds Witness AND-17's testimony regarding Witness QJ's account of Kanyabashi's megaphone announcement to be neither credible, nor reliable. As such, Witness AND-17's testimony does not affect the Chamber's assessment of Witness QJ's testimony on this issue.

3800. Turning to Witness QJ's identification of Kanyabashi, the Chamber notes Witness QJ testified that he knew Kanyabashi because Kanyabashi was a senior public official in Ngoma commune where the witness was living in 1994.<sup>10244</sup> Witness QJ testified that Kanyabashi lived nearby and typically drove past the hotel.<sup>10245</sup> Further, Witness QJ saw Kanyabashi several times driving around the city in his own car, on which occasions Kanyabashi was obliged to stop at the roadblocks.<sup>10246</sup> Witness QJ also frequently saw Kanyabashi stop to speak to those manning the roadblock at the Hotel Faucon.<sup>10247</sup> Lastly, Witness QJ had previously seen Kanyabashi attend a meeting at the MRND Palace in Butare sometime between 17 and 21 April 1994.<sup>10248</sup> In light of the number of occasions on which Witness QJ had previously seen Kanyabashi, and Witness QJ's positive identification of Kanyabashi in court,<sup>10249</sup> the Chamber is persuaded that Witness QJ's identification of Kanyabashi at the Hotel Faucon roadblock in May 1994 was reliable.

3801. The Kanyabashi Defence also points to an apparent inconsistency in Witness QJ's account of Kanyabashi's megaphone announcement.<sup>10250</sup> Witness QJ initially testified that he saw Kanyabashi make the megaphone announcement himself, at the Hotel Faucon roadblock, on two occasions.<sup>10251</sup> Witness QJ then said he witnessed Kanyabashi make this announcement himself on only one occasion, in May 1994.<sup>10252</sup> The Chamber does not consider this to be a significant discrepancy, particularly when viewed in the context of the passage of time between the events at issue and Witness QJ's testimony. The Chamber notes that Witness QJ's testimony was clear that the message was repeatedly broadcast around Butare town, and on at least one occasion in late May 1994, he saw Kanyabashi make this announcement at the Hotel Faucon roadblock.

3802. Witness QJ's eyewitness testimony was corroborated in part by Witness TK's testimony. Witness TK testified that at the end of May 1994 while she was in hiding in a convent in Butare she heard a vehicle drive past, broadcasting an announcement with a megaphone.<sup>10253</sup> The message delivered was that the Ngoma bourgmestre wished to inform the population that the enemy was still among them, the enemy was hiding in their midst, and they had to find the enemy.<sup>10254</sup> She testified that she heard this message when she was hiding beneath a stack of wood in a storage room.<sup>10255</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness TK's testimony indicates that she was not in a position to see and identify the speaker. However, her testimony supports Witness QJ's account with regard to the content of the message, the method by which it was disseminated, and the approximate time and place of the announcement.

3803. Witness TK testified that the voice she heard disseminating the announcement<sup>10256</sup> was not Kanyabashi's voice.<sup>10257</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence points to this testimony as an inconsistency between the testimonies of Witnesses QJ and TK.<sup>10258</sup> The Chamber recalls that the wording of this allegation in Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment potentially incriminates Kanyabashi in more than one incident of this nature in Butare town, stating that Kanyabashi incited the population with a megaphone from a vehicle "on at least one occasion" within the period at issue.<sup>10259</sup>

3804. The Chamber recalls Witness QJ testified that announcements from a vehicle were made by people other than Kanyabashi.<sup>10260</sup> Furthermore, Witness QJ testified that these announcements were repeated frequently.<sup>10261</sup> In the Chamber's view, although testifying about similar announcements during the same period in question, Witnesses TK and QJ are not testifying about one and the same announcement by Kanyabashi in mid-May 1994. Nevertheless, the Chamber considers that various details given by Witness TK, such as the manner in which the announcements were made and the content of the announcements, corroborates the testimony of Witness QJ.

3805. The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-17-I to submit that Witness TK could not have heard this megaphone announcement in late May 1994.<sup>10262</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY testified that between April and July 1994 he resided 50 metres from a road that ran from Butare town to Tumba secteur, close to the convent where Witness TK hid.<sup>10263</sup> He stated that from his house, he would have been able to see and hear any message delivered via megaphone from a vehicle on that road,<sup>10264</sup> and did not hear any such message during this period.<sup>10265</sup> Witness D-2-17-I testified that he worked at the same convent where Witness TK hid from April through May 1994, but never heard any message from Kanyabashi saying that they should look for the enemy.<sup>10266</sup>

3806. Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-17-I's testimony does not contradict Witness TK's evidence, as neither was continuously present at the convent during Witness TK's stay there. Taking into account Witness D-2-YYYY's profession at the time,<sup>10267</sup> the Chamber considers

he would have been away from his home during this period. Witness D-2-17-I testified that during this period, he left the convent to return to his home on four occasions.<sup>10268</sup>

3807. The Chamber notes that Witness D-2-17-I actually corroborated Witness TK's evidence in several key respects. Witness TK testified that in April 1994 she went into hiding in a storage room at a convent,<sup>10269</sup> and that she hid with over 10 other Tutsis beneath a pile of wood.<sup>10270</sup> She stated that they were discovered by soldiers on a date between the end of May 1994 and the beginning of June 1994, and the soldiers took them to the BPO.<sup>10271</sup> Witness D-2-17-I testified that approximately 13 people hid at the convent under stacks of wood, and these people were discovered and removed by soldiers around May 1994.<sup>10272</sup>

3808. Having considered all of the available evidence, the Chamber considers Witness TK's testimony on the announcement she heard in late May 1994 to be credible and convincing.

3809. The Defence presented eight witnesses who testified that they never heard Kanyabashi make a megaphone announcement from a moving vehicle, and did not subsequently hear about such an announcement. The Chamber considers the testimony of Witnesses D-2-17-I, D-2-YYYY, D-2-5-I, D-2-14-W, D-2-13-O, D-13-D, WKKTD and WMKL on the megaphone announcement in Butare town in late May 1994 to be of limited weight because the Kanyabashi Defence did not establish that any of these Defence witnesses were continuously present in Butare town throughout late May 1994. Notably, Witness D-13-D testified that if he was at his home in Huye commune, he would not have been able to hear a megaphone announcement in Ngoma commune.<sup>10273</sup> Witness D-2-13-O's testimony does not indicate that he was actually in Butare town in late May 1994; this witness claimed that if such a message had been spread using a megaphone in Butare town, he would have heard about it,<sup>10274</sup> because he resided in a village that was not far from Butare town.<sup>10275</sup>

3810. Furthermore, five of these eight Defence witnesses were closely connected to Kanyabashi in 1994, and as such, may have had an interest in defending him. Witnesses D-2-5-I,<sup>10276</sup> D-2-YYYY<sup>10277</sup> and D-2-14-W<sup>10278</sup> had close professional ties to Kanyabashi, and Witnesses D-13-D<sup>10279</sup> and D-2-13-O<sup>10280</sup> testified to close personal ties with Kanyabashi.

3811. The testimony of Witness QJ is further corroborated by evidence which established that during the period from April through June 1994 megaphone announcements from a moving vehicle were part of the method by which Ngoma commune messages were disseminated to the population. As noted, Witness D-2-5-I, a former civil servant in Ngoma, testified that messages were often broadcast in Ngoma commune by a driver using a loudspeaker or megaphone.<sup>10281</sup> Witness D-2-13-O testified that a préfecture vehicle would go around town announcing community labour.<sup>10282</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY testified that, prior to 6 April 1994, urgent messages for the population of Ngoma commune were transmitted by placing the university public address system on a vehicle, and commune staff drove around the secteurs of the commune relaying the message.<sup>10283</sup> Witnesses D-2-13-O and D-2-YYYY both stated that this practice of transmitting préfecture messages stopped in April 1994, without offering an explanation as to why.<sup>10284</sup> In the absence of such an explanation, the Chamber is not persuaded that this system of public announcements was discontinued during this period.

3812. The evidence of Witnesses TK, D-2-5-I, D-2-13-O and D-2-YYYY thus establishes that megaphone announcements from a moving vehicle were part of the modus operandi by which messages from Bourgmestre Kanyabashi were delivered to the population of Ngoma commune in the period from April through June 1994.

3813. The Chamber has previously held Witness QJ's testimony about this incident to be detailed and consistent, and it thus finds Witness QJ's identification of Kanyabashi to be reliable. Insofar as Witness QJ's account was also corroborated and complemented by evidence establishing a pattern of préfecture announcements being disseminated from a vehicle with a public address system, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that around late May 1994 Kanyabashi drove through Butare town with a megaphone and instructed the population to search for the enemy among them.

3814. Witness QJ testified that when Kanyabashi used the word "enemy", it meant Tutsis.<sup>10285</sup> Ntakirutimana testified that the word "enemy" in the context of the 1994 conflict in Rwanda referred to the group who was attacking.<sup>10286</sup> In his Expert Report, Ntakirutimana stated that in daily Rwandan culture the "enemy" was understood to be Tutsis.<sup>10287</sup> Defence Expert Witness Shimamungu opined that people identified as belonging to enemy circles included, inter alia, Tutsis within the country.<sup>10288</sup> In line with its previous finding in this Judgement the Chamber concludes that the term "enemy", when used by Kanyabashi, referred to Tutsis in general ().

3.6.35.4.2.2 Megaphone Announcement in Butare Town, June 1994

Peugeot 305 vehicle.<sup>10289</sup> Kanyabashi stopped his vehicle, stepped out onto the road,<sup>10290</sup> and through a hand-held megaphone stated that the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune wanted the population of Ngoma commune to come early in the morning to clear the bushes along the road, so the Inkotanyi would not find anywhere to hide.<sup>10291</sup> Witness QI testified that Kanyabashi said they should flush out people hiding in the bushes, and everybody found in those bushes should die, including children, old men and women.<sup>10292</sup> Witness QI understood Inkotanyi, in that context, to mean Tutsis hiding in the bushes.<sup>10293</sup>

3816. According to Witness QI, the oven had a window through which one could see what was happening on the nearby road, and he could open the window to hear what was being said outside.<sup>10294</sup> He testified that although there was a fence between his hiding place and the road, he could see everything that happened on the road through the openings in the fence.<sup>10295</sup>

3817. Witness QI testified that he was able to identify Kanyabashi by his voice and by sight.<sup>10296</sup> He stated that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune.<sup>10297</sup> He further testified that Kanyabashi was in a vehicle which he knew to be Kanyabashi's.<sup>10298</sup> He purportedly saw an individual whom he recognised as Kanyabashi get out of the vehicle, and heard a voice he knew to be Kanyabashi's being amplified by megaphone.<sup>10299</sup> Additionally, the content of the message attributed the announcement to Kanyabashi.<sup>10300</sup> Lastly, Witness QI identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>10301</sup>

wall ran alongside the kitchen, there were ventilation holes in the wall.<sup>10307</sup> Witness D-21-B acknowledged there was an oven on the premises, which was approximately two by three metres.<sup>10308</sup> According to Witness D-21-B, if you stood in front of the entrance to the property, the oven was at the rear, after the student rooms, attached to the wall on the left-hand side.<sup>10309</sup> The oven had an external wall without any openings, while the front-facing wall of the oven had openings.<sup>10310</sup>

3819. Rather than contradicting Witness QI, Witness D-21-B in fact corroborated Witness QI's evidence in several respects. Witness D-21-B's testimony that there was an oven on the premises, which was approximately two by three metres, corroborates Witness QI's account that he hid above an oven. Further, Witness D-21-B testified that the entrance of the compound faced the road that ran from Butare town to the university, and that the brick wall surrounding the compound did not cover the front.<sup>10311</sup> Witness D-21-B's assertion that the front-facing wall of the oven had openings corresponds with Witness QI's claim that the oven had a window through which he could see what was happening on the nearby road.<sup>10312</sup>

3822. At trial, the Kanyabashi Defence confronted Witness QI with his 11 June 1996 witness statement, taken shortly after the events at issue, which provided that he could not recall the date of Kanyabashi's alleged megaphone announcement.<sup>10317</sup> The Chamber accepts Witness

QI's explanation that he forgot the precise date of this incident and subsequently gave an approximate date at trial.<sup>10318</sup> He explained the omission of a date in his witness statement by stating that several Prosecution investigators questioned him at a time when he was not psychologically well, and that he did not remember the dates very well. He stated that the month of June was used as a reference when he was questioned. He explained that he was asked to give an estimate, and in that context, he gave an approximate date.<sup>10319</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness QI stressed that although the date he gave was an estimate, he was certain of the words Kanyabashi spoke.<sup>10320</sup>

3823. The Kanyabashi Defence cites another apparent inconsistency between Witness QI's trial testimony and previous statement.<sup>10321</sup> Witness QI testified that Kanyabashi was alone in his white Peugeot 305 vehicle when he delivered the announcement.<sup>10322</sup> However, his June 1996 statement indicated that Kanyabashi was with two soldiers when he drove past Witness QI's hiding place, speaking into the megaphone.<sup>10323</sup> The Chamber notes this inconsistency, but does not consider this discrepancy to be sufficiently serious to undermine Witness QI's credibility; the presence of soldiers in the vehicle with Kanyabashi does not go to the root of Witness QI's testimony regarding the announcement made by Kanyabashi and the content of the message.

3824. In sum, the Chamber considers Witness QI's testimony on Kanyabashi's megaphone announcement in mid-June 1994 to be credible, reliable and convincing. His testimony is also supported by evidence cited above which establishes that megaphone announcements from a moving vehicle were part of the modus operandi by which messages from the bourgmestre were disseminated to the population of Ngoma commune. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that around mid-June 1994 Kanyabashi used a megaphone to tell the population to clear bushes along the road in order to remove potential hiding places for the Inkotanyi, to flush out people who were hiding in the bushes, and to kill those found there, including children, old men and women.

3825. Witness QI testified that he understood Inkotanyi, in the context of Kanyabashi's instructions to mean Tutsis hiding in the bushes.<sup>10324</sup> Prosecution Expert Witness Ntakirutimana testified that Inkotanyi simply meant the attacking group; while Ntakirutimana declined to identify "Tutsis" as the enemy, he admitted that generally speaking one could deduce that the Hutus were attacked and the Tutsis were the attackers.<sup>10325</sup> In his Expert Report, Ntakirutimana stated that in daily Rwandan culture, the "enemy" was understood to be Tutsis.<sup>10326</sup>

3826. Accordingly, having regard to Witness QI's own testimony, which is corroborated by Ntakirutimana as to the meaning of Inkotanyi in the context of 1994, the Chamber accepts that Witness QI understood Inkotanyi, in that context, to mean Tutsis hiding in the bushes.

3.6.35.4.2.3 Killings After the Megaphone Announcements, May and June 1994

3827. Witnesses QJ, TK and QI testified that following Kanyabashi's megaphone announcements in mid-May and mid-June 1994, searches were conducted in Butare town and Tutsis were flushed out of hiding and killed. Witness QJ stated that after the May 1994 announcement searches were conducted around the city and in various houses, and these searches entailed seeking out people in hiding.<sup>10327</sup> Witness QJ testified that anyone found in the bush was killed immediately.<sup>10328</sup> As a Tutsi in hiding,<sup>10329</sup> Witness TK testified that the announcement affected her safety and those hiding with her, and made their situation critical.<sup>10330</sup> After the May 1994 megaphone announcement, an order was issued requiring each household to select one person to participate in a final search.<sup>10331</sup> Witness TK stated that following the announcement, searches were conducted everywhere to find those who were hiding.<sup>10332</sup> Six soldiers discovered her around the end of May 1994, and asked her to show an identity card.<sup>10333</sup> In the Chamber's view, this indicates that the soldiers were looking for Tutsis. Witness TK further testified that the armed soldiers wanted to kill them and were restrained from doing so by sisters at the convent.<sup>10334</sup> These soldiers assaulted members of the group and threatened the group with death.<sup>10335</sup>

3828. The Chamber notes that Witness D-2-17-I worked at the same convent where Witness TK hid from April through May 1994,<sup>10336</sup> and corroborated Witness TK's account that in May 1994 a group of soldiers discovered people who had been hiding at the convent, under stacks of wood.<sup>10337</sup> Witness D-2-17-I further confirmed Witness TK's testimony that the soldiers asked the people they found to show identity cards and subsequently evacuated them from the convent.<sup>10338</sup>

3829. The Defence led evidence through Witness D-2-17-I to counter Witness TK's assertion that she was discovered by these soldiers as a result of the megaphone announcement.<sup>10339</sup> Witness D-2-17-I, who was present when Witness TK was discovered, did not testify that the people hiding at the convent were found as a result of the megaphone announcement.<sup>10340</sup>

However, Witness D-2-17-I repeatedly stated that they were “flushed out”.<sup>10341</sup> This language mirrors that of the May 1994 megaphone announcement, wherein the population was asked to find the enemy wherever they were hiding.

3830. Following her testimony that the convent was searched by soldiers after the megaphone announcement,<sup>10342</sup> the Kanyabashi Defence confronted Witness TK with her previous statement of 23 April 1998, which appeared to indicate that soldiers came to the convent because they were retreating towards Butare after the RPF took Gitarama.<sup>10343</sup> In response, Witness TK reiterated that those at the convent were found pursuant to the megaphone announcement, which called upon people to search.<sup>10344</sup> The Chamber does not find that the information contained in Witness TK’s previous statement necessarily contradicts her in-court testimony. The Chamber considers Witness TK’s testimony on searches after the May 1994 megaphone announcement to be clear and consistent. In sum, the Chamber considers Witnesses QJ and TK’s testimony to be credible and convincing regarding searches being conducted after Kanyabashi’s megaphone announcement in late May 1994.

3831. Regarding the aftermath of the June 1994 megaphone announcement, Witness QI testified that Kanyabashi’s instructions were carried out the following day.<sup>10345</sup> Witness QI witnessed implementation of this announcement in the area near the house where he was hiding.<sup>10346</sup> Witness QI testified that he saw people clearing the woods, hacking those caught hiding with machetes, and throwing grenades into the bushes to flush out people who were hiding in them.<sup>10347</sup> Witness QI testified that attackers and soldiers looked for people in the valley and in a nearby cemetery.<sup>10348</sup> Witness QI asserted that the killers were Hutus and they were looking for Tutsis.<sup>10349</sup> In cross-examination, however, Witness QI acknowledged that he learned of the grenades being thrown at those in hiding after the event.<sup>10350</sup> Although Witness QI’s knowledge of the use of grenades is hearsay, Witness QI was an eyewitness to the bush-clearing. Notwithstanding this minor discrepancy in his oral testimony, the Chamber nonetheless considers Witness QI’s testimony to be detailed, credible and convincing regarding searches being conducted after Kanyabashi’s megaphone announcement in June 1994.

3832. The Chamber thus finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that following Kanyabashi’s megaphone announcements in mid-May 1994 and in June 1994, searches were conducted for Tutsis and consequently more Tutsis were killed.

3.6.36 École Évangéliste du Rwanda (“EER”), Mid-May to Early June 1994

3833. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment allege that between mid-May and mid-June 1994, Kanyabashi and soldiers selected refugees and forcibly led them to the woods neighbouring the École Évangéliste du Rwanda (“EER”); some of them were never seen again.<sup>10351</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment further alleges that in May and June 1994, Nsabimana ordered that refugees be transferred by soldiers from the BPO to the EER, and that some of the refugees were beaten or killed by soldiers, and others were taken to the neighbouring woods where a great many were executed.<sup>10352</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana instructed that Tutsi refugees be loaded onto buses to be taken to the EER.<sup>10353</sup> It submits that Kanyabashi knew or had reason to know that massacres of Tutsis were being committed at the BPO, the EER and other locations in Ngoma commune.<sup>10354</sup>

3834. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that after Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali attacked the refugees at the BPO between 19 April and late June 1994, the surviving refugees were taken to various locations in the préfecture to be executed, notably in the woods next to the EER.<sup>10355</sup> The Prosecution submits that Interahamwe, acting under the direction and supervision of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, forcibly removed Tutsi refugees from the BPO to be killed around the EER. It submits that Ntahobali participated in the killing and mistreatment of Tutsis at the EER.<sup>10356</sup>

3836. The Nsabimana Defence relies on the legal points addressed in the preliminary issues below.

3837. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that there is no evidence that Kanyabashi, be it on his own or with the assistance of soldiers, selected refugees for transfer to the EER forest. It also asserts that there was no evidence to demonstrate Kanyabashi’s alleged knowledge that crimes were being committed at the EER.<sup>10357</sup>

3838. The Ntahobali Defence asserts that the Prosecution evidence as to Ntahobali’s involvement at the EER was weak and, in particular, attacks the reliability of the identification evidence.<sup>10358</sup> It further asserted in closing argument that only two Prosecution witnesses testified as to serious and visible offences committed by Ntahobali at the EER, and that neither of these witnesses was credible. Further, none of the witnesses addressing this issue identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>10359</sup>

3839. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence asserts that no Prosecution witness linked Nyiramasuhuko to the events at the EER.<sup>10360</sup>

3.6.36.2 Preliminary Issues

Nsabimana Indictment

3840. The Nsabimana Defence argues that Paragraph 6.39 of the Indictment is not pled in support of any counts against Nsabimana and therefore cannot be the basis of any conviction.<sup>10361</sup> The Chamber considers this a serious omission by the Prosecution. Bearing in mind the principles set forth in the Preliminary Issues section (), the Chamber shall not consider the evidence concerning the allegation in Paragraph 6.39 of the Indictment.<sup>10362</sup>

3841. Additionally, the Nsabimana Defence notes that while Paragraph 6.38 of the Indictment is pled in support of counts, the portion of this paragraph related to the EER sets forth the alleged criminal conduct of Kanyabashi and soldiers, but does not name Nsabimana.<sup>10363</sup> As pertains to the EER, Paragraph 6.38 merely states that Kanyabashi and soldiers selected refugees and forcibly led them to the woods neighbouring the EER. The Chamber notes, however, that Nsabimana was also charged with exercising his authority as préfet over his subordinates pursuant to Article 6 (3).<sup>10364</sup> Insofar as Kanyabashi was a bourgmestre of a commune in Butare préfecture he was under the authority of Nsabimana. The Chamber therefore finds that Nsabimana was charged with Article 6 (3) responsibility for the criminal acts of Kanyabashi and other subordinates. Accordingly, although the Chamber will not consider the conduct set forth in Paragraph 6.39 alleging Article 6 (1) responsibility, as it was not charged in support of counts, the Chamber nevertheless considers that evidence with respect to Nsabimana's alleged personal knowledge of or involvement in the transfer of refugees from the BPO to the EER may be considered where relevant for the purposes of Nsabimana's responsibility under Article 6 (3).

Ntahobali Indictment

3842. The Ntahobali Defence asserts that the allegation that Ntahobali abducted, raped and killed Tutsi refugees on unspecified dates at the EER together with Presidential Guard soldiers, and/or soldiers and/or Interahamwe was not pled in the Indictment.<sup>10365</sup>

3843. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution led evidence through Witness QY at trial that she was raped by soldiers at the EER. Paragraph 6.30 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that after Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali attacked the refugees at the BPO between 19 April and late June 1994, the surviving refugees were taken to various locations in the préfecture to be executed, notably in the woods next to the EER.<sup>10366</sup> Significantly there is no mention of Ntahobali's involvement in or responsibility for rapes at or near the EER.

3844. However, Paragraph 6.37 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that Ntahobali, assisted by unknown "accomplices", participated in kidnapping and raping Tutsi women.<sup>10367</sup> Insofar as Paragraph 6.37 fails to include any details as to where or when Ntahobali was allegedly involved in such rapes, the Chamber finds this paragraph defective.

3845. The Chamber notes that the summary of anticipated evidence for Witness QY in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states only that Witness QY saw Ntahobali beat people and appoint soldiers to take away five people at the EER.<sup>10368</sup> It makes no reference to her being raped at the EER by soldiers nor does it outline any role that Ntahobali may have played. Accordingly, the Chamber will not make any finding as to Ntahobali's alleged role in the rape of Witness QY at or near the EER.

Kanyabashi Indictment

3846. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that no evidence directly implicated Kanyabashi for crimes committed at the EER and points to the Chamber's Decision of 16 December 2004 pursuant to Rule 98 bis.<sup>10369</sup> In that Decision, the Chamber noted, "no direct evidence was adduced of Joseph Kanyabashi's participation in the abduction of people from the [préfecture] office to the woods next to the EER."<sup>10370</sup> Nonetheless, the Chamber also noted the evidence of Witness QI that a policeman abducted refugees from the EER and took them to the neighbouring woods and therefore reasoned that this evidence, if believed, could implicate Kanyabashi pursuant to Article 6 (3).<sup>10371</sup>

3847. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that Witness QI's evidence implicating Kanyabashi was not led by the Prosecution, and only came to light upon a question put to the witness by the Chamber. It argues that it would be unfair to rely on this evidence because it did not have notice that Witness QI would testify as to this allegation.<sup>10372</sup>

3850. The Chamber notes that Kanyabashi was charged with exercising his authority as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune over his subordinates pursuant to Article 6 (3).<sup>10376</sup> In his position as bourgmestre, Kanyabashi had authority over the civil servants posted in his commune.<sup>10377</sup> By virtue of Paragraph 3.5 the Chamber considers Kanyabashi had authority over commune civil servants and policemen during the events in question. The Chamber however notes that the Prosecution distinguished between soldiers and policemen in the Indictment, and where implicated, policemen were specifically identified by the relevant Indictment paragraph.<sup>10378</sup>

3851. Paragraph 6.41 of the Indictment asserts that Kanyabashi and soldiers participated in these crimes. This paragraph does not identify policemen as having participated in the crimes committed at the EER. In this instance, the Prosecution failed to specify that Kanyabashi was to be held responsible for acts of a commune policeman at the EER. Notwithstanding Paragraphs 3.5 and 4.3, the Chamber is of the view that the particular wording of Paragraph 6.41 circumscribes Kanyabashi's responsibility with respect to the events in question to soldiers and not policemen. Therefore, by reason of its failure to identify policemen as the subordinates over whom Kanyabashi had control during the events at the EER, the Chamber finds the Indictment to be defective and will consider whether the defect was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

3852. The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief noted that Witness RM would testify that Kanyabashi and soldiers selected men at the BPO to be killed in the forest owned by the EER.<sup>10379</sup> His statement of 13 June 1996 provided that Kanyabashi and soldiers walked around the BPO selecting men to be taken away to the EER. The statement refers to policemen in reference to the events at Nyange and Rango, but does not mention them with regard to the EER.<sup>10380</sup> Though these disclosures were consistent with the information in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, they did not provide Kanyabashi with notice that he was being charged with the actions of policemen at the EER. Therefore the defect was not cured and the Chamber will not consider the allegation that Kanyabashi was responsible for the crimes of policemen at the EER.

3.6.36.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness RE

3853. Witness RE, a Tutsi who was 16 years old in 1994,<sup>10381</sup> testified that she fled her home in Gikongoro préfecture for Butare préfecture in April 1994.<sup>10382</sup> When she arrived in Butare, she went to the university teaching hospital where she stayed for one week. After one week somebody called Gatera asked her to leave the hospital and to go to the préfecture office.<sup>10383</sup> She testified to seeing Sylvain Nsabimana at the BPO, where she sought shelter with many other refugees. When she arrived Préfet Nsabimana asked the refugees to divide into two groups: one group of refugees from Butare préfecture and another group of refugees from other regions.<sup>10384</sup>

3854. Préfet Nsabimana said that refugees from Butare should wait for their bourgmestres to accompany them back to their communes.<sup>10385</sup> Those from other préfectures were to go to the EER.<sup>10386</sup> The bourgmestre of Runyinya commune refused to take his people home because he said that those who stayed in his commune had been killed.<sup>10387</sup> In addition, refugees from other préfectures hid themselves from their own bourgmestres. Therefore, people from other préfectures as well as those from Butare and Runyinya commune went to the EER.<sup>10388</sup> She was with her sister at both the BPO and the EER.<sup>10389</sup>

3855. Witness RE spent only one night at the BPO.<sup>10390</sup> The following day, around 5.30 p.m., Préfet Nsabimana ordered the refugees from other regions, including the witness, to leave the BPO and to proceed to a nearby Protestant institution called EER.<sup>10391</sup> Soldiers forced the refugees to leave the BPO and beat them along the way to the EER. At the BPO, Nsabimana referred to the refugees as dirt.<sup>10392</sup> The witness later testified, however, that they were called dirt when they were going to Rango.<sup>10393</sup>

3856. It was less than a five minute walk to the EER.<sup>10394</sup> After they arrived at the EER, there was a torrential rain and the refugees sought shelter on the veranda as the building was locked.<sup>10395</sup> Witness RE testified that the people who settled on the veranda of the EER were Tutsis.<sup>10396</sup> As the rain abated, the soldiers came to the EER and beat the refugees.<sup>10397</sup> These soldiers were a mix of ordinary soldiers and some from the Presidential Guard.<sup>10398</sup> They were accompanied by an Interahamwe called Shalom.<sup>10399</sup> They were saying it was over for the Tutsis.<sup>10400</sup> They took away men and boys to a nearby forest; she believed they had been executed because they never came back.<sup>10401</sup> However, she did not watch the killings, nor did she hear any gun shots; she learned they had been killed with bludgeons.<sup>10402</sup> She did not know Shalom, but others from Butare identified him for her.<sup>10403</sup> He wore an ordinary soldier's uniform.<sup>10404</sup> She only saw Shalom on that night.<sup>10405</sup> She was on the school veranda when she saw Shalom.<sup>10406</sup> The next day, the pastor arrived and unlocked the workshop where he said they should stay at night.<sup>10407</sup>

3857. On cross-examination, the witness was referred to her previous statement of 5 December 1996 which stated that the Presidential Guard returned to the EER the day after the rain to abduct persons but made no mention of ordinary soldiers.<sup>10408</sup> She explained that she had mentioned both Presidential Guard and ordinary soldiers to the investigator, but it was left out of her statement.<sup>10409</sup> She also explained that even though her statement only referred to people being taken away the day after the rain, the abductions occurred every day, including on the day of the rain.<sup>10410</sup>

3858. The witness testified that the Interahamwe came during the days to take away people and kill them. She recognised them as being Interahamwe because they wore banana leaves and carried clubs and machetes.<sup>10411</sup> The leader of the Interahamwe was Shalom.<sup>10412</sup>

3859. Some people managed to escape and returned to the EER. These people informed the others that those taken away had been killed with clubs and machetes and that this had been done while they were naked.<sup>10413</sup> Witness RE testified that young girls were also arrested and taken from the EER to be raped and the returned escapees told them that those that refused to be raped were killed.<sup>10414</sup>

3860. Witness RE testified that she spent one week at the EER.<sup>10415</sup> She could not leave because there were roadblocks outside at which they would be killed.<sup>10416</sup> There were toilets at the primary school, but she could not recall whether there was a water tap.<sup>10417</sup> The pastor told them to go back to the préfet who had sent them to the EER because they were making the place dirty.<sup>10418</sup> The day after they returned to the BPO, refugees were sent to Nyange.<sup>10419</sup>

3861. The witness was referred to a prior statement of 5 December 1996 in which she stated that she stayed at the BPO for about one and a half months and that one day during this time she saw two buses which drove the refugees to Nyaruhengeri.<sup>10420</sup> The witness maintained that she had only stayed at the BPO for one day before being driven to Nyange.<sup>10421</sup> When put to her that in her prior statement she estimated there were 4,000 refugees at the EER,<sup>10422</sup> whereas her testimony said that there were more than 300 refugees at the EER, she explained that she never gave a figure in prior statements, but only indicated that the refugees were many in number.<sup>10423</sup>

3862. Witness RE incorrectly identified Nteziryayo as Ntahobali in court.<sup>10424</sup>

Prosecution Witness TG

3864. Witness TG was in hiding at Martin Uwariraye's compound from 26 April 1994 until 2 July 1994.<sup>10427</sup> The distance between the compound and Ntahobali's family home was 700 to 800 metres on a curved road.<sup>10428</sup> If one were to draw a straight line from the compound to Shalom's building, the distance would be a little shorter.<sup>10429</sup> In cross-examination, Witness TG denied that the distance was between 1 and 1.5 kilometres by the road, or 800 metres in a straight line.<sup>10430</sup> The compound consisted of several buildings, including a bakery.<sup>10431</sup> Witness TG testified that from the top of the bakery he could see Ntahobali's family home and a roadblock close to it.<sup>10432</sup> There were vents and a window located above the oven.<sup>10433</sup> The windows had metallic bars which prevented him passing his head through the window,<sup>10434</sup> and there were sisal sacks which obscured the windows in order to prevent them from being seen from the outside.<sup>10435</sup> In cross-examination, Witness TG agreed that it may be impossible to distinguish the characteristics of an unknown person but it would nevertheless be easy to distinguish a person that you already knew.<sup>10436</sup> The witness stated that from this distance he could recognise people at Shalom Ntahobali's home and, although he could not distinguish a conversation between people at Shalom's house, he could hear the sound of screams.<sup>10437</sup>

3865. From the bakery, Witness TG saw some people taken from the roadblock to the EER primary school buildings and killed in the forest near there.<sup>10438</sup> Also, he could hear gunshots, people screaming and the sound of people being beaten from the direction of the EER and Shalom Ntahobali's home.<sup>10439</sup>

of her arrival there.<sup>10451</sup> That same day, soldiers and Interahamwe came back at night without Shalom and started beating the refugees.<sup>10452</sup>

3869. The other refugees suffered the same fate, including two men who subsequently committed suicide because they were also mistreated. She testified that it was the first sexual experience of her life.<sup>10461</sup> It was the only time she was raped at the EER.<sup>10462</sup>

3870. When she was confronted with her prior statement of 24 July 2000 in which she said she had been raped on another occasion at Kibeho in Gikongoro préfecture, she declined to answer whether she had been previously raped.<sup>10463</sup> She disowned the content of that statement<sup>10464</sup> and later testified that she was not raped at Kibeho.<sup>10465</sup> In contrast to her statement of 24 July 2000, she was also confronted with two prior statements of 18 September 1997 and 11 and 13 March 1998 in which she had not mentioned the Kibeho rape, in addition to her testimony in the Rwandan trial of the corporal in question, where she did not allege he raped her at the EER.<sup>10466</sup> She explained that she did not have the courage to speak on the issue and had not been asked about it by the investigators.<sup>10467</sup>

3871. When recalled to testify three years after her initial testimony Witness QY said that, contrary to her statement of 24 July 2000 and her testimony of 24 March 2003 before this

Tribunal, the soldier who had raped her at the EER was not the corporal.<sup>10468</sup> When confronted with her prior testimony from the Muvunyi I trial where she said the corporal had raped her at the BPO and not at the EER,<sup>10469</sup> she testified that she could distinguish between the BPO and the EER although the two places were almost the same site.<sup>10470</sup> It would take two minutes to reach the EER from the BPO on foot.<sup>10471</sup> She stated that she was raped by several soldiers at the EER and that she was raped by several people throughout the war at the EER and the BPO, but not at Rango.<sup>10472</sup>

3872. Witness QY explained that, at one point in time, refugees were told by a clergyman that classes were about to restart in the EER and they must go back to the BPO. They returned to the BPO on their own.<sup>10473</sup>

3873. Witness QY testified that she was later also raped within the premises of the préfecture office.<sup>10474</sup> When it was put to her that this was not mentioned in any of her four prior statements, she testified that she did not have the courage to tell the investigators at the time of making her statements.<sup>10475</sup> She testified that on one occasion an Interahamwe told her he wanted to have a sexual relationship with her, but first gave her oil, soap and rice before he raped her.<sup>10476</sup>

3874. Witness QY was unable to estimate how long she was at the EER.<sup>10477</sup> When confronted with her prior statements of 15 January 1997 and 11 and 13 March 1998 in which she said she spent about one month at the EER, she explained it was only an estimate and that sometimes one day could feel like one month.<sup>10478</sup>

3875. Witness QY testified that she did not know Ntahobali before the events, and she saw him only during the attack at Butare Hospital, when a woman pointed him out to her as Shalom while they were fleeing.<sup>10479</sup> She saw him another time at a tap and some corpses were nearby.<sup>10480</sup> Witness QY denied that none of her four statements mentioned having seen the person she named Shalom near a place where there were corpses, or at the hospital.<sup>10481</sup> Witness QY testified that she did not know any other person in Butare whose name was

3876. She also testified in the Munyaneza trial in Canada in March and April 2007.<sup>10483</sup> When it was put to her that at the Munyaneza trial she testified that she saw Witness QBQ and Witness SJ on two occasions, whereas she had denied knowing these people before this Tribunal on 23 and 25 March 2003 respectively, Witness QY said the interpreter who was helping her prepare her testimony [for this Court] told her to say so, however in reality she knew both witnesses very well because they had lived together at the EER.<sup>10484</sup> She later clarified that it was the Prosecutor through the interpreter, who told her to lie about knowing these people.<sup>10485</sup>

Prosecution Witness SX

3878. Witness SX saw Shalom come to the EER a number of times with Interahamwe at night; Shalom arrived in a Hilux pickup truck belonging to someone else.<sup>10496</sup> The Interahamwe feared Shalom and obeyed him.<sup>10497</sup> The witness stated that Shalom continued to come and take away refugees from the moment the refugees arrived at the EER until they left the complex and he usually came at night. Witness SX sought refuge at the EER because initially it was said that the government had brought the refugees to the EER complex to prevent them from being killed. When Witness SX noticed that the refugees were being killed at that place he decided to return to where he lived, although he returned to spend his nights at the EER school. There were young people who knew when and which buildings in the complex would be attacked and the witness stayed in different places accordingly.<sup>10498</sup> On the first night that Shalom came to take the refugees, some of them were staying inside the EER buildings, while others were outside.<sup>10499</sup> That first night, he selected five people from among the adults and took them away with him.<sup>10500</sup>

3880. Witness SX testified that he did not know Shalom prior to the events of 1994, however, when Tutsis were killed at the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house, a friend pointed Shalom out to the witness.<sup>10503</sup> Witness SX observed the roadblock from approximately 2.00 p.m. for two to three hours on that first day from a building located only one house away from the roadblock.<sup>10504</sup> At the time Witness SX left the position from where he was observing the roadblock, Shalom was leaving the roadblock with three women and a soldier.<sup>10505</sup> The witness positively identified the person he called Shalom as Ntahobali in court.<sup>10506</sup>

3881. Witness TB, a Tutsi teacher,<sup>10507</sup> testified that she met Shalom on several occasions during the events of 1994 including when he visited the place that the witness lived. From where she was staying, Witness TB saw Shalom pass by to see Pastor Ndamage. He was accompanied by Pastor Kabalira and in front of the EER church were Jean-Pierre and Kazungu. Shalom joined Jean-Pierre and Kazungu and Witness TB saw them take a woman whose name was Immaculée, in the direction of Shalom's house.<sup>10508</sup> Immaculée was working at SORAS, an insurance company with offices in the Bihira building.<sup>10509</sup> Witness TB testified that she did not see Immaculée after that, but learned after the war that she had been raped and killed.<sup>10510</sup> Witness TB testified that she did not know the name of the young man who informed her about the subsequent rape and killing of Immaculée. This young man worked for SOCODE and he only met with the witness after the war.<sup>10511</sup>

3882. She also learned that Immaculée was buried by Pastor Kabalira and Witness SX, whom she recognised but did not know personally.<sup>10512</sup> Other than when she appeared to testify, Witness TB saw Witness SX at the airport in Rwanda around 22 January 2004, and she stayed with Witness SX in Arusha for about two days before he left.<sup>10513</sup> She said they did not discuss their testimony or the events of 1994.<sup>10514</sup>

3883. Shalom was the child of Maurice Ntahobali and Pauline Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>10515</sup> She positively identified the person she called Shalom as Ntahobali in court.<sup>10516</sup>

Prosecution Witness SJ

3884. Witness SJ, a Tutsi,<sup>10517</sup> testified that she sought shelter at the BPO on a Sunday in April 1994 at 6.15 a.m.<sup>10518</sup> She stayed at the BPO for about two weeks.<sup>10519</sup> During the time she was at the BPO, she went to the EER school, which was situated between the house of Nyiramasuhuko and the Protestant church.<sup>10520</sup> She went to the EER on three or four separate days,<sup>10521</sup> although they were not successive.<sup>10522</sup> She could not recall the month or dates of her visits to the EER.<sup>10523</sup> When it was put to her that her statement of 3 December 1996 stated that she spent one week at the EER before soldiers took the refugees back to the BPO, Witness SJ testified she did not remember saying so, but that they stayed only a short time at the EER.<sup>10524</sup>

3885. From the EER, she could see Nyiramasuhuko's residence.<sup>10525</sup> There was a vocational school and a primary school at the EER complex.<sup>10526</sup> Witness SJ testified that refugees came to the EER from the bush and from some other buildings where they were hiding.<sup>10527</sup> There were about 2,000 refugees at one point.<sup>10528</sup> There was no water, but they had access to toilets.<sup>10529</sup> The day of the refugees' arrival they spent the night outside, because they refused to open the doors to the buildings.<sup>10530</sup> It rained a lot that evening. The next day the pastor opened some premises for the refugees.<sup>10531</sup> The pastor also opened the water taps for the refugees and offered them maize, but the soldiers quickly closed the taps, took away the food and threatened the pastor not to do it again.<sup>10532</sup>

3886. Witness SJ said that soldiers and Interahamwe were there virtually all the time.<sup>10533</sup> The soldiers came from the ESO military barracks, from the roadblock in front of the Nyiramasuhuko residence and from the upper floors of the Nyiramasuhuko residence.<sup>10534</sup> The soldiers all wore the same uniform although Witness SJ did not know if they were soldiers or gendarmes.<sup>10535</sup> When it was put to her that her statement of 3 December 1996 referred only to the presence of soldiers at the EER, but not Interahamwe, Witness SJ said it was the same thing since both soldiers and Interahamwe wore uniforms.<sup>10536</sup> She named several Interahamwe who wore “Interahamwe” civilian attire by night and military uniform by day, including one Ribanza and one Cyawuperi.<sup>10537</sup> She also explained that if she forgot to mention the presence of Interahamwe at the EER when giving her statement, it was because of the lack of available time.<sup>10538</sup>

3887. From behind the school building where Witness SJ and others hid at the time, one could see Nyiramasuhuko’s residence and the refugees would shout, “here they come to kill us.”<sup>10539</sup> The soldiers insulted and vituperated the refugees; they showed the refugees grenades and called them Inyenzi.<sup>10540</sup> They lied to the male refugees, persuading them to help dig trenches for fighting. They gave them hoes from the vocational school. The soldiers would take away 10 or 12 men at a time. They took people away from the EER at night and killed them.<sup>10541</sup> Afterwards, they sent back one of the men for him to say what happened.<sup>10542</sup> When put to her that this did not appear in her statement of 3 December 1996, Witness SJ stated that it was possible she forgot to add certain things.<sup>10543</sup> Witness SJ estimated that the soldiers came on three occasions.<sup>10544</sup> The soldiers appeared to be working in shifts because there were different soldiers in the day and at night.<sup>10545</sup>

3888. Witness SJ testified that persons taken from the EER compound were killed in the nearby forest.<sup>10546</sup> Witness SJ did not personally see the refugees being killed.<sup>10547</sup> At times however, the refugees would seek respite from the soldiers and flee into the surrounding 3889. In cross-examination Witness SJ agreed there was a field between the EER and Nyiramasuhuko's house, although she could not clearly remember whether there were also trees.<sup>10552</sup> Witness SJ agreed that a person with the same first name as Witness RE was with her at the BPO, Nyange and the EER.<sup>10553</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBQ

3890. Witness QBQ, a Tutsi housemaid,<sup>10554</sup> testified that she went to the BPO towards the end of April 1994.<sup>10555</sup> The day after returning from Nyange, Nsabimana told the refugees to go to the EER.<sup>10556</sup> They went on foot since it was not far away and they arrived there at around midday.<sup>10557</sup> She testified that there were already other refugees at the EER when they got there.<sup>10558</sup>

3891. Witness QBQ testified that they stayed at the EER for a week.<sup>10559</sup> They lived in terrible circumstances; soldiers from the ESO came and beat the refugees, raped and killed some of them. Furthermore, the refugees slept outside in the rain.<sup>10560</sup> The conditions were so bad that after a one-week stay at the EER, they took the initiative to go back to the BPO even if it meant suicide.<sup>10561</sup>

Prosecution Witness QI

3892. Witness QI, a Tutsi cook,<sup>10562</sup> testified that from his hiding place in the bakery of Martin Uwariraye's compound, one day in mid-May 1994, at about 3.00 p.m., he saw Marc going to the EER with a gun, choosing young men and taking them to the forest below Butare cathedral to be killed.<sup>10563</sup> He knew Marc well as they were neighbours; Marc had worked at a factory before he became a commune policeman.<sup>10564</sup> Witness QI testified that Marc Pole Pole was now deceased.<sup>10565</sup> Witness QI agreed that he never mentioned this incident placing Marc Pole Pole at the EER in his statement; he explained that he only mentioned it at trial because he was asked a question about policemen.<sup>10566</sup>

Prosecution Witness TA

3893. Witness TA, a Tutsi woman,<sup>10567</sup> testified that she went to the EER where there was a Protestant school prior to going to the BPO.<sup>10568</sup> She did not spend more than one week there.<sup>10569</sup> When Witness TA was asked why she did not mention this in her written statement of 19 November 1997 she said that she mentioned it, but that it was not recorded in her statement.<sup>10570</sup> In cross-examination she subsequently testified that she stayed there for more than one week.<sup>10571</sup> When it was put to her that she previously said she had remained at the EER for less than one week, Witness TA stated that she had just agreed with counsel's question.<sup>10572</sup>

3894. Witness TA testified that there was a roadblock situated in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house, near the EER.<sup>10573</sup> When the Interahamwe at this roadblock finished killing at that location, they attacked the refugees at the EER, killing them in the bush and near lavatories where a pit had been dug.<sup>10574</sup> Witness TA and the other refugees fled to the BPO because the pastor was told to send the refugees away.<sup>10575</sup> Witness TA never saw Kanyabashi at the EER.<sup>10576</sup>

3895. Alison Des Forges testified that during her interview with Nsabimana on 3 April 1996, Nsabimana told her that Callixte Kalimanzira, the de facto interim Minister of the Interior, told Nsabimana "it looked bad" to have Tutsis at the préfecture office. On a separate occasion Nsabimana told Des Forges that it was the préfecture Security Council who objected to the presence of the refugees at the BPO.<sup>10577</sup> Tutsis were taken from the office to the EER school and sent back to the office after about 10 days. During those 10 days, soldiers and others raped women and took away people to be killed.<sup>10578</sup>

3896. On the basis of Security Council notes and witnesses' narratives, Des Forges estimated that the refugees were moved from the BPO to the EER around mid-May, and stayed at the EER for approximately one week before they were moved back to the BPO.<sup>10579</sup> She confirmed they would have stayed at the EER between one week and 10 days.<sup>10580</sup>

3897. Des Forges stated in her Expert Report that in early May Kalimanzira and others on the préfecture Security Council decided that the group of refugees must be moved away from the préfecture office to some place less visible. They were probably implementing a policy determined at the national level, where authorities were becoming increasingly concerned to hide evidence of the genocide from foreigners whose visits were expected in the near future. Butare authorities moved the Tutsis from the préfecture office to a nearby complex of buildings belonging to the Episcopal church where they continued to suffer from abductions, killings and rapes that had taken place at the préfecture office. According to information gathered by Human Rights Watch, Shalom himself came to seize men for killing on at least two occasions. Church authorities sent the displaced back to the préfecture office after 10 days but Kalimanzira and the others insisted they leave again, so the préfet sent them to Nyange.<sup>10581</sup>

3898. Bernadette Kamanzi, Kanyabashi's wife,<sup>10582</sup> testified that her nephew, Aloys Rubayiza, went to see Kanyabashi at the commune office to ask him for a Hutu identity card on 18 May 1994, but Kanyabashi refused to issue him such a card.<sup>10583</sup> Kanyabashi told her that he had sent her nephew where other Tutsis had taken refuge, namely at the EER, with the intention of evacuating him in the evening.<sup>10584</sup> However, when Kanyabashi went to collect Aloys in the evening, he was no longer there.<sup>10585</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika

3899. Alexandre Bararwandika, a Hutu doctor from Burundi,<sup>10586</sup> testified that after the death of the President, he briefly worked as a volunteer for the Belgian Red Cross until it left Butare on 13 or 14 April 1994.<sup>10587</sup> He testified that refugees were moved from the Butare University Hospital to the nearby EER primary school, and later on to the BPO, around mid-May 1994.<sup>10588</sup> He testified that the transfer did not happen in one single day; one group of people went first to the EER and then to the BPO; other refugees who were already at the EER went straight to the BPO; and some people left the hospital directly for the BPO. In one day, 26 patients of his ward left the hospital for the EER.<sup>10589</sup> While some patients left the hospital

Ntahobali Defence Witness H1B6

3900. Witness H1B6, a Hutu,<sup>10592</sup> testified that he was often at the Butare University Hospital between April and mid-June 1994.<sup>10593</sup> He stated that the hospital administration sought assistance from civilian authorities to address overcrowding at the hospital. Around mid-May, those who were living in tents at the hospital and who did not require admission were moved to the EER and subsequently to the BPO.<sup>10594</sup> The intention was to make space at the hospital for those who needed care, and not to expel people.<sup>10595</sup>

3901. A few days later, he saw those people at the EER; they were not guarded. He spoke to one of them who recognised him when he was on his way to town. The person from EER told him that they were going through difficult times because they had nothing to eat and that nobody was interested in their problems.<sup>10596</sup> The person did not complain about violence, theft or killings taking place at the EER.<sup>10597</sup>

3902. Witness H1B6 said that security escorted people from the hospital to the EER, but did not stay to guard them.<sup>10598</sup> This security group consisted of soldiers from ESO.<sup>10599</sup> He personally did not witness the departure of people who were evacuated to the EER; he only noticed that they were at the EER three days later.<sup>10600</sup> He later testified that he saw them leaving.<sup>10601</sup> The number of people at the EER was a little less than at the BPO and he estimated there were between 100 and 120 people in the courtyard of the BPO.<sup>10602</sup> He estimated that the subsequent transfer of people from the EER to the BPO must have taken place in early or mid-June.<sup>10603</sup> When it was put to him that the evacuation of people from the hospital to the EER must have been around 2 or 3 May 1994, such that the refugees were at the EER around 4 or 5 May 1994, Witness H1B6 disagreed saying this was too early.<sup>10604</sup>

3903. At the time the refugees were transferred from the hospital to the EER there was no roadblock outside the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>10605</sup> Having regard to Defence Exhibit 302, Witness H1B6

testified that the EER School, the Church and Ntahobali's residence were correctly marked on the map.<sup>10606</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness Béatrice Munyenyezi

3904. Béatrice Munyenyezi, Ntahobali's wife,<sup>10607</sup> stated that the EER school was about a 10 minute walk from the Hotel Ihuliro. It was possible to observe the EER from the balconies at the hotel. She testified that she had seen a few people around the EER, maybe 20, at least outside; she could not tell whether they were males, females, civilians or soldiers, though she knew they were refugees.<sup>10608</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness NMBMP

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCMNA

3906. Witness WCMNA, a Hutu church worker in 1994,<sup>10613</sup> stated that on one occasion he was going through the roadblock close to the EER and his identification papers and car documents were being checked.<sup>10614</sup> He looked at the primary school and was surprised to see smoke coming out of two classrooms and people within those classrooms.<sup>10615</sup> He approximated that there were 30 to 40 persons in the classrooms.<sup>10616</sup> There were no people in the courtyard or premises near the school.<sup>10617</sup> He could not be specific as to when this sighting occurred.<sup>10618</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCNJ

3907. Witness WCNJ, a Hutu student in 1994,<sup>10619</sup> estimated that towards the end of May 1994, on a number of occasions, there were over a hundred people at the EER School. He never saw any armed persons with or going towards the refugees.<sup>10620</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCNMC

3908. Witness WCNMC, a Hutu,<sup>10621</sup> knew Ntahobali because Ntahobali went to school with her brother.<sup>10622</sup> Witness WCNMC stated that on her third visit to Butare market she noticed between 40 to 60 persons within the premises of the EER school; as they were all inside, and she was on the road, she was unable to recognise anyone.<sup>10623</sup> Her third visit to Butare market occurred in late May or early June.<sup>10624</sup> She was sure that her third visit occurred around late May or early June and not between 1 and 20 May 1994 because her third visit was some time after her father was released from hospital, on 25 April 1994.<sup>10625</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCUJM

3909. Witness WCUJM, a bicycle taxi-driver in 1994 from Ngoma commune,<sup>10626</sup> testified that he once went by the EER, towards the end of May 1994. He saw about 50 people assembled at the EER.<sup>10627</sup> He subsequently testified that he went to Butare on three occasions, and passed the EER on both the second and third occasions.<sup>10628</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNBJ

3910. Witness WUNBJ, an employee at the BPO in 1994,<sup>10629</sup> testified that he saw 50 to 100 refugees at the Protestant school, known as EER when he got to the BPO.<sup>10630</sup> The refugees stayed there for two or three weeks around the middle or towards the end of May; he subsequently stated he saw them during June 1994.<sup>10631</sup> He later stated that he had no clear recollection of the time frame.<sup>10632</sup>

3911. Witness WUNBJ told his superior that he had seen that the workshop was open and thereafter returned to the EER because he was asked to check if there were teachers among the refugees since it was time to pay salaries.<sup>10633</sup> Upon returning to the EER while standing on the road at the workshop door of the EER, he recognised two teachers among the refugees whom he knew very well.<sup>10634</sup> He subsequently testified he did not know whether they were Tutsis or

3912. The witness did not enter the premises of the EER.<sup>10636</sup> He told the teachers to go to the MRND Palace to collect their salaries but he did not know whether they actually did, as he went back to his office.<sup>10637</sup> The teachers did not mention any problems they might have faced at EER.<sup>10638</sup> Between April and July 1994 the witness did not observe any “particular events” at the EER premises.<sup>10639</sup> The refugees were free to move between the BPO and the EER.<sup>10640</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness CEM

3913. Witness CEM, a Hutu teacher from Ngoma commune,<sup>10641</sup> testified that on her way to Denise Ntahobali’s home at the beginning of May 1994, she saw refugees at the Adventist school also known as the EER.<sup>10642</sup> She testified that there were about 100 refugees, who were outside in the courtyard and behind the classrooms, and that there were many women and children and a few men.<sup>10643</sup> While she did not know the exact length of time that the refugees remained at the EER, she did not see them when she went by that road again at the end of May.<sup>10644</sup> She did not know the ethnicity of the refugees at the EER, but stated that the refugees were “moving around” in the area behind the classrooms when she saw them.<sup>10645</sup> The refugees had left at the time the school was going to resume, so as to enable the pupils to get back to their classrooms; she was not aware that they had been killed.<sup>10646</sup> The people at the EER were not being guarded, and Witness CEM did not see any armed civilians, or people wearing military or Interahamwe uniforms.<sup>10647</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Denise Ntahobali

3914. Denise Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali’s sister, testified that while she was on the first floor of the hotel, she saw about 100 refugees in the middle of the courtyard at the entrance of the classrooms of the EER, although she could not recall what month she saw them.<sup>10648</sup> When she saw the refugees at the EER, she did not hear loud screams or gunshots.<sup>10649</sup> The refugees were civilian women who were cooking while children played in the courtyard in front of one of the classrooms.<sup>10650</sup> There was about 100 metres between the Hotel Ihuliro and the EER.<sup>10651</sup>

3915. Maurice Ntahobali, Shalom Ntahobali's father, stated that between April and July 1994, there were refugees at the EER, but not for a long time; he saw them only once, and less than a week later they were not there anymore.<sup>10652</sup> This occasion where he saw them was at the end of May 1994.<sup>10653</sup> He did not hear gunfire or screams from people being attacked or assaulted coming from that spot.<sup>10654</sup>

3916. Maurice Ntahobali testified he saw refugees at the EER on one occasion at the end of May 1994; he could see them from the hotel balcony because the EER was adjacent to the Hotel Ihuliro. The witness did not know why they had come there or why they were moved out; it was difficult for him to estimate the number of refugees because he only saw those who were outside the classrooms, strolling about the courtyard.<sup>10655</sup>

3917. Céline Nyiraneza, Ntahobali's aunt and Nyiramasuhuko's sister, testified that she saw about 100 refugees within the EER premises; they were cooking outside and could move around.<sup>10656</sup> She could not give an exact date as to when she saw the refugees at the EER.<sup>10657</sup> The EER consisted of at least six buildings, and was located 200 metres away from the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>10658</sup> She subsequently said that EER was between 100 and 200 metres away from the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>10659</sup> The witness further testified that refugees stayed there for about two weeks; she never heard gunshots from EER.<sup>10660</sup> She could see people moving around at the EER from the balcony of her room; the refugees would come to the Hotel Ihuliro to find out if there was beer before returning to the EER.<sup>10661</sup> She did not know the ethnicity of the refugees who gathered at the EER.<sup>10662</sup>

3918. Witness WBUC, a relative of Nyiramasuhuko, indicated that she knew Shalom Ntahobali very well because it was as if they grew up together.<sup>10663</sup> She testified that while she was staying at the Hotel Ihuliro in Butare, in April or May 1994, she could see about 30 refugees cooking outside at the EER; she did not know whether there were more refugees that she could not see inside the EER's buildings.<sup>10664</sup> The refugees were cooking in front of the classrooms, on the side facing the university, and not towards the main road.<sup>10665</sup> She did not hear any shots or shouts coming from that place.<sup>10666</sup> She recognised a Tutsi lady at the EER who was from her commune.<sup>10667</sup> The woman was in a crowd and Witness WBUC did not have much time to talk to this person; the woman told Witness WBUC that she had been at the EER and was being told to return to her home. That lady did not say anything about abductions or killings at the EER.<sup>10668</sup>

3919. She was aware that refugees had fled their homes for the EER because of insecurity.<sup>10669</sup> She did not see any refugees when she went to mass at the EER church in April 1994.<sup>10670</sup>

Nsabimana

3920. Nsabimana testified that around 15 to 20 May 1994, the Security Council decided to move the refugees and displaced persons from the BPO to somewhere else to enable the proper functioning of the office, since, at the time, there was the impression that life was returning to normal. Nsabimana asked Sous-préfet Rutayisire to find a safer place for them.<sup>10671</sup> After first proposing a Catholic girls primary school, Rutayisire proposed the EER school.<sup>10672</sup> Unlike the BPO, the EER had many buildings where the refugees could stay, such as empty classrooms, and had more facilities like furniture, water and toilets.<sup>10673</sup> From the BPO, the EER's closest building was 100 metres, and its farthest building was 200 metres from the BPO.<sup>10674</sup> The EER school and Hotel Ihuliro could both be seen from University Road.<sup>10675</sup> The EER was located on University Road.<sup>10676</sup>

3921. Nsabimana testified that the transfer of refugees to the EER school was accepted by the Security Council.<sup>10677</sup> Although he did not know the actual date the refugees were transferred, it must have been between 15 and 20 May 1994.<sup>10678</sup>

3922. The people who were transferred to the EER were asked to leave, they took a few items and left. They were not escorted to the EER. Nsabimana did not receive any information from his sous-préfet as to how the people settled in at the EER, but knew that the refugees settled into the classrooms that were empty because of the holiday period.<sup>10679</sup> A pastor who lived in Cyarwa in Tumba informed Nsabimana that he gave the refugees food while they were at the EER school, and that this was independent of what they received from other sources.<sup>10680</sup> Nsabimana did not know the pastor's name but knew he worked at the EER.<sup>10681</sup>

3923. The refugees remained at the EER for one or two weeks.<sup>10682</sup> After that, they returned to the BPO.<sup>10683</sup> They returned to the BPO in the last days of May, around 31 May 1994.<sup>10684</sup> When Nsabimana enquired why the refugees had returned to the BPO, Sous-préfet Rutayisire informed him that it was because the EER students had already resumed school and Monseigneur Ndandari, an Anglican bishop who owned the school, told them to leave.<sup>10685</sup> Monseigneur Ndandari did not tell him of the decision to return the refugees, Nsabimana just saw them return to the BPO via the rear quarters.<sup>10686</sup> He estimated 100 to 200 refugees returned.<sup>10687</sup> None of the returning refugees told Nsabimana about anything that took place while at the EER schools premises.<sup>10688</sup>

3924. About three days after their return from the EER, different people including soldiers, some members of the Security Council like Kalimanzira and Bushishi, as well as the new commander of Ngoma camp, Ntambabazi, and people at the roadblocks asked why the refugees were at the préfecture office and not elsewhere.<sup>10689</sup> Once Nsabimana became aware that massacres took place, and that there were risks “even in closed structures”, during both the day and night, he was not at peace with himself because he went home fearing that he may not find the refugees in the morning.<sup>10690</sup>

3926. Nsabimana admitted that he had written The Truth About the Massacres in Butare.<sup>10694</sup> In that document, he stated:

I needed to find a place to accommodate these people [refugees at the BPO]. Finally I found [the] EER school. The government authorities complained saying that the people should be sent elsewhere. This was not possible because they would have been killed by others. Even at [the] EER, there was some insecurity which forced the refugees to return to my office.<sup>10695</sup>

3927. Ntahobali testified that he saw refugees at the EER; he saw them after his bout of malaria and before he left for Cyanguu, meaning between 7 and 17 May 1994.<sup>10696</sup> He approximated seeing 50 to 60 people, who remained at the EER for about one week.<sup>10697</sup> He saw they were both inside and outside the classrooms. Some of the refugees walked to the Hotel Ihuliro to buy lemonade and other articles.<sup>10698</sup> Between April and July 1994, he never went inside the EER complex, although it was quite close to his house, because he had no reason to go there.<sup>10699</sup> He denied committing any crimes at the EER between April and July 1994.<sup>10700</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

3928. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the EER was a Protestant school.<sup>10701</sup> She knew that there were refugees at the EER and trusted that the Red Cross was rendering assistance to the refugees at the EER.<sup>10702</sup>

3.6.36.4 Deliberations

3929. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that in May and June 1994, on the orders of Nsabimana, refugees were transferred by soldiers from the préfecture offices to the EER. Some of them were either beaten or killed by soldiers, while others were taken to the neighbouring woods where a great many were executed.<sup>10703</sup>

3930. It is not disputed that the refugees who had been staying at the BPO were sent by Nsabimana to the EER school complex.<sup>10704</sup> The Parties dispute, however, the reason for the transfer and whether the refugees were attacked at the EER complex. The Parties also dispute the number of refugees who were present.

3.6.36.4.1 Timing and Reason for the Transfer of Refugees to the EER

3931. Des Forges testified that Nsabimana told her the transfer was precipitated by Kalimanziira because it looked bad to have refugees in front of the BPO.<sup>10705</sup> In her opinion, the movement of refugees was an effort to hide evidence of the genocide from foreigners who would be visiting in the near future.<sup>10706</sup>

3932. Nsabimana claimed that the Security Council decided to move refugees to enable the proper functioning of the BPO and that Sous-préfet Rutayisire proposed the EER school as a safer place for them.<sup>10707</sup> He claimed the refugees were given food and had access to water at the EER.<sup>10708</sup> Witness SX corroborated that the refugees had access to water.<sup>10709</sup> Witnesses QY, SX and SJ testified that at least some refugees were permitted in sheltered classrooms at the EER.<sup>10710</sup> However, Witness SJ testified that the soldiers closed the water taps opened by the pastor, and threatened him, and that the soldiers took away the food the pastor gave them.<sup>10711</sup> Witness SX testified that he thought the refugees had been brought to the EER to be protected and that is why he sought refuge there, although killings nonetheless took place at that location.<sup>10712</sup>

3933. Nsabimana also testified that members of the Security Council like Kalimanziira and Bushishi inquired as to the reason for the presence of the refugees at the BPO and that he therefore feared for their safety.<sup>10713</sup> Nsabimana testified that Kalimanziira was hostile to the BBC film crew.<sup>10714</sup> The Chamber notes that the EER school complex was located below the road known as University Road,<sup>10715</sup> and surrounded by forest.<sup>10716</sup> Unlike the courtyard of the BPO which was in plain view of the main road, the EER courtyard was protected from view by the EER buildings that constituted the classrooms.<sup>10717</sup> The buildings with the classrooms were nevertheless visible from the road. The Chamber accepts Nsabimana's testimony that the Security Council decided to move the refugees and displaced persons from the BPO to somewhere else to enable the proper functioning of the office.<sup>10718</sup> The Chamber agrees with Des Forges' opinion that the Security Council and Kalimanziira may have taken the decision to move the refugees from the BPO to hide evidence of killing and displacement of refugees.<sup>10719</sup> In this respect the Chamber recalls the testimony of Nsabimana to the effect that while Nsabimana granted the BBC crew permission to move about in town,<sup>10720</sup> Kalimanzira was visibly against Nsabimana signing the authorisation, saying journalists produced pro-RPF and anti-government propaganda.<sup>10721</sup> In the Chamber's view, Nsabimana's testimony as to Kalimanzira's discomfort with the presence of journalists is corroborated by Des Forges' opinion. The Chamber is also of the view that upon the direction of Kalimanzira and the Security Council, the refugees were ordered to go to the EER school complex to prevent their discovery by foreigners.

3934. As to the timing of the transfer, the Chamber accepts Nsabimana's estimation that the refugees at the BPO were transferred to the EER between 15 and 20 May 1994 and stayed there until approximately 31 May 1994 when they returned to the BPO.<sup>10722</sup> This was corroborated by the evidence given by Witnesses RE, SX, Bararwandika and H1B6, discussed below.

3.6.36.4.2 Number and Ethnicity of Refugees Affected at the EER

3935. Witness RE estimated there were more than 300 refugees at the EER, in contrast to her prior statement which set the number at 4,000 refugees.<sup>10723</sup> This estimate was based on the one week that Witness RE testified she spent at the EER.<sup>10724</sup> The Chamber recalls that Witness RE fled Gikongoro préfecture for Butare préfecture in April 1994,<sup>10725</sup> went to the university teaching hospital where she stayed for one week, before being asked to move to the préfecture office;<sup>10726</sup> she spent only one night at the BPO and the following day Préfet Nsabimana ordered the refugees from the BPO to the EER.<sup>10727</sup> Witness H1B6, who was at Butare University Hospital between April and mid-June 1994,<sup>10728</sup> stated that people present at the hospital who did not require admission were moved to the EER and subsequently to the BPO around mid-May 1994.<sup>10729</sup> This was corroborated by Alexandre Bararwandika.<sup>10730</sup> Accordingly, on the basis of Witness RE's testimony as to her movements during this period as well as the corroborative testimony of Bararwandika and Witness H1B6, the Chamber considers Witness RE was at the EER sometime around mid-May 1994.

3936. Witness SJ said the number of refugees at the EER was about 2,000 at one point.<sup>10731</sup> Witness SJ could not recall the month or dates of her visits to the EER.<sup>10732</sup> However, Witnesses SJ and RE provided similar testimony regarding the conditions upon their arrival at the EER (arriving in the rain and being locked outside) and their return to the BPO. The Chamber thus considers that Witnesses SJ and RE testified regarding approximately the same time period, i.e. mid-May 1994. Witness SX estimated between 500 and 1,000 refugees came to the EER,<sup>10733</sup> and estimated they started arriving one to two weeks after his arrival in Butare,<sup>10734</sup> which was about two weeks after the President's plane crash in 1994.<sup>10735</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber considers the refugees must have started arriving at the EER around the start or middle of May 1994. Having regard to Witness SX's testimony that the refugees spent about a month or two at the EER before being moved on towards the end of the war,<sup>10736</sup> the Chamber considers Witness SX's estimate was based on a much longer period of time than either Witness RE's or SJ's estimates. Other Prosecution witnesses did not estimate the number of refugees present at the EER.

3937. The Chamber recalls that Nsabimana estimated that about 200 refugees returned to the BPO from the EER<sup>10737</sup> in the last days of May, around 31 May 1994.<sup>10738</sup> The Chamber considers that insofar as Nsabimana's estimate only refers to those refugees who returned to the BPO, it is not necessarily inconsistent with the testimony of the Prosecution witnesses who variously estimated the number of refugees present at the EER as more than 300, 1,000 and 2,000 during various periods of time. In contrast to Nsabimana, the Defence witnesses variously estimated there were between 30 and over 100 refugees at the EER.<sup>10739</sup> However, these witnesses observed the refugees from the Hotel Ihuliro and the owner of that hotel, Maurice Ntahobali, admitted that he could only see those refugees who were in the courtyard.<sup>10740</sup> Many refugees crowded into classrooms when they were unlocked after the first day.<sup>10741</sup>

3938. The Chamber also recalls Prosecution Exhibit 27, a video recording of the refugees at the BPO around 15 June 1994 after they had returned from the EER. At that time the number of refugees may have been around 200, but having regard to the Chamber's previous findings that many dozens if not hundreds of the refugees had been killed before that time at the BPO (), the Chamber is therefore convinced that the number of refugees at the EER during late-May 1994 well exceeded 200.

3939. As to the ethnicity of the refugees, Witness RE testified that the people who settled on the veranda of the EER were Tutsis and that soldiers and Interahamwe who came to the EER were saying it was over for the Tutsis.<sup>10742</sup> Bernadette Kamanzi, Kanyabashi's wife, testified that Kanyabashi told her that he had sent her nephew where other Tutsis had taken refuge, namely at the EER,<sup>10743</sup> with the intention of evacuating him in the evening.<sup>10744</sup> Lastly, Des Forges testified that during her interview with Nsabimana on 3 April 1996 Nsabimana told her that Callixte Kalimanzira, the de facto interim Minister of the Interior, told Nsabimana “it looked bad” to have Tutsis at the préfecture office.<sup>10745</sup>

3940. Based on the aforementioned, the Chamber is therefore convinced that those who took refuge at the EER were predominantly Tutsis.

3.6.36.4.3 Events at the EER

3.6.36.4.3.1 Ntahobali's Alibi

3941. The Chamber recalls Ntahobali's testimony that he went to Cyangugu on 26 or 27 May 1994 and returned to Butare on 5 June 1994,<sup>10746</sup> as well as the testimony of Clarisse Ntahobali, Céline Nyiraneza, Maurice Ntahobali and Béatrice Munyenyezi that Ntahobali had the responsibility of ensuring that the generator at the Hotel Ihuliro was turned on and shut down every evening<sup>10747</sup> such that he could not have been elsewhere. The Chamber previously found neither of these alibis raised a reasonable doubt as to Ntahobali's presence at the BPO during the period of late May to early June 1994 ().

3942. Considering the Chamber's earlier finding that the refugees were at the EER between 15/20 May and 31 May 1994, approximately the same time period the Chamber previously considered with respect to the BPO, the Chamber equally considers that Ntahobali's alibis for late May/early June 1994 are not reasonably possibly true as to his presence at the EER.

3.6.36.4.3.2 Involvement of Interahamwe and Ntahobali

3943. The Chamber recalls that it found Witness RE was at the EER sometime around mid-May 1994. Witness RE gave eyewitness testimony that the refugees were attacked at the EER complex the first night they arrived and during the subsequent days.<sup>10748</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness RE provided numerous details about the day the refugees arrived, including the fact that when the refugees arrived, the doors of the classroom were locked and the refugees were forced to seek shelter from a torrential rain on the veranda.<sup>10749</sup> Details referring to the rain,<sup>10750</sup> some classroom doors being locked and seeking shelter on the veranda<sup>10751</sup> and the attack on the first night<sup>10752</sup> were variously corroborated by Witnesses QY, SJ and QBQ. Based on these details and corroboration, the Chamber finds Witness RE to be credible.

3945. The Prosecution presented evidence that the Interahamwe committed attacks at the EER. Witness RE testified that the Interahamwe came during the days to take away people and kill them.<sup>10757</sup> Witness SJ testified that the soldiers all wore the same uniform although Witness SJ did not know if they were soldiers or gendarmes.<sup>10758</sup> When put to her that her statement of 3 December 1996 referred only to the presence of soldiers at the EER, but not Interahamwe, Witness SJ said it was the same thing since both soldiers and Interahamwe wore uniforms.<sup>10759</sup> She named several Interahamwe who wore "Interahamwe" civilian attire by night and military uniform by day.<sup>10760</sup> Witness TA also testified that Interahamwe from the roadblock near Nyiramasuhuko's home came to attack the refugees at the EER, killing them in the bush and near lavatories where a pit had been dug.<sup>10761</sup> The Chamber accepts that at the time of giving her statements, soldiers and Interahamwe may have been interchangeable to Witness SJ insofar as they both wore uniforms. However, in light of Witness SJ's detailed testimony which names specific Interahamwe allegedly present during the attacks, when coupled with the corroborative evidence of Witness RE concerning the presence of Interahamwe at the EER, the Chamber accepts that Interahamwe committed attacks at the EER.

3946. As to the involvement of Ntahobali, Witnesses RE, QY, SX and TB testified that he was present at the EER.<sup>10762</sup> The Chamber notes that throughout her testimony, Witness RE referred to Ntahobali as Shalom; Witness RE did not know Ntahobali prior to the events, but said others had identified him for her.<sup>10763</sup> Despite being hearsay evidence, this testimony is nevertheless corroborative of the identification of Ntahobali.<sup>10764</sup> She said he was wearing an ordinary soldier's uniform.<sup>10765</sup> Witness RE only saw Shalom on that night<sup>10766</sup> and she was on the school veranda when she saw him.<sup>10767</sup> The Chamber recalls the testimony of Witness SX that there was lighting at the EER school itself, though not in the classrooms.<sup>10768</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber considers Witness RE had adequate conditions in which to observe and identify Ntahobali.

3947. Witness QY testified that she saw Ntahobali at the EER on two occasions.<sup>10769</sup> Witness QY had seen Ntahobali at Butare University Hospital<sup>10770</sup> and the BPO<sup>10771</sup> prior to seeing him at the EER. Therefore, by the time the refugees were transferred from the BPO to the EER in mid-May 1994, Witness QY had seen Ntahobali on two prior occasions.

3948. The Chamber notes that Witness RE misidentified Ntahobali in court<sup>10772</sup> and that Witness QY stated she would not be able to identify Ntahobali in court.<sup>10773</sup> However, the Chamber also notes that by the time of their testimony nearly nine years had passed since the events of 1994. Therefore, the Chamber does not consider that either Witness RE's misidentification of Ntahobali or Witness QY's inability to identify Ntahobali in court undermines the credibility of these witnesses or the reliability of their identification that the man who attacked the refugees was Ntahobali, especially having regard to the detailed and consistent nature of their overall testimony concerning this event.

3949. The Chamber further notes Witness SX said that Ntahobali came to the EER a number of times with Interahamwe at night in a Hilux pickup truck belonging to someone else<sup>10774</sup> and on the first night took away five adults.<sup>10775</sup> Like Witness RE, Witness SX also learned Ntahobali's identity through a third person when they were at the roadblock in front of Nyiramasuhuko's house.<sup>10776</sup> Considering Witness SX had several opportunities to observe Ntahobali, and recalling the lighting conditions at the EER,<sup>10777</sup> the Chamber considers Witness SX's testimony to be reliable and corroborative of Ntahobali's involvement in the EER attacks.

3950. Although Witness TB was not at the EER, she further corroborated the presence of Ntahobali at the EER, insofar as she testified to seeing Ntahobali at the EER church compound along with a man named Kazungu.<sup>10778</sup> Although Witness TB did not testify as to when this sighting occurred, her testimony nonetheless contradicts Ntahobali's testimony that he never entered the EER complex even though it was quite close to his home.<sup>10779</sup>

3951. The Prosecution also presented evidence that the Interahamwe were led by Ntahobali. In particular the Chamber notes the testimony of Witnesses RE and SX that Shalom was the leader of the Interahamwe and that they feared and obeyed him.<sup>10780</sup> Witness QY testified that it was the soldiers who were in military uniform and civilian clothes who took the young people, but it was Shalom who directed the attack.<sup>10781</sup> The Chamber recalls Witness QY testified that she did not know any other person in Butare whose name was Shalom either during the war or at the time of her testimony.<sup>10782</sup> In light of the foregoing, the Chamber accepts that the Interahamwe were led by Ntahobali.

3.6.36.4.3.3 Involvement of Soldiers

3952. In addition to Interahamwe, several Prosecution witnesses testified that soldiers were involved in both the transfer to and the attacks at the EER. Prosecution Witnesses RE and QY testified that soldiers escorted them to the EER and beat them along the way.<sup>10783</sup> Witnesses RE, QY, SJ and QBQ also testified that, apart from Interahamwe, soldiers came to the EER and variously abducted and killed the refugees.<sup>10784</sup>

3953. Witness RE said that soldiers involved in the attacks comprised a mix of ordinary soldiers and some from the Presidential Guard.<sup>10785</sup> When it was put to Witness RE that her previous statement of 5 December 1996 stated only that the Presidential Guard returned to the EER to abduct persons, but made no mention of ordinary soldiers, she explained that she had mentioned both Presidential Guard and ordinary soldiers to the investigator, but it was left out of her statement.<sup>10786</sup> The Chamber considers this discrepancy to be minor. Recalling the Chamber's finding that Witness RE's testimony about her arrival at the EER was detailed and corroborated, the Chamber finds Witness RE's account as to this event to be credible.

3954. Witness SJ testified that soldiers came from the ESO military barracks, from the Hotel Ihuliro roadblock and the Hotel Ihuliro itself.<sup>10787</sup> She said the soldiers showed the refugees grenades and threatened them.<sup>10788</sup> The soldiers would take away 10 or 12 men at a time from the EER at night and kill them.<sup>10789</sup> Afterwards, they sent back one of the men for him to say what happened.<sup>10790</sup> When put to her that this last event did not appear in her statement of 3 December 1996, Witness SJ stated that it was possible she forgot to add certain things.<sup>10791</sup> The Chamber has reviewed Witness SJ's statement of 3 December 1996 and notes that it outlines in detail the role of the soldiers at the EER. Although it does not mention that soldiers sent one man back to the EER to inform the other refugees of what happened when refugees were taken away, the Chamber does not consider this omission goes to the root of her account, or undermines the credibility of her account as to the actions of soldiers at the EER. Notwithstanding this omission, the Chamber finds Witness SJ's testimony on this element to be credible in that it was corroborated by other witnesses and consistent with the other evidence before the Chamber about the abductions of refugees.

3955. Witness SJ estimated that the soldiers came on three occasions.<sup>10792</sup> The soldiers appeared to be working in shifts because there were different soldiers in the day and at night.<sup>10793</sup> She saw soldiers coming from the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>10794</sup> She was able to observe the soldiers coming to the EER because the Hotel Ihuliro, Nyiramasuhuko's residence, was visible from the EER.<sup>10795</sup> This last fact was corroborated by several Defence witnesses who testified to seeing refugees at the EER from the balconies of the Hotel Ihuliro which was adjacent to the EER complex.<sup>10796</sup> Ntahobali's sister Denise and his aunt Céline Nyiraneza both testified that the EER schools were about 100 metres from the Hotel Ihuliro and Ntahobali testified that the EER was quite close to his house.<sup>10797</sup>

3.6.36.4.3.4 Killings at the EER

3956. No Prosecution witness personally saw the killing of the abducted refugees. Witness RE believed the men and boys that the Interahamwe took to a nearby forest had been executed because they never came back.<sup>10798</sup> While she did not personally see any killings of abducted refugees, she learned they had been killed with bludgeons.<sup>10799</sup> Witness RE also testified that some people who managed to escape and returned to the EER informed the others that those taken away had been killed with clubs and machetes and that this had been done while they were naked.<sup>10800</sup>

3957. Witness SJ also testified that persons taken from the EER compound were killed in the nearby forest.<sup>10801</sup> While Witness SJ also did not personally see the refugees being killed,<sup>10802</sup>

she testified that while seeking respite from the conditions at the EER in the woods, they saw skulls in addition to a hole that had been dug; in these narrow holes they sometimes saw bodies with bloated stomachs or that were decapitated.<sup>10803</sup>

3958. The Chamber considers these testimonies to be mutually consistent and thus finds that the only reasonable conclusion available from the evidence is that the refugees abducted from the EER were killed in the nearby woods. The Chamber also accepts the hearsay evidence of Witness RE that the abducted refugees were killed with clubs and machetes while they were naked,<sup>10804</sup> and the direct evidence of Witness SJ that some bodies were decapitated.<sup>10805</sup>

3.6.36.4.3.5 Rapes at the EER

3959. With respect to allegations of rape, Witness QY testified that one night, after soldiers and Interahamwe selected young men and girls, and took them to the woods,<sup>10806</sup> some soldiers remained behind and selected girls, among them Witness QY.<sup>10807</sup> Witness QY provided compelling and detailed testimony that she was raped at the EER by a corporal.<sup>10808</sup> Although corroboration of Witness QY's testimony concerning her rape is not required,<sup>10809</sup> Witness RE's testimony provided corroboration that young girls were raped at the EER and that those who refused to be raped were killed.<sup>10810</sup> Witness QBQ also testified that refugees were raped by soldiers from the ESO at the EER.<sup>10811</sup> Although Des Forges was called as an expert witness and not a witness of fact,<sup>10812</sup> her testimony recounting her interviews with Nsabimana nevertheless corroborates that rapes occurred at the EER.<sup>10813</sup>

3961. The Chamber notes that Witness QY gave her first statement in January 1997 whereas Ntahobali was only later charged with rape in the Indictment issued on 16 May 1997. Accordingly, the Chamber accepts Witness QY's explanation that she was not asked about rapes by the investigators at the time of her first statement. Insofar as her second statement given in September 1997 also failed to mention any account of rape, although by this time Ntahobali had been charged with rape in the Indictment of 16 May 1997, the Chamber accepts her explanation that she did not have the courage to discuss such crimes with the Tribunal investigators. In view of the fact that the Chamber considers Witness QY's testimony with respect to the transfer to the EER and the attacks to have been largely consistent with the testimony of other Prosecution witnesses, and therefore credible, the Chamber accepts Witness QY's explanation for failing to discuss her rape at the time of giving her first and second statements.

3962. When Witness QY was also questioned as to why she had not confronted her attacker during his trial in Rwandan courts,<sup>10817</sup> Witness QY was unable to give any explanation. Witness QY also testified that her rape at the EER was her first sexual experience<sup>10818</sup> and the only time she was raped at the EER.<sup>10819</sup> When it was put to her that her fourth prior statement of 24 July 2000 said she had been previously raped by two soldiers in April 1994 near Kibeho Parish, she declined to answer whether she had been previously raped.<sup>10820</sup> She subsequently disowned the content of that statement<sup>10821</sup> and later testified that she was not raped at Kibeho.<sup>10822</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber does not accept Witness QY's testimony as to the Kibeho rape. Nevertheless, the Chamber considers Witness QY's contradictory account about the Kibeho rape does not undermine the reliability of her testimony with respect to her rape at the EER.

3963. Witness QY was cross-examined about the details of her rape at the EER. It was put to Witness QY that her third statement said that a soldier found her in an EER classroom at night and raped her at the compound of the EER school after taking her skirt, whereas her testimony was that soldiers took her from the veranda around 6.00 p.m. and took her to woods nearby where they forced her to completely undress.<sup>10823</sup> The Chamber has had regard to these alleged inconsistencies and does not consider they go to the root of her account such as to undermine the credibility of her overall account that she was a victim of rape.

3964. As to the testimony presented by the Defence that no attacks occurred at the EER, the Chamber finds this testimony to be not credible. The Chamber has found the Prosecution evidence as to the attacks at the EER to be both credible and reliable. Further, most of the Defence witnesses who testified in this respect were either relatives or friends of Ntahobali such that they were residing in the hotel belonging to Maurice Ntahobali during the events between April and July 1994, for which reason the Chamber considers these witnesses may have had a motive to lie.

3.6.36.4.3.6 Conclusion

3965. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that between mid-May and the beginning of June 1994: soldiers escorted and beat the refugees on the way to the EER; Ntahobali was involved in and led Interahamwe in attacks against, and abductions of, Tutsi refugees during their stay at the EER; soldiers, both alone and accompanied by Ntahobali, came to the EER and were also involved in abductions of refugees during the same period; soldiers raped women and young girls at or near the EER school; Ntahobali, Interahamwe and soldiers killed the abducted Tutsi refugees in the woods near the EER school complex. However, the Chamber does not find it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ntahobali led the soldiers to the EER.

3.6.36.4.4 Nsabimana's Involvement in the EER Events

3967. Witnesses RE, QY and QBQ all were Tutsis seeking refuge at the BPO at the time of the transfer to the EER. As such they provided eyewitness accounts of events at the BPO on the day of the transfer. Witnesses RE, QY and QBQ testified that Nsabimana ordered the transfer of the refugees to the EER.<sup>10826</sup> Nsabimana testified that the transfer of refugees from the BPO to the EER school was carried out pursuant to a decision of the Security Council.<sup>10827</sup> To this end, the Chamber recalls Nsabimana's testimony that upon a Directive of the Security Council, he made an application to the National Bank in Kigali to open a Security Council account in the name of civilian defence.<sup>10828</sup> The Chamber also recalls that with respect to the Nyange transfer the Security Council meeting took place in Nsabimana's office at the BPO,<sup>10829</sup> and in the hours after the meeting, Nsabimana, as the only person who could requisition the vehicles, found one bus to transport the refugees to Nyange.<sup>10830</sup> Accordingly, as a natural corollary of Witnesses RE, QY and QBQ's testimonies that Nsabimana ordered the transfer of the refugees, the Chamber considers it was Nsabimana, in his role as serving préfet, who put the Security Council decision into effect. This is consistent with Nsabimana's own testimony, that the decision to transfer the refugees was made by the Security Council.

3968. As to the motivation for moving the refugees from the BPO to the EER, the Chamber recalls that it accepted that the Security Council moved the refugees from the BPO to somewhere else to enable the proper functioning of the office,<sup>10831</sup> but also that the Security Council and Kalimanzira may have taken the decision to move the refugees from the BPO to hide evidence of the killing and displacement of refugees.<sup>10832</sup>

3969. The events which occurred after the transfer to the EER further contradicts Nsabimana's testimony that the transfer was intended for the refugees' protection. The Chamber recalls its previous findings that Ntahobali was involved in and led soldiers and Interahamwe in attacks at the EER against Tutsi refugees between mid-May and the beginning of June 1994, that Interahamwe and soldiers abducted and killed refugees in the woods near the EER school complex, and that women and young girls were raped by soldiers at or near the EER school complex.

3970. In the circumstances, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Préfet Nsabimana ordered the refugees be taken from the BPO to the EER pursuant to a Security Council decision, and rejects that the reason for the transfer was to protect the refugees.

3971. However, the Chamber recalls that Paragraph 6.39 was not pled in support of counts against Nsabimana for which reason the Chamber will make no finding as to Nsabimana's responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (1). The Chamber will however consider the extent of Nsabimana's responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (3) for the alleged criminal acts of Kanyabashi and other subordinates whom the Chamber found were involved in attacks at the EER.

3.6.36.4.5 Nyiramasuhuko's Involvement in the EER Events

3972. Although Paragraph 6.30 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment was also pled in support of Counts 2-3, 5-7, 9-10 against Nyiramasuhuko, the Chamber notes no evidence was led with respect to Nyiramasuhuko's involvement in events at the EER.<sup>10833</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber finds Nyiramasuhuko's involvement in these events has not been established beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.36.4.6 Kanyabashi's Involvement in the EER Events

3973. Although Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment was pled in support of all counts against Kanyabashi, the Chamber notes no evidence was led with respect to Kanyabashi's involvement in events at the EER. In the circumstances, the Chamber finds Kanyabashi's involvement in these events has not been established beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.37 Gitarama Meeting, Late May 1994

3.6.37.1 Introduction

3974. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from late 1990 until July 1994, military personnel, members of the government, political leaders, civil servants and other personalities conspired among themselves and with others to work out a plan with the intent to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and eliminate members of the opposition, so that they could remain in power. The components of this plan consisted of, among other things, recourse to hatred and ethnic violence, the training of and distribution of weapons to militiamen as well as the preparation of lists of people to be eliminated. In executing the plan, they organised, ordered and participated in the massacres perpetrated against the Tutsi population and of moderate Hutus. Sylvain Nsabimana, Alphonse Nteziryayo, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, André Rwamakuba, Joseph Kanyabashi, Élie Ndayambaje, Ladislas Ntaganzwa and Shalom Arsène Ntahobali elaborated, adhered to and executed this plan.<sup>10834</sup>

3975. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana's role in the conspiracy to commit genocide against the Tutsi population was to convene and attend meetings, assist the civil self-defence effort, supply fuel to help transport youths, distribute weapons to the communes, encourage youths to join the army, and encourage others to join in the genocidal effort to kill the Tutsis.<sup>10835</sup>

3976. Among the meetings attended by Nsabimana for conspiracy purposes, the Prosecution singles out that of 28 May 1994 held in Gitarama préfecture, which was chaired by Prime Minister Kambanda.<sup>10836</sup> The Prosecution did not call any witness in support of this specific allegation, nor tender any exhibit in this regard. The Prosecution instead refers to the testimony of Nsabimana himself and submits that in his address during this meeting, Nsabimana asked for gendarmes to control the refugees and keep them together. According to the Prosecution this assertion contradicts Nsabimana's subsequent testimony that he did not know that he could use gendarmes.<sup>10837</sup>

3977. The Nsabimana Defence submits that, contrary to what is alleged by the Prosecution, Nsabimana did not ask the gendarmes to intervene in order to control and gather together the refugees during this meeting. The Defence submits that the Prosecution's deduction misrepresents Nsabimana's testimony.<sup>10838</sup>

3978. Nyiramasuhuko also testified about this meeting.

3.6.37.2 Preliminary Issues

3979. The Chamber notes that the Gitarama meeting of 28 May 1994 is not specifically pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, which is therefore rendered defective.

3980. The Chamber must then determine whether the Indictment is cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief made no reference to any witness who might have been expected to testify on this event. In addition, no witness statement was disclosed in this respect. Therefore, the defect has not been cured and the Chamber declines to make a finding in respect of this allegation. In any event, no Prosecution witness was called to testify on this particular meeting during the trial.

3.6.38 Hotel Ibis and Hotel Faucon Killings, May and June 1994

3982. The Nteziryayo and Nsabimana Indictment alleges that in May and June 1994, Nteziryayo, who was staying at the same hotel as Robert Kajuga in Butare, ordered the Interahamwe to search for Tutsis and kill them.<sup>10840</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo ordered his subordinates to kill a Tutsi man in the forest behind the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10841</sup> It also submits that Nteziryayo's subordinates, the Interahamwe members, took a group of Tutsis to "the hotel" where they were killed.<sup>10842</sup> In support of this allegation, the Prosecution relies on the evidence of Prosecution Witness QJ.

3983. In addition to the notice challenges set forth below, the Nteziryayo Defence challenges the credibility of Prosecution Witness QJ. It also submits that Kajuga's arrival at Hotel Ibis was unrelated to the fact that Nteziryayo was living there. It states that Nteziryayo was precluded from being a member of the Interahamwe by virtue of his age and status as a soldier, and questions whether the President of Rwanda would dismiss Nteziryayo from the army only then to accept him as a member of the Interahamwe.<sup>10843</sup> It asserts the Prosecution did not set out a precise date for the alleged presence of Nteziryayo, the identity of the Interahamwe concerned, the identity of the supposed victim at the Hotel Ibis, or any evidence that this man was killed other than testimony that he did not return.<sup>10844</sup> It submits that the Prosecution did not set out a precise date for the alleged massacre at the Hotel Faucon or substantiate their claims that Nteziryayo was in charge of the Interahamwe.<sup>10845</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence relies on the testimony of Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-17, AND-36, AND-59 and Nteziryayo.<sup>10846</sup>

3.6.38.2 Preliminary Issues

Hotel Ibis Allegation

3984. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that Prosecution Witness QJ's testimony in respect of the abduction and killing of a Tutsi at Hotel Ibis is outside the scope of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and should therefore be excluded.<sup>10847</sup> The Chamber notes that while <sup>10847</sup> Nteziryayo Closing Brief, para. 765 (reiterating Prosecutor v. Nyiramasuhuko et al., Case No. ICTR-98-42-T, Alphonse Nteziryayo's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence, 23 January 2009, para. 39). In its Decision of 25 February 2009, the Chamber ruled that it would consider issues relating to certain alleged defects in the indictment, vagueness and lack of notice in its final deliberations. See Nteziryayo, Decision on Alphonse Nteziryayo's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence (TC), 25 February 2009.

Paragraph 6.30 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment makes a general accusation that Nteziryayo ordered the Interahamwe to kill Tutsis and mentions that Nteziryayo was staying at the same hotel in Butare as Robert Kajuga, this paragraph does not indicate the location of the alleged killing. Therefore, Paragraph 6.30 is defective.

3985. The summary of Witness QJ's anticipated testimony included in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Nteziryayo and the Interahamwe president murdered; that Nteziryayo lived in the Hotel Ibis; and that around late May, Nteziryayo gave an order to "get rid of the dirt."<sup>10848</sup> Prosecution Witness QJ's statement of 8 May 1996, disclosed on 4 December 2000, provided that: in early May, when the Interahamwe arrived in Butare from Kigali "that Colonel sent them to search for people to kill"; and that Witness QJ heard Nteziryayo give orders to Interahamwe to go and look for someone who was hiding in the Hotel Ibis, stating "get rid of that dirt."<sup>10849</sup> The Indictment clearly alleges that Nteziryayo was staying with Robert Kajuga.<sup>10850</sup> Nteziryayo testified that it was public knowledge that Kajuga was the president of the Interahamwe.<sup>10851</sup> The Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief further clarified that Nteziryayo and Kajuga were staying at the Hotel Ibis and participated in murder.<sup>10852</sup> Furthermore, these subsequent disclosures clearly set forth the Hotel Ibis as the location where the man was allegedly ordered killed by Nteziryayo. Therefore, the Chamber finds that the defect in the Indictment was cured.

Hotel Faucon Allegation

3986. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that Witness QJ's testimony regarding killings at the Hotel Faucon is also outside the scope of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and should thus be excluded.<sup>10853</sup> The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.30 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment does not allege that Nteziryayo was responsible for killings at the Hotel Faucon. Therefore, the Chamber finds that Paragraph 6.30 was defective in this respect.

3987. The Chamber observes that the summary of Witness QJ's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Witness QJ saw Nteziryayo and the Interahamwe president murder. It also states that Nteziryayo lived at the Hotel Ibis in Butare and that Witness QJ saw Nteziryayo lead a group of men dressed in both military and civilian clothes, armed with rifles, hand grenades, machetes, clubs and hoes.<sup>10854</sup> There is no mention in the summary of Witness QJ's anticipated testimony of any killings at the Hotel Faucon.

3988. In his statement of 8 May 1996, Witness QJ testified that in early June 1994, he witnessed the killings of Bosco, Gibert and Verdaste, among others.<sup>10855</sup> The Interahamwe, who were staying at the Hotel Ibis with their president, Robert Kajuga, and Nteziryayo, found them where they were hidden at the Hotel Faucon and killed them all with clubs. All the victims were Tutsis. In his statement of 28 October 1997, Witness QJ mentioned the killings of Bosco and Safari at the Hotel Faucon but did not mention Nteziryayo's alleged involvement in these events.<sup>10856</sup> 3989. The 8 May 1996 statement mentions Nteziryayo's alleged role in the killings at the Hotel Faucon. This allegation was not contained in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or its Appendix. The Chamber finds that the Defence was not sufficiently informed of the material facts that the Prosecution intended to prove at trial, and the defect in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment was not cured. Accordingly, the Chamber will not base a conviction on the allegation that Nteziryayo authorised killings at the Hotel Faucon. The Chamber will only consider the allegation that Nteziryayo ordered his subordinates to kill a Tutsi in the vicinity of the Hotel Ibis.

3.6.38.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QJ

3990. Witness QJ, a Tutsi hotel worker in Butare town, testified that he had falsified his identity card to indicate that he was Hutu. He did this prior to the start of the killings because it made it easier to move about freely and to acquire employment. He had a forged identity card because the authorities made a mistake and lightly crossed out the word Tutsi on his card. He deepened the crossing out of Tutsi on the identity card.<sup>10857</sup> The authorities had also crossed out Hutu but they had not crossed it out properly.<sup>10858</sup> After the killings started, Witness QJ continued to travel freely around Butare town on account of his identity card. No one knew that he was a Tutsi because he was not from Butare. He could not return to his home commune because the identity card could not be used there.<sup>10859</sup> He testified that possession of an identity card indicating Hutu ethnicity meant that "no one could arrest [him]".<sup>10860</sup> Witness QJ later conceded that many of those in or around Hotel Faucon knew or suspected that he was in fact Tutsi.<sup>10861</sup>

3991. Witness QJ knew Nteziryayo well as Nteziryayo was a resident guest at the hotel where Witness QJ worked around 10 April 1994.<sup>10862</sup> When the hotel closed because of the deteriorating security situation in Butare town, Nteziryayo moved to the Hotel Ibis, where he lived with Robert Kajuga, president of the Interahamwe, until Nteziryayo went into exile.<sup>10863</sup> Nteziryayo did not come to the hotel where Witness QJ worked between its closure in mid-April 1994 and the end of June 1994.<sup>10864</sup>

3993. Witness QJ testified he went to the Hotel Ibis regularly between April and the end of June 1994 to fetch water.<sup>10869</sup> He saw Nteziryayo there on several occasions.<sup>10870</sup> Witness QJ testified that Nteziryayo lived at the hotel and often went to its bar for a drink.<sup>10871</sup> Witness QJ said that around this time he saw Nteziryayo every day.<sup>10872</sup> The Interahamwe were guarding Robert Kajuga at the Hotel Ibis. Witness QJ testified that he realised that Nteziryayo was a deputy to Robert Kajuga when he once heard Nteziryayo give orders to the Interahamwe.<sup>10873</sup>

3994. Witness QJ testified that at the Hotel Ibis bar one day, while having a drink with friends, he saw Nteziryayo order the Interahamwe to take away a Tutsi man who had claimed to be of a different ethnicity and who was hiding at Hotel Ibis.<sup>10874</sup> Nteziryayo told the Interahamwe, who had found and beaten the Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis to take him and kill him near the forest, stating, “[t]ake this gentleman and go and kill him on the hill instead of killing him here in the Hotel Ibis.”<sup>10875</sup> Witness QJ testified that this order was carried out by the Interahamwe.<sup>10876</sup> The Interahamwe took the Tutsi man away and the man did not return.<sup>10877</sup>

3995. Witness QJ stated that the Interahamwe were under the orders of their leaders, Robert Kajuga, who was their president, and Nteziryayo, who lived with and was deputy to Kajuga.<sup>10878</sup> The witness identified Nteziryayo in court.<sup>10879</sup>

not know whether Kajuga was Tutsi, and that Kajuga was either bed-ridden or merely present and “not doing anything” at the bar when Witness QJ saw him.<sup>10882</sup> He did not know whether Kajuga and Nteziryayo lived in the same building within Hotel Ibis and did not see them together.<sup>10883</sup>

3997. Witness QJ testified that one morning towards the end of May or early June 1994 Witness AND-17 was among the attackers who killed Tutsis who were staying at the Hotel Faucon. He led a soldier named Jean-Baptiste to the hotel cellar where the Tutsis were hiding.<sup>10884</sup>

3998. Witness AND-17, a Hutu, testified that he had known Witness QJ since 1986 and was with him at all times between April and June 1994.<sup>10885</sup> He testified that Witness QJ did not go to Hotel Ibis at any time and, therefore, would not have witnessed anything that happened there.<sup>10886</sup>

3999. In cross-examination, the witness admitted that he did not share a room with Witness QJ, they did not stay in the same room at night, he did not accompany Witness QJ during his walks in the garden, and did not spend all day with Witness QJ in his room.<sup>10887</sup> Witness AND-17 testified that Witness QJ did not assist him in his work between 7.00 and 11.00 a.m. each day.<sup>10888</sup> Except for one day, Witness QJ did not accompany the witness to purchase cigarettes.<sup>10889</sup> The witness further testified that Witness QJ was under no obligation to report to the witness concerning his whereabouts,<sup>10890</sup> and that he did not know what Witness QJ did on 20 April 1994 while Witness AND-17 was visiting his parents.<sup>10891</sup>

4000. At the end of May, a soldier named Jean-Baptiste entered the Hotel Faucon.<sup>10892</sup> Jean-Baptiste asked Witness AND-17 to show him where he had hidden the Inyenzi in the hotel. Witness AND-17 explained that he had not hidden Inyenzi, only the hotel staff.<sup>10893</sup> They left the kitchen and met Witness QJ. Jean-Baptiste told Witness QJ that he knew where the staff members were hidden, and went to the basement room below the owner’s house. The door was smashed in and those inside were asked to come out.<sup>10894</sup>

4001. Jean-Baptiste told Witness AND-17 to kill two of the Tutsis with a hoe, but the witness responded that he could not.<sup>10895</sup> A group of Interahamwe came to the Hotel Faucon, but they did not have a leader.<sup>10896</sup> One of the bandits, named Michel, took the hoe and used it to kill the two Tutsis.<sup>10897</sup>

4002. After the two were killed, Witness AND-17 was ordered to open all the hotel rooms. The following day, Witness AND-17, Witness QJ and another colleague buried the two bodies in the hotel garden.<sup>10898</sup>

4003. Witness AND-17 testified that Witness QJ did not possess an identity card which said that he was Hutu and he did not travel around town freely.<sup>10899</sup> Witness QJ did not have an identity card at all and had to pay killers not to kill him on a number of occasions.<sup>10900</sup> Jean-Baptiste asked to see Witness QJ's identity card.<sup>10901</sup> After Witness QJ told Jean-Baptiste that he did not have a card, Jean-Baptiste told him he would be killed, ascertaining that he was Tutsi.<sup>10902</sup> Witness QJ then offered Jean-Baptiste money to spare his life, and Jean-Baptiste asked Witness QJ and the witness where the other hotel workers were.<sup>10903</sup>

4004. Witness AND-17 testified that Nteziryayo had nothing to do with the youths who called themselves "Interahamwe". The witness never observed him among these youths.<sup>10904</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-59

4005. Witness AND-59, a Hutu student in 1994,<sup>10905</sup> testified that Prosecution Witness QJ was a member of Ibuka and that this association was engaged in the coaching of witnesses to influence testimonies given before this Tribunal.<sup>10906</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCKJ

4006. Witness WCKJ, a Hutu educator,<sup>10907</sup> testified that after the President died a roadblock was erected at the Hotel Ibis. He stated that these roadblocks were manned by people wearing military uniform.<sup>10908</sup> Witness WCKJ testified that though he had made reference to a roadblock at Hotel Ibis and one at Hotel Faucon, there was only a roadblock at Hotel Faucon.<sup>10909</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-D

4007. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu detainee, testified that there was a small roadblock by the Hotel Ibis manned by Interahamwe who wore regular civilian trousers and camouflage shirts.<sup>10910</sup> The witness heard that Kajuga, the head of the Interahamwe, was staying at the Hotel Ibis and that was why there was a small roadblock at the entrance of the courtyard to the Hotel Ibis. He did not hear of a soldier named Alphonse Nteziryayo staying at the Hotel Ibis with Kajuga nor did he know of such a soldier.<sup>10911</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

4008. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>10912</sup> stated that Robert Kajuga was the national leader of the Interahamwe.<sup>10913</sup> He believed that Kajuga arrived in Ngoma commune in late April or early May 1994 and during the time he spent in Ngoma, he stayed in the rear courtyard of Hotel Ibis. Kajuga was accompanied by approximately 30 Interahamwe who he had heard arrived in two vehicles.<sup>10914</sup> Approximately four Interahamwe were at the entrance to the rear courtyard guarding Kajuga, where they had erected a roadblock behind the metal gate made of two trees trunks and cloth.<sup>10915</sup> The Interahamwe wore half-military, half-civilian clothing (of kitenge cloth) and carried Kalashnikov guns. The witness never saw Kajuga himself.<sup>10916</sup> He did not know anything regarding Kajuga's activities while he was at the hotel.<sup>10917</sup> The witness passed the roadblock almost every morning and evening but never stopped to talk to the Interahamwe there.<sup>10918</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

4009. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant, testified that because of the security situation, there was a police post at the Kigali Bank, near Hotel Ibis, from where they could see the happenings at the hotel.<sup>10919</sup> Not far from the main entrance near the rear courtyard of the Hotel Ibis, the Interahamwe carrying Kalashnikov guns set up a roadblock to prevent anyone from accessing the hotel. The witness said it could be noticed that the Interahamwe were watching or manning something there.<sup>10920</sup>

4010. Witness D-2-5-I testified that on 26 or 27 April, he learned that the leader of the Interahamwe was at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10921</sup> He said the Interahamwe stayed at Hotel Ibis until people started leaving Butare town in great numbers.<sup>10922</sup> The witness testified that these Interahamwe were involved in killings.<sup>10923</sup> He denied having ever been an Interahamwe himself.<sup>10924</sup>

4011. Ntahobali testified that he knew Robert Kajuga and they met twice before President Habyarimana's death. The first time they met was in 1993 and the second was towards the end of 1993 or early 1994 during a family function.<sup>10925</sup> On that second occasion, Ntahobali got to know that Robert Kajuga was a member of the MRND party or more precisely "one of the leading figures of the MRND youth wing."<sup>10926</sup>

4012. Ntahobali testified that he met Robert Kajuga again at Hotel Ibis in Butare around 15 June 1994.<sup>10927</sup> Ntahobali was informed that Kajuga was sick and stayed at that hotel. He paid Kajuga a brief visit for three to five minutes. Two days later, he saw Kajuga's vehicle drive past but he did not know if Kajuga was in or not. He stated that he no longer met Kajuga after this short encounter at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10928</sup>

4013. Ntahobali testified that he learned from Georges Rutaganda that Robert Kajuga arrived at Butare on 24 May 1994, accompanied by many people.<sup>10929</sup> He stated: "Rutaganda was coming back from Cyangugu, and when he passed through Butare on that same day, he met Robert Kajuga on the way and the latter told him that he was going to Butare for treatment at the university hospital".<sup>10930</sup> Ntahobali testified that Robert Kajuga was bed-ridden when he visited him at the Hotel Ibis and that his room was towards the rear where the rooms of the hotel were.<sup>10931</sup> Kajuga came to Butare in the company of armed young men referred to as Interahamwe.<sup>10932</sup> Ntahobali testified that Alexis Kamana and Cekeli were among the people who accompanied Kajuga when they met at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10933</sup> Ntahobali and the two aforementioned persons went to the same primary school.<sup>10934</sup> Dieudonné was also with Kajuga on that day.<sup>10935</sup>

4014. Nteziryayo denied ordering the Interahamwe to kill a Tutsi man at Hotel Ibis. He claimed that he was not the chief of the Interahamwe and that he did not have authority to issue orders to them. He stated that there were other known Tutsis staying at Hotel Ibis that were not killed by any Interahamwe.<sup>10936</sup> He testified that from 15 April 1994 to 3 July 1994, the duration of his stay at Hotel Ibis, no murder was committed in his presence at Hotel Ibis and he heard no reports of such a killing.<sup>10937</sup>

4015. Nteziryayo testified that Robert Kajuga arrived at the Hotel Ibis on either 24 or 25 May 1994, but that he was not in the hotel on 1 and 2 May 1994.<sup>10938</sup> Nteziryayo did not know in advance that Kajuga was coming to the hotel.<sup>10939</sup> In cross-examination, Nteziryayo contested the proposition that Kajuga arrived with armed Interahamwe in late April 1994 at Hotel Ibis.<sup>10940</sup> Nteziryayo denied that he was staying at Hotel Ibis because that was where he and Robert Kajuga had set up the Interahamwe headquarters.<sup>10941</sup> He denied that his residence at Hotel Ibis and his participation in the border commune meetings in May 1994 were in connection with his involvement in the civilian self-defence programme from April to July 1994 in Butare préfecture.<sup>10942</sup>

4016. Nteziryayo testified that he knew Kajuga casually in 1978 or 1979 when they both worked in Kigali.<sup>10943</sup> He met Kajuga in the context of his work at the gendarmérie but they never visited each other in their homes.<sup>10944</sup> He knew that in May 1994 Robert Kajuga was the president of the national Interahamwe, which was public knowledge in Rwanda.<sup>10945</sup> Nteziryayo estimated that in 1994, Kajuga was between 25 and 30 years old.<sup>10946</sup> Nteziryayo testified that he spoke to Kajuga while they were staying in the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10947</sup>

4017. Kajuga arrived in the company of his fiancé and with probably less than 10 guards, who were young people aged between 18 and 25 years.<sup>10948</sup> Sometimes they appeared in civilian attire. Some of them wore a mixture of civilian and military attire. The clothes were often well-used and the military trousers and jackets were often not matching.<sup>10949</sup> Nteziryayo testified that among the 10 persons, two or three of them were protecting Robert Kajuga and were carrying Kalashnikovs.<sup>10950</sup> These were the only armed persons Nteziryayo noticed at the Hotel Ibis between 15 April and 3 July 1994.<sup>10951</sup>

4018. Nteziryayo testified that Déodone Niyitegeka, a member of the national committee of the Interahamwe, and a man called Sokolov, whom Nteziryayo knew to be Interahamwe, arrived together with Robert Kajuga.<sup>10952</sup> Nteziryayo knew Niyitegeka before April 1994 when he worked in the company known as Inter-freight.<sup>10953</sup> He estimated Niyitegeka to be in his 30s in 1994.<sup>10954</sup> Niyitegeka was regularly at the Hotel Ibis during Kajuga's stay in late May and June 1994 and Sokolov was one of Kajuga's companions. Nteziryayo said that he knew them and spoke with them.<sup>10955</sup> He also stated that he visited Kajuga from time to time.<sup>10956</sup>

4019. Nteziryayo testified that for about a month, Kajuga and his companions were lodged at the Hotel Ibis until they left the hotel around late June 1994, when the RPF was advancing on the town.<sup>10957</sup> Kajuga stayed most of the time in his room as he was bed-ridden. Nteziryayo did not see Kajuga receive people when he was in his room.<sup>10958</sup> Kajuga stayed at the Hotel Ibis because it was the only hotel open at that time in Butare and because he had no family in Butare.<sup>10959</sup> Nteziryayo stated that this was the only period during which he saw Kajuga in Butare.<sup>10960</sup>

4021. Nteziryayo testified that on his arrival at the Hotel Ibis, Kajuga was seriously ill.<sup>10962</sup> The physicians attending Kajuga were concerned about his health condition. He was permanently attended to by two nurses and he often received drips or intravenous fluid.<sup>10963</sup> He did not know why Kajuga did not go to hospital but remained at Hotel Ibis for about a month, despite his serious illness.<sup>10964</sup> Nteziryayo testified that Kajuga died around September or October 1994.<sup>10965</sup>

4022. Nteziryayo had not heard that there were Interahamwe in Butare town before the arrival of Kajuga at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10966</sup> He also denied having heard at that time that the persons who accompanied Kajuga to Hotel Ibis had killed people in Butare town.<sup>10967</sup> Nteziryayo testified that the presence of Kajuga and himself did not transform the Hotel Ibis into the unofficial military headquarters of the campaign to commit genocide. He had never worked with Kajuga and he arrived at the Hotel Ibis over one month before Kajuga came to the hotel. Nteziryayo stated that he was not connected to Interahamwe and stayed by himself at the hotel.<sup>10968</sup> Nteziryayo testified that he had no authority to exercise over the persons accompanying Kajuga.<sup>10969</sup>

4023. Nteziryayo testified that between 6 April 1994 and 3 July 1994, he heard that the Interahamwe had been involved in violent acts in Rwanda, before he met Kajuga at Hotel Ibis.<sup>10970</sup> He denied having heard that they had been involved in acts of rape.<sup>10971</sup> Nteziryayo alleged that there were also criminal youths who were disguised as the youth wings of the various political parties.<sup>10972</sup> Nteziryayo testified that between 15 April and July 1994, there were no roadblocks in front of Hotel Ibis.<sup>10973</sup> Nteziryayo confirmed that civilians were stopped at the roadblocks and that their identification and bags were checked in Butare préfecture from 16 April to 3 July 1994. Nteziryayo stated that he was stopped and checked at roadblocks, particularly between the Rectorat and the Hotel Ibis, in the days after he arrived in Butare.<sup>10974</sup> Nteziryayo stated that the Banque de Kigali building and the Hotel Ibis were between 10 to 15 metres apart.<sup>10975</sup>

3.6.38.4 Deliberations

4024. It is not contested that Robert Kajuga was the president of the national Interahamwe in Rwanda,<sup>10976</sup> and that he was staying at the Hotel Ibis with Interahamwe when he arrived in Butare town.<sup>10977</sup> The Parties do not contest that Nteziryayo was also staying at the Hotel Ibis from 15 April until 3 July 1994.<sup>10978</sup> What is contested is Nteziryayo's role and authority with regard to the Interahamwe, and whether the Interahamwe killed a Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis on the orders of Nteziryayo.

4025. Witness QJ was the only witness to testify as to the killing of a Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis by Interahamwe on the orders of Nteziryayo. Although staying at another hotel, Witness QJ stated that he went to the Hotel Ibis regularly between April and June 1994. During one such visit he saw Nteziryayo tell the Interahamwe, who had already beaten a Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis, to take him and kill him near the forest.<sup>10979</sup>

4026. The two hotels were very near one another.<sup>10980</sup> Witness QJ testified that he was familiar with the soldiers manning the Hotel Faucon roadblock.<sup>10981</sup> Therefore, this would not have prevented Witness QJ from walking to the Hotel Ibis from April to June 1994.

4027. Further, Witness QJ testified that he had an identification card from before the war that indicated his ethnicity as being Hutu and that he was not from Ngoma commune and therefore was not known as a Tutsi in this locale.<sup>10982</sup> He was living openly without being targeted as a Tutsi, although some people suspected him of being Tutsi.<sup>10983</sup>

4028. Witness AND-17 questioned Witness QJ's account, stating Witness QJ was always at the same hotel as he was, and therefore would not have had an opportunity to go to the Hotel Ibis to witness the alleged event.<sup>10984</sup> However, Witness AND-17 admitted that he did not share a room with Witness QJ, he did not accompany Witness QJ during his walks in the garden, and did not spend all day with Witness QJ in his room.<sup>10985</sup> Witness QJ did not normally accompany Witness AND-17 to purchase cigarettes.<sup>10986</sup> From this evidence, the Chamber concludes that Witness AND-17 was not always aware of Witness QJ's whereabouts.

4029. Witness AND-17 further testified that Witness QJ did not have an identification card. This testimony was apparently based upon Witness QJ's response to the soldier Jean-Baptiste who demanded Witness QJ's identification just prior to killing several Tutsis who were hiding at the Hotel Faucon.<sup>10987</sup> Witness QJ testified that Witness AND-17 showed Jean-Baptiste the location of the Tutsis hiding at the Hotel Faucon before they were killed and participated in the attacks.<sup>10988</sup> Witness AND-17 denied his involvement stating Jean-Baptiste already knew the location of the Tutsis who were hiding and that he declined Jean-Baptiste's order to kill the Tutsis.<sup>10989</sup> Witness QJ was not cross-examined as to Witness AND-17's involvement in the killings. The Chamber observes that Witness AND-17 had been implicated in these killings, and therefore considers it is not surprising that Witness AND-17 would attempt to limit his alleged involvement by asserting Jean-Baptiste acted on his own information and that Witness AND-17 refused to participate in the killings. In sum, the Chamber does not find this witness credible in relation to these events.

4030. Nteziryayo denied that he had ordered the killing of a Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis. He testified that from 15 April 1994 to 3 July 1994, the duration of his stay at Hotel Ibis, no murder was committed in his presence at Hotel Ibis and he heard no reports of such a killing.<sup>10990</sup> However, the Chamber finds Nteziryayo was not credible on this issue. He claimed that there was no roadblock at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10991</sup> This point was contradicted by Defence Witnesses D-2-13-D, D-2-YYYY, D-2-5-I, and WCKJ. Witness D-2-13-D testified that the Interahamwe manned a small roadblock by the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10992</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY said that four Interahamwe set up a roadblock guarding the entrance to the Hotel Ibis roadblock to protect Kajuga and that he passed the roadblock almost every morning.<sup>10993</sup> Witness D-2-5-I provided a consistent account, saying the Interahamwe carried Kalashnikov guns and set up a roadblock to prevent anyone from accessing the hotel.<sup>10994</sup> Witness D-2-5-I further testified that these Interahamwe were involved in massacres.<sup>10995</sup> Witness WCKJ also stated that there was a roadblock at the Hotel Ibis, but later reversed his position, stating there was only a roadblock at the Hotel Faucon.<sup>10996</sup> The Chamber refers to its finding that roadblocks were used to target and kill Tutsis (). Further, Nteziryayo acknowledged that between 6 April 1994 and 3 July 1994, he heard that the Interahamwe had been involved in violent acts in Rwanda, prior to Kajuga's arrival at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>10997</sup> Therefore, it is not surprising that Nteziryayo would attempt to dissociate himself and his residence from a roadblock manned by Interahamwe.

4031. The Chamber notes that the Interahamwe was one of the major militia groups in Rwanda and its president, Robert Kajuga, was residing at the same location as Nteziryayo. Nteziryayo acknowledged speaking with Kajuga from time to time, but denied that they discussed anything of substance.<sup>10998</sup> Kajuga was apparently very ill. Nteziryayo testified that he knew and spoke with two of Kajuga's Interahamwe, named Niyitegeka and Sokolov, who were staying at the hotel.<sup>10999</sup> In the Chamber's view however, the mere fact that Nteziryayo and Kajuga both stayed at the Hotel Ibis does not support Nteziryayo's culpability for crimes committed at the Hotel Ibis.

4032. Witness QJ testified that he knew that Nteziryayo had authority over the Interahamwe because he gave them orders and they were obeyed.<sup>11000</sup> The Interahamwe took away the Tutsi man at the Hotel Ibis and that man did not return.<sup>11001</sup> The allegation that his orders were obeyed by the Interahamwe at the Hotel Ibis is supported by the fact that Kajuga was very sick and apparently unable to provide direct leadership, and by the fact that Nteziryayo was experienced in training and organising militiamen, thereby lending credence to Witness QJ's testimony that Nteziryayo gave orders to these Interahamwe.

man was taken away and not seen again.<sup>11002</sup> He did not explicitly say that the man was killed, but on cross-examination he clarified that the Interahamwe did carry out the order to execute the man.<sup>11003</sup> However, there was no evidence that Witness QJ saw the man killed or saw the body of the man outside the Hotel Ibis. In these circumstances, absent corroboration of Witness QJ's version of events, the Chamber finds the Prosecution has not proven this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.39 Killing of Former Conseiller Vincent Nkulikiyinka, May and June 1994

3.6.39.1 Introduction

4034. Paragraph 6.30 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that in May and June 1994, Nteziryayo ordered the Interahamwe to search for Tutsis and kill them.<sup>11004</sup>

4035. The Prosecution submits that during a meeting held at the commune office, when Nteziryayo was already préfet, he was told there was a conseiller who had sought refuge in the commune office, named Kofi Musinya.<sup>11005</sup> Nteziryayo gave orders to kill this man, if he was still hiding there and that no communal property should be destroyed.<sup>11006</sup> The Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Witness QBV.

4036. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that allegations relating to Mugusa commune, including the killing of Vincent Nkulikiyinka, are not pled in the Indictment<sup>11007</sup> and should therefore be excluded from the evidence.<sup>11008</sup> In the alternative, the Nteziryayo Defence contends that Nteziryayo was not involved in the death of Vincent Nkulikiyinka and relies on Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-14, AND-5, AND-16 and AND-72 in this regard.<sup>11009</sup>

4037. The Chamber observes that the killing of Vincent Nkulikiyinka is not specifically pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment such that the Indictment is defective. The Chamber must then determine whether the Indictment has been cured of these defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

4038. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that neither in the Pre-Trial Brief and its Appendix, nor the Prosecution opening statement, is there information as to the killing of Vincent Nkulikiyinka. The event appears for the first time in Witness QBV's prior statement of 30 March 2001 in which the witness does not impute the killing of Vincent Nkulikiyinka to any of the Accused in this case.<sup>11010</sup> The Chamber therefore finds that the defect is not cured and it will not make any finding with respect to this allegation. The Defence request for exclusion of evidence is therefore moot. In any event, the Chamber notes that the evidence brought by the Prosecution is not sufficient to establish that Nteziryayo ordered the killing of Vincent Nkulikiyinka.

<sup>11004</sup> Para. 6.30 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment (in support of Counts 1-3, 5-9 against Nteziryayo).

3.6.40 Transfer of Refugees to Nyange, Early June 1994

3.6.40.1 Introduction

4039. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment allege that between mid-May and mid-June 1994, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi gave the order that refugees at the BPO be transferred to Nyange secteur in Nyaruhengeri commune, and that refugees were transported to Nyange aboard ONATRACOM buses where they were attacked, and many were killed, by individuals armed with traditional weapons.<sup>11011</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana ordered, supervised, and provided buses for the transfer of Tutsi refugees from the BPO to Nyange where the refugees were attacked and killed.<sup>11012</sup> The Prosecution further submits the transfer of 200 refugees in a single bus amounts to evidence of both persecution and inhumane acts as a crime against humanity.<sup>11013</sup> The Prosecution charges Nsabimana with responsibility under both Article 6 (1) and 6 (3).<sup>11014</sup> The Chamber notes the Prosecution did not make any submissions concerning Kanyabashi's role in the Nyange transfer in the Prosecution Closing Brief or its closing arguments. The Prosecution relies on Witnesses QBP, QBQ, QY, RE, SD SJ, SU, TA and Expert Witness Des Forges.

4040. The Nsabimana Defence does not challenge that Nsabimana sent refugees to Nyange, a former Burundian refugee camp, but asserts that neither criminal intent nor collusion with the assailants was established.<sup>11015</sup> It asserts that Nsabimana sent refugees from the BPO to Nyange because living conditions were better there than at the BPO. It also asserts that the Prosecution has failed to establish that Nsabimana had any authority over the Interahamwe or soldiers.<sup>11016</sup> The Nsabimana Defence relies on Witnesses QBP, QBQ, QY, RE, SD, SJ, SU, TA and Nsabimana.

4041. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts the Prosecution did not adduce evidence about the making of the decision relating to the transfer. According to the Defence, the power to make such a decision lay with the préfet, who was responsible for the refugees and who had authority in another commune involved in the transfer. It also asserts that only one witness testified that Kanyabashi was present and ordered refugees to board the bus to Nyange and that

Notice of the Allegation Concerning the Nyange Transfer

4042. The Nsabimana Defence argues that Paragraph 6.38 of the Nsabimana Indictment is defective for failing to state several material facts, namely: where the order was issued; the identity of the person who ordered the individuals armed with traditional weapons to attack; the number of buses used in the displacement; the number of days during which the trip or trips were made; the time of departure; the ethnic origin of the refugees; the criminal intention of the transfer to Nyange; and details about the survivors and their return to the BPO.<sup>11018</sup> The Nsabimana Defence asserts that the Prosecution failed to remedy these defects in subsequent disclosures.<sup>11019</sup>

4043. With regard to the ethnic origin of the refugees and the criminal intent of the transfer, the Chamber recalls that paragraphs of an indictment are to be read as a whole and not in isolation.<sup>11020</sup> In this regard, Paragraph 6.32 alleges that Nsabimana incited, aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis, and Paragraph 6.36 alleges that Tutsis who sought refuge at the BPO were forcibly abducted, assaulted and sometimes killed outright and that Nsabimana did nothing to put a definite end to the attacks. Further, Paragraph 6.37 alleges that Nyiramasuhuko instructed Nsabimana to kill the Tutsi refugees remaining at the BPO. Paragraph 6.38 alleges that Nsabimana ordered the transport of the refugees to Nyange where they were attacked and killed. Read in conjunction with the previous paragraphs, the Chamber considers that Paragraph 6.38 makes it clear that the refugees transferred were Tutsis, and that the alleged purpose of the transfer was to kill those Tutsis.

4044. With regard to the remaining alleged deficiencies, the Chamber recalls that the “Prosecutor must state the material facts underpinning the charges in the indictment, but not the evidence by which such facts are to be proved.”<sup>11021</sup> The Chamber is of the opinion that the Nsabimana Defence had adequate notice of the material facts of this allegation and that each of the remaining facts, such as the identity of the person who ordered the attacks, the number of buses, the number of days during which the trip or trips were made, and the time of departure constitute evidence by which the allegation would be proven. Therefore, the Chamber does not find Paragraph 6.38 to be defective. In any event, the Nsabimana Defence had adequate notice of these facts through the summaries of anticipated evidence outlined in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief<sup>11022</sup> and prior statements of Witnesses SD,<sup>11023</sup> SJ,<sup>11024</sup> SL<sup>11025</sup> and RM.<sup>11026</sup>

<sup>11022</sup> Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief – Appendix; Witness SJ (9) (SJ heard the Sous-Préfet saying that all Tutsi refugees were to be brought to Nyange. There were two buses for the refugees. Soldiers were beating those who did not want to board the buses. SJ saw the Préfet give a letter to the soldiers. SJ clearly heard the Préfet saying that the letter would enable them to pass the roadblocks. SJ saw the buses return empty. SJ later was herded on to a bus); Witness QY (61) (QY states that Nsabimana sent two buses filled with refugees to Nyaruhengeri and that

4045. The Kanyabashi Defence argues that Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment does not plead any crime against which Kanyabashi may defend himself: it does not accuse Kanyabashi as having prior knowledge that the refugees were going to be killed nor does it specify that he ordered the transfer for that purpose.<sup>11027</sup>

4049. The Chamber will consider whether the defect was cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures. As an alleged Nyange survivor, the only witness at trial who testified about the these two buses, in the presence of Kanyabashi. QY was meant to board a third bus but did not want to after she heard that the people on the other two buses were killed. QY states that Kanyabashi said that all the snakes had to die anyway. Nsabimana said that if any killing had to be done there, on the spot, they would be taken back to the Préfecture. QY was forced to take the bus, but the bus went back because the villagers refused to continue the killings if the old corpses weren't taken away to from whence they came); Witness RM (71) (Kanyabashi asked RM and other refugees to board the bus going to Nyange cellule. Kanyabashi, the Préfet, and the communal policemen escorted the refugees); Witness SD (76) (SD states that a few days after the installation of the new prefect, Nsabimana brought three ONATRACOM buses filled with Tutsis. The buses left for Nyange in Ruhengeri, but neither bus nor passengers came back); Witness SL (78) (SL sought refuge at Préfecture office where Nsabimana, together with the Sous-Préfet, told the refugees they were to be taken to Nyange. Two buses arrived. The Sous-Préfet took down the names of the people present and gave the list to a communal police officer that accompanied them. Nsabimana was present and witnessed everything).

criminal acts executed at Nyange was Witness QBP. As discussed below, the summary of anticipated evidence for Witness QBP makes no mention that this witness would testify about the Nyange transfer or implicate either Nsabimana or Kanyabashi therein.<sup>11031</sup> Witness QBP's prior statement discusses the transfer of refugees to Kabogobogo in Nyaruhengeri commune. In that statement Witness QBP stated an armed policeman was present at Nyange, but that it was Interahamwe armed with clubs, spears and other traditional weapons that attacked the refugees.<sup>11032</sup> Considering the identification of the attackers was only identified in one sole witness statement, the Chamber considers this disclosure was not sufficient to inform the Kanyabashi Defence of the material facts which the Prosecution intended to prove at trial.<sup>11033</sup>

4050. The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief otherwise includes two other witnesses, Witnesses QBQ and RM, expected to testify about the involvement of policemen in their transfer to Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11034</sup> While both summaries of anticipated evidence state that these witnesses would testify that policemen escorted them to Nyange aboard buses, they fail to identify any criminal conduct in which these policemen engaged at Nyange itself.

4051. The prior statements of Witness RM<sup>11035</sup> and Witness QBQ<sup>11036</sup> are consistent with the summaries of anticipated evidence in the Pre-Trial Brief, stating that policemen escorted refugees to Nyange aboard the buses. The statement of Witness RM goes further and states that the commune policemen remained with the Tutsis at Nyange, and at night time called on Twa citizens to come kill Tutsis, after which Tutsis were killed and injured and several escaped returning to the BPO.<sup>11037</sup> Again, considering the relevant criminal conduct of the police is only identified in one sole witness statement, the Chamber considers this disclosure was not sufficient to inform the Kanyabashi Defence of the material facts which the Prosecution intended to prove at trial.<sup>11038</sup> Further, insofar as the prior statement identifies criminal conduct not included in the summary of anticipated evidence, it is also not consistent with the information contained in the Pre-Trial Brief.

4052. Therefore, these disclosures did not provide Kanyabashi with clear and consistent notice of the criminal acts allegedly committed by policemen at Nyange with which Kanyabashi was being charged. Thus the defect was not cured and the Chamber will not make any finding as to whether Kanyabashi was responsible for the crimes of policemen, or other assailants, at Nyange pursuant to Article 6 (3) of the Statute.

Request for the Exclusion of Evidence

4053. The Nsabimana Defence submits that the evidence of several Prosecution witnesses, including Witnesses QBP, RE, SU and TA, insofar as they relate to Nsabimana, should be excluded on the basis that the Nsabimana Defence had no notice that these witnesses would be called to testify about Nsabimana.<sup>11039</sup> The Chamber will consider the merits of this request equally vis-à-vis Kanyabashi.

4054. The Chamber accepts that the summary of anticipated evidence in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief for Witnesses QBP, SU and TA make no mention that these witnesses would testify about the Nyange transfer or implicate either Nsabimana or Kanyabashi therein.<sup>11040</sup> Further, while the summary of anticipated evidence for Witness RE states that Witness RE would testify, inter alia, that he was ordered to board a bus at the BPO, and that the Interahamwe at Nyaruhengeri “refused the buses” because mass graves were full, such that the refugees were returned to the BPO, Witness RE implicated neither Nsabimana nor Kanyabashi, and was not listed as being brought to testify about either Accused.<sup>11041</sup>

4055. Witness TA testified in late October and early November 2001. Witness TA’s testimony with respect to Nyange came out in response to a question posed in cross-examination by the Nyiramasuhuko Defence about Witness TA’s transfer from the BPO to Rango.<sup>11042</sup> There was no objection at the time of Witness TA’s testimony on the topic. In any event, both the Nsabimana and Kanyabashi Defence had the opportunity to cross-examine Witness TA.<sup>11043</sup> Consequently, the Chamber considers neither the Nsabimana Defence nor the Kanyabashi Defence suffered any prejudice as a result of Witness TA’s testimony that warrants excluding her evidence as to matters falling within the scope of Paragraph 6.38 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, or Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment at this late stage of trial. The Chamber accordingly denies the request.

4056. Witnesses QBP and SU testified about Nyange in October 2002 in their examination-in-chief. No objection was raised by either Defence at the time or subsequent to the leading of their evidence concerning Nyange by the Prosecution.<sup>11044</sup> The Nsabimana Defence requests the exclusion of Witness QBP’s and SU’s evidence for the first time in its Closing Brief.<sup>11045</sup> It offers no explanation for failing to object to this evidence at the time it was admitted or at a later point during the trial. The Chamber finds that there is no reasonable explanation for the Defence’s lack of objections at an earlier stage in the trial. In any event, both the Nsabimana Defence and the Kanyabashi Defence had the opportunity to cross-examine Witnesses QBP and SU. Consequently, the Chamber considers neither the Nsabimana Defence nor the Kanyabashi Defence suffered any prejudice as a result of Witness QBP’s or SU’s testimony that warrants excluding their evidence as to matters falling within the scope of Paragraph 6.38 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, or Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment at this late stage of trial. The Chamber accordingly denies the request.

4057. However, with respect to Witness QBP's testimony regarding rapes at Nyange, the Chamber notes that neither Paragraph 6.38 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, nor Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment which concern the allegation of the refugees' transfer to Nyange, mention rape as one of the acts carried out upon refugees at Nyange. In the Chamber's view, to base a finding on the evidence of Witness QBP's testimony would amount to an expansion of charges against the Accused which would prejudice the Accused.<sup>11046</sup> As such, the Chamber considers the matter of rapes at Nyange falls outside the scope of the Indictments and will not make any finding in this respect.

4058. Witness RE testified about Nyange in February 2003. At the time, the Kanyabashi Defence objected to this testimony on the basis that they had been given no notice that Witness RE would testify about Kanyabashi.<sup>11047</sup> In an oral ruling, the Chamber held that Witness RE should be limited to testifying about matters that were earlier disclosed in his previous statements.<sup>11048</sup> The Chamber notes Witness RE's prior statement of 5 December 1996 refers to the transfer to Nyaruhengeri and states the orders came from the préfet; the statement does not implicate Kanyabashi in the Nyange transfer.<sup>11049</sup> Consequently, the Chamber will not rely on any evidence led through Witness RE to make any finding against Kanyabashi. As concerns Nsabimana, the Nsabimana Defence raised no objection at the time of Witness RE's testimony, making this request for the first time again only in its Closing Brief. Considering again that there is no reasonable explanation for the Defence's lack of objections at an earlier stage in the trial, and that the Nsabimana Defence had the opportunity to cross-examine Witness RE, the Chamber considers the Nsabimana Defence did not suffer any prejudice as a result of Witness RE's testimony that warrants excluding Witness RE's evidence at this late stage of trial.

3.6.40.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QBP

4059. Witness QBP,<sup>11050</sup> a Tutsi farmer with a Hutu identity card during the events, testified that two or three days after she arrived at the préfecture, the refugees at the BPO were transported in three buses to Nyange, in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>11051</sup> She was sure there were three buses.<sup>11052</sup> The buses belonged to the government but were used by the ONATRACOM company.<sup>11053</sup>

4060. Witness QBP testified that the préfet, whose name she did not know, told all the refugees to board the buses.<sup>11054</sup> He also said that they were going to provide the refugees with assistance.<sup>11055</sup> The buses were brought by the bourgmestre,<sup>11056</sup> and he remained present while the refugees boarded the buses.<sup>11057</sup> She later testified that she did not say that Kanyabashi brought the buses.<sup>11058</sup> When put to Witness QBP that she did not mention Kanyabashi being present at Nyange in her prior written statement, Witness QBP explained that the ICTR investigators must have forgotten to take note of it.<sup>11059</sup> She further said that Kanyabashi played no role in their departure other than that the refugees were in his commune and he was present.<sup>11060</sup> She did not know whether Kanyabashi was acting on the orders of the préfet or if they were acting in tandem.<sup>11061</sup>

raping people.<sup>11075</sup> When she referred to Interahamwe, she meant those who killed others or roamed with weapons.<sup>11076</sup>

4064. Witness QBP said that near Nyange, there was a refugee camp providing shelter to Burundian refugees.<sup>11077</sup> She described it as not being a camp per se, but rather an uninhabited hill with huts and torn mats where the Burundian refugees were sheltered.<sup>11078</sup> They were informed that Burundian refugees had previously occupied these huts, although there were no refugees there when they arrived. The camp was neither well-prepared nor properly constructed and there were no buildings, such as in a school compound.<sup>11079</sup> The camp was about 15 minutes walk from Kabogobogo river.<sup>11080</sup> When it was put to her that her prior statement said the refugees were taken aboard three buses to Kabogobogo, not Nyange, she clarified that they were taken to a hill upstream from Kabogobogo river.<sup>11081</sup> Kabogobogo is in Nyange.<sup>11082</sup>

4065. Witness QBP testified that she left Nyange at dawn the following day<sup>11083</sup> for the BPO with two of her four children.<sup>11084</sup> She was also accompanied by a young refugee man from Gikoro who was introduced to her by the man who had raped her, so that the refugee man would carry her child.<sup>11085</sup> Witness QBP was questioned as to her prior written statement, in which she stated she was taken back to Butare by the Interahamwe who had raped her.<sup>11086</sup> Witness QBP explained that the Interahamwe who had raped her accompanied her from the hill to the road and then showed her a young refugee man who was supposed to help her with carrying one of her children.<sup>11087</sup>

4066. Witness QBP arrived at the BPO half-naked.<sup>11088</sup> She entered the BPO by the rear of the compound, where there was a building belonging to Mironko.<sup>11089</sup> The only refugees that were at the BPO at that moment were those who escaped Nyange with her and the refugees who were loaded in the third bus.<sup>11090</sup> It was when she returned to the BPO that she learned from refugees that the third bus had broken down near Nkubi and had returned to the BPO.<sup>11091</sup>

4067. Witness QBP testified that when she returned to the BPO, the préfet said, “[w]here do these mad women come from?”<sup>11092</sup> The refugees replied that they were not mad but were part of the group that had gone to Nyange and that some of the group had been killed.<sup>11093</sup> Among the young survivors, there was also a physically handicapped woman who came away from the dead bodies.<sup>11094</sup> When it was put to her that in her statement she had said that they were met at the BPO by the sous-préfet, and not the préfet, Witness QBP said that when her statement was re-read to her she did not challenge the reference to the sous-préfet, she knew the difference between the préfet and the sous-préfet and it was the préfet they saw at the BPO.<sup>11095</sup>

4068. Witness QBP clarified that the préfet she referred to was the same préfet she described as being short and light in complexion.<sup>11096</sup> In her written statement, Witness QBP described him as a military préfet, although in her testimony she said this was an error.<sup>11097</sup> She was not asked to identify Nsabimana in court. She identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>11098</sup>

4069. Witness QBP denied being a member of the Abasa association, or to having created an association which collaborated with the Ibuka association, along with, inter alia, Prosecution Witness TA.<sup>11099</sup> Witness QBP told the Tribunal that pain was the only thing she shared with the list of women put to her by Defence Counsel regarding Ibuka, and that they never constituted an association.<sup>11100</sup>

4070. Witness QBP testified that she did not know a person by the same name as Witness RE,<sup>11101</sup> or Witness SU.<sup>11102</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBQ

4071. Witness QBQ, a Tutsi housemaid who was 24 years old in 1994, testified that she first arrived at the BPO at the end of April 1994 and at that time there were approximately 2,000 refugees on the premises.<sup>11103</sup> While she was at the BPO, Préfet Nsabimana told the refugees to move on to Nyaruhengeri where they could stay, receive assistance and remain alive.<sup>11104</sup>

4072. Witness QBQ testified that three buses went to Nyaruhengeri. Two buses came to transport the refugees to Nyaruhengeri: the first two buses left when they were full and one of the buses came back to transport people for a third trip on the same day.<sup>11105</sup> Witness QBQ caught the third bus.<sup>11106</sup> Witness QBQ agreed with the information contained in her previous statement, that the buses were from ONATRACOM.<sup>11107</sup> People who were transported on the first two buses had been killed.<sup>11108</sup> She explained that some people, such as one Semanyenzi, escaped and returned to the BPO that afternoon on foot to warn the remaining refugees not to go there.<sup>11109</sup> However, Semanyenzi had returned from Mukoni and did not speak to them about having gone to Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11110</sup> She could not recall how many refugees returned to the BPO,<sup>11111</sup> what time the first two buses left for Nyaruhengeri, or at what time she arrived at Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11112</sup>

4073. Witness QBQ testified that those who boarded the bus on the third trip were forced to do so.<sup>11113</sup> She boarded this bus after it returned to the BPO and it was the last to leave.<sup>11114</sup> Before the bus left, a policeman spoke with Préfet Nsabimana but she could not hear what they spoke about. She did not notice any list of the refugees being drawn up as they boarded the buses.<sup>11115</sup>

4074. Witness QBQ testified that before getting to Nyaruhengeri, the bus passed some roadblocks. The policemen who accompanied them on the bus showed a piece of paper to those who manned the roadblocks and accordingly they were let through. She did not remember how many roadblocks they crossed before getting to the one at Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11116</sup> When they arrived at Nyaruhengeri, the Interahamwe who were manning the last roadblock refused to let them pass and sent them back. The Interahamwe said they were tired of killing and had had enough of the decaying body stench.<sup>11117</sup> The driver told the Interahamwe, “[w]ell, allow me to execute the orders of the préfet”, to which the Interahamwe responded, “if that is what you are saying, we are going to burn all of you up, including you, yourself”.<sup>11118</sup>

4075. Witness QBQ testified that the police officer driving the bus turned the bus around and drove back to the BPO.<sup>11119</sup> The third bus did not break down and return to the BPO.<sup>11120</sup> When they arrived back at the BPO, they remained in the bus while the police officers went to talk to the préfet. She did not hear what they were saying to each other.<sup>11121</sup> In the evening, they were told to disembark from the bus and they spent the night at the BPO.<sup>11122</sup> The following day they went to the EER. Witness QBQ denied that the trip to Nyaruhengeri occurred one week after the witness returned from the EER.<sup>11123</sup> She went to Nyaruhengeri before she went to the EER.<sup>11124</sup>

4076. Witness QBQ described the préfet as a dark-coloured person, average height and had a sort of a bump on his forehead.<sup>11125</sup> She identified Nsabimana as the préfet to which she referred in her testimony.<sup>11126</sup> When it was put to her that her written statement referred to a military préfet, she explained that the interpreter must have noted her description incorrectly.<sup>11127</sup>

Prosecution Witness QY

4077. Witness QY, a Tutsi woman who was 17 years old in 1994, testified that she was at the BPO when the préfet told the refugees he was going to take them to Nyaruhengeri where there would be tents to accommodate them and where they could live peacefully.<sup>11128</sup> In the evening, two buses came to take the refugees to Nyaruhengeri but she was unable to board either as they were full. She, among others, remained at the BPO for the night.<sup>11129</sup> Early the following morning, a young boy who had boarded one of the buses the previous day came back.<sup>11130</sup> He warned them that the refugees who had boarded the buses had been killed.<sup>11131</sup> She was unable to recall the boy's age or whether she saw any injuries on him.<sup>11132</sup>

4078. Witness QY testified that later that morning, the refugees at the BPO were told to board a bus.<sup>11133</sup> Witness QY was questioned as to her prior statement which stated that one day two buses came to the préfecture and left on the first day, both of which returned empty the next day and then left together.<sup>11134</sup> Witness QY explained that only one bus left the following day and that the people recording her statement must have made a mistake.<sup>11135</sup>

4079. Witness QY testified that Kanyabashi, the bourgmestre of Ngoma town, and other préfecture authorities who she did not know, were present that morning at the BPO.<sup>11136</sup> She testified that Kanyabashi insulted the refugees by saying, “[b]oard the bus, your hour has struck”.<sup>11137</sup> She stood approximately 3.2 metres from Kanyabashi when he said this.<sup>11138</sup> Kanyabashi then brought soldiers and policemen who forced the refugees on board.<sup>11139</sup>

4080. Witness QY testified that the refugees refused to board the third bus and expressed their concerns about the killings at Nyange to the préfet. In response, the préfet said he would check if the people who had left in the buses the day before were actually dead and instructed the driver to bring the refugees back if it was the case.<sup>11140</sup> Witness QY was unsure if the préfet did, in fact, check to see if the refugees had been killed.<sup>11141</sup> Witness QY later testified that the refugees felt reassured after the préfet said those words and they boarded the bus without being forced.<sup>11142</sup>

4081. Witness QY testified that two gendarmes accompanied the refugees in the bus.<sup>11143</sup> The bus left in the morning, before noon.<sup>11144</sup> On their way to Nyaruhengeri, the bus crossed various roadblocks, including one at Mukoni, but she could not remember the number of roadblocks, or whether those manning them were civilians or soldiers.<sup>11145</sup> When the bus arrived in Nyaruhengeri, it stopped in front of a roadblock.<sup>11146</sup> It was her first time in Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11147</sup>

4082. She testified that the people manning the Nyaruhengeri roadblock told the passengers that the people who had arrived the day before had all been killed and that they were tired of killing.<sup>11148</sup> They told her they would kill those on the bus, but that the bodies would have to be taken back in the bus to where they came from. The gendarmes aboard the bus objected, saying that the préfet had to check first whether the people taken the night before had not been killed.<sup>11149</sup>

4083. Witness QY testified that one man in the bus opened the door and ran, trying to escape, fearing that he would be killed; he was chased by people with traditional weapons such as machetes. She never saw the man again and guessed he was killed.<sup>11150</sup> People manning the roadblock at Nyaruhengeri were civilians but she was not sure if there were also soldiers.<sup>11151</sup>

She later testified that there were only civilians and no soldiers at the roadblock.<sup>11152</sup> There were also Interahamwe who were people from the populace at the roadblock.<sup>11153</sup>

4084. Witness QY testified that the driver drove back to the BPO and told the préfet, “[h]ere is your cross”, to which the préfet replied, “[d]rop them over there. When the time comes, I will take a decision in respect of these people”.<sup>11154</sup> Witness QY later testified that Nsabimana replied, “[l]eave them there, I will deal with them myself.” They got off the bus immediately.<sup>11155</sup>

4085. After she returned to the BPO, the préfet issued an order that no one should kill them, and that they would be killed on 5 July 1994. Witness QY testified that she remained at the BPO for a week before she and other refugees were transferred to Rango.<sup>11156</sup> She saw Nsabimana at the BPO on the day they left for Rango but testified that she would not be in a position to identify Nsabimana in court since she had not seen him since 1994.<sup>11157</sup>

4086. Witness QY testified that she met Kanyabashi at the préfecture on the day of her departure to Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11158</sup> She never saw Kanyabashi again after the war and said she would not be able to recognise him or describe him.<sup>11159</sup>

4087. On recall in 2009, when it was put to Witness QY that in her testimony in the Munyaneza trial in Canada she admitted to knowing a person by the same name as Witness QBQ, Witness QY agreed.<sup>11160</sup> Witness QY testified that she was together with Witness QBQ on the bus to the EER, to Nyaruhengeri and to Rango.<sup>11161</sup>

4088. Witness QY stated that during her previous appearance before the Chamber in 2003, she denied knowing Witness QBQ<sup>11162</sup> because the interpreter told her to do so.<sup>11163</sup> When it was put to Witness QY that she told the Canadian court she had denied knowing Witness QBY because the Prosecutor told her to do so, rather than an interpreter,<sup>11164</sup> Witness QY stated that it was not the Prosecutor who asked her to lie, it was the interpreter<sup>11165</sup> because the Prosecutor did not speak her language.<sup>11166</sup> She explained she told the Canadian court it was the Prosecutor because the interpreter was only passing on the Prosecutor’s words.<sup>11167</sup>

4089. On recall in 2009, when it was put to Witness QY that in her testimony in the Munyaneza trial in Canada she admitted to knowing a person by the same name as Witness SJ, Witness QY agreed. Witness QY agreed that she told the Canadian court she had been with a person by the same name as Witness SJ on the bus to the EER, to Nyaruhengeri and to Rango.<sup>11168</sup> Witness QY agreed that during her previous appearance before the Chamber in 2003 she denied knowing Witness SJ,<sup>11169</sup> but did so because she had been asked to lie.<sup>11170</sup>

Prosecution Witness RE

4090. Witness RE, a Tutsi from Gikongoro préfecture who was 16 years old in 1994, testified that she and the other refugees returned to the BPO, after having been chased from EER.<sup>11171</sup> Upon her return to the BPO, Préfet Nsabimana told them that he would find a place where they could settle.<sup>11172</sup> The préfet ordered that some refugees be transported to Nyange and others to Mubumbano.<sup>11173</sup> Those leaving for Mubumbano left in the morning, and those going to Nyange left in the evening.<sup>11174</sup> The préfet told the refugees at the BPO to wait for the buses that were to take them in the evening to Nyange.<sup>11175</sup>

4091. She testified that the day after she returned to the BPO from the EER,<sup>11176</sup> three buses arrived at the BPO and the refugees were asked to board.<sup>11177</sup> Witness RE did not board any of the buses on that day, but those who did board were taken to Nyange and did not return.<sup>11178</sup> The buses that returned the next day to the BPO were empty and she was boarded on a bus.<sup>11179</sup> She later testified that she did not see the three buses come back and that she only saw one bus come back to take her group the following morning.<sup>11180</sup>

4092. Witness RE testified that a child who survived Nyange came back the following morning to tell them that all the people taken on the buses had been killed.<sup>11181</sup> Witness RE was questioned as to her prior statement of 5 December 1996, in which she did not mention the forced transfer of refugees to Nyange in three buses, or the child survivor.<sup>11182</sup> She explained that her written statement was only a summary and that she was able to provide more detailed testimony in person before the Tribunal.<sup>11183</sup>

4093. Witness RE testified that the day after, she and the remaining refugees were forced to board the buses to Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11184</sup> Witness RE was questioned as to a prior written statement in which she only referred to one bus, in the singular, that went to Nyange.<sup>11185</sup> She explained that this was a mistake on the part of the investigator writing the statement and clarified that during the first trip three buses went to Nyange and that during the second trip there was only one bus which was stopped at Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11186</sup> When it was put to her that her statement of 5 December 1996 stated that two buses left for and returned from Nyaruhengeri, she testified that her statement was misreported because three buses left for Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11187</sup>

4094. Witness RE testified that the refugees initially refused to board, but a gendarme struck them and forced them aboard.<sup>11188</sup> Witness RE understood that they were being transported so that the Interahamwe could execute them.<sup>11189</sup>

4095. Witness RE testified that upon their arrival in Nyaruhengeri, which was before Nyange, the Interahamwe refused to execute the refugees because the graves were full.<sup>11190</sup> The Interahamwe said that they should be returned to the BPO and killed by the préfet himself.<sup>11191</sup> The Interahamwe also said that they could kill the refugees but on the condition that the bodies were returned to the BPO and the préfet himself take care of the burial.<sup>11192</sup> Witness RE admitted that she did not include the Interahamwe's words that the préfet should kill them in her statement of December 1996, but this was only because her statement was intended to be a summary.<sup>11193</sup> After the Interahamwe refused to kill them, the driver turned around and took them back to the BPO.<sup>11194</sup>

4096. Witness RE identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>11195</sup> She also described Nsabimana as he was in 1994 as “large but short”, “quite rotund”, and wearing glasses.<sup>11196</sup> Throughout her testimony the witness referred to Nsabimana as “Préfet Sylvain”. She did not testify to having known Nsabimana prior to the events related.

4097. Witness RE testified that she did not know people bearing the same names as Witnesses SD, SU or QBP.<sup>11197</sup>

Prosecution Witness SD

4098. Witness SD, a Tutsi mother of seven, testified that one evening, while she was at the BPO, she saw three ONATRACOM buses arrive.<sup>11198</sup> These buses arrived approximately a week before her departure to Rango Forest in June 1994.<sup>11199</sup> She stated that Préfet Nsabimana normally left the office for the day at about 5.00 p.m., but that he was still at the office when the buses arrived at 6.00 p.m.<sup>11200</sup> Nsabimana told the Tutsi refugees to board two of the buses.<sup>11201</sup> Nsabimana was standing outside his office when the first two buses were loaded.<sup>11202</sup> Witness SD was about 10 steps from Nsabimana.<sup>11203</sup> Six of her children boarded one of these buses accompanied by a paternal uncle and she has not seen them since. The refugees were taken to Nyange in Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11204</sup>

4099. Witness SD testified that the morning after the first group of refugees was bussed to Nyange, a boy about 13 to 15 years old who was bleeding from his naked torso, returned to the BPO at about 7.00 a.m. and found them behind the BPO.<sup>11205</sup> This boy told her not to board the bus because those who had gone on the buses the day before were killed.<sup>11206</sup> This child was the only person to come back to the BPO after the first two trips to Nyange.<sup>11207</sup>

4100. Witness SD testified that the third bus returned to the BPO about 10.00 a.m. the next morning.<sup>11208</sup> Contrary to what was written in her prior statement of 18 September 1997, the third bus did not stay at the préfecture office overnight.<sup>11209</sup> Nsabimana was present when the bus returned.<sup>11210</sup> When the refugees were asked to board the bus they refused to go, saying that those who had gone before had died.<sup>11211</sup> Nsabimana said he would check into it and took a vehicle to check what had happened.<sup>11212</sup> She testified that Nsabimana went to Nyange, Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11213</sup> Upon Nsabimana's return, he told the refugees, "[g]et into the bus, you can leave. I have just checked. What this child is saying has no basis". Witness SD boarded this third bus to Nyange.<sup>11214</sup> Those who refused to board the bus were beaten by a gendarme.<sup>11215</sup> Prior to their departure, the préfet had given documents to the five policemen to take them away.<sup>11216</sup> The bus left the BPO at about 10.00 a.m.<sup>11217</sup>

4101. The bus passed through roadblocks at the University Laboratory, at Mukoni and at Cyarwa, all of which were manned by Interahamwe.<sup>11218</sup> Although she could not recall how long it took to reach Kibilizi, she estimated they reached Kibilizi between 10.30 and 11.00 a.m.<sup>11219</sup>

4102. When the bus arrived at the Kibilizi roadblock, the policeman showed the documents to those who manned the roadblock and said, “[o]pen up! It is the préfet who has given me authorisation to take these people.” Witness SD testified that at the Kibilizi roadblock, the bus was stopped opposite a school.<sup>11220</sup> The Interahamwe manning the Kibilizi roadblock refused to let them through, saying that enough blood had been shed in their area and that “[i]f those people were unable to kill these people, let them get out of the bus, we are going to kill them here and put the bodies back into the bus so that the person who sent them can go and bury them himself”.<sup>11221</sup> The local inhabitants came to watch.<sup>11222</sup> When it was put to Witness SD that her prior written statement stated that the “local population” refused to let the bus pass, Witness SD stated that it was, in fact, the Interahamwe that had stopped the bus at Kibilizi and refused to lift the roadblock.<sup>11223</sup> They spent about an hour at the Kibilizi roadblock.<sup>11224</sup> The bus then turned around and returned to the BPO.<sup>11225</sup> She did not know what time they reached the BPO.<sup>11226</sup>

4103. After arriving at the BPO, the driver and policeman went to speak to the préfet, and the passengers stayed on the bus.<sup>11227</sup> The policeman and the driver informed the préfet, and the préfet said, “[l]et them get down, put them there to one side. At the appropriate moment, when the time comes, we shall examine their case.”<sup>11228</sup> She said the préfet came out of his office and directed the driver to open the doors of the bus and indicated where the refugees should stay.<sup>11229</sup>

4104. Witness SD testified that Nsabimana was the préfet at the BPO and described him as a short, big man.<sup>11230</sup> In court, she identified Nteziryayo as Nsabimana.<sup>11231</sup> She explained that although she had seen Nsabimana close up on several occasions, too much time had elapsed since then.<sup>11232</sup>

4106. Witness SD did not know persons bearing the same names as Witnesses RE, QBQ, SJ or TA.<sup>11234</sup>

Prosecution Witness SJ

4107. Witness SJ, a Tutsi woman, testified that while she was at the BPO she witnessed Tutsi refugees being forced to board two green ONATRACOM buses in front of the BPO.<sup>11235</sup> The refugees were beaten and prodded with sticks to board the buses.<sup>11236</sup> There were approximately 1,500 Tutsi refugees at the BPO at that time.<sup>11237</sup> It was towards the end of April or the beginning of May 1994.<sup>11238</sup> The buses left between 11.00 a.m. and 12.00 p.m.<sup>11239</sup> When it was put to Witness SJ that her prior written statement said the buses left at 4.00 p.m., she explained that her statement had not been properly recorded and that the buses actually returned at 4.00 p.m.<sup>11240</sup>

4108. She testified that these two buses were stacked with people, some of whom sat on top of each other.<sup>11241</sup> She saw Préfet Nsabimana give laissez-passer documents to a police officer to allow the buses to pass through the roadblocks, and the police officer gave these documents to the bus driver.<sup>11242</sup> The buses came back but without the refugees.<sup>11243</sup>

from these survivors that the buses had taken the refugees to Nyange.<sup>11248</sup> She testified that these four were the only ones to survive.<sup>11249</sup>

4110. When it was put to Witness SJ that her prior written statement did not mention the survivors, she explained that the investigators only asked questions on certain points and she was not questioned on all the details.<sup>11250</sup> When it was put to Witness SJ that her prior written statement stated that she did not know where the buses took the refugees, Witness SJ stated that she did not know at the time where the buses were going, although they subsequently found out.<sup>11251</sup>

4111. Witness SJ testified that the morning after the first two buses departed, the police and the Interahamwe forced her and the remaining refugees to board the bus destined for Nyange by hitting them with rifle butts and sticks.<sup>11252</sup> This occurred between 11.00 a.m. and 12.00 p.m.<sup>11253</sup> The bus was full of refugees seated on top of each other.<sup>11254</sup> Apart from some girls, there were no refugees remaining at the BPO after the third bus left.<sup>11255</sup> There were three policemen aboard her bus to Nyange.<sup>11256</sup> She indicated where the bus was located on Prosecution Exhibit 23(c) ter.<sup>11257</sup> The first two buses were parked in the same place.<sup>11258</sup>

4112. They left the BPO around 12.00 or 12.30 p.m. and returned to the BPO by around 3.00 p.m.<sup>11259</sup> Prior to their departure, Witness SJ testified that a laissez-passer document was given to the driver by a soldier while Nsabimana was standing in front of his office door.<sup>11260</sup> She identified the location of the door to Nsabimana's office on Prosecution Exhibit 23(c) ter.<sup>11261</sup> The fact that it had been issued by Nsabimana was later confirmed by one of the policemen on the bus.<sup>11262</sup> She saw Nsabimana give the document to a soldier who in turn gave it to the driver.<sup>11263</sup>

4113. Witness SJ testified that there were three roadblocks up to Rango, but she did not remember the number of roadblocks from Nyange to Rango because she did not know that area.<sup>11264</sup> Witness SJ, who was seated in the row behind the driver,<sup>11265</sup> testified that at the roadblocks the bus driver presented some documents which he explained authorised their trip to Nyange.<sup>11266</sup> Those documents were issued by Nsabimana, because he was the only person with the authority to allow the refugees at the BPO to travel to any other location; without his authorisation, the departure of the buses would have been “impossible”.<sup>11267</sup> She saw the signature of Nsabimana and the stamp of the préfecture on the document when she looked over the driver’s shoulder.<sup>11268</sup> In cross-examination she testified that she did not know what the préfecture stamp looked like, but she did see a stamp on the document.<sup>11269</sup> She also did not know what Nsabimana’s signature looked like.<sup>11270</sup> When it was put to her that the document may have come from ONATRACOM, she testified that it was nevertheless handed over to the soldier by Nsabimana.<sup>11271</sup>

4114. She recalled there was a roadblock located at Nyange.<sup>11272</sup> When the bus arrived in Nyange, the Interahamwe refused to let the bus pass the roadblock despite the papers shown to them by the driver.<sup>11273</sup> The Interahamwe told the bus driver: “Take these people back to Pauline and the préfet, they have their own soldiers. We are tired and no salary or reward has been given to us, we do not want those persons”.<sup>11274</sup> When the bus was stopped at the Nyange roadblock, she observed a long school building in the forest and identified the classrooms which appeared in Prosecution Exhibit 25C and 25D as the building.<sup>11275</sup> She did not see any dead bodies at or near the Nyange school from where they were in the bus at the roadblock; she explained that the roadblock was far away from the school building and was obscured by trees.<sup>11276</sup>

4115. Witness SJ testified that they went back to the BPO at around 3.00 p.m.<sup>11277</sup> Nsabimana asked, “[h]ow is it that these persons have returned?”<sup>11278</sup> The police officer repeated what the Interahamwe had said, namely that Pauline had her own Interahamwe and soldiers and that they should kill them and bury them themselves.<sup>11279</sup> She could hear their conversation because Nsabimana had come out of his office.<sup>11280</sup> Thereafter, Nsabimana went into his office, picked up a firearm, took three soldiers with him, and left.<sup>11281</sup> Witness SJ remained at the BPO for a week before being moved to Rango.<sup>11282</sup> There were no other refugees in the

4116. Upon recall in 2009, Prosecution Witness SJ testified that interpreters Evelyne and Uwimana instructed her to lie about knowing two people bearing the same names as Prosecution Witnesses TK and QJ.<sup>11285</sup> Witness SJ subsequently rectified that it was only one interpreter who instructed her to deny knowing persons bearing the same names as Witnesses TK and QJ and she was called either Evelyne Uwimana or Uwimana Evelyne.<sup>11286</sup> Uwimana was accompanied by a white man during the time she instructed the witness to tell lie. Witness SJ did not remember whether it was the same white man who examined her in court.<sup>11287</sup>

4117. Witness SJ stated that she was with persons bearing the same first name as Witnesses TK, QJ and TA when she received instructions to lie.<sup>11288</sup> Witness SJ then testified that she was alone with the interpreter when she received instructions to lie.<sup>11289</sup>

4118. Witness SJ stated that she denied knowing Prosecution Witness TA during her testimony in 2002,<sup>11290</sup> although she and Witness TA were at the préfecture together during the events.<sup>11291</sup> Witness SJ subsequently testified that Witness TA was with her at the time in the safe house in Arusha, but Witness SJ had not said that they received instructions to lie at the same time; Witness SJ did not know whether Witness TA had also received instructions to lie.<sup>11292</sup> Witness SJ also agreed she knew a person bearing the same name as Witness QBQ, but had never discussed with this person whether they had also received instructions to lie.<sup>11293</sup>

4121. Witness SU testified that the third bus never reached Nyange.<sup>11305</sup> The bus driver turned the bus around, drove back to the BPO, and said to Nsabimana, who was present when they returned, “come take your cross”.<sup>11306</sup> Witness SU testified that as she was disembarking, Nsabimana was standing in front of his office, and she heard Nsabimana tell the bus driver, “[I]eave them where they are, I will give the appropriate orders.”<sup>11307</sup> On the side of the bus was written “God is great”.<sup>11308</sup> Witness SU testified that she did not know Nsabimana before 1994 and that she “got to know Nsabimana at the time of the misfortune that befell [her]”.<sup>11309</sup> She positively identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>11310</sup>

4122. Witness SU testified that some survivors returned to the BPO the following day without any belongings.<sup>11311</sup> Witness SU learned from other refugees that when the first two buses arrived in Nyange the Interahamwe, who had prepared ahead of time, proceeded to kill the passengers when they disembarked.<sup>11312</sup> A physically disabled woman who had boarded one of the first two buses, had survived and, after falling into a ditch and being covered with bodies, returned to the BPO without clothes the following day. That lady told Witness SU that when the buses stopped, the refugees got out of the buses and were cut up by people with weapons.<sup>11313</sup> Witness SU spoke with this lady the day after.<sup>11314</sup> When it was put to Witness SU that her prior statement did not mention Nyange, she explained the omission must have been the fault of the person taking her statement, since many things she said had not been included in her statement.<sup>11315</sup>

4123. Witness SU did not know Witnesses RE and SJ.<sup>11316</sup> Witness SU came to Arusha with another Rwandan lady with the same first name as Witness QBP, whom she recognised but did not know personally. They lived together in Arusha while they waited to testify before this court, but she denied that they had discussed their testimony.<sup>11317</sup> Witness SU denied being part of either Ibuka or Avega or any other association of survivors.<sup>11318</sup>

4125. Witness TA testified that during her stay at the BPO she and other refugees were picked up by buses and vehicles used for rubbish collection and driven to Nyange.<sup>11322</sup> She boarded a truck and not a bus. The truck was turned back at a roadblock at Kansi before it reached its destination, while the bus in the same convoy passed through the roadblock and continued on its way. She did not see any soldiers or Interahamwe in the truck in which she travelled.<sup>11323</sup> She explained that they did not spend the night at Nyange because “most of the refugees had been killed”.<sup>11324</sup> Instead, they returned to the BPO.<sup>11325</sup> When put to Witness TA that she had never before mentioned having been sent to Nyange before Rango, Witness TA agreed she had not mentioned this in her testimony.<sup>11326</sup>

4126. Witness TA testified that she did not know Witness SJ.<sup>11327</sup> Witness TA did not see Kanyabashi at the BPO during the time she was there.<sup>11328</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

4127. Alison Des Forges testified that she found a laissez-passer document at the BPO signed by Sous-préfet Faustin Rutayisire for Préfet Nsabimana. The document granted permission for the “peasants” named in an attached list to be transported from Ngoma commune to the Nyange refugee camp in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>11329</sup> Des Forges did not see the list attached to the document when she obtained it from the BPO.<sup>11330</sup>

4128. Des Forges testified that while Nsabimana was préfet, a number of refugees left the BPO for Nyange and almost immediately thereafter congregated again. She believed that there was only one transfer to Nyange. Based on her research, she estimated the transfer occurred between one and two weeks before the Rango transfer. Des Forges considered it unlikely, although not impossible, that the witnesses who were transferred both to Nyange and then Rango confused their accounts of the respective transfers.<sup>11331</sup>

4129. Des Forges introduced Prosecution Exhibit 113, a document written by Nsabimana entitled The Truth About the Massacres in Butare,<sup>11332</sup> in which he wrote: “I suggested that I take [the refugees] to a camp in Nyaruhengeri commune. However, on the way to Nyaruhengeri, the Interahamwe at the roadblocks near the President’s house forced the buses that were transporting the refugees to turn back; they only allowed one pickup to reach its destination”.<sup>11333</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-10-Y

4130. Witness D-2-10-Y, a 17-year-old Tutsi gardener in 1994, testified that before he came to the préfecture office, some persons had been transported from EER at Butare to Nyange.<sup>11334</sup> He was at home when he saw buses transporting persons towards Nyange.<sup>11335</sup> In cross-examination, he testified that he saw three buses going from EER to Nyange, one followed by the other, several moments apart.<sup>11336</sup> Although he did not have an opportunity to take a good look since the buses did not stop, he recalled that some of the passengers were standing.<sup>11337</sup> The witness first said that the buses drove past some time during daylight,<sup>11338</sup> and later stated that he did not remember clearly what time of the day it was.<sup>11339</sup> He then said it was not night time.<sup>11340</sup> He could not recall whether anything was written on the buses although he recalled they were ONATRACOM buses.<sup>11341</sup>

4131. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that he went to the BPO at the end of May 1994.<sup>11342</sup> At the BPO he spoke with three young girls who were around 18 years old and said they had been on the first two buses to Nyange.<sup>11343</sup> They told him that the first two buses went to Nyange, while the third bus “did not go where the killers were”.<sup>11344</sup> The girls returned to the BPO aboard those same two buses.<sup>11345</sup> The young girls told Witness D-2-10-Y that the buses that had taken them did not go right up to where people were being killed.<sup>11346</sup> The survivors told Witness D-2-10-Y that those on board the first two buses had been killed, and the survivors from the first two buses met the third bus on their way back [to the BPO].<sup>11347</sup>

4133. He knew about the Nyange transfer before he reached the BPO, but was also later told about it by a Nyange survivor who was at the BPO.<sup>11353</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y testified that he could not remember when he saw the buses, had never been to Nyange, and that everything he knew about Nyange was heard from other persons.<sup>11354</sup>

4134. Witness D-2-10-Y could not recall how long after he saw the buses pass his house he went to the BPO.<sup>11355</sup> However he got to the BPO a few days after the refugees returned from Nyange.<sup>11356</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y testified that the refugees were not taken to Rango one week after they returned from Nyange, because the transfer from Nyange had taken place before the witness arrived at the BPO, and he stayed at the BPO for two weeks before being transferred to Rango.<sup>11357</sup>

4135. Nsabimana testified that since 1993 there were Burundian refugees throughout several of Butare’s communes, including in Nyange.<sup>11358</sup> Nsabimana testified that in the first few days of June 1994<sup>11359</sup> Sous-préfet Bicamumpaka, who was in charge of social affairs, proposed at a Security Council meeting that the refugees be moved from the BPO to the refugee camp in

Nyange, Nyaruhengeri commune, which was a camp with Burundian Tutsi refugees.<sup>11360</sup> Nsabimana estimated that Nyange camp was 15-20 kilometres southeast of Butare town.<sup>11361</sup> It was not raised at the Security Council meeting whether Nyange camp had tents or water. However, Nsabimana believed that Nyange camp, which had already housed people, would have much better facilities than those available at the BPO.<sup>11362</sup>

4136. The Security Council meeting took place in Nsabimana's office at the BPO before noon; maybe at 10.00 or 11.00 a.m.<sup>11363</sup> Nsabimana testified that in the hours following the Security Council meeting, as the only person who could requisition the vehicles, he found one ONATRACOM bus to transport the refugees.<sup>11364</sup> During this time and prior to the arrival of the bus, Rutayisire counted the refugees and prepared a list of the officials responsible for families and the number of children.<sup>11365</sup> Nsabimana testified that at the BPO the bus stopped at the lawn near the MINITRAP houses.<sup>11366</sup> Nsabimana identified the location where the bus stopped on Prosecution Exhibit 23(c) ter.<sup>11367</sup>

4137. Nsabimana testified that he accepted Kanyabashi's proposal to provide two commune police officers. Nsabimana felt they needed to put commune policemen on the bus in order to "guarantee that the people [on the bus] would be able to pass" [the roadblocks].<sup>11368</sup> The two commune police officers, carrying weapons, boarded the bus.<sup>11369</sup>

4138. Nsabimana estimated there were 200 people on the bus.<sup>11370</sup> Nsabimana based his estimate on the number of people who were in the bus, not by the list that was prepared.<sup>11371</sup> The people were not sitting comfortably; they were all packed in tightly.<sup>11372</sup> He testified that it was hard to fit about 200 people on the bus.<sup>11373</sup> The people boarded with difficulty as they were carrying small parcels and clothes. They even attempted to put people in the luggage compartment of the bus.<sup>11374</sup> In the end, people were required to leave their effects behind.<sup>11375</sup> The refugees were asked to board and did so voluntarily.<sup>11376</sup> He was present during the operation from the time the people started boarding the bus until the bus actually left.<sup>11377</sup> Nsabimana accepted that a bus may only have between 60 and 80 seats, but testified that the normal concept of space did not apply in difficult times.<sup>11378</sup>

4141. Nsabimana testified that the bus never reached Nyange; 30-45 minutes after the bus left, it returned to the BPO with the people and police officers on board.<sup>11387</sup> The commune policeman told him that they had been stopped by Presidential Guard at a roadblock at Mukoni, but was not told why.<sup>11388</sup> Nsabimana testified that he then asked the refugees to get off the bus and directed them to an area in front of the BPO.<sup>11389</sup>

4142. This event occurred in the first few days or even the first week of June 1994.<sup>11390</sup> He later testified it could even be the end of May 1994. It occurred less than one week after the refugees returned to the BPO from the EER.<sup>11391</sup> Nsabimana testified that no other trips or attempted trips to Nyange were made after this.<sup>11392</sup>

Nyange because he ran into five to 10 people seeking hiding, who Nsabimana left in the care of Nkubi conseiller, Kanywabahizi.<sup>11393</sup>

4144. Nsabimana denied the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses SJ, SU and TK that three buses left one afternoon, and another left the following morning; that some of the buses had arrived in Nyange where the refugees were told to get off the buses, and were then attacked and killed in the night; and that other refugees returned to the BPO by their own means.<sup>11394</sup> Nsabimana denied Prosecution evidence that soldiers at the Mukoni roadblock sent the refugees' bus back to the BPO saying, "[g]o back to the préfecture, we are tired of killing, they should do their own work".<sup>11395</sup>

4145. Nsabimana also denied Prosecution evidence that on seeing the refugees return to the préfecture office, he jumped into his vehicle saying he was going to get information on what had occurred. Nsabimana denied knowledge of the evidence of Prosecution Witness SJ that among the refugees who returned was one Semanyenzi who was severely wounded; the first time Nsabimana heard of Semanyenzi was in court.<sup>11396</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Khamis Ramadhan

4146. Khamis Ramadhan, an investigator for the Nsabimana Defence team since 2002,<sup>11397</sup> explained that refugees from Burundi had been staying at Nyange in Nyaruhengeri. He took six photographs of Nyange in December 2004. Nyange was about a one hour drive from Butare town. To reach Nyange from Butare town, one would go past Rango from Mukoni, turn left and go to Nyaruhengeri. Nyange is towards the south of Butare préfecture.<sup>11398</sup> The six pictures Ramadhan took of Nyange were admitted into evidence as Defence Exhibit 447A-F.<sup>11399</sup>

4147. Defence Exhibit 447A showed a section of the refugee camp, including grass and some terraces. Defence Exhibit 447B depicted a section of the former camp, where a cleared area as well as some bushes and trees were visible.<sup>11400</sup> Ramadhan confirmed that Defence Exhibit 447B showed a forest in Nyange, which was situated between 45 minutes and one hour's drive from Butare town.<sup>11401</sup> He saw the remnants of the refugee camp that had been there, meaning a place that had been cleared and had indications that there were people staying there at some point.<sup>11402</sup> Ramadhan testified that Defence Exhibit 447C showed the northern edge of the former camp, beyond which no refugees had stayed. He was told this by a person who approached him while he was taking pictures and said that he was the caretaker.<sup>11403</sup> Defence Exhibit 447D also showed a cleared area in about half of the photograph. On the right were bushes and three stones, which could be used for cooking.<sup>11404</sup> Defence Exhibit 447E showed one of the places where there had been structures, in this case, a house. Farther away, another open space was visible, where there had been another house.<sup>11405</sup> Defence Exhibit 447F showed another cleared place and a hole, as well as some trees. There was a valley and a road, which on the left would go to Nyaruhengeri. The hole was manmade and had been used as a garbage dump by the refugees.<sup>11406</sup>

4148. When carrying out his investigation at Nyange, Ramadhan was approached by a person who introduced himself as the caretaker and to whom Ramadhan asked questions.<sup>11407</sup> The caretaker did not append his signature to the summary Ramadhan had prepared for the Nsabimana Defence team. Ramadhan had asked the caretaker whether people had been killed in the area in 1994 and the caretaker had denied that this was the case.<sup>11408</sup>

4149. The Prosecution alleges that Nsabimana ordered the transfer of refugees from the BPO to Nyange in order that they be killed and that this transfer occurred over a two day period using several buses. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Nsabimana organised only one transfer to Nyange<sup>11409</sup> which consisted of one bus,<sup>11410</sup> and that the purpose of the transfer was to ameliorate the refugees' living conditions.<sup>11411</sup> That bus and its passengers did not reach Nyange because it was denied passage at a roadblock, after which it returned to the BPO, where it arrived without any of its occupants being killed.<sup>11412</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence asserts the power to decide to transfer the refugees to Nyange lay with the préfet.<sup>11413</sup> It also asserts that only one witness testified that Kanyabashi was present and ordered refugees to board the bus to Nyange and that witness was unable to identify Kanyabashi in court.<sup>11414</sup>

4150. The issues for the Chamber to determine are: when the transfer to Nyange occurred; the number of buses involved in the transfer; and whether criminal acts were perpetrated against the refugees throughout and/or as a consequence of the transfer. Further, the Chamber must assess whether Nsabimana and Kanyabashi were involved in the transfer, and the extent of their individual involvement.

3.6.40.4.1 Time Period of the Transfer

4151. The Indictment alleges that the transfer of refugees to Nyange took place between mid-May and mid-June 1994.<sup>11415</sup> Nsabimana conceded that he arranged the transfer of refugees to

Nyange during this time frame, specifically in the first few days or week of June 1994,<sup>11416</sup> or perhaps even the end of May 1994.<sup>11417</sup> Witness SU corroborated this time frame, stating that the incident occurred either in the last few days of May or at the beginning of June 1994,<sup>11418</sup> while Witness SD testified that the Nyange transfer occurred approximately a week before her departure to Rango forest in June 1994.<sup>11419</sup> Des Forges estimated that, based on her research, the transfer occurred between one and two weeks before the Rango transfer.<sup>11420</sup>

4152. Witness SJ was the only witness to estimate that the event took place around late April or early May 1994.<sup>11421</sup> Having regard to Witness SJ's own admission that she could not recall the month in which the event occurred,<sup>11422</sup> the Chamber considers Witness SJ's testimony, as an estimate, does not contradict the testimony of the other witnesses as to the date of the transfer.

4153. The Chamber recalls Nsabimana also testified the transfer occurred less than one week after the refugees returned to the BPO from the EER.<sup>11423</sup> Recalling its previous finding that the refugees returned to the BPO from the EER at the very end of May 1994 (), the Chamber finds that the subsequent transfer to Nyange occurred within the first few days or week of June 1994. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the bus transfers to Nyange occurred within the time frame alleged in the Indictments, namely mid-May and mid-June 1994.<sup>11424</sup>

3.6.40.4.2 Number of Buses and Sequence of Events Relating to the Transfer

4154. The Nsabimana and Kanyabashi Indictments allege that the refugees were transported to Nyange in ONATRACOM buses upon Nsabimana and Kanyabashi's orders. The Prosecution led evidence through Witnesses QBP, SD, QY, SJ and RE that there was more than one bus used in the transfer.<sup>11425</sup>

4155. Witness QBP testified that three buses arrived at the BPO one evening ("day one") to transport refugees to Nyange and that she boarded the second one. The first and second buses reached Nyange but the third bus had a mechanical problem before reaching Nyange and returned to the BPO.<sup>11426</sup> Witness SU corroborated this account, stating that three buses arrived at the BPO<sup>11427</sup> and that she left in the third bus<sup>11428</sup> that departed on the same day.<sup>11429</sup>

However, the third bus had a mechanical problem and therefore did not arrive at Nyange with the first two buses.<sup>11430</sup>

4156. The Chamber notes that Witness SU did not mention Nyange in her prior statement.<sup>11431</sup> Further, Witness SU came to Arusha with a Rwandan lady with the same first name as Witness QBP, whom she testified she recognised but did not know personally. They lived together in Arusha while they waited to testify before this court, but Witness SU denied that they had discussed their testimony.<sup>11432</sup> Witness QBP also testified that she did not know Witness SU.<sup>11433</sup>

4157. Although the Chamber considers the omission of the Nyange event from Witness SU's prior statement to be significant, the Chamber does not consider the omission of this event from Witness SU's prior statement raises doubts as to the reliability of Witness SU's testimony before the court.<sup>11434</sup> The Chamber considered her testimony before the court to be detailed and reliable. Further, having regard to Witness SU's denial as to having discussed her testimony with Witness QBP while they were housed together, which was corroborated by Witness QBP, who testified that she did not know Witness SU,<sup>11435</sup> the Chamber considers the testimony of Witness SU is reliable and corroborates Witness QBP.

4158. Both accounts were also corroborated by Witness SD, who testified that on day one three ONATRACOM buses arrived at the BPO and that Tutsi refugees, including six of her children, boarded two of the buses and were taken to Nyange.<sup>11436</sup> Witness RE similarly testified that on day one, three buses arrived at the BPO to transport refugees to Nyange, although she did not board any of these buses.<sup>11437</sup> When it was put to Witness RE that her prior statement of 5 December 1996 did not mention the forced transfer of refugees to Nyange in three buses on day one,<sup>11438</sup> Witness RE explained that her written statement was only a summary and that she was able to provide more detailed testimony in person before the court.<sup>11439</sup>

4159. The Chamber is mindful that prior consistent statements cannot be used to bolster credibility, but may be used to rebut a charge of recent fabrication.<sup>11440</sup> The Chamber has reviewed the prior statement of Witness RE dated 5 December 1996<sup>11441</sup> and considers there is no omission of the nature indicated by the Defence in their cross-examination of Witness RE. The statement explicitly refers to the arrival of two buses at the BPO, that Witness RE was forced to board one bus, and that they were taken to Nyaruhengeri. The statement further outlines that this was the second trip with the buses, because the first trip the buses made failed after being turned back at Nyaruhengeri. Although her statement referred to Nyaruhengeri rather than Nyange, Nyange is in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>11442</sup> The Chamber considers that witnesses such as Witnesses QBQ<sup>11443</sup> and QY<sup>11444</sup> who testified about the transfer to Nyaruhengeri, rather than Nyange, nevertheless testified about the same transfer. Having regard to this outline of events, the Chamber considers that Witness RE did mention the Nyange transfer in her statement and accordingly, there is no omission in this respect.

4160. With respect to the number of buses that left the BPO, based on the following sentence in Witness RE's prior statement, "[t]he first one [trip] failed ... because the bus was send [sic] back at the moment it arrived at Nyaruhengeri", it was put to Witness RE that she only referred to one bus leaving on day one for Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11445</sup> Witness RE explained that this was a mistake on the part of the investigator; she clarified that during the first trip three buses went to Nyange and that during the second trip there was only one bus which was stopped at Nyaruhengeri.<sup>11446</sup> However, having reviewed the prior statement of Witness RE, the Chamber considers there is no inconsistency of the nature indicated by the Defence in their cross-examination of Witness RE. The statement reads: "It was the second trip with these busses [sic]. The first one [i.e. trip] failed ... because the bus was send [sic] back at the moment it arrived at Nyaruhengeri."<sup>11447</sup> A plain reading of Witness RE's statement shows that multiple buses left for Nyaruhengeri, whereas one was apparently sent back. In the Chamber's view, there is no inconsistency between Witness RE's oral testimony that three buses left the BPO, and her written statement which refers to the departure of "buses" in the plural on day one.

4163. In contrast to Witnesses QBP, SD, SU and RE, Witness QBQ testified that on day one, two buses came to transport the refugees to Nyaruhengeri, and that one bus returned to transport the remaining refugees on the same day.<sup>11452</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness QBQ testified that the third bus left after survivors from the first two buses had returned to the BPO and warned her and others not to go.<sup>11453</sup> Having regard to the testimony of other Prosecution witnesses that the survivors from the first two buses returned to the BPO the following morning,<sup>11454</sup> and not the same day, day one, the Chamber finds Witness QBQ to be mistaken regarding the departure time of the third bus.

4164. Lastly, Witnesses QY and SJ both testified that on day one, only two buses arrived at the BPO to take refugees to Nyange,<sup>11455</sup> and a third bus left the following day (“day two”). Both Witnesses QY<sup>11456</sup> and SJ<sup>11457</sup> were aboard the bus that left the BPO on day two and both witnesses testified this bus never reached Nyange because it was refused passage at a roadblock and returned to the BPO.<sup>11458</sup> In contrast to her testimony, Witness QY stated in a prior statement that two buses left the BPO together on day two and were returned to the BPO.<sup>11459</sup> Witness QY clarified in testimony that only one bus left on day two and explained that the people recording her statement must have made a mistake.<sup>11460</sup> The Chamber notes that this discrepancy about whether one or two buses left on day two is not significant and does not undermine the credibility of Witness QY’s testimony about the departure of two buses on day one. The Chamber finds the evidence of these two witnesses to be mutually consistent and reliable as to this sequence of events. The Chamber also notes that the evidence of Witnesses QY and SJ about the further departure on day two of one bus is corroborated by Witnesses SD<sup>11461</sup> and RE.<sup>11462</sup>

4165. Notwithstanding that Witnesses QY and SJ testified that two buses left the BPO on day one, whereas Witnesses QBP, SD, SU and RE testified that three buses left the BPO on day one, the Chamber does not consider these testimonies to be mutually inconsistent. Having regard to the amount of time that has passed since the events in question, the Chamber considers the variance in testimony between these witnesses is not significant. The Chamber further notes that even Witness D-2-10-Y testified that he saw three buses going from EER to Nyange, one followed by the other, several moments apart.<sup>11463</sup> He also gave hearsay evidence from three girls at the BPO that they had been on the first two buses to Nyange,<sup>11464</sup> and that there was a third bus that “did not go where the killers were”.<sup>11465</sup> Although the Chamber considers his direct evidence about this sighting of the three buses was confused and often lacking in detail, the hearsay evidence he presented, as relayed to him by the three girls at the BPO, nevertheless corroborates the Prosecution evidence as to the number of buses that went to Nyange.

4166. Nsabimana is the only witness to testify that there was only one bus used to transport refugees to Nyange.<sup>11466</sup> He admitted to arranging for a single bus to transport refugees to Nyange,<sup>11467</sup> but stated that the bus never reached its destination because it was refused passage at a roadblock.<sup>11468</sup> However, in Nsabimana’s written account, The Truth About the Massacres in Butare, he refers to multiple buses when discussing the transfer of refugees from the BPO to Nyaruhengeri: “the Interahamwe at the roadblocks forced the buses that were transporting the refugees to turn back; they only allowed one pickup to reach its destination”.<sup>11469</sup> Due to these inconsistencies, the Chamber finds that Nsabimana’s testimony that he only arranged for one bus to take refugees to Nyange not credible.

4167. Based on the foregoing evidence, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Tutsi refugees at the BPO boarded at least two ONATRACOM buses on day one that went to Nyange. In addition, the Chamber finds that a third bus departed on day two, but did not reach Nyange and returned to the BPO with its passengers on board.

3.6.40.4.3 Ethnicity of Refugees Allegedly Transferred to Nyange

4168. As to the ethnicity of the refugees, Witness SD testified that Nsabimana told the Tutsi refugees to board two of the buses.<sup>11470</sup> Witness SJ similarly testified that while at the BPO she witnessed Tutsi refugees being forced to board two green ONATRACOM buses in front of the BPO<sup>11471</sup> and that there were approximately 1,500 Tutsi refugees at the BPO at that time.<sup>11472</sup>

4169. Considering the prevailing situation at the BPO at the time, the Chamber’s prior finding that hundreds of Tutsi refugees were abducted from the BPO while they sought refuge there (), as well as the Chamber’s prior finding that those who took refuge at the EER were predominantly Tutsis (), and returned to the BPO around 31 May 1994 (), the Chamber finds it proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the refugees who were thereafter allegedly transferred from the BPO to Nyange, were also Tutsis.

3.6.40.4.4 Forced Boarding of the Buses

4170. Several Prosecution witnesses testified that they were beaten by policemen or gendarmes and forced to board the buses to Nyange. While Witness QBP, a survivor of the transfer on the first day, did not make any mention of being beaten or forced to board the buses, Witness SJ, a Tutsi woman at the BPO testifying about the transfer of day one, testified that she witnessed Tutsi refugees being forced to board two green ONATRACOM buses in front of the BPO,<sup>11473</sup> and that the refugees were beaten and prodded with sticks to board the buses.<sup>11474</sup>

4171. As to the transfer on day two, Witness QBQ testified that those who boarded the bus on the third trip were forced to do so.<sup>11475</sup> However Witness QY testified that the refugees refused to board the third bus and expressed their concerns about the killings at Nyange to the préfet, who said he would check.<sup>11476</sup> Witness QY later testified that the refugees felt reassured by the préfet once he returned and they boarded the bus without being forced.<sup>11477</sup> Witness QY's account was closely corroborated by Witness SD.<sup>11478</sup> Witness SD nevertheless testified that those who refused to board the bus, even after being assuaged by Nsabimana's words, were beaten by a gendarme.<sup>11479</sup>

4172. Witnesses RE testified that on day two, she and the remaining refugees were forced to board the buses to Nyaruhengeri,<sup>11480</sup> and that when the refugees initially refused to board a gendarme stuck them and forced them aboard.<sup>11481</sup> Witness RE understood that they were being transported so that the Interahamwe could execute them.<sup>11482</sup> Witness SJ corroborated this when she testified that on day two, police and the Interahamwe forced her and the remaining refugees to board the bus destined for Nyange by hitting them with rifle butts and sticks.<sup>11483</sup> The bus was full of refugees seated on top of each other.<sup>11484</sup>

evidence of Witnesses QBQ,<sup>11486</sup> SD,<sup>11487</sup> and SJ<sup>11488</sup> that policemen accompanied the refugees aboard the bus to Nyange.

4174. Although Witnesses SD and RE referred to gendarmes, rather than policemen, the Chamber considers that their erroneous identification of their assailants as gendarmes is attributable to the stressful situation in which they found themselves at the time, as well as the passage of time since the events in question. Notwithstanding this misidentification, the Chamber considers the foregoing testimony to be corroborated and mutually consistent.

4175. As such, the Chamber finds it proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the refugees were forced to board the buses by commune policemen who beat the refugees during boarding and accompanied them on the bus to Nyange.

3.6.40.4.5 Tutsi Refugees Attacked and Killed at Nyange on Day One

3.6.40.4.5.1 Witness QBP's Presence at Nyange

4177. Witness QBQ corroborates Witness QBP. Witness QBQ testified that some people from the first and second buses had escaped from Nyange and returned to the BPO on foot to tell the remaining refugees not to go.<sup>11493</sup> Although Witness QBQ did not specify how many survivors returned, her testimony makes clear there were several survivors. While several Prosecution witnesses, namely Witnesses SD,<sup>11494</sup> QY,<sup>11495</sup> and RE<sup>11496</sup> testified about a single young male survivor who returned from Nyange to warn them not to board later buses heading to Nyange, Witness SJ testified that four survivors, three women and one man, returned to the BPO on day two between 10.00 and 11.00 a.m.,<sup>11497</sup> and that these four were the only ones to survive.<sup>11498</sup> Witness SU also testified about the return to the BPO of at least three survivors, including 2 young men and a physically disabled woman.<sup>11499</sup>

4179. The Chamber notes that Witness RE did not mention the child survivor in her prior written statement.<sup>11504</sup> The Chamber considers that despite the omission of this event from her written statement, Witness RE's testimony is nevertheless corroborated by Witnesses SD and QY, and therefore has other indicia of credibility.<sup>11505</sup> Considering both Witnesses SD<sup>11506</sup> and QY<sup>11507</sup> testified that they did not know Witness RE, the Chamber accepts Witness RE's testimony as credible.

4180. As for the number of returning survivors, the Chamber considers the evidence is consistent and corroborated insofar as Witnesses SD, QY and RE testify about the same male survivor,<sup>11508</sup> while Witness SJ's description of one woman being half naked,<sup>11509</sup> corresponds both with Witness QBP's description of herself when she returned to the BPO<sup>11510</sup> and corroborates Witness QBP's testimony that refugees were stripped of their clothes and items after reaching Nyange.<sup>11511</sup> Insofar as the testimony concerning the number of survivors is varied, the Chamber considers that this variance can be attributed to the location of the various witnesses throughout the BPO on the morning the various survivors returned. In any event, the Chamber does not consider the differences in testimony as to the number of survivors who returned to the BPO to be significant.

4181. Accordingly, Witness QBP's account of survivors escaping Nyange and returning to the BPO was corroborated by other witnesses, such that the Chamber accepts that Witness QBP both reached and escaped from Nyange.

4182. The Chamber recalls that Ntahobali Defence Witness WUNHF testified that he saw Witness QBP in her home secteur throughout May and June 1994,<sup>11512</sup> as did Witness WUNJN.<sup>11513</sup> The Chamber recalls its finding that the testimony of Witnesses WUNHF and WUNJN was not plausible and did not undermine the credibility of Witness QBP's testimony as to her presence at the BPO (), and similarly finds that this testimony does not undermine the credibility of Witness QBP's testimony as to the Nyange transfer or create a reasonable doubt as to Witness QBP's presence at Nyange.

3.6.40.4.5.2 Events at Nyange

4183. Witness QBP is the sole Prosecution witness to testify first-hand about events at Nyange. Witness QBP testified that upon arriving at Nyange in the afternoon, the bus drivers and Interahamwe threw the passengers out of the bus like "dirt".<sup>11514</sup> She testified that there seemed to be a plan because there was an armed commune policeman on the spot with nothing to guard and that immediately after they arrived, people came from everywhere shouting, "[p]ower! Power!" and proceeded to strip the refugees of their clothes and belongings.<sup>11515</sup> Witness QBP testified that at nightfall the Interahamwe started killing and raping the refugees, and she was also raped.<sup>11516</sup>

4184. With respect to rapes at Nyange, Witness QBP testified that the Interahamwe started killing and raping the refugees at nightfall.<sup>11517</sup> In cross-examination, Witness QBP was asked about her prior statement where Witness QBP said that the Interahamwe started raping women without wasting much time after they arrived at Nyange.<sup>11518</sup> The Chamber considers that Witness QBP's testimony that attacks and rapes at Nyange commenced at nightfall is consistent with her testimony that they arrived at Nyange "at the end of the afternoon".<sup>11519</sup> This further corresponds with the testimony of Witness SD who said that the buses arrived at the BPO at 6.00 p.m.,<sup>11520</sup> as well as the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QY and RE that they left the BPO and arrived at Nyange in the early evening.<sup>11521</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds Witness QBP's testimony is credible. Nonetheless, recalling the Chamber's previous finding that rapes at Nyange falls outside the scope of Paragraph 6.38 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, and Paragraph 6.41 of the Kanyabashi Indictment which concern the allegation of the refugees' transfer to Nyange, the Chamber will not make any finding in this respect.

4186. In addition to Witness QBP's eyewitness testimony, Witness SJ provided hearsay evidence as to the events at Nyange. Survivors told Witness SJ that the refugees on board the first buses has been "jammed into a classroom" at Nyange which was guarded by the Interahamwe.<sup>11524</sup> The survivors told her that during the night people broke into the classroom and attacked the refugees with small hoes, clubs, machetes and stones. The survivors told her that the attackers killed the refugees in the classroom as well as those who tried to escape.<sup>11525</sup>

4187. The Chamber notes that Witness QBP spent the night at Nyange<sup>11526</sup> and did not testify about having been locked in a classroom. In fact, Witness QBP testified that the refugee camp at Nyange was in reality an uninhabited hill with huts and torn mats<sup>11527</sup> that had no buildings, such as in a school compound.<sup>11528</sup> The Chamber recalls Defence Exhibit 447E which Nsabimana Defence Witness Ramadhan testified showed places where two houses had been.<sup>11529</sup> The Chamber notes that the photos were taken 10 years after the time when the camp existed, and thus does not consider that Defence Exhibit 447E offers conclusive evidence that structures existed at Nyange camp in 1994. In any event, despite the Prosecution case that the refugees were destined for Nyange refugee camp, the Chamber notes Witness QBP's testimony that Nyange refugee camp was "near the location where they were".<sup>11530</sup> On the basis of Witness QBP's testimony, the Chamber considers that while the buses went to Nyange, they did not bring the refugees to the Nyange refugee camp itself.

4188. Although Witness QBP made no mention of being locked in a classroom or school building, the Chamber notes several witnesses testified about a school at the Nyange roadblock. Witness SJ testified that when the bus was stopped at the Nyange roadblock, she observed a long school building in the forest and thought they were the classrooms that appeared in Prosecution Exhibit 25C and 25D.<sup>11531</sup> Witness SJ did not see any dead bodies at or near the Nyange school, from where they were in the bus at the Nyange roadblock and explained that the roadblock was far away from the school building and was obscured by trees.<sup>11532</sup> The Chamber considers this explanation plausible.

4190. In the circumstances, having regard to the foregoing corroborated testimony, the Chamber accepts that there was a school at or near the Nyange roadblock, and, on the basis of Witness SJ's hearsay testimony, finds that killings occurred at the school. Further, the Chamber finds that Witness QBP's eyewitness account of the killings at Nyange was strongly corroborated by the hearsay testimony of Witnesses SD, QY and RE concerning the child survivor who returned to the BPO.

4191. Lastly, several witnesses, namely Witnesses RE, SD, QBQ and QY, who boarded the third bus on day two also testified about comments made by the Interahamwe at the last roadblock to the effect that they refused to kill because "all the graves were full",<sup>11536</sup> enough blood had been shed in their area,<sup>11537</sup> they were tired of killing and had had enough of the decaying body stench,<sup>11538</sup> and the people who had arrived the day before had all been killed and that they were tired of killing.<sup>11539</sup> Although this evidence is hearsay, the Chamber considers these comments corroborate the testimony of Witnesses QBY and SJ that the refugees who arrived at Nyange aboard the buses on day one were killed.

4192. In light of the foregoing evidence, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that the refugees who left the BPO by bus on day one were attacked and raped by Interahamwe at Nyange and all but a handful of those refugees were killed.

3.6.40.4.6 Number of Refugees Killed at Nyange

4193. Witness QY testified that she did not manage to board either of the two buses that came to take the refugees to Nyaruhengeri on day one as they were full.<sup>11540</sup> This was confirmed by Witness SJ, who testified that these two buses were stacked with people, some of whom sat on top of each other<sup>11541</sup> and Witness D-2-10-Y, who testified that although he did not have an opportunity to take a good look at the passing buses, he recalled that some of the passengers were standing.<sup>11542</sup>

4194. Nsabimana estimated there were 200 people on the bus.<sup>11543</sup> Although the Chamber recalls Nsabimana testified about the bus that was stopped at the roadblock and returned to the BPO safely with its passengers, the Chamber nevertheless accepts this testimony as proof of the capacity of a bus during these times. Nsabimana testified that he based his estimate on the number of people who were in the bus, not by the list that was prepared.<sup>11544</sup> Nsabimana's own testimony was that the people were not sitting comfortably; they were all packed in tightly,<sup>11545</sup> and it was hard to fit about 200 people on the bus.<sup>11546</sup> Nsabimana accepted that a bus may only have between 60 and 80 seats, but testified that the normal concept of space did not apply in difficult times.<sup>11547</sup>

4195. The Chamber recalls its prior finding that the refugees who left on the first two buses on day one were killed, and only a handful survived. Thus, on the basis of Nsabimana's own estimate, the Chamber considers it established that approximately 400 refugees were transferred to and killed at Nyange. The Chamber considers this to be consistent with the hearsay testimony of the witnesses that the Interahamwe refused to continue with the killings because the graves were full and because they were tired of killing.

3.6.40.4.7 Nsabimana's Involvement

4197. Yet other evidence undermines the veracity of Nsabimana's claim that the transfer was designed to better accommodate the refugees. First, Nsabimana did not know whether Nyange camp had tents and water before he instructed the refugees to board the buses, nor was the matter even raised at the Security Council meeting.<sup>11553</sup> According to Witness QBP, Nyange was not a camp per se; rather, it was an uninhabited hill with huts and torn mats<sup>11554</sup> and it was neither well-prepared nor properly constructed.<sup>11555</sup>

4198. Second, Nsabimana admitted to forcing, with difficulty, 200 people onto one bus.<sup>11556</sup> In their efforts to fill the bus, he oversaw an attempt to put the refugees into the luggage compartment,<sup>11557</sup> rather than making a second trip to the BPO which he claimed was not feasible without providing any reason as to why.<sup>11558</sup> The Chamber does not consider that the manner in which the transfer was carried out evidences strong concern for the amelioration of the refugees' conditions or treatment.

4200. Nsabimana's credibility is further undermined by the fact that he denied sending more than one bus to Nyange, in contrast not only to Prosecution evidence, but also the testimony of Defence Witness D-2-10-Y.<sup>11563</sup> The Chamber recalls it concluded beyond a reasonable doubt that Nsabimana arranged for at least two buses to transfer the refugees to Nyange. As such, the Chamber notes that Nsabimana was not forthcoming about the extent of his involvement in the transfer.

4201. As to whether Nsabimana ordered the killings, Witness QBQ testified that at the roadblock the bus driver told the Interahamwe, "allow me to execute the orders of the préfet".<sup>11564</sup> Witness RE testified that the Interahamwe who refused to let them pass the roadblock told the driver that the refugees should be returned to the BPO and killed by the préfet himself.<sup>11565</sup> While the Chamber considers the omission of the Interahamwe's words from Witness RE's prior written statement of December 1996<sup>11566</sup> raises a question as to the credibility of Witness RE's evidence on this point, Witness RE's account is nevertheless corroborated by Witnesses SD and SJ.

4202. Witness SD testified that the Interahamwe manning the roadblock said that “[i]f those people were unable to kill these people ... we are going to kill them here and put the bodies back into the bus so that the person who sent them can go and bury them himself”.<sup>11567</sup> In the Chamber's view, both Witness SD's and Witness RE's testimony as to the Interahamwe's words indicate that refugees had been expressly sent to Nyange by the préfet to be killed by the Interahamwe or soldiers there.

4204. Nsabimana denied the evidence that the soldiers at the Mukoni roadblock sent the refugees' bus back to the préfecture so that the authorities could “do their own work”.<sup>11569</sup> First, the Chamber notes that the evidence of the Prosecution witnesses shows that their bus made it past the Mukoni roadblock<sup>11570</sup> and was actually turned back at a roadblock between Kibilizi and Nyange secteurs in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>11571</sup> In any event, the Chamber notes there is no evidence that Nsabimana was at the roadblock where the bus was refused passage or was otherwise in a position to have heard whether or not these comments were said. Indeed, Nsabimana himself testified he was not told why the bus was returned.<sup>11572</sup> As such, the Chamber does not find Nsabimana credible on this point.

4205. The Chamber therefore, accepts the testimony of Witnesses RE, QBQ and SD and finds that, despite the laissez-passer, the Interahamwe refused to let the bus through a roadblock between Kibilizi and Nyange secteurs in order to kill the refugees because they did not want to bury any more dead bodies.

4206. However, the Prosecution has failed to adduce sufficient evidence to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that Nsabimana ordered the killings or colluded with the Interahamwe to kill Tutsis brought to Nyange from the BPO. Witness QBQ provides evidence of Nsabimana's orders,<sup>11573</sup> but the orders in question could equally refer to Nsabimana's order to transfer the refugees to Nyange, as the laissez-passer required. Further, the Chamber considers the evidence of Witnesses RE and SD as to the Interahamwes' words an insufficient basis upon which to ground a finding beyond a reasonable doubt. The Chamber is thus unable to conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that Nsabimana gave an order to kill the refugees on board the buses.

3.6.40.4.8 Kanyabashi's Involvement

4207. Three witnesses gave evidence about Kanyabashi's involvement in the transfer of refugees from the BPO to Nyange: Nsabimana, Witness QBP and Witness QY.

4208. Nsabimana testified that he accepted Kanyabashi's proposal to provide two armed commune policemen to accompany the refugees onboard the third bus.<sup>11574</sup> Nsabimana described the difficulty that "they" had in fitting 200 refugees on board one bus.<sup>11575</sup> The Chamber understood this to mean that the commune police officers took an active role in the boarding process. This evidence is corroborated by Witness QY who testified that Kanyabashi brought soldiers and policemen who forced the refugees on board the bus.<sup>11576</sup>

4209. Nsabimana testified that Kanyabashi was only present when the bus arrived and not when the refugees actually boarded the bus.<sup>11577</sup> Witness QBP testified that Kanyabashi was present while the refugees boarded.<sup>11578</sup> However, in the Chamber's view, Witness QBP's credibility on this point was impeached during cross-examination. Witness QBP did not mention Kanyabashi's presence in relation to the Nyange events in her prior written statement.<sup>11579</sup> Witness QBP's testimony also suffered from internal inconsistencies as to whether Kanyabashi was involved in bringing the buses to the BPO. She first testified that the buses were brought by the bourgmestre,<sup>11580</sup> but later testified that she did not say that Kanyabashi brought the buses.<sup>11581</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber does not consider Witness QBP's testimony with respect to Kanyabashi's involvement in the Nyange transfer to be reliable.

4210. Witness QY also gave evidence that Kanyabashi was present when she boarded a bus on the second morning,<sup>11582</sup> and that he instructed them to board and insulted them saying, "[b]oard the buses, your hour has struck".<sup>11583</sup> The Chamber notes that no corroborating evidence exists on this point. For example, Witness SU, who knew Kanyabashi since the 1970s,<sup>11584</sup> did not mention Kanyabashi's presence or involvement in the Nyange transfer, although she testified against him in relation to other events. Further, Witness SD, who also already knew Kanyabashi,<sup>11585</sup> testified that he was not present when they boarded the bus to Kibilizi, nor was he present when the first two buses departed the day before.<sup>11586</sup> Noting that

Witness QY stated she met Kanyabashi at the préfecture on the day of her departure to Nyaruhengeri and that she never saw Kanyabashi again after the war,<sup>11587</sup> that she was not able to recognise him, nor describe him in court,<sup>11588</sup> the Chamber does not accept Witness QY's testimony on this point.

4211. Based on the foregoing evidence, the Chamber accepts that Kanyabashi arranged for armed police officers to force the refugees aboard a bus and to escort its passengers to Nyange but was not present during the boarding of the buses. However, the Prosecution has failed to adduce sufficient evidence for the Chamber to conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi ordered the transport of the refugees to Nyange, or that he was aware that the refugees would be killed at Nyange.

4212. With respect to the actions of those policemen involved in the transfer or at Nyange, the Chamber recalls its previous finding that the defect in the Kanyabashi Indictment concerning the pleading of Article 6 (3) responsibility was not cured, such that the Chamber will not make any finding as to whether Kanyabashi was responsible for the crimes of policemen at Nyange pursuant to Article 6 (3) of the Statute.

3.6.41 Gisagara Speech, 17 June 1994

3.6.41.1 Introduction

4213. Paragraph 5.8 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo publicly incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis and its "accomplices."<sup>11589</sup> Paragraph 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo also alleges that Nteziryayo, as official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture, incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture. Paragraph 6.32 alleges that Nsabimana incited and aided and abetted massacres of the population.

4214. Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 allege that between April and June 1994, both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo not only incited, but also aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>11590</sup> allegedly sought to flush out Tutsis from hiding in order to kill them.<sup>11593</sup> The Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Witness QG.

4216. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana was present at this meeting in Gisagara where Nteziryayo, with alleged knowledge of the genocide plan, incited the population, and did not disagree with what Nteziryayo said.<sup>11594</sup> The Prosecution further submits that Nsabimana is guilty of incitement by reason of several speeches he made throughout Butare préfecture, including the meeting in Gisagara.<sup>11595</sup>

4217. Apart from issues concerning notice, addressed below, the Nteziryayo Defence does not dispute that Nteziryayo attended a meeting on a football pitch in Gisagara secteur. In dispute however is the purpose of the meeting. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that the meeting's main purpose, apart from swearing-in the new Ndora bourgmestre, Fidèle Uwizeye, was to make the population aware of the need to ensure security and to forget the hard times they had just experienced.<sup>11596</sup> No inciting speeches were made at this meeting. This was the only meeting held in the commune in June and July 1994.<sup>11597</sup>

4218. The Nteziryayo Defence relies upon the testimony of Nteziryayo and Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-31.

4219. In addition to its submissions on the defective nature of the Indictment paragraphs in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to incitement<sup>11598</sup> and meetings,<sup>11599</sup> considered below, the Nsabimana Defence challenges the credibility of Witness QG.<sup>11600</sup> The Nsabimana Defence submits that the meeting about which Witness QG testified was the swearing-in of the new bourgmestre of Ndora on 22 June 1994, but that Witness QG did not attend that meeting.<sup>11601</sup>

4220. The Nsabimana Defence relies upon the testimony of Nsabimana, Nteziryayo and Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-30 and AND-31.

3.6.41.2 Preliminary Issues

Failure to Plead Gisagara Meeting

4221. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is defective for failing to plead the Gisagara meeting at issue.<sup>11602</sup>

4222. Similarly, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were too vague to permit Nsabimana to adequately prepare his defence since these paragraphs fail to specify the time and the manner in which Nsabimana allegedly incited the population to commit genocide.<sup>11603</sup> Paragraph 6.59 alleging aiding and abetting is similarly vague by reason of its failure to identify the subordinates over whom Nsabimana exercised control or the nature of the aid provided.<sup>11604</sup> Further, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to meetings is impermissibly vague because it does not give an indication of the dates, venues, attendees or the number of meetings. Lastly, it argues that Paragraph 6.28 does not clearly state whether the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was discussed at all of the meetings, or only the meeting or meetings convened by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>11605</sup>

4223. The Chamber notes that Paragraphs 5.8 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) and 6.31 (against Nteziryayo only) relating to incitement, as well as Paragraphs 6.32 (against Nsabimana only), 6.53 and 6.59 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) relating to aiding and abetting, are very general in nature. Aside from alleging that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, either together or separately, publicly incited as well as aided and abetted people to exterminate Tutsis over a four-month period, these paragraphs fail to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement or aiding and abetting. In particular, no reference is made to any meeting in Gisagara.

4224. The Chamber observes that Paragraph 6.28 fails to specify the number and dates of the alleged meetings. Contrary to the contention of the Nsabimana Defence regarding the purpose of the meetings, a plain reading of Paragraph 6.28 suggests that the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was only discussed at a single meeting, which was convened by Nyiramasuhuko. However, Paragraph 6.28 refers to meetings in the plural. Accordingly, there is confusion as to how many meetings Nsabimana participated in, how many were convened by Nyiramasuhuko, and what was discussed at the meetings. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is defective. Again, the Chamber observes no reference is made to any meeting in Gisagara. The Chamber therefore considers all of the foregoing paragraphs to be defective.

4225. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraphs 5.8 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) and 6.31 (against Nteziryayo only) relating to incitement, Paragraphs 6.32 (against Nsabimana only), 6.53 and 6.59 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) relating to aiding and abetting, as well as Paragraph 6.28 relating to meetings, were cured of their respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

4227. The witness summary grid shows Witness QG would testify that Nteziryayo and Nsabimana came to Ndora commune, where Nteziryayo told the crowd to seek out the enemy and not to hesitate to shoot them down. Nteziryayo added that people needed to get weapons because the enemy had to be eliminated and that he was going to provide people with arms.<sup>11608</sup> The Chamber notes that the summary of intended evidence of Witness QG fails to reference when or where the meeting took place within Ndora commune. It similarly fails to specify any conduct by Nsabimana on this occasion.

4228. Witness QG's statement of 25 August 1997<sup>11609</sup> refers to a meeting held in Ndora commune, where Nteziryayo talked about the population running away at the sound of the Inkotanyi's gun shots. Nteziryayo told them they should seek out the enemy and not hesitate to shoot them down, and that the enemy needed to be eliminated. Nteziryayo noted they needed weapons, and added he was going to provide arms for the people to defend themselves.<sup>11610</sup> Nsabimana was present at the meeting. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber is of the view that the summary of Witness QG's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief is consistent with the content of Witness QG's second statement.

4229. Although the summary of anticipated evidence of Witness QG fails to identify when this meeting occurred, Witness QG's statement places the meeting as occurring "shortly after" Nteziryayo's appointment as préfet. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers the meeting occurred shortly after 17 June 1994 and that the omission of this detail in the Indictment as to when the alleged event occurred was cured by information contained in Witness QG's second statement.

4230. However, insofar as both the summary of Witness QG's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and Witness QG's second statement of 25 August 1997 fail to identify a location more specific than "Ndora commune", the Chamber considers that it cannot be said that either the Nteziryayo Defence or the Nsabimana Defence were provided with adequate notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence of a specific meeting held at Gisagara in Ndora commune.

4231. Having regard to the foregoing, the inclusion of the summary of Witness QG's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief did not provide adequate notice to either the Nteziryayo Defence or the Nsabimana Defence about the specific Gisagara meeting on which the Prosecution relies and at which Nteziryayo allegedly thanked the population for their "good behaviour" and encouraged them to "[f]lush out all of the areas to expose the enemy". As such, it did not cure the defective Indictment vis-à-vis either Nteziryayo or Nsabimana.

4232. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists another witness, Witness FAO, who was expected to testify about a Gisagara

<sup>11609</sup> The Chamber notes there is no reference to any meeting in Witness QG's Statement of 12 June 1996, also disclosed 4 December 2000 and 13 December 2001.

meeting. The summary for Witness FAO shows that Witness FAO was intended to testify that Nteziryayo chaired a meeting at Gisagara and said: “When you sweep you don’t leave the dirt aside [sic] your house and that all Tutsis including girls and children were to be exterminated because that was the country’s programme. After the speech, the Hutus conducted systematic searches and killed a large number of Tutsis. FAO took part in the search.”<sup>11611</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FAO did not ultimately testify at trial.

4233. The Gisagara meeting referred to in the summary of anticipated evidence of Witness FAO in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief is found in Witness FAO’s statement of 11 October 1999. Witness FAO’s first statement refers to a meeting that Nteziryayo allegedly chaired at Gisagara market where he told the population to “sweep the dirt” and referred to the extermination of Tutsis as “the country’s program” and after which Hutus conducted systematic searches and killed a large number of Tutsis.<sup>11612</sup> Witness FAO’s first statement says this meeting took place “[a] few days after the Caterpillar was brought in.” The Chamber notes that while the summary of Witness FAO’s anticipated evidence gives no estimation as to when this meeting took place, by reading the preceding paragraphs in Witness FAO’s statement and following the timeline of events outlined in that statement concerning attacks at Kabuye Hill, it can be deduced that the Gisagara meeting to which Witness FAO refers must have taken place around mid-May 1994.<sup>11613</sup>

4234. Having compared the statements of Witnesses QG and FAO, the Chamber considers the witnesses are not referring to the same meeting. First, the statement of Witness FAO refers to a meeting which must have taken place around mid-May 1994, while the statement of Witness QG refers to a Ndora commune meeting which occurred “shortly after” Nteziryayo’s appointment and therefore sometime after 17 June 1994. Further, while Witness QG’s statement claims Nteziryayo talked about the population running away at the sound of the Inkotanyi’s gun shots, seeking out and eliminating the enemy and the need for him to provide weapons in order that the people could defend themselves,<sup>11614</sup> Witness FAO’s statement claims Nteziryayo’s speech concerned sweeping the dirt and the country’s programme of exterminating Tutsis including girls and children.<sup>11615</sup>

4235. Having regard to the difference between both witness statements, the Chamber concludes the witnesses were referring to two separate meetings. In the circumstances, the inclusion of the anticipated testimony of Witness FAO in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief did not provide the Nteziryayo Defence with adequate notice of the Gisagara meeting about which Witness QG ultimately testified.

He then refers to events that take place “the next day”, i.e. 2 May 1994. He then states that “a Caterpillar arrived 2 weeks later to bury all the dead corpses”, i.e. around 16 May 1994. The witness clarifies that Nteziryayo chaired a meeting at Gisagara market “a few days after the Caterpillar was brought in”, which the Chamber deduces must be around 16-20 May 1994. The statement then refers to June 1994 where Shalom came with the Interahamwe to take away and kill several Tutsi girls).

4236. The Chamber observes that Witness FAO's second statement of 16 August 2001 also refers to a second meeting which "Préfet Nteziryayo" held at Ndora shopping centre, "maybe in early June", and also attended by Sous-préfet Fidel and Kalimanzira. The statement says that Préfet Nteziryayo said that if the people did not respect the instructions given by other authorities at the meeting, they would see their communes captured by the RPF within a very short period. He appealed to them to go and eliminate all Tutsis as soon as possible.<sup>11616</sup> Given that Witness FAO claimed Préfet Nteziryayo held this meeting, the Chamber considers it took place sometime after 17 June 1994.

4237. However, in circumstances where the summary of Witness FAO's anticipated testimony in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief did not make any reference to this second meeting at Ndora shopping centre included in Witness FAO's second statement, the Chamber is of the view that its mere inclusion in Witness FAO's second statement does not suffice to put the Nteziryayo Defence on notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence about this second meeting, or to rely on it as part of its case against Nteziryayo.

4238. Having regard to the foregoing, the summary of Witness FAO's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief did not provide notice to the Nteziryayo Defence about the Gisagara meeting about which Witness QG testified and upon which the Prosecution relies, and thus did not cure the defective Indictment vis-à-vis Nteziryayo.

4239. Regarding Nsabimana, the Chamber notes that neither the summary of Witness FAO's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief, nor Witness FAO's first statement refer to Nsabimana. Further, the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief does not indicate that Witness FAO's evidence would be led in support of charges against Nsabimana.

4240. In the circumstances, even if the Chamber were to consider that Witnesses FAO and QG were referring to the same meeting, the Chamber nonetheless finds that the inclusion of the summary of Witness FAO's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief would not serve as notice to the Nsabimana Defence of the Prosecution's intention to rely on this meeting as part of its case against Nsabimana.

4241. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber will not make any findings against either Nsabimana or Nteziryayo with respect to the current allegation.

4242. With respect to Nsabimana, the Chamber further notes that although the Prosecution submits that Nsabimana is guilty of incitement by reason of several speeches he made throughout Butare préfecture, including the meeting in Gisagara,<sup>11617</sup> no evidence was led in relation to any speeches allegedly made by Nsabimana at this Gisagara meeting.

Exclusion of the Evidence of Gisagara Meeting and Subsequent Killings

4243. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that at the time of filing the Nteziryayo Closing Brief, its motion requesting the exclusion of Prosecution evidence concerning inciting speeches and subsequent killings at Gisagara, Ndora, filed on 23 January 2009,<sup>11618</sup> was pending.<sup>11619</sup> The Chamber observes that on 25 February 2009 the Chamber denied that motion in its entirety. The Chamber considered it was inappropriate to deal with the motion during trial, and chose to decide such issues in its final deliberations.<sup>11620</sup>

4244. Having regard to the Chamber's previous finding that neither the Nteziryayo Defence nor the Nsabimana Defence received adequate notice of this allegation such that the relevant Indictment paragraphs were not cured, the Chamber will not consider the evidence led concerning inciting speeches allegedly made by Nteziryayo or Nsabimana at a meeting in Gisagara around mid-May 1994, or any subsequent killings against Indictment Paragraphs 5.8 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) and 6.31 (against Nteziryayo only) relating to incitement, as well as Paragraphs 6.32 (against Nsabimana only), 6.53 and 6.59 (against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo) relating to aiding and abetting.

3.6.42 Nteziryayo's Swearing-in Ceremony, 21 June 1994

3.6.42.1 Introduction

4246. Paragraph 6.34 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nteziryayo was appointed préfet of Butare by the Interim Government, replacing Sylvain Nsabimana, on 17 June 1994. After the handing over of office on 21 June 1994, Préfet Nteziryayo continued to incite the population to "finish off" the enemy and its "accomplices", most notably during the swearing-in ceremony of the Muganza bourgmestre, Élie Ndayambaje.<sup>11622</sup> The Chamber notes Paragraph 6.34 is not pled in support of any counts against Nteziryayo.

4247. The Prosecution case is that Nteziryayo was responsible for the civil defence programme in Butare from April to July 1994 because he had both de facto authority in his role as colonel, and de jure authority after he was appointed préfet of Butare.<sup>11623</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo was appointed préfet of Butare because he had promoted the civil defence programme so successfully that the Interim Government believed he could carry out its plan to exterminate Tutsis in Butare.<sup>11624</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo furthered the genocidal plan of the Interim Government because on the occasion of his swearing-in ceremony at the BPO on 21 June 1994, he stated that he would continue the work of the outgoing préfet, Nsabimana, in searching for RPF accomplices, namely Tutsis,<sup>11625</sup> and on the evening of his swearing-in, Nteziryayo gave orders for the Tutsi women who had taken refuge at the BPO to be killed by soldiers.<sup>11626</sup> The Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAI, RV and Expert Witness Guichaoua.

4248. Apart from its request to exclude the evidence of Witness FAI,<sup>11627</sup> considered below, the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Defence does not make any particular submissions in its Closing Brief as to what happened at Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony. Nteziryayo testified that he promised to work in the interest of the population of Butare.<sup>11628</sup> He denied making a commitment to continue looking for RPF accomplices, namely Tutsis,<sup>11629</sup> or that he heard anyone incite people to kill Tutsis during his swearing-in ceremony, or afterwards by radio broadcast.<sup>11630</sup> The Defence also denies that Nteziryayo was appointed because the government wanted him to "complete the task". Rather, it contends Nteziryayo was appointed because of his military experience.<sup>11631</sup> Further, the Defence submits that Witness RV did not attend Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11632</sup>

3.6.42.2 Preliminary Issues

4249. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.34 of the Indictment refers to the appointment of Nteziryayo as the préfet of Butare on 17 June 1994 and his swearing-in ceremony of 21 June 1994.

4250. Although not raised by the Nteziryayo Defence in its Closing Brief, the Chamber notes Paragraph 6.34 is not specifically pled in support of any counts against Nteziryayo. Recalling the principles set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (), the Chamber will not make any finding against Nteziryayo with respect to Paragraph 6.34 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment.

4251. The Chamber recognises that the Prosecution's failure to expressly state that a paragraph in the Indictment supports a particular count in the Indictment is indicative that the allegation is not charged as a crime,<sup>11633</sup> but considers this does not definitively dispose of the current allegation in the present circumstances.

In the current indictment, the relevant paragraph is contained in the section titled 'Concise Statement of Facts' and not in the section of specific allegations against the Accused. Further, the Prosecution does not reference this paragraph of the current indictment as a material

4252. The Chamber is also aware that while a vague or ambiguous indictment can be cured by the provision of timely, clear and consistent information, the omission of a count or charge from an indictment cannot be cured in this way.<sup>11634</sup> Rather, omitted charges can be incorporated into the indictment only by formal amendment under Rule 50 of the Rules.<sup>11635</sup>

4253. In the present circumstances, the Chamber considers that the alleged inciting speeches given by Nteziryayo at his swearing-in ceremony do not amount to a separate charge which was not pled. Rather, the Chamber considers this event qualifies as a material fact that supports a charge of incitement, which the Chamber recalls is pled in Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. These paragraphs generally allege that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis. In the present circumstances, reading the Indictment as a whole, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment which allege that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis, and which were pled in support of all counts against Nteziryayo, encompass the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population at his swearing-in ceremony.

4254. As previously noted, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to incitement are very general in nature. While Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 allege that Nteziryayo publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis over a four-month period in both his capacity as préfet, and the official in charge of civil defence respectively, these paragraphs fail to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. In particular, no reference is made to any incitement on the occasion of Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony, or to any killings that allegedly resulted from such incitement. The Chamber therefore finds both paragraphs to be defective.

4256. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that in the Prosecution opening statement, the Prosecution stated that part of its case against Nteziryayo was that he engaged in incitement of the population in several places, namely, "public rallies and swearing-in ceremonies" and more specifically Ndayambaje's swearing-in as bourgmestre of Muganza.<sup>11636</sup> Even though the Prosecution only specifically identified the occasion of Ndayambaje's swearing-in, the Prosecution's opening words make it clear that Nteziryayo's actions at several swearing-in ceremonies would be relied on as part of the Prosecution case.

4257. To this end, the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists two witnesses, Witnesses SW and TQ, who refer to fact underpinning any of the charges made in the indictment. If the proposed amendment is allowed, it is presumed that the Prosecution would include this allegation under Counts 1 and 2 of the indictment, in support of the charges of genocide, or alternatively complicity to genocide. But this does not change the fact that this fresh allegation could support a separate charge against the Accused." (emphasis added).

Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11637</sup> However, both witnesses refer to this ceremony only as a temporal reference. The summary for Witness SW states that the witness "remained [at the BPO] for a few days until the appointment of Nteziryayo, who ordered the refugees out of the yard." The summary for Witness TQ states that the witness learned that the night after Nteziryayo's appointment, Nteziryayo ordered the removal of some people who had taken refuge in the BPO, saying that he was removing the filth. The Chamber notes neither summary refers to any events, and more specifically to any alleged incitement, that took place during Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony. The prior statements of both Witness SW<sup>11638</sup> and Witness TQ<sup>11639</sup> also do not refer to events that took place during Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony.

4258. In the circumstances, despite the Prosecution's announced intention, in its opening statement, to rely on Nteziryayo's actions at several swearing-in ceremonies as part of its case against Nteziryayo, the Chamber considers the Pre-Trial Brief failed to provide the Nteziryayo Defence with clear or consistent information as to the events that allegedly occurred at Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were not cured of their defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures and therefore the Chamber declines to make any finding in respect of this allegation against Nteziryayo.

4259. In any event, the Chamber notes that the evidence brought by the Prosecution is not sufficient to establish that Nteziryayo incited the population present at his swearing-in ceremony to kill Tutsis.

3.6.43 Ndayambaje's Swearing-in Ceremony and Subsequent Killings

3.6.43.1 Introduction

4260. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nteziryayo was appointed préfet of Butare by the Interim Government, replacing Sylvain Nsabimana, on 17 June 1994. After the handing-over of office on 21 June 1994, Préfet Nteziryayo continued to incite the population to "finish off" the enemy and its "accomplices", most notably during the swearing-in ceremony of the Muganza bourgmestre, Élie Ndayambaje.<sup>11640</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, Nteziryayo incited the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>11641</sup>

Ndayambaje Indictment also alleges that Ndayambaje incited the population to kill Tutsis during the period April to July 1994,<sup>11643</sup> and more specifically in June 1994.<sup>11644</sup>

4262. The Prosecution submits that on the occasion of Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje recounted fables referring to "dirt" which needed to be cleared and lice which needed to be killed. After these speeches, the Prosecution submits the population carried out killings of the surviving Tutsis. The Prosecution submits that the words used by Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo in their public speeches were imbued with genocidal intent.<sup>11645</sup>

4263. In support of the foregoing allegations, the Prosecution relies upon the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses FAG, FAL, FAU, QAF, QAL, QAQ, QAR, RV, TO and TP and Prosecution Expert Witness Ntakirutimana.

4266. The Chamber notes Paragraph 6.34 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is the only paragraph which refers to the allegation that Préfet Nteziryayo incited the population to "finish off" the enemy and its "accomplices" during the swearing-in ceremony of the Muganza bourgmestre, Élie Ndayambaje.

4267. Although not raised by the Nteziryayo Defence in its Closing Brief, the Chamber notes Paragraph 6.34 is not specifically pled in support of any count against Nteziryayo. The Chamber recognises that the Prosecution's failure to expressly state that a paragraph in the Indictment supports a particular count is indicative that the allegation is not charged as a crime,<sup>11649</sup> but considers this does not definitively dispose of the current allegation in the present circumstances.

4268. For the purposes of Paragraph 6.34 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, the Chamber considers that the alleged inciting speeches given by Nteziryayo at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony should not be qualified as a separate charge which was not pled. Rather, the Chamber considers this event qualifies as a material fact that supports the charge of incitement, which the Chamber recalls is pled in Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. These paragraphs very generally allege that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis. In the present circumstances, reading the Indictment as a whole, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, which were pled in support of all counts against Nteziryayo, encompass the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.

4269. While Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 allege that Nteziryayo publicly incited people to exterminate Tutsis over a four-month period in his capacity both as préfet, and official in charge of civil defence respectively, these paragraphs fail to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. No reference is made to incitement on the occasion of Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, or to any killings that allegedly resulted from the incitement. The Chamber therefore finds each of these paragraphs to be defective.

4271. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that in its opening statement, the Prosecution stated that part of its case against Nteziryayo was that he engaged in incitement of the population in several places, namely, "public rallies" and "swearing-in ceremonies", and, more specifically, Ndayambaje's swearing-in as bourgmestre of Muganza.<sup>11650</sup> The Prosecution's opening words make it clear that Nteziryayo's actions at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony would be relied on as part of the Prosecution case.

4272. The Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief also lists two witnesses, Witnesses FAG and TO, who expressly refer to Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11651</sup> The summary for Witness FAG states that "in June 1994, during Ndayambaje's inauguration, Nteziryayo induced and caused Hutu to kill Tutsi".<sup>11652</sup> The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief shows Witness FAG would be relied on in support of Count 1 (conspiracy to commit genocide) and Count 4 (direct and public incitement to commit genocide) against Nteziryayo.

4273. The summary for Witness FAG is consistent with the content of his statement, dated 23 February 2000, in which Witness FAG claimed that during Ndayambaje's inauguration in June 1994, Nteziryayo “enjoined the Hutus to kill all the Tutsis [and] not to spare any of them” after which Hutus immediately “went after the Tutsis in their houses and in the forest. They were killed everywhere they were found”<sup>11653</sup>.

4274. The summary of Witness TO’s anticipated evidence contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief also refers to Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony. The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief shows Witness TO would be relied on in support of Count 1 (conspiracy to commit genocide), Count 3 (complicity in genocide) and Count 4 (direct and public incitement to commit genocide) against both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje. Witness TO’s summary states that the witness attended Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony in May 1994 where Nteziryayo, as the Butare préfet at the time, addressed the crowd, reproaching the former bourgmestre for not doing his job properly and assuring people that he was bringing in Ndayambaje, “a brave man”, whom he requested discharge his duties effectively. According to the instructions of the préfet, “they had to do as they had been taught and sweep out the dirt”<sup>11654</sup>.

4275. Witness TO’s first statement of 11 June 1997, states that he attended Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony in May 1994 at the commune office in Remera secteur at which Préfet Nteziryayo introduced the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje. This statement mirrors the summary of Witness TO’s anticipated testimony in the Pre-Trial Brief with respect to the content of Nteziryayo’s speech. It further states, “[t]he thrust of the Préfet’s speech was ‘cleaning up’”<sup>11655</sup>.

4276. Moreover, the summary of the anticipated testimony of Witness QAQ contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief refers to a meeting towards the end of May or early June where both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje were the main speakers and made inciting speeches urging the populace to get rid of all the dirt, referring to the Tutsis in hiding. A few days after the speeches, young girls and Tutsis in hiding were found and killed by the Hutus.<sup>11656</sup> The Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief shows Witness QAQ would be relied on in support of Count 1 (conspiracy to commit genocide) and Count 4 (direct and public incitement to commit genocide) against Nteziryayo and all counts against Ndayambaje.

4277. Witness QAQ’s prior statement of 14 May 1997 states that the meeting that took place towards the end of May or early June 1994 occurred in the yard of the Muganza commune and during this meeting Préfet Nteziryayo sacked Bourgmestre Bimenyimana and replaced him with Ndayambaje. Among other things said, both Préfet Nteziryayo and the newly appointed bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, referred to the need to get rid of “dirt” hiding in the home and killings subsequently occurred.<sup>11657</sup>

4278. Accordingly, the Chamber considers the information contained in the summary of Witnesses FAG’s, TO’s and QAQ’s anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief and the contents of their respective previous statements, provided the Nteziryayo Defence with clear and consistent notice that the allegation that Nteziryayo incited the population to kill Tutsis at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony in June 1994 was part of the Prosecution's case.

4279. Although the summary of Witness TO's anticipated testimony and Witness TO's first statement refer to this ceremony as occurring in May 1994, the Chamber is of the view that the description of the event as "Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony" and the reference to Nteziryayo being the préfet of Butare at the time of the meeting, sufficed to put the Nteziryayo Defence on notice that the "meeting" in question concerned Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, which occurred in June 1994. Moreover, in the Chamber's view, although Witness QAQ's prior statement does not expressly refer to Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, the Nteziryayo Defence would have been aware that the meeting Witness QAQ referred to was Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony since the additional detail provided in Witness QAQ's statement stated that during this meeting Préfet Nteziryayo sacked Bourgmestre Bimenyimana and replaced him with Ndayambaje.

4281. As additional information, the Chamber also notes that on 16 May 2001 the Prosecution filed its "Supplemental Motion for the Transfer of Detained Witnesses Under Rule 90 bis" by which the Prosecution sought to add four detained witnesses, including Prosecution Witness RV, who by oversight had been excluded from the Prosecution's list of intended witnesses included in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief filed on 12 April 2001.<sup>11658</sup>

Chamber considers the Nteziryayo Defence was provided with additional notice of this allegation in July 2001, when the Chamber granted the Prosecution leave to add Witness RV to its list of intended witnesses.<sup>11662</sup>

4283. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.31 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment relating to incitement were cured by the disclosure of clear, consistent and timely information and no prejudice was caused to Nteziryayo with respect to this allegation.

Ndayambaje and Notice

4284. The Ndayambaje Defence asserts that Paragraph 6.38 of the Ndayambaje Indictment was defective because it does not allege that Ndayambaje incited the public on the occasion of his swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11663</sup> The Ndayambaje Defence otherwise submits that Ndayambaje's own swearing-in ceremony cannot be considered by reference to Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.33 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, which it alleges is vague and general in nature, and provide no link to the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11664</sup> It thus requests the exclusion of the Prosecution witnesses' evidence with respect to Ndayambaje's utterances during his swearing-in in June 1994 and the alleged consequences of the ceremony,<sup>11665</sup> discussed separately below.

4285. First, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.38 is the only paragraph in the Ndayambaje Indictment that refers to the appointment of Ndayambaje. That paragraph reads "[d]espite these crimes, Élie Ndayambaje was appointed Bourgmestre of Muganza on 20 June 1994 by the Interim Government led by Jean Kambanda". Paragraph 6.38 is pled in support of all counts against Ndayambaje, although it does not refer to the ceremony during which Ndayambaje was sworn-in as bourgmestre or to any criminal conduct by Ndayambaje.

4286. However, the Chamber recalls that Paragraph 5.8 of the Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that Ndayambaje incited the population to kill Tutsis over a four-month period, while Paragraph 6.33 more specifically alleges incitement by Ndayambaje in the month of June 1994. In the present circumstances, reading the Indictment as a whole, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.33 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, which allege that Ndayambaje incited the population to kill Tutsis, and which were both pled in support of all counts against Ndayambaje, encompass the allegation that Ndayambaje incited the population at his swearing-in ceremony.

4287. As previously noted, the Chamber considers that Paragraph 5.8 of the Ndayambaje Indictment relating to incitement, insofar as it is identical to Paragraph 5.8 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, is very general in nature and, for this reason, defective. With respect to Paragraph 6.33, the Chamber finds that while it provides a narrower temporal period than Paragraph 5.8, namely the month of June 1994, this paragraph also fails to provide any details of specific incidents of incitement. In particular, no reference is made to any incitement on the occasion of Ndayambaje's own swearing-in ceremony. The Chamber therefore finds each of these paragraphs defective.

4288. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraphs 5.8 and 6.33 of the Ndayambaje Indictment relating to incitement were cured of their respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. The Chamber notes the Prosecution did not mention Ndayambaje inciting on the occasion of Ndayambaje's swearing-in in the Prosecution opening statement.

4289. As already noted, the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists two witnesses, Witnesses FAG and TO, who expressly refer to Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11666</sup> Neither the summary of Witness FAG's anticipated evidence<sup>11667</sup> nor Witness FAG's statement<sup>11668</sup> outline any inciting speeches made by Ndayambaje on this occasion.

4290. The summary of Witness TO's forthcoming testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that the witness attended Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony in May 1994, where Ndayambaje spoke after Nteziryayo, citing examples of the Kivomo secteur where Hutu inhabitants hid Tutsi neighbours, emphasising that it was necessary to clean out the houses of these Hutus hiding Tutsis. Ndayambaje added that the Tutsis who were hiding "had to be cleaned out".<sup>11669</sup>

4291. Witness TO's first statement of 11 June 1997, indicates that Witness TO attended Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony in May 1994 at the commune office in Remera secteur at which Préfet Nteziryayo introduced the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje. The content of Witness TO's statement with respect to Ndayambaje is consistent with the information included in the summary, stating that Ndayambaje used the example of Kivomo secteur and emphasised that it was necessary to clean out the houses of Hutus hiding Tutsis. Ndayambaje used the example of a woman who sweeps dirt inside her house rather than outside, only to end up overpowered by dirt in her bed. He added that Tutsis in hiding had to be cleaned out.<sup>11670</sup>

4292. The Chamber also recalls that the summary of anticipated testimony of Witness QAQ contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief refers to a meeting towards the end of May or early June, where both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje were the main speakers and made inciting speeches urging the populace to get rid of all the dirt, referring to the Tutsis in hiding. A few days after the speeches, young girls and Tutsis in hiding were found and killed by the Hutus.<sup>11671</sup> Witness QAQ's prior statement of 14 May 1997 states that the meeting that took place towards the end of May or early June 1994 occurred in the yard of the Muganza commune and during this meeting Préfet Nteziryayo sacked Bourgmestre Bimenyimana and replaced him with Ndayambaje. The statement was otherwise consistent with the summary of anticipated testimony as to the content of Ndayambaje's speech.<sup>11672</sup>

4294. As noted with respect to Nteziryayo, notwithstanding that the summary of Witness TO's anticipated testimony and Witness TO's first statement refer to this ceremony as occurring in May 1994, the Chamber is of the view that the description of the event as "Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony" and the reference to Nteziryayo being the préfet of Butare at the time of the meeting, sufficed to put the Ndayambaje Defence on notice that the "meeting" in question concerned Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony which occurred in June 1994. Equally, as was the case with Nteziryayo, although Witness QAQ's prior statement refers only to "a meeting in May", the Ndayambaje Defence would have been aware that the meeting Witness QAQ referred to was Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony since the additional detail provided in Witness QAQ's statement stated that during this meeting Préfet Nteziryayo sacked Bourgmestre Bimenyimana and replaced him with Ndayambaje.

4295. The Chamber notes that the witness statements of Prosecution Witnesses FAG, TO and QAQ were disclosed to the Defence between November 1998 and October 2001, the last relevant disclosure thus occurring shortly after the beginning of trial in June 2001, and well before the commencement of the testimony of Witness TO in March 2002, Witness QAQ in November 2002 and Witness FAG in March 2004. The Chamber thus considers that the Ndayambaje Defence had timely notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence through these witnesses of Ndayambaje's acts on the occasion of his swearing-in ceremony as part of its case with respect to the incitement charge.

4296. As discussed above with respect to Nteziryayo, the Chamber equally considers that the subsequent addition of Witness RV to the Prosecution's witness list in July 2001 served to put the Ndayambaje Defence on notice of this allegation.<sup>11673</sup>

4297. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that Paragraphs 5.8, 6.33 and 6.38 of the Ndayambaje Indictment relating to incitement were cured by the disclosure of clear, consistent and timely information, and no prejudice was caused to Ndayambaje with respect to this allegation.

Notice of Killings

4298. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that in addition to the Indictment's failure to plead Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony of 22 June 1994, the Indictment also fails to plead the killings which the Prosecution alleges followed the meeting.<sup>11674</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence makes no submissions in this respect.

4299. Paragraph 6.51 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and Paragraph 6.46 of the Ndayambaje Indictment allege that the search for and elimination of Tutsis took place throughout the entire préfecture between April and July 1994.<sup>11675</sup> Paragraph 6.51 is pled in support of all counts against Nteziryayo.

4300. Paragraph 6.37 of the Ndayambaje Indictment also alleges that as from 20 April, in Muganza commune and the surrounding area, Ndayambaje ordered, supervised and participated in massacres of the Tutsi population, committed by militiamen, soldiers, commune policemen and commune authorities.<sup>11676</sup> Paragraph 6.37 is pled in support of all counts against Ndayambaje.

4301. Although Paragraph 6.51 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is pled in support of all counts against Nteziryayo, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.51 does not refer to Nteziryayo. Other than referring to the roadblock allegedly located outside the Nyiramasuhuko/Ntahobali household as a means of identifying Tutsis, the paragraph otherwise fails to provide any specific examples or circumstances in which searches were carried out in this period. Thus, having regard to the vague nature of the allegation contained in Paragraph 6.51 vis-à-vis Nteziryayo, the Chamber considers the paragraph is defective.

4302. With respect to Paragraph 6.37 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, the Chamber notes the paragraph does not refer to any specific crimes which Ndayambaje allegedly ordered, supervised or participated in. As a result, the Chamber considers this paragraph defective.

4303. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraph 6.37 of the Ndayambaje Indictment and Paragraph 6.51 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were cured of their respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

4305. The Chamber recalls that Witness TO's second statement of 16 October 1997 stated that after inciting speeches by the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, in late June 1994 at the commune office, Tutsi women and girls who had survived were hunted down and killed. <sup>11677</sup> 16 October 1997, Statement of Witness TO, disclosed 4 November 1998.

February 2000 also stated that after incitement at Ndayambaje's inauguration by Nteziryayo, Hutus immediately "went after the Tutsis in their houses and in the forest. They were killed everywhere they were found".<sup>11678</sup> Witness QAQ's prior statement of 14 May 1997 states that after a meeting towards the end of May or early June 1994 in the yard of the Muganza commune during which both Préfet Nteziryayo and the newly appointed bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, incited the population, killings subsequently occurred.<sup>11679</sup>

4306. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber is of the view that the information contained in the relevant witness statements was consistent with the information in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, and provided the Defence with clear notice that searches and ensuing killings of Tutsis as a result of incitement at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony were part of its case against both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje. Lastly, as considered above with respect to the disclosure of these witness statements to the Defence, the Chamber considers this was done in a timely manner.

4307. The Chamber therefore considers the defect in Paragraph 6.37 of the Ndayambaje Indictment is cured vis-à-vis Ndayambaje and Paragraph 6.51 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is cured vis-à-vis Nteziryayo with respect to the general allegation of searches and killings.

4308. However, in contrast to the anticipated evidence concerning general ensuing killings, only the summary of anticipated testimony of Witness TP refers to a specific killing. As noted, the summary of anticipated testimony of Witness TP states that after inciting speeches made by both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje at a security meeting in Muganza commune on 24 June 1994, killers took her son away saying Nteziryayo had said that no snake should remain on earth.<sup>11680</sup> Witness TP's statement of 16 October 1997 contains identical information with respect to the taking of Witness TP's son,<sup>11681</sup> for which reason the Chamber considers the subsequent disclosure both clear and consistent. Insofar as the taking of Witness TP's son was described as taking place a few days after Ndayambaje's swearing-in and because "Nteziryayo had said that no snake should remain on earth", the Chamber considers both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje were provided with adequate notice that the taking of Witness TP's son would form part of the Prosecution's case that killings followed the incitement.

4309. Witness TP's statement was disclosed to the Defence in November 1998, well before the witness gave her testimony in February 2004, for which reason the Chamber considers the subsequent disclosure timely. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje were provided with adequate notice that the taking of Witness TP's son would form part of the Prosecution's case with respect to both Accused and against all counts.

<sup>11681</sup> 16 October 1997, Statement of Witness TP, disclosed 4 November 1998. The Chamber notes that the Statement of Witness TP dated 16 October 1997 places the meeting referred to as occurring on 27 June 1994, not 24 June 1994.

4310. The Chamber has also considered the summary of anticipated testimony of the other Prosecution witnesses who were expected to testify about either Ndayambaje's swearing-in or a meeting at the Muganza commune office. With the exception of the summaries for Witnesses QAF and QAR that outline the abduction of several Tutsi girls that took place after a meeting where Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo incited the population,<sup>11682</sup> no mention of the killings of any specific individuals is made in any other summary of anticipated testimony of the other Prosecution witnesses who were expected to testify about either Ndayambaje's swearing-in or a meeting at Muganza commune office.<sup>11683</sup> For this reason, the Chamber considers the Defence was not provided with the details of any other specific killings against which they could be expected to defend themselves at trial. Accordingly, the Chamber declines to make any findings with respect to any evidence that came forth at trial concerning the deaths of specific individuals in relation to this allegation.<sup>11684</sup>

Defence Requests for the Exclusion of Prosecution Evidence

Ndayambaje Request for Exclusion of Evidence

4311. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that in light of the lack of notice with respect to this allegation, the testimonies of Witnesses QAR, TO, QAQ, QAF, FAL, TP, RV, QAL, FAG and FAU should be excluded insofar as they relate to Ndayambaje's alleged speeches at his swearing-in ceremony and the alleged consequences which resulted from his incitement.<sup>11685</sup>

4312. The Chamber recalls that the Defence's request for the exclusion of the evidence of these 10 Prosecution witnesses has already been the subject of separate judicial decisions by this Chamber.<sup>11686</sup> In a Decision of 1 September 2006, the Chamber denied a motion to exclude the evidence of 14 Prosecution witnesses, which included, inter alia, the aforementioned 10 witnesses, on the grounds that there was no basis for exclusion.<sup>11687</sup>

<sup>11686</sup> On 31 May 2006, the Ndayambaje Defence objected to the admission of evidence of 14 Prosecution witnesses, which included, inter alia, the aforementioned 10 witnesses, on the grounds that their testimonies concerned facts or elements not pled in the Indictment and of which the Defence claimed it did not have timely notification: Prosecutor v. Ndayambaje, Case No. ICTR-96-8-T, Requête en extrême urgence d'Elie Ndayambaje aux fins d'exclure les témoignages et/ou les portions de témoignages des témoins entendus au procès sur des faits qui sont en dehors de l'acte d'accusation, 31 May 2006. The Motion concerned the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses EV, FAG, FAL, FAU, QAF, QAL, QAQ, QAR, QBZ, RT, RV, TO, TP, and TW.

<sup>11687</sup> Ndayambaje et al., Decision on Ndayambaje's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence (TC), 1 September 2006, para. 25. Having regard to the particular circumstances of this case, as well as the interests of justice, the Chamber was not satisfied that there was a basis to exclude the concerned testimonies at that stage. The Chamber stressed that some of the matters raised by the Ndayambaje Defence in its Motion may be considered at a later stage of the proceedings.

4313. Ndayambaje moved the Chamber for certification to appeal this decision, and the Chamber denied that motion on 5 October 2006.<sup>11688</sup> On 2 November 2006, the Chamber dismissed another motion filed by the Ndayambaje Defence,<sup>11689</sup> noting that it was not in the interest of judicial economy to relitigate issues the Chamber had already decided on.<sup>11690</sup>

4314. The Chamber recalls its previous finding that Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje were provided with adequate notice of the Prosecution's intention to rely upon evidence about speeches given at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, as well as evidence of general killings that followed from the alleged incitement of the population at the ceremony, as part of its case against both Accused, although there was no notice of specific killings. The Chamber thus considers that the evidence of the aforementioned 10 Prosecution witnesses relating to general events which occurred at and as a result of Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony need not be excluded. Further, while the Chamber declines to make findings based on the evidence of these Prosecution witnesses with respect to specific killings, it considers this evidence may be relevant to the proof of other allegations pled in the Indictment.<sup>11691</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber finds no reason to reconsider its prior decisions of 1 September 2006, 5 October 2006 and 2 November 2006 and declines the Ndayambaje Defence's request to exclude the evidence of the mentioned Prosecution witnesses.

4315. Further, the Chamber notes that the Prosecution disclosed the prior statements of the 10 Prosecution witnesses throughout the period 1998 to 2002. The Chamber notes Witness QAR was the first Prosecution witness called with respect to this allegation and gave evidence in November 2001. Witness QAR's statements were disclosed to the Defence several times over a three-year period from November 1998 until October 2001.<sup>11692</sup> The last disclosure of October 2001 provided the Defence with the witness' statements that had already been disclosed on two earlier occasions, namely 4 December 2000 and 23 April 2001.

<sup>11688</sup> The Chamber found the Defence had "generally revisited the thrust of its previous arguments rather than demonstrating the conditions required for the Chamber to grant certification to appeal". Ndayambaje et al., Decision on Elie Ndayambaje's Motion for Certification to Appeal the Decision on Ndayambaje's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence Issued on 1st September 2006 (TC), 5 October 2006, para. 15.

Ndayambaje*, Case No. ICTR-96-8-T, Requête d'Élie Ndayambaje aux fins de reconsidération de la décision intitulée : Decision on Ndayambaje's Motion for Exclusion of Evidence» du 1<sup>er</sup> septembre 2006, 16 October 2006, para. 7. The Ndayambaje Defence asked the Chamber to reconsider both earlier decisions in light of an Appeals Chamber decision rendered on 18 September 2006 in the Bagosora et al. case regarding the exclusion of evidence. See generally Bagosora et al., Decision on Aloys Ntabakuze's Interlocutory Appeal on Questions of Law Raised by the 29 June 2006 Trial Chamber I Decision on Motion for Exclusion of Evidence (AC), 18 September 2006.

The Chamber found that the Appeals Chamber decision in Bagosora et al. contained no new elements affecting this Chamber's previous decisions, also found that the requirements for reconsideration of this Chamber's decisions had not been met, and dismissed the Motion.

<sup>11692</sup> The Statement of Witness QAR dated 20 May 1997 was disclosed on 4 November 1998, 4 December 2000, 23 April 2001 and 1 October 2001. The Statement of Witness QAR dated 14 October 1997 was disclosed on 17 June 1999, 10 December 1999, 4 December 2000, 23 April 2001 and 1 October 2001.

4316. Insofar as the Prosecution disclosed to the Defence the confessions of Witnesses FAG, FAU and RV, made to Rwandan authorities between April and July 2004, the Chamber notes that after each of these witnesses had finished giving their evidence, Witness FAG was recalled and further cross-examined on 6 September 2004, whereas there was no such request on the behalf of the Defence with respect to the remaining two witnesses.

4317. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers that the disclosure was timely, it provided the Defence with sufficient time to prepare its case, and the Accused did not suffer any prejudice.

Nteziryayo Request for Exclusion of Evidence

4318. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that the testimonies of Witnesses FAG, FAL, QAF and QAL with respect to meetings and inciting speeches made in Muganza between April and early June 1994 should be excluded since they fall outside the scope of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment.<sup>11693</sup>

4319. Having regard to the Chamber's previous finding that the Nteziryayo Defence was provided with adequate notice of this allegation, the Chamber considers there is no reason to exclude the evidence of Witnesses FAG, FAL, QAF and QAL.

4320. In addition to the evidence of Witnesses FAG, FAL, QAF and QAL being provided in a clear, consistent and timely manner, the witnesses gave their respective evidence in February and March 2004. Further, the Chamber notes that the statements of Witnesses FAG, FAL, QAF and QAL were disclosed between November 2000 and May 2002, whereas all these witnesses gave their evidence approximately two years later in February and March 2004. For this reason, the Chamber considers the Defence had sufficient time to prepare Nteziryayo's defence with regard to this allegation. Insofar as the Prosecution disclosed to the Defence Witness FAG's confession to the Rwandan authorities in April 2004, after Witness FAG had finished giving his evidence, the Chamber notes Witness FAG was recalled and further cross-examined on 6 September 2004, for which reason the Chamber considers no prejudice arose.<sup>11694</sup>

4321. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers the Defence was provided with sufficient time to prepare its case and the Accused did not suffer any prejudice. Accordingly, the Chamber declines the Defence's request to exclude the evidence of Witnesses FAG, FAL, QAF and QAL insofar as it relates to either events occurring at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony or as a result of speeches given at the ceremony.

3.6.43.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FAG

4322. Witness FAG, a Hutu farmer<sup>11695</sup> who had confessed to having participated in the genocide, testified that sometime in late May or early June 1994, he learned by word of mouth about a meeting that was to be held where a new bourgmestre would be appointed to replace Chrysologue.<sup>11696</sup>

4323. As préfet of Butare préfecture, Nteziryayo presided over this ceremony, which occurred between May and June 1994, behind the Remera commune office.<sup>11697</sup> It took place in a clearing in small eucalyptus bushes approximately 100 metres from the commune office and located below the road leading to the commune office in the direction of Mugombwa.<sup>11698</sup> On this occasion, the witness saw Ndayambaje, who was the person being sworn in as bourgmestre.<sup>11699</sup>

4324. The ceremony started around 10.00 or 11.00 a.m. and lasted until 1.00 p.m.<sup>11700</sup> The witness arrived around 10.00 a.m., after the meeting had started, together with three friends.<sup>11701</sup> When he arrived he saw VIPs sitting on chairs and a lot of the commune's population. He estimated that there were about 1,000 people at the meeting and did not see any Tutsis present. He saw commune police officers who guaranteed order and the soldiers who came with Nteziryayo. He sat about 21 metres from the speakers, who used a megaphone.<sup>11702</sup>

4325. Witness FAG did not hear any gunshots or artillery fire while at the meeting.<sup>11703</sup> The population was not armed; the witness did not hear either Nteziryayo or Ndayambaje ask the population to show their weapons during the meeting, although he admitted he might not have been present when this occurred.<sup>11704</sup>

4326. The witness did not pay attention to the order in which the speakers spoke.<sup>11705</sup> He only remembered three people taking the floor, Nteziryayo, Ndayambaje and the secretary Célestin.<sup>11706</sup>

4327. At the ceremony, Célestin introduced the speakers and gave each of them the floor.<sup>11707</sup> The witness heard both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje address the crowd in parables through a megaphone.<sup>11708</sup> Ndayambaje said, “[w]hen a house is cleaned, the dirt is not piled up behind the house, but it is taken out and thrown in the ditch”.<sup>11709</sup> Witness FAG testified that both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje explained the parable as follows: “You are continuing to hide those Tutsi women and children. Those same people will harm you, they will put you at risk. So when you clean the house, you do not pile up the dirt behind the house. So if you start killing, you must complete it. And make sure no Tutsi survives.”<sup>11710</sup>

4328. This was the first time the witness heard that proverb.<sup>11711</sup> Ndayambaje did not speak for long.<sup>11712</sup> Nteziryayo repeated practically the same thing as Ndayambaje, and did not speak for long.<sup>11713</sup> Witness FAG did not pay attention to whether Nteziryayo’s speech addressed the advance of the RPF. Witness FAG stated that the terms “Tutsi” and “Inyenzi” meant the same thing and was sure Nteziryayo used both terms. The term was used to refer to all Tutsis.<sup>11714</sup>

4329. Nteziryayo wore military fatigues on the occasion of Ndayambaje’s re-installation ceremony.<sup>11715</sup> Ndayambaje wore a suit and a scarf with the national colours which was the former flag.<sup>11716</sup> The witness did not see the préfet arrive or leave the meeting. Chrysologue Bimenyimana was present at the meeting.<sup>11717</sup>

4330. Witness FAG did not believe that any of the participants spoke or asked questions, nor did he recall any reference being made to rats or snakes.<sup>11718</sup> The witness did not personally see the swearing-in of the bourgmestre nor did he see Ndayambaje climb on a chair or table during the ceremony.<sup>11719</sup>

4331. When it was put to the witness that his confession to Rwandan authorities of 18 November 1999 did not make reference to Ndayambaje taking the floor at the meeting or explaining the parable, the witness stated it was difficult to remember everything when giving statements and, depending on the number of statements given, it was hard to always repeat the same things.<sup>11720</sup> When it was put to the witness that his statement of 23 February 2000 also failed to mention that Ndayambaje took the floor, the witness replied that he was questioned about Nteziryayo, and not Ndayambaje, and thus did not talk to the investigators about Ndayambaje.<sup>11721</sup>

4332. Nteziryayo’s and Ndayambaje’s statements to the crowd resulted in further attacks against Tutsis; after hearing the parable, people tracked down and killed Tutsi women and girls who had survived the massacres; people went into the hills, the valleys and the bush to track down the hiding survivors. The cattle, cows and sheep of those who were hiding the survivors were also attacked.<sup>11722</sup>

4333. The witness personally knew a girl called Josepha who was killed after the statements.<sup>11723</sup> Witness FAG estimated that Josepha died in May 1994. He was present during her death, but denied that Théodore Ntama, Gituza Dyoniziyo or Sebiyoba's sons were also present during her death.<sup>11724</sup>

4334. Witness FAG testified that in his 11 August 1998 confession he admitted to having participated in the murder of several children.<sup>11725</sup> When it was put to him that he previously denied having committed other crimes than the ones he mentioned, Witness FAG conceded that in his previous testimony before the Chamber, he did not mention that he participated in the killings of these persons, but that he would have admitted to these events if asked about them.<sup>11726</sup> Witness FAG conceded that he had testified before this Chamber that the confessions of August 1998 and of November 1999 contained the same facts, except that the November 1999 confession did not mention his participation in the above-mentioned killings.<sup>11727</sup>

4335. Witness FAG testified that he made a distinction between events in which he had participated and for which he could be punished, and events which did not concern him personally and for which he could not be punished. He stated the killings of these children did not concern him personally.<sup>11728</sup>

4336. Witness FAG testified that the swearing-in ceremony was not often discussed during Gacaca meetings; they talked rather about events that had occurred in the areas they were, and the ceremony was not held in their area.<sup>11729</sup>

4337. Witness FAG testified that this was the only meeting he attended in Muganza commune in the period from April to July 1994 and he did not know whether any other meetings may have taken place subsequently.<sup>11730</sup>

4338. Witness FAG estimated he saw Ndayambaje approximately 10 times before the events in 1994.<sup>11731</sup> Ndayambaje vacated his position as bourgmestre of Muganza in 1993 to further his studies at the University of Butare.<sup>11732</sup> Ndayambaje was re-installed as bourgmestre of Muganza commune between the end of May and early June 1994 by the then préfet of Butare, Nteziryayo.<sup>11733</sup> The witness identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>11734</sup>

4339. Witness FAG had never seen Nteziryayo before the war; he had only ever seen him on the occasion of Ndayambaje's swearing-in. He stated he would not be able to identify Nteziryayo because of the lapse of time since he had seen Nteziryayo at Ndayambaje's installation ceremony in 1994.<sup>11735</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAL

4340. Witness FAL, a Hutu farmer and detainee,<sup>11736</sup> testified that in May or June 1994 the population was summoned to a security meeting held in a little bush near the Muganza commune office that started around 10.30 a.m.,<sup>11737</sup> and ended at about 11.30 a.m.<sup>11738</sup> Bow-and-arrow shooting exercises took place on the football field near the venue of the meeting, but not on the same day as the meeting.<sup>11739</sup>

4341. Witness FAL testified more than 5,000 people attended the meeting. The witness sat three metres from the speakers, and the speakers used megaphones.<sup>11740</sup> They were summoned by the commune staff on the same morning of the meeting and were asked to come with their traditional weapons, namely, spears and clubs; the witness went with a club and a spear.<sup>11741</sup> Everyone brought their arms with them.<sup>11742</sup> The witness arrived after the start of the meeting. He later clarified that he arrived around 9.30 a.m., but then testified that he actually arrived around 10.00 a.m., waited for half an hour before the meeting started, and that at 10.30 a.m. he was at the meeting venue; so, he had to wait for about half an hour for the meeting to start.<sup>11743</sup>

4342. Witness FAL testified that at the meeting, there was a table which had been placed in the middle of the grass area. The only dignitaries Witness FAL remembered were Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje as well as soldiers. Ndayambaje, Nteziryayo and Tharcisse Muvunyi were present. When the witness arrived at the meeting, Nteziryayo took the floor first and told the crowd that he had come to install Ndayambaje as bourgmestre because Chrysologue was not sufficiently active, insofar as he had not done much in relation to the war that was raging, was incapable of governing the commune and had proved incapable of hunting down and killing Tutsis, Abatusi and Inkotanyi.<sup>11744</sup>

4343. Witness FAL stated that Nteziryayo told Ndayambaje to climb on a table, put on a sash bearing the national colours and asked him to take an oath of office to the effect that he, Ndayambaje, was going to accomplish what had not been done. After being sworn in Ndayambaje said, "I swear on the flag of the Rwandan Republic and to the President of the Republic that I will loyally discharge my duties". In response, the witness heard Nteziryayo say that Ndayambaje would be able to do what had not yet been done.<sup>11745</sup> The swearing-in of Ndayambaje took place right at the beginning of the meeting and was very quick.<sup>11746</sup>

4344. Witness FAL stated that Nteziryayo did not mention the word “genocide”, however he talked about killing Tutsis. Nteziryayo said the enemy had to be fought, the enemy was Tutsi, and that all Inkotanyi were Tutsis. Inkotanyi was translated as Tutsis or invaders. The Inyenzi were the Inkotanyi rebels, i.e. those who helped the invaders, while Ibyitso referred to Tutsis or some Hutus within the country. Witness FAL testified that no distinction was drawn between the Tutsis inside the country and the Tutsis who attacked the country; all Tutsis were considered to be the enemy.<sup>11747</sup>

4345. After the swearing-in part of the meeting, Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje said: “Dirt is not swept by putting it behind the fireplace. Dirt is swept away from the house.”<sup>11748</sup> Ndayambaje explained the meaning of this proverb, which meant that they had to go and bring all the Tutsis still hiding in houses and destroy the houses where Tutsis were hiding.<sup>11749</sup> Both Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo referred to the “dirt” parable insofar as Ndayambaje underlined what Nteziryayo had said.<sup>11750</sup> No one among the audience dared contradict the speech, no one spoke, and no one asked questions.<sup>11751</sup>

4346. It was the first time the witness heard the proverb. Ndayambaje explained the proverb, saying that when someone sweeps dirt he does not pile it up next to the hearth, but puts it outside, which meant that it was necessary to chase out the Tutsis still hiding, particularly the Tutsi women and girls hiding in houses, and asked people to destroy the houses where these young Tutsi girls were hiding.<sup>11752</sup>

4347. When Ndayambaje took the floor he said, “I am posted to this commune but I understood that the people have not worked well in this commune”, and then repeated what he had previously said about sweeping the dirt.<sup>11753</sup> Witness FAL did not remember whether any other person addressed the meeting; between Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo, Nteziryayo spoke longer.<sup>11754</sup>

4348. At some point during the meeting, there was a commotion. A small number of those present defended Chrysologue because he was not a bad leader and they wanted him to continue being bourgmestre. The protesters did not make a lot of noise, but this demonstration of discontent was nevertheless noticed.<sup>11755</sup>

4349. The witness did not hear the Prime Minister’s announcement referring to the restoration of peace, or anything about snakes, rats, baby rats or female rats being pregnant, or

4350. Witness FAL testified that the population carried out Ndayambaje's and Nteziryayo's orders.<sup>11759</sup> The witness heard Sebukeye, who was like Ndayambaje's spokesman, tell the crowd that it had to implement the orders that were given during the meeting.<sup>11760</sup> After the meeting, some people went and sought out the Tutsis hiding in houses and killed them.<sup>11761</sup>

4351. Witness FAL returned home after the meeting; he did not kill anybody else after the meeting, because he was afraid and had already committed too many murders. He did take part in destroying Tutsi houses.<sup>11762</sup>

4352. Witness FAL stated that he had known Ndayambaje in Muganza, at Chumba, since childhood at the Byiza school when Ndayambaje lived in Mugombwa; the witness also met Ndayambaje when he was bourgmestre. He positively identified Ndayambaje in court. Witness FAL stated he would be unable to identify Nteziryayo in court since Nteziryayo did not go to Kibuye often, such that the witness was not asked to identify Nteziryayo in court.<sup>11763</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAF

4353. Witness QAF, a Hutu farmer,<sup>11764</sup> testified that he attended a public safety meeting chaired by Préfet Nteziryayo,<sup>11765</sup> held in eucalyptus woods about 30 metres away from the Muganza commune office in Remera secteur. The meeting was held close to the road but since it was held in the woods, those who were on the road could not see the meeting's speakers. The bush was a large area, about the size of a football field.<sup>11766</sup>

4354. Witness QAF could not state specifically when the meeting was held, but recalled that the killings started in April 1994, then there was a lull, after which point the meeting was held and then the killing of Tutsi girls who had survived resumed after the meeting.<sup>11767</sup> The witness estimated that maybe two weeks after the meeting he fled for Burundi.<sup>11768</sup>

4355. Witness QAF was informed of the meeting by both the responsable de cellule, and his conseiller de secteur, who said he had to go and that those who did not attend the meeting would be considered an enemy.<sup>11769</sup> The conseiller did not ask the witness to attend the meeting with a weapon; the witness understood it was a security meeting, although in the course of the meeting Hutus decided to kill Tutsis. Since the meeting was held in a period of relative calm, no one at the meeting was armed.<sup>11770</sup>

4356. The witness went to the meeting alone.<sup>11771</sup> The witness arrived in the morning, late for the start of the meeting. Ndayambaje was appointed bourgmestre of Muganza commune on that day; Ndayambaje had already been installed as bourgmestre by the time the witness arrived.<sup>11772</sup>

4357. The surviving members of the population of Muganza commune were present, except for those Tutsis who had already been killed.<sup>11773</sup> Witness QAF was unable to estimate how many people were present at the meeting. From where he sat, he could both hear the speakers since they were using megaphones, as well as see them.<sup>11774</sup>

4358. At the meeting the witness saw Nteziryayo, who was the préfet of Butare at the time, Ndayambaje, Chrysologue Bimenyimana, Callixte Kalimanzira and a white priest who lived in Mugombwa. The conseiller, the members of the cellule committees, members of the population and soldiers who accompanied the préfet were also present. The soldiers wore camouflage uniforms and carried rifles. He stated that it was not unusual to see soldiers accompany the préfet to a meeting. Ndayambaje was wearing a black suit and a tie, but the witness did not pay any attention as to whether Ndayambaje wore any distinctive emblem.<sup>11775</sup>

4359. There was no podium for the speakers. There was a table with a microphone. There were benches by the table for the conseiller and the responsables de cellule, while the population sat on the grass in the woods.<sup>11776</sup> Approximately 10 dignitaries were sitting at the table, including the white man. He did not see any bourgmestres from other communes at the meeting. The witness could not recall in which order the speakers spoke.<sup>11777</sup>

4360. Préfet Nteziryayo wore a military uniform at the meeting. Nteziryayo addressed the meeting, saying:

Citizens of Muganza commune, your authorities have told me that you worked well. I, in turn, congratulate you for having worked well. However, I was told that there was yet a serious problem. And the problem is that there are people who have taken as their mistresses young Tutsi girls. I have also been told that those people have said that whoever comes to seek to kill the young girls will be killed in turn. I would like to tell you that these young Tutsi girls are not your wives. If you kill the father or the mother of someone, you cannot claim that that person is your wife. I am, therefore, telling you that it is necessary for you to get rid of those young girls without difficulties. Whoever refuses to get rid of the young girls will be killed at the same time as the young Tutsi girls and to hand them over to the killers.<sup>11778</sup>

4361. Nteziryayo thanked members of the population for working well, which the witness understood as him congratulating those who killed Tutsis.<sup>11779</sup> Nteziryayo did not say anything worthwhile or good. The population got worried because he was speaking of killing while things had calmed down, and before long the killings started again.<sup>11780</sup>

4362. After his speech, Nteziryayo asked the white man to stand up.<sup>11781</sup> He introduced him as a Belgian priest known as “Brother Stanny”.<sup>11782</sup> Nteziryayo stated that Brother Stan had told him that people had sought to kill him because he was Belgian and had stayed when the other Belgians had left. Nteziryayo stated that Brother Stan was not an enemy. Nteziryayo stated, “[i]f you do not want him, tell me so, and I’m going to take him away”.<sup>11783</sup> The witness testified that he knew Brother Stan well as he would see him at the Mugombwa Church where the witness used to pray regularly.<sup>11784</sup>

4363. The witness heard Ndayambaje tell the public: “When dirt is cleaned, it is taken out of the house because if the dirt is swept back into the house, under the fire side, you may find yourself with that dirt in the bedroom, and you may have to abandon your house because of that dirt. I am, therefore, asking you to sweep the dirt outside the house”.<sup>11785</sup> Witness QAF understood Ndayambaje’s speech to have the same meaning as Nteziryayo’s speech, namely that those young Tutsis still alive were to be killed.<sup>11786</sup>

4364. The witness heard that proverb for the first time in the meeting; he had not heard such a proverb before. No one explained what the proverb meant and people wondered what was meant by the term “sweep”. They deduced that it referred to the extermination of the survivors, because Nteziryayo had previously said that the people had to be taken out and killed.<sup>11787</sup>

4365. No questions were put at the end of the meeting; the witness left immediately at the end of the meeting, and could not say who closed the meeting. The witness did not hear either bombs or gunshots during the meeting. He also did not hear any speeches referring either to rats, or the need to separate genuine seed from false seed.<sup>11788</sup>

after the meeting by a group assailants led by Jean Baptiste Mukundihere, who had been sheltering the three girls. One of the girls was the daughter of Nyarunani, another the daughter of a certain Melchior, and the last one was the daughter of a certain Pascal.<sup>11791</sup> The abduction took place early in the morning; the witness saw killers armed with traditional weapons, including machetes and clubs as well as spears. He heard a noise and saw a large group of people who were leading the girls away.<sup>11792</sup> He did not see the girls being killed but Mukundihere told him he participated in the burial of the girls. The witness agreed that the abduction of these girls was the only event he personally witnessed after the meeting.<sup>11793</sup> The killings continued until he left Rwanda.<sup>11794</sup>

4367. Witness QAF saw Nteziryayo in the area where his aunt lived and on several occasions when Nteziryayo was a soldier. The witness positively identified Nteziryayo in court. Witness QAF knew Ndayambaje well because they had attended the same primary school, Ndayambaje had served for many years, and he later saw Ndayambaje when he became the bourgmestre who replaced Chrysologue Bimenyimana. The witness positively identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>11795</sup>

4368. Witness RV, a Hutu civil servant and detainee,<sup>11796</sup> testified that on 18 June 1994, it was announced on the radio that Ndayambaje would become bourgmestre of Muganza commune. Several other bourgmestres were replaced the same day and it was claimed that they were incapable of maintaining public security.<sup>11797</sup>

4369. Witness RV stated that Ndayambaje was installed into office at a ceremony held at about 10.00 or 11.00 a.m. on Tuesday 21 June 1994 in the woods, some 50 yards from the commune office. Nteziryayo had to swear in the Ndora bourgmestre before he came to Muganza.<sup>11798</sup>

4370. Among other officials, Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana,<sup>11799</sup> Dominique Ntawukulilyayo (the former sous-préfet of Gisagara sous-préfecture), Callixte Kalimanzira (Cabinet Director of the Ministry of the Interior) and the bourgmestre of Nyaruhengeri attended the ceremony. There were also local inhabitants who were armed with traditional weapons; approximately 1,000 people attended.<sup>11800</sup>

4371. Nteziryayo was the chairman of the meeting. He could not recall what Nteziryayo said or if he was present for the entirety of Nteziryayo's speech. He believed Nteziryayo spoke twice because he spoke again after Ndayambaje's speech. Nteziryayo handed Ndayambaje a sash with the national colours.<sup>11801</sup>

4372. Ndayambaje was probably the last to speak, although the witness was not present for the entirety of the ceremony.<sup>11802</sup> He recalled that Ndayambaje said that "[w]hen someone wants to sweep his house properly, he doesn't pile the rubbish up behind the hearth". The witness understood this to mean that Ndayambaje was encouraging the population to kill all the Tutsis who were in hiding.<sup>11803</sup>

4373. When it was put to the witness that he only claimed Nteziryayo spoke twice because he previously said he left the ceremony while Nteziryayo was speaking, such that he couldn't have heard Ndayambaje speaking, the witness confirmed that he heard Ndayambaje and explained that the events occurred a long time ago. He clarified that he must have left the ceremony while Nteziryayo was speaking on the second occasion.<sup>11804</sup> After the meeting, Tutsis who had survived the massacres were immediately killed.<sup>11805</sup>

Prosecution Witness TO

4374. Witness TO, a Hutu farmer and traditional dancer,<sup>11806</sup> testified that in June 1994 Ndayambaje was reappointed bourgmestre of Muganza commune by Préfet Nteziryayo. In June 1994, the population was convened in order to introduce the new préfet, Nteziryayo and the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje.<sup>11807</sup> He had not seen Ndayambaje for a long time prior to the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11808</sup>

4375. Although his statement referred to the swearing-in as occurring in May 1994, and then referred to another meeting at the end of June in Muganza commune where he saw Nteziryayo, the witness was not in a position to provide exact dates, since this was of little concern to him.<sup>11809</sup> He later estimated that the meeting about which he testified occurred in June 1994.<sup>11810</sup> Witness TO could not remember other gatherings in his commune before the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11811</sup>

11.00 a.m. Witness TO could not recall precisely when the meeting ended, but estimated he left the ceremony at around 2.30 p.m.<sup>11816</sup> During the meeting the préfet wore military uniform and was escorted by soldiers, with whom he arrived.<sup>11817</sup>

4377. The master of ceremonies was named Habiyambere.<sup>11818</sup> After the outgoing bourgmestre took the floor, welcoming the people who came, Préfet Nteziryayo introduced himself and Ndayambaje to the population, and asked the population to cooperate with Ndayambaje. Nteziryayo criticised the outgoing bourgmestre for not having achieved much, as well as members of the population who had been hiding Tutsis.<sup>11819</sup> Witness TO agreed that there was a European man who was seated with the authorities during the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>11820</sup>

4378. Nteziryayo told the following fable when addressing the population: “There was a woman who was cleaning her house, and instead of shifting the dirt towards the outside ... where it was supposed to be, she took it into the house ... And the only consequence of that act ... was for lice and other insects to grow from that dirt and exterminate her children”.<sup>11821</sup> While Nteziryayo did not mention the word “Tutsis” in his speeches, the witness stated that the fable Nteziryayo recounted made clear the meaning of his message.<sup>11822</sup> It was the first time the witness heard the fable.<sup>11823</sup> No one explained the fable to him; its meaning was made clear by subsequent events.<sup>11824</sup>

4379. Nteziryayo was not interrupted nor were questions posed during his speech; the witness was present for the entirety of his speech.<sup>11825</sup> The witness was approximately 20 metres from Nteziryayo during the speech. There was no rostrum at this meeting, although a microphone was used.<sup>11826</sup>

4380. When it was put to him that his first account of the fable said the dirt killed the children, while his second account stated the lice that grew from the dirt, the witness stated it was understood that Tutsi women and children were considered as dirt, and that if they were not swept out, then they may eventually attack the population.<sup>11827</sup>

4381. When it was put to him that his statement of October 1995 referred to a woman sweeping the dirt, whereas his statement of June 1997 referred to “cleaning up”, the witness stated the meaning of “cleaning up” was very clear, considering that the commune’s previous leaders were blamed for not having done away with the women and children; further, the witness testified he quoted the fable in his statement and did not know why the investigators summarised this fable in his statement as “cleaning up”.<sup>11828</sup>

4382. After the préfet's speech, Ndayambaje took the floor and explained the fable to the population; he referred to people who were hiding Tutsis, while Tutsis were being sought after. Ndayambaje did not say much to the population other than to assure them of his cooperation with them.<sup>11829</sup> Ndayambaje was already clad in the national flag when he took the floor after the préfet.<sup>11830</sup> The witness could not otherwise recall what Ndayambaje was wearing.<sup>11831</sup>

4383. Prior to the swearing-in ceremony, the population practiced shooting of bows and arrows<sup>11832</sup> in the playground located behind the commune office.<sup>11833</sup> Witness TO did not remember how many people were engaged in such practice. The witness claimed they practiced because Nteziryayo had earlier explained that people had to continue with such exercises and to strengthen their night rounds in order to be ready to face the Inkotanyi.<sup>11834</sup> Nteziryayo urged the people of the commune to equip themselves with weapons, to protect themselves against the Inkotanyi. Nteziryayo urged the people to be vigilant since the Inkotanyi had arrived at Muyaga Hill and Muyaga commune. Nteziryayo not only asked the population to fight against the Inkotanyi, but also told the population that it should not forget to embark on the cleansing.<sup>11835</sup>

4385. Witness TO identified Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje in court. Witness TO knew Ndayambaje from the first time Ndayambaje was bourgmestre.<sup>11839</sup> Witness TO testified that he was jailed for tax evasion in Muganza commune during Ndayambaje's first term as bourgmestre prior to March 1994.<sup>11840</sup>

Prosecution Witness TP

4386. Witness TP, a Hutu farmer in Muganza commune married to a Tutsi, testified that while she was hiding at her uncle's house, she attended a meeting at the Muganza commune office around 26 or 28 June 1994.<sup>11841</sup> On cross-examination, she stated she was not sure of the date because she was hiding in the bush; the meeting involving the préfet and Ndayambaje may have occurred in early May, and another meeting she referred to in her witness statement called solely by Ndayambaje may have occurred on 28 June 1994.<sup>11842</sup>

4387. The witness was informed of the meeting by Numbacumbe, a member of the cellule committee, who told her the meeting would deal with land disputes. Land was not discussed at the meeting. Although she had nothing to do with real estate or land problems, she went to the meeting anyway, witnessed the swearing-in of the bourgmestre and the introduction of the préfet and heard their speeches. She later stated that the purpose of the meeting was for Préfet Nteziryayo's installation, that perhaps the new préfet had been previously introduced to the whole préfecture and that this meeting was the time for the préfet to be introduced to their secteur or commune.<sup>11843</sup>

4388. The meeting took place outside the commune office, in the courtyard, and began around 9.00 a.m.; Witness TP was there for the start of the meeting.<sup>11844</sup> She later stated that she arrived at about 9.30 a.m. before the meeting started, and left around 10.00 a.m. or 12.00 p.m., although she could not precisely remember.<sup>11845</sup> Several authorities attended the meeting including the préfet, Bourgmestre Ndayambaje, conseillers of the commune and other commune staff.<sup>11846</sup> Members of the population carried clubs, axes, hoes or machetes. No special demonstration was held before the start of the meeting.<sup>11847</sup>

4389. Dignitaries were seated around the table at the front; the dignitaries did not have to use megaphones because the participants were not very many, as the majority of Remera's inhabitants were Tutsis and had almost all been exterminated. There were four dignitaries seated at the head table: Ndayambaje, Nteziryayo and two others she did not recognise. She was unsure whether Chrysologue Bimenyimana was present. Witness TP sat approximately 12 metres from the dignitaries.<sup>11848</sup>

4390. Witness TP saw Ndayambaje take the floor and speak for a few minutes. Ndayambaje wore a sash that represented the flag of Rwanda, which he always wore when he chaired a meeting.<sup>11849</sup> Ndayambaje first thanked the population for the work it had been doing. The witness understood that he was thanking Hutus for killing Tutsis. Ndayambaje told the population to continue its work, but to spare the young girls who were with their mothers; boys and men were to be killed. Ndayambaje then introduced Nteziryayo as the recently appointed préfet of Butare. The witness did not know what had happened to the former préfet.<sup>11850</sup>

4391. After his introduction, Nteziryayo took the floor. He first thanked the population for what it had done, but said it should not relax because there was a lot yet to be done.<sup>11851</sup> Nteziryayo also said, “[w]hen you want to kill a snake you even dig a hole in which the snake was. You also destroy the snake’s eggs.”<sup>11852</sup> The witness understood that Nteziryayo was encouraging the killing of surviving children. Nteziryayo also added: “When you sweep the house, you sweep from all the corners and you take out the dirt. If you ever keep the dirt inside the house, it may add fire, and imagine what it would look like to have fire in your house.”<sup>11853</sup>

4392. Nteziryayo did not discuss security issues; at the time of the meeting, the RPF had not yet arrived in the area. In his speech, Nteziryayo did not pronounce the words “Tutsi” or “Inkotanyi”.<sup>11854</sup>

4393. Witness TP saw no other person take the floor. Witness TP left after Nteziryayo’s words but the meeting carried on.<sup>11855</sup> Later she heard that after she left people asked whether the children could be spared and Ndayambaje answered: “You musn’t mention that, because if a child grows, he’ll grow with that same ethnic group. Apart from the children you must also kill the women.”<sup>11856</sup> She did not hear any reference to a parable about rats or fleas, although Hutu villagers also spoke of separating the wheat from the chaff. She did not hear reference to any religious person.<sup>11857</sup>

4394. After the meeting, members of the population went in search of Tutsis and killed them. People told her to hand over the children. She witnessed the killing of her three-and-a-half-year-old son who was taken the following night and someone helped her bury him. Her brother-in-law’s children were also killed on the day Nteziryayo spoke those words. She saw their bodies from about 21 metres. The children of Tutsi neighbours were also taken away and killed.<sup>11858</sup>

4395. Witness TP was not able to identify Nteziryayo in court since it had been a long time and she could not remember his face.<sup>11859</sup> She testified that although she did not know Nteziryayo before the events, she saw him pass by in her commune every three months or so in a white vehicle and people had told her that he was Nteziryayo, son of Ntagara.<sup>11860</sup>

4396. In February or March 1994, Ndayambaje left the commune to return to his studies and was replaced by Chrysologue; however he came back as bourgmestre shortly before the

Prosecution Witness FAU

4397. Witness FAU, a Hutu farmer and detainee,<sup>11863</sup> stated that the day after the killings at Kabuye Hill, on a Sunday, he met his neighbour, an 18-year-old Tutsi girl called Nambaje and a five-year-old girl, who had survived the Kabuye killings. He met them in Kivumo secteur, brought them to his grandfather's house, and then to his home to spend the night.<sup>11864</sup> He had passed by Nambaje's parents' home, which had been destroyed, and they asked him for help.<sup>11865</sup> Witness FAU kept Nambaje and the five-year-old girl at his house for just over one month, perhaps from April until the end of the month of May or early June, when assailants came to take Nambaje away and kill her.<sup>11866</sup>

4398. When the assailants came to the witness' house, the leader of the three assailants, Casien Ngona, told the witness that there had been a meeting at which Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje had said, "when you clean a house, you do not keep the dirt inside the house, but you take it outside of the house and if anyone is protecting a girl, he or she must hand her over to the assailants; otherwise, he will be killed by the assailants".<sup>11867</sup> The assailants said if a person hiding a Tutsi refused to hand that Tutsi over to the killers, that person would also be killed because the people hiding Tutsis in their homes were going to cause subsequent problems.<sup>11868</sup>

4399. Witness FAU did not take part in the meeting which Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje attended; those who participated in that meeting, namely the conseiller and other persons who were leading attacks all over, had attended and returned from that meeting and spoke about it.<sup>11869</sup> The conseillers de secteur had informed the leaders and members of the cellule that there would be a meeting at the commune office but Witness FAU did not take part in that meeting because he was protecting Nambaje and the five-year-old child, and he wanted to avoid them being taken away. All the inhabitants of the secteur, including the conseillers, were aware that he was hiding Nambaje.<sup>11870</sup>

4400. The meeting about which Witness FAU testified when Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje took the floor was for the purpose of swearing in Ndayambaje.<sup>11871</sup> Those who returned from the meeting said that it was said at the meeting that the dirt should be swept and be thrown out of the house and that Ndayambaje was sworn in during the meeting.<sup>11872</sup>

4401. The meeting ended between 5.00 and 6.00 p.m. and the three assailants then came to his house. The three assailants, Cassien Ngona, Nyambindi and Rutabana, were accompanied by a crowd who remained outside his house. The crowd said that they were just told that when a house is swept dirt is thrown outside, and that it was, therefore, necessary to look for anyone hiding and the people started saying that someone was hiding in his house.<sup>11873</sup> The three assailants took the Tutsi girls the witness was hiding and killed them in the home of another Tutsi called Kinyagi.<sup>11874</sup>

4402. After this meeting held by Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje at the commune office killings started; on that day and in the following days, “whenever an individual was located somewhere, that person was taken out and killed”.<sup>11875</sup>

4403. When it was put to the witness that his statement of October 1999 said the meeting took place before the killings at Mugombwa Church and Kabuye Hill, the witness clarified that the meeting actually took place after the events of Mugombwa and Kabuye.<sup>11876</sup>

4404. When it was put to Witness FAU that his statement of February 2001 outlined the content of Ndayambaje’s and Nteziryayo’s speeches and said “I was very close to him [Nteziryayo] and heard what he was saying”, Witness FAU stated he knew Nteziryayo’s words because those returning from the meeting told him so; he would ask the assailants, “[d]id you hear those words?”. and they would tell him, “[y]es, we heard that”.<sup>11877</sup>

4405. Witness FAU attended Gacaca meetings during his detention at which almost everyone talked about this meeting and the words pronounced there were often repeated among the detainees. When it was put to Witness FAU that he could recount what had happened at the swearing-in because its events were so often discussed in detention, Witness FAU testified that he was not merely repeating what was said at Gacaca; he first said these words when he made his confession, whereas the Gacaca meetings started only a few months prior to Witness FAU giving his testimony such that there was no connection between the two events. While he could not recall when he made his confession, he testified Gacaca began four years after he made his confession.<sup>11878</sup>

4406. Witness FAU admitted that he sexually abused Nambaje during the period he hid her, and took her as his wife. He thought that if he took her as his wife, she would not be harmed.<sup>11879</sup>

4407. Witness FAU knew Ndayambaje, but not Nteziryayo. Although Witness FAU did not personally know Nteziryayo, he heard Nteziryayo was a préfet and chaired the ceremony in which the bourgmestre was sworn in. The witness stated that Nteziryayo held the meeting, but he did not attend.<sup>11880</sup> When confronted with his statement to the Rwandan Prosecutor that said he saw Nteziryayo at a meeting in his commune, Witness FAU stated his statement must have been taken down mistakenly because while he talked about that meeting, he did not attend it.<sup>11881</sup> Witness FAU was not asked to identify Nteziryayo in court.

4408. Witness FAU identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>11882</sup> Throughout his testimony the witness referred to Ndayambaje as bourgmestre of Muganza commune.<sup>11883</sup> The witness saw Ndayambaje three times: the first time at a meeting convened by Bourgmestre Chrysologue at Mugombwa;<sup>11884</sup> the second time when they went together to Kibuye; and the last time when he joined the army at a place called “Foyer”, in Ngoma, on which occasion, he and Ndayambaje both travelled in the same vehicle. He did not see Ndayambaje again after he arrived at the Foyer.<sup>11885</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAQ

4409. Witness QAQ, a Tutsi civil servant from Muganza commune,<sup>11886</sup> testified that he was informed of a meeting scheduled to take place the following morning at the Muganza commune office, which both Préfet Nteziryayo and the newly reappointed bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, were expected to chair.<sup>11887</sup>

4410. The witness believed this meeting took place between the end of May and the end of June 1994, but could not be more specific because he was already in hiding at that time. However, after having regard to Nteziryayo’s letter of appointment, the witness said it was possible that the meeting was held between 20 and 22 June 1994.<sup>11888</sup> The witness was told that Nteziryayo had been appointed préfet and Ndayambaje reappointed bourgmestre and that they were going to introduce themselves to the inhabitants for the first time during this meeting.<sup>11889</sup> He could not say whether it was Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony because he did not listen to the content of all the speeches, nor could he recall all the statements that were made; in his opinion, the ceremony was intended to introduce the bourgmestre to the people.<sup>11890</sup>

4411. The witness decided to attend the meeting so he could see Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo, both of whom he knew well.<sup>11891</sup> He did not intend to follow the meeting; he only intended to come out at the end of the meeting.<sup>11892</sup>

4412. He set out for the meeting at about 1.00 a.m. and walked all night in order to get to the commune bureau; he hid in a sorghum field close to the bureau such that when the meeting began, he was already in the field close to the commune office.<sup>11893</sup> More precisely, he hid under some bushes in an anti-erosion ridge.<sup>11894</sup> From the road which passes by the commune office in the direction of Bishya, the sorghum field was located to the right. The field was adjacent to the road. He was in the ridge while the speeches he heard were being made, approximately 30 metres from the road.<sup>11895</sup> He hid in the sorghum field because, as a Tutsi, he could not show himself to the public for fear of being killed.<sup>11896</sup> He was approximately 100 metres away from the meeting venue.<sup>11897</sup>

4413. The meeting took place in a bush which was downstream from the commune office, on the left-hand side of the main road he referred to and behind the IGA building, although the witness was not able to get close enough to see it for himself.<sup>11898</sup> There was a small road which separated the witness from the members of the public who were attending the meeting.<sup>11899</sup> The meeting started after 10.00 or 11.00 a.m.<sup>11900</sup> The meeting ended in the afternoon, maybe around 3.00 p.m.<sup>11901</sup>

4414. Nteziryayo spoke first, followed by Ndayambaje. The speakers were using a megaphone. Nteziryayo said that the fighting in Nyanza was difficult because the Tutsis were hidden. When asked whether Nteziryayo used the word “Tutsi” rather than “Inyenzi”, “Inkontanyi” or enemy, Witness QAQ said he did not have a clear recollection of the precise word used.<sup>11902</sup> Nteziryayo also asked, “when the Inkontanyi come, will they be singing in the praises of the Hutu or the Tutsi?”<sup>11903</sup> He could not recall everything Nteziryayo said during the meeting because he was more concerned about his own survival.<sup>11904</sup>

4415. Witness QAQ heard Ndayambaje say, “[t]hat dirt that you are keeping at the entrance to your houses might invade the inside”. The witness understood “dirt” to refer to Tutsis. He was frightened to hear these words, and they led him to believe what he had been previously told about Ndayambaje. Hearing these words made the witness change his opinion about Ndayambaje.<sup>11905</sup> Upon hearing those words, the witness moved further away from the meeting still using the ridges that he referred to.<sup>11906</sup>

4416. A megaphone was being used at the meeting and the master of ceremonies mentioned Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje, which is how the witness knew that they were present. While he could not see the VIPs addressing the meeting, he could hear Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo from where he was located.<sup>11907</sup> He could not identify Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo by their voices because their voices were modified by the megaphone; he could identify them because their names were mentioned before they addressed the meeting. The witness agreed that part of the speeches he heard were often incomplete or unclear; there were statements he could not hear and he only paid attention when the names of the persons that he was able to identify were mentioned.<sup>11908</sup>

4417. Witness QAQ could not say how long Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje spoke, or what else they said, but testified that he remembered the parts of the speech that concerned him.<sup>11909</sup>

4418. According to Witness QAQ, Nteziryayo had not previously made racist statements, and the witness was surprised to hear Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje make those statements at the meeting.<sup>11910</sup>

4419. The day after the meeting, towns-people in Mbaziro killed young Tutsi women who had been hiding or forced into marriage, and it was these women they were referring to when they spoke of “dirt”. The witness personally saw the killings because they took place in the courtyard of the building in which he was hiding, which was his place of work.<sup>11911</sup>

4420. Witness QAQ knew Ndayambaje from when the Accused was in his sixth year of primary school. Until the events of 1994, the witness was friends with Ndayambaje and they regularly visited each other’s homes.<sup>11912</sup> Witness QAQ knew Nteziryayo since before 1966; they were friends and had common friends who were both Tutsis and Hutus.<sup>11913</sup> He identified Nteziryayo in court.<sup>11914</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAL

witness subsequently stated she did not arrive at 10.00 a.m. She arrived late, after the meeting had already commenced. The meeting was scheduled to start at 10.00 a.m. Ndayambaje was ending his speech when the witness arrived.<sup>11916</sup> Inhabitants from three secteurs, Remera, Kivomo and Kyumba, were present; she estimated 200 people attended, of which none were Tutsis, as the Tutsis had been killed, and some attendees were armed with traditional weapons. The field where the meeting was held was on the left of the commune office when you face the office, below the road that goes to Mugombwa.<sup>11917</sup>

4423. Members of the cellule committee had announced that meeting.<sup>11924</sup> They were not told the purpose of the meeting, but they were told that everyone had to arm themselves with a club, a stake and other weapons.<sup>11925</sup>

4424. The dignitaries, including Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo, sat in chairs, with tables in front of them, facing the population which was sitting on the lawn. The witness did not see Chrysologue Bimenyimana at the meeting.<sup>11926</sup>

4425. The witness went with three other people.<sup>11927</sup> The witness did not see the speakers use megaphones or other equipment at the meeting.<sup>11928</sup> When she arrived at the meeting, Ndayambaje was ending his speech.<sup>11929</sup> Ndayambaje addressed the population stating: “You have understood what I told you and now it is Alphonse who is going to take the floor. All that I’ve told you, all that I’m saying is the enemy is the Tutsi, you should therefore identify it, seek it out and separate the wheat from the chaff. The white man here, don’t worry about him because he is one of us.”<sup>11930</sup>

4426. Apart from what she heard, the witness was also told that Ndayambaje told the population to clean up and put the dirt out, to the extent that they should be able to find a needle in that heap of dirt.<sup>11931</sup> It was a common proverb in Rwanda and Witness QAL understood it to mean that good and bad people should be separated and people who were undesirables should be killed.<sup>11932</sup> The witness was told by a friend what Ndayambaje had said after she arrived at the meeting and Ndayambaje finished his speech.<sup>11933</sup>

4427. Nteziryayo took the floor after Ndayambaje. Since there was no interval between Ndayambaje's speech and Nteziryayo's speech, she listened to both her friend and Nteziryayo simultaneously. Nteziryayo greeted the people and asked if they had carried out the instructions given to them; people answered that they had. Nteziryayo asked those who brought spears to raise their hands and told them to sharpen them so that when they were hurled at the enemy, they would be streaked with blood. Nteziryayo also asked those who had clubs to raise their hands and told them they should embed nails on their clubs; he further asked those who had machetes to raise their hands. Nteziryayo asked people who had married Tutsis and had children to kill all Tutsis as he did not want any Tutsis around anymore.<sup>11934</sup>

4428. Ndayambaje spoke for about 15 minutes. Ndayambaje was wearing a suit and wearing a ribbon with the national colours. Nteziryayo spoke for about 30 minutes. He was dressed in military uniform.<sup>11935</sup>

4429. Witness QAL did not hear either Nteziryayo or Ndayambaje speak about the RPF arriving, nor use the words "Inkotanyi" or "Ibyitso"; they rather spoke about Tutsis. Nteziryayo did not invite the people present to fight the Inkotanyi, nor did he tell them what to do in the event of an attack. Nteziryayo spoke in clear language, and did not recount fables or parables, nor speak of serpents, rats or lice. No one asked questions.<sup>11936</sup>

4430. A man called Célestin also spoke; he supplemented what the other two had said by saying that they had forgotten to tell people to also kill babies.<sup>11937</sup> Célestin spoke last.<sup>11938</sup> A white man was also present at the meeting.<sup>11939</sup> The witness did not know him. The white man wore ordinary clothes and did not have much hair and no glasses. The white man did not take the floor but he did stand up, greet the population with a gesture of his hands and sit down.<sup>11940</sup>

4431. Witness QAL left at the end of the meeting, at about 1.00 p.m.<sup>11941</sup> After the meeting, the population started searching for Tutsis. The same day as the meeting, people came to her home and took her five-year-old daughter and took her to Muganza. There, the witness' brother paid 15,000 Rwandan Francs to those who had abducted her daughter and she was released, although the other children were taken away. The following day, the witness' husband, who was Tutsi, was killed.<sup>11942</sup>

4432. Witness QAL identified Ndayambaje in court. She knew him even before because she lived not far from him. She remembered having seen him for the first time in 1985 or 1986 when he was introduced to the population as being the bourgmestre at the commune office. Witness QAL saw Nteziryayo on one occasion in a vehicle in Muganza secteur, on another occasion where he spoke at a meeting held in a wood near the Muganza commune office and on a third occasion when he was in a vehicle, wearing military dress and looking at people firing at banana trees at Remera. Witness QAL said that she would not be able to recognise Nteziryayo.<sup>11943</sup>

4433. Witness QAL returned to her parents' house between April and July 1994.<sup>11944</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAR

4434. Witness QAR, a Tutsi,<sup>11945</sup> testified that before 6 April 1994 she attended several meetings convened by Bourgmestre Ndayambaje at the commune office at Remera in Muganza commune. Those meetings in Muganza commune took place both before and after the war. There was approximately one meeting per month. After the death of the President, there were meetings almost every day.<sup>11946</sup>

4435. In June 1994, Witness QAR attended a meeting at Muganza commune which was held behind the courtyard of the commune office, in the field which serves as playground in Remera. The meeting started at about 8.30 a.m. and was attended by the population of Muganza commune.<sup>11947</sup> The witness estimated she arrived at the meeting around 9.00 a.m. When she arrived people were already sitting, although she was unsure if the meeting had already started. A huge segment of the population was present at the meeting because they came to see the new préfet who had been appointed. The witness sat on the ground.<sup>11948</sup> While she could not see the speakers,<sup>11949</sup> she could hear them because they were using a microphone.<sup>11950</sup>

4436. In cross-examination, the witness estimated the meeting took place in mid-June, because following that meeting children were taken to be killed, and this occurred on 18 June 1994. The population was informed of the meeting by the local Mugombwa conseiller, Viateur Singirankabo.<sup>11951</sup>

4437. Witness QAR heard people say that the meeting was chaired by the préfet of Butare, Nteziryayo.<sup>11952</sup> There were two speakers at the meeting, both of whom wore civilian attire, not military uniforms.<sup>11953</sup> The conseiller of Mugombwa was also present. The witness could not recall seeing any white people, the parish priests or soldiers at the meeting, although commune policemen were present.<sup>11954</sup>

4438. Préfet Nteziryayo asked Bourgmestre Ndayambaje “how far they went with the job or the work.” Ndayambaje replied that “they had killed, they had exterminated all the snakes, except the women and the children, because [they] had no ethnicity but all the vipers had been exterminated”.<sup>11955</sup> In turn, Préfet Nteziryayo told Bourgmestre Ndayambaje, “you have not done anything because when you sweep the house and you put the dirt next to the fireplace, for example, the dirt will accumulate and then the people in the house will have to go”. Nteziryayo further told Ndayambaje, “[y]ou have to get the dirt out”.<sup>11956</sup>

4439. After the préfet said these things to the bourgmestre, the people applauded with much pleasure. After hearing these words from the préfet, the witness was frightened and went directly home. Later on she heard those who came out of the meeting saying that they had decided “to sweep out everything”. Witness QAR specified that “to sweep out everything” meant “taking care of all those who were still alive”, “that is the women and girls that were [previously] spared”. These women and children were to be killed.<sup>11957</sup>

4440. The search for women started the following day, which the witness estimated was 18 June 1994. The witness remembered that date because she was also called to be taken away with the other women, but was lucky to have escaped.<sup>11958</sup>

4441. Witness QAR testified that a group of attackers came to take the girls that had been spared and took them away to a place called Magasenyi where there were furnaces to kill them.<sup>11959</sup> Initially, there was a disagreement among the attackers about what to do with the women and girls, which took place next to the Statue of the Virgin Mary.<sup>11960</sup> The leader of the attackers, Masima, asked the others to wait for instructions from the “chief” and said they would do whatever the chief said.<sup>11961</sup> When Ndayambaje arrived, the leader of the attackers asked Ndayambaje what they should do with the women and girls. Without descending from his vehicle,<sup>11962</sup> Ndayambaje replied “[d]o whatever you want to do”.<sup>11963</sup> After this was said, the leader of the attackers told the women and girls to stand up and they were taken away to be killed. Witness QAR saw these people take away the eight girls with her own eyes.<sup>11964</sup> Contrary to what was stated in the witness’ statement to the Belgian authorities in June 1995, the girls were not killed “on the spot” at the Statue of the Virgin Mary.<sup>11965</sup> The girls were taken to a valley between Mugombwa and Chibaye, called Gasenyi, where there were furnaces, and where their bodies were piled because the ditch was full.<sup>11966</sup>

4442. Although the witness’ statement of 14 October 1997 referred to only four girls and a teacher being taken, she explained that eight girls were in fact taken.<sup>11967</sup>

4443. Witness QAR had known Ndayambaje since they were children and identified Ndayambaje in court. Witness QAR only saw Nteziryayo once, wearing a military uniform at Mugombwa. She later said she saw him again at the Remera commune meeting, on which occasion he was in civilian dress, not military uniform.<sup>11968</sup> Since Nteziryayo’s speech on the latter occasion frightened her such that she returned home, she could not be sure of “this or that person.”<sup>11969</sup> The witness did not sufficiently know Nteziryayo to be able to identify him in court.<sup>11970</sup>

4444. In his Report, André Guichaoua wrote that on the occasion of Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony, Nteziryayo told the audience to “[k]ill the Tutsis and then go and confess to the priest and God will forgive you”. People reacted to these words both locally and nationally and caused people to categorise Nteziryayo as an “ultra genocidaire” alongside Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>11971</sup>

4445. The swearing-in ceremonies of Nteziryayo as préfet and Ndayambaje as bourgmestre corresponded to the launching of the last phase of the killings in Butare préfecture, which was aimed at “finishing the work”.<sup>11972</sup>

4447. Ntakirutimana testified that the word “enemy” in the context of the 1994 conflict in Rwanda referred to the group who was attacking. “Inkotanyi” were the people that attacked Rwanda from abroad in 1994; they were Rwandans who wanted to come back to Rwanda.

“Inyenzi” in many cases equals “Inkotanyi”. Neutrally speaking “Inkotanyi” simply meant the attacking group. Ntakirutimana declined to identify “Tutsis” as the enemy, but admitted that, generally speaking, one could deduce that the Hutus were attacked and the Tutsis were the attackers.<sup>11975</sup> In his Expert Report, Ntakirutimana reported that in daily Rwandan culture, the “enemy” was understood to be Tutsis, and outlined numerous examples of proverbs referring to “the enemy”.<sup>11976</sup>

4448. Ntakirutimana testified that “gukora” has several meanings in Kinyarwanda, including to do something bad, to work arduously and thank you. In his Expert Report, Ntakirutimana wrote that “gukora” was synonymous with to work, to kill, to remove, to clean, communal work, umuganda, finish the job, rape and take away. “To work” could be going to destroy someone’s house, or to raid and steal from someone. In the context of the 1994 conflict, “to work” meant “to kill”. Ntakirutimana testified: “You must work with a weapon, and what you do with the weapon, that’s quite clear ... if you do work, you are going to get the Tutsi land.” All those who did not wish to work should be set aside. The operation to eliminate the enemy or the snake was a euphemism for “work”.<sup>11977</sup>

4449. According to Ntakirutimana, proverbs referring to the sweeping outside of dirt were truisms which could be easily understood. In the context of the war, such a proverb should be understood to mean that the people who attacked Rwanda and came from outside needed to be thrown out of the country. References in proverbs to “garbage” and “rubbish” fell into the same semantic field as the word “dirt”.<sup>11978</sup>

4450. Ntakirutimana explained that references to removing lice convey the image of parasites getting into ones clothing. Since old mothers and fathers in villages pick lice from their clothes, thus eliminating them, one can extrapolate the proverb to mean that one needed to eliminate anything that can disturb one’s life or situation.<sup>11979</sup>

4451. Proverbs referring to the need to separate good grains from chaff denote the relationship between the attacking group, which is bad, and the group that is attacked, which is considered good. Since weeds always come after the good grain has been planted, the context of good and bad should be understood. Speakers employing such proverbs bridged the communication gap with peasants since such metaphors put the peasant in his daily context; peasants directly understood the need to separate and throw away the bad grain.<sup>11980</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness BOZAN

4452. Witness BOZAN, a Hutu civil servant in 1994,<sup>11981</sup> testified that Ndayambaje became bourgmestre of Muganza commune again towards the end of June 1994. Around 20 June 1994, a meeting was convened at the Remera commune office to introduce Ndayambaje as the new bourgmestre. According to the conseiller, the meeting would start at 2.00 p.m. The witness left his house to attend the meeting at 1.30 p.m. and got there between 2.00 and 2.30 p.m.<sup>11982</sup>

4453. Witness BOZAN went straight to the commune office where he saw two or three vehicles arrive on Wednesday 22 June 1994. However, the policeman who was guarding the commune office told the witness and others to move to a wooded area nearby, at approximately 30 or 40 metres from the commune office, where the meeting was supposed to take place. Aboard the three vehicles were Nteziryayo, Ndayambaje, a lady MP, Sous-préfet Dominique and other people that the witness did not know.<sup>11983</sup>

4454. Witness BOZAN testified that he sat down amid the population present and a few moments later Nteziryayo, Bimenyimana and Ndayambaje arrived. The population was scattered and the officials were seated on chairs in front of the table. The meeting began a few minutes after 3.00 p.m. A megaphone was used during the meeting, although it did not work well. There were 500 people in attendance and the witness was sitting on a bench close to the officials. The witness recognised Bimenyimana, Ndayambaje, Nteziryayo, a female member of Parliament and a sous-préfet among the officials.<sup>11984</sup> The witness testified that Kalimanzira, Nyiramasuhuko and Colonel Muvunyi were not present at that meeting.<sup>11985</sup>

4455. A man named Célestin opened the meeting, followed by Bimenyimana. Bimenyimana welcomed and introduced the officials and said that the reason for the meeting was the introduction of the new bourgmestre. Thereafter, Bimenyimana wished good luck to his successor Ndayambaje before giving the floor to Nteziryayo. Bimenyimana spoke for about five minutes.<sup>11986</sup> Bimenyimana did not introduce Brother Stan.<sup>11987</sup>

4456. After Bimenyimana, Préfet Nteziryayo spoke. He thanked the outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana, and the public for their presence. Nteziryayo then asked the incoming bourgmestre to ensure security and to strengthen the level of security. Nteziryayo asked the public not to pick up objects that they found lying around since they could be bullets. Nteziryayo also thanked Brother Stan for having stood by the Muganza commune at a time when the other expatriates had left. Brother Stan was sitting among the dignitaries who were present.<sup>11988</sup>

4457. At the end of his speech, Nteziryayo led Ndayambaje in the solemn oath of office. Ndayambaje stood up, raised his right hand and held onto the flag with his other hand as he took the oath. After that, Nteziryayo adorned him with a sash bearing the national colours and the public broke into applause. Ndayambaje was standing below the podium. Nteziryayo took the floor once, for about 30 minutes.<sup>11989</sup>

4458. Witness BOZAN knew that Nteziryayo was a soldier but it was only during Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony after the introduction by Bimenyimana that he was aware that Nteziryayo was the new préfet. During the ceremony, Nteziryayo wore a military uniform. The witness stated that he was five metres away from Nteziryayo on that day. The witness testified that there was no sorghum farm or sitariya plants close to the venue where the swearing-in ceremony was held. The witness did not hear Nteziryayo speak about getting rid of the Inyenzi or Tutsis. Nteziryayo did not tell the participants to go and kill Tutsis and thereafter confess to God,<sup>11990</sup> as mentioned in Guichaoua's Report.<sup>11991</sup> The witness testified that Nteziryayo did not put the following question to the attendees, "When Inkotanyi come, will they be singing praises of the Hutus or of the Tutsis?" The witness heard no inciting words from Nteziryayo on this occasion.<sup>11992</sup>

4459. After his swearing-in, Ndayambaje went up on the podium and made a speech for about 20 minutes. Ndayambaje first thanked the new préfet who was giving him the floor, the outgoing bourgmestre and the public that attended the meeting. Ndayambaje asked the public not to harm or attack other members of the public and called upon the plunderers to surrender all the property they had looted. Ndayambaje asked everyone to return to his or her daily activities, and called upon all those who had participated in the killings to be arrested and punished.<sup>11993</sup>

4460. After Ndayambaje's speech, Célestin took the floor again and announced the end of the swearing-in ceremony. The public then returned to their homes. Bimenyimana was still there; he was present from the beginning until the end of the meeting, contrary to Prosecution Witness RV's testimony.<sup>11994</sup> On cross-examination, the witness testified that he knew Bimenyimana was still there at the end of the meeting because it was he and not Célestin who opened the meeting, and then thanked the population for attending. At the end of the meeting, Bimenyimana was sitting among the dignitaries who were present.<sup>11995</sup>

4461. None of the speakers used proverbs or incited people to flush out Tutsis. The witness disagreed that Célestin took the floor and told Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje that they had forgotten to ask the population not to spare women and children in their respective speeches.<sup>11996</sup>

4462. Members of the population did not carry anything during the meeting nor did the witness. There was no shooting in the air during the meeting.<sup>11997</sup> The witness did not notice any dissatisfaction from the population following the replacement of Bimenyimana with Ndayambaje during the meeting.<sup>11998</sup>

4463. Witness BOZAN knew Augustin Sebukeye who, according to Witness BOZAN, was at least 65 years old in June 1994. The witness testified that Sebukeye did not attend the meeting and none of the speakers made reference to him during their respective speeches.<sup>11999</sup>

4464. The meeting ended between 4.00 and 5.30 p.m. After the meeting, the security situation was calm, there were no killings even though people were fleeing to Burundi. The witness disagreed with the Prosecution's assertion that another meeting convened by Ndayambaje took place at Remera commune office two weeks after his swearing-in.<sup>12000</sup>

4465. Witness BOZAN disagreed that the abduction and killing of three Tutsi girls by Masima from Jean Mukundirehe's home occurred the day after the swearing-in ceremony in June 1994. According to the witness, this happened in May 1994.<sup>12001</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness Constant Julius Goetschalckx a.k.a. Brother Stan

4466. Brother Stan, a Belgian monk of the Catholic priesthood,<sup>12002</sup> testified that Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony took place in a woodland area near the Muganza commune office, just before the football pitch of Muganza, on 22 June 1994. The witness disagreed with Prosecution Witness QAR's testimony that the swearing-in ceremony of Ndayambaje took place on the football pitch of the commune office.<sup>12003</sup>

4467. The meeting was scheduled to start at 2.00 p.m., but since a member of Parliament named Bernadette who was invited was not yet present, it started towards 2.30 p.m.<sup>12004</sup>

4468. The swearing-in ceremony lasted about one and a half hours, until around 4.00 p.m., after which people returned to their homes. Approximately 200 to 300, but no more than 400, people attended the ceremony. No one carried traditional or other weapons except four commune policemen with very old guns. Célestin was the master of ceremonies. The outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana, spoke first and introduced Nteziryayo, who had recently been appointed préfet of Butare. Nteziryayo spoke briefly, and swore in Ndayambaje as the new bourgmestre. Nteziryayo placed the sash bearing the national colours on Ndayambaje. Ndayambaje then took the oath before those in attendance, and was received with applause. Nteziryayo then introduced the witness to the audience; Ndayambaje spoke afterwards.<sup>12005</sup>

4469. Brother Stan did not remember any opposition to the swearing-in of Ndayambaje and denied Prosecution evidence that there was any disagreement during the ceremony.<sup>12006</sup>

4471. Brother Stan did not know all the people attending the swearing-in ceremony. He denied that Bourgmestre Ndayambaje introduced Préfet Nteziryayo at the meeting of 22 June 1994.<sup>12010</sup>

4472. Nteziryayo was dressed in an army uniform camouflaged with spots. The witness denied that Bimenyimana left the meeting to prepare for the reception and only returned at the end of the meeting.<sup>12011</sup>

4473. Nteziryayo took the floor once during the swearing-in. He denied that Nteziryayo took the floor twice. Brother Stan also denied that Nteziryayo said that he was coming to install Ndayambaje because Bimenyimana had not been sufficiently active.<sup>12012</sup> Brother Stan never heard Nteziryayo make statements arousing people to massacre Tutsis as a matter of hatred, particularly targeting women and children. The thrust of Nteziryayo's speech was restoring order and security and supporting the new bourgmestre.<sup>12013</sup> He denied Prosecution evidence that Nteziryayo said to the population, "get rid of this Inyenzi".<sup>12014</sup>

4474. Brother Stan denied that Nteziryayo substantially congratulated the population for having worked well, and called upon the young Hutus to get rid of young Tutsi girls that they had married and hand them over to the killers. The witness denied that Nteziryayo told Ndayambaje to take the oath saying that he was going to accomplish what had not yet been done.<sup>12015</sup>

4475. Brother Stan denied that Ndayambaje and Nteziryayo referred to the need to "sweep out the dirt" and to chase out all those persons hidden in their homes and to destroy those homes, or that Nteziryayo referred to the need to kill snakes and "crush its eggs". He also denied that Nteziryayo asked the population whether they had accomplished the mission he had assigned, to which the population allegedly answered, yes. Brother Stan denied that Nteziryayo instructed the population to "go and kill everybody, because he did not want any more Tutsis." He also denied that Nteziryayo made a speech referring to those who had brought spears or clubs or machetes.<sup>12016</sup>

4476. Brother Stan denied that Nteziryayo said that "[i]n Nyanza the fighting was difficult because the Tutsis had been hidden". He denied that Nteziryayo asked "[w]hen the Inkotanyi show up, will they be singing the praise of Hutus or the praise of Tutsis?” He also denied that Nteziryayo criticised the outgoing bourgmestre Bimenyimana and the population.<sup>12017</sup>

4477. Brother Stan denied that members of the population were carrying out artillery exercises on the football pitch of Muganza commune. He denied that Nteziryayo made statements inciting the population to hunt and massacre Tutsi children and Tutsi women married to Hutu men, or that Nteziryayo said, “[k]ill the Tutsis and go to confess your sins, you will be absolved”.<sup>12018</sup>

4478. Brother Stan remembered that the salient points in Ndayambaje’s speech mainly concerned the restoration of order within the commune because it was a situation of chaos. The main points were the return to order, the influx of refugees from the neighbouring communes and the need to ensure security and hospitality. Ndayambaje also called on people to return looted property from schools and the PAMU (Projet Agricole de Muganza) project. There was also mention of the Zone Turquoise and the arrival of the French.<sup>12019</sup>

4479. Ndayambaje did not call on people to indulge in acts of violence, and there was no language that the witness could refer to as “indirect”; instead, “direct language” was used, calling on the population to return to normalcy and order in the commune. Brother Stan did not hear Ndayambaje use a parable referring to cleaning “filth”, or the need to separate “good grains from the chaff”.<sup>12020</sup>

4480. Brother Stan denied Ndayambaje said that “[y]ou keep on hiding those Tutsi women and those children. Those are the same people who will attract danger to you.” He also denied that, in response to an utterance by Nteziryayo, Ndayambaje said, “they had annihilated all the serpents except the women and children because women and children do not have any ethnicity, but that all the serpents had been annihilated”.<sup>12021</sup>

4481. Brother Stan denied that Ndayambaje thanked the population for the work done, referring to killings, saying that the Hutus had killed the Tutsis. Brother Stan further denied that Ndayambaje told the population to continue their work, but that they should spare the children who were with their mothers or that the population should not become weary or tired, but continue the work with the same intensity.<sup>12022</sup>

4482. Brother Stan further denied that, during the swearing-in the speakers said that the enemy was the Tutsi. The witness also denied that Ndayambaje asked one Sebukeye to destroy houses.<sup>12023</sup>

4483. Brother Stan denied that towards the end of the swearing-in, the master of ceremonies told Ndayambaje, “you forgot to mention that babies should also be killed”. The witness had no recollection of former Bourgmestre Bimenyimana or any other guest leaving the ceremony before it ended, adding that Bimenyimana was seated with the guests in the front.<sup>12024</sup>

4484. Brother Stan denied that there were massacres or any other acts of violence occurring in Muganza commune after Ndayambaje's swearing-in, except for groups of thugs stealing from people who were fleeing towards Muganza commune.<sup>12025</sup> Brother Stan stated that this issue of "disorder" within the commune was mentioned at the meeting in a bid to put an end to the disorder reigning in the commune, but that no direct measures were taken by Ndayambaje after the swearing-in.<sup>12026</sup>

4485. When it was put to Brother Stan that his statement of 24 November 1995 said that Ndayambaje talked about "restoring order in the house", Brother Stan testified he could not recall any statement about putting order in the house, but only about "putting order in ... Muganza commune"; insofar as his statement included a reference to "the dust behind the fireplace", Brother Stan stated that the Judge who had taken his statement in other proceedings may have added that expression to his statement.<sup>12027</sup>

4486. Brother Stan denied that as a consequence of the various speeches at the swearing-in, those people who had so far survived were killed.<sup>12028</sup>

4487. There were no other public meetings in Muganza commune in June or July 1994, after Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony. If there were any other meetings, he would have known as he was located around Muganza commune.<sup>12029</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness GABON

4488. Witness GABON, a Hutu civil servant in 1994,<sup>12030</sup> testified that Ndayambaje became bourgmestre of Muganza commune towards the end of June 1994. Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony took place near the residence of a certain Kayaku, in a eucalyptus wood located near the commune office.<sup>12031</sup>

4489. Witness GABON was working that day. The ceremony was chaired by Préfet Nteziryayo. Since the witness was working nearby he could hear people speaking and see what was going on during the ceremony; he was only 50 to 60 metres away from the meeting.<sup>12032</sup> He later stated that there were only 50 paces between the woods and the commune office.<sup>12033</sup>

4491. Witness GABON testified there were no sorghum farms located very close to the entry of the commune office at the time of Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12038</sup> Further, he stated that the sitariya plant was not present in the vicinity of the commune office. The ceremony did not take place on a football pitch. Before the swearing-in ceremony, no archery training took place on the football pitch.<sup>12039</sup> He did not hear any gunshot before the meeting started.<sup>12040</sup>

4492. The meeting was held in the afternoon around 3.00 p.m. Kalimanzira and Nyiramasuhuko did not attend the swearing-in ceremony. Members of the population who attended the meeting were not armed with traditional weapons including clubs and machetes.<sup>12041</sup>

4493. The swearing-in ceremony ended at 4.00 p.m. After the ceremony, the guests went to the IGA hall of the commune and had some refreshments before going home. The outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana, who was present since the beginning of the ceremony, went with the others to take refreshments after the ceremony was over. A teacher called Daniela, together with Célestin Habiymbere, arranged the reception.<sup>12042</sup> Witness GABON testified that former Préfet Nsabimana also attended the ceremony.<sup>12043</sup>

4494. At the time of Ndayambaje's swearing-in, the killings had diminished in intensity; during the first week of his tenure, killings had virtually ended and people were fleeing.<sup>12044</sup> The witness stated that while he did not refute the fact that Tutsis were abducted at the commune office, it was beyond their power or capacity to protect them and although he did his utmost, he could not save them.<sup>12045</sup>

4495. Witness QAL's husband was abducted and killed towards the end of April, when Bimenyimana was still bourgmestre, and therefore this event was far removed from Ndayambaje's swearing-in. Witness GABON did not hear of the abduction or payment of ransom for Witness QAL's daughter.<sup>12046</sup>

4496. Witness GABON disagreed that any other meeting took place after Ndayambaje's swearing-in, convened by Ndayambaje or anyone else.<sup>12047</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness KEPIR

4497. Witness KEPIR, a Hutu agronomist with a Tutsi mother, testified that around 18 or 19 June 1994, he learned from Radio Rwanda that Ndayambaje was appointed bourgmestre of Muganza commune. The witness then went to Ndayambaje's house to congratulate him. During their discussion, Ndayambaje said he was quite surprised by his appointment.<sup>12048</sup> Bourgmestre Bimenyimana informed Witness KEPIR about Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony on the day before it took place, 22 June 1994.<sup>12049</sup>

4498. Witness KEPIR attended Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony; it took place in a wooded area near the entrance of the commune office, not behind the IGA building. He did not see any archery exercises, nor did he hear anyone say that an archery exercise took place on the football pitch close to the commune office before the ceremony. The witness arrived at the venue at 2.30 p.m., when the ceremony started. A public address system was used during the ceremony.<sup>12050</sup> The witness attended the entire meeting.<sup>12051</sup>

4499. About 400 to 500 people were in attendance and seated on the lawn while others, including the witness, were seated on the benches that had been provided at the venue.<sup>12052</sup> Officials at the meeting included the préfet, the incoming bourgmestre and the outgoing bourgmestre, the sous-préfet, a lady member of Parliament, as well as conseillers, and the rest of the staff of the commune. Callixte Kalimanzira was not present during that meeting. Witness KEPIR disagreed that there was another lady apart from the MP who was introduced to the public on that day, namely Nyiramasuhuko. Colonel Muvunyi did not attend the ceremony.<sup>12053</sup>

4500. None of the members of the population who attended the ceremony carried traditional weapons as calm had been restored. Further, no shooting in the air occurred on that day, otherwise nobody would have stayed on the spot.<sup>12054</sup>

4501. Célestin Habyambere opened the floor. He asked the entire populace to stand up to greet the visitors and then announced the opening of the meeting. Thereafter, Habyambere gave the floor to Bourgmestre Chrysologue, who thanked the préfet for coming to the commune and the people for having come to the meeting place. Bourgmestre Chrysologue spoke briefly about what he had achieved and deplored the events that had occurred in April 1994, and further stated that the reason of the meeting was to carry out the investiture of the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje. Bourgmestre Chrysologue also introduced the invitees who were present, beginning with the préfet and a lady female member of Parliament,<sup>12055</sup> introduced as Bernadette Mukarurangwa.<sup>12056</sup> Bourgmestre Chrysologue spoke for between five and 10 minutes.<sup>12057</sup>

4502. The floor was then given to the préfet who thanked the public for having followed the invitation to the meeting, thanked the outgoing bourgmestre and introduced the new bourgmestre, asking him to take his oath. The préfet called on wrongdoers to stop their activities; he also spoke of the probable arrival of a French army and introduced a Brother who was there.<sup>12058</sup>

4503. Nteziryayo then swore in the new bourgmestre.<sup>12059</sup> The witness saw the new bourgmestre Ndayambaje stand up before a table and place his hand on the flag. Ndayambaje raised his right arm and took his oath. Thereafter, Ndayambaje was adorned with a sash with the colours of the flag and sat down, followed by public ovation. Witness KEPIR did not notice Ndayambaje climb on a table during the ceremony.<sup>12060</sup> Ndayambaje did not address the public before he was sworn in.<sup>12061</sup>

4504. The préfet took the floor on only one occasion, which lasted between 30 to 45 minutes, until the end of the swearing-in ceremony. The witness did not agree that the préfet stated that Bourgmestre Chrysologue had not been active enough and that was why he had to be replaced by Ndayambaje.<sup>12062</sup>

4505. Préfet Nteziryayo wore a military uniform.<sup>12063</sup> Witness KEPIR did not hear Nteziryayo tell the participants to go and kill Tutsis and thereafter confess to God,<sup>12064</sup> as mentioned in Guichaoua's Report.<sup>12065</sup> Nteziryayo did not say that the fight was difficult in Nyanza because Tutsis were hiding; nor did he ask the audience "[w]hen Inkotanyi come, will they be singing praises of the Hutus or of the Tutsis?"<sup>12066</sup> Préfet Nteziryayo did not talk about the killings of Tutsis which occurred between April and 22 June 1994 in his speech or say that he was going to punish the perpetrators of those killings.<sup>12067</sup>

4506. Ndayambaje took the floor after the préfet. Ndayambaje urged everyone to return to their activities and to restore peace. Thereafter, Ndayambaje called on those who had looted health centres, schools and churches to return what they had stolen and also thanked the outgoing bourgmestre as well as the préfet. Ndayambaje's speech lasted between 15 and 20 minutes. Célestin Habiyaambere closed the meeting and invited the guests to a reception for a drink. Bourgmestre Chrysologue did not leave his seat throughout the whole meeting.<sup>12068</sup> Witness KEPIR did not remember Nteziryayo speaking about any steps to be taken against

4507. None of the speakers, in particular Préfet Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje, used proverbs or parables during their respective speeches. Célestin did not take the floor to tell both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje that they had forgotten to ask the population to equally kill women and children in their respective speeches. Witness KEPIR did not notice any expression of dissatisfaction from the population following the replacement of Bimenyimana with Ndayambaje during the meeting.<sup>12070</sup>

4508. Witness KEPIR knew Augustin Sebukeye in 1994, but did not see him at the meeting; he further stated that neither Ndayambaje nor Préfet Nteziryayo made reference to Sebukeye during their speeches. Witness KEPIR saw Witness GABON at the meeting on 22 June 1994.<sup>12071</sup>

4509. The swearing-in ceremony was held during the dry season and there was no vegetation, including sorghum or sitariya, at the venue. Sorghum had already been harvested at that time. No other meeting convened by Ndayambaje took place at Remera commune office two weeks after his swearing-in.<sup>12072</sup>

4510. Witness KEPIR knew Brother Stan in 1994 and saw him for the last time during Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, on 22 June 1994. Witness KEPIR and his family fled Rwanda with the families of Ndayambaje and Bosco, in July 1994.<sup>12073</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness Evariste Emmanuel Siborurema (a.k.a NAVIC)

4511. Emmanuel Siborurema, a Hutu student in 1994,<sup>12074</sup> testified that around the last week of June 1994, he attended Ndayambaje's swearing-in as bourgmestre of Muganza commune at the Muganza commune office.<sup>12075</sup>

4512. Nteziryayo was in military attire, but Siborurema did not see any soldiers with Nteziryayo. Nteziryayo addressed the population; first Nteziryayo raised the flag for the new bourgmestre, then Nteziryayo said that "one should not pick up all and sundry out of the streets because one might pick up mines", and Nteziryayo requested that the population "rely on competent individuals in order to avoid risks of setting off landmines".<sup>12076</sup> A microphone shaped like a funnel was used.<sup>12077</sup>

4513. After the swearing-in ceremony, Siborurema went to a friend's home and informed Witness QAQ that, as Witness QAQ had earlier requested, Siborurema had handed his daughter to Ndayambaje for protection; Witness QAQ was appreciative. Witness QAQ told Siborurema that with Ndayambaje's re-institution, peace was going to be restored. Witness QAQ did not tell Siborurema whether he had personally attended any part of the swearing-in ceremony but it was Siborurema who told Witness QAQ about what had happened at the meeting. Siborurema told Witness QAQ that the authorities had told the population to go about their usual activities in order to face the then prevailing famine and Witness QAQ was pleased.<sup>12078</sup>

4514. Siborurema testified it was false that Witness QAQ was in hiding at the Nyabinyenga school centre at the time.<sup>12079</sup> Siborurema also disagreed that Witness QAQ followed the meeting from a hiding place close to the woods, because he would have been seen since the woods were regularly pruned.<sup>12080</sup>

Ndayambaje

4515. Ndayambaje testified that he was reappointed bourgmestre of Muganza commune on 18 June 1994. He learned of his appointment over the radio, during a Government communiqué at the end of a Cabinet meeting that took place the day before, on 17 June 1994. Ndayambaje stated that prior to this radio communiqué, he never received any information concerning his eventual reappointment as bourgmestre. He accepted the reappointment as his contribution towards the reconstruction of the country, which was witnessing a very critical period. He did not accept because of his ambition to become préfet of Butare.<sup>12081</sup>

4516. Ndayambaje strongly denied his membership of an alleged quartet comprised of Callixte Kalimanzira, Nyiramasuhuko, Nteziryayo and himself who, according to Guichaoua,<sup>12082</sup> were at the head of political and administrative matters of Butare préfecture. He denied that he was reappointed as a reward for his efforts in perpetrating killings and massacres in his area post-April 1994.<sup>12083</sup>

4517. He was appointed at the same time as the préfet, Nteziryayo, who was replacing Nsabimana. He did not attend Nteziryayo's swearing-in ceremony as he was not aware of it. Ndayambaje received his official appointment one or two days prior to his swearing-in ceremony, which took place on 22 June 1994, and not in May or early June 1994.<sup>12084</sup>

4518. Ndayambaje testified that his swearing-in ceremony took place at Remera close to the Muganza commune office. It was held during a market day, on Wednesday. Everything was organised by the outgoing bourgmestre, Chrysologue Bimenyimana, who drew up the list of invitees and convened the members of the population to attend the ceremony. Among those present were Préfet Nteziryayo, Sous-préfet Dominique Ntawukulilyayo, a lady member of Parliament called Bernadette from Ndora commune, conseillers and staff of the commune and the population,<sup>12085</sup> as well as Nsabimana.<sup>12086</sup>

4519. The ceremony took place in the afternoon, in a small woods close to the entrance of the commune office on the right of the road leading to Mugombwa, and not on the football pitch. To his knowledge, it was the first time that any meeting was held at such place; normally meetings took place either on the football pitch, or in another deteriorating wood on the plot of the commune.<sup>12087</sup> Public assemblies or ceremonies would take place on the football pitch during the day when the sun was not too high up; due to the sun, meetings organised later in the day would be held in shady areas, as was the case for the swearing-in meeting.<sup>12088</sup> The ceremony started around 3.00 p.m. and ended at around 4.00 p.m. The master of ceremonies was Célestin Habiyambere. 400 to 500 members of the population were present.<sup>12089</sup> Ndayambaje testified that Bernadette was the only MP who attended his swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12090</sup>

4520. Contrary to Prosecution Witnesses TO and QAL, Ndayambaje did not notice any military activities or shooting practice before the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12091</sup> Ndayambaje did not see any people bearing weapons during his swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12092</sup>

4521. The personalities were seated at the table of honour towards the front of the stage, facing the members of the population. Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana was present throughout the swearing-in ceremony and seated at the table of honour. Brother Stan also attended the ceremony and was the only white person who remained in the region during the entire crisis. Brother Stan was introduced to the population and was thanked for having come and for having remained with the population during that difficult period.<sup>12093</sup> Contrary to Prosecution Witness RV's testimony, Nyiramasuhuko was not present at the swearing-in ceremony, and neither were Callixte Kalimanzira nor Colonel Muvunyi.<sup>12094</sup> Ndayambaje denied Prosecution Witness QAL's testimony that the ceremony of 22 June 1994 was not about his swearing-in as bourgmestre because he was appointed in April 1994.<sup>12095</sup>

4522. Célestin Habiyambere, the master of ceremony, opened the floor and announced to the population the sequence of events. The outgoing bourgmestre, Chrysologue Bimenyimana, then took over and thanked the public for having responded to his invitation to the ceremony and reassured his successor of close collaboration in the days ahead. Bimenyimana's speech was brief; thereafter he introduced the officials and the distinguished guests that were present at the ceremony. After his speech, Bimenyimana remained with the other personalities at the table of honour until the end of the ceremony.<sup>12096</sup>

4523. After Bimenyimana, Préfet Nteziryayo took the floor. The préfet first introduced Ndayambaje before swearing him in. The préfet then addressed the population by referring to the problems of security and the situation at the front; he also invited the population to ensure its own security and safety within the locality. Préfet Nteziryayo also introduced Brother Stan to the public.<sup>12097</sup>

4524. Ndayambaje testified that the swearing-in part of the ceremony consisted of holding the national flag and committing oneself to serve the nation and the interest of the Rwandan people. After the oath, the new bourgmestre received from the head of the ceremony a scarf or sash bearing the national colours of the flag, and wore it around his waist or belt. Ndayambaje stated that during the swearing-in, he stood on the ground, and not on a chair or table.<sup>12098</sup>

4525. Préfet Nteziryayo did not use proverbs or parables during his address.<sup>12099</sup> Ndayambaje testified that he knew Augustin Sebukeye who, in 1994, was quite advanced in age. He did not know whether Sebukeye attended his swearing-in ceremony. Ndayambaje did not hear Nteziryayo speak to Sebukeye calling upon him to destroy houses. Contrary to Prosecution Witness QAF's testimony, Nteziryayo did not talk about the need to kill those Tutsi girls or women who were forcefully taken as mistresses by Hutu men or the need to sweep dirt outside. Nteziryayo also did not mention traditional weapons, such as machetes, clubs or spears, or ask people to go kill.<sup>12100</sup>

4526. Préfet Nteziryayo only took the floor once.<sup>12101</sup> It was put to Ndayambaje whether it could be said that Nteziryayo took the floor twice considering Nteziryayo introduced him and read him the oath, after which Ndayambaje carried out the ceremony with the sash and then Nteziryayo spoke again. Ndayambaje stated that the swearing-in part of the installation was only one event and that Nteziryayo could be considered to have taken the floor thereafter.<sup>12102</sup>

4527. Contrary to Prosecution Witness TO's testimony, Nteziryayo did not castigate the outgoing bourgmestre Bimenyimana.<sup>12103</sup> On cross-examination, Ndayambaje testified that Nteziryayo wore a military uniform. Nteziryayo did not talk about getting rid of Inyenzi in his speech, or about the difficulty of fighting in Nyanza because of Tutsis, nor about the Inkotanyi's praise of Tutsis. Nteziryayo did not criticise the population by saying that it had rendered itself of no use in attempting to hide the Tutsis.<sup>12104</sup>

4528. Ndayambaje testified that after taking his oath administered by Nteziryayo, he took the floor. He thanked the dignitaries present and expressed gratitude to the public and to his predecessor. He expressed some appreciation, respect and compassion towards the families that were bereaved following the unrest. He castigated the persons who were “perpetrating all the evil” and took the opportunity to urge the population or the public to collaborate in efforts to restore peace and stability, particularly denouncing all those who played a key role in the massacres, and asked them to do all to reconstruct the society that had destroyed itself.<sup>12105</sup>

4529. When it was put to Ndayambaje that recommendations to be vigilant in the neighbourhood were a message to watch out for infiltrators and a direction to kill Tutsis who may be infiltrators, Ndayambaje stated that no such message to kill Tutsi infiltrators from the RPF was given; the message was solely intended to denounce the advance of the RPF.<sup>12106</sup>

4530. Ndayambaje asked his commune to welcome the displaced persons from neighbouring communes, including Ndora, Muyaga and Ntyazo, and made it known that he intended to visit the various parts of the secteur to propagate his message of peace and stability, despite the onslaught of the RPF. Ndayambaje did not use proverbs or parables in his messages to the public. To the contrary, it was necessary to have a clear message to bring about peace-building among the public at the time. After he was sworn in, the public cheered.<sup>12107</sup>

4531. Ndayambaje stated he never defined the enemy as, or deemed the enemy to be the Tutsi.<sup>12108</sup> Nteziryayo did not take the floor again after Ndayambaje.<sup>12109</sup>

4532. After his speech, the guests went to a small reception organised within the IGA hall, which lasted less than one hour. It was short because the préfet was in a hurry. Members of the public were not invited. After the brief reception, in the company of the outgoing bourgmestre and the sous-préfet, Ndayambaje took possession of the premises and the keys of the building. Ndayambaje denied that, over the hours or the days following the swearing-in ceremony, massacres were carried out by the local population in Muganza commune, although he stated there was news of people being chased by the RPF in the northeast of the region.<sup>12110</sup> Contrary to Prosecution Witness FAL’s testimony, Ndayambaje testified that neither he nor Nteziryayo instructed people to destroy houses in their respective speeches.<sup>12111</sup>

4533. Ndayambaje stated that two weeks after his swearing-in ceremony, he left the country and thus could not have held another meeting in the weeks after his appointment.<sup>12112</sup>

4534. Ndayambaje was aware of the abduction of three girls from the house of one Jean Mukundirehe by Masima’s group, but stated that this event occurred in May 1994. Contrary to Prosecution Witnesses TO’s and RV’s testimony, Ndayambaje testified that the bulk of massacres took place in the month of April 1994 and not following his swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12113</sup>

4535. Ndayambaje did not know about the death of either Josepha or Nambaje after his swearing-in ceremony until the current proceedings,<sup>12114</sup> or about the abduction of eight girls from Mugombwa secteur on 18 June 1994.<sup>12115</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-11

4536. Witness AND-11, an accountant,<sup>12116</sup> testified that a new bourgmestre was appointed at a meeting on 22 June 1994, held in the afternoon or evening, which the witness attended.<sup>12117</sup> The meeting was held near the Muganza commune office, in a forest close to the office; from the commune office in Kibayi, it was “to the right, downhill in a wooded area”.<sup>12118</sup> The witness attended the meeting in his capacity as an ordinary member of the population. The purpose of the meeting was to install the new bourgmestre Ndayambaje and Colonel Nteziryayo, the préfet who chaired the meeting, had a message to deliver to the population.<sup>12119</sup>

4537. About 500 to 600 people attended the meeting. Witness AND-11 went from work to the meeting by motorbike. He arrived around 2.40 or 2.45 p.m. and sat about five paces from where the dignitaries were seated. He could see the following dignitaries at the meeting: Chrysologue, the outgoing bourgmestre; Ndayambaje, who had to be sworn in to replace Chrysologue; Préfet Nteziryayo; Sous-préfet Dominic Ntawukulilyayo of Gisagara sous-préfecture; a white brother, Stan; and MP Bernadette Mukarurangwa.<sup>12120</sup> He did not see any soldiers present and neither Nyiramasuhuko nor Kalimanzira were present.<sup>12121</sup>

4538. When Witness AND-11 arrived, the outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana, was rounding up his message, which consisted of introducing guests and handing over the microphone to the next speaker. He gave the floor to Préfet Nteziryayo, who was dressed in his military uniform.<sup>12122</sup>

4539. Nteziryayo greeted the public, thanked the outgoing bourgmestre Chrysologue for having served Muganza commune, told the public that he was going to give them a new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, and then performed the swearing-in ceremony. He introduced Ndayambaje to the public, took the national flag in his left hand, raised his right hand and pronounced the oath. Nteziryayo made Ndayambaje wear the tri-colour scarf, which was the insignia for the national authorities. After Nteziryayo put the scarf on the new bourgmestre,

Nteziryayo continued giving the message he had intended for the people of Muganza.<sup>12123</sup> Ndayambaje did not climb on top of the table when making the solemn declaration.<sup>12124</sup>

4540. Nteziryayo asked the people to continue peace-building and to return looted goods to their rightful owners. Nteziryayo introduced Brother Stan and asked the population to help ensure his security. Nteziryayo said they needed to encourage themselves so that they could ensure their own safety and security. He asked the population to continue with their ordinary activities so that they could continue to develop and enable the commune to develop.<sup>12125</sup>

4541. Witness AND-11 followed the whole speech because he was sitting close to the podium; he didn't move throughout the time that Nteziryayo was speaking. The witness understood the objective of the speech was to restore peace in the commune, to restore goods that had been looted to the rightful owners and to stop looting. The speech also asked people to remain calm and continue with their day-to-day activities because some members of the population had become bandits and were living off the proceeds of their looting activities.<sup>12126</sup>

4542. After being sworn-in and Nteziryayo's speech, the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, took the floor. He first thanked his predecessor, Chrysologue, and the préfet. He spoke to the audience and asked them to work towards consolidating peace, as the préfet had requested; he asked the public to continue with their day-to-day activities and stop looting and vagabondry and asked them to support him in order to promote the commune's development. Everything Ndayambaje said was very clear; he did not use any idiomatic expressions or proverbs. The meeting was a security meeting held with a view to restoring peace everywhere in the commune and there was no incitement to commit killings in the speeches delivered.<sup>12127</sup>

4543. Célestin was the last one to take the floor. He told members of the population who were present that there was no question and answer session and told the invitees to go to the IGA room to have a short meeting. The atmosphere was cordial but people started asking questions about the bombings in Bugesera-Mayaga region. The meeting ended at about 4.00 p.m.<sup>12128</sup>

4544. At the end of the meeting Witness AND-11 went to greet the authorities because he knew practically all of them. They talked all the way to the IGA hall, the venue of the reception where they had a drink and congratulated one another.<sup>12129</sup>

4545. There were four speakers in total, namely the outgoing bourgmestre, the incoming bourgmestre, the préfet and the master of ceremonies.<sup>12130</sup>

4546. Nteziryayo did not ask Ndayambaje about his progress with "the job" or make any speeches referring to sweeping dirt. There were no consequences following the speeches delivered in June; there were no further killings in the entire commune, only some looting.<sup>12131</sup> Ndayambaje also made no references to sweeping dirt or separating good grain from the husks.<sup>12132</sup>

4547. Those who did not attend that meeting did not suffer any consequences for their non-attendance and were not considered “the enemy”.<sup>12133</sup>

4548. Witness AND-11 did not see anyone carrying any kind of weapon either when he arrived at the venue of the meeting or when he left.<sup>12134</sup>

4549. The speakers did use a megaphone or some sound equipment so that the public could hear the speeches.<sup>12135</sup>

4550. Contrary to the evidence of multiple Prosecution witnesses, Witness AND-11 testified that the meeting was held in the afternoon.<sup>12136</sup>

4551. Witness AND-11 was not aware of the abduction or killings of the 12 individuals the various Prosecution witnesses testified about, namely Nambaje’s abduction, the abduction and murder of Josepha, the abduction and money paid for Witness QAL’s daughter’s life, or the death of Witness QAL’s husband.<sup>12137</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-73

4552. Witness AND-73, a Hutu headmaster and former detainee,<sup>12138</sup> attended a meeting that brought together officials from the préfecture at the Muganza commune office, on 22 June 1994, and its purpose was to swear in Ndayambaje as the new bourgmestre.<sup>12139</sup> At the time Ndayambaje was appointed bourgmestre, no other candidates existed, and there was no election. Ndayambaje was bourgmestre until he fled Rwanda in July 1994.<sup>12140</sup>

4553. The cellule officials informed the witness of the meeting, which took place at 2.30 p.m. at the Muganza commune office and ended at 4.00 p.m. Prosecution witnesses who testified that the meeting occurred between 8.30 and 11.00 a.m. were not speaking the truth because at that time there was a similar ceremony in the neighbouring commune of Ndora.<sup>12141</sup>

4554. Witness AND-73 arrived at 1.00 p.m. and waited at the commune office for the ceremony to begin. The ceremony was conducted in a grove of eucalyptus trees on the road towards Mugombwa Parish, about 50 metres from the IGA building. The ceremony was not held at the plantation behind the IGA building, or at the football pitch opposite the commune office.<sup>12142</sup> The witness was not personally asked to bring weapons to the ceremony, and did not observe that the other people present were armed. He did not see any archery training session taking place near the commune office before the beginning of the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12143</sup>

4555. Célestin Habiyambere acted as the master of ceremonies, and the various speakers used a public address system. Witness AND-73 was no more than 10 metres from the speakers.<sup>12144</sup> Not including the master of ceremonies, three people spoke at the meeting, in the following order: the outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana; then Préfet Nteziryayo; and finally the new bourgmestre, Ndayambaje, who closed the meeting.<sup>12145</sup> The national flag flew over the ceremony and was also placed in front of the table.<sup>12146</sup>

4556. The outgoing bourgmestre's speech lasted no longer than 10 minutes.<sup>12147</sup> After his speech, the outgoing bourgmestre did not leave the venue of the meeting; he remained until the meeting's end.<sup>12148</sup>

4557. Nteziryayo gave a speech and had Ndayambaje take the oath in the middle of the speech. In his speech, Nteziryayo stated that he was a government envoy and it was his job to introduce the new bourgmestre to the people. The swearing-in involved the préfet asking Ndayambaje to stand up and approach the national flag; Ndayambaje raised his right hand and took the oath, after which Nteziryayo made Ndayambaje wear a scarf made from the colours of the national flag. Ndayambaje did not stand on a table at any point during the ceremony.<sup>12149</sup>

4558. After administering the oath to Ndayambaje, Nteziryayo spoke to the people about security. He told the people that the French would ensure security in Butare, and that the "Inkotanyi" were not far from the préfecture. Then Nteziryayo introduced a white reverend who lived in the area and said that the man was close to the Rwandans and should be taken in as a friend. Witness AND-73 did not hear Nteziryayo encourage violence against Tutsis; he interpreted the speech as forbidding people from committing such crimes. Nteziryayo did not reproach the outgoing bourgmestre for not having achieved much. Nteziryayo took the floor only once.<sup>12150</sup>

4559. Ndayambaje asked the members of the population to support him in his new duties, to maintain peace and security and to avoid killings. He asked the people to return looted property to its rightful owner and to resume their activities and contribute to communal agricultural development. Ndayambaje did not say anything inciting or encouraging violence against the Tutsi people. Ndayambaje took the floor only once after he was sworn in. Neither Nteziryayo nor Ndayambaje used proverbs or idiomatic expressions, involving dirt, wheat and

4560. Once the ceremony concluded, a reception was held at the IGA complex, which between 400-500 people attended.<sup>12152</sup>

4561. The witness did not see Nyiramasuhuko at that meeting, but he also did not know her at that time.<sup>12153</sup> Bernadette Mukarangwa was present.<sup>12154</sup> Witness AND-73 knew Kalimanzira well, as the Directeur du Cabinet, although he was not present at the ceremony.<sup>12155</sup> The witness did not see Augustin Sebukeye at the ceremony.<sup>12156</sup>

4562. Witness AND-73 never heard anyone express dissatisfaction regarding Bimenyimana's replacement by Ndayambaje; rather, when the préfet introduced the new bourgmestre people applauded, which showed they were happy.<sup>12157</sup>

4563. In the hours and days following Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony, Witness AND-73 did not personally see nor was he aware that in Muganza commune, women or girls of Tutsi origin were abducted and killed. Witness AND-73 disagreed that Tutsi girls were killed in the courtyard of the school, in front of the headmaster's office.<sup>12158</sup>

Nteziryayo

4564. Nteziryayo testified that on 22 June 1994 he attended the swearing-in of two new bourgmestres for the communes of Ndora (Fidele Uwizeye<sup>12159</sup>) and Muganza, at which he gave speeches.<sup>12160</sup> By a decision of the President of the Republic, Ndayambaje replaced Chrysologue Bimenyimana in Muganza commune. Nteziryayo was not involved in the decision to replace the bourgmestres and did not relieve Bimenyimana of his duties as bourgmestre, as Guichaoua alleged.<sup>12161</sup> He did not propose or influence the decision to appoint Ndayambaje as bourgmestre of Muganza commune in June 1994, contrary to Guichaoua's assertions. He also contested having belonged to any group that would influence the appointment of authorities in Butare préfecture in 1994. He stated that there never existed an influential group of four men, to which he belonged in addition to Ndayambaje, Kalimanzira and the bourgmestre of Kibayi, as Guichaoua alleged.<sup>12162</sup>

4565. Nteziryayo did not have any contact with Ndayambaje in 1994 before Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony via telephone, intermediary or otherwise.<sup>12163</sup> Nteziryayo did not see Ndayambaje from 1 January until 21 June 1994, the day before Ndayambaje's inauguration.<sup>12164</sup> He also did not communicate with Ndayambaje to make preparations for the ceremony before going to Muganza commune to install Ndayambaje, since this was the task of the préfecture services.<sup>12165</sup> In the weeks following 22 June 1994, Nteziryayo did not see or communicate with Ndayambaje again; Nteziryayo next saw Ndayambaje at the detention facility in Arusha, in 1998.<sup>12166</sup>

4566. Nteziryayo presided over the installation of Bourgmestre Ndayambaje that took place in a small forest located about 30 metres from the commune office building of Muganza, at about 2.30 p.m. to 3.00 p.m. on 22 June 1994.<sup>12167</sup> The swearing-in ceremony started about 3.00 p.m. and ended about 5.00 p.m. During the morning of that same day, Nteziryayo was either on his way to Ndora commune, to attend a swearing-in ceremony or had at least not yet arrived in Muganza commune.<sup>12168</sup>

4567. Nteziryayo was not accompanied by armed soldiers and had no other escort at the swearing-in ceremony in Muganza. However, gendarmes were usually stationed at the Muganza commune office and Nteziryayo was also accompanied by Nsabimana, who always had a small escort.<sup>12169</sup>

4568. The meeting was attended by Ndayambaje, the outgoing bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana, Sous-préfet Dominique Ntawukulilyayo of Gisagara, MP Bernadette Mukarurangwa,<sup>12170</sup> Brother Stan, a Belgian clergyman, and some conseillers. Callixte Kalimanzira, Nyiramasuhuko and Laurent Baravuga were not present.<sup>12171</sup> The outgoing bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana was present throughout the meeting; he did not leave in advance as Witness RV alleged.<sup>12172</sup> Nsabimana was also present.<sup>12173</sup> The outgoing bourgmestre introduced Nsabimana to the crowd during the ceremony and Nsabimana greeted people.<sup>12174</sup>

4569. Nteziryayo testified that he did not see Augustin Sebukeye, whom he knew, at Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony and that he and Ndayambaje did not order Sebukeye to destroy houses, as Witness FAL alleged.<sup>12175</sup>

4570. Nteziryayo was present throughout the meeting. The ceremony commenced with remarks by the outgoing bourgmestre, who thanked the population and introduced the new

préfet to whom he gave the floor. Nteziryayo immediately called on Ndayambaje to take his declaration after which Nteziryayo delivered his speech.<sup>12176</sup> Nteziryayo stated that he spoke only once, not twice, during the meeting.<sup>12177</sup>

4571. Nteziryayo announced the change of the bourgmestre and informed the population about the fighting not far from their commune; he encouraged the population to foster peace and to develop the economic situation in the commune even during the war. Nteziryayo asked the population to protect the white Belgian, Brother Stan.<sup>12178</sup> Nteziryayo said that Brother Stan was a Reverend Brother of the charity order, and was neither a civilian nor a military authority.<sup>12179</sup>

4572. In his speech, Nteziryayo urged the population to assist everyone in the commune who had to endure violence in the past. He talked about the possibility of the commune becoming part of the Zone Turquoise and exhorted everyone to look out for looters and thieves.<sup>12180</sup>

4573. Nteziryayo delivered his speech in plain language and did not use proverbs. He did not incite members of the population to exterminate or to kill Tutsis, to carry out acts of violence or to kill children and women, regardless of their ethnic origins. On the contrary, he invited members of the population to uphold peace and refrain from all forms of violence.<sup>12181</sup>

4574. Ndayambaje was the next to speak to the population. Ndayambaje conveyed a message similar to Nteziryayo's, namely to strive for peace, to abandon all forms of violence, to retrieve the property belonging to people in the region that had been looted by wrongdoers, to identify all wrongdoers in order that they may be punished and to assist those members of their commune who have endured the hardships of war. He promised to engage in development activities in order to assist members of the population to be self-sufficient and to combat famine.<sup>12182</sup>

4575. None of the speakers at the ceremony encouraged the population to use violence against others or incited them to kill and to exterminate the Tutsis. Neither Nteziryayo nor Ndayambaje said anything about not losing strength and continuing to "work". Ndayambaje did not say that girls in the company of their mother should be spared, but the boys and men who were still in hiding should be killed, as Witness TP testified.<sup>12183</sup>

4576. Nteziryayo denied having made several statements during his speech. He did not ask whether the population had accomplished the mission he had assigned to them to kill the Tutsis. He did not ask the population to sharpen their spears, to attach the nails firmly to the clubs, or ask if they carried machetes. He did not say, "[t]he fighting was difficult at Nyanza because the Tutsi had been hidden". He did not ask "when the Inkotanyi will come, shall they be singing the praises of the Hutus or of the Tutsis". He did not say that they had to choose the

Neither Ndayambaje nor Nteziryayo said, “[y]ou continue to hide the Tutsi women and children. Those are the same people who attract danger to you.” He did not say “when a person wants to kill a snake, you even dig the hole in which the snake would be found. Its eggs are also destroyed.” Ndayambaje did not say that the enemy was the Tutsi.<sup>12184</sup>

4577. Nteziryayo denied saying during the swearing-in ceremony that the outgoing bourgmestre, Bimenyimana, had not been active in the discharge of his duties, as Witness FAL alleged. Contrary to the testimony of Witness FAL, Nteziryayo did not notice that the attendees displayed their disagreement with Bimenyimana’s replacement by Ndayambaje, saying that Bimenyimana was not a poor administrator and that it was not fair for him to be relieved of his duties.<sup>12185</sup>

4578. The members of the population who attended the ceremony were not armed. No survivors were killed after the swearing-in of Ndayambaje.<sup>12186</sup>

4579. At the end of the swearing-in ceremony, there was a small reception organised in the IGA building, after which Nteziryayo returned to Butare town.<sup>12187</sup> At the reception, Ndayambaje told him that he had accepted the position of bourgmestre, but that at the beginning of the academic year he intended to return to the university to pursue his studies.<sup>12188</sup>

4580. During or after the speeches, no questions were asked, nor were comments made by the attending population.<sup>12189</sup>

4581. Contrary to the testimony of Witness FAL, Ndayambaje did not climb onto a table during the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>12190</sup>

4582. Nteziryayo did not take part in a firing exercise in Muganza at the swearing-in ceremony or at any other time in 1994. He did not take part in bow-and-arrow or gun shooting as preparation to face the “Inkotanyi” before the swearing-in ceremony in Muganza.<sup>12191</sup>

4583. Nteziryayo testified that Muganza commune office in 1994 looked like many other commune offices in Rwanda, because all had been built according to the same plan. He said the building was longer than it was wide. It was located next to other buildings within the premises of the commune compound and just at the entrance to the commune office was a small building, the commune jail. Opposite the office were a flag pole, buildings which served

4584. Outside the commune office compound there was a road leading in the direction of Mugombwa Parish, passing in front of the commune office compound bypassing the IGA buildings, and taking the direction of the Gisagara parish in Ndora commune. At the entrance of the commune office compound was a small wooded area, where Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony took place.<sup>12193</sup>

4585. In front of the bourgmestre's office, towards the west, was a small road that bypassed the commune office compound and linked up with the road coming from Mugombwa Parish; and at the exit towards that direction to Gisagara was a playground commonly referred to as a football arena.<sup>12194</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness MACHO

4586. Witness MACHO testified that she spent the day of Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony in the company of Witness QAL visiting Witness MACHO's godmother. Neither Witness QAL nor Witness MACHO attended the swearing-in of Ndayambaje, contrary to Prosecution Witness QAL's testimony. Witness MACHO disagreed that Witness QAL's husband was killed the day after Ndayambaje was sworn in as bourgmestre.<sup>12195</sup>

4587. Witness MACHO did not witness the alleged abduction of Witness QAL's daughter, since on the night of the abduction the daughter was still at the godmother's house. On that day, the child stayed with Witness MACHO; his mother picked up the child in the evening. Witness MACHO saw the child again the next day.<sup>12196</sup>

4588. Eugène Shimamungu testified that the word "gukora" carries various meanings, the most commonly used and positive of its meanings being: do, work, act and to be occupied with. As a lexicographer, he testified it is necessary to look at the use of the term in the context of a sentence, and in most cases the meaning of a word may mutate. The negative meanings given to the term, which are only ascribed in context, are: to cunningly mislead, to destroy somebody's dwelling, to rob everything, and to leave nothing behind. Other meanings ascribed to the term include to pass a trial or test.<sup>12197</sup>

4591. Prosecution Witnesses FAL, QAF and TP also testified to attending a meeting at Muganza commune on or around 22 June 1994, which they respectively described as a "security meeting",<sup>12211</sup> a "public safety meeting",<sup>12212</sup> and a meeting concerning land disputes.<sup>12213</sup>

4592. Notwithstanding their different descriptions of the meeting in question, the Chamber notes the testimony of Witnesses FAL, QAF and TP showed that during the course of the meeting they allegedly attended, Ndayambaje was reappointed bourgmestre. While Witnesses FAL<sup>12214</sup> and TP<sup>12215</sup> personally witnessed the installation, Witness QAF arrived late and missed the swearing-in, but was told it took place.<sup>12216</sup> Apart from discrepancies between the testimony of the Prosecution witnesses as to the precise date of the ceremony, which the Chamber considers minor and moreover, understandable, in light of the time which had passed between the events in question and the time the witnesses testified, the Chamber finds Witnesses FAL, QAF and TP are referring to the same event, namely Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.

4593. In addition to claiming they witnessed or knew of the appointment of Ndayambaje at the meeting on that day, Witnesses FAL, QAF and TP are consistent with respect to the timing swearing-in ceremony,<sup>12222</sup> they nevertheless testified to the attendance of Préfet Nteziryayo and/or Bourgmestre Ndayambaje<sup>12223</sup> for which reason the Chamber considers the meeting about which they testified took place on or after 22 June 1994. The Chamber also notes the testimonies of Witnesses QAQ, QAL and QAR are consistent with the evidence of the other witnesses with respect to the time of the meeting (morning),<sup>12224</sup> and location of the meeting (near the commune office).<sup>12225</sup>

4596. The Chamber also notes that certain key aspects of the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses QAQ, QAL and QAR accords with the testimony of Prosecution and Defence witnesses alike. For example, Witness QAL testified that Ndayambaje was wearing a suit and wearing a ribbon with the national colours, which is corroborated by the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAG, FAL, RV, TO and TP; Ndayambaje Defence Witnesses BOZAN, Brother Stan and KEPIR; Ndayambaje; and Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-11 and AND-73.<sup>12226</sup> Further, Witness QAL testified that a white man was present at the meeting, as did Witnesses BOZAN, Ndayambaje, AND-11 and Nteziryayo.<sup>12227</sup> Lastly, Witness QAL's testimony that some of the population was armed is corroborated by the testimony of Witness FAL and TP.<sup>12228</sup> In light of these corroborative elements, the Chamber considers that the meeting Witness QAL testified about was Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.

4597. The Chamber nevertheless notes there were also several inconsistencies between Witness QAL's account of this meeting vis-à-vis the other Prosecution witnesses. For example, Witness QAL testified that when he arrived at the meeting Ndayambaje was ending his speech,<sup>12229</sup> and that Nteziryayo thereafter took the floor,<sup>12230</sup> in contrast to the testimony of the other witnesses that Nteziryayo spoke first, followed by Ndayambaje. Further, Witness QAL was the only Prosecution witness to testify that: Ndayambaje spoke about the need to separate the wheat from the chaff;<sup>12231</sup> it was Ndayambaje, rather than Nteziryayo, who introduced the white man;<sup>12232</sup> Célestin told Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje that they had forgotten to tell people to also kill babies.<sup>12233</sup>

4598. The Chamber considers the foregoing discrepancies do not go to the root of the witness' account of the meeting. The order of the speakers and who presented the white man and the precise words spoken at the ceremony are less significant details, the clarity of which can be affected by the passage of time. The Chamber does not consider these discrepancies undermine the overall credibility of Witness QAL. Accordingly, notwithstanding the foregoing discrepancies, the Chamber considers the meeting about which Witness QAL testified, was Ndayambaje's swearing in ceremony.

4599. Witness QAL's attendance at the swearing-in ceremony was challenged by Witness MACHO. Witness MACHO testified that Witness QAL spent the day together with Witness MACHO at Witness MACHO's godmother's house.<sup>12234</sup> While Witness QAL was cross-examined by the Ndayambaje Defence in February 2004 when she testified, it was never put to her that she did not attend the swearing-in or may have been elsewhere on the day in question.<sup>12235</sup> That Witness QAL allegedly did not attend the swearing-in ceremony only arose when Witness MACHO testified in July 2008, four years after Witness QAL. In the circumstances, Witness QAL never had the opportunity to controvert Witness MACHO's testimony.

4600. The Chamber considers Witness QAL gave detailed and credible evidence about the swearing-in ceremony, including such details as who she went to the meeting with.<sup>12236</sup> Further, the fact that certain aspects of Witness QAL's testimony are consistent with the testimony of the other Prosecution witnesses whose presence at the meeting was not contested, leads the Chamber to reject the testimony of Witness MACHO that Witness QAL spent the day visiting Witness MACHO's godmother.<sup>12237</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber considers that Witness MACHO's testimony does not raise a reasonable doubt as to whether Witness QAL attended Ndayambaje's swearing-in ceremony.

4601. Turning to Witness QAR, Witness QAR testified that in June 1994 she attended a meeting at Muganza commune<sup>12238</sup> where Préfet Nteziryayo asked Bourgmestre Ndayambaje "how far they went with the job or the work", and proceeded to discuss the need to "sweep the house of dirt".<sup>12239</sup> After hearing these words from the préfet, Witness QAR testified she was frightened and went directly home.<sup>12240</sup> She later heard from those who came out of the meeting that they had decided “to sweep out everything”.<sup>12241</sup>

4602. Recalling that Witness QAR is a Tutsi,<sup>12242</sup> and that Witness QAR survived the Mugombwa massacre (), the Chamber does not consider it plausible that Witness QAR attended the meeting in question. Even if the Chamber were to accept that she may have initially arrived at the meeting, the Chamber is of the view that Witness QAR left that meeting scared, and her testimony as to what occurred at the meeting is hearsay evidence based upon what she subsequently gleaned from others.

4603. The Chamber is strengthened in its view having regard to several inconsistencies between Witness QAR’s testimony when compared to the other Prosecution witnesses. For example, Witness QAR testified the meeting was held behind the courtyard of the commune office,<sup>12243</sup> in the field which serves as a playground in Remera,<sup>12244</sup> which is at odds with the evidence of the majority of the other Prosecution witnesses who testified the meeting took place in woods located on the other side of the commune office.<sup>12245</sup> Witness QAR also testified that both Nteziryayo and Ndayambaje wore civilian attire, not military uniform,<sup>12246</sup> in contrast to the testimony of the other witnesses who testified Nteziryayo wore military uniform.<sup>12247</sup> Witness QAR did not recall seeing any white men at the meeting.<sup>12248</sup> Further, Witness QAR testified that Nteziryayo allegedly asked Bourgmestre Ndayambaje “how far they went with the job or the work”,<sup>12249</sup> testimony that no other witness gave. Noting also the absence of any testimony concerning the actual oath-taking by Ndayambaje, the Chamber considers that Witness QAR did not attend Ndayambaje’s swearing-in ceremony.

4604. Challenging Witness QAR’s testimony, Defence Witness JAMES testified that in June 1994 Witness QAR lived in the home of Witness JAMES’ grandfather located in Mugombwa
