CHAPTER I: INTRODUCTION

1.1 Overview of the Case<sup>1</sup>

1. Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali, Nsabimana, Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje are alleged to have held positions of authority in the préfecture of Butare, during 1994, and to have helped both to formulate and implement a Government plan to massacre the Tutsi population and moderate Hutus in Butare.<sup>2</sup> Each Accused is charged with individual responsibility for conspiracy to commit genocide, genocide (or alternatively, complicity in genocide), direct and public incitement to commit genocide, several crimes against humanity and serious violations of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II. Each is also alleged to have had superior responsibility with respect to some of the counts. All six Accused have pled not guilty to the charges against them.

2. Butare préfecture is located in the southern part of Rwanda; it borders Burundi.<sup>3</sup> Butare was considered to be the intellectual capital of Rwanda.<sup>4</sup> Many nationally renowned institutes, such as educational institutions and military facilities, were situated in Ngoma, a commune of Butare.<sup>5</sup> Butare's population also had the highest percentage of Tutsis in the country and Jean-Baptiste Habyalimana, the Butare préfet, was Rwanda's only Tutsi préfet until he was replaced by Nsabimana, a Hutu préfet, around 19 April 1994.<sup>6</sup>

3. The Prosecution alleges that the six Accused contributed to the magnitude of the massacres in Butare by forming an alliance that used state powers to ensure the destruction of Tutsis in the préfecture.<sup>7</sup> Unlike the rest of Rwanda, the genocide in Butare did not start immediately after the death of President Habyarimana on 6 April 1994. By mid-April 1994, there were some killings in a couple of the 20 communes in Butare, but the violence was not at the same level as in the rest of the country.<sup>8</sup> The Prosecution theory is that the genocide in Butare started two weeks later than in the rest of the country, after careful planning<sup>9</sup> and after the removal of Préfet Habyalimana.<sup>10</sup>

4. The Defence disputes the Prosecution's theory on various grounds. Defence Counsel have generally challenged the credibility of Prosecution evidence, claiming misuse of expert evidence and citing purported contradictions, omissions and lies in witnesses' testimonies. The Defence has complained of multiple alleged defects in the Indictments. Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and Ndayambaje have raised alibis in relation to certain allegations. Several

Accused holding official positions, in particular Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, have alleged that the authorities were not in control of their administration and staff, not in a position to stop the massacres, and not able to resign their positions. Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali alleged that the context of RPF attacks in Rwanda since 1 October 1990 explains the problems faced in 1994.<sup>11</sup> Ntahobali has raised identification issues.<sup>12</sup>

1.2 The Tribunal and Its Jurisdiction

5. The Tribunal was established by the United Nations Security Council on 8 November 1994.<sup>13</sup> The Security Council acted pursuant to Chapter VII of the United Nations Charter after requesting and considering reports by the Special Rapporteur for Rwanda of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights<sup>14</sup> and the United Nations Secretary-General.<sup>15</sup>

6. The Tribunal is governed by the Statute, which is annexed to United Nations Security Council Resolution 955, and by the Rules, adopted by the judges of the Tribunal pursuant to Article 14 of the Statute.

7. Pursuant to the Statute, the Tribunal has authority to prosecute persons responsible for serious violations of international humanitarian law committed in the territory of Rwanda and Rwandan citizens responsible for such violations committed in the territory of neighbouring states.<sup>16</sup> The Tribunal's temporal jurisdiction extends to a period beginning on 1 January 1994 and ending on 31 December 1994.<sup>17</sup> The Tribunal has subject matter jurisdiction over the crimes of genocide, crimes against humanity, and serious violations of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II.<sup>18</sup> The Tribunal has personal jurisdiction over natural persons and concurrent jurisdiction with the national courts of all States.<sup>19</sup>

1.3 The Accused

1.3.1 Pauline Nyiramasuhuko

8. Nyiramasuhuko was born in April 1946 in Rugara cellule, Ndora secteur, Ndora commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>20</sup> During the events of 1994, Nyiramasuhuko served as Minister of Family and Women's Development under the Interim Government headed by Jean Kambanda.<sup>21</sup> At that time, she resided in Kigali and regularly returned to Butare.<sup>22</sup>

9. Upon completion of her studies in 1964, Nyiramasuhuko worked in a social welfare centre in Cyangugu préfecture for three months.<sup>24</sup> Subsequently, she trained for four months in Israel, in the field of community development and adult literacy.<sup>25</sup> Upon her return, she continued working as a trainer in Gitarama préfecture.<sup>26</sup> From Gitarama, she was transferred to Kibungo, where she was involved in the same training in 1966 and early 1967.<sup>27</sup> She became inspector of social development centres and operated from her office at the Ministry of Social Affairs in Kigali until 1968.<sup>28</sup>

10. After her marriage in 1968, Nyiramasuhuko left Kigali to live in Butare with her husband, Maurice Ntahobali. She was transferred to the Social Development Centre of Butare préfecture, located in Ngoma commune, where she worked as a trainer.<sup>29</sup> She gave birth to Shalom Ntahobali in 1970 while she was in Israel to take part in a seminar for African women leaders.<sup>30</sup> Around 1972, she taught the wives of soldiers.<sup>31</sup> She worked in social welfare until 1973.<sup>32</sup> In 1974, she was transferred to the Ministry of Health’s personnel department and worked there until 1976, when she returned to Butare to follow her husband who had been appointed Deputy Director of the IPN.<sup>33</sup> She continued to work with the Ministry of Health, but in the Butare health region, until her husband was transferred to Kigali upon his appointment as a Minister in March 1981.<sup>34</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and her children joined him at the end of that year.<sup>35</sup>

11. In 1982 or 1983, Nyiramasuhuko resumed her studies, enrolling in a training course on public accounts.<sup>36</sup> In November 1985, she obtained a diploma in social welfare, enabling her to enrol in university.<sup>37</sup> In 1986, she began her studies in law at the Butare campus of the National University of Rwanda, having moved to Butare from Kigali.<sup>38</sup> She obtained her baccalauréat in law after two years. Nyiramasuhuko submitted an application for a scholarship to continue the “second cycle” but it was denied.<sup>39</sup> She held a position in the Ministry of Interior in Butare from late 1990 or early 1991 until April 1992, where she was in charge of the secretariat of the MRND préfecture committee.<sup>40</sup> On 16 April 1992, she was appointed

12. Nyiramasuhuko left Rwanda on 18 July 1994.<sup>44</sup>

13. The Prosecution submitted an initial Indictment against both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali on 26 May 1997.<sup>45</sup> The Indictment was confirmed on 29 May 1997.<sup>46</sup>

14. On 18 July 1997, Nyiramasuhuko was arrested in Kenya and was transferred to Arusha, Tanzania.<sup>47</sup> At her initial appearance on 3 September 1997, Nyiramasuhuko pled not guilty to all five counts against her.<sup>48</sup>

15. On 12 August 1999, after subsequent amendments which added counts to the Indictment, Nyiramasuhuko pled not guilty to all 11 charges against her, namely genocide (Counts 1 through 4), crimes against humanity (Counts 5 through 9), and serious violations of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II (Counts 10 and 11).<sup>49</sup>

16. On 5 October 1999, Trial Chamber II ordered that the cases of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje be tried together.<sup>50</sup>

17. On 1 November 2000, Trial Chamber II ordered the Prosecution to amend the Indictment following the Chamber's Decision on a preliminary motion.<sup>51</sup> On 1 March 2001, the Prosecution filed the Amended Indictment.<sup>52</sup> Nyiramasuhuko did not make a further appearance because the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment of 1 March 2001 did not contain additional counts, compared to the 12 August 1999 Indictment.

1.3.2 Arsène Shalom Ntahobali

18. As indicated above, Ntahobali is the son of Nyiramasuhuko and Maurice Ntahobali. He was born in 1970 in Israel.<sup>53</sup> On 6 April 1994, Ntahobali was both a student and part-time manager of Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>54</sup>

19. Ntahobali attended primary school first in Butare at the Groupe Scolaire complex and then in Kigali.<sup>55</sup> At the secondary school level, Ntahobali studied at Groupe Scolaire in Kigali for four years, at Saint-André College in Nyarugenge commune of Kigali for one year, and at ESAPAG in Gitwe, Muramba commune, for two years.<sup>56</sup> He started his higher education at Rwanda National University during the 1992-1993 academic year.<sup>57</sup> He registered in the Faculty of Applied Sciences for the 1993-1994 academic year.<sup>58</sup>

20. In 1993, Ntahobali assisted with the final building work of Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>59</sup> Hotel Ihuliro was located in Mamba cellule, Butare-ville secteur, Ngoma commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>60</sup> Ntahobali stayed with his parents in their Buye secteur house until he married and moved first to a house in Cyarwa secteur and then to Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>61</sup>

21. Ntahobali got married in early 1993.<sup>62</sup> During the events of 1994, Ntahobali had a young baby and his wife was pregnant.<sup>63</sup> Ntahobali, his wife and their child left Butare on 3 July 1994 and left Rwanda on 18 July 1994. He stayed for a few days in what was then Zaire before moving to Nairobi. In early 1995, Ntahobali returned to Zaire.<sup>64</sup>

22. The Prosecution submitted an initial Indictment against both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali on 26 May 1997.<sup>65</sup> The Indictment was confirmed on 29 May 1997.<sup>66</sup>

23. On 24 July 1997, Ntahobali was arrested in Kenya and transferred to Arusha.<sup>67</sup> At his initial appearance on 17 October 1997, Ntahobali pled not guilty to all seven counts against him.<sup>68</sup>

24. On 12 August 1999, after subsequent amendments added counts to the Indictment, Ntahobali pled not guilty to all 10 counts against him, namely genocide (Counts 1 through 3),

On 1 November 2000, Trial Chamber II ordered the Prosecution to amend the Indictment following the Chamber's Decision on a preliminary motion with respect to defects of substance and form in the Indictment.<sup>71</sup> The Prosecution filed the amended Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment on 1 March 2001.<sup>72</sup> Ntahobali did not make a further appearance because the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment did not contain additional counts, compared to the 12 August 1999 Indictment.

1.3.3 Sylvain Nsabimana

27. Nsabimana was born on 29 July 1951 in Mbazi commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>73</sup>

28. Nsabimana attended the Groupe Scolaire primary school before spending the first three years of his secondary education at Marist Brothers School and the following four in the Agricultural Section in Butare. He later attended an agricultural academy in the Soviet Union where he specialised in agronomical studies, starting in September 1974. Nsabimana obtained his maîtrise degree in agronomy in the Soviet Union in June 1981.<sup>74</sup>

29. In October 1981, Nsabimana was recruited by the National University of Rwanda as an assistant lecturer at the Faculty of Agronomy. At the end of 1984, he left Rwanda to pursue doctoral studies in Canada; he did not finish and returned to Rwanda in late 1986.<sup>75</sup> Upon his return to Rwanda, Nsabimana worked as a maize biologist with the Birunga Place Project, managed by the Scientific Institute of Agronomic Research. In 1987, from January until around September, Nsabimana specialised in maize biology at an international institute in Mexico.<sup>76</sup> In November or December 1988, Nsabimana resigned from the project and went to Denmark to study seed pathology at an institute affiliated with the Royal Veterinary and Agricultural University in Copenhagen. He returned to Rwanda in August or September 1989 with a further diploma.<sup>77</sup> At the end of 1989, Nsabimana was in charge of the second phase of the DGB project, an agricultural development scheme for Butare with an office in Gishamvu.<sup>78</sup> Towards the end of 1990, Nsabimana was in charge of the development of Busoro sous-

30. Nsabimana was a PSD Party member from the time of the party's creation. He headed the Mbazi section of the PSD in Butare préfecture. Following his relocation to Kigali, Nsabimana became head of the PSD in Kigali-rural préfecture.<sup>81</sup>

31. Nsabimana served as préfet of Butare from 19 April until 17 June 1994, when he was replaced by Nteziryayo.<sup>82</sup> As préfet, Nsabimana permitted a BBC crew to video-tape scenes of the 1994 events depicting refugees at the préfecture office.<sup>83</sup>

33. On 16 October 1997, the initial joint Indictment against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo was confirmed and an order was issued for Nsabimana's continued detention.<sup>86</sup>

34. During his initial appearance on 24 October 1997, Nsabimana entered pleas of not guilty to all five counts against him.<sup>87</sup>

35. After subsequent amendments to the Indictment, Nsabimana made a further appearance on the basis of the 12 August 1999 Indictment, which included additional counts against him. At this appearance on 13 August 1999, Nsabimana pled not guilty to each of the nine counts against him, namely genocide (Counts 1 through 4), crimes against humanity (Counts 5 through 8), and serious violations of Article 3, common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II (Count 9).<sup>88</sup>

36. On 5 October 1999, Trial Chamber II ordered that the cases of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje be tried together.<sup>89</sup>

48. On 16 October 1997, the initial joint Indictment against both Nsabimana and Nteziryayo was confirmed and a warrant of arrest was issued against Nteziryayo, addressed to the Government of Burkina Faso.<sup>119</sup>

49. Nteziryayo was arrested in Burkina Faso on 24 April 1998 and transferred to Arusha on 21 May 1998.<sup>120</sup>

50. During his initial appearance on 17 August 1998, Nteziryayo pled not guilty to all six counts against him.<sup>121</sup>

51. After subsequent amendments, Nteziryayo made a further appearance on the basis of the 12 August 1999 Indictment, which included additional counts against him. At his further appearance on 13 August 1999, Nteziryayo pled not guilty to all nine counts against him, namely genocide (Counts 1 through 4), crimes against humanity (Counts 5 through 8), and serious violations of Article 3, Common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II (Count 9).<sup>122</sup>

52. On 5 October 1999, Trial Chamber II ordered that the cases of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje be tried together.<sup>123</sup>

1.3.5 Joseph Kanyabashi

54. As Kanyabashi elected not to testify, less information is available on his background. He is the only Accused who did not testify.

55. Kanyabashi was arrested on 28 June 1995 in the Kingdom of Belgium.<sup>128</sup> The initial Indictment against Kanyabashi was confirmed on 15 July 1996.<sup>129</sup> Kanyabashi was transferred to Arusha on 8 November 1996.<sup>130</sup>

56. On 29 November 1996, Kanyabashi made his initial appearance. He refused to enter a plea to any of the charges against him on the grounds that he lacked counsel of his choice. In

57. Kanyabashi made a further initial appearance on the basis of the 12 August 1999 Indictment, which included additional counts against him. On 12 August 1999, Kanyabashi pled not guilty to all nine counts against him, namely genocide (Counts 1 through 4), crimes against humanity (Counts 5 through 8), and serious violations of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II (Count 9).<sup>132</sup>

58. On 31 May 2000, Trial Chamber II ordered further amendments to the Indictment, in order to clarify certain portions of the Indictment.<sup>133</sup> The Prosecution submitted Amended Indictments on 29 June 2000 and 2 November 2000.<sup>134</sup> On 8 June 2001, Trial Chamber II granted the Prosecution's request to harmonise the French and English versions of the Indictment.<sup>135</sup> Pursuant to this Order, the Prosecution submitted the Kanyabashi Indictment on 11 June 2001. Kanyabashi did not make a further appearance because the Kanyabashi Indictment did not introduce additional counts compared to the 12 August 1999 Indictment.

59. On 5 October 1999, Trial Chamber II ordered that the cases of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje be tried together.<sup>136</sup>

1.4 Summary of the Procedural History

73. A complete procedural history is available as Annex A of this Judgement. For present purposes, however, it is helpful to recount the following summary.

74. The Joint Trial commenced on 12 June 2001 before Trial Chamber II, composed of Judge William H. Sekule, presiding, Judge Arlette Ramaroson and Judge Winston C. M. Maqutu.<sup>159</sup>

75. After the non re-election of Judge Maqutu in May 2003,<sup>160</sup> Judge Solomy B. Bossa was appointed to Trial Chamber II on 20 October 2003.<sup>161</sup> The Trial Chamber, composed of Judge Sekule and Judge Ramaroson, held that the interests of justice were best served by continuing the trial with a substitute judge.<sup>162</sup> The case resumed on 26 January 2004.

76. The Prosecution closed its case on 18 October 2004,<sup>163</sup> having called 59 witnesses including expert witnesses.

77. Nyiramasuhuko's Defence case ran from 31 January 2005 until 24 November 2005;<sup>164</sup> 26 witnesses were called, including the Accused.

<sup>159</sup> At the 19 April 2001 Pre-Trial Conference, Judges William H. Sekule and Mehmet Güney set the trial date for 14 May 2001. After the death of Judge Laity Kama, who was the Presiding Judge over the case, and the nomination of Judge Güney to the Appeals Chamber in May 2001, the start of trial was postponed until 12 June 2001. The Chamber was also seized of the case against Jean de Dieu Kamuhanda, which started on 17 April 2001 and rendered judgement on 22 January 2004, and of the case against Juvénal Kajelijeli, which re-started on 3 July 2001 and rendered judgement on 1 December 2003.

<sup>160</sup> Judge Maqutu's term of office expired on 24 May 2003. He was not re-elected and Security Council Resolution 1482 extended his term of office for the purposes of concluding the Kamuhanda and Kajelijeli trials but did not extend his term for the Nyiramasuhuko et al. trial. See Security Council Resolution 1482.

81. Kanyabashi's Defence case ran from 10 July 2007 until 20 May 2008; 23 witnesses were called. The Accused chose not to testify.<sup>169</sup>
82. Ndayambaje's Defence case ran from 20 May 2008 until 2 December 2008; 24 witnesses were called, including the Accused.
83. A total of 130 Defence witnesses were called, including expert witnesses.
84. The joint trial concluded on 2 December 2008 after 714 trial days. Each Party filed their Closing Brief on 17 February 2009. Four Prosecution witnesses were recalled and gave further testimony on 23, 24 and 25 February 2009.
85. The closing arguments were heard from 20 April 2009 until 30 April 2009.

CHAPTER II: PRELIMINARY ISSUES

2.1 Introduction

86. In their Closing Briefs and arguments, the six Accused challenge various aspects of the fairness of the proceedings. Below the Chamber will consider submissions concerning paragraphs in the Indictments not in support of counts; defects in the Indictments, including insufficient notice; curing; pleading requirements; the effect of cumulative defects in the Indictments; the right to a fair trial free from undue delay; joinder; preliminary evidentiary matters; the issue of witnesses under investigation; the involvement of the Chief of Chambers in Deliberations; judicial notice; and the structure of the Judgement. First, however, the Chamber will briefly recall its findings with respect to partial acquittal under Rule 98 bis of the Rules as well as Prosecution concessions.

2.2 Partial Acquittal Under Rule 98 bis

87. On 16 December 2004, the Chamber granted in part Nsabimana's and Kanyabashi's Motions for acquittal and dismissed the other Motions in their entirety.<sup>170</sup>

88. The Chamber partially granted Nsabimana's Motion with respect to Paragraph 6.25 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. Namely, the Chamber found that the Prosecution had not adduced evidence that, on Nyiramasuhuko's request, Nsabimana ordered military authorities to provide reinforcements at the Ngoma commune massacres. The Chamber ordered partial acquittal on this charge for Nsabimana.<sup>171</sup>

89. The Chamber partially granted Kanyabashi's Motion and acquitted him on the charges based on Paragraph 6.38 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. In particular, the Chamber found that the Prosecution had not adduced evidence that Kanyabashi checked identity cards of patients at Butare University Hospital on 15 May 1994.<sup>172</sup>

90. The Chamber also found that the Prosecution had not adduced evidence in support of part of Paragraph 6.43 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, which alleged that Kanyabashi "told the Préfet [Nsabimana] that the Tutsi refugees at the Préfecture had to be exterminated". The Chamber ordered partial acquittal for Kanyabashi on Paragraph 6.43 and found that Kanyabashi would not have to defend himself against the quoted portion of the paragraph.<sup>173</sup>

91. Consequently, the Chamber will not consider the above-mentioned allegations in this Judgement.

2.3 Prosecution Concessions

92. The Prosecution concedes that no evidence was led against Pauline Nyiramasuhuko on the allegation that she requested military assistance from Nsabimana on 17 June 1994, as set forth in Paragraph 6.25 of the Indictment against her.<sup>174</sup> Consequently, the Chamber will not consider this allegation in the Judgement.

93. The Prosecution also concedes that no evidence was led against Pauline Nyiramasuhuko on the allegation that she incited Jumapili, Nsengiyumva and Mashimangu to slaughter Tutsis, as set forth in Paragraph 6.38 of the Indictment against her.<sup>175</sup> The Prosecution notes that evidence was led that Nyiramasuhuko incited members of the population, as specified in that paragraph, but not that she incited the three named individuals. Consequently, the Chamber will not consider the portion of Paragraph 6.38 related to Jumapili, Nsengiyumva and Mashimangu in the Judgement.

2.4 Paragraphs of the Indictments Not in Support of Counts

94. Many paragraphs in the Indictments are of a general nature and are not in support of any count against the Accused. Moreover, some of the facts in these general paragraphs were the subject of judicial notice, as explained more fully in the preliminary section of this Judgement on judicial notice (). Failure by the Prosecution to specifically state that a paragraph supports a given count is an indication that the allegation it contains is not charged as a crime.<sup>176</sup> The omission of a count or charge from an indictment cannot be cured by the provision of timely, clear and consistent information.<sup>177</sup> Thus, where a paragraph is not pled in support of any count and is of no particular background or contextual interest, the Chamber declines to make additional factual and legal findings.<sup>178</sup>

95. The following paragraphs are specifically pled by the Prosecution in support of counts in the relevant Indictments:

Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, Paragraphs 5.1, 5.8, 5.10 (Concise Statement of Facts: Preparation); 6.13 to 6.14, 6.20, 6.22, 6.25, 6.27, 6.30 to 6.39, 6.47, 6.49 to 6.56 (Concise Statement of the Facts: Other Violations of International Humanitarian Law);

Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, Paragraphs 5.1, 5.8, 5.12 to 5.13 (Concise Statement of Facts: Preparation); 6.16, 6.21 to 6.22, 6.25 to 6.26, 6.28 to 6.33, 6.35 to 6.38, 6.41, 6.51 to 6.59 (Concise Statement of Facts: Other Violations of International Humanitarian Law);

Kanyabashi Indictment, Paragraphs 5.1, 5.8, 5.12 to 5.13 (Concise Statement of Facts: Preparation); 6.22, 6.26, 6.28 to 6.35, 6.37 to 6.38, 6.41 to 6.46, 6.57 to 6.58, 6.60, 6.62 to 6.65 (Concise Statement of Facts: Other Violations of International Humanitarian Law); and

96. The Chamber will not make findings regarding paragraphs other than those enumerated above, but the Chamber may where relevant, in the course of evaluating the allegations contained in paragraphs listed in support of counts, consider evidence regarding allegations in paragraphs not in support of counts.<sup>179</sup>

2.5 Notice of Charges

2.5.1 General Challenges to the Indictments

97. During the trial, the Accused challenged the admission of some evidence on the grounds that the Indictments and the Pre-Trial Brief did not provide them with sufficient notice of the facts the Prosecution would seek to prove. In many cases, the Chamber admitted the challenged evidence because it was relevant, and held that it would determine its probative value after hearing all of the evidence in the case.<sup>180</sup> This position was upheld by the Appeals Chamber on 2 July 2004.<sup>181</sup> Numerous challenges with respect to notice have been renewed by the Defence, including submissions that the Indictments are unduly vague in their totality.<sup>182</sup> However, blanket objections that an entire indictment is defective are insufficiently specific.<sup>183</sup>

<sup>179</sup> See generally Ntahobali & Nyiramasuhuko, Decision on the Appeals by Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and Arsène Shalom Ntahobali on the “Decision on Defence Urgent Motion to Declare Parts of the Evidence of Witnesses RV and QBZ Inadmissible” (AC), 2 July 2004 (holding that while evidence of allegations not pled in the Indictment cannot serve as the basis for a conviction, such evidence is still admissible to the extent the Chamber determines it is relevant).

<sup>181</sup> Ntahobali & Nyiramasuhuko, Decision on the Appeals by Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and Arsène Shalom Ntahobali on the “Decision on Defence Urgent Motion to Declare Parts of the Evidence of Witnesses RV and QBZ Inadmissible” (AC), 2 July 2004, paras. 14-15 (para. 15 notes that “[i]t should be recalled that admissibility of evidence should not be confused with the assessment of the weight to be accorded to that evidence, an issue to be decided by the Trial Chamber after hearing the totality of the evidence”).

<sup>182</sup> The Ntahobali Defence submits that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is “deliberately vague, confused and imprecise” and that these defects have not been cured. The Ntahobali Defence specifically points to Paras. 5.1, 5.8, 6.35, 6.37, 6.38, 6.39, 6.47 and 6.49 to 6.56 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment: see Ntahobali Closing Brief, paras. 65, 67-70, 73-75. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence recalls that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali submitted preliminary motions on this issue, reiterates these arguments, and further submits that reliance on a paragraph that is so vaguely worded that it can potentially be used to charge almost any crime is prohibited: see Prosecutor v. Nyiramasuhuko & Ntahobali, Case No. ICTR-97-21-T, Preliminary Motion Based on Defects in the Form and the Substance of the Indictment, dated 27 October 1999. Similarly, the Ndayambaje Defence submits that at no time was Ndayambaje adequately informed of the material acts with which he was charged, that the acts cited in the Ndayambaje Indictment have nothing to do with Ndayambaje, that most of the paragraphs of the Ndayambaje Indictment that relate to Ndayambaje are vague and imprecise, and that these defects have never been cured, causing serious prejudice to the fairness of his trial: see Ndayambaje Closing Brief, para. 40. The Ndayambaje Defence disputes the Prosecution’s contention that these were “simple details” that were corrected by disclosures, and, moreover, the Prosecution’s statement during its oral closing arguments that, with respect to the Indictments, “[i]n the final analysis, what should actually hold the attention of the Chamber is the substance and not the form” is an admission that the Indictment was fundamentally defective: see Ndayambaje Closing Argument, T. 29 April 2009 p. 52; Ndayambaje Closing Brief, para. 71.

98. It is within the Chamber's discretion to reconsider past decisions regarding deficiencies in an indictment.<sup>184</sup> The Chamber is aware that it must provide the Parties an opportunity to be heard, and has fully considered the arguments and submissions with respect to vagueness in the Prosecution's and Accused's Closing Briefs and arguments.<sup>185</sup>

2.5.2 Specific Challenges to Paragraphs of the Indictments

99. Specific challenges to particular factual allegations are addressed in the relevant section of the factual findings. In some instances, the Chamber has not, in its factual findings, expressly revisited its previous decisions to admit evidence or addressed the Accused's challenges regarding admission, in particular where the Prosecution did not prove its case. It has, nevertheless, considered all challenges in view of the general principles, as recapitulated below.

100. Pursuant to Article 20 (4) of the Statute, each accused is entitled to be informed promptly and in detail of the nature and cause of the charge against him or her. The charges against an accused and the material facts supporting those charges must be pled in an indictment with sufficient precision to provide notice to the accused,<sup>186</sup> and to enable him or her to adequately prepare a defence.<sup>187</sup> Whether a fact is "material" depends on the nature of the Prosecution's case.<sup>188</sup> The Prosecution's characterisation of the alleged criminal conduct and the proximity of the accused to the underlying crime are decisive factors in determining the degree of specificity with which the Prosecution must plead the material facts of its case in the indictment in order to provide the accused with adequate notice.<sup>189</sup> For example, where the Prosecution alleges that an accused personally committed the criminal acts in question, it must plead "with the greatest precision" the identity of the victim, the place and approximate date of the alleged criminal acts, and the means by which they were committed.<sup>190</sup> However, less detail may be acceptable if the "sheer scale of the alleged crimes makes it impractical to require a high degree of specificity in such matters as the identity of the victims and the dates of the commission of the crimes."<sup>191</sup> Even in cases where a high degree of specificity is "impractical," however, "since the identity of the victim is information that is valuable to the preparation of the defence case, if the Prosecution is in a position to name the victims, it should do so."<sup>192</sup> Moreover, the Prosecution cannot simultaneously argue that the accused killed a named individual yet claim that the "sheer scale" of the crime made it impossible to identify that individual in the indictment. Quite the contrary, the Prosecution's obligation to provide particulars in the indictment is at its highest when it seeks to prove that the accused killed or harmed a specific individual.<sup>193</sup>

101. Additionally, there may well be situations in which the specific location of criminal activities cannot be listed, such as where the accused is charged as having effective control over several armed groups that committed crimes in numerous locations. In cases concerning physical acts of violence perpetrated by the accused personally, however, location can be very important. Thus, when the Prosecution seeks to prove that the accused committed an act at a specified location, it cannot simultaneously claim that it is impracticable to specify that location in advance.<sup>194</sup>

102. Where it is clear that the Prosecution was in a position to plead specific facts yet failed to do so, for example, where the identity of a particular victim is found in witness statements or the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and yet the information is not provided in the Indictment, this failure renders the Indictment defective.<sup>195</sup>

103. The Prosecution is expected to know its case before proceeding to trial and cannot mould the case against an accused in the course of the trial depending on how the evidence unfolds.<sup>196</sup> Defects in an indictment may come to light during the proceedings because the evidence turns out differently than expected; this calls for the Chamber to consider whether a fair trial requires an amendment of the indictment, an adjournment of proceedings, or the exclusion of evidence outside the scope of the indictment.<sup>197</sup> In reaching its judgement, a Chamber can only convict an accused of crimes that are charged in the indictment.<sup>198</sup>

2.5.3 Generality in Pleading Dates

104. The Nsabimana Defence asserts that words such as “about” are, per se, insufficiently precise when used in an indictment and that, consequently, phrases such as “between April and June,” and “around 10 June” should be struck from the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment.<sup>199</sup> The Chamber recalls its Decision of 1 November 2000 where it held that the “magnitude, time, territorial dimensions, nature and the characteristics of the alleged crimes” did not enable the Prosecution to provide in the Amended Indictment all the particular dates of the given crimes.<sup>200</sup> The Chamber further recalls that “a broad date range, in and of itself, does not invalidate a paragraph of an indictment”,<sup>201</sup> and that the Indictment must be read as a whole.<sup>202</sup>

2.5.4 Curing Defects in the Indictments

105. A defective indictment may be cured if the Prosecution provides the accused with timely, clear and consistent information detailing the factual basis underpinning the charges against him or her that gives details, resolves ambiguity, or clears up vagueness.<sup>203</sup> The Chamber has not only the power but also the obligation to determine whether the Prosecution cured the defects in the Indictment.<sup>204</sup> However, the principle that a defective indictment may be cured is not without limits.<sup>205</sup>

106. A distinction must be drawn between vagueness in an indictment, and an indictment omitting certain charges altogether. While it is possible to remedy the vagueness of an indictment, omitted charges can be incorporated into the indictment only by a formal amendment pursuant to Rule 50 of the Rules.<sup>206</sup>

107. The new material facts should not lead to a “radical transformation” of the Prosecution’s case against the accused. The Trial Chamber should always take into account the risk that the expansion of charges by the addition of new material facts may lead to unfairness and prejudice to the accused. Further, if the new material facts are such that they could support separate charges on their own, the Prosecution must seek leave from the Trial Chamber to amend the indictment.<sup>207</sup>

108. An accused may be put on notice through information provided in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief together with its annexes or the opening statement.<sup>208</sup> In this connection, the timing of such communications, the importance of the information to the ability of the accused to prepare its defence, and the impact of the newly disclosed material facts on the Prosecution’s case are relevant.<sup>209</sup> The list of witnesses the Prosecution intends to call at trial, containing a summary of the facts and charges in the indictment as to which each witness will testify, including specific references to counts and relevant paragraphs in the indictment, may also in some cases serve to put the accused on notice.<sup>210</sup>

109. However, the mere service of witness statements or of potential exhibits by the Prosecution pursuant to the disclosure requirements of the Rules is insufficient to inform the Defence of material facts that the Prosecution intends to prove at trial.<sup>211</sup> In Bagosora et al.,

the Trial Chamber found that the Appeals Chamber had made a distinction between the Pre-Trial Brief and the opening statement, which are adequate means of serving new material facts, and witness statements alone, which are not.<sup>212</sup> Thus, mention of a material fact in a witness statement does not necessarily constitute notice: the Prosecution must convey that the material allegation is part of the case against the accused. In sum, due to the volume of disclosure by the Prosecution in certain cases, a witness statement will not, without some other indication, adequately signal to an accused that the allegation is part of the Prosecution's case.<sup>213</sup>

110. To determine whether the indictment was cured of its defects, the Chamber must determine whether, in light of the circumstances of the case, the accused was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him or her, and to prepare his or her defence.<sup>214</sup> Specifically, the Chamber should consider the following factors: the consistency, clarity and specificity with which the material fact is communicated to the accused; the novelty and incriminating nature of the new material fact; and the period of notice given to the accused.<sup>215</sup> Lastly, when the Chamber finds that a defective indictment was subsequently cured, it must determine whether the defects in question nevertheless caused considerable prejudice to the accused's right to a fair trial by preventing him or her from properly preparing his or her case.<sup>216</sup>

111. Where defects in the indictment are not cured, the appropriate remedy to ensure a fair trial is to not convict an accused on the basis of facts for which the Prosecution provided insufficient notice.<sup>217</sup> Evidence of material facts not pled in the indictment, however, may still be relevant to the proof of other allegations pled in the Indictment.<sup>218</sup> Similarly, evidence that is excluded as outside the scope of the indictment may still, in the interests of justice, be considered under Rule 93 of the Rules as corroborating evidence of a consistent pattern of conduct, provided that the defence receives sufficient notice from the Prosecution that the evidence will be used in such a manner.<sup>219</sup>

2.5.5 Failure to Plead the Modes of Participation in the Crimes Charged Under Article 6 (1) of the Statute

112. Under Article 6 (1) of the Statute an accused may bear individual criminal responsibility for planning, instigating, ordering, committing, or otherwise aiding and abetting in the planning, preparation, or execution of a crime. The Defence submits that the Indictments in the instant case are defective because the Prosecution failed to specify the mode of participation for charges alleged under Article 6 (1), and that the defects in the Indictments were not cured by the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information.<sup>220</sup>

113. The Chamber declines to make a general finding at this point, and instead will consider the Defence submissions with respect to failure to adequately plead individual responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (1) for each count on an allegation by allegation basis.

114. The practice of both the Tribunal and the ICTY requires the Prosecution to plead the specific forms of individual criminal responsibility for which the accused is being charged. The Prosecution has repeatedly been discouraged from simply restating Article 6 (1) of the Statute, unless it intends to rely on all the forms of individual criminal responsibility contained therein, because of the ambiguity that this causes.<sup>221</sup>

115. Moreover, where it is alleged that the accused planned, instigated, ordered, or aided and abetted in the planning, preparation or execution, of the alleged crimes, the Prosecution is required to identify the “particular acts” or “the particular course of conduct” of the accused that forms the basis for the charges in question.<sup>222</sup> When the Prosecution is intending to rely on

The Nsabimana Defence submits that the Prosecution failed to comply with the Chamber’s orders with respect to necessary indictment amendments. Specifically, the Nsabimana Defence recalls the Chamber’s “Decision on the Defence Motion for the Amendment of the Indictment, Withdrawal of Certain Charges and Protective Measures for Witnesses” of 24 September 1998, which ordered the Prosecution to amend Paragraph 4 of the first Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, which stated that the “accused either planned, incited to commit, ordered, committed, or in some other way aided and abetted the planning, preparation or execution of the said acts”, to specify the role of the Accused in planning the events charged: see Nsabimana, Decision on the Defence Motion for the Amendment of the Indictment, Withdrawal of Certain Charges and Protective Measures for Witnesses (TC), 24 September 1998. The Chamber, in its “Decision on the Prosecutor’s Urgent Motion for Stay of Execution of Decision of 24 September 1998 & Decision on Nsabimana’s Motion for Withdrawal of the Indictment and Immediate Release” of 21 May 1999, held that it had already found that the Prosecution was not in compliance with the previous order and admonished the Prosecution for its continued non-compliance: see Nsabimana & Nteziryayo, Decision on the Prosecutor’s Urgent Motion for Stay of Execution of Decision of 24 September 1998 & Decision on Nsabimana’s Motion for Withdrawal of the Indictment and Immediate Release (TC), 21 May 1999. The Nsabimana Defence recalls raising the issue of the Prosecution’s continued non-compliance again at the status conference held on 2 February 2001, and repeatedly submitting at the time that the Accused reserved the right to raise the issue in his Closing Brief: T. 2 February 2001. See also Kanyabashi, Decision on Defence Preliminary Motion for Defects in the Form of the Indictment (TC), 31 May 2000.

all modes of responsibility in Article 6 (1) of the Statute, then the material facts relevant to each of those modes must be pled in the indictment.<sup>223</sup>

116. Although such information should generally be contained in the indictment, the Appeals Chamber has held that, in certain circumstances, a failure to set forth the precise mode of participation in the indictment can be cured by a later submission from the Prosecution, made before the start of trial, identifying the form or forms of liability alleged for each count.<sup>224</sup>

2.5.6 Failure to Adequately Plead Superior Responsibility Pursuant to Article 6 (3) of the Statute

117. The Defence submits that the Prosecution has inadequately pled the required elements for its claims of superior responsibility and that the paragraphs pled in the Indictments with respect to claims under Article 6 (3) are vague and contain imprecise information, which does not adequately inform the Accused of the material facts relating to their alleged responsibility.<sup>225</sup> Consequently, the Defence submits that the Indictments are defective with respect to the counts charged against the Accused under Article 6 (3) of the Statute, and that these defects have not been cured, rendering the Accused unable to adequately prepare their defence.<sup>226</sup>

118. In particular, the Defence submits that with respect to charges brought under superior responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (3) the Prosecution failed in its obligation to identify the subordinates in question, or the nature of the aid provided, and instead relied on generic references to subordinates in the Indictment.<sup>227</sup> The Defence also submits that the Prosecution did not adequately specify the criminal acts alleged to have been committed by the subordinates, knowledge of the acts by the Accused or the identity of the alleged victims, nor

The various Accused have previously raised the issue of insufficient information provided in the Indictments and requested additional information. Specifically the Accused have requested the identity of the persons concerned in certain paragraphs of the Indictment used to support counts brought under Article 6 (3) so that the Accused could know exactly who was involved, including in the alleged conspiracy: see, e.g., Nyiramasuhuko & Ntahobali, Decision on Nyiramasuhuko's Preliminary Motion Based on Defects in the Form and the Substance of the Indictment (TC), 1 November 2000, paras. 11-12, 60; Nyiramasuhuko & Ntahobali, Decision on Arsène Shalom Ntahobali's Preliminary Motion Objecting to Defects in the Form and Substance of the Indictment (TC), 1 November 2000, paras. 7, 9, 28, 30; Nsabimana, Decision on the Defence Motion for the Amendment of the Indictment, Withdrawal of Certain Charges and Protective Measures for Witnesses (TC), 24 September 1998, pp. 2, 6-7; Kanyabashi, Decision on Defence Preliminary Motion for Defects in the Form of the Indictment (TC), 31 May 2000.

did it specifically allege that the Accused failed to punish the subordinates who committed the relevant criminal acts.<sup>228</sup>

119. The Prosecution argues that proof of the existence of a superior-subordinate relationship does not require the identification of the principal perpetrators, particularly not by name, nor that the superior had knowledge of the number or identity of possible intermediaries, provided that it is at least established that the individuals who are responsible for the commission of the crimes were within a unit or a group under the control of the superior.<sup>229</sup> The Prosecution argues that it has fulfilled its obligations with respect to the alleged subordinates of the respective Accused in the Indictments by indicating the group or the category to which these alleged subordinates belong.<sup>230</sup>

120. The Chamber will consider the Defence submissions on alleged defects in the Indictments with respect to crimes charged under Article 6 (3) of the Statute in the relevant factual findings sections of the Judgement, or in the legal findings. In doing so, the Chamber will apply the following standard.

121. If the Prosecution intends to rely on the theory of superior responsibility to hold an accused criminally responsible for a crime under Article 6 (3) of the Statute, the Indictment should plead the following: (1) that the accused is the superior of subordinates sufficiently identified, over whom he had effective control – in the sense of a material ability to prevent or punish criminal conduct – and for whose acts he is alleged to be responsible; (2) the criminal conduct of those others for whom he is alleged to be responsible; (3) the conduct of the accused by which he may be found to have known or had reason to know that the crimes were about to be committed or had been committed by his subordinates; and (4) the conduct of the accused by which he may be found to have failed to take the necessary and reasonable measures to prevent such acts or to punish the persons who committed them.<sup>231</sup>

122. A superior need not necessarily know the exact identity of his subordinates who perpetrate crimes in order to incur liability under Article 6 (3) of the Statute.<sup>232</sup> For example, an accused is sufficiently informed of his subordinates where they are identified as coming from a particular camp under his authority.<sup>233</sup> Physical perpetrators of the crimes can also be identified by category in relation to a particular crime site.<sup>234</sup>

123. Although the Prosecution remains obliged to give all the particulars that it is able to give, the relevant facts relating to the acts of others for which the accused is alleged to be responsible as a superior will usually be stated with less precision because the details of those acts are often unknown, and because the acts themselves are often not very much in issue.<sup>235</sup> Moreover, in certain circumstances, the sheer scale of the alleged crimes makes it impracticable to require a high degree of specificity in such matters as the identity of the victims and the dates of the commission of the crimes.<sup>236</sup>

124. Finally, a Chamber may infer knowledge of the crimes from their widespread and systematic nature, and a superior's failure to prevent or punish them from their continuing occurrence.<sup>237</sup> These elements follow from reading the indictment as a whole.<sup>238</sup>

2.5.7 Indictment Defects – Cumulative Error

125. In addition to specific claims that particular Indictment paragraphs were defective, several Defence teams argue that the Indictment as a whole rendered the trial unfair. The Ndayambaje Defence argues the Indictment was “fundamentally defective.”<sup>239</sup> The Ntahobali Defence argues that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is “an irremediably defective accusatory instrument which has materially affected their right to adequately prepare their defence.”<sup>240</sup> The Nsabimana Defence likewise argues that it was unable to adequately prepare its defence due to the insufficient information about the crimes, subordinates, identity, position and relationship with Nsabimana or the crimes committed as they relate to Nsabimana.<sup>241</sup> It argues this led to an unfair trial and, as a result, no conviction may be entered against Nsabimana.<sup>242</sup>

126. The Prosecution does not make any submissions related to any specific alleged defects in the Indictments. In fact, it does not address the issue of defects at all in its Closing Brief. The Prosecution did, however, briefly address the alleged defects in the Indictments in its closing argument.<sup>243</sup> It argues the Defence was able to fully answer the Prosecution's case against the Accused and cites in support the Defence's lengthy and informed cross-examinations which showed that it had mastered its case.<sup>244</sup>

127. The Chamber recalls the Appeals Chamber's admonition that even if the Prosecution succeeds in arguing that the defects in the indictments were remedied in each individual instance, the Chamber must still consider whether the overall effect of the numerous defects have rendered the trial unfair in itself.<sup>245</sup> The Appeals Chamber later expounded upon its reasoning, stating:

[T]he accumulation of a large number of material facts not pled in the indictment reduces the clarity and relevancy of that indictment, which may have an impact on the ability of the accused to know the case he or she has to meet for purposes of preparing an adequate defence. While the addition of a few material facts may not prejudice the Defence in the preparation of its case, the addition of numerous material facts increases the risk of prejudice as the Defence may not have sufficient time and resources to investigate properly all the new material facts. Thus, where a Trial Chamber considers that a defective indictment has been subsequently cured by the Prosecution, it should further consider whether the extent of the defects in the indictment materially prejudice an accused's right to a fair trial by hindering the preparation of a proper defence.<sup>246</sup>

128. If a trial verdict is found to have relied upon material facts not pled in an indictment, the Chamber must determine whether the trial was thereby rendered unfair and, if so, an appropriate remedy must be found.<sup>247</sup>

129. In its decisions concerning notice in this Judgement, the Chamber has found specific Indictment paragraphs to be unduly vague for failing to specify, inter alia, the location, dates, assailants or victims of particular alleged crimes. In many instances, the Chamber determined that these defects were cured by the provision of timely, clear and consistent information.

130. The Chamber recalls, "the addition of numerous material facts increases the risk of prejudice as the Defence may not have sufficient time and resources to investigate properly all the new material facts."<sup>248</sup> Nonetheless, throughout the course of these proceedings, where appropriate, the Chamber has given the Defence additional time to prepare its case, particularly where requested by the Defence, to investigate allegations by the Prosecution.<sup>249</sup> As the Chamber explains throughout this Judgement, the new information that led to factual findings beyond a reasonable doubt was disclosed to the Defence through timely, clear, and consistent disclosures. Therefore, the Accused were in a reasonable position to understand the charges against them and had the time and resources available to investigate these charges.<sup>250</sup>

131. The Chamber therefore finds the trial was not rendered unfair and the Accused did not suffer any prejudice in the preparation of their respective defences.

2.5.8 Notice of Alibi

132. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and Ndayambaje each provided late notice of their intention to run an alibi defence, without providing the Chamber with a convincing explanation as to why the alibi was first raised at such a late stage after the

Prosecution had presented its case. Thus, the Prosecution argues that little weight can be attributed to their alibi defences.<sup>251</sup> The Chamber notes that it will make a finding with respect to the adequacy of notice with regard to the defence of alibi on a case-by-case basis.

133. The Chamber recalls that the procedure to be followed where an accused intends to enter an alibi in his or her defence is covered by Rule 67 (A)(ii) and (B) of the Rules. Pursuant to Rule 67 (A), to ensure a good administration of justice and efficient judicial proceedings, any notice of alibi should be tendered in a timely manner, and in any event before the commencement of the trial.<sup>252</sup> However, were the Defence to fail in this regard, Rule 67 (B) provides that it may still rely on the alibi defence at trial. “In certain circumstances, failure to raise an alibi in a timely manner can impact a Trial Chamber’s findings, as it may take such failure into account when weighing the credibility of the alibi.”<sup>253</sup>

2.6 Fair Trial

2.6.1 Undue Delay

134. The Ndayambaje Defence submits Ndayambaje’s right to be tried without undue delay was grossly violated, and asserts that he suffered prejudice owing to the unreasonable delay. It states that the fairness of the trial was seriously compromised by the undue delay and that he suffered additional social, psychological and economic prejudice.<sup>254</sup>

135. It argues the period of almost 15 years that Ndayambaje has spent in prison – beginning 28 June 1995 – is the longest period of pre-judgement detention in the history of United Nations Tribunals, and undermines the presumption of innocence.<sup>255</sup> The Ndayambaje Defence asserts that the aforementioned delay is excessive and the prejudice is irreparable. In submitting that the delay was not attributable to Ndayambaje or his Defence team, the Defence draws the Chamber’s attention to the late disclosure of evidence and documents by the Prosecution, repeated Prosecution requests for the trial to be postponed, the decision on joinder, the Rwandan government’s lack of cooperation, and the non-renewal of Judge Maqutu’s term of office.<sup>256</sup>

136. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence likewise argues that Nyiramasuhuko’s detention for 12 years (as of April 2009) without a decision by the Chamber on the merits of her case is unreasonable.<sup>257</sup> Further, the Chamber recalls that in 2008, the Ntahobali Defence filed a motion to stay the proceedings for undue delay which was supported by Kanyabashi and Ndayambaje.<sup>258</sup> The Chamber, therefore, considers whether each of the Accused suffered undue delay based on the length of these proceedings.

137. The Chamber recalls the Accused has a right to be tried without undue delay.<sup>259</sup> Whether a delay is “undue” is determined on a case-by-case basis, considering: (a) the length of the delay; (b) the complexity of the proceedings; (c) the conduct of the parties; (d) the conduct of the relevant legal authorities; and (e) any prejudice which accrued to the accused as a result.<sup>260</sup> If the delay is not “undue,” regardless of the length of time in question, the Accused is not entitled to relief.<sup>261</sup>

138. In Nahimana et al., the Appeals Chamber concluded that the predominant part of the period of seven years and eight months between Jean-Bosco Barayagwiza’s arrest and judgement did not constitute an undue delay, because of the complexity of the case. The Chamber emphasised the complexity of the case against him, including the large number of counts, witnesses and exhibits, as well as the complexity of the pertinent facts and the relevant legal principles and the inherent complexity of international criminal proceedings.<sup>262</sup> The Nahimana et al. case involved 93 witnesses over the course of 241 trial days.<sup>263</sup> Similarly, the Bagosora et al. Trial Chamber concluded that a delay of approximately 11 years was not undue, owing to the complexity of the case.<sup>264</sup> The Chamber noted that the case involved 242 witnesses over the course of 408 trial days, and so was “two to three times” the size of the Nahimana et al. case.<sup>265</sup> Similarly, in the Bizimungu et al. case, the Trial Chamber concluded that no “undue delay” had occurred though a period of almost 10 years had elapsed after Mugiraneza’s arrest and the judgement had not yet been issued.<sup>266</sup>

139. The Chamber considers the instant case to be at least as complex as Bagosora. The Chamber heard 189 witnesses over the course of 726 trial days. Thus, the case is approximately twice the length of Bagosora and more than three times the length of Nahimana et al. Moreover, while there were fewer witnesses in this case than Bagosora, the increased length was necessitated by the replacement of a Judge, the presentation of six different Defence cases and a plurality of cross-examinations for every witness. In the circumstances, given the complexity of the instant case, the Chamber does not consider the length of this case to violate the Accused’s right to be tried without undue delay.

<sup>266</sup> Bizimungu et al., Decision on Prosper Mugiraneza’s Third Motion to Dismiss Indictment for Violation of His Right to a Trial Without Undue Delay (TC), 10 February 2009.

140. The Defence offers no specific assertion of legal prejudice beyond the general complaint that the trial was unfair and that Ndayambaje could not properly answer the charges against him.<sup>267</sup>

141. Moreover, the Chamber recalls its Decision of 26 November 2008 regarding Ntahobali's motion to stay the proceedings based upon undue delay.<sup>268</sup> That motion was supported by the Ndayambaje and Kanyabashi Defences.<sup>269</sup> The Ntahobali Defence argued that the arrest of its investigator shortly after the start of trial, the non re-election of Judge Maqutu and the lack of cooperation of the Rwandan authorities resulted in undue delay prejudicing Ntahobali.<sup>270</sup> The Chamber held that the gravity of the charges and the complexity of the case did not render unreasonable the length of the proceedings.<sup>271</sup> The Chamber finds there is no reason to reconsider its assessment of Ntahobali's motion at this time.

142. During this trial, there were 1,457 exhibits tendered (equivalent to about 13,000 pages of documents) and 913 introduced into evidence. In addition, there were 125,951 transcript pages, including 58,252 in English and 67,699 in French. Considering the complexity of this case along with the expansive trial record, the Chamber considers that the total duration of these proceedings, including the drafting of this Judgement, was reasonable.

143. As the length of the delay in this case is adequately explained by the complexity of the case, and the Accused have not demonstrated that they suffered any legal prejudice, the Chamber need not consider the conduct of the Prosecution or other legal authorities.

2.6.2 Joinder

144. The Chamber recalls that in its Decision granting joinder, it reasoned that the various Accused were charged with offenses arising out of the same transaction, within the meaning of Rules 2 and 48 of the Rules, and that the Defence had shown no prejudice.<sup>272</sup> The Chamber noted that none of the cases joined into this trial were about to start, and concluded that it would increase efficiency and fairness to have a single presentation of the various allegations arising out of the transaction at issue.<sup>273</sup> The Appeals Chamber subsequently dismissed the appeals to the Chamber's Decision.<sup>274</sup> The Chamber subsequently issued several decisions on the joinder issue in response to motions from the various Accused.<sup>275</sup>

145. The Chamber considers that the Ndayambaje Defence has not advanced any reason that might justify reconsideration of its Decision granting joinder under this Tribunal's well-established reconsideration jurisprudence.<sup>276</sup> Under this jurisprudence, reconsideration is appropriate if: (1) the moving party demonstrates the existence of a new fact, not known to the Chamber when it issued its original decision, (2) the moving party demonstrates a material change in circumstances, or (3) the moving party demonstrates the original decision was erroneous or would cause an injustice.<sup>277</sup>

146. The Chamber notes that the Ndayambaje Defence does not raise any new fact or change in circumstances. Rather, the Ndayambaje Defence offers the general argument that the joinder undermined the fairness of the proceedings, and so implicitly that the Chamber's Decision caused an injustice.<sup>278</sup>

147. The Chamber recalls that under the Rules, two or more persons accused of crimes arising out of the same transaction may be jointly charged and tried.<sup>279</sup> Additionally, two or more persons who are accused of crimes arising out of the same transaction may be tried together, even if indicted separately, if the Trial Chamber grants leave.<sup>280</sup> A transaction is defined as "[a] number of acts or omissions whether occurring as one event or a number of events, at the same or different locations and being part of a common scheme, strategy or plan."<sup>281</sup> A determination of whether joinder is appropriate in this regard is properly based on the "factual allegations contained in the indictments and related submissions."<sup>282</sup>

148. The Defence offers only a general allegation that this determination was erroneous. Moreover, the Appeals Chamber has held in the Gotovina et al. case that litigating the common issues in the case multiple times would have required a greater expenditure of judicial resources and so, while it is possible any one case could have concluded more quickly, more time and resources would have been spent litigating the cases as a whole.<sup>283</sup> Consequently, any assertion about the length of a particular trial if conducted independently is at best “hypothetical and speculative.”<sup>284</sup> Accordingly, the joinder did not create an injustice. As the Defence has not pointed to any specific error in the Chamber’s decision on joinder, and has shown no new fact or material change in circumstances, the Chamber will not reconsider its decision joining the trials of the various Accused.<sup>285</sup>

<sup>276</sup> While the Defence does not expressly frame its allegation as a motion for reconsideration, it de facto seeks the reconsideration of the Trial Chamber's earlier Decision. Under such circumstances, the Chamber will consider whether the Defence has justified reconsideration under the applicable legal standard.

149. In a related manner, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Nyiramasuhuko was prejudiced by the fact that her defence was required to present and to cross-examine first among the six Accused. Specifically, the Defence maintains that because it was required to present first, it was difficult to adequately mount a defence to allegations made by other Accused after Nyiramasuhuko’s case had been presented to the Chamber.<sup>286</sup>

150. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence primarily offers a general allegation of prejudice, and does not suggest any new fact or material change in circumstances that might justify reconsideration of the 18 October 2004 Decision.<sup>287</sup> The only specific evidence adduced after the conclusion of the Nyiramasuhuko Defence case that that Defence asserts was prejudicial related to the Nyiramasuhuko Defence’s inability to identify the person alleged by witnesses to have served as Nyiramasuhuko’s driver at the time in question.<sup>288</sup> The Defence has not demonstrated that this inability undermined Nyiramasuhuko’s right to a fair trial or that had the allegation been made prior to Nyiramasuhuko’s Defence, the Defence would have been better able to rebut it. Accordingly, the issue of identification of Pauline Nyiramasuhuko’s driver does not justify reconsideration of the order of presentation of the Defence cases.

151. The Chamber notes that in a multi-accused trial the accused persons will necessarily have to present their cases in a specific order. To the extent that an accused person who presents earlier is prejudiced by the order in which the various defences are presented, that accused person may present rejoinder evidence as provided by the Rules.<sup>289</sup> Moreover, in this case, the various Accused were granted considerable freedom to cross-examine other Defence witnesses to avoid any prejudice resulting from the joint trial. Accordingly, the Defence has not shown that the 18 October 2004 Decision was erroneous and therefore cannot justify reconsideration.

<sup>285</sup> Further, judicial economy is not the sole consideration governing a Trial Chamber’s discretionary determination whether to grant or deny a motion for joinder. Rather, Chambers consider, inter alia: protection of the rights of the accused; avoidance of conflicts of interest which might prejudice any accused; and protection of the interests of justice, including avoiding the duplication of evidence, minimizing hardship to witnesses, and ensuring consistency of verdicts, as well as promoting judicial economy: Gotovina et al., Decision on Interlocutory Appeals Against the Trial Chamber’s Decision to Amend the Indictment and for Joinder (AC), 25 October 2006, para. 17.

152. Thus, the Chamber will not reconsider its 18 October 2004 Decision at this time. However, as described in the Evidentiary Matters section of this Judgement (), the Chamber will consider the order of Defence cases and any concomitant prejudice in evaluating testimony and other evidence offered by each Accused.

2.6.3 Other Threshold Issues

2.6.3.1 Presence of Factual Witnesses in the Courtroom During Objections

153. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence notes that for much of the trial, factual witnesses were not removed from the courtroom during objections made in the course of their testimony. Counsel posits that there was an impact on the witnesses whenever objections, comments and remarks by counsel and the Chamber were made in their presence.<sup>290</sup>

154. The Chamber recalls that it determined in its 30 January 2004 Decision that for the remainder of the trial, witnesses would be excluded from the courtroom during objections and associated arguments raised during the course of their testimony.<sup>291</sup> Thus, the Chamber notes, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence's argument can relate only to witnesses who completed their testimony prior to 30 January 2004.

155. The Chamber notes that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence has cited no specific witness or testimony which it argues was impacted by such discussions. As such, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence has not substantiated its allegations of prejudice. Therefore, this submission is denied.

2.6.3.2 Substitution of Judge Bossa

156. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence avers that Nyiramasuhuko was prejudiced by the fact that Judge Bossa was not present during the presentation of the Prosecution's case and, consequently, did not hear all the Prosecution witnesses testify in person, as she was only appointed to the Bench in 2004.<sup>292</sup>

157. When Judge Maqutu's term of office was not renewed, Judges Sekule and Ramaroson determined on 15 July 2003 that to continue the trial with a substitute judge, rather than restarting the trial, would be in the interests of justice.<sup>293</sup>

158. The Appeals Chamber upheld the Chamber's determination.<sup>294</sup> In particular, it held that the fact that a substitute judge would not have personally heard every piece of testimony in the case would not in itself require the trial to be restarted in the interests of justice.<sup>295</sup> It specifically endorsed the practice eventually adopted by the Chamber, noting that where a substitute judge has not witnessed testimony so as to facilitate that judge's evaluations of credibility:

<sup>293</sup> Nyiramasuhuko et al., Decision in the Matter of Proceedings Under Rule 15 bis (D) (TC), 15 July 2003. Rule 15 bis of the Rules provides that where the term of a judge of the Tribunal ends during a trial in which he is involved, the Chamber may choose to restart the case or continue the case with a substitute judge, if the parties consent. If the parties do not consent, the remaining two judges "may nonetheless decide to continue the proceedings before a Trial Chamber with a substitute Judge if, taking all the circumstances into account, they determine unanimously that doing so would serve the interests of justice." In this case, only the Prosecution and the Nsabimana Defence consented to continuing with a substitute judge.

the solution is as follows: If the judge assigned by the President certifies "that he or she has familiarised himself or herself with the record of the proceedings" ... and thereafter accordingly joins the bench of the Trial Chamber, the recomposed Trial Chamber may, on a motion by a party or proprio motu, recall a witness on a particular issue which in the view of the Trial Chamber involves a matter of credibility which the substitute judge may need to assess in the light of the witness's demeanour.<sup>296</sup>

159. As contemplated by the Appeals Chamber's Decision, Judge Bossa did not personally hear all of the Prosecution's evidence in this case. She did, however, familiarise herself with the evidence adduced before she joined the current Bench on the basis of both the written transcripts and audio recordings of the proceedings.<sup>297</sup> Where it was necessary to assess a particular witness' credibility in light of the witness' demeanour, the Chamber granted the motions to recall particular witnesses to be re-heard on specific issues.<sup>298</sup> In such cases, involving Witnesses QCB, QY, SJ, QBQ and QA, Judge Bossa based her assessment of the witness' demeanour on the testimony given when the witness was recalled. The Trial Chamber's approach to this issue has already been endorsed by the Appeals Chamber, and the Nyiramasuhuko Defence demonstrates no new fact, material change in circumstance, or legal error associated with the Chamber's approach. Accordingly, the Chamber will not reconsider its decision on this issue.

2.7 Evidentiary Matters

160. The Chamber has assessed the evidence in this case in accordance with the Statute, the Rules and the decisions and judgements of the Appeals Chamber. Specifically, Rule 89 (C) provides that a Chamber may admit any relevant evidence which it deems to have probative value. To be admissible the evidence must be in some way relevant to an element of a crime with which the Accused is charged. The Chamber does not need to set out in detail why it accepted or rejected a particular testimony. This is equally applicable to all evidence, including that tendered by the accused person.<sup>299</sup>

161. Where guidance is not provided by these sources, the Chamber has assessed the evidence so as to best favour a fair determination of the case against the Accused, consonant with the spirit of the Statute and the general principles of law.

2.7.1 Burden of Proof and the Presumption of Innocence

162. Article 20 (3) of the Statute guarantees the presumption of innocence of each accused person. The burden of proving each and every element of the offences charged against the accused beyond a reasonable doubt rests solely on the Prosecution and never shifts to the Defence.<sup>300</sup> The Chamber must be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty before a verdict may be entered against him or her.<sup>301</sup>

163. While the Defence does not have to adduce rebuttal evidence to the Prosecution case, the Prosecution will fail to discharge its burden of proof if the Defence presents evidence that raises a reasonable doubt regarding the Prosecution case.<sup>302</sup> An accused must be acquitted if there is any reasonable explanation for the evidence other than his or her guilt.<sup>303</sup> Refusal to believe or rely upon Defence evidence does not automatically amount to a guilty verdict. The Chamber must still determine whether the evidence it does accept establishes the accused's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>304</sup> Since the accused has no burden to prove anything at a criminal trial, the Chamber need not resolve factual disputes further once it has concluded that the Prosecution has not proven a fact beyond a reasonable doubt. The presumption of innocence does not require the Chamber to determine whether the accused is "innocent" of the fact at issue; it simply forbids the Chamber from convicting the accused based on any allegations that were not proven beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>305</sup>

164. The Chamber must provide reasoning for its judgement,<sup>306</sup> but is not required to "refer to the testimony of every witness or every piece of evidence on the trial record".<sup>307</sup> Indeed, due to the volume of evidence, the Chamber "cannot be expected to refer to all of it".<sup>308</sup> In the present case, the Chamber has evaluated all of the evidence and, where appropriate, will refer specifically to relevant evidence.

2.7.2 Admissibility of Evidence on Pre-1994 Events

165. It is well established that the provisions of the Statute on the temporal jurisdiction of the Tribunal do not preclude the admission of evidence on events prior to 1994, if the Chamber deems such evidence relevant and of probative value and there is no compelling reason to exclude it. For example, a Trial Chamber may validly admit evidence relating to pre-1994 acts and rely on it where such evidence is aimed at: clarifying a given context; establishing by inference the elements (in particular, criminal intent) of criminal conduct occurring in 1994; or demonstrating a deliberate pattern of conduct.<sup>309</sup>

<sup>300</sup> Pursuant to Article 20 (4)(g) of the Statute, an accused is not compelled to testify. In this case, five of the six Accused have chosen to testify. Their decisions to testify do not entail acceptance of a burden to prove their innocence.

166. Notwithstanding the above, the Chamber may only convict an accused for criminal conduct having occurred in 1994. The existence of continuing conduct is no exception to this rule. Even where such conduct commenced before 1994 and continued during that year, a conviction may be based only on that part of such conduct having occurred in 1994.<sup>310</sup>

2.7.3 Witness Credibility

2.7.3.1 General Considerations

167. The Trial Chamber enjoys broad discretion in choosing which witness testimony to prefer, and in assessing the impact on witness credibility of inconsistencies within or between witnesses' testimonies and any prior statements. Minor inconsistencies commonly occur in witness testimony without rendering the testimony unreliable, and it is within the Chamber's discretion to evaluate such inconsistencies and to consider whether the evidence as a whole is credible. It is not unreasonable for the Chamber to accept some, but reject other parts of a witness' testimony.<sup>311</sup>

168. The Chamber also has the discretion to cautiously consider hearsay evidence and to rely on it. The weight and probative value to be afforded to hearsay evidence, however, will usually be less than that accorded to the evidence of a witness who has given it under oath and who has been cross-examined.<sup>312</sup>

169. Evidence of facts outside the testifying witness' own knowledge constitutes hearsay evidence. The Chamber may admit any relevant evidence which it deems to have probative value,<sup>313</sup> hearsay evidence is not per se inadmissible.<sup>314</sup> However, hearsay evidence may be affected by a compounding of errors of perception, memory, narration, sincerity and recall, and thus should be subjected to careful scrutiny before being relied on.<sup>315</sup>

170. Many witnesses testified in closed session or with other procedures designed to protect their identities. The Chamber is mindful of the need for the continued protection of these witnesses. However, in light of the need to provide some details to explain its reasoning, the Chamber has made sure to provide as much information as possible while being careful not to reveal the identities of protected witnesses.<sup>316</sup>

2.7.3.2 Identification of the Accused

171. With respect to the assessment of witness identification, the Chamber must proceed with caution and carefully scrutinise factors in support of the identification, factors that impact negatively on the reliability of the identification, and any corroborating testimony.<sup>317</sup> Specifically, the Chamber will take into account the following factors: prior knowledge of the Accused, the existence of adequate opportunity in which to observe the Accused, reliability of witness testimonies, the possible influence of third parties, the existence of stressful conditions at the time the event took place, the passage of time between the events and the witness' testimony and the general credibility of the witness.<sup>318</sup>

172. In particular, the Chamber must always, in the interests of justice, proceed with extreme caution when assessing a witness' identification of the accused made under difficult circumstances. While the Chamber is not obliged to refer to every piece of evidence on the trial record in its judgement, where a finding of guilt is made on the basis of identification evidence given by a witness under difficult circumstances, the Chamber must rigorously implement its duty to provide a "reasoned opinion". In particular, a reasoned opinion must carefully articulate the factors relied upon in support of the identification of the accused and adequately address any significant factors impacting negatively on the reliability of the identification evidence.<sup>319</sup>

173. No probative weight will be assigned to an identification given for the first time by a witness while testifying, who identifies the accused while he is standing in the dock. Because all of the circumstances of a trial necessarily lead such a witness to identify the person on trial (or, where more than one person is on trial, the particular person on trial who most closely resembles the man who committed the offence charged), no positive probative weight will be given by the Chamber to these "in court" identifications.<sup>320</sup>

2.7.3.3 Uncorroborated Testimony

174. There is no requirement that convictions be made only on evidence of two or more witnesses. The Chamber may rule on the basis of a single testimony if, in its opinion, that testimony is relevant and credible.<sup>321</sup> Corroboration is simply one of many potential factors in the Chamber's assessment of a witness' credibility. If the Chamber finds a witness credible, that witness' testimony may be accepted even if not corroborated. Similarly, even if the Chamber finds that a witness' testimony is inconsistent or otherwise problematic enough to warrant its rejection, it might choose to accept the evidence nonetheless because it is corroborated by other evidence.<sup>322</sup>

175. The ability of the Chamber to rule on the basis of testimonies and other evidence is not bound by any rule of corroboration, but rather on the Chamber's own assessment of the probative value of the evidence before it. The Chamber may freely assess the relevance and credibility of all evidence presented to it. The Chamber notes that this freedom to assess evidence extends even to those testimonies which are corroborated: the corroboration of testimonies, even by many witnesses, does not establish absolutely the credibility of those testimonies.<sup>323</sup>

176. When the evidence of only one witness is available in relation to a certain material fact, the Chamber may rely on such evidence even in the absence of corroboration, but should carefully scrutinise all uncorroborated evidence before making any findings on the basis of such evidence.<sup>324</sup> The Chamber recalls that in cases of sexual assault, pursuant to Rule 96 (i) of the Rules, the Chamber shall not require corroboration of the victim's evidence.

2.7.3.4 Prior Statements

177. Rule 90 (A) of the Rules provides that witnesses shall be heard by the Chamber. Prior out-of-court witness statements are normally relevant only as necessary for the Trial Chamber to assess credibility. While there is no absolute prohibition on accepting prior statements for the truth of their contents, the Appeals Chamber has stated that Tribunal jurisprudence discourages this practice.<sup>325</sup>

178. Moreover, the Chamber has discretion to determine whether alleged inconsistencies between prior statements and later testimony render the testimony unreliable,<sup>326</sup> and the Chamber may accept parts of a witness' testimony while rejecting other parts.<sup>327</sup> Where testimony lacks precision or is inconsistent about matters such as the exact date, time or sequence of events, the lack of precision does not necessarily discredit the evidence provided that the discrepancies relate to matters peripheral to the charges in the indictments.<sup>328</sup> For example, some inconsistencies in testimony may be caused by cultural factors and interpretation issues.<sup>329</sup> Similarly, it may be difficult to recall particular dates with respect to events that are repetitive or continuous.<sup>330</sup>

179. Many witnesses lived through particularly traumatic events and the Chamber recognises that the emotional and psychological reactions that may be provoked by reliving those events may have impaired the ability of some witnesses to clearly and coherently articulate their stories.<sup>331</sup> Moreover, where a significant period of time has elapsed between the acts charged in the indictments and the trial, it is not always reasonable to expect the witness to recall every detail with precision.<sup>332</sup>

180. Prior consistent statements, however, cannot be used to bolster a witness' credibility, except to rebut a charge of recent fabrication of testimony. The fact that a witness testifies in a manner consistent with an earlier statement does not establish that the witness was truthful on either occasion; after all, an unlikely or untrustworthy story is not made more likely or more trustworthy simply by rote repetition.<sup>333</sup>

181. Moreover, there is a general, though not absolute, preference for live testimony before the Tribunal.<sup>334</sup> This is consistent with Rule 90 (A) of the Rules which states in part that witnesses shall, in principle, be heard directly. The Chamber has the responsibility to resolve any inconsistencies that may arise within and/or among witnesses' testimonies, and it is within the discretion of the Chamber to evaluate any inconsistencies, to consider whether the evidence taken as a whole is reliable and credible and to accept or reject the "fundamental features" of the evidence. It may do this by relying on live testimony or documentary evidence.<sup>335</sup>

2.7.3.5 Detained Witnesses and Accomplice Testimony

182. Some of the witnesses for both the Prosecution and Defence were transferred from detention in Rwanda to testify. The Chamber recognises that even if a detained witness may have an incentive to perjure himself to gain leniency from the Rwandan authorities this "is not sufficient, by itself, to establish that the suspect did in fact lie."<sup>336</sup> However, accomplices may be motivated to shift blame by implicating others. More specifically, "a witness who faces criminal charges that have not yet come to trial 'may have real or perceived gains to be made by incriminating accused persons' and may be tempted or encouraged to do so falsely".<sup>337</sup> This risk, when properly raised and substantiated, should be considered by the Trial Chamber. Thus, the evidence of all detained witnesses must be treated with appropriate caution by the Chamber to ensure a fair trial and to avoid prejudice to the accused.<sup>338</sup> Such evidence in the present case has similarly been treated with appropriate caution, considering the "totality of the circumstances" of the testimony.<sup>339</sup>

183. It is well established that nothing prohibits the Chamber from relying on evidence given by a convicted person, including evidence of a partner in crime of the person being tried before the Tribunal. With regard to accomplice testimony, however, the Chamber is mindful that accomplice testimony should be treated with additional caution, as an accomplice may have incentives to craft his testimony to affect his own case or to ensure a lighter sentence, or even falsely implicate another accused to gain an advantage.<sup>340</sup> However, even uncorroborated accomplice testimony may be relied upon if the Chamber is convinced the witness is truthful and reliable. Other evidence which supports accomplice testimony will be relevant to bolster that testimony.<sup>341</sup> The Chamber, thus, is mindful of its obligation to explain why it accepts the evidence of witnesses who may have had motives or incentives to implicate the accused.<sup>342</sup>

2.7.3.6 Alibi Evidence and Burden of Proof

184. The rules governing notice of alibi are set forth above ().

185. In raising an alibi, the Accused not only denies that he committed the crimes for which he is charged but also asserts that he was elsewhere than at the scene of these crimes when they were committed. The onus is on the Prosecution to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the guilt of the Accused. In establishing its case, when an alibi defence is introduced, the Prosecution must prove, beyond any reasonable doubt, that the accused was present and committed the crimes for which he is charged and thereby discredit the alibi defence. The alibi defence does not carry a separate burden of proof. If the defence is reasonably possibly true, it must be successful.<sup>343</sup> In short, the Chamber may reject an alibi only if the Prosecution establishes “beyond a reasonable doubt that, despite the alibi, the facts alleged are nevertheless true.”<sup>344</sup>

186. One of the most recent pronouncements regarding the legal standards governing the Chamber’s consideration of alibi evidence was set forth by the Appeals Chamber in the Zigiranyirazo Appeals Judgement. There, the Appeals Chamber reiterated that a defence of alibi does not shift the burden of proof to the accused. Rather, the finder of fact considers whether the alibi defence entailed the presentation of evidence “likely to raise a reasonable doubt in the Prosecution case,” and “[i]f the alibi is reasonably possibly true, it must be accepted.”<sup>345</sup> To sustain a conviction, the Prosecution must demonstrate that, regardless of the alibi, the facts as alleged are true beyond a reasonable doubt, either by demonstrating that the alibi evidence offered does not negate the presence of the accused at the critical place and at the critical time, or that the alibi evidence is not credible.<sup>346</sup>

187. However, once the Chamber finds, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the alibi witnesses were not credible, it is not required to make findings beyond a reasonable doubt regarding the reasons why witnesses might offer incredible and inconsistent accounts of events.<sup>347</sup>

2.7.3.7 Issues in Evaluating Testimony Relating to Joint Trial

188. Because this is a joint trial, the Chamber has evaluated the charges against each of the Accused in light of all of the evidence put forth by the Prosecution and each of the defendants, not just the evidence of the Prosecution and each particular defendant. Additionally, the Chamber has taken all necessary measures to ensure that each of the Accused is afforded the same rights to which that Accused would have been entitled had they been tried alone.<sup>348</sup> The Chamber has been attentive to the possibility of prejudice arising from different Accused persons' presentations of their cases.

189. When an accused in a joint trial testifies before other co-accused present their cases, the Chamber will take this fact into consideration when assessing the weight of testimony of each accused relative to evidence subsequently presented, in recognition of the fact that the accused testified without the benefit of knowing what subsequent witnesses would say about their evidence beyond the indication provided in those witnesses' will-say statements.<sup>349</sup>

2.7.3.8 Testimony by the Accused

190. While there is a fundamental difference between being an accused, who might testify if he or she so chooses, and a witness, this does not imply that the rules applied to assess the testimony of an accused are different from those applied with respect to the testimony of an ordinary witness. The Chamber shall "decide which witness's testimony to prefer", without necessarily articulating every step of its reasoning in reaching this decision.<sup>350</sup> In doing so, as for any witness, the Chamber is required to determine the overall credibility of an accused testifying at his or her own trial, and then assess the probative value of the accused's evidence in the context of the totality of the evidence.<sup>351</sup>

191. The Chamber is cognisant of the rule that in joint trials, each accused is entitled to the same rights as he or she would be in an individual trial.<sup>352</sup> In this regard, the Chamber has been attentive to the risk that one Accused's evidence will prejudice another Accused, and will diligently assure that the guarantees of Rule 82 (A) are respected.

2.7.4 Expert Witnesses

2.7.4.1 General Challenges to Expert Evidence by the Defence

192. The Ntahobali Defence submits that testimony by Prosecution expert witnesses on the basis of unidentified and uncorroborated sources may not be relied on to support the charges proffered against them, that opinion testimony by expert witnesses has no probative value since it is not based on the evidence adduced by the Parties, and that such testimony is not helpful in providing context for the allegations in the Indictment, since it omits major events.<sup>353</sup> Other Defence teams further, and more specifically, aver that Prosecution Expert Witnesses Des Forges, Guichaoua and Ntakirutimana may have been partial, and were testifying outside their areas of expertise, and challenge the reliability of Expert Witness Guichaoua's sources.<sup>354</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence further challenges the experts' qualifications, and asserts that the inability to cross-examine the confidential sources of Expert Witnesses Des Forges and Guichaoua constituted a violation of the Accused's rights.<sup>355</sup> The Defence notes that the lack of clear sourcing might render it difficult for the Chamber to evaluate the reliability and reasonableness of the experts' conclusions.<sup>356</sup>

193. The Prosecution maintains, by contrast, that each expert witness was cross-examined for several days, giving the Defence adequate opportunity to explore the sources of their testimony. The Prosecution further argues that the experts provided extensively researched and annotated reports, and that their testimonies were within their respective fields of expertise.<sup>357</sup>

194. With regards to qualifying, the Chamber certified the following witnesses as experts: Prosecution Witness Alison des Forges, as an expert in history and the human rights situation in Rwanda up to and including the events of 1994,<sup>358</sup> Prosecution Witness André Guichaoua, as an expert in political science,<sup>359</sup> Prosecution Witness Evariste Ntakirutimana, as an expert in social linguistic discourse analysis, lexicology, semantics, language and planning;<sup>360</sup> Prosecution Witness Antipas Nyanjwa, as an expert in handwriting analysis;<sup>361</sup> Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Eugène Shimamungu, as an expert in the Kinyarwanda language and in the analysis of political discourse,<sup>362</sup> and Kanyabashi Defence Witness Filip Reyntjens as an expert in history, law and governance in Rwanda.<sup>363</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Defence Witness Edmond Babin was denied certification as an expert in crime scene analysis.<sup>364</sup>

195. The Chamber has closely considered the qualifications of each of the foregoing witnesses, including their relevant experience and methods of inquiry, and notes the Defence had adequate opportunity to voir dire the same witnesses. It was based upon all of these elements that the Chamber concluded that each of these witnesses met the threshold of expertise necessary to testify as an expert in this case. It is for the Chamber to decide whether, on the basis of the evidence presented by the parties, the person proposed can be admitted as an expert witness.<sup>365</sup> The Chamber will not revisit the issue of whether a particular witness qualified as an expert in their field.

2.7.4.2 Applicable Law on Consideration of Expert Evidence

196. Specific challenges to the testimony of expert witnesses are addressed in the relevant section of the factual findings applying the legal principles set forth below. Just as for any other evidence presented, it is for the Chamber to assess the reliability and probative value of the expert report and testimony.<sup>366</sup> When assessing the probative value of the evidence adduced by these experts the Chamber has carefully considered the professional competence of each of the experts and the methods used by the experts.<sup>367</sup>

197. The evidence of an expert witness is meant to provide specialised knowledge – be it a skill or knowledge acquired through training – that may assist the fact-finder to understand the evidence presented. Expert witnesses are ordinarily afforded significant latitude to offer opinions within their expertise; their views need not be based upon first-hand knowledge or experience. Indeed, in general, the expert witness lacks personal familiarity with the particular case, but instead offers a view based on his or her specialised knowledge regarding a technical, scientific, or otherwise discrete set of ideas or concepts that is expected to lie outside the lay person’s ken.<sup>368</sup>

198. The Chamber is mindful that “while the report and testimony of an expert witness may be based on facts narrated by ordinary witnesses or facts from other evidence, an expert witness cannot, in principle, testify himself or herself on the acts and conduct of accused persons without having been called to testify also as a factual witness and without his or her statement having been disclosed in accordance with the applicable rules concerning factual witnesses.” Though an expert “may testify on certain facts relating to his or her area of expertise,” an expert witness’ function is not “to testify on disputed facts as would ordinary witnesses”, but only “to assist the Trial Chamber in its assessment of the evidence.”<sup>369</sup>

199. The party alleging bias on the part of an expert witness may demonstrate such bias through cross-examination, by calling its own expert witnesses or by means of an expert opinion in reply. Just as for any other evidence presented, it is for the Trial Chamber to assess the reliability and probative value of the expert report and testimony.<sup>370</sup>

2.7.5 Witnesses Under Investigation

200. The Chamber notes that, since their testimony in the present case, Prosecution Witnesses QA, QY and SJ have become the subject of on-going investigations before the Tribunal for false testimony and contempt of court.<sup>371</sup> In November 2008, the Chamber ordered an investigation into allegations that Witness QA gave false testimony in the present case in March 2004 and October 2008, and before the Canadian Rogatory Commission in the Munyaneza case in May 2008. The Chamber also ordered an investigation into Witness QA’s allegations of intimidation and bribery with respect to these three appearances.<sup>372</sup>

201. In December 2008, the Chamber ordered the recall of Witnesses QY and SJ, to be cross-examined by Ntahobali and any other Defence on the following specific issues: whether Witness QY knew Witnesses SJ, TK and QBQ; whether Witness SJ knew Witnesses TK and QJ; and whether Witnesses QY and SJ lied in their previous testimonies before the Tribunal regarding this knowledge and, if so, about the circumstances surrounding such lies.<sup>373</sup>

202. Subsequently, the Chamber directed the Registrar to appoint an independent Amicus Curiae to investigate the false testimony of Witness QA and the related allegations of contempt, the allegations of false testimony by Witnesses QY and SJ, and the allegations of coercion with respect to certain appearances by these witnesses to determine whether there are sufficient grounds for instigating formal proceedings for false testimony and contempt.<sup>374</sup>

203. With respect to these allegations, and without prejudice to any such proceedings which may come before the Tribunal, the Chamber will treat these witnesses' testimony with added caution.

2.8 Participation of the Chief of Chambers

204. On reviewing the procedural history of the case, the Chamber became aware in July 2009 that the then-Chief of the Chambers Support Section at the ICTR, Mr. Chile Eboe-Osuji, participated in this case as an employee of the Office of the Prosecutor in 1998 and 1999. Mr. Eboe-Osuji is listed as counsel for the Prosecution on six decisions.<sup>375</sup> As an immediate precautionary measure, and before Mr. Eboe-Osuji had participated in any deliberations relating to the guilt or innocence of any of the various Accused, the Chamber determined he would preliminarily not be involved in the judgement drafting process. After reviewing relevant case law, the Chamber concluded that it is unclear whether Mr. Eboe-Osuji's participation would raise a conflict of interest which would impact on the fair trial rights of the various Accused.<sup>376</sup> However, out of an abundance of caution and intent on preserving both justice and the appearance of justice, the Chamber determined in November 2009 that Mr. Eboe-Osuji's involvement from the judgement drafting process would be excluded. The Chamber notes that it has considered this issue proprio motu.

The Chamber observed that while Witness QA testified on recall that he lied when he first appeared before the Chamber, the question of whether he actually lied on recall or when he first appeared, and the identity of any people who may have been involved is the subject of an ongoing investigation; furthermore, the Chamber noted that it considered that the probative value of all the evidence tendered is yet to be determined: Nyiramasuhuko et al., Decision on Ntahobali's Motion for an Investigation into False Testimony and Kanyabashi's Motion for an Investigation into Contempt of Court Relative to Prosecution Witnesses QY and SJ (TC), 19 March 2009.

2.9 Judicial Notice

205. Rule 94 of the Rules provides that the Trial Chamber shall not require proof of facts of common knowledge, but shall take judicial notice thereof. Any fact that cannot reasonably be disputed must be judicially noticed pursuant to the mandatory language of Rule 94 (A) of the Rules; there is no exception for facts that may carry a legal meaning or that may be an element of an offence.<sup>377</sup> The judicial notice of facts, however, does not shift the burden of proof, which remains with the Prosecution.<sup>378</sup>

206. Because judicial notice is mandatory, the Chamber shall take notice of facts that the Appeals Chamber has confirmed are indisputable.<sup>379</sup> The following have been so deemed facts of common knowledge, not subject to reasonable dispute, and therefore must be judicially noticed under Rule 94 (A) of the Rules:

Widespread or systematic attacks against a civilian population based on Tutsi ethnic identification occurred in Rwanda between April and July 1994;<sup>380</sup>

During the attacks, some Rwandan citizens killed or caused serious bodily or mental harm to persons perceived to be Tutsis and as a result of the attacks, there were a large number of deaths of persons of Tutsi ethnic identity;<sup>381</sup>

That “[b]etween 6 April 1994 and 17 July 1994, citizens native to Rwanda were identified according to the following ethnic classifications: Tutsi, Hutu and Twa”,<sup>386</sup> and

That “[o]n 6 April 1994, the President of the Republic of Rwanda, Juvénal Habyarimana, was killed when his plane was shot down on its approach to Kigali airport”.<sup>387</sup>

2.10 Structure of the Judgement

209. This Judgement is divided into seven parts.

210. Part I contains an Introduction, which includes an overview of the case, the Tribunal's jurisdiction, a presentation of each Accused and a brief procedural history.

211. Part II contains this Preliminary Issues section addressing matters relating to the Indictments, and concludes with a summary of the evidentiary principles the Chamber used in deciding the case.

212. Part III contains the Chamber's factual findings, starting first with the general allegations about the events in Butare and in Rwanda in 1994 and then making factual findings about each of the events contained in the Indictments. Because many factual allegations are common to all four Indictments, the Chamber has decided to group the factual allegations chronologically and thematically instead of considering them Indictment by Indictment, to avoid unnecessary repetition. Nevertheless, the Chamber has remained mindful to treat each Accused individually when making its factual findings.

213. Part IV addresses the law applicable to the counts contained in the Indictments and proceeds to make legal findings with respect to each of the counts against each of the Accused.

214. Part V provides the Chamber's ultimate findings as to the responsibility of each of the Accused based on the factual findings contained in Part III and the legal findings contained in Part IV.

215. Part VI discusses the law applicable to sentencing, makes findings as to aggravating and mitigating factors, and concludes with sentences, when applicable, for each of the Accused.

216. Part VII contains Annexes, including the four Indictments in the case, a comprehensive procedural history, a list of defined terms and a list of cited jurisprudence.

CHAPTER III: FACTUAL FINDINGS

3.1 Background of the 1994 Events in Rwanda

217. In order to understand the events alleged and the evidence, the Chamber deems it helpful to summarise the historical context of the events of 1994. In this section the Chamber will briefly discuss the Rwandan administrative structure, the geographic and population characteristics of Butare préfecture, and some of the key historical events leading up to the relevant factual findings of the Judgement.

218. The Chamber bases its findings in this section on uncontested facts that are generally not linked to counts in the Indictments.

219. Before 6 April 1994, the population of Rwanda was categorised according to the following ethnic classifications: Hutu, Tutsi and Twa. Those living in Rwanda between 6 April 1994 and 17 July 1994 continued to be identified according to this taxonomy.<sup>390</sup>

3.1.1 The Rwandan Administrative Structure

220. Rwanda was administratively divided into provinces known as préfectures. Préfectures were subdivided into communes, which were further subdivided into secteurs, which were in turn subdivided into cellules. In 1994, Rwanda was comprised of 11 préfectures: Butare, Byumba, Cyangugu, Gikongoro, Gisenyi, Gitarama, Kibungo, Kibuye, Kigali-Ville, Kigali-Rural and Ruhengeri.<sup>391</sup>

221. The Rwandan préfecture administration was organised with the préfet as the focal authority and the main representative of the Government at the préfecture level, some of whom had specific duties across the préfecture, while others were responsible for specific geographic areas, such as particular communes. Below the préfet were sous-préfets. Underneath the sous-préfets were the bourgmestres, who were each in charge of a commune. Préfets, sous-préfets and bourgmestres were appointed by the national Government. At the secteur level, conseillers were popularly elected. Below the conseillers were the responsables de cellule.<sup>392</sup>

222. The powers of the préfet were governed by Legislative Decree No. 10/75 of 11 March 1975, which was in force on 6 April 1994.<sup>393</sup> According to Article 4 of the decree, préfets were appointed and dismissed by order of the President of the Republic, on the recommendation of the Minister of the Interior and after deliberation by the Cabinet.<sup>394</sup> Article 8 of the decree provided that préfets had the responsibility to “[e]nsure peace, public order and the security of persons and property.” Pursuant to Article 8 (4), préfets were obliged to assist and supervise the commune authorities.<sup>395</sup> Préfets were required to act as intermediaries between the national Government and the local population, relaying instructions from central authorities to the general public, as well as informing the Government of any events or information of interest from the grass-roots level.<sup>396</sup> Préfets were granted certain powers. For example, Article 9 of the decree stated, “[i]n the accomplishment of his mission, the Préfet shall be able to draw on the State services within the préfecture.”<sup>397</sup> Article 10 provided that préfets may, in conformity with laws and regulations in force, establish administrative regulations and impose penalties of up to 30 days imprisonment and/or a fine of 2,000 francs.<sup>398</sup> Under Article 11, préfets could request the intervention of the Armed Forces, particularly the gendarmerie, to establish public order.<sup>399</sup>

Pursuant to the communal law of 23 November 1963,<sup>400</sup> as amended by the Legislative Decree of 26 September 1974, bourgmestres were appointed by the President of the Republic on the proposal of the Minister of the Interior.<sup>401</sup> This law was in force on 6 April 1994.<sup>402</sup> According to Article 56 of this law, bourgmestres were the representatives of the central authority in the commune and the personification of the commune authority.<sup>403</sup> While Article 104 provided that bourgmestres had sole authority over the commune police, only préfets could requisition the commune police.<sup>404</sup> Articles 46 to 50 specified préfets’ disciplinary powers vis-à-vis bourgmestres and other listed authorities, and the circumstances under which such sanctions were authorised.<sup>405</sup> According to these Articles, while préfets could neither suspend nor dismiss a bourgmestre permanently, they could take measures to suspend him temporarily.<sup>406</sup> Specifically, if a préfet proposed to the Minister of the Interior that a bourgmestre be suspended or dismissed, that préfet could suspend the bourgmestre, pending a decision from the Ministry.<sup>407</sup>

3.1.2 Butare Préfecture

224. Butare préfecture is located in the south of Rwanda and borders Gitarama préfecture to the north, Gikongoro préfecture in the west, Kigali préfecture to the northeast and the country of Burundi in the east and south.<sup>408</sup>

225. During the events referred to in the Indictments, Butare préfecture was divided into 20 communes: Nyakizu, Kigembe, Gishamvu, Ngoma, Runyinya, Maraba, Ruhashya, Mbazi, Butare préfecture was one of the most populated préfectures in Rwanda, with approximately 400 inhabitants per square kilometre.<sup>410</sup> It was also one of the préfectures most heavily populated by Tutsis; 25 percent of the Tutsi population in Rwanda lived in Butare.<sup>411</sup> In the two most Tutsi-populated communes of Butare, Runyinya and Muganza, Tutsis comprised 40 to 45 percent of the total population.<sup>412</sup>

3.1.3 Political System Before October 1990

227. Towards the end of the 19th century, Germany colonised Rwanda; years later the Kingdom of Belgium took over until Rwanda became independent.<sup>413</sup>

228. In 1959, inter-ethnic turmoil broke out, compelling a large contingent of Tutsis living in Rwanda to flee the country.<sup>414</sup> Some of those fleeing Tutsis organised into military groups later known as the RPF which began conducting raids into Rwanda from the early 1960s through 1967.<sup>415</sup> There were also some Hutus among the RPF leadership.<sup>416</sup>

229. On 1 July 1962, Rwanda became independent; the first President of the Republic was Dominique Mbonyumutwa, a Hutu, who was replaced by Grégoire Kayibanda, a Hutu, that same year.<sup>417</sup>

230. On 5 July 1973, General Juvénal Habyarimana, a Hutu, overthrew Grégoire Kayibanda following a coup d'état which marked the end of the first Republic.<sup>418</sup> In July 1975, Juvénal Habyarimana officially became President of the Republic.<sup>419</sup> From 1975 until the adoption of a new constitution on 10 June 1991, the MRND party founded by Habyarimana was the only political party in Rwanda.<sup>420</sup>

3.1.4 The RPF Attack of 1 October 1990

231. On 1 October 1990, the RPF launched an attack on Rwanda from Uganda.<sup>421</sup> After the attack, the Government arrested approximately 8,000 people nationwide claiming they were accomplices of the RPF. Nationally, the majority of those arrested were Tutsis.<sup>422</sup> In Butare, some political figures were among those arrested, including Frédéric Nzamurambaho and

3.1.5 The Multi-Party Era in Rwanda

232. A new constitution was adopted on 10 June 1991, which created a multi-party system and provided for the creation of the Transitional Government. New political parties were created, including the MDR, PSD, PL, PDC and the CDR.<sup>425</sup>

233. On 7 April 1992, the MRND, MDR, PSD, PDC and PL signed a protocol agreement, which set forth the power-sharing arrangement that formed the heart of the Transitional Government.<sup>426</sup> On 16 April 1992, the multi-party Transitional Government, headed by Dismas Nsenyiremye of the MDR, was established.<sup>427</sup> Article 3 of the protocol provided for the organisation of commune, legislative and presidential elections to be held within 12 months of the creation of the Transitional Government.<sup>428</sup>

234. On 3 June 1992, the MDR, PL and PSD met representatives of the RPF in Brussels, Belgium, to discuss how to resolve the ongoing hostilities.<sup>429</sup> The MRND did not participate in these discussions.<sup>430</sup> At the end of the meeting, the participants issued a document entitled “Joint Communiqué between the Democratic Forces for Change and the RPF”, which declared its signatories’ agreement to a ceasefire.<sup>431</sup> Nevertheless, on the following night of 4-5 June 1992, the RPF launched an attack on Byumba préfecture, displacing approximately 350,000 people.<sup>432</sup>

235. On 8 February 1993, the RPF launched an attack in the north of Rwanda, notably in Byumba, Kigali, Ruhengeri and Kibungo préfectures.<sup>433</sup> Hundreds of thousands of people were displaced, increasing the total number of displaced persons to 1,000,000.<sup>434</sup>

236. On 13 April 1993, the five parties constituting the Transitional Government signed a second protocol, extending the Transitional Government’s mandate by three months since elections had not been conducted within 12 months of the Government’s creation as prescribed by the original protocol of 7 April 1992.<sup>435</sup> Article 2 of the second protocol provided that the main task of the Government during its extended term was to negotiate a peace deal and establish the Broad-Based Transitional Government.<sup>436</sup>

237. On 16 July 1993, the five governing parties signed a third protocol further extending the Transitional Government's mandate until the Broad-Based Transitional Government took office.<sup>437</sup> After this new protocol was signed, Dismas Nsengiyaremye was dismissed as Prime Minister and replaced by Agathe Uwilingiyimana, who was sworn in on 18 July 1993.<sup>438</sup>

3.1.6 The Arusha Accords

238. On 3 August 1993, President Habyarimana and Colonel Alexis Kanyarengwe, chairman of the RPF, signed the Arusha Accords, which comprised six military and political protocol agreements.<sup>439</sup>

239. The political protocol envisaged three transitional institutions: the Transitional National Assembly, the Broad-Based Transitional Government and the Presidency of the Republic.<sup>440</sup> The number of Government ministerial positions held by the MRND was to be limited to five, plus the Presidency, with the remaining posts to be shared as follows: RPF, five; MDR, four (including the Prime Minister); PSD, three; PL, three; and the PDC, one.<sup>441</sup>

240. On 5 January 1994, Juvénal Habyarimana was sworn in as President in conformity with the Arusha Accords. In the three months that followed, attempts to set up the Broad-Based Transitional Government and the Transitional National Assembly failed.<sup>442</sup>

3.1.7 The Murder of Félicien Gatabazi and Martin Bucyana

241. On 22 February 1994, Félicien Gatabazi, Secretary-General of the PSD, was murdered in Kigali.<sup>443</sup> Gatabazi had been very popular in Butare, having co-founded the PSD with other natives of Butare préfecture.<sup>444</sup>

3.1.8 President Habyarimana's Death and Its Immediate Consequences

243. On 6 April 1994, the plane carrying President Habyarimana and other passengers was shot down on its approach to Kigali airport.<sup>446</sup> On 7 April 1994, a communiqué from the Minister of Defence was broadcast on the radio asking people to remain at home until further notice.<sup>447</sup> On 7 April 1994, several key political figures were murdered in Kigali, including: Prime Minister Agathe Uwilingiyimana; Kavaruganda, the president of the Rwandan Constitutional Court; Frédéric Nzamurambaho, the president of the PSD; and Gafaranga and Ngango, vice-presidents of the PSD.<sup>448</sup> The search for and killing of people, mostly Tutsis, started on 7 April 1994 and proceeded to spread throughout the country.<sup>449</sup>

3.1.9 The Interim Government

244. The Interim Government was created on 8 April 1994, following the death of President Habyarimana and Prime Minister Uwilingiyimana. Doctor Théodore Sindikubwabo, Speaker of the Rwandan Parliament, was appointed President of the Republic on the basis of the 1991 constitution.<sup>450</sup> The same day, President Sindikubwabo appointed Jean Kambanda from the MDR to the post of Prime Minister.<sup>451</sup> Both President Sindikubwabo and Prime Minister Kambanda hailed from Butare.<sup>452</sup> The Interim Government included Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, another native of Butare, as Minister of Family and Women's Development.<sup>453</sup>

245. The objectives of the Interim Government were set out in a protocol agreement, signed on 8 April 1994 by representatives of the MRND, MDR, PSD, PDC and PL, which together comprised this Interim Government.<sup>454</sup> On 9 April 1994, the members of the Interim Government were sworn-in at the Hôtel des Diplomates in Kigali.<sup>455</sup>

3.2 Allegation of Fabrication of Evidence

3.2.1 Introduction

246. The Kanyabashi, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana Defence contend that several Prosecution witnesses were improperly influenced in their testimony by the Ibuka association. Evidence led in this regard was aimed at discrediting the testimony of Prosecution witnesses.

247. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that 14 Prosecution witnesses were members of the Ibuka association, and were either improperly influenced to give false testimony against Kanyabashi or they encouraged others to testify falsely against Kanyabashi.<sup>456</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-21-T in submitting that Prosecution Witnesses RL, RO, SS, SU TK, QA, QAM, QBM, QC, QG, QI, QJ, QP and QY attended meetings of the Ibuka association where participants discussed falsification of testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>457</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence further relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-18-O in submitting that Prosecution Witnesses QI and RL were Ibuka members who chaired meetings regarding false accusations against Kanyabashi.<sup>458</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-13-D in submitting that Prosecution Witnesses SU and FAE were influential Ibuka members who falsely accused many people they did not know.<sup>459</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on Prosecution Witness QA's testimony that three influential Ibuka members met with him on several occasions and encouraged him to lie against Kanyabashi, which he did.<sup>460</sup>

248. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence relies on the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WNMN in submitting that Prosecution Witness FAE is a militant member of the Association of Genocide Survivors, which is run by Ibuka and known for fabricating testimony against accused at the ICTR.<sup>461</sup> Additionally, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ testified that Prosecution Witness QBP is an Ibuka member who informed him that she was accusing people in order to acquire their property.<sup>462</sup>

249. The Nsabimana Defence relies on the testimony of Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-59, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-21-T, D-2-18-O and D-13-D and Prosecution Witness QA in submitting that numerous Prosecution witnesses including, Witnesses SS, SU, TK, QAM, QBQ, QG, QI, TK, QJ, QP and QY, are not credible, because they are involved in the

Ibuka association, which is well known for improperly influencing witnesses.<sup>463</sup> The Nsabimana Defence also relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens in support of its allegations that particular Prosecution witnesses were coached before testifying at the ICTR.<sup>464</sup>

250. The Kanyabashi Defence further submits that four Prosecution witnesses were members of a Rwandan prison group, whose mission was to fabricate evidence against Kanyabashi.<sup>465</sup> Specifically, the Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-D in submitting that Prosecution Witnesses FAC, FAM, QCB and QAH belonged to a pressure group in prison whose mission was to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>466</sup> In support of this submission, the Kanyabashi Defence relied on the evidence of Prosecution Expert Witnesses Alison Des Forges and André Guichaoua and Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens.<sup>467</sup> Lastly, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-1-4-O was also pressured to testify against Kanyabashi.<sup>468</sup>

251. Additional evidence relating to alleged fabrication of evidence was led through Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-P, Nteziryayo Defence Witnesses AND-30, AND-41 and AND-59, Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano and Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WNMN.

252. The Prosecution, relying on the Zigiranyirazo Trial Judgement, submits that membership in Ibuka alone does not give rise to any negative inferences regarding the credibility of witnesses, and the Defence did not lead any evidence of actual interference with a witness.<sup>469</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-21-T

253. Witness D-2-21-T, a Hutu restaurant employee in Ngoma commune in 1994,<sup>470</sup> testified that she was a member of the Ibuka association since its inception in 1995, and had attended various Ibuka meetings.<sup>471</sup> Survivors of the genocide came together to meet informally as of August 1994, although the association did not have a name at first.<sup>472</sup> It was officially named

Ibuka in 1995, which means “remember” in Kinyarwanda.<sup>473</sup> Any survivor of the genocide was eligible for membership.<sup>474</sup>

254. Although Hutu, Witness D-2-21-T was eligible to join Ibuka because she was also a victim. She was married to a Tutsi, so her children were Tutsis. Many attacks were lodged against her family and assailants hunted her husband and children. Witness D-2-21-T’s mother-in-law and brothers-in-law were killed during the genocide; all her in-laws died, but for her husband’s sister. Her husband is also an Ibuka member, who sustained injuries during the genocide. He testified in several trials in Rwanda as a Prosecution witness.<sup>475</sup>

255. Witness D-2-21-T testified that the Ibuka association still existed. Members hold meetings during which they address issues facing survivors of the genocide, including housing and educational assistance for survivors’ families. They also testify against people who committed crimes against them during the genocide, and this includes giving false testimony.<sup>476</sup>

256. She admitted that it was possible Ibuka did not exist in Butare in 1995 but that another association known as the Association for Survivors of the Genocide (Association des Rescapés du Génocide) did, although she had thought they were the same thing. She did not know whether Ibuka had an office in Butare in 1995. When she joined Ibuka she received a health-care card from FARG, but did not know what FARG stood for.<sup>477</sup>

257. Witness D-2-21-T stated that at three meetings of the association, in June and December 1995, and in April 1997, members were encouraged to give false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>478</sup> In 1994, Rose Burizhiza, invited her to the first meeting.<sup>479</sup>

258. Witness D-2-21-T testified that the first meeting was held after the arrest of Kanyabashi.<sup>480</sup> This meeting took place in June 1995 at the University Hospital in Butare town.<sup>481</sup> Two persons by the same name as Prosecution Witnesses QC and RO chaired the meeting.<sup>482</sup> Between 15 and 30 people attended the meeting,<sup>483</sup> including Martin Uwariraye, Mr. Mubera,<sup>484</sup> Monique Ahenazaho,<sup>485</sup> Veredienne Mukansoro<sup>486</sup> and individuals whose names match those of Prosecution Witnesses QA,<sup>487</sup> QAM,<sup>488</sup> QP,<sup>489</sup> QG,<sup>490</sup> QI,<sup>491</sup> QY,<sup>492</sup>

260. A second meeting was held around the beginning of December 1995 at the Multipurpose Hall in Butare town.<sup>502</sup> The same people attended as the previous meeting.<sup>503</sup> During this second meeting, Kayitare read out false accusations that were to be levied against Kanyabashi.<sup>504</sup> Participants were told that they would be called as Prosecution witnesses against Kanyabashi,<sup>505</sup> and to testify falsely.<sup>506</sup> Thereafter, sheets of paper containing accusations to be brought against Kanyabashi were distributed to some participants, including persons whose names match those of Prosecution Witnesses QA, RL, QAM, QP, QJ, TK, QI, QG, QY, SS and SU.<sup>507</sup>

261. Witness D-2-21-T testified that those who received papers at the meeting stood before the audience, read out what was written on the sheets and tried to memorise the contents.<sup>508</sup>

262. During this meeting, a person whose full name matched that of Witness QA read out from his sheet of paper that he had seen Kanyabashi have the former conseiller of Ngoma secteur killed, and that Kanyabashi incited people to commit killings at Ngoma Church.<sup>509</sup>

263. A 15-year-old participant from Matyazo, whose first name matches that of Witness RL, read out that he had seen Kanyabashi incite people to killing in Ngoma, that Kanyabashi was with soldiers, policemen and Interahamwe in Ngoma, and he incited people to kill at the Matyazo health centre.<sup>510</sup>

264. A person whose full name matched that of Witness QAM<sup>511</sup> read aloud that Kanyabashi incited killings at Kabakobwa, he incited members of the public to kill via megaphone, and said, “assemble the Tutsi who are at Kabakobwa, since before burning the weeds, you have to first gather them.”<sup>512</sup> Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s age in 1995, where this person lived and that this person had survived Kabakobwa.<sup>513</sup>

265. A person whose full name matched that of Witness QP similarly read out that Kanyabashi incited killings at Kabakobwa, that Kanyabashi used a megaphone and asked that Tutsis be assembled at Kabakobwa, stating that whoever wishes to burn weeds must first gather them. Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s age in 1995, where this person lived and that this person had survived the Kabakobwa killings.<sup>514</sup>

266. A man whose first name matched that of Witness QJ read out from his sheet of paper that Kanyabashi drove around Butare town with a megaphone, inciting members of the population to kill Tutsis and their children. This person added that Kanyabashi played a role at the Hotel Faucon roadblock. Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s age in 1995, where this person lived and how he had survived the events of 1994.<sup>515</sup>

267. A participant whose first name matched that of Witness TK read from her document that Kanyabashi used a megaphone to incite people to kill Tutsis and their children. Witness D-2-21-T did not know whether the statements made by this woman were true or not because she was just reading the document. Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s age in 1995, where this person lived and that this woman told them that she survived by hiding at a convent, after which she went to the préfecture office.<sup>516</sup>

268. A participant whose full name matched that of Witness QI read that he saw Kanyabashi travelling around in a vehicle with a megaphone, inciting people to kill, stating, “[k]ill all the Tutsis and ... all their children.” He also stated that he saw Kanyabashi with soldiers and policemen at Matyazo, inciting people to kill. Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s age in 1995 and where this person worked.<sup>517</sup>

269. A participant whose full name matched that of Witness QG read aloud that at Agateme in Cyarwa, Kanyabashi supervised the destruction of Karekezi’s (alias Gifuka’s) house, ordered the killing of Gitefano, the driver of the bishopric, and incited members of the public to handle firearms. Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person’s profession and that this person told the association that during the genocide his pregnant wife and baby had been killed, and he survived by seeking refuge in the Ndora hills.<sup>518</sup>

270. A participant whose first name matched that of Witness SS read that on several occasions Kanyabashi attended meetings at the préfecture office and supervised killings.<sup>519</sup>

271. A participant whose first name matched that of Witness SU read out that she had seen Kanyabashi attending meetings at the préfecture office. This person also read that Kanyabashi supervised killings in Butare, that Kanyabashi made victims board buses to Nyange, that the Nyange survivors were able to reach the préfecture office, and were then bussed to Rango, where there were mass graves for burying Tutsis.<sup>520</sup> Witness D-2-21-T testified about this person's age in 1995.<sup>521</sup>

272. A participant whose full name matched that of Witness QY, who survived killings at the préfecture office, read that Kanyabashi had encouraged people to carry out killings and that he took people to Nyange. She also read that survivors of Nyange went to the préfecture office, and were taken from there to Rango, where they lived in miserable conditions.<sup>522</sup>

273. After reading, these individuals handed the documents back to the chairperson.<sup>523</sup> Witness D-2-21-T stated that what was read from those documents was lies.<sup>524</sup> No documents were distributed to Witness D-2-21-T.<sup>525</sup> Witness D-2-21-T acknowledged that she did not read those documents herself, nor did she take any notes.<sup>526</sup> Her testimony as to the contents of what each person read out was based on her recollection.<sup>527</sup>

274. A third meeting was held around the end of 1996 at the Multipurpose Hall.<sup>528</sup> Witness D-2-21-T subsequently corrected herself, stating that this third meeting actually took place in April 1997.<sup>529</sup> The purpose of the meeting was to sum up what had been said during the second meeting.<sup>530</sup> The meeting was attended by the same 15 to 30 persons who had participated in the two previous meetings.<sup>531</sup> During the meeting, each participant repeated what he or she had learned, and what they were to state when the time came to accuse Kanyabashi.<sup>532</sup>

275. Witness D-2-21-T testified that no one at the Ibuka meetings refused to comply with the instructions to bear false testimony. Survivors of the genocide agreed to follow the instructions because they were angry.<sup>533</sup>

276. Witness D-2-21-T testified that it was obvious to her that the association was attempting to have those individuals who were in a position of authority at the time of the genocide bear responsibility for what happened. Based on what she saw, the majority of leaders during the war took part in killings.<sup>534</sup>

277. Between 1996 and her testimony before the ICTR, she attended other Ibuka meetings in addition to the three regarding false testimony against Kanyabashi; these other meetings did not deal with false testimony.<sup>535</sup> She insisted however that the three earlier meetings were organised exclusively to prepare people to testify falsely against Kanyabashi and no one else.<sup>536</sup> Meeting participants were told that Kanyabashi, as a figure of authority, could not be innocent because he was a leader within Ngoma commune.<sup>537</sup> They were also told that even if they had not seen Kanyabashi during the massacres, they could level accusations against him in his official capacity.<sup>538</sup> The first of these three meetings took place after Kanyabashi's arrest, so they only talked about Kanyabashi. All three meetings were aimed at preparing accusations against Kanyabashi. She did not attend meetings that discussed other people.<sup>539</sup>

278. Concerning Gacaca trials, she said she knew where the members were located during the genocide and therefore she knew a member was lying when he or she testified as to events taking place in a different location.<sup>540</sup>

279. Witness D-2-21-T did not know whether the persons who agreed to bear false testimony actually did so at Kanyabashi's trial.<sup>541</sup> She never informed either Rwandan authorities or the Tribunal that a group of people were fabricating testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>542</sup>

280. She acknowledged that Ibuka members spoke the truth on some aspects of the genocide. For this reason, she had remained a member of the organisation, despite being aware for approximately 13 years that the organisation was fabricating evidence.<sup>543</sup>

281. Witness D-2-21-T testified that she met with Nkeshimana, an investigator on the Kanyabashi Defence team, several times; in 2000, 2005, 2007 and 2008. During these meetings, Nkeshimana and Witness D-2-21-T discussed the possibility of her testifying before the Tribunal, although it was only in 2005 that Witness D-2-21-T found out Nkeshimana was employed by Kanyabashi and they discussed her knowledge about fabricated testimony against

Kanyabashi.<sup>544</sup> She did not know that Nkeshimana was an investigator in the Kanyabashi Defence team.<sup>545</sup>

282. Witness D-2-21-T denied that she was related to Kanyabashi.<sup>546</sup> She stated that her uncle's extended sister was Nkeshimana's late wife.<sup>547</sup> She later admitted that her great grandfather's sister was the mother of the investigator's wife.<sup>548</sup> She acknowledged that she had family ties with him, but she did not know their exact relationship.<sup>549</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-18-O

283. Witness D-2-18-O, a 16-year-old student at the beginning of 1994,<sup>550</sup> testified that he was a member of Ibuka, which helps members pay school fees and provides assistance in the form of healthcare and emotional support.<sup>551</sup> He joined because he was a Tutsi.<sup>552</sup>

284. Witness D-2-18-O testified that at Ibuka meetings, they discussed testifying on events that took place in 1994, but only discussed giving evidence for the Prosecution, even where that person was actually innocent.<sup>553</sup> They did not discuss evidence for the Defence.<sup>554</sup> They would say that all figures of authority had to be charged.<sup>555</sup> While some Ibuka members speak the truth, others do not.<sup>556</sup>

285. Witness D-2-18-O testified that he attended two Ibuka meetings, one in 2000 and another in 2001 and they were both held at the bureau of Matyazo secteur.<sup>557</sup> The meetings were attended by between 100 and 200 people and discussions encompassed the circumstances surrounding the members' survival, events which took place in Ngoma and Matyazo between April and July 1994, and people against whom charges had to be brought, namely all figures of authority, including Kanyabashi and other individuals.<sup>558</sup>

286. Witness D-2-18-O testified that two individuals bearing the same first names as Witnesses QI and RL chaired these two meetings.<sup>559</sup> One of those individuals suggested that people say they saw Kanyabashi in the company of soldiers at the Catholic Church in Ngoma commune and the other suggested that people say they saw Kanyabashi with soldiers at Matyazo Clinic.<sup>560</sup> One of these individuals, whom the witness identified by reference to first name, ethnicity, place of birth, employment in 1994, former and present place of residence and age, corresponds to Witness QI.<sup>561</sup> The other individual, who Witness D-2-18-O identified by reference to first name, approximate age in 2008, place of birth and residence, corresponds to Witness RL.<sup>562</sup>

287. Witness D-2-18-O testified that the person whose first name matches that of Witness RL told them that he was a survivor of killings at Ngoma Church.<sup>563</sup> This person had seen Major Hitabatuma encouraging people, namely soldiers and local inhabitants, to kill at Ngoma Church.<sup>564</sup> This person told the attendees that although he did not see Kanyabashi at Ngoma Church, it was necessary for them to say that Kanyabashi also went to that location to assist Major Hitabatuma.<sup>565</sup> This person asked them to agree that they saw Kanyabashi there, even though that was not the case. Witness D-2-18-O was aware that people died at Ngoma Church in 1994.<sup>566</sup>

288. Witness D-2-18-O stated that he agreed to testify in the Kanyabashi trial because he believed Kanyabashi was innocent.<sup>567</sup> The witness expressed fear of the consequences of his testimony, because an Ibuka member told him that if he ever testified on behalf of an Accused, he might be mistreated by the Ibuka association.<sup>568</sup>

289. Witness D-2-18-O testified that while he considered himself to be Tutsi in 1994, some people considered him to be Tutsi and others considered him to be Hutu.<sup>569</sup> He testified that he participated in the killings of 12 Tutsis.<sup>570</sup> He stated that he committed genocide and was also a victim of the genocide.<sup>571</sup> His fellow Ibuka members came to know he participated in the Matyazo killings when he pled guilty in 2007; he was not expelled from the association thereafter.<sup>572</sup> When it was put to him that as an attacker, he did not attend any Ibuka meetings, Witness D-2-18-O testified that he did.<sup>573</sup>

290. Witness D-2-18-O met the Kanyabashi Defence team for the first time in 2005. He disclosed his genocide conviction to the Kanyabashi Defence team when he arrived in Arusha, one week before his testimony.<sup>574</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-13-D

291. Witness D-13-D, a Hutu who resided in Huye commune from April to July 1994,<sup>575</sup> testified that for a period of three months he was detained at the Huye commune jail after which he was transferred to Rwandex prison.<sup>576</sup> While detained, he was asked to give false evidence against three individuals, including Kanyabashi.<sup>577</sup> Witness D-13-D was asked to accuse Kanyabashi of having participated in the genocide by sensitising the population to participate in killings.<sup>578</sup>

292. The Deputy Prosecutor also told Witness D-13-D to accuse, inter alia, Kanyabashi, or he would not be released from prison, but Witness D-13-D refused to accuse those people or sign false statements.<sup>579</sup> He was beaten in prison because he refused to comply with instructions to level accusations and tell lies about a number of individuals, including Kanyabashi.<sup>580</sup>

293. While he was in prison he was asked by many other people, including his cousin, to accuse others in order to secure his own release.<sup>581</sup> All those who tried inciting him to give false evidence were members of the Ibuka association.<sup>582</sup> He testified that he was a victim of the Ibuka association. His cousins, who were Tutsis and Ibuka members, told him what was discussed at their meetings, including plans to put him in prison. He contended that he was imprisoned although he never participated in killings.<sup>583</sup>

294. Witness D-13-D testified that while he was in prison, during the course of Gacaca proceedings, he learned that two women, whose full names match Prosecution Witnesses SU and FAE, were influential Ibuka members who falsely accused many people, including people they did not know.<sup>584</sup> Witness D-13-D stated that the woman whose name matches Prosecution Witness SU implicated almost anyone who had a broad nose.<sup>585</sup>

295. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu detainee,<sup>586</sup> testified that during his time at the Butare prison, there was a small group of people who were trying to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>587</sup> The group included individuals whose names corresponded to Prosecution Witnesses FAM, QAH and QCB, together with an individual whose last name matches that of Witness FAC.<sup>588</sup>

296. According to Witness D-2-13-D, the individual whose last name matches that of Witness FAC, together with the two individuals whose full names match those of Witnesses QCB and FAM, found Witness D-2-13-D in his cell and told him they wanted to recruit him on behalf of their community to join the group testifying against Kanyabashi in Arusha.<sup>589</sup> The witness told them that he did not know anything about Kanyabashi and asked them to leave.<sup>590</sup>

297. On one occasion, Witness D-2-13-D met the person by the same name as Witness QAH. This person told Witness D-2-13-D that he had obtained the necessary documents to go to Arusha to testify against Kanyabashi and that this would be his opportunity to pay Kanyabashi back in kind for this person becoming unemployed.<sup>591</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-1-4-O

298. Witness D-1-4-O, a Hutu health attendant in 1994,<sup>592</sup> testified that around 2006, certain individuals, including policemen, asked him to be a Prosecution witness for the Butare case.<sup>593</sup> Since Witness D-1-4-O refused, he was beaten up by the policemen such that he was forced to move houses.<sup>594</sup> He refused to testify for the Prosecution because they proposed many things that were false. For example, they asked Witness D-1-4-O to say that he heard Kanyabashi request the population to kill people.<sup>595</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-P

299. Witness D-2-16-P, a Tutsi, testified that he joined the Ibuka association in 2004 and continued to be a member.<sup>596</sup> The association assists and counsels survivors. The Ibuka association existed in Butare préfecture.<sup>597</sup> Witness D-2-16-P testified that the Ibuka association did not want members to testify on behalf of former authorities, because according to Ibuka, the former authorities led the genocide.<sup>598</sup>

300. Witness D-2-16-P feared being arrested and detained if it were to be known that he testified for Kanyabashi; Ibuka members could complain to authorities that people who have testified in support of the Defence should be arrested.<sup>599</sup>

301. Witness D-2-16-P testified that Ibuka did not train people to give testimony, and he never heard that the association prepared witnesses.<sup>600</sup> Witness D-2-16-P testified that most of the female members of Ibuka in his secteur were Hutu widows, and most of the male members were Tutsis.<sup>601</sup> At the secteur level, Ibuka members did not have membership cards, although a register listed the names of all members.<sup>602</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-30

302. Witness AND-30, a Hutu teacher in 1994,<sup>603</sup> testified that Ibuka was a widely known association that seeks to assist Tutsi survivors by improving their living conditions; it pays school fees for orphans, looks for accommodation for survivors, and attempts to have survivors compensated. This information about Ibuka's activities was broadcast over the radio.<sup>604</sup>

303. Witness AND-30 testified that he learned that Ibuka entailed remembering the victims and bringing revenge against perpetrators. Most perpetrators were in custody outside the country, and they do not want those people to return. Within this framework, they searched for witnesses to come and give false testimony.<sup>605</sup>

304. Witness AND-30 testified that he knew a man who shared the last name of Witness RL, and he knew this person's father.<sup>606</sup> He did not know whether this person was the president of Ibuka in Butare.<sup>607</sup>

305. Witness AND-41, a Hutu student in 1994,<sup>608</sup> testified that he heard that Ibuka was drilling people on how to testify against certain people, who were accused on account of their actions in Rwanda. They were training people to give false evidence. In addition to hearing this from others, he also read this in the newspaper.<sup>609</sup>

306. Witness AND-41 testified that he heard that a person who shared the same last name as Witness RL was the president of an organisation called Ibuka.<sup>610</sup>

307. Witness AND-59 was a Hutu<sup>611</sup> civil servant in Rwanda in late 1994, who thereafter worked for several years in the Prosecutor General's office. He testified that an association named Ibuka existed in Rwanda in the period between 1994 and 1997.<sup>612</sup> He stated that although it was not the purpose of Ibuka, there was some form of guidance of Prosecution witnesses.<sup>613</sup> Witness AND-59 testified that Ibuka's purpose was to exercise moral influence.<sup>614</sup> Ibuka was responsible for locating witnesses in locations where it was known killings had occurred and ensuring that their testimonies were consistent. When asked whether

308. Witness AND-59 testified that he knew very well a man who shared the last name of Witness RL.<sup>616</sup> Witness AND-59 stated this person's first name, and testified that he was Tutsi.<sup>617</sup> Witness AND-59 heard that this man was president of the Ibuka association in Butare.<sup>618</sup> He also knew this person's father.<sup>619</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano

309. Charles Karemano, a Hutu sociologist who was formerly national secretary of the PSD party, testified that the Ibuka association was established sometime around the end of 1994 or the beginning of 1995; he was unsure of the date.<sup>620</sup> Karemano knew that Ibuka was an association of survivors but did not know the association's objectives; he did not know if it was training potential witnesses.<sup>621</sup> Karemano was not a member.<sup>622</sup> Karemano testified that there was also a survivors' association for widows, named Avega.<sup>623</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ

310. Witness WMCZ, a Hutu engineer with two Tutsi wives,<sup>624</sup> testified that he knew very well a woman by the same full name as Prosecution Witness QBP.<sup>625</sup> This woman was his wife's goddaughter, his brother was married to this woman's sister, and he was neighbours with this woman's parents in Rwanda.<sup>626</sup>

311. Witness WMCZ testified that he saw her several times in June 1994,<sup>627</sup> and between 1996 and 1999 this woman came to his house twice and they conversed; she told him that she was a member of the Ibuka association and that the association was paying them a sum of 1,000,000 Rwandan francs to point out those who had been responsible for the looting of houses.<sup>628</sup>

312. Witness WMCZ testified that when interviewed, he told the Defence team that this woman informed him that she was accusing people in order to acquire their property. A man whose wife was a member of the same group also told him this information.<sup>629</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WNMN

313. Witness WNMN, a Hutu teacher in 1994,<sup>630</sup> testified that a woman whose full name matches that of Prosecution Witness FAE is an Ibuka member.<sup>631</sup> This woman denounced his sister, and collaborated with certain Ibuka members to secure his sister's arrest; he was told this by other people, including his mother and his sister.<sup>632</sup>

314. Witness WNMN stated that this woman was his sister's colleague and neighbour.<sup>633</sup> Witness WNMN gave a physical description of the woman, described her job, and testified that she was about 40 years old and Tutsi and had five children.<sup>634</sup> In 1994, Witness WNMN had known this woman for over five years; she had been friends with his sister a long time, and he had seen her for a long time. She lived about 300 or 400 metres away from his sister, and they spent almost all of their evenings together, mostly at the witness' sister's home, where they would share a drink and compare notes.<sup>635</sup>

315. Witness WNMN stated the name and profession of this woman's alleged partner, and testified that they had four children; this woman had a fifth child as well, who had a different father.<sup>636</sup> Witness WNMN saw this woman twice in May 1994,<sup>637</sup> and he met her at his sister's home in June 1994.<sup>638</sup> When it was put to Witness WNMN that he never saw this woman by the same name as Witness FAE in the period April to mid-June 1994, Witness WNMN testified that although he could not give specific dates as to when he saw this woman, he did see her and it was not possible to give specific dates since it was a very long time ago.<sup>639</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens

316. Filip Reyntjens testified that the phenomenon of denunciation was widespread and involved many people including public officials.<sup>640</sup> Reyntjens cited that the phenomenon had even been discussed in a report by the US State Department in the context of Gacaca proceedings.<sup>641</sup> Reyntjens discussed the phenomenon of denunciation and the preparation of Rwandan witnesses in his Expert Report. His Report stated that denunciation was organised at national and local levels; for example, the association of genocide survivors, ARG, in Butare, organised denunciations and false testimony, and at times prepared witnesses and paid them several thousand Rwandan francs to testify for the Prosecution. This information was reliably obtained both within and outside Rwanda.<sup>642</sup>

317. As for witnesses who appeared before this Tribunal, Reyntjens testified that false testimony is given by both Defence and Prosecution witnesses and that many witnesses are prepared before they come to testify here.<sup>643</sup> Reyntjens discussed these phenomena regularly in his political chronicles which he published each year.<sup>644</sup>

318. Reyntjens' Report further stated that even in the absence of a reward or threats, witnesses testify in a restrictive atmosphere and are aware of what is expected from them; for example, the former préfet of Gitarama, Fidèle Uwizeye, was arrested after testifying for the Defence in the Akayesu trial before the ICTR. According to his Report, the testimony of several witnesses who implicate Kanyabashi should be treated with extreme caution, including that of Witnesses QA and RE, and those witnesses who implicated Kanyabashi in the Kabakobwa massacres.<sup>645</sup>

319. At trial, Reyntjens also discussed various instances where witnesses provided false testimony before various courts, for example, the trial of the "Four of Butare" in Belgium, as well as in the Akayesu case before the ICTR, where a witness claimed he had been influenced by the Ibuka association.<sup>646</sup>

320. Concerning fabrication of evidence, in cross-examination Reyntjens agreed that witnesses who were detainees in Rwandan prisons or awaiting to be tried by Gacaca trials for their involvement in the events of 1994 at the time of their testimony before this Tribunal likely felt more powerless and pressured than other witnesses.<sup>647</sup>

Prosecution Witness QI

321. Witness QI, a Tutsi and former cook, testified that he was not a member of any association which followed the conduct of trials or dealt with the survivors of the 1994 events.<sup>648</sup>

322. Witness QI was asked during cross-examination whether he knew someone with the last name of Prosecution Witness RL, who was 14 years old in 1994 and came from a specified area; he agreed that he knew someone by that last name from the area specified.<sup>649</sup> Witness QI testified that he had lived with a person with Witness RL's last name at one point in time.<sup>650</sup> When they met after the war, this person told Witness QI where he subsequently lived. Witness QI never lived together with the person whose last name matches Witness RL.<sup>651</sup>

323. Witness QI testified that this person told him that he almost died because he was hit on the head with clubs and had to find his way out of the dead bodies, and he then crawled to a church.<sup>652</sup>

Prosecution Witness RL

324. Witness RL, a Tutsi who was 13 years old in 1994, testified in cross-examination that he was not a member of any survivors' groups nor had he ever attended any trial in Rwanda concerning the events that occurred in Ngoma and Matyazo in 1994.<sup>653</sup>

325. Witness RL testified that he knew a person with the same surname as Witness QI. Witness RL testified that he was only close to Witness QI to the extent of greeting him. Witness RL would see Witness QI from time to time on account of Witness QI's occupation.<sup>654</sup> They were not close enough however for Witness RL to discuss the events of 1994 with Witness QI, and at no time did he and Witness QI discuss events that occurred in 1994 at Ngoma Church or at Matyazo Clinic.<sup>655</sup> Under cross-examination, when it was put to Witness RL that Witness QI had testified about the experiences suffered by a person by the same surname as Witness RL and was asked whether he maintained that he never spoke with Witness QI about his experiences from April to July 1994, Witness RL insisted he never spoke to Witness QI.<sup>656</sup>

Prosecution Witness QJ

326. Witness QJ, a Tutsi waiter in 1994,<sup>657</sup> testified that he is married to Witness TK.<sup>658</sup> Witness QJ stated that they had never discussed the events of April to July 1994 together.<sup>659</sup> He testified that he did not know of her plans to testify before the Tribunal.<sup>660</sup>

Prosecution Witness TK

327. Witness TK, a Tutsi teacher,<sup>661</sup> was asked during cross-examination whether she knew of the Ibuka association. She testified that she had heard the association mentioned over the radio, but did not have details.<sup>662</sup>

328. Witness TK married Witness QJ in 1995.<sup>663</sup> When put to Witness TK that she and her husband were interviewed and met the same investigators on 22 January 1997, Witness TK testified that they did not simultaneously meet the investigator; the investigator must have met with them one by one.<sup>664</sup> Witness TK testified that they did not discuss the events that took place between April and July 1994; she never knew that her husband had given statements to the Tribunal's investigators or that he had testified before the Tribunal in 2001.<sup>665</sup> Although she told her husband that she was coming to Arusha, she did not tell him that she was coming as a witness in the Butare case.<sup>666</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAE

329. Witness FAE testified that she was a member of the association of survivors of the 1994 Rwandan genocide.<sup>667</sup> When asked during cross-examination whether the ARG association had a custom of character destruction, she testified that they only told what they saw and heard with their own ears.<sup>668</sup> When asked whether she and others in her association denounced people in order to be requited with scholarships for their children, she responded that she, and no one else, paid for her children's studies.<sup>669</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBP

330. Witness QBP, a Tutsi woman, was asked during cross-examination whether she was a member of Abasa or another association that worked with the Ibuka association, along with several named individuals, including Witness TA.<sup>670</sup> She testified that she shared pain with the named individuals, but they do not constitute an association.<sup>671</sup> She denied that she denounced people in exchange for monetary compensation, and denied that Butare officials chased her out of Butare town in February 1995 for making false accusations.<sup>672</sup>

Prosecution Witness SU

331. Witness SU, a Tutsi woman, was asked during cross-examination whether she knew an association of victims of the events of 1994, named Ibuka, to which she testified that she had heard people talk about this association.<sup>673</sup> When she was also asked whether she knew an association of victims of the events of 1994, named Avega, she stated that people talk about Avega, but she did not know it.<sup>674</sup> When asked whether she was a member of either association or a similar association, she testified that she was "between these two associations."<sup>675</sup> By this she meant she was not a member of either.<sup>676</sup> She testified that these associations had their own mode of functioning and activities but she was not involved with them.<sup>677</sup> She was not a member of any other association of survivors.<sup>678</sup>

Prosecution Witness QP

332. Witness QP, a 15-year-old Tutsi girl in 1994,<sup>679</sup> was asked during cross-examination whether she ever attended meetings or discussions during which the events at Kabakobwa in 1994 were discussed.<sup>680</sup> Witness QP responded that there were no such meetings; she talked about those events before the Tribunal.<sup>681</sup> She had never been questioned by Rwandan authorities about the Kabakobwa events.<sup>682</sup>

Prosecution Witness QG

333. Witness QG, a Tutsi technician,<sup>683</sup> was asked during cross-examination whether he was a member of Ibuka. He stated that Ibuka was not active in his area, although FARG was. He was not associated with this association; he just worked with other survivors in the region for the purpose of burying victims in dignity.<sup>684</sup> They looked for people that died on the hill and buried them. He never collaborated with a person with the same first name as Witness FAE.<sup>685</sup>

Prosecution Witness QA

334. Witness QA, a Hutu, testified that before the Canadian Rogatory Commission concerning the case of Désiré Munyaneza in 2008, he testified that he had lied to the Office of the Prosecutor in 1996, and this Tribunal in 2004 when he said that he had heard Kanyabashi give a speech in which he purportedly promised to carry out the instructions of the President.<sup>686</sup> He also testified that he lied to Canadian policemen when he falsely accused Munyaneza in several respects in a case before Canadian courts and gave false testimony in the Munyaneza trial.<sup>687</sup> Witness QA stated that only a few aspects of his original testimony before this Tribunal were true; most of his original testimony was a lie.<sup>688</sup>

335. Witness QA claimed that he was encouraged to lie against Kanyabashi by three men who were influential figures within the administration of the Ibuka association, namely Innocent Kayitare, Martin Uwariraye and Polisi Mubera, the conseiller of Ngoma secteur.<sup>689</sup>

Witness QA testified that prior to his interview with the Office of the Prosecutor in 1996 he took part in preparatory meetings with these three men.<sup>690</sup>

336. These three men came to Witness QA's home where they discussed Kanyabashi. Witness QA asked for money in order to lie against Kanyabashi. He told them that if they did not give him money, he would not do what they wanted him to do.<sup>691</sup> They promised to give him 1,000,000 francs.<sup>692</sup>

337. On another occasion sometime after his testimony before this Tribunal, Martin Uwarariraye, Innocent Kayitare and two policemen came to his home to prepare him to testify falsely in the case of Desiré Munyaneza, who was accused by the Canadian justice system.<sup>693</sup> He told them that he was no longer prepared to lie against Munyaneza, nor was he willing to testify falsely in another proceeding, as they had not given him the money he had initially been promised in exchange for testifying falsely against Kanyabashi; as such he would revisit his testimony concerning Kanyabashi.<sup>694</sup>

338. When asked why he agreed to make false statements and assertions, Witness QA testified that Hutus who had not fled after the genocide had to be careful because they could be considered authors of the genocide, especially if they refused to obey instructions from the Ibuka administration.<sup>695</sup> He lied in order to please those who sent him and in order to spare his life.<sup>696</sup> He followed their instructions for his personal security believing they were capable of either ensuring or threatening his safety; he also followed their instructions because they promised to give him 1,000,000 francs after their first meeting. Despite several attempts, he did not receive the money he was promised.<sup>697</sup> That is why he decided to tell the truth.<sup>698</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAM

339. Witness FAM, a Hutu detainee, testified that he did not mention Kanyabashi or Nteziryayo in one of his prior statements because he was detained with members of their families and he was concerned for his safety.<sup>699</sup> He testified that he was detained with Witness QCB in Karubanda prison and, at the time of giving his testimony to the ICTR, had also been detained with Witness QCB in Arusha for 5 to 6 months while they waited to give their testimony before this Tribunal.<sup>700</sup> He stated that he attended Gacaca sessions in prison with Witness QCB, but stated that they were each concerned with their own case.<sup>701</sup> Witness FAM agreed that he had been detained both in Karubanda prison and together in Arusha with a person with the same full name as Defence Witness D-2-13-D.<sup>702</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

340. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and detainee at the time of testimony,<sup>703</sup> testified that he was detained with Witness FAM in Arusha pending his testimony before this Tribunal, and that they were detained in the same area in Rwanda.<sup>704</sup> Witness QCB was asked whether he had seen someone with the same last name as Defence Witness D-2-13-D after 1994. Witness QCB testified that he heard that this man came to town with investigators, but he did not see him with his own eyes.<sup>705</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAH

341. Witness QAH, a Hutu farmer and detainee, was asked whether he knew someone with the same last name as Defence Witness D-2-13-D. Witness QAH testified that he met this person at Karubanda prison. Witness QAH testified that he never had discussions regarding events in their secteur with this person.<sup>706</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

342. In an article entitled The Tribunal for Rwanda: from Crisis to Failure?,<sup>707</sup> André Guichaoua wrote that the credibility of both Prosecution and Defence witnesses varied, since they were identified and advised by either the former or present Rwandan authorities. Both the associations of survivors and the network of former authorities, supporting Prosecution or Defence respectively, had established a kind of subcontracting network for the preparation of witnesses who came to the Tribunal.

3.2.3 Deliberations

343. The Chamber has carefully considered the totality of evidence adduced in support of the theory that testimony led through several Prosecution witnesses is not credible because these witnesses were improperly influenced by the Ibuka association. The Chamber recalls that the Prosecution bears the burden of establishing the guilt of the Accused beyond a reasonable doubt, and that the Defence need only raise reasonable doubt.<sup>708</sup> The Chamber has reviewed the testimony of factual and expert witnesses who alleged generally that the Ibuka association, among others, is motivated by a collective desire for revenge and accountability, and coaches Prosecution witnesses to falsely testify against an accused at the ICTR.<sup>709</sup> Specifically, the Chamber has carefully considered the testimony of Defence witnesses who sought to implicate Prosecution Witnesses FAE, QAM, QBM, QG, QI, QJ, QP, QY, RL, SS, SU, TK and QBP as Ibuka members who may have been coached in their testimony before the ICTR.

344. The Chamber notes that the Defence teams failed to consistently establish that an individual identified by a Defence Witness as an Ibuka member allegedly involved in fabricating testimony, is in fact the same person as a Prosecution witness with the same name. The Chamber has applied a case-by-case approach to determine whether the information provided by Defence witnesses in this regard was sufficient to establish that a Defence Witness was, in actual fact, testifying about a Prosecution witness in the instant case.

345. The Chamber notes that it is striking that every key witness in the Prosecution's case against Kanyabashi was levelled with an allegation of fabricated testimony. This raises questions regarding the plausibility of these Defence submissions.

Credibility of Witness D-2-21-T

346. The Kanyabashi Defence relies heavily on the testimony of Witness D-2-21-T in support of its submissions regarding falsification of evidence led against Kanyabashi. Witness D-2-21-T identified various individuals who, she claimed, attended three meetings of the Ibuka association, during which they discussed giving false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>710</sup> The Chamber finds her testimony not credible for several reasons.

347. First, the Kanyabashi Defence raised these allegations of false testimony long after the Prosecution rested its case. The Chamber considers it significant that Witness D-2-21-T's specific allegations against relevant Prosecution witnesses were not put to those witnesses during their cross-examination, despite the fact that the Kanyabashi Defence had ample opportunity to discover this information before the testimony of the said Prosecution witnesses.<sup>711</sup> Witness D-2-21-T testified that she met with an investigator on the Kanyabashi Defence team in 2000, 2005, 2007 and 2008.<sup>712</sup> She stated that during these meetings, they discussed the possibility of her testifying before the Tribunal although it was only in 2005 that Witness D-2-21-T found out Nkeshimana was employed by Kanyabashi and she informed them about her knowledge of meetings concerning the fabrication of testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>713</sup> When Nkeshimana asked her to appear before the Tribunal to relay this same information, Witness D-2-21-T first declined.<sup>714</sup> Witness D-2-21-T was added to the Kanyabashi witness list on 24 April 2008 and she first testified in November 2008, after the formal closure of the Kanyabashi Defence case in May 2008. The question remains as to why the Defence did not put forward this information at an earlier date.

348. Second, Witness D-2-21-T may have been an Ibuka member during the period of the three meetings at issue, given that she was married to a Tutsi during the events of 1994,<sup>715</sup> and members of her extended family were killed during the genocide.<sup>716</sup> However, the Chamber finds her account of these three meetings to be unbelievable with respect to the modality of fabricating testimony. Witness D-2-21-T's testimony that select participants at the 1995 meeting read out to the rest of the group false testimony that was written on sheets of paper,<sup>717</sup> is unconvincing.

349. Third, the Chamber considers it significant that Witness D-2-21-T was not among the group of people who were given documents to read from, nor did she actually read the contents of any of the distributed documents.<sup>718</sup> As such, she cannot verify the content of any of those documents.

350. Fourth, Witness D-2-21-T testified that she did not take notes during the meetings.<sup>719</sup> The Chamber doubts her ability to accurately recall details of what transpired at those meetings, and the specifics of the alleged false testimony, more than a decade later.

351. Fifth, Witness D-2-21-T insisted that these meetings were organised exclusively to prepare people to testify "falsely" against Kanyabashi,<sup>720</sup> however, she nevertheless acknowledged that Ibuka members spoke the truth on some aspects of the genocide. She stated that not all of the meetings involved discussions on false testimony.<sup>721</sup> Having reviewed Witness D-2-21-T's account of these meetings, the Chamber notes that no one at the meetings ever referred to the events discussed as "false evidence."<sup>722</sup> The leader of the alleged meetings gave instructions asking members to bring forth evidence against Kanyabashi in his individual capacity or in his capacity as the leader of Ngoma commune; it was never said that members needed to give false testimony.<sup>723</sup>

352. Sixth, Witness D-2-21-T testified that she did not know whether the persons who agreed to bear false testimony actually did so at Kanyabashi's trial. She stated that at each of the subsequent association meetings that she attended, the members never discussed whether false testimony had actually been provided at Kanyabashi's trial.<sup>724</sup>

353. Seventh, Witness D-2-21-T could not have been aware of Kanyabashi's movements between April and July 1994, since she admitted that she did not see Kanyabashi during this period and she was at home.<sup>725</sup> Accordingly, she was not in a position to assess the veracity of statements made at the Ibuka meetings regarding Kanyabashi's actions between April and July 1994.

<sup>721</sup> T. 4 November 2008 pp. 34, 69 (ICS); T. 5 November 2008 p. 29 (ICS) (Witness D-2-21-T). The Chamber notes Witness D-2-21-T's testimony that Ibuka members discussed issues facing survivors of the genocide, including accommodation and educational assistance for the families of survivors: T. 3 November 2008 p. 14 (ICS) (Witness D-2-21-T).

354. Eighth, while Witness D-2-21-T testified that these three Ibuka meetings were organised exclusively to prepare potential witnesses to testify against Kanyabashi and no one else,<sup>726</sup> Witness D-2-21-T did not provide a convincing explanation as to why the Ibuka association would have specifically targeted Kanyabashi. Her testimony that Kanyabashi was targeted by Ibuka because he held a position of authority in Ngoma commune<sup>727</sup> is unconvincing, as the association could have targeted many other figures of authority in Butare préfecture.

355. Ninth, Witness D-2-21-T testified that she did not know that a certain Nkeshimana was an investigator in the Kanyabashi Defence team.<sup>728</sup> However, she had testified earlier that she met with Joseph Nkeshimana, an investigator on the Kanyabashi Defence team, several times; in 2000, 2005, 2007 and 2008.<sup>729</sup> During these meetings, they discussed the possibility of her testifying before the Tribunal and her knowledge of Kanyabashi.<sup>730</sup> Furthermore, she admitted that her great-grandfather was the uncle of Nkeshimana's late wife.<sup>731</sup> The Chamber finds Witness D-2-21-T's assertion that she did not know that Nkeshimana was an investigator in the Kanyabashi Defence team<sup>732</sup> to be implausible, given that they met on a number of occasions and considering her extended family ties to him. Her inconsistent testimony on her knowledge of Nkeshimana's role as an investigator for the Kanyabashi Defence casts further doubt on her credibility and reliability.

356. Tenth, the Chamber notes that Witness D-2-21-T asserted that she knew that members were providing false testimony in Gacaca trials because she knew where these members were living during the killings and they read statements as to events in other locations.<sup>733</sup> Even if the Chamber were to accept that Witness D-2-21-T knew where each of the members was living during the killings, the Chamber does not find it credible that Witness D-2-21-T knew the whereabouts of each of the association's members who purportedly agreed to bear false testimony during the course of the more than three months in which killings occurred in Ngoma commune.

357. Finally, the Chamber observes that Witness D-2-21-T admitted in cross-examination that the Ibuka association may not have existed in 1995, but that another genocide survivors' group did exist.<sup>734</sup> This is inconsistent with Witness D-2-21-T's prior assertion that two of the three Ibuka meetings at issue took place in 1995.<sup>735</sup> The Chamber considers it significant that the witness' examination-in-chief focused on the Ibuka association rather than any other survivors' group. While the witness gave detailed testimony on the inception of the Ibuka association and the identity of attendees at this set of meetings,<sup>736</sup> no mention was made of any other survivors' group until cross-examination.

358. Witness D-2-21-T disavowed a portion of a prior statement in which she claimed her conseiller de secteur organised meetings and that she observed him with documents bearing the names of individuals to be killed. She asserted that the investigators did not accurately take down her statement; her actual statement to investigators was that the conseiller held a meeting to discuss community work and announced to the members of the public that they all had a right to join a political party in this period of multiparty politics.<sup>737</sup> She also stated that the remainder of the prior statement was in fact accurate.<sup>738</sup> The Chamber accepts this explanation, and notes that this inconsistency is not material to the allegation at issue.

359. Taking into account all of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the testimony of Witness D-2-21-T is neither credible nor reliable.

Credibility of Witness D-2-18-O

360. The Kanyabashi Defence also relies on Witness D-2-18-O in support of its allegations. This witness was added to the Kanyabashi witness list on 24 April 2008 and gave evidence in May 2008, towards the end of the Kanyabashi Defence case, which opened in July 2007. Witness D-2-18-O testified that he was a member of Ibuka, that he attended two Ibuka meetings where they discussed providing evidence against certain individuals, including Kanyabashi, even when an individual was actually innocent.<sup>739</sup>

361. The testimony of Witness D-2-18-O suffers from serious credibility issues. Although Witness D-2-18-O identifies as a Tutsi, and is a member of the Ibuka association, he confessed in 2007 to having manned roadblocks and participated in killing 12 Tutsis during the 1994 genocide.<sup>740</sup> The Chamber does not consider the witness' portrayal of himself as both a victim and perpetrator of the genocide<sup>741</sup> to be plausible.

362. Witness D-2-18-O's attempt to hide his criminal record from the Kanyabashi Defence also seriously undermines his credibility. Witness D-2-18-O was sentenced and imprisoned for his crimes.<sup>742</sup> In cross-examination, Witness D-2-18-O admitted that he had not disclosed his genocide conviction to the Kanyabashi Defence team until he arrived in Arusha one week before his testimony, even though he met that team for the first time in 2005.<sup>743</sup>

363. For these reasons, the Chamber is of the view that his testimony should be treated with appropriate caution.

364. The Chamber notes Witness D-13-D's testimony that when he was detained in Rwanda, Ibuka members tried to "incite" him to give false evidence against Kanyabashi, among others.<sup>744</sup> Witness D-13-D further testified that after he was tried and acquitted in Rwanda, he was asked to falsely implicate Kanyabashi and two other individuals as a precondition for his release.<sup>745</sup>

365. Other than that Witness D-13-D was asked to accuse Kanyabashi of having participated in the genocide by sensitising the population to participate in killings.<sup>746</sup> Witness D-13-D did not provide any specific information about the false allegations that he was allegedly told to level against Kanyabashi.

366. Furthermore, the Chamber notes the existence of personal ties between Witness D-13-D and Kanyabashi.<sup>747</sup> Taking into account the foregoing, the Chamber finds that Witness D-13-D's testimony on this matter should be treated with appropriate caution.

367. Witness D-2-13-D also testified that while detained at Butare prison, there was a small group of people who were trying to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>748</sup> An individual with the same surname as Witness FAC, together with the two individuals whose full names match those of Witnesses QCB and FAM, found Witness D-2-13-D in his cell and told him they wanted to recruit him on behalf of their community to join the group going to testify against Kanyabashi in Arusha.<sup>749</sup> Like Witness D-13-D, Witness D-2-13-D did not provide any specific information about the false allegations that he was allegedly told to level against Kanyabashi. Further, Witness D-2-13-D did not state why he thought the group was preparing to testify falsely against Kanyabashi.

368. Witness D-2-13-D also testified that Witness QAH told him that he was going to Arusha to testify against Kanyabashi and that this would be his opportunity to pay Kanyabashi back in kind for Witness QAH becoming unemployed.<sup>750</sup> The Chamber recalls that Witness QAH confirmed that from 1975 to 1979 he had been a civil servant appointed by Kanyabashi, but he denied that he had been dismissed for a professional misdemeanour testifying that he chose to resign.<sup>751</sup> Accordingly, based on Witness QAH's own admission, the Chamber considers he had no motive to seek revenge upon Kanyabashi.

369. Therefore, the Chamber finds that Witness D-2-13-D's testimony does not undermine the credibility of the testimonies of Witnesses QAH, QCB and FAM.

370. The Chamber notes Witness D-1-4-O's testimony that around 2006, certain individuals, including Rwandan policemen, asked him to be a Prosecution witness for the Butare case, and falsely testify that Kanyabashi asked the population to kill.<sup>752</sup> The Chamber notes that the only specific example of false testimony that Witness D-1-4-O cited implicated Kanyabashi. This witness did not provide any explanation as to why the individuals who approached him wanted to target Kanyabashi. The Chamber considers Witness D-1-4-O's testimony on this point to be vague and unsubstantiated, and finds that it does not undermine the credibility of specific evidence led against Kanyabashi.

Evidence of Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-P

371. Notwithstanding that Witness D-2-16-P testified that the Ibuka association does not want members to testify on behalf of former authorities, Witness D-2-16-P testified that Ibuka does not train people to give testimony, and he never heard that the association prepared witnesses.<sup>753</sup> The Chamber considers it significant that this witness, who is Tutsi and had been an Ibuka member for approximately four years at the time of his testimony, testified that the Ibuka association does not train people to give testimony.<sup>754</sup>

Other Defence Evidence Regarding the Credibility of Prosecution Witnesses Who Were Allegedly Ibuka Members

372. The Chamber's attention has been drawn to issues that may adversely reflect on the credibility of relevant Prosecution witnesses.

373. The Kanyabashi Defence claims that Prosecution Witness RL was a member of Ibuka and involved in fabricating evidence. Defence Witnesses AND-30, AND-41 and AND-59 testified about a Tutsi man who shared the last name of Witness RL.<sup>755</sup> Witnesses AND-41 and AND-59 testified that they knew this man well, and this man was president of the Ibuka association in Butare.<sup>756</sup> Witness RL denied that he was a member of Ibuka.<sup>757</sup> The Chamber considers that these three Defence witnesses are all referring to the same person, as they all identified that person's last name and the name of his father.<sup>758</sup> The Chamber notes, however, that two of these Defence witnesses did not provide a first name for the said Ibuka president. Witness AND-59 provided a first name<sup>759</sup> that does not correspond to Witness RL's first name. Accordingly, and given the absence of other evidence to establish that the person these Defence witnesses were referring to is Prosecution Witness RL, the Chamber need not consider this testimony further.

374. The Chamber notes apparent discrepancies in the testimonies of Witnesses RL and QI regarding their knowledge of each other.<sup>760</sup> Prosecution Witness QI initially testified that he once lived with a person whose last name and profile closely match that of Prosecution Witness RL.<sup>761</sup> Witness QI testified that this person told him about surviving an attack at Ngoma Church, where he was hit on the head with clubs and managed to crawl out of dead bodies to the church.<sup>762</sup> The Chamber observes that Witness RL testified that he was not close to Witness QI, he only knew him from seeing him about town.<sup>763</sup> Witness RL testified that they were not close enough to discuss the events of 1994, and he never discussed these events with Witness QI.<sup>764</sup> While the Chamber does not believe Witness RL's assertion that he hardly knew Witness QI, this does not impact the Chamber's assessment of other aspects of Witness RL's testimony. This discrepancy between Witness RL's and Witness QI's testimony is of minor significance, and does not affect the credibility of either witness.

375. The Kanyabashi Defence also highlights the fact that Witnesses TK and QJ, a married couple, testified that they did not discuss with each other the events that took place between April to July 1994,<sup>765</sup> and this couple testified that they did not discuss with each other their plans to testify before this Tribunal.<sup>766</sup> The Defence asserts that this testimony was incredible, that the similarity of their evidence indicates that these Ibuka members fabricated their testimony.<sup>767</sup> The Chamber does not believe Witness TK and QJ's testimony that they never discussed the events at issue in this case, or their plans to testify before the ICTR. Nevertheless, the Chamber considers that the Defence assertions in this regard do not undermine Witnesses TK's or QJ's credibility.

Credibility of Prosecution Witness QA

376. The Chamber notes the existence of serious credibility issues surrounding the testimony of Prosecution Witness QA. When recalled in 2008, he admitted that he lied to Canadian police in another proceeding,<sup>768</sup> he lied to the Office of the Prosecutor in 1996,<sup>769</sup> and that most of his testimony under oath to this Tribunal in 2004 was false.<sup>770</sup> The witness admitted that "in everything that I said, there are only a few things that are truthful. For the most part, my testimony was lies."<sup>771</sup>

377. Witness QA testified that he lied against Kanyabashi on the encouragement of three men who were influential figures in the administration of the Ibuka association.<sup>772</sup> The Chamber observes that the three individuals whom Witness QA identified correspond in either the first, last or full name with the three individuals Witness D-2-21-T testified allegedly attended Ibuka meetings where participants discussed false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>773</sup>

378. Witness QA testified that if he refused to obey the instructions of these people, he would have encountered difficulties.<sup>774</sup> The Chamber has taken note of Witness QA's account as to why he lied before the Chamber.<sup>775</sup> Further, the Chamber notes Witness QA asked for money in order to lie against Kanyabashi and told the three men that if they did not give him the money, he would not do what they wanted him to do.<sup>776</sup> Witness QA stated that one of the reasons for which he also followed their instructions, was because they promised to give him 1,000,000 francs after their first meeting. Despite several attempts, he did not receive the money he was promised.<sup>777</sup> That is why he decided to tell the truth.<sup>778</sup> This witness' demonstrably flexible attitude to telling the truth casts doubt on the credibility and reliability of his own testimony. Given this, Witness QA's testimony about his reasons for lying to this Tribunal lacks credibility.

379. The Kanyabashi and Nsabimana Defence relied on expert evidence in support of the submission that Prosecution witnesses were improperly influenced to testify about an Accused at the ICTR.<sup>779</sup> The Chamber has reviewed the relevant expert evidence, and considers that this evidence may provide context for specific allegations of fabrication of testimony. The most specific expert evidence adduced on this issue was led through Defence Expert Witness Reyntjens, who discussed the preparation of Rwandan witnesses who came before this Tribunal.<sup>780</sup> Reyntjens also provided an example of a witness being improperly influenced by the Ibuka association in the Akayesu case.<sup>781</sup>

380. The Chamber also notes Reyntjens' Expert Report specifically identified several witnesses whose testimony should be treated with extreme caution, namely Witnesses QA and RE, and those witnesses who implicated Kanyabashi in the Kabakobwa massacres.<sup>782</sup> First, the Chamber notes no accusations of fabrication were levelled against Witness RE by any Defence witnesses. Insofar as concerns Witness QA or witnesses called to testify about Kabakobwa, the Chamber declines to have regard to Reyntjens' evidence on the basis that it falls outside his sphere of expertise.

381. The Chamber recalls its observation, above, that every key witness in the Prosecution's case against Kanyabashi was implicated with the allegation that they were an Ibuka member who fabricated testimony. Although Reyntjens downplayed his personal ties to Kanyabashi in his testimony before this Tribunal,<sup>783</sup> he had known Kanyabashi for a long time,<sup>784</sup> and he confirmed that Kanyabashi named him as his lawyer before an Investigating Judge in Belgium.<sup>785</sup> The Chamber considers that Reyntjens' testimony before this Tribunal was largely biased in favour of Kanyabashi (). As such, Reyntjens may have had a motive to discredit the Ibuka association in support of the Kanyabashi Defence case.

3.2.4 Discussion of Evidence and Findings

382. Prosecution Witnesses FAE, QBP, QG, QI, RL and SU were asked during cross-examination whether they were members of a survivors association. Prosecution Witness FAE testified that she was a member of a survivors association,<sup>786</sup> while the others testified they were not members of any such association.<sup>787</sup> Witnesses SU and TK testified that they had simply heard about the Ibuka association.<sup>788</sup> Witness QP denied that she attended meetings or participated in discussions concerning the events she testified about, testifying that there were no such meetings.<sup>789</sup> Apart from Witness QA, who the Chamber has found to be not credible, none of these Prosecution witnesses testified that they were paid or otherwise influenced to testify falsely. The Chamber notes that the Defence relies heavily on hearsay evidence to discredit the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAE, QBP, QG, QI, RL and SU. The Chamber assesses such evidence with caution and on a case-by-case basis. The Chamber believes these Prosecution witnesses and attaches more weight to their testimony under oath than to hearsay evidence that was led to undermine their credibility.

383. Taking into account the Chamber's assessment of the credibility of relevant Defence witnesses, the testimony of the Prosecution witnesses under cross-examination, relevant contextual evidence, and the content of general and specific allegations of false testimony levelled against Prosecution witnesses, the Chamber finds that the evidence led by the Defence relating to the alleged fabrication of testimony does not undermine the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FAE, FAC, FAM, QAM, QBM, QG, QI, QJ, QP, QY, RL, SS, SU, TK, QAH, QBP and QCB. The Chamber again recalls that the Defence does not bear a burden to prove fabrication and that it need only raise a reasonable doubt as to the Prosecution case.

384. The Chamber will otherwise address specific allegations of fabricated testimony in the context of relevant factual findings.

3.3 Events in Butare Between 6 April 1994 and 18 April 1994

3.3.1 Remera Massacre, 7 April 1994

3.3.1.1 Introduction

385. Although not mentioned in any of the Indictments or in the Prosecution Closing Brief and oral arguments, Prosecution Witness QBZ testified regarding the massacre of Tutsis at the Muganza commune office in Remera on 7 April 1994.

386. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that these events are material facts which are not pled in the Indictment and reiterates its request of 31 May 2006 that the Chamber exclude them from the analysis of the evidence.<sup>790</sup> The Defence also avers that Witness QBZ's evidence is unreliable and not credible because he is the sole witness on this event, he is mentally unstable, and his evidence is uncorroborated and contradicted by Witnesses RV, EV, GABON and KEPİR.<sup>791</sup>

3.3.1.2 Preliminary Issues

387. The Chamber notes that neither the Ndayambaje Indictment nor the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief mentions the massacre at the Muganza commune office in Remera on 7 April 1994. The Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief contains a summary of Witness QBZ's expected testimony. The summary sets out that Witness QBZ would testify to a meeting Ndayambaje held with the Remera secteur populace at his office, where Ndayambaje said all Tutsis must be killed; it did not refer to a massacre at the commune office, but further stated that Witness QBZ is said to have "witnessed other massacres".<sup>792</sup>

388. Witness QBZ's prior statements refer to the same secteur office meeting called by Ndayambaje, although only the second statement of 28-30 March 2001 outlines an ensuing massacre that occurred at the Muganza commune office, purportedly arranged by Ndayambaje.<sup>793</sup>

389. The Chamber recalls that Witness QBZ testified about this massacre and at the end of his examination-in-chief, the Ndayambaje Defence pointed out that much of this witness' testimony was not mentioned in the witness' prior statement or the factual allegations disclosed to the Defence by the Prosecution and requested that it be allowed to recall Witness QBZ if needed at a later stage.<sup>794</sup>

390. The Ndayambaje Defence filed a motion for exclusion of the evidence of Prosecution witnesses, including Witness QBZ, arguing that those witnesses testified about facts not pled in the Indictment and, therefore, that Ndayambaje did not have timely notice of them.<sup>795</sup> The Prosecution objected to the motion on the basis it was filed out of time. The Prosecution acknowledged that the Ndayambaje Defence had objected to the admissibility of the evidence of Witness QBZ in February 2004 when the witness testified before the Chamber.<sup>796</sup>

391. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 1 September 2006 in which it stated that some issues of exclusion of evidence, credibility of witnesses and evaluation of evidence may be considered at a later stage of the proceedings with the totality of the evidence.<sup>797</sup>

392. The Chamber considers that Witness QBZ's statement of 28-30 March 2001 is the only statement with detailed information on the massacre at the Muganza commune office in Remera on 7 April 1994. The English translation of this statement was first disclosed to the Defence in redacted form on 23 May 2001 and the French translation on 7 June 2001. The unredacted statements in both English and French were disclosed to the Defence on 31 January 2002.

393. In the present case, the Chamber considers that the Ndayambaje Defence did not have sufficient notice of this massacre so as to enable the Defence to mount an effective defence. As a result the Chamber will not make a finding on the alleged involvement of Ndayambaje in the massacre at the Muganza commune office in Remera on 7 April 1994. In any case, the Chamber considers that Witness QBZ's evidence on the Remera massacre is insufficient.

3.3.2 Interahamwe Training in Mugusa Commune, 7 April 1994

394. The allegation that Interahamwe were trained at the Mugusa commune office on 7 April 1994 was put into evidence during the testimony of Prosecution Witness QBV. The witness testified that Bourgmestre Kabayiza organised weapons training for approximately 100 young Hutus from the commune, for the purpose of fighting the RPF and killing Tutsis.<sup>798</sup>

395. The Nteziryayo Defence challenges Witness QBV's credibility, asserting that there was no Interahamwe training at the commune office on 7 April 1994.<sup>799</sup> On 7 April 1994 the Ministry of Defence had issued a communiqué prohibiting anyone from leaving their houses until further notice. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that no other witness testifies about training on this day and there is no corroboration of Witness QBV's evidence.<sup>800</sup>

396. The Chamber notes that this allegation was not pled in any of the Indictments and was mentioned in neither the Prosecution Closing Brief nor its closing oral submissions. The

3.3.3 Cyarwa Secteur Meeting and Agateme Attacks, Mid-April 1994

3.3.3.1 Introduction

397. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that from late 1990 to July 1994, Kanyabashi conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. The plan was alleged to consist of, inter alia, encouraging hatred and ethnic violence and the preparation of lists of Tutsis to be killed. The Kanyabashi Indictment further alleges that Kanyabashi, together with others, adhered to and executed this plan and in doing so organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>801</sup>

398. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that in or around May 1994, Kanyabashi held at least two meetings in Cyarwa secteur, Ngoma commune at which he encouraged local residents to kill Tutsis and that, in the days following these meetings, Tutsis in the area were attacked.<sup>802</sup> The Indictment further alleges that Ngoma commune was the site of numerous massacres in which Kanyabashi was either directly involved or in which his subordinates, acting under his orders, were implicated.<sup>803</sup>

399. The Prosecution submits that these meetings and the subsequent killings were a general pattern of conduct by Kanyabashi throughout the genocide, and that Kanyabashi was heavily involved in the planning of killings and met frequently with his administrative subordinates to provoke them into action.<sup>804</sup> In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness QG.

400. Aside from submissions relating to the imprecision of the Indictment,<sup>805</sup> the Kanyabashi Defence submits that Prosecution Witness QG is not credible because he contradicts himself.<sup>806</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence submits there was a meeting on 17 or 18 April 1994 in which Kanyabashi made a one-and-a-half hour speech asking members of the population not to kill one another and urging the population to welcome refugees to Ngoma commune. However, furious soldiers, claiming to be part of the Presidential Guard, interrupted the meeting and called Kanyabashi an accomplice of the Inkotanyi.<sup>807</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence further contends that there was no evidence adduced as to the existence of two inciting meetings in Cyarwa around May 1994 as provided by Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>808</sup>

401. The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that unrest started in the afternoon of Thursday 21 April 1994 and not in the morning of 20 April 1994, as alleged by Witness QG.<sup>809</sup> Attacks in Agateme were launched and encouraged by gendarmes and not, as Witness QG suggests, by commune policemen sent by Kanyabashi.<sup>810</sup> The Defence further submits that Kanyabashi issued strict instructions forbidding policemen from becoming involved in the killings.<sup>811</sup>

402. Finally, the Defence points out that Witness QG is part of a group that fabricated false testimony.<sup>812</sup> In support of its submissions, the Defence relies on the testimony of Witnesses D-2-YYYY, D-2-20-F, D-2-5-I and D-2-21-T.

3.3.3.2 Preliminary Issues

403. The Defence asserts the evidence produced at trial cannot sustain a conviction because of contradictions between the dates and facts alleged in the Indictment and Witness QG's account. The Defence first raised this issue in its preliminary motion and during Witness QG's testimony on 15 March 2004.<sup>813</sup>

404. On 15 March 2004, in the course of Witness QG's testimony, the Kanyabashi Defence asserted that Witness QG's testimony was not contained within Paragraph 5.8 of the Amended Indictment because he testified as to meetings taking place in the month of April 1994 and not, as Paragraph 5.8 asserts, in or around the month of May 1994.<sup>814</sup> In short, it asserted the evidence did not conform to the Indictment.

405. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 15 May 2004 in which it held that Witness QG's testimony regarding the Cyarwa secteur meetings chaired by Kanyabashi was generally encompassed by the Indictment.<sup>815</sup> In this regard, the Chamber notes the Kanyabashi Indictment specified that Kanyabashi took part in the meetings "in or around May 1994".<sup>816</sup>

406. The Chamber finds that Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment did not provide adequate notice of the alleged April 1994 meetings by alleging they occurred in or around May 1994 at Cyarwa secteur, Ngoma commune. The location is clearly specified, however the time frame is ambiguous. The Chamber must then determine whether this specific paragraph has been cured of this defect through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

enemy; and a meeting convened by Kanyabashi on around 18 or 19 April 1994 that Witness QG attempted to attend but from which he was chased away.<sup>817</sup> This information is consistent with Witness QG's previous statement of 12 June 1996, disclosed to the Defence on 4 December 2000, over three years prior to Witness QG's testimony at trial on 15 March 2004. Therefore, the Defence was given adequate notice by the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and disclosures that the meetings chaired by Kanyabashi allegedly took place in the month of April 1994.

408. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that Paragraph 5.8 of the Kanyabashi Indictment is cured by the disclosure of clear, consistent and timely information.<sup>818</sup> Consequently, Kanyabashi was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence case.<sup>819</sup>

3.3.3.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QG

409. Witness QG, a Tutsi who worked in Ngoma commune,<sup>820</sup> testified that he saw Kanyabashi on two occasions after 6 April 1994.<sup>821</sup> The first occasion was about two to four days after the President's plane crash, on or about 8 to 10 April 1994.<sup>822</sup> He observed Kanyabashi come to meet with the conseiller of Cyarwa secteur at the secteur office, shared between Cyarwa-Sumo and Cyarwa-Cyimana secteurs.<sup>823</sup> Kanyabashi was accompanied by two policemen, including the deputy brigadier of the commune police, whose first name was Gabriel.<sup>824</sup> Witness QG was not present at this meeting between Kanyabashi and the conseiller on that date.<sup>825</sup>

410. The witness saw Kanyabashi about four to six days after the first occasion, when Witness QG participated in a meeting at which Kanyabashi was present, convened at the Cyarwa secteur office, between noon and 2.00 p.m.<sup>826</sup> When confronted with his prior statement, he agreed the meeting was likely to have taken place on 15 April 1994.<sup>827</sup> Kanyabashi arrived in a white Peugeot vehicle and was again accompanied by two police officers, including Gabriel, and other members of the Ngoma commune population.<sup>828</sup> The witness could not identify the other policeman.<sup>829</sup> A camouflage military vehicle with a back similar to a pickup, containing about four soldiers, followed Kanyabashi's vehicle to the meeting and arrived almost at the same time as Kanyabashi's vehicle.<sup>830</sup> The witness could not specify whether they were gendarmes, but noticed that they were wearing military uniforms.<sup>831</sup>

411. At the moment Kanyabashi arrived, Witness QG was in the courtyard in front of the secteur office. The witness entered the building only after Kanyabashi's arrival, as the conference room where the meeting was to be held was only opened upon Kanyabashi's arrival.<sup>832</sup> There were many people there from the neighbouring secteurs of Cyarwa-Sumo and Cyarwa-Cyimana.<sup>833</sup>

412. Witness QG stated that at the time of the meeting killings had not yet started and Gendarmerie Commander Habyarabatuma was still in his post.<sup>834</sup> He could not be certain as to whether Préfet Habyalimana was still in his post or not, but testified about a rumour that Préfet Habyalimana had been dismissed from his post because he was Tutsi.<sup>835</sup>

413. Witness QG testified that Kanyabashi addressed the population, composed of both Tutsis and Hutus.<sup>836</sup> According to the witness, Kanyabashi said, "[y]ou can take weapons, and defend yourselves to stop the enemy from infiltrating amongst you." When an attendee of the meeting retorted that there were people from other communes looking for refuge in the commune, he responded: "You have to chase those people who are seeking refuge out. They may create insecurity." Again, when asked what he was going to do about the houses being burnt in Ngoma, he responded, "[t]hose are Interahamwe who attacked that area and soon they will be chased away from the secteur."<sup>837</sup>

414. Witness QG testified that people were asked to organise night patrols and roadblocks, but that after the meeting there was insecurity in the commune. Hutus separated themselves from Tutsis and started to chase out the Tutsis.<sup>838</sup>

415. Witness QG testified that on 20 April 1994, he travelled to Mukoni and on the return trip he encountered a vehicle filled with soldiers from the Rwandan Army and police officers from Ngoma commune, including Gabriel. They asked one of the people travelling with Witness QG to direct them to the house of Etienne Gitefano, who worked for the bishopric, and whether Gitefano was home. The police and soldiers fired at Gitefano's residence and took a radio, a television set and mattresses out of the house.<sup>839</sup>

416. Witness QG stated the police and soldiers left Gitefano's house and proceeded to attack the house of Jean Karekezi, a merchant, who lived opposite Gitefano. The police and soldiers told other members of the population to go inside and loot the home. Witness QG stated that two men, named Safari and Mingoti, had received weapons training and took part in the lootings.<sup>840</sup>

417. Witness QG testified that on returning home, his own house was being attacked. Soldiers and those who had undergone training were knocking down his front door. Some of the attackers had grenades, rifles and clubs. He had left his pregnant wife and three-year-old child in the home when he went out that morning and had not seen them since that day.<sup>841</sup>

418. Witness QG stated that Kanyabashi issued instructions which people apparently did not respect or obey, and went beyond them. The witness averred that there were instructions to exterminate Tutsis and that Kanyabashi was not in a position to stop what was going on. Kanyabashi should have informed his superiors what was going on so that they could stop those people from perpetrating reprehensible acts.<sup>842</sup>

419. Witness QG testified that he knew Kanyabashi before April 1994. He recalled seeing Kanyabashi on two occasions after 6 April 1994, but was somewhat unclear on this point.<sup>843</sup> Witness QG identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>844</sup>

420. Witness QG was asked during cross-examination whether he was a member of Ibuka. He stated that he worked with other survivors in the region for the purpose of burying victims in dignity.<sup>845</sup> They looked for people that died on the hill and buried them.<sup>846</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

421. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>847</sup> testified that around 18 to 20 April 1994 he was stationed at Mukura Bridge for three days.<sup>848</sup> On the third day, a Thursday, he returned to his home at around 12.30 or 1.30 p.m. and was picked back up by a commune police vehicle to go back on duty.<sup>849</sup> He knew it was Thursday because his wife had gone to the animal market, which was held every Thursday, to sell a goat.<sup>850</sup> 21 April 1994 was a Thursday.<sup>851</sup>

422. Witness D-2-YYYY was picked up by a commune police vehicle at about 3.30 or 4.00 p.m. and taken to a place called Ku'gateme, also known as Agateme or Gateme, at the

423. At Ku'gateme a group of about 50 gendarmes and citizens were looting homes, breaking windows and forcing doors open.<sup>854</sup> In addition, gendarmes were firing at the houses and breaking through the walls of the homes.<sup>855</sup> The assailants targeted the home of Karekezi, nicknamed Gifuka and Muzungu, and the home of the bishop's driver, whose name he could not recall.<sup>856</sup> He stated that gendarmes and Interahamwe were ransacking and destroying houses, and that Karekezi's home was attacked by about 50 Interahamwe.<sup>857</sup>

424. Interahamwe arrived in a civilian Toyota Hilux belonging to CUSP, the university public health centre, and driven by a man named Déo with whom the witness was acquainted.<sup>858</sup> It was filled with between 15 and 20 persons.<sup>859</sup> Most of them, including Déo, were wearing military shirts and civilian trousers. Others were wearing the kitenge fabric worn by the Interahamwe.<sup>860</sup>

425. The Interahamwe vehicle proceeded immediately to Tumba.<sup>861</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY and the commune police vehicle arrived at Ku'gateme at almost the same time as the Interahamwe vehicle.<sup>862</sup> The commune police vehicle stopped at Ku'gateme and the brigadier stepped out of the vehicle to inquire of the gendarmes at the roadblock what was happening. The gendarmes responded angrily and stated, "[y]ou and your boss are unaware of what you are doing." The brigadier and the witness responded that it was them, namely the brigadier and the witness, who did not know what the gendarmes were doing. The police then returned to town.<sup>863</sup>

and Cyarwa-Cyimana were both present, as were the heads of the cellules.<sup>868</sup> The meeting started at around 11.00 a.m.<sup>869</sup> Kanyabashi arrived in a vehicle with one policeman, but other policemen attended the meeting as civilians and were out of uniform.<sup>870</sup> The witness asserted that a police officer named Gabriel Twagiramungu attended the meeting, but not as Kanyabashi's escort.<sup>871</sup>

427. Witness D-2-20-F stated that Kanyabashi informed the population that there were people from Gikongoro préfecture and Runyinya commune who were taking refuge in Cyarwa-Sumo and Cyarwa-Cyimana secteurs. Kanyabashi said: "My brothers and sisters, I am inviting you to show compassion and to welcome those brothers and sisters that have come to take refuge in your homes or in your area. I am appealing to you and I am calling on you to welcome these people. I promise you that we are going to bring you assistance in order to help you to give food to those people. If you welcome them to your homes we will assist you by providing you what is needed for their upkeep."<sup>872</sup>

428. Kanyabashi went on to say: "I am pleading with you and I am urging you to ... do all that can be done to ensure that nobody should attack any other persons. We have seen what is happening in Gishamvu and ... we could see smoke rising ... in Gishamvu because houses were being burnt there ... we don't want what is happening there to happen in our communes."<sup>873</sup>

429. Finally, Kanyabashi lamented that it was difficult to understand how people who were living in peaceful coexistence and intermarrying could start fighting each other. He said: "No one should take advantage of the death of the president to sow seeds of discord amongst people. This matter concerns only the higher authorities of the country and you ... should continue to live in harmony."<sup>874</sup> Kanyabashi spoke for around an hour-and-a-half.<sup>875</sup>

430. This meeting was interrupted by soldiers from a Presidential Guard unit who dispersed the population by beating or kicking them.<sup>876</sup> The soldiers intervened when the members of the population began expressing their opinions and asking for further explanations.<sup>877</sup> The soldiers said the meeting was not authorised while the country was at war and they suspected it was convened by accomplices of the Inkotanyi.<sup>878</sup>

431. Witness D-2-20-F denied that Kanyabashi asked the population to take up weapons or to chase away the refugees. He asserted that, pursuant to Kanyabashi's request, he hosted three refugees in his own home.<sup>879</sup>

432. Witness D-2-20-F testified that on 21 April 1994, at around 2.00 p.m., he went to fetch groceries from Karekezi's at Agateme.<sup>880</sup> Karekezi was also known as Muzungu and Gifuka.<sup>881</sup> There were about 10 gendarmes and a group of about 50 civilians on the road who were accompanied by a member of Parliament named Laurent Baravuga.<sup>882</sup> A few moments later there were gunshots coming from Grégoire Hategekimana's house and people scattered. Two gendarmes appeared from Hategekimana's house.<sup>883</sup> People coming from Hategekimana's house told Witness D-2-20-F that Hategekimana, Simpunga and one other person had all been shot and they had seen their bodies.<sup>884</sup>

433. When the gendarmes arrived at Karekezi's shop, they fired about three shots at the lock and opened the door. They told the members of the population that they should follow the example of the gendarmes and loot the shop. Minister Baravuga added: "You, the inhabitants of C'lyarwa, you have become impossible. I came here with the gendarmes to show you the example to kill. Our country is plagued by a difficult war, and I would like to show that you have to track down the enemy as well as their ... accomplices." He stated the enemies were the Tutsi and their accomplices included the authorities such as "Kanyabatutsi".<sup>885</sup> The population proceeded to loot Karekezi's shop.<sup>886</sup> The witness stated that Karekezi was not killed that day and he was still alive.<sup>887</sup>

435. Witness D-2-20-F stated that no commune police were present.<sup>893</sup> He distinguished the police from gendarmes because the former wore green shirts and trousers, yellow berets and black shoes whereas the latter wore the same uniforms as soldiers, but with reddish berets.<sup>894</sup> He denied that Kanyabashi had sent assailants and police officers to attack the homes because, if Kanyabashi had sent them, it would not have been necessary for the gendarmes to come and mount the attack themselves.<sup>895</sup>

436. Witness D-2-20-F also stated that when he arrived at Agateme, the gendarmes were on foot but at one point a vehicle arrived and one of the gendarmes went to speak to the driver, who parked the vehicle near Cyarwa primary school.<sup>896</sup> The witness thought that the gendarmes had arrived at Agateme in that vehicle.<sup>897</sup>

437. Witness D-2-20-F stated that immediately after the 17 or 18 April 1994 meeting, Witness QG told him that soldiers had begun to interfere with issues of the secteur.<sup>898</sup> Witness D-2-20-F also stated that on 22 April 1994, he heard that Witness QG's wife and child had been killed during an attack the day before at Witness QG's house. Witness D-2-20-F therefore concluded that Witness QG had fled the country.<sup>899</sup>

438. Witness D-2-20-F testified that a Gacaca court sentenced him to 12 years in prison for killing a Tutsi neighbour, after accepting his confession.<sup>900</sup> He was given credit for nine years' time served in prison and was sentenced to serve the remaining three years by performing labour.<sup>901</sup> He stated that he attended all of the Gacaca proceedings in Cyarwa-Sumo secteur and that he never heard any charges against Kanyabashi.<sup>902</sup>

439. Witness D-2-20-F testified that he knew Kanyabashi since before 1976.<sup>903</sup> He described Kanyabashi as about 1.75 to 1.78 metres in height, dark in complexion and between 52 and 55 years of age in 1994. The witness identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>904</sup> The witness testified that he knew Kanyabashi as director of Mamba Hospital and as bourgmestre, but he had never spoken directly to Kanyabashi.<sup>905</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

440. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>906</sup> testified that on 21 April 1994 he was riding in a commune vehicle from Rango to Cyarwa which passed by Agateme and he observed a roadblock manned by gendarmes.<sup>907</sup> In front of the roadblock there were other gendarmes and several other people committing murders and looting the home of Gitefano and Karekezi's place.<sup>908</sup>

441. When he arrived in Agateme, Witness D-2-5-I encountered the conseiller of Cyarwa-Sumo secteur, Nicodemus Hategekimana, who stated that he had witnessed attacks and killings by soldiers. At the same time a vehicle transporting soldiers arrived with Masabo and his family, who the witness believed were to be killed.<sup>909</sup>

442. The police brigadier of Ngoma commune, Gahamanyi, spoke to the citizens in Agateme and urged them to return to their homes and abstain from committing criminal acts. The gendarmes there threatened the commune police and told them to leave.<sup>910</sup>

443. Witness D-2-5-I testified that the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune in April 1994 was Kanyabashi, and he had been bourgmestre since he (the witness) was a child.<sup>911</sup> The witness said that Kanyabashi was never a personal friend of his. The witness was his subordinate and their relationship was limited to that.<sup>912</sup> He identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>913</sup>

3.3.3.4 Deliberations

444. The Prosecution asserts that Kanyabashi incited the population to kill Tutsis by his remarks at the Cyarwa secteur meeting held around mid-April 1994. As a result, attacks were launched on Tutsi homes in Agateme, including those of Étienne Gitefano and Jean Karekezi and Ngoma commune policemen, among others, took part in the attacks. The Defence denies these attacks were triggered by Kanyabashi's speech at the Cyarwa secteur meeting, and denies the involvement of Ngoma commune policemen in these attacks.<sup>914</sup>

Cyarwa Secteur Public Meeting

445. Prosecution Witness QG and Defence Witness D-2-20-F both testified that Kanyabashi chaired a public meeting in Cyarwa-Sumo and Cyarwa-Cyimana secteurs around mid-April 1994.<sup>915</sup> However, they did not agree on the exact date of the meeting; Witness QG testified that it was on 15 April 1994 between noon and 2.00 p.m.,<sup>916</sup> while Witness D-2-20-F testified that it occurred on 17 or 18 April 1994, starting at around 11.00 a.m.<sup>917</sup> Both witnesses testified that Cyarwa-Sumo and Cyarwa-Cyimana secteurs shared offices at the same location and that the meeting was held outside the offices.<sup>918</sup> Both witnesses testified that the meeting was held when refugees were entering into those secteurs but prior to the start of killings in the secteurs.<sup>919</sup> Furthermore, both witnesses testified that Kanyabashi presided over the meeting and both Hutus and Tutsis were present.<sup>920</sup>

446. Considering that 15 years have elapsed since this event occurred, and taking into account the corroborating elements between the witnesses as to the location and participants in the Cyarwa secteur public meeting, the Chamber finds that the witnesses testified about the same meeting which occurred in mid-April. Witness QG stated that Kanyabashi arrived at the Cyarwa secteur meeting accompanied by two policemen, including the Deputy Brigadier, named Gabriel.<sup>921</sup> He also stated that a car transporting about four soldiers followed Kanyabashi's vehicle to the meeting.<sup>922</sup> Witness QG testified that during the meeting Kanyabashi instructed the population to take weapons to defend themselves and to chase out those seeking refuge because they were creating insecurity.<sup>923</sup> The witness stated that after the meeting there was insecurity in the commune, and Hutus separated themselves from Tutsis and chased the Tutsis out.<sup>924</sup>

447. In contrast, Witness D-2-20-F stated that Kanyabashi came to the meeting escorted by a single police officer whom he was not able to identify.<sup>925</sup> There were no soldiers with Kanyabashi on that occasion.<sup>926</sup> Soldiers only arrived later to disrupt the meeting.<sup>927</sup> In his speech, Kanyabashi urged the population to welcome the refugees and did not instruct the population to take up arms.<sup>928</sup>

448. The Chamber notes that Witness D-2-20-F was added as a witness on 15 February 2008.<sup>929</sup> The Chamber recalls that Witness D-2-20-F confessed to participating in killing his neighbour during the genocide and was sentenced to 12 years in prison. However, he was not detained at the time of his testimony and did not have a motive to lie to seek leniency in his punishment.<sup>930</sup>

449. In light of the conflicting testimony of Witnesses D-2-20-F and QG, and absent any corroborating evidence to support Witness QG's account of the meeting, the Chamber finds the Prosecution has not established that Kanyabashi urged the population to take up arms and to defend themselves at the Cyarwa secteur meeting of mid-April 1994.

Agateme Attacks

450. Witness QG testified that he observed both soldiers and commune police, including one named Gabriel, attack the homes of Karekezi and Gitefano at Agateme on 20 April 1994.<sup>931</sup> He stated that police and soldiers encouraged the population to loot the homes.<sup>932</sup> However, during cross-examination, Witness QG was confronted with the fact that in the Kinyarwanda version of his prior statement of 12 June 1996, he did not mention the presence of police officers during this incident. The witness clarified that when the shooting began, he also saw a police officer among the soldiers, but since several shots were fired he could not tell whether it was the soldiers or police officers who opened fire.<sup>933</sup>

451. The Defence adduced evidence through Witnesses D-2-21-T to support the assertion that Prosecution Witness QG was an Ibuka member who participated in meetings where they were asked to falsely accuse Kanyabashi regarding events of which the witness had no personal knowledge.<sup>934</sup> Witness D-2-21-T testified that Witness QG was encouraged to lie about Kanyabashi's involvement in the attacks at Agateme. According to Witness D-2-21-T, Witness QG was told to say that Kanyabashi supervised the destruction of Karekezi's house and ordered that Gitefano be killed.<sup>935</sup> The Chamber finds that because Witness D-2-21-T lacked credibility, as already discussed in this Judgement (), her testimony does not undermine the testimony of Witness QG.

452. In contrast to Witness QG's testimony, Witness D-2-20-F stated that commune police were not involved in the attacks on Karekezi's and Gitefano's homes.<sup>936</sup> However, he acknowledged that he did not personally observe the looting of Gitefano's home.<sup>937</sup> The Chamber further notes also that Witness D-2-20-F was added as a witness on 15 February 2008.<sup>938</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY and Witness D-2-5-I both stated that gendarmes participated in the attacks.<sup>939</sup> The Chamber notes, however, as already outlined in another section of this Judgement, that Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-5-I both worked closely with Kanyabashi during the events at issue (). Therefore, they had a motive to deny involvement in the Agateme attacks. The Chamber thus cannot rely on their testimony.

453. Nevertheless, in light of the inconsistency between Witness QG's prior statement and his trial testimony and absent any corroborating evidence to support Witness QG's account of the attacks, the Chamber finds the Prosecution has not proven beyond a reasonable doubt that commune policeman participated in the attacks of Gitefano's and Karekezi's homes at Agateme or that Kanyabashi ordered them to participate in such attacks.

3.4 Cabinet Meetings, 9 April – 14 July 1994

3.4.1 Introduction

454. Each of the Indictments allege that between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994, numerous Cabinet meetings were held in Kigali, Gitarama and Gisenyi and that during this period Prime Minister Jean Kambanda and ministers, including Nyiramasuhuko, were regularly briefed on civilian massacres. It is further alleged that during such meetings, ministers demanded weapons for distribution in their respective home préfectures knowing that such weapons would be used in massacres.<sup>940</sup>

455. Each Indictment further alleges that during these Cabinet meetings, the Interim Government adopted directives and gave instructions to préfets and bourgmestres, which were then passed on to the general public, intended to incite, aid and abet the perpetration of the massacres. In order to ensure that the directives and instructions were carried out, a minister was appointed for each préfecture with responsibility for what was termed “pacification”. Nyiramasuhuko was assigned this task for Butare.<sup>941</sup>

456. These allegations are advanced only in support of counts against Nyiramasuhuko, namely conspiracy to commit genocide, genocide, complicity in genocide, incitement to commit genocide, crimes against humanity and a violation of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and Additional Protocol II. Therefore, they will be considered only with respect to Nyiramasuhuko.

457. This section contains a general discussion of Cabinet meetings and “pacification”, followed by a more specific analysis of particular Cabinet meetings. The Chamber’s deliberations are based on a review of the totality of the evidence presented by the Parties, both general and specific, and are therefore contained in a single section at the end of this thematic heading. In support of the allegations as described below, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses FA, FAG, FAH, FAI, FAL, FAP, QBU, TA, TQ and SS, and Prosecution Expert Witnesses André Guichaoua, Alison Des Forges and Évariste Ntakirutimana. The Prosecution further relies on the evidence given by Nyiramasuhuko, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Expert Witness Eugène Shimamungu, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL, Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens, Nsabimana and Nsabimana Defence Witness Patrick Fergal Keane.

458. The Defence relies on the testimony of Nyiramasuhuko.

3.4.2 Preliminary Issues

459. The Ntahobali Defence, on behalf of Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko, requests the exclusion of, inter alia, the testimony of Prosecution Expert Witnesses Guichaoua and Expert Witness Ntakirutimana on the grounds that the Defence did not receive sufficient notice of the testimony of these two witnesses. It further submits that the admission into evidence of the alleged diary of Nyiramasuhuko, on which Guichaoua’s report was based, was prejudicial to the rights of both Accused. It asks the Chamber to find that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali's right to prepare their defence has been violated.<sup>942</sup>

460. As regards Ntakirutimana, the Chamber recalls its Decision of 30 March 2004 in which it, inter alia, granted the Prosecution's motion to add three new witnesses, including Ntakirutimana, to its witness list. In that Decision, the Chamber also ordered the disclosure of the non-redacted statements of the new witnesses to the Defence with a view to avoiding any delay that could prejudice the Defence in its preparation and directed the Prosecution to call such witnesses at the end of its case in order to provide the Defence with sufficient time to prepare for the cross-examination of the new witnesses.<sup>943</sup>

461. The Chamber took the view that it would be in the interests of justice to add such witnesses to the Prosecution witness list. The Chamber noted that the Prosecution disclosed Ntakirutimana's Report on 12 January 2004. The witness was not called until more than eight months later, after the end of the Prosecution case.<sup>944</sup>

462. In view of the foregoing and the fact that the Ntahobali Defence has not established the existence of prejudice as a result of Ntakirutimana being permitted to testify, the Chamber finds no reason to reconsider its earlier ruling.

463. As regards Guichaoua and Prosecution Exhibit 144C (Nyiramasuhuko Diary, 1994), the Chamber recalls its Oral Decision of 24 June 2004.<sup>945</sup> In that Decision, the Chamber first noted that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not object to the characterisation of the diary in question as belonging to Nyiramasuhuko despite numerous opportunities to do so.<sup>946</sup> It found that both the diary and Volume Two of Guichaoua's Report opining on the meaning of the diary were admissible as evidence.<sup>947</sup> The Chamber noted, however, that the probative value of this evidence would be evaluated at a later date.<sup>948</sup> For these reasons, the Chamber finds no reason to reconsider its earlier ruling.

3.4.3 Cabinet Meetings – General

3.4.3.1 Introduction

464. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko, as a member of the Interim Government and a figure of authority in Butare, conspired with the Interim Government as a whole and with influential figures in Butare to commit genocide in Butare. The Prosecution contends that she actively participated in and supported the Interim Government's agreement to commit genocide and played an active role in ensuring that the agreement was drawn up, adhered to and implemented in Butare. In support of this contention, the Prosecution relies on, inter alia, Nyiramasuhuko's use of the word "we".<sup>949</sup>

465. It is the Prosecution's submission that the Interim Government continued to function between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994: meetings were held, political appointments were made, and directives and instructions were issued and executed by the various levels in the political hierarchy, soldiers and militia, and by the local population itself, in accordance with the political structure of Rwanda.<sup>950</sup>

466. According to the Prosecution, these directives and meetings show that between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994 the Interim Government had decided upon a specific course of action and reached agreement on the execution of a plan to commit genocide and incite, aid and abet the massacres of Tutsi and Hutu moderates. The Prosecution argues that the Interim Government, as a fully functioning government, had developed an explicit policy to exterminate Tutsis and its members had conspired as superiors to intentionally refrain from preventing or punishing perpetrators of crimes.<sup>951</sup>

467. The Prosecution specifically refers to two Directives issued on 25 May 1994 from Prime Minister Kambanda to préfets; one concerning the organisation of the civilian self-defence, and the other concerning the implementation of the orders issued by the Prime Minister. Nyiramasuhuko participated in the drafting of the former document.<sup>952</sup> The Prosecution submits that these directives are an indication of a fully functioning Interim Government,<sup>953</sup> and further alleges that the Interim Government, its members and subordinates played a key role in the plan to commit genocide in Rwanda between April and July 1994.<sup>954</sup>

468. The Prosecution stresses what it considers to have been an important issue throughout the trial: the use of double-speak, or the attribution of specific hidden meanings to certain words and phrases in Rwanda in 1994, such as "enemy", "Inyenzi", "Inkotanyi", "pacification", "accomplice", "dirt", "snake" and "infiltrator". In the Prosecution's view, an analysis of the words used by figures of authority during the genocide, the context in which they were used and their meaning to the people who heard them, is necessary in order to understand how the genocide took place.<sup>955</sup>

469. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not contest the Prosecution's assertion in Paragraph 6.13 of the Indictments that "numerous Cabinet meetings were held successively in Kigali, Gitarama and Gisenyi." However, it rejects the allegation that between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994, ministers (including Nyiramasuhuko) received "regular briefings" on the situation with regard to civilian massacres.<sup>956</sup>

470. Further, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not contest that from 17 May 1994, Nyiramasuhuko took part in the editing of governmental directives on civil defence, which were signed by the Prime Minister on 25 May 1994. However, it submits that these directives were aimed at creating a uniform structure for the self-defence organisation which was already existent under various forms in the préfectures of the country not under RPF control.<sup>957</sup>

471. In relation to Paragraph 6.13 of the Indictments, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that the allegation that during Cabinet meetings, “ministers demanded weapons for distribution in their respective home préfectures, knowing that the weapons would be used in the massacres”, lacks specification as regards the identity of the individuals alleged to be involved. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence also argues that the Prosecution has failed to prove that allegation against Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>958</sup>

472. Concerning Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that the Prosecution has not provided proof beyond a reasonable doubt in relation to the charge laid against Nyiramasuhuko, relating to the adoption and implementation of directives and instructions intended to incite, aid and abet the perpetration of the massacres.<sup>959</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

473. During his testimony, André Guichaoua referred to Volume Two of his Report, which contains an analysis of Nyiramasuhuko’s 1994 diary.<sup>960</sup> He testified that of all the personal diaries he has consulted, no other contains as much information on, or such a specific narration of, the period under consideration, as Nyiramasuhuko’s diary. He considered that its significance was even greater, given that the author made a particular effort to include people who were occupying important positions and in that regard, she was a very keen observer.<sup>961</sup>

474. In Guichaoua’s view, the diary was significant on two levels: first, in terms of the volume of note-taking; and second, in demonstrating the central role of the Interim Government. In relation to the first point, he considered the abundance of notes provided a deep insight into the political activities of the presidential movement before, during and after the genocide. The witness considered that the notes, as a whole, reflect Nyiramasuhuko’s perception of the political situation and a number of conclusions can be drawn from them, for instance in relation to the issue of ethnicity or the use of propaganda as employed at the time by the power-wing of the MRND. As regards the second point, the witness also stated that according to the diary, during the period from April to July 1994, the Government played a key role and was the place where discussions took place and decisions were taken.<sup>962</sup>

475. Commenting on Table 3 of Volume Two of his Report, in which he provided a non-exhaustive list of meetings and political activities attended by Nyiramasuhuko between 6 April 1994 and 17 July 1994, Guichaoua observed that she was one of the most regular attendees of Cabinet meetings.<sup>963</sup> The proximity between Gitarama and Butare made it possible for her to be present in Butare and regularly visit Murambi in Gitarama where the Cabinet would meet. According to Table 3, the Cabinet met on 15 occasions between 6 April 1994 and 17 July 1994.<sup>964</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Évariste Ntakirutimana

476. Évariste Ntakirutimana testified that in the context of Rwanda in 1994, “Inkotanyi” and “snake” referred to those who had attacked Rwanda from abroad.<sup>965</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens

477. Filip Reyntjens testified to the use of double-speak in the Directive issued by the Prime Minister to all préfets on 27 April 1994, in which the words “enemy” and “accomplices” were used to refer to the Tutsis and possibly Hutu opponents and the word “Inkotanyi” to mean Tutsis.<sup>966</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

478. In cross-examination, Nyiramasuhuko stated that between April and July 1994, she would always carry her handbag containing first aid items and her diary. She testified that she sometimes forgot her handbag and was therefore without her diary, although she did not know how many times this had occurred.<sup>967</sup> When questioned on whether she recorded events in the diary entries for the dates on which they occurred, Nyiramasuhuko answered that while this was possible, the lack of paper available after the assassination of the President led her to take notes in the diary to the extent that in only a few instances were the events written down in the corresponding date entries.<sup>968</sup>

479. In discussing her notes on what transpired at the meeting of 9 April 1994 establishing the Interim Government, Nyiramasuhuko stated: “I explained that as far as we were concerned, the massacres were not supposed to take place. That is what we were fighting against when we took office. We were opposed to the massacres. We wanted, and we stood for peace.”<sup>969</sup>

480. When questioned under cross-examination on how the Government obtained information on security across the country between April and July 1994, Nyiramasuhuko stated that as resources were limited, it was difficult to collect information. She testified that telephones were not operational, the country was at war, there was no media and the intelligence services were in the hands of the RPF.<sup>970</sup>

3.4.4 Pacification

481. The Prosecution submits that a minister with responsibility for “pacification” was appointed to each préfecture in order to ensure that the Interim Government’s directives and instructions were implemented. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko was assigned this duty for Butare.<sup>971</sup>

482. The Prosecution alleges that well before the issuance of the Prime Minister’s Directive of 27 April 1994, the Interim Government had already assigned ministers to préfectures for the purposes of pacification.<sup>972</sup> The Prosecution alleges that the Prime Minister’s Directive on restoring security of 27 April 1994 requires explanation in order for its true meaning to be understood by members of the population.<sup>973</sup> According to the Prosecution, Eliezer Niyitegeka could not have been in charge of pacification in Butare, as submitted by the Defence, because he was not a native of Butare.<sup>974</sup> The Prosecution submits that the speech he delivered as part of the pacification campaign in Butare was not a pacification speech, but rather a war speech.<sup>975</sup>

483. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence rejects the Prosecution’s contention that pacification was a campaign intended to incite, aid and abet the perpetration of massacres. It argues that the Prosecution has not adduced any evidence in support of this contention or the allegation that the Government entrusted Nyiramasuhuko with responsibility for pacification in Butare.<sup>976</sup>

484. The Defence submits that it has proved that pacification was the Government’s attempt to restore calm to the population and stop the killings.<sup>977</sup> It further submits that the only evidence adduced in relation to Nyiramasuhuko’s alleged involvement in pacification in Butare was the opinion evidence of Guichaoua, who extracted the word “pacification” from her notes and used that to conclude that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare.<sup>978</sup>

485. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that pacification was a continual effort to restore peace to the population through radio messages and by meeting the préfets so that they, together with their subordinates, could in turn calm the population. It is the Nyiramasuhuko Defence’s submission that proof of this can be found in the Prime Minister’s Directive of 27

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

486. André Guichaoua pointed to the assertion he made in his Report, that each minister was given responsibility for pacification in a particular préfecture, and stated that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare.<sup>980</sup> He admitted that Nyiramasuhuko's diary contained no mention of the fact that she had been assigned to Butare for the purposes of pacification.<sup>981</sup> He stated that the diary, taken as a whole, showed that Butare was Nyiramasuhuko's main concern and that information pertaining to Nyiramasuhuko's assignment to Butare préfecture existed elsewhere.<sup>982</sup> In this connection, Guichaoua pointed to two diary entries in his Report to show that Nyiramasuhuko was the minister in the Interim Government responsible for pacification in Butare. The first diary entry under 25 May 1994 (allegedly containing notes from 22 May 1994) states "[d]emystify the enemy, therefore journalists would travel with the ministers in charge of particular préfectures." The second diary entry of 3 June 1994 (allegedly containing notes from 1 June 1994) states, "Mifaprofe → Muramba and Butare and keep an eye on Gikongoro". Guichaoua asserted "Mifaprofe" means the Ministre de la famille et de la promotion féminine, which was the post held by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>983</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

487. Alison Des Forges testified that the literal translation of the Kinyarwanda term commonly referred to as "pacification" was in fact "restoring security".<sup>984</sup> She drew a distinction between, on the one hand, "pacification", which means ending violence to most people and, on the other hand, "restoring security", which could mean ending violence but could also encompass eliminating the enemy who is a threat to security.<sup>985</sup> Des Forges stated, in both her testimony and her Expert Report, that pacification was the result of the need not to end the killings but rather the need to get them under better control.<sup>986</sup> This need arose for three main reasons: (i) Government officials were concerned with Rwanda's international image; (ii) when the killings began, some people saw this as an opportunity to settle scores, resulting in Hutus killing Hutus – this threatened solidarity; and (iii) some Tutsis were escaping by buying their lives, for example, by selling sexual services.<sup>987</sup> The authorities also used pacification as a tactic to lure Tutsis out of hiding to be killed.<sup>988</sup>

488. Des Forges testified that at the Cabinet meeting of 23 April 1994 Nyiramasuhuko was assigned the responsibility of implementing the pacification campaign for Butare préfecture, and she was often present there.<sup>989</sup> Des Forges stated that the pacification policy was officially launched via the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security issued on 27 April 1994.<sup>990</sup> In commenting on the contents of the Directive, the witness stated that it was important to appreciate the subtleties and complexities of the Kinyarwanda language, which allows for a great deal of ambiguity.<sup>991</sup> Accordingly, when reading a document such as the Prime Minister's Directive of 27 April 1994, attention must be paid to the surface message and to the message underneath.<sup>992</sup> In Des Forges' view the surface message was apparently to restore calm, but there is a distinction between restoring peace and restoring security – restoring security means eliminating the threat, i.e. the enemy who is the Tutsi.<sup>993</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

489. Nyiramasuhuko testified that pacification was one of the main issues to be discussed at the Cabinet meeting of 9 April 1994 and to that end, radio messages were broadcast that were aimed at the public, the army and the international community based in Rwanda. These messages were delivered by the President, Prime Minister, Minister of Defence and the leaders of political parties, and urged listeners not to attack each other and be vigilant to ensure that violent confrontations did not take place in their homes.<sup>994</sup>

490. Nyiramasuhuko stated that a clear pacification campaign schedule was drawn up at that meeting, according to which members of the Government would meet préfets, bourgmestres, conseillers and the population on particular days. She stated that this schedule was implemented.<sup>995</sup>

491. Nyiramasuhuko also gave evidence as to why pacification was again raised at the meeting of 23 April 1994. She stated that the Cabinet had received information that many people were dying and a decision was taken on that day to adopt a new approach to pacification. A document entitled "pacification" was therefore drawn up and disseminated on 27 April 1994.<sup>996</sup> This document took the form of a letter from the Prime Minister to the préfets and contained instructions on the restoration of security in the country.<sup>997</sup> According to Nyiramasuhuko, the word “enemy” in that document referred to the RPF-Inkotanyi, not Tutsis.<sup>998</sup>

492. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the pacification campaign involved the dissemination of the Prime Minister’s instructions of 27 April 1994 to members of the préfecture conference, invitees of the préfet and others responsible for restoring peace.<sup>999</sup> After the instructions had been communicated, Nyiramasuhuko explained that observations were made on those instructions. These included potential difficulties and suggestions for better implementation. All préfectures that were not held by the RPF were covered during the pacification campaign, which began on 30 April 1994 and ended on 5 May 1994.<sup>1000</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified she attended meetings aimed at pacification purposes, specifically the meetings held on 4 May 1994 in Kigali-rural and on 6 May 1994 in Ruhengeri.<sup>1001</sup>

493. Nyiramasuhuko testified that as far as she was concerned, pacification and restoring security were the same. She denied that the instructions issued on 27 April 1994 needed to be explained to the population, stating that these instructions provided a clear explanation of what had to be done. She claimed that it was necessary for the message to be repeated day after day and that the Interim Government wanted people to understand that it did not support the massacres. The message was therefore read out so that people could understand.<sup>1002</sup>

494. Nyiramasuhuko emphasised that her notes on the meeting of 23 April 1994 did not mention that pacification should be used to propagate a policy of genocide, nor that ministers were appointed to spread such a message. She testified that at no time did she have responsibility for the organisation or supervision of killings in Butare, nor was she ever given responsibility of any other kind as regards Butare. Nyiramasuhuko stated that the decision as to which minister would be responsible for disseminating the pacification policy and where, was taken by consensus at the Cabinet meeting of 27 April 1994 and followed the principle that members of the government would go where they had the largest number of supporters and on the basis of ministerial availability, since many were absent on mission. She added that leaders of political parties proceeded in the same way.<sup>1003</sup>

495. Nyiramasuhuko denied that she had been in charge of pacification in Butare and testified that the Cabinet decided to send her to Gisenyi préfecture as part of the pacification campaign, accompanied by Minister André Rwamakuba (Minister of Primary and Secondary Education) and one representative each from the MDR and PECO parties.<sup>1004</sup> According to her testimony, she specifically visited Ngororero, Kigali-rural and Ngenda.<sup>1005</sup> She testified that Ministers Eliezer Niyitegeka (Minister of Information) and Stratom Sabumukunzi (Minister of Agriculture and Livestock), accompanied by Francois Ndungutse (Chairman of the PSD), were dispatched to deliver the pacification message in Butare. Nyiramasuhuko stated that the préfet of Butare, Ndungutse and Niyitegeka spoke at the pacification meeting in Butare, which was broadcast over the radio on 30 April 1994, and that Niyitegeka issued instructions to the attendees.<sup>1006</sup>

496. Regarding Minister Niyitegeka's pacification speech to Butare, there is a passage which reads:

Know that we are all abatabazi; that we already know who the enemy is. He is called Inkotanyi. Inkotanyi are not found only in Kigali and Butare ... or rather, they are not found only in Ruhengeri and Byumba but also in Butare. Be vigilant, identify them and do not look out only for them. Do not attack a person because of his ethnic origin, because he is handsome or ugly, tall or short, or rich or poor.<sup>1007</sup>

497. Nyiramasuhuko rejected the Prosecution's assertion that this was a war speech, claiming that such an opinion could only come from a misunderstanding of Kinyarwanda. She testified that what Niyitegeka was in fact saying was that the enemy was not one's neighbour, but the Inkotanyi.<sup>1008</sup>

498. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed she participated in the drafting of the Directive issued from Prime Minister Kambanda on 25 May 1994, yet she clarified this was a document of the Government, not her personal paper.<sup>1009</sup>

3.4.5 Cabinet Meeting, 9 April 1994

3.4.5.1 Introduction

499. The Prosecution submits that massacres had already started before the formation of the Interim Government on 9 April 1994 and the Interim Government at that point knew what was happening. It further alleges that at that time, the members of the Interim Government were aware, for example, that Government security forces, such as the Presidential Guard, were involved in the massacres.<sup>1010</sup> The Prosecution alleges that apart from dispatching three information-gathering delegations, the Interim Government took no steps to deal with a report delivered to the Cabinet that stated that only Tutsis were being killed.<sup>1011</sup> The Prosecution submits that statements were made during the course of the meeting of 9 April 1994 which purported to justify the massacres on the basis that they were the outcome of Rwandans' anger over the President's murder.<sup>1012</sup>

500. The Prosecution argues that in view of the large-scale massacres of Tutsis, who were seen as accomplices of the RPF, the only logical conclusion to be drawn from reading certain extracts of Nyiramasuhuko's notes on the Cabinet meeting of 9 April 1994 is that the Interim Government considered massacres of Tutsis to be the solution to the conflict.<sup>1013</sup> According to the Prosecution, the issue of "accomplices" is of key importance.<sup>1014</sup> It submits that evidence led from expert and factual witnesses of both the Prosecution and Defence shows that any Tutsi or person who appeared to help the Tutsis could be considered to be an accomplice, including Hutu moderates.<sup>1015</sup> The Prosecution argues that members of the Interim Government, other officials, soldiers, Interahamwe and perpetrators of massacres used words such as "accomplice", "Inyenzi" and "Inkotanyi" interchangeably and as part of a concerted action to incite, aid and abet the massacres of Tutsis throughout Rwanda.<sup>1016</sup>

501. The Prosecution submits that it is not credible for any member of the Interim Government to claim they did not know that when the Interim Government referred to the RPF-Inkotanyi as the enemy, this would be understood by listeners as a reference to Tutsis.<sup>1017</sup>

502. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that from its first day in office, the Interim Government was intent on calling for assistance to end hostilities with the RPF and the killings.<sup>1018</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence claims that the fact that the Interim Government had informed international authorities of the situation and requested the intervention of the international community is inconsistent with the allegation that it issued directives and incited, aided and abetted the population to commit genocide.<sup>1019</sup>

503. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence contends that the Interim Government inherited a pre-existing violent situation and endeavoured to end the killings through communication with administrative officials. It rejects the allegation that the Government's decisions had anything to do with incitement or aiding and abetting the population to commit massacres and argues that the Government did not have a premeditated plan to kill Tutsis.<sup>1020</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

504. Alison Des Forges testified that sometimes the only proof that someone was an “accomplice” was an identity card stating that the person was Tutsi.<sup>1021</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

505. Nyiramasuhuko testified that Defence Exhibit 346C comprised her notes on the Cabinet meeting of 9 April 1994, the first Cabinet meeting after the death of President Habyarimana which she had attended.<sup>1022</sup> Referring to the part of her notes which reads, “Nuncio – furious because of the death of priests in the upheavals and says that only Tutsis are being killed”, Nyiramasuhuko testified that this statement was reportedly made by the apostolic nuncio, although she did not recall the identity of the person who provided that report. Nyiramasuhuko claimed that ministerial delegations were dispatched to the apostolic nuncio and the Belgian and French ambassadors to seek assistance. The delegations reported back to the Cabinet the following day and reported that the apostolic nuncio and the French ambassador had agreed to help the Interim Government.<sup>1023</sup>

506. When questioned as to whether the Interim Government took any steps, aside from dispatching ministerial delegations, to address reports that only Tutsis were being killed, Nyiramasuhuko only replied that the Government sought the assistance and views of the nuncio and the Belgian and French ambassadors. When asked whether she took the floor during the meeting to make a statement concerning the reports that Tutsis were being killed, Nyiramasuhuko answered that she was not in possession of that information at the time, but when such information became available to her through others, she aligned herself with those calling for assistance to help resolve the problems they were facing.<sup>1024</sup>

507. When the Prosecution suggested that the presence at the meeting of the gendarmierie Chief of Staff, General Ndindiliyimana, meant that ministers should have been aware of the situation in Kigali up to 9 April 1994, Nyiramasuhuko replied that the Chief of Staff told attendees of the meeting that after the death of the President the RPF had attacked the Presidential Guard camp, the Kacyiro camp and individuals in Kenamba and that all the Government could do was ask for help.<sup>1025</sup> In the section concerning the Chief of Staff, Nyiramasuhuko’s notes on this meeting also contain a reference made by her to disarming the Presidential Guard soldiers.<sup>1026</sup>

508. Referring to her notes, Nyiramasuhuko testified that the Minister of Environment and Tourism asked: “Who organises the massacres? Is RPF also organised so that the massacres will be a solution?”<sup>1027</sup> Nyiramasuhuko explained that the speaker was asking himself whether the RPF was committing massacres as a way of achieving its aim, i.e. taking power by force.<sup>1028</sup> It was suggested to Nyiramasuhuko in cross-examination that given the circumstances in which the meeting of 9 April 1994 took place, the view was that, were the RPF to refuse to negotiate, massacres would be the response.<sup>1029</sup> In reply, Nyiramasuhuko stated that as far as she was concerned, the massacres were not supposed to have taken place.<sup>1030</sup>

509. The Prosecution suggested to Nyiramasuhuko that the question appearing on page 5 of her notes, which reads “[w]hat is your opinion about the accomplices?”, was ambiguous, in common with the notes made in respect of previous speakers at the meeting. Nyiramasuhuko denied that this was the case and when questioned on what she considered to be an accomplice, she stated that question went unanswered as of 9 April 1994, but that an accomplice would be someone who would hide RPF weapons in his home or inform RPF soldiers who was not on their side.<sup>1031</sup>

510. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the phrase, “[v]ery important media contact with diplomats”, followed by “Tanzania, Zaire, France, Kenya, UNAMIR” contained in her notes on the meeting of 9 April 1994, referred to the fact that contact with those countries and organisations was important because they had previously assisted the two parties and would have a role to play in restoring peace in Rwanda.<sup>1032</sup>

511. As regards the statement in the notes which reads “notify the Security Council, OAU, etc.”, Nyiramasuhuko was questioned on whether the Interim Government actually contacted the Security Council and the OAU on 9 April 1994.<sup>1033</sup> Nyiramasuhuko answered that it did so immediately through UNAMIR because the war had just begun and the Security Council had sent UNAMIR to Rwanda.<sup>1034</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that it was therefore necessary for the Security Council to be informed so that the UNAMIR troops could be increased and their mandate be extended in order to bring an end to the killings and the war.<sup>1035</sup>

512. Nyiramasuhuko was also questioned on a statement attributed to Minister Mugenzi, who reportedly said that the massacres were not an act of barbarity but rather the anger of the Rwandan people, and that such reaction was normal in view of the three years of war,

1,000,000 displaced persons and the deaths of the Rwandan and Burundian Presidents. Nyiramasuhuko testified that this statement was a reflection of the reality of the situation.<sup>1036</sup>

513. Nyiramasuhuko testified that as the Interim Government had just been formed, it could not have organised the massacres; the massacres took place before the Interim Government took power and the meeting on 9 April 1994 was the first Cabinet meeting of the new Government.<sup>1037</sup> She claimed that the RPF attributed responsibility for the massacres to the Interim Government as a way of creating division and frustrating the establishment of Government institutions.<sup>1038</sup>

514. Nyiramasuhuko also testified that “Inyenzi” was not synonymous with Tutsi but rather referred to the Inkotanyi. She stated that Inyenzi were virtually everywhere in the country and that it was the government’s right to fight the Inyenzi.<sup>1039</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Patrick Fergal Keane

515. Patrick Fergal Keane, a British journalist, testified that he understood Inyenzi to mean “cockroaches” which could be applied to RPF soldiers or Tutsi civilians.<sup>1040</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens

516. When questioned on the meaning of “accomplice”, Reyntjens testified that this term would be generally understood by Rwandans to refer to Tutsis. He further testified that there was no need for a person’s identity card to specify that they were Tutsi in order to be a target; many had been killed because they looked like Tutsis or were known to be Tutsis in their neighbourhood.<sup>1041</sup>

517. Eugène Shimamungu explained the term Inkotanyi as follows:

Dualistic globalisation is a phenomenon that occurs in all conflicts ... In Rwanda, either you are with me or against me. These are the two parties in conflicts. In Rwanda it was the same case, on the one hand, you had the Inkotanyi, on the other side you had the Rwandan government army, and the globalisation that occurred is that the Tutsis were considered as the Inkotanyi, because the Inkotanyi were majority Tutsi.<sup>1042</sup>

3.4.6 Cabinet Meeting, 10 April 1994

3.4.6.1 Introduction

518. The Prosecution submits that a Cabinet meeting took place on 10 April 1994, during which the Interim Government decided on and established a formal structure for roadblocks which involved security forces, gendarmes, local authorities, Interahamwe and civilians working together.<sup>1043</sup> According to the Prosecution, the evidence on what happened between April and July 1994 largely confirms that the roadblock structure was consistent with the decisions of the Interim Government and that at these roadblocks, Tutsis were identified and killed.<sup>1044</sup>

519. The Prosecution argues that the discussion on the position of responsables de cellule was significant, as payment of the cellule members was part of the Government's plan for the execution of the massacres. It contends that the Interim Government considered responsables de cellule to be the basic unit for denouncing Tutsis and identifying infiltrators.<sup>1045</sup>

520. It is not disputed that the meeting in question took place on 10 April 1994. What is contested is the content of said meeting. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence claims that the decisions taken in the course of this meeting were aimed at restoring peace. It submits that the Interim Government was powerless to stop the killings and tried to resolve the situation while defending the sovereignty of Rwanda against the RPF.<sup>1046</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence rejects the Prosecution's contention that the Interim Government insisted on a ceasefire before it would intervene to halt the massacres. Further, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence underscores that the Prosecution never challenged its assertions that the FAR was defending itself or that the Interim Government repeatedly attempted to secure a ceasefire.<sup>1047</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

521. Nyiramasuhuko testified that security and roadblocks were discussed at the meeting of 10 April 1994. She explained that a decision was taken to maintain roadblocks supervised by soldiers and that roadblocks manned by civilians, wherever necessary due to inadequate numbers of gendarmes, had to be under the control of local authorities.<sup>1048</sup>

522. When cross-examined on the role of cellules, Nyiramasuhuko refuted the Prosecution submission that cellules were part of the Government's plan to commit massacres on the basis that the cellule was an integral part of the Rwandan administrative structure and that the government had been in office for only one day. She emphasised that cellules had been in place long before the troubles.<sup>1049</sup>

523. Referring to her notes on this meeting under the heading “security”, Nyiramasuhuko testified that the Government felt that it was abnormal for the situation of insecurity to persist in view of its appointment and decided to do its best to restore security.<sup>1050</sup> According to Nyiramasuhuko, at the meeting the Government decided that in view of the various incidences of looting and stealing, the Prosecutors’ offices must carry out investigations.<sup>1051</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that in line with what was discussed during the meeting, the Government subsequently wrote to the RPF requesting a ceasefire.<sup>1052</sup>

524. In relation to the issue of contacting the préfets, as discussed at the Cabinet meeting of 9 April 1994, Nyiramasuhuko testified that this issue was discussed again on 10 April 1994 and it was stated that they should be contacted by fax and telephone, although she could not confirm whether this actually occurred.<sup>1053</sup>

3.4.7 Joint Meeting of Government and Préfets, 11 April 1994

3.4.7.1 Introduction

525. The Prosecution submits that at a meeting held on 11 April 1994, the préfet of Gikongoro proposed that the Government protect only a part of the population, i.e. those who lived on the hills, and that no measures were taken in respect of refugees.<sup>1054</sup> The Prosecution asserts that the Government, including Nyiramasuhuko, understood the statement made by the préfet of Gikongoro and endorsed a plan to guard or disarm the refugees so that they would not pose a threat to the population remaining on the hills.<sup>1055</sup> The Prosecution argues that the statement made by the préfet of Gikongoro, to which no objections were raised, was in line with the Interim Government’s propaganda campaign targeting the civilian population in order to create fear and hatred among them.<sup>1056</sup>

526. The Prosecution submits that in Nyiramasuhuko’s notes on this meeting, references to the need to guard refugees and to pre-empt potential problems in the statement made by the préfet of Gikongoro were references to Tutsi men, women and children of all ages. According

to the Prosecution, while the refugee population did contain some Hutus, those fleeing the violence were primarily Tutsis, while those remaining in their homes on the hills were Hutus.<sup>1057</sup>

527. The Prosecution contends that despite a clear request from the préfets of Kibungo and Gikongoro for means to put an end to the killings, as testified to by Nyiramasuhuko, no such means were provided, except for the establishment of roadblocks.<sup>1058</sup>

528. The Prosecution argues that the erection of roadblocks was one of the methods used in the commission of the genocide and many Tutsis were killed at them. It submits that Nyiramasuhuko and the Interim Government had full knowledge of the purpose of the roadblocks.<sup>1059</sup>

529. The Prosecution emphasises the importance of the issue of payment of allowances to responsables de cellule, to which reference is made in Nyiramasuhuko's notes on this meeting, underlining that the Interim Government had discussed this matter on previous occasions, particularly during the Cabinet meeting of 10 April 1994. The Prosecution notes that many people were not paid during the genocide and questions why responsables de cellule were singled out.<sup>1060</sup> The Prosecution submits that the importance placed on ensuring that responsables de cellule were paid could be explained by reference to the structure of the Rwandan political and administrative system, which was highly centralised with decisions being made at the top and filtered down through the préfets and bourgmestres to the conseillers de secteur and responsables de cellule. In order to ensure that the Interim Government's decisions were carried out, officials at all levels of the Rwandan political system had to be on side. The Prosecution argues that the need to ensure that responsables de cellule were paid was a way of ensuring that those in the government structure closest to the civilian population were willing to implement the Interim Government's instructions.<sup>1061</sup>

530. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that the Prime Minister's opening statements at the meeting of 11 April 1994 had to be taken at face value and could not be interpreted in any other way.<sup>1062</sup> It argues that the message concerning the need to stop the killings and restore peace had been transmitted by the Government to the préfets to be handed down, in turn, to the subordinates of the latter and implemented.<sup>1063</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

531. Referring to her notes on the meeting, Nyiramasuhuko stated that when the Prime Minister opened the meeting, he said three things: the first was on raising the population's awareness of the existence of three ethnic groups in the country; the second was on extending relief while asking people to reconsider their behaviour; and the third was on examining ways of securing the population's cooperation with the army with a view to restoring security. She testified that the Prime Minister's address was not propaganda nor did it contain double-speak.<sup>1064</sup>

532. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that during the meeting of 11 April 1994 the préfet of Gikongoro made a statement in which he said that using speeches for pacification was not good enough and that the refugees must be guarded because 2,000 people gathered in the same location might organise themselves and create problems for those who remained on the hills. Nyiramasuhuko disputed the assertion that the statement referred to Tutsis who were being pursued, insisting that both Hutus and Tutsis had fled from Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>1065</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that she knew nothing of any plan to guard or disarm refugees to prevent them from posing a threat to the population. She denied that there were no measures of protection for refugees.<sup>1066</sup>

533. Nyiramasuhuko explained that the préfet was not proposing that the refugees be killed, but rather that the gendarmes should watch over them because trouble could break out in view of their high numbers.<sup>1067</sup> Nyiramasuhuko subsequently stated that what was meant was that the refugees needed to be protected to prevent them from committing criminal acts such as attacking members of the public.<sup>1068</sup>

534. When asked by the Prosecution what concrete means were placed at the disposal of the préfecture authorities in response to the demands made by the préfets of Kibungo and Gikongoro for an end to the killings, Nyiramasuhuko answered that the préfecture authorities could requisition the forces of law and order. As far as the Government was concerned, Nyiramasuhuko testified that the Chief of Staff, who was in charge of military operations, had ordered a truce.<sup>1069</sup>

535. Nyiramasuhuko testified that during the meeting the Prime Minister issued instructions to préfets. She confirmed that the conclusions of this Cabinet meeting included a decision concerning the erection and supervision of roadblocks and another on allowances for responsables de cellule.<sup>1070</sup>

536. On the issue of responsables de cellule, Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that these formed part of the administration and explained that as a result of the conflict, they had not received their salaries for a year and it was therefore necessary for these arrears to be paid.

Prosecution Expert Witness André Guichaoua

537. In cross-examination, André Guichaoua agreed with counsel's assertion that the Government had decided on 10 April 1994 to summon all the préfets to the Government's seat at Kigali on 11 April 1994, and that 11 April 1994 was the date on which the Government asked the préfets to implement its policy of genocide. He said that he was interested in what was said and what happened at the meeting of 11 April 1994 but was more interested in what the préfets did after the meeting because their behaviour might have been influenced by what they remembered of things not made explicit during the meeting.<sup>1072</sup>

538. In relation to the section of the speech delivered by the Prime Minister at this occasion in which he addressed the préfets and asked them to relay the message to the population, Guichaoua maintained that the speech was propaganda, even if it was made and broadcast in Kinyarwanda only.<sup>1073</sup>

539. Guichaoua testified that at the meeting of 11 April 1994, there was a move to dismiss Préfet Habyalimana from office, from Butare. In this connection, Callixte Kalimanzira agreed to draft a report which contained serious allegations against Habyalimana concerning his

The prefectoral authorities will ask the bourgmestres to organize such meetings at the secteur level, as well as the conseillers, to ensure that these meetings are held at all levels. Department heads will have to organize meetings as soon as work resumes. You will also have to explain to them that the death of the Head of State, as well as the disturbances that occurred in the city of Kigali and the resumption of fighting by the Inkotanyi, should not cause divisions among them. You will have to make them understand that there are three ethnic groups in the country, namely Hutu, Tutsi and Twa, as well as several regions, and that the country belongs to them all. You will ask them to refrain from doing anything that could division [sic]. Some problems are caused by jealousy, because it has become apparent that acts of aggression against sic people were followed by looting. No one can say that such and such an ethnic group has been the target of looting, because anyone with property, whether he is Hutu, Tutsi or Twa, could fall victim to looting not because of his ethnic origins, but because he had what others did not have. That is why I am saying that jealousy could explain the discord among the people. Members of the population should therefore refrain from anything that could create divisions among them, such as jealousy and other issues that I have referred to, especially regionalism, and above all ethnic problems. On a closer look, it would appear that these days some practices have been institutionalized. People should refrain from taking the law into their own hands; rather they should know that the security forces, the law and the authorities still exist. You will have to remind them that the authorities are present. The Head of State was killed, but we have a President of the Republic installed in accordance with the law. The Prime Minister was killed, but he has been replaced in accordance with the law. The Government has been put in place; it is ready to get down to the job and this can be seen through the decisions it is adopting aimed at resolving the problem of insecurity. You will have to ask members of the population to perpetuate our culture of helping one another and to know that when a neighbour is attacked, it is their duty to come to his rescue; that when a neighbour is wounded, they have an obligation to make sure he gets treatment. You should tell them that they are requested to rebuild dwelling houses that have been burnt. This is normal in Rwandan culture. If they are able to understand that we are all Rwandans, that this country belongs to all of us, they will also understand that when tragedy befalls someone, his neighbour is also affected. ### 3.4.8 Cabinet Meeting, 16 April 1994

540. The Prosecution submits that this meeting provides an insight into the Interim Government and its involvement in matters relating to the army.<sup>1075</sup>

541. The Defence makes no specific submissions in relation to this meeting, although it did lead evidence as to the contents of Nyiramasuhuko's notes on this meeting.<sup>1076</sup>

3.4.8.2 Evidence

Nyiramasuhuko

542. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that the notes relating to this meeting were made on the page of her 1994 diary corresponding to 1 February 1994.<sup>1077</sup> These notes contained various references to military matters including: the appointment of the chief of staff of the army; the need to teach the population how to use arms; an assessment that the majors leading the combat units did not have confidence in the chief; and the promotion of certain soldiers.<sup>1078</sup>

543. Referring to her notes on this meeting, Nyiramasuhuko testified about the reference to a death toll of 20,000 related to members of the population massacred by the RPF. The witness stated that the army was not in a position to defend the population as the Inkotanyi were present across the country.<sup>1079</sup>

544. In respect of the reference in her notes to teaching the public to handle arms in order to defend themselves, the witness stated that this had originally been the intention but that after the signature of the Arusha Accords the government ordered that weapons distributed to the Rwandan-Ugandan border area for this purpose be returned. She was unable to confirm whether all the weapons distributed were collected.<sup>1080</sup>

545. Nyiramasuhuko testified that a Burundian political party, referred to in her notes as "PARPEHUTU", had offered to send military reinforcements to bolster the Rwandan army. She explained that the Government declined the offer because it advocated peace and thought that the opposition shared that view.<sup>1081</sup>

3.4.9.1 Introduction

546. The Prosecution submits that Nyiramasuhuko's notes on this meeting show that she was aware of the prevailing situation in Rwanda in terms of the war.<sup>1082</sup> The Prosecution argues that the Cabinet agreed to continue the killings if the RPF refused to negotiate.<sup>1083</sup>

547. The Defence submits that when the Government became aware that killings were continuing, it took steps to control the situation.<sup>1084</sup>

3.4.9.2 Evidence

Nyiramasuhuko

548. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that the notes relating to this meeting were made on the pages of her 1994 diary corresponding to 11-13 February 1994. She referred to her entries concerning the continuance of killings, negotiations with the RPF and missions to African countries. Nyiramasuhuko conceded that she was aware that the situation was bad and of the existence of massacres, although she did not know the identity of the killers. She stated that having information does not necessarily mean that one is aware of everything that is going on in places where one is not present.<sup>1085</sup>

549. Referring to the entry in her notes which states “[s]ituation – killings continue”, it was put to Nyiramasuhuko that the Cabinet had agreed to continue the killings if the RPF refused to negotiate. Nyiramasuhuko dismissed this assertion as speculation and indicated that as far as the Government was concerned, the situation was critical. She stated that there was a link between the advance of the RPF and the killings – as the RPF advanced, people became increasingly nervous and began to carry out killings. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the forces of law and order which should have been assisting the Government to control the situation in problematic areas were at the battlefield which made it difficult for the Government to fulfil its objectives.<sup>1086</sup>

550. Nyiramasuhuko testified that on 21 April 1994 the Government decided to send people to Tanzania, the OAU, Egypt, Gabon, Togo and Senegal to seek assistance. She stated that the RPF was responsible for the killings and that people were being killed in areas under Government control. Nyiramasuhuko added that the Government issued a mandate to negotiate a ceasefire with the RPF.<sup>1087</sup>

551. The Prosecution submits that there was no discussion during this meeting on how to stop the killings. Instead, there was talk of the need to disarm “infiltrators”, which was a veiled reference to Tutsis. According to the Prosecution, the Interim Government, including Nyiramasuhuko, equated Tutsi refugees with infiltrators, thereby conveying the message that the population should be afraid of Tutsis and that they should kill the Tutsis before the Tutsis killed them.<sup>1088</sup>

552. It is the Prosecution’s submission that the Interim Government’s concern, expressed during the meeting, that the refugees were dangerous and had to be disarmed was the same concern as that expressed by the préfet of Gikongoro at the meeting of 11 April 1994, and that the Government supported and endorsed the préfet’s statement in that regard.<sup>1089</sup>

553. The Prosecution further argues that as Nyiramasuhuko had not taken a note of everything that transpired during the meeting, the fact that note had been taken of disarming the refugees signified that the issue was more important than others discussed and that the danger was linked to the fact that Tutsi refugees were involved.<sup>1090</sup>

554. The Prosecution claims that by referring specifically in her notes to disarming a Tutsi camp, Nyiramasuhuko meant that Tutsis must be set apart from other refugees and killed. Further, it alleges that Nyiramasuhuko referred to “Tutsi refugees” in her diary and not to “infiltrators” because these terms were synonymous.<sup>1091</sup> The Prosecution suggested that the decision to disarm refugees who no longer had homes or property meant that they would be put in a situation where it would be very easy to kill them.<sup>1092</sup>

555. The Defence submits that the Interim Government sought to end hostilities by negotiating and signing ceasefire proposals.<sup>1093</sup> The Defence further submits that, pursuant to the discussions held during the meeting of 23 April 1994 and contrary to the allegation found in Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Directive on restoring security issued by the Government on 27 April 1994 was clear, direct and explicit.<sup>1094</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

556. In relation to her notes on this meeting, in particular the reference to the seven refugee camps for Tutsis in Gitarama described as being “ready to pounce” and which “should be disarmed”, Nyiramasuhuko testified that it had been reported that refugee camps in Gitarama had been infiltrated by armed members of the RPF and that the gendarmes there tried to provide protection to prevent unrest. She denied that the situation in Gitarama had anything to do with the events in Gikongoro.<sup>1095</sup> Nyiramasuhuko insisted that the reference to disarming them was not double-speak; it did not refer to the killing of refugees. Rather, it meant that the gendarmes had to search the refugees to find out whether they were carrying weapons.<sup>1096</sup>

557. Nyiramasuhuko testified that her notes on this meeting were essentially scraps of information rather than minutes and that disarming the refugees was noted not for its importance but because it would have been an impossible task to “disarm the infiltrators”. She went on to testify that armed infiltrators were present in seven camps and it was proposed that they be disarmed. However, due to insufficient army resources and the threat that such action might provoke disturbances, no steps were taken and the gendarmes proceeded to protect all those in the camp until they were chased out by the infiltrators. The proposal to disarm the infiltrators was never carried out.<sup>1097</sup>

558. Nyiramasuhuko denied that Tutsi refugees had been singled out or that the term infiltrator was synonymous with Tutsi. She did, however, testify that the Gitarama camps held Tutsi refugees who had been sent by the RPF.<sup>1098</sup>

559. Nyiramasuhuko testified that a proposed ceasefire agreement with the RPF was signed on 23 April 1994 on behalf of the Interim Government by General Marcel Gatsinzi and Colonel Aloys Ntiwiragabo. She stated that representatives of the Government travelled to Arusha and Badolite to secure the RPF’s signature but that the RPF was not present and so did not agree to the proposed ceasefire.<sup>1099</sup>

560. Referring to the Prime Minister’s Directive on restoring security, Nyiramasuhuko testified that the document was approved by consensus before being made public. She stated that it clearly identified the enemy and in this connection referred specifically to page two of the document, on which one of the instructions issued read:

The enemy who attacked Rwanda is well known: it is the RPF-INKOTANYI. You are therefore requested to explain to the people that they must avoid anything that would bring about violence among them on the pretext of ethnic groups, regions, denominations, political parties, hatred, etc, because violence within the population constitutes a breach for the enemy.<sup>1100</sup>

3.4.11 Cabinet Meeting, 17 June 1994

3.4.11.1 Introduction

561. The Prosecution submits that the various appointments made during this meeting were a means for the Interim Government to ensure that its programme of genocide would continue.<sup>1101</sup>

562. The Defence made no specific submissions in relation to this meeting.

3.4.11.2 Evidence

Nyiramasuhuko

563. Nyiramasuhuko testified that a number of appointments were made during the meeting, including the appointment of Ndayambaje as bourgmestre of Muganza commune, and the appointment of Nteziryayo to replace Nsabimana as préfet of Butare.<sup>1102</sup>

3.4.12 Deliberations

3.4.12.1 Briefings on Massacres and Demands for Weapons During Cabinet Meetings

564. It is not contested that numerous Cabinet meetings were held in Kigali, Gitarama and Gisenyi in April and June 1994. Indeed, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence acknowledges that this is confirmed by Nyiramasuhuko's testimony and corroborated by her diary and other personal notes adduced as evidence.<sup>1103</sup> In particular, the Chamber notes that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence does not dispute the existence of the meetings in respect of which specific submissions were made and which are discussed above.

565. Nyiramasuhuko herself testified to the Government's endeavours to agree on a ceasefire and contact the Security Council, the OAU and foreign governments in order to end the killings.<sup>1104</sup> She also testified that ministerial delegations were dispatched to the apostolic nuncio and the Belgian and French ambassadors to seek assistance.<sup>1105</sup> The Chamber notes that they would not have done this had they not known about the massacres. Furthermore, her notes on meetings contain numerous references to the occurrence or continuance of massacres. For instance, Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that pages 24 and 25 of her diary refer to her notes on the Cabinet meeting of 21 April 1994.<sup>1106</sup> Page 24 contains an entry that reads: "Situation – Killings continue ... Rivers Mwongo and Nyabarongo strewn with bodies." Page 25 contains a further entry stating "[s]top the killings". Notwithstanding the Nyiramasuhuko Defence's position that in view of the infancy of the Interim Government and the fact that the country was at war (together with the associated communication difficulties), only limited information was available, the Chamber finds the evidence established beyond a reasonable doubt that, between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994, the Government was aware that massacres were taking place.<sup>1107</sup>

566. With respect to Expert Witness Guichaoua, evidence was led to demonstrate that the Interim Government was a government that functioned during the three months of war: frequent meetings were held, issues were discussed and decisions taken.<sup>1108</sup> According to Table 3, Volume Two of Guichaoua's Report, the Cabinet met on 15 occasions between 6 April and 17 July 1994. Moreover, proof that discussions were held on a variety of issues and that decisions were taken by the Interim Government was borne out by the entries in Nyiramasuhuko's diary and her notes on individual Cabinet meetings.<sup>1109</sup>

567. Based on all the above evidence, the Chamber is persuaded that information on civilian massacres was provided and discussed at Cabinet meetings, and that the Government took decisions in light of such information.

568. The Prosecution did not make any specific submissions in its Closing Brief or lead evidence during trial to substantiate its allegation that in the course of Cabinet meetings ministers demanded that weapons be distributed in their respective home préfectures knowing that such weapons would be used in the massacres.

569. Having assessed the totality of the evidence in relation to Paragraph 6.13 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994, numerous Cabinet meetings were held and that during such meetings ministers, including Nyiramasuhuko, were briefed on the situation vis-à-vis massacres of the civilian population. However, it has not been proven that ministers demanded that weapons be distributed in their respective home préfectures.

3.4.12.2 Issuance of Directives and Instructions During Cabinet Meetings and Pacification

570. Nyiramasuhuko's testimony showed that the Interim Government indeed issued instructions and directives during April and June 1994. In particular, the Chamber notes Nyiramasuhuko's testimony that at the meeting of 11 April 1994, the Prime Minister issued instructions to préfets<sup>1110</sup> and that at the meeting of 27 April 1994, a document on the restoration of security in the country was discussed, agreed on and disseminated.<sup>1111</sup>

<sup>1111</sup> T. 29 September 2005 pp. 30-31 (Nyiramasuhuko); Prosecution Exhibit 118B (Prime Minister Kambanda's instructions to restore security in the country, 27 April 1994) pp. 13-14.

571. Nyiramasuhuko also testified to the manner in which these instructions were conveyed to the people: through the pacification campaign. A campaign timetable was drawn up and members of the Government met with various stakeholders on specific days.<sup>1112</sup> The Chamber recalls that Nyiramasuhuko testified that ministers were given responsibility for pacification in specified préfectures.<sup>1113</sup> In the context of this campaign, ministers visited various areas of the country to disseminate the instructions contained in the Prime Minister's Directive of 27 April 1994,<sup>1114</sup> which was the official manifestation of the pacification policy (). These instructions were read out in order to be understood.<sup>1115</sup>

572. The main question for the Chamber is whether these directives and instructions were intended to incite, aid and abet the perpetration of massacres and whether Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for "pacification" in Butare.

573. Dealing with these two issues in turn, at the root of the first issue is the Interim Government's motive when it issued its instructions and directives. In the Chamber's view, the language used in the instructions and directives, the meaning attributed to them by their recipients and the Government's knowledge of the meaning so attributed is key to determining the Interim Government's motive in this respect.

574. During the course of trial proceedings, the Prosecution introduced considerable evidence on the use of double-speak in Rwanda in 1994, particularly in relation to the words "enemy", "Inyenzi", "Inkotanyi", "accomplice" and "infiltrator" as referring to Tutsis. For example, Prosecution Witness FAG was asked whether, in 1994, "Inyenzi" was used to refer to RPF accomplices to which he replied that the term was used to refer to all Tutsis.<sup>1116</sup> () Prosecution Witnesses FAH () and FAI () testified that it was common knowledge that "enemy" referred to the RPF and "accomplices" meant the Tutsis.<sup>1117</sup> Numerous witnesses provided consistent testimony that the words "enemy", "Inyenzi", "Inkotanyi", "accomplice" and "infiltrator" were commonly used to refer to Tutsis.<sup>1118</sup>

575. This was largely corroborated by Prosecution Expert Witness Des Forges and Defence Expert Witnesses Reyntjens and Shimamungu, as well as Nsabimana Defence Witness Fergal Keane.<sup>1119</sup> In addition to testimony on the use of double-speak, documentary evidence was adduced and referred to in witness testimony demonstrating that such words were indeed used by the Interim Government in its directives and instructions. 576. Witnesses also testified that Tutsis fled or were chased from their homes in April 1994.<sup>1123</sup> The Prosecution also led evidence from Des Forges that the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security issued on 27 April 1994 had a double meaning: while the

<sup>1121</sup> For example, "Rwandans, your Excellences, dear brothers and sisters, we are begging you to help us fight .... We are asking you to join us so that, together, we can fight against the enemy ...."; "We know that the enemy is present here in the country, we know that there are accomplices even here in Butare."; "If you see an accomplice or someone who resembles an accomplice, or if you suspect that someone is an accomplice, tell the authorities"; "The enemy's collaborators are easy to identify, since we have already discovered their characteristics."

surface message was apparently to restore calm, the restoration of security hid an underlying meaning, i.e. the elimination of Tutsis who represented a threat to security.<sup>1124</sup>

577. The Chamber is mindful of the fact that some of the witnesses testifying on these matters were detained at the time of their testimony.<sup>1125</sup> The Chamber notes that appropriate caution should be exercised when considering the evidence of a detained witness to ensure a fair trial and to avoid prejudice to the accused. However, the Chamber considers that the testimony of the witnesses on the issues described in the foregoing paragraphs is consistent and reliable.

578. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds beyond a reasonable doubt that, throughout 1994 in Rwanda, words such as “enemy”, “Inyenzi”, “Inkotanyi”, “accomplice” and “infiltrator” were used to refer to Tutsis.

579. With respect to the second issue, i.e. whether Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare, the Prosecution relies on Guichaoua’s assertion in his Report that each minister was assigned a préfecture for the purposes of pacification and that Nyiramasuhuko was appointed to Butare.<sup>1126</sup> He admitted that Nyiramasuhuko’s diary contained no mention of the fact that she had been assigned to Butare for the purposes of pacification.<sup>1127</sup> However, he pointed to two entries from Nyiramasuhuko’s diary which, in his opinion, showed that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare.

580. The first diary entry states, “[d]emystify the enemy, therefore journalists would travel with the ministers in charge of particular préfectures.”<sup>1128</sup> The second diary entry states, “Mifaprofe → Muramba and Butare and keep an eye on Gikongoro.”<sup>1129</sup> Guichaoua stated that “Mifaprofe” meant the Ministre de la famille et de la promotion féminine which was the post held by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>1130</sup> Guichaoua provided no further foundation for his assertion.

581. In contrast, the Defence presented evidence through Nyiramasuhuko by which it sought to demonstrate that Ministers Niyitegeka and Sabumukunzi spoke at a pacification meeting in Butare.<sup>1131</sup> The Chamber notes that the transcript of the speech made by Minister Niyitegeka at the Butare pacification meeting indicates that the meeting took place in Butare and that the Prime Minister’s Directive on restoring security was read out.<sup>1132</sup> Nyiramasuhuko did not deny having been involved in pacification per se; instead, she testified that she was responsible for pacification in Gisenyi préfecture and not Butare préfecture.<sup>1133</sup> She stated that she did not attend the Butare pacification meeting, but did listen to Minister Niyitegeka's speech on the radio.<sup>1134</sup> Nyiramasuhuko also confirmed she participated in the drafting of the Directive issued from the Prime Minister on 25 May 1994.<sup>1135</sup> Des Forges testified that at the Cabinet meeting of 23 April 1994 Nyiramasuhuko was assigned the responsibility of implementing the pacification campaign in Butare préfecture and she was often present there.<sup>1136</sup> No further information was elicited or provided as to the basis for Des Forges' opinion on this issue.

582. The Chamber does not consider the evidence of Expert Witnesses Guichaoua and Des Forges, on the issue of Nyiramasuhuko's responsibility for pacification in Butare, to be sufficient to establish that she was in fact the minister in charge of pacification for that préfecture. The first diary entry cited by Guichaoua in support of his assertion simply confirms Nyiramasuhuko's own testimony that ministers were assigned particular préfectures. It does not establish or suggest that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare. The Chamber recalls that Nyiramasuhuko did not deny being involved in the pacification programme. She admitted that she was responsible for pacification in Gisenyi. The second diary entry contains an arrow drawn from the designation of Nyiramasuhuko's ministerial post to the words "Muramba and Butare and keep an eye on Gikongoro." The Chamber does not consider that this entry establishes that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare. Indeed, the Chamber notes that this entry corresponds, in Guichaoua's view, to 1 June 1994, over one month after the launch of the pacification campaign on 27 April 1994 and the Butare pacification meeting of 30 April 1994.

583. To conclude, having assessed the totality of the evidence in relation to Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, the Chamber finds that between 9 April 1994 and 14 July 1994, the Interim Government of which Nyiramasuhuko was a member adopted directives and issued instructions during Cabinet meetings. In addition, the Chamber considers that the intention behind these directives and instructions was to encourage the population to hunt down and take action against the "enemy" and its "accomplices"; terms which referred to Tutsis in general. However, although pacification may have been the mechanism to ensure that such directives were implemented, and notwithstanding the evidence that Nyiramasuhuko attended Cabinet meetings at which the pacification programme was drawn up, as well as Nyiramasuhuko's own evidence that she was involved in this programme, the Chamber considers that the Prosecution has not established that Nyiramasuhuko was assigned responsibility for what was termed "pacification" in Butare, as alleged in Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment.

3.5 Removal of Préfet Habyalimana and Swearing-in Ceremony of Préfet Nsabimana, 17-19 April 1994

3.5.1 Introduction

584. Each of the Indictments allege that the Interim Government, of which Nyiramasuhuko was a member, removed Butare Préfet Jean-Baptiste Habyalimana from office and incited the people of Butare préfecture to participate in the genocide.<sup>1137</sup> They further allege that on 19 April 1994, Nsabimana was sworn in as the new préfet of Butare préfecture. On that occasion, President Sindikubwabo made an inflammatory speech, openly and explicitly calling on the people of Butare to follow the example of the other préfectures by beginning the massacres.<sup>1138</sup>

585. Through their presence at the ceremony and their failure to dissociate themselves from the President's statements, Nyiramasuhuko and Kanyabashi gave a clear signal to the people that the massacres were ordered and condoned by the Government. Furthermore, Kanyabashi, in the presence of the new préfet, Nsabimana, gave a speech in support of the President, assuring him that his instructions would be heeded. Shortly thereafter, the large-scale massacre of Tutsis began in Butare préfecture.<sup>1139</sup>

586. The Prosecution contends that the genocide of Tutsis which unfolded in Butare was not a spontaneous outburst of violence; rather, it was organised and planned, and groups of people from different walks of life acted in concert to perpetrate it.<sup>1140</sup>

587. The Prosecution argues that killings were only taking place in a few of the 20 communes in Butare by mid-April 1994 and that the scale of violence was not at the same level as the rest of the country.<sup>1141</sup> An essential step to precipitate the genocide in Butare was gaining control of the administrative hierarchy. The perpetrators of the genocide judged that they needed to remove Préfet Habyalimana and replace him with Nsabimana in order to influence bourgmestres who were not supporting the programme of genocide. Without Préfet Habyalimana's removal, the genocidal policy in Butare préfecture would not have been successful.<sup>1142</sup>

588. The Prosecution contends that Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony is key to understanding why and how the genocide commenced in Butare préfecture.<sup>1143</sup> At this ceremony, President Sindikubwabo called on the people of Butare to "cross the line" and start the genocide in Butare préfecture. This message was part of the Interim Government's plan to commit genocide throughout Rwanda, including Butare préfecture. It was fully supported by the leaders and influential figures in attendance who, with the assistance of the military and local militia, ensured that the plan was passed on to local authorities and the local population, to ensure that genocide was indeed carried out in Butare préfecture.<sup>1144</sup>

589. In support of these allegations, the Prosecution relies on the testimonies of Witnesses RV, TQ, QJ, QA, FAE, FAI, FAM, FAB, QAH, QCB, QBU, QI, Prosecution Expert Witnesses Alison Des Forges, André Guichaoua and Francis Ntakirutimana, Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ, Maurice Ntahobali, and the Accused Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana.<sup>1145</sup>

590. The Nsabimana Defence asserts that massacres of Tutsis started in Butare préfecture as early as 13 April 1994 and that this fact negates the Prosecution theory that Nsabimana's appointment as préfet on 19 April 1994 instigated the commencement of massacres in the préfecture.<sup>1146</sup> The Nsabimana Defence submits that killings were progressing inexorably into Butare préfecture.<sup>1147</sup> In support of its submissions, the Defence cites Prosecution Witnesses QCB, TQ, FAI, QAH, Prosecution Expert Witnesses Alison Des Forges and André Guichaoua, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Expert Witness Shimamungu, Nsabimana Defence Witness Karemano, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-1-4-O, Ndayambaje Defence Witness Constant Julius Goetschalckx (a.k.a Brother Stan), Nsabimana Defence Witness AGWA, Nsabimana and Ndayambaje.

591. The Nsabimana Defence further avers that although Nsabimana attended his swearing-in ceremony on 19 April 1994, he did not understand the President's speech and believed that it would have been difficult for the population to understand it.<sup>1148</sup> As he did not understand the speech, he did not implement it.<sup>1149</sup> The Nsabimana Defence submits that Nsabimana was left with no other choice but to accept his surprise appointment as préfet because he feared for himself and his family if he refused.<sup>1150</sup>

592. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Nyiramasuhuko did not replace Préfet Habyalimana to perpetrate the genocide. It argues that the various political parties decided among themselves that Habyalimana should be dismissed as préfet and that Nsabimana should be appointed. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence states that Habyalimana was congratulated for doing all that he had been able to do.<sup>1151</sup> In support of these submissions, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence relies on the testimonies of Nyiramasuhuko, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ and Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens.

593. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence further disputes the Prosecution thesis that the visit of the President and other members of the Interim Government (including Nyiramasuhuko) was a means of removing obstacles to the beginning of the massacres in Butare and demonstrating that local authorities opposed to the extermination of the Tutsis would be replaced.<sup>1152</sup> Further, the Defence submits that the President's speech, which was addressed to the local authorities and not the population, is impossible to understand if it is removed from its war-time context.<sup>1153</sup> Far from being inflammatory, the President's speech was peaceful in nature.<sup>1154</sup>

The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Kanyabashi did not support the President, agree to any slogan to spark off the killings of Tutsis, or address the President in his own speech.<sup>1156</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witness RV, Prosecution Expert Witnesses André Guichaoua and Francis Ntakirutimana, Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens, and the Accused Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana.<sup>1157</sup>

Exclusion of Evidence

595. The Ntahobali Defence requests the exclusion of evidence adduced by Prosecution Witnesses QJ, RV, QI and Expert Witnesses Guichaoua and Ntakirutimana on the grounds of insufficient notice of their testimonies. Witness Ntakirutimana specifically, was introduced to the Prosecution case very late on 30 March 2004.<sup>1158</sup>

596. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief specifically assert that the Interim Government, of which Nyiramasuhuko was a part, removed Préfet Habyalimana from office.<sup>1159</sup> In addition, the Chamber previously addressed a motion by the Nyiramasuhuko Defence, joined by the other Defence teams, challenging certain allegations in the Will-Say statements of Witnesses RV and QBZ for failure to plead facts in the Indictments.<sup>1160</sup> In its Decision of 16 February 2004, the Chamber held that the challenged allegations were encompassed by the Amended Indictments, noted that the Prosecution had disclosed Witness RV's statement to the Defence more than 18 months before Witness RV was to testify, and held that the Accused had sufficient time to investigate and prepare its defence.<sup>1161</sup>

597. The Chamber considers that Nyiramasuhuko was duly informed of the nature and cause of the allegation that Nyiramasuhuko was a part of the Interim Government and that the Interim Government removed Préfet Habyalimana from office. Furthermore, the Chamber considers that the Accused had adequate notice of this charge to prepare a defence because it was encompassed by the Indictment and the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief.

598. The Ntahobali Defence submitted a motion to exclude the testimony of or to recall Witness QJ, inter alia, for further cross-examination.<sup>1162</sup> The Defence highlighted that the

Prosecution disclosed the unredacted statements of this witness on 30 January 2002; seven and a half months after the trial began.<sup>1163</sup> The Chamber denied the Defence requests, noting that the motion was filed almost at the end of the case, by which point the Defence team had been in possession of the data and information for a substantial amount of time. There was no valid reason set forth for the exclusion of this evidence and no adequate legal basis to pre-empt a recall in this case.<sup>1164</sup>

599. Within the context of a Prosecution motion to add Expert Witness Ntakirutimana,<sup>1165</sup> the Chamber granted the request to add the witness.<sup>1166</sup>

600. The Chamber finds no reason to reconsider the Decisions of 16 February 2004, 30 March 2004 and 19 January 2009. As such, the Accused's right to a fair trial was not prejudiced, and the Chamber will consider the evidence of these witnesses as to the removal of Préfet Habyalimana, the appointment of Nsabimana and the alleged start of the massacres in Butare préfecture.

Vagueness of the Indictment

601. The Nsabimana Defence contends that neither Paragraph 6.21 nor 6.22 of the Indictment accuses Nsabimana of criminal behaviour, and that omission could not be cured by subsequent disclosure.<sup>1167</sup> The Chamber notes that Paragraphs 6.21 and 6.22 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that Nsabimana's presence during the President's speech and the fact that he did not dissociate himself from the inflammatory statements constitute adherence to the governmental plan to commit genocide; however, the Indictment does not specify what, if anything, Nsabimana is alleged to have done at the swearing-in ceremony. The Prosecution does not allege that Nsabimana acted in a particular way or said particular things. Accordingly, the Nsabimana Defence would not have had notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence on particular acts by Nsabimana in support of its case against that Accused. The Chamber concludes that the Indictment is defective in this respect.

602. The Chamber must consider whether this defect has been cured by subsequent disclosures. The summary of Witness ST's expected testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief indicates that the witness saw Nsabimana at a meeting on 19 or 20 April 1994 at the MRND Headquarters.<sup>1168</sup> The meeting involved bourgmestres, military chiefs and political party leaders. The summary states that the killings commenced on the day after the meeting. This is consistent with Witness ST's previous statement of 20 November 1997, which the Prosecution disclosed to the Defence on 4 December 2000.<sup>1169</sup> Furthermore, in its opening statement, the Prosecution submitted that some of the Accused were present at the swearing-in ceremony and stated that it would lead evidence to show that the Accused publicly identified themselves, through their statements as well as their presence, as being involved in and supportive of the President and exhibited their intent to comply with his directives.<sup>1170</sup> The Prosecution submitted that Kanyabashi and Nsabimana made speeches which showed that Butare authorities understood Sindikubwabo's message and expressed their desire to organise the same activities in Butare.<sup>1171</sup> The Chamber considers that this information provided Nsabimana with sufficient notice of his alleged criminal behaviour. Thus, any defect in the Indictment was cured and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence.

Prosecution Exhibits 113 and 114

603. The Nsabimana Defence argues that Prosecution Exhibits 113 (The Truth About the Massacres in Butare, by Nsabimana) and 114 (Interview with Nsabimana, dated 1 October 1994), said by Des Forges to have been sent to her by Nsabimana, were accepted for the sole purpose of establishing the basis for Des Forges' opinions. The Defence asserts that these documents were to be used only to establish contradictions, if necessary.<sup>1172</sup>

604. The Chamber recalls its oral ruling of 8 June 2004, in which it held that Prosecution Exhibits 113 and 114 were admissible as one of the sources relied upon by Des Forges in formulating her expert opinion.<sup>1173</sup> The Chamber ruled that the weight and probative value of the expert opinion would be evaluated at the end of the trial. The Chamber did not rule that Prosecution Exhibit 113 and 114 could only be used to establish contradictions; rather the exhibits were admitted to help substantiate Des Forges' opinion. The Chamber's deliberations on these matters necessarily implicate the weight and probative value to be attributed to Des Forges' opinion, as well as the materials upon which she relied. The Chamber also notes that Nsabimana did not object to the admissibility or contest the authenticity of these documents. In fact, during cross-examination, while he did not expressly admit that the writings were in fact his own, Nsabimana stated that Prosecution Exhibit 114 reflected his own views.<sup>1174</sup> The Chamber will evaluate the weight and probative value of these documents in light of the other evidence, considering in due course the opinion of Expert Witness Des Forges and Nsabimana's assertions regarding these documents.

Nyiramasuhuko's Diary

605. The Ntahobali Defence submits that including into evidence the alleged diary of Nyiramasuhuko was prejudicial to the rights of both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali.<sup>1175</sup> The Chamber recalls its Oral Decision of 24 June 2004, where it noted that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not object to the characterisation of the diary in question as belonging to Nyiramasuhuko, despite numerous opportunities to do so.<sup>1176</sup> In fact, on numerous occasions

Nyiramasuhuko accepted ownership of the diary in her Closing Brief, her oral submissions and at trial during her testimony.<sup>1177</sup>

606. The Ntahobali Defence, in particular, objected to consideration of Volume Two of Guichaoua's Expert Report on the meaning of the diary.<sup>1178</sup> In this respect, the Chamber found that both the diary and Volume Two of Guichaoua's Report were admissible as evidence.<sup>1179</sup> The Chamber noted, however, that the probative value of this evidence would be evaluated at a later date.<sup>1180</sup> There is no reason put forward for the Chamber to reconsider the 24 June 2004 Oral Decision.

3.5.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness RV

607. Witness RV, a Hutu former civil servant in Muganza commune, testified that he attended a meeting at which Habyalimana was dismissed and replaced by Nsabimana, in the company of Callixte Kalimanzira, Minister of Interior.<sup>1181</sup> Préfet Habyalimana was replaced because he was suspected of being an Inkotanyi accomplice.<sup>1182</sup> Prior to the death of President Habyarimana, the atmosphere in Muganza commune was good. After the President's death, the situation changed because the different political parties were affected by the news in different ways. MRND party members within the community were saddened by the President's death, whereas opposition party members were happy. In addition, due to the fact that Muganza commune was close to the Burundi border, people were frightened that the RPF would attack at any time from Burundi.<sup>1183</sup>

608. The witness attended Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony on 19 April 1994 in the multi-purpose préfecture hall, which was also the local MRND Headquarters.<sup>1184</sup> The meeting started before noon and went on into the afternoon.<sup>1185</sup> Many officials attended the meeting including President Théodore Sindikubwabo, Prime Minister Jean Kambanda, other ministers including Éliezer Niyitegeka, Doctor Straton Semukunzi and Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, Alphonse Nteziryayo and all the bourgmestres, including Joseph Kanyabashi.<sup>1186</sup> Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo were seated among the population rather than among the officials and did not make speeches.<sup>1187</sup> Ndayambaje did not attend the ceremony.<sup>1188</sup>

609. Witness RV stated that Prime Minister Kambanda spoke first, followed by President Sindikubwabo. He stated that the two speeches were complementary.<sup>1189</sup> President Sindikubwabo said that those in Butare who were not concerned with what was going on should be sacked from their jobs in the administration and local government. President Sindikubwabo encouraged everyone present at the meeting “to work.” “Work” meant struggle against the enemy whom the Prime Minister defined as the Inkotanyi and their accomplices.<sup>1190</sup> The witness explained that Inkotanyi accomplices were Tutsis or Hutus who supported the RPF.<sup>1191</sup> The witness did not object to what he heard because there were many Presidential Guards there and to say something would have been suicidal.<sup>1192</sup>

610. Nsabimana took the floor and thanked the people who showed that they had confidence in him. Nsabimana closed his speech by calling on the bourgmestres and heads of department to attend a meeting which was held the following day, 20 April 1994.<sup>1193</sup>

611. The witness stated that massacres began in Muganza commune, on 20 April 1994.<sup>1194</sup> Prior to that date, no one was killed within that commune.<sup>1195</sup> During the massacres, the commune administration lost control of the roadblocks and they were used for killing and looting.<sup>1196</sup>

612. Witness RV identified Ndayambaje, Nteziryayo and Kanyabashi in court.<sup>1197</sup> He stated that he knew where Nteziryayo was born, where he lived and he had attended his wedding; he had known him since 1988.<sup>1198</sup> He knew Nyiramasuhuko before 1994 when she attended MRND meetings. However, he was not sure he could identify Nyiramasuhuko in court because he had not seen her in a long time. He identified the Accused Ntahobali in his attempt to identify Nsabimana.<sup>1199</sup>

Prosecution Witness TQ

613. Witness TQ, a Hutu, was acquitted of charges of genocide on 20 January 2003.<sup>1200</sup> He testified that around 16 April 1994, he encountered persons fleeing from Runyinya, Huye and Gishamvu communes. They told him there were Tutsis being killed and Tutsi homes torched in those communes.<sup>1201</sup>

614. On 19 April 1994, President Sindikubwabo held a meeting in Butare. Although Witness TQ did not attend the meeting personally, he was told that the President was angry with the people of Butare because they were not working. The witness also said that at that time, “work” meant to kill. It was coded language which incited people to kill.<sup>1202</sup>

615. After the speech, the witness heard gunshots at the National University of Rwanda, which lasted through the night of 19 and 20 April 1994. A woman who had been at the university and who had taken refuge at the school where the witness was, told him that all the Tutsis who were studying at the university were killed that night and she was raped.<sup>1203</sup>

Prosecution Witness QJ

616. Witness QJ, a Tutsi waiter, told the Chamber that the killing of Tutsis in Butare town began after a party meeting held at the Palais du MRND, in Butare, attended by the President between 17 and 21 April 1994.<sup>1204</sup> Although the witness did not attend the meeting or hear what was said at the meeting, he testified to having seen a number of important figures such as Kanyabashi, Nsabimana and Nteziryayo going to the meeting.<sup>1205</sup> The witness testified about a conversation he witnessed between a soldier named Habineza and the newly installed préfet of Butare, Nsabimana. Habineza greeted Nsabimana and claimed to have killed Préfet Habyalimana.<sup>1206</sup> Nsabimana provided Habineza with a 1,000 Rwandan franc note to thank him for what he had done.<sup>1207</sup>

617. The witness also stated that prior to the arrival of President Sindikubwabo in Butare préfecture there were not that many roadblocks. After the President’s visit on 19 April 1994, roadblocks were erected and the killing of Tutsis began.<sup>1208</sup>

618. Witness QJ knew Nteziryayo as Nteziryayo was a resident guest at the Hotel Faucon around 10 April 1994, and later at the Hotel Ibis.<sup>1209</sup> Witness QJ saw Nteziryayo on several occasions at the Hotel Ibis between April and the end of June 1994.<sup>1210</sup> He knew Nsabimana as Nsabimana lived in Butare town in 1994<sup>1211</sup> and frequented the Hotel Faucon between January and March 1994.<sup>1212</sup> Witness QJ testified that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune, where the witness was living in 1994.<sup>1213</sup> Kanyabashi was “a fairly elderly man with some gray hair, not too tall, nor too short.”<sup>1214</sup> The witness identified Nteziryayo, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi in court.<sup>1215</sup>

619. Witness QA, a Hutu, testified that one week after becoming President of Rwanda, Sindikubwabo visited the Butare region and made a speech that the witness heard on the radio.<sup>1216</sup> It was a live speech made during a meeting organised and convened for bourgmestres in the multi-purpose room of the préfecture office that was simultaneously broadcast at about 4.00 p.m., and lasted 10 minutes.<sup>1217</sup> In his speech, President Sindikubwabo said:

I have come to visit Butare region, my native region, and I am here to give you some work to do. You must work because we are being chased by the enemy. You must work without any pity. I know that the people of Butare, you people, are careless; you behave as though you are sometimes not concerned. If you cannot do the work pitilessly, mercilessly, leave it to us and we will do the work.<sup>1218</sup>

620. Witness QA testified that “to work” in the President’s speech meant to kill. People understood that they had to get up in the morning and arm themselves with weapons, machetes or guns to kill Tutsis or opponents of the regime in place.<sup>1219</sup>

621. Witness QA testified that Sindikubwabo’s speech was answered, on behalf of all the bourgmestres of Butare, by a speech by Kanyabashi, lasting about four or five minutes.<sup>1220</sup> Kanyabashi thanked the President for having come to visit Butare and promised that the bourgmestres would implement his instructions.<sup>1221</sup>

622. These two speeches were the only ones transmitted on the radio. The witness could not say whether the transmission of the speeches was in their entirety or only portions of them.<sup>1222</sup> There were no Interahamwe looking for and killing Tutsis in the préfecture before these speeches.<sup>1223</sup> Killings began in his secteur on 21 or 22 April 1994.<sup>1224</sup>

623. The witness identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>1225</sup> He knew Kanyabashi before the events.<sup>1226</sup> He stated that Kanyabashi was the authority to whom the population listened most,<sup>1227</sup> and that before the events of 1994, Kanyabashi liked Tutsis.<sup>1228</sup>

624. When Witness QA was recalled to testify in 2008, he testified that he did not hear Kanyabashi’s speech on the radio, but he heard from other people what Kanyabashi had said.<sup>1229</sup> Witness QA testified that his 2004 testimony on Kanyabashi’s statement about implementing the President's instructions "was a lie".<sup>1230</sup> The witness also admitted that "in everything that I said [in 2004] there were only a few things that are truthful. For the most part, my testimony was lies".<sup>1231</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAE

625. Witness FAE, a Tutsi employee at the Butare Medical University, testified that prior to 21 April 1994, there were no problems between Hutus and Tutsis living in rural areas, but that on 21 April 1994, she saw Hutu civilians and soldiers attacking her Tutsi neighbours' houses in Cyarwa-Sumo secteur, Ngoma commune. Simeon Remera, of the CDR, led the attackers.<sup>1232</sup> Remera had a list of names and indicated which houses were to be attacked.<sup>1233</sup> When the attackers arrived at a Tutsi residence, they entered the property and killed the people they found.<sup>1234</sup> She stated that persons seeking refuge only started arriving in her area in great numbers in July 1994.<sup>1235</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAI

626. Witness FAI, a Hutu former civil servant in Ntyazo commune, estimated that killings began in Muyira commune around the middle of April 1994. He also stated that he had visited Nyabisindu commune and that killings started there about two weeks after the death of the President.<sup>1236</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAM

627. Witness FAM, a Hutu who was a detained witness in Rwanda at the time of his testimony,<sup>1237</sup> testified that problems did not begin in his secteur until after 20 April 1994 when Kanyabashi came to the secteur office to tell the conseiller that the killing had already finished elsewhere and to ask him when he was going to start.<sup>1238</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAB

628. Witness FAB, a Hutu farmer living in Muyaga commune, testified that after the President's plane crash, commune authorities directed the population to construct roadblocks to address the security problem in the commune. He manned a roadblock in Muyaga commune together with Tutsis until about 20 April 1994.<sup>1239</sup> Around that time, those at the roadblock heard a broadcast on Radio Muhabura stating that Tutsis, in addition to Hutus opposed to the MRND, were being killed. As a result, those Tutsis who were manning the roadblock with the witness became frightened, and he assisted them in fleeing to Burundi.<sup>1240</sup> He estimated that massacres began in Muyaga commune on 27 April 1994, although some killings occurred immediately after the plane crash. He said that, like the general population, he refused the calls to massacre Tutsis at first, but in the end he participated when asked.<sup>1241</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAH

629. Witness QAH, a Hutu, testified that killings started in Gikongoro préfecture and later continued to Butare préfecture. Within Butare, the killings starting in Runyinya and Nyakizu communes and then extended into Gishamvu commune. The witness could not indicate the precise dates that the killings started in each commune.<sup>1242</sup>

630. Witness QAH stated that some days after the President's plane crash, he noticed houses being burnt down in Gishamvu commune, as near to Ngoma commune as Mubumbano secteur. People were taking refuge in Ngoma commune.<sup>1243</sup> The conseiller de secteur decided that the people of the secteur should go to the border to prevent the assailants from entering from Gishamvu commune.<sup>1244</sup> The assailants pursued them into Ngoma commune and, because the Ngoma police had fled, the people of Ngoma were unable to stop them.<sup>1245</sup>

631. Witness QAH stated several times that he could not identify the dates when killings began.<sup>1246</sup> He stated that the burning of homes in Gishamvu commune started after 10 April 1994, more than four days after the death of the President. The witness confirmed his prior statement, that people were attacked by Hutus in his cellule about four days after the plane crash.<sup>1247</sup> According to what he was told by Gishamvu refugees, it was obvious that no Tutsi was still alive in Gishamvu. The remaining Tutsis were being chased into the witness' cellule. There were no Tutsis remaining in Gishamvu by 10 April 1994.<sup>1248</sup> He also stated that from 6 to 10 or 15 April 1994, there was a lot of killing in Gishamvu commune. Witness QAH stated that it was after the announcement of Préfet Habyalimana's assassination sometime in April 1994, that there were killings, houses were burnt down, and people started fleeing from Ngoma commune. He testified that before Habyalimana was assassinated, there was not a significant number of killings.<sup>1249</sup>

632. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and detainee at the time of testimony,<sup>1250</sup> testified that after the plane crash on 6 April 1994, massacres began in préfectures surrounding Butare. When the massacres began in Butare préfecture, they started in Nyakizu, Runyinya and Gishamvu communes in addition to others to the north of Ngoma commune.<sup>1251</sup> At that time, people came to the Ngoma commune in search of refuge.<sup>1252</sup> The witness approximated that killings started in Nyakizu commune on 20 April 1994.<sup>1253</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBU

633. Witness QBU, a Hutu farmer in 1994 and a detained witness at the time of his testimony, stated that following the death of President Habyarimana, meetings were held in his secteur to prepare for the killings.<sup>1254</sup> The witness testified that in Rususa cellule, killings of Tutsis began around 20 April 1994.<sup>1255</sup> The witness took part in the massacres in April on the instructions of his leaders. He stated that the authorities incited members of the population to participate in the killings.<sup>1256</sup> He testified that Tutsis living in the area of Kibuye fled from their homes towards Burundi in April 1994.<sup>1257</sup>

Prosecution Witness QI

634. Witness QI, a Tutsi cook,<sup>1258</sup> testified that the killings began in his secteur on 21 and 22 April 1994.<sup>1259</sup> However, he also stated that prior to 18 April 1994 there were some disturbances in Huye commune, but Ngoma commune was still calm.<sup>1260</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

635. Alison Des Forges, an expert in Rwandan history and human rights,<sup>1261</sup> testified that three concomitant events triggered the start of mass killings in Butare préfecture: the removal of Habyalimana; the public way in which this was done which incorporated serious and powerful incitement to violence by the leading authorities of the national Government; and the transfer of Gendarmerie Commander Habyarabatuma to Kigali.<sup>1262</sup> She opined that although some killings were occurring within Butare despite Préfet Habyalimana's efforts, the Interim Government needed to gain control over the administrative hierarchy in order to implement the genocidal plan. The Interim Government needed to remove Préfet Habyalimana in order to influence the bourgmestres to accept a role in the plan to exterminate Tutsis.<sup>1263</sup>

The Removal of Préfet Habyalimana

636. Des Forges stated that Préfet Habyalimana had an important role in preventing the spread of violence into Butare préfecture prior to his removal on 17 April 1994 and that his removal played an important part in carrying forward the killings in Butare.<sup>1264</sup> Préfet Habyalimana directed his subordinates to hold public meetings to dispel rumours and prohibited the erection of unauthorised roadblocks.<sup>1265</sup> He imposed a curfew in communes where violence broke out.<sup>1266</sup> The local bourgmestres and other administrative authorities largely followed Préfet Habyalimana's lead and attempted to prevent the spread of violence in the préfecture.<sup>1267</sup> Killings were very limited prior to 20 April 1994 and local authorities arrested people who attacked Tutsis.<sup>1268</sup>

637. Préfet Habyalimana refused to cooperate with the Interim Government, ignoring a summons to a meeting of all préfets held in Kigali on 11 April 1994. In addition, he directed the local head of the immigration service to give travel documents to a group attempting to flee with religious sisters, in contravention to an Interim Government Directive to prevent Rwandans from leaving the country.<sup>1269</sup>

638. On 17 April 1994, as Préfet Habyalimana was returning from Nyakizu commune where he was attempting to quell violence at the border, he was removed from office via a radio communiqué.<sup>1270</sup> This was a humiliating way to be removed from office, and was exacerbated by the fact that he was not permitted to speak at the public swearing-in ceremony of the new préfet, Nsabimana.<sup>1271</sup> Habyalimana then went into hiding and was reported to be actively pursued by Nyiramasuhuko and her collaborators.<sup>1272</sup>

639. Des Forges testified that after his removal, around the second week of May 1994, Préfet Habyalimana was captured and imprisoned in a cell at the préfecture office.<sup>1273</sup> He was later moved to the new Interim Government headquarters at Gitarama, released from jail, and killed by an unidentified individual.<sup>1274</sup> This occurred because Préfet Habyalimana was symbolically too important for anyone to take responsibility for signing his death order.<sup>1275</sup> Several weeks later, soldiers from the ESO killed his wife and children.<sup>1276</sup>

640. Des Forges testified that the 19 April 1994 meeting at which Nsabimana was installed as préfet was attended by people from a variety of levels of the administrative hierarchy and members of the Interim Government, including the President, the Prime Minister and the Minister of Family Affairs. The military leaders in Butare préfecture were also in attendance.<sup>1277</sup> Three other high ranking officials from Butare were present: Mr. Mugenzi, the Minister of Trade, Mr. Niyitegeka, the Minister of Information and Madam Ntamabyaliro, the Minister of Justice.<sup>1278</sup> The presence of these national figures underscored the importance of the occasion and placed it firmly within the context of the programme to extend the genocide.<sup>1279</sup> Des Forges opined that she did not believe that the public would have been invited, but that it was not a closed meeting in the sense of excluding non-governmental people. However, she did not recall having met such a person who had attended the meeting.<sup>1280</sup>

641. Kambanda, Sindikubwabo and Kanyabashi spoke at the ceremony. Other speakers included Ministers Mugenzi and Niyitegeka, well-known for their anti-Tutsi views. The remarks of these ministers were less important than those of President Sindikubwabo, not only because they were lower in status than the President, but also because they were not native to the region.<sup>1281</sup>

642. Des Forges explained that because the President's speech was so inflammatory and had such enormous impact, it was important to establish whether Kanyabashi had heard the words in the speech before delivering his own.<sup>1282</sup> She stated that she had received information on the itinerary of President Sindikubwabo, suggesting that the President was in Gikongoro on the morning of 19 April 1994, making it likely that he arrived after the meeting in Butare had begun.<sup>1283</sup> Therefore, she was not convinced that Kanyabashi had heard Sindikubwabo's speech before he spoke at the beginning of the meeting. She did not exclude the possibility that Kanyabashi spoke after Kambanda but before the President and in the presence of both the President and Kambanda.<sup>1284</sup> However, she explained that this would be unusual in view of the ordinary order of precedence followed at such events. In her opinion, the lowest ranked person would either speak first or last, but not in between two higher ranked officials unless, for instance, the President had arrived when Kanyabashi was already on his feet or unless there were other circumstances that would have made it awkward for the President to take the floor first.<sup>1285</sup>

643. Des Forges also reported that when the formal addresses were finished, Jonathas Ruremesha, bourgmestre of Huye, asked what he should say to the people of his commune who wanted “to begin conflicts.” The highest authorities stood back and allowed Minister Mugenzi to respond on behalf of the Government. Mugenzi said that “if the population gets angry, it should be allowed to do what it wants.” Ruremesha reportedly decided at that point that he would make no further attempts to halt the violence.<sup>1286</sup>

644. Des Forges testified that the parts of the President’s speech which referred to the people of Butare as being unconcerned with what was going on and which were quoted in her Report, were broadcast via radio; many witnesses spoke of them.<sup>1287</sup> She said that the President’s speech was very threatening. In her view, the President’s statement that, “[t]oday we have only come part of the way, and we will now wait to see the reaction to see how much further to go”, could not be understood as anything except a threat. Another excerpt read, “[y]ou must take great care in understanding the words that we say today ... this is not a time for joking, and we really mean what we say.” The President issued a further threat when he warned members of the administrative hierarchy that they would not be able to simply abstain from actions by not coming to the office or by closing their office doors and pretending not to be there. Des Forges explained that the President was requiring the administrative hierarchy to be actively involved or else face the consequences.<sup>1288</sup>

645. Des Forges testified that the visit of the President and Cabinet Ministers on 19 April 1994 would have been something of an event, but would not have been known beyond the immediate area of Ngoma commune where the meeting was held. However, as the visit became more widely known, by the morning of 20 April 1994 it had taken on a meaning for people on the hills of Butare.<sup>1289</sup>

646. Des Forges stressed the importance of Nsabimana’s post as préfet, which gave him access to the gendarmerie and authority over the bourgmestres and local conseillers. When Nsabimana chose to be sworn in as préfet, he knew what the Government’s plan was and agreed to serve a Government that intended to kill the Tutsis in Butare.<sup>1290</sup>

647. Nsabimana’s description of what the President said in his speech of 19 April 1994, as contained in The Truth About the Massacres in Butare, was read out to Des Forges, in particular Nsabimana’s analysis of the President’s use of the words Nyirandabizi, Ntibindeba and Baranjenijesi.<sup>1291</sup> Des Forges testified that she received this document from Nsabimana after two telephone conversations with him on 25 March 1996 and 3 April 1996.<sup>1292</sup> She stated that Nsabimana's description of the President's speech was consistent with reports from other witnesses and also with a transcription of the speech from the President's national radio broadcast that she had previously read.<sup>1293</sup>

648. Des Forges explained that in the context of the killing campaign, slaughter was known as "work" and machetes and firearms were described as "tools".<sup>1294</sup>

The Start of Killings in Butare Préfecture

649. In her Report, Des Forges asserted that violence started in Butare along the Western border in the communes of Maraba, Runyinya and Nyakizu and subsequently spread to the adjacent communes of Huye, Gishamvu, Kigembe, Muganza and Nyaruhengeri.<sup>1295</sup> The Report posited that the communes of Ngoma, Mbazi, Ruhashya, Mugusa, Shyanda and Ndora were largely untouched by killings and violence on or before 18 April 1994.<sup>1296</sup>

650. Nonetheless, Des Forges testified that Runyinya commune suffered relatively early attacks due to raids from across the border with Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>1297</sup> Furthermore, she stated that assailants attacked 20,000 displaced persons at Cyahinda church in Nyakizu commune, from 15 to 19 April 1994.<sup>1298</sup> Two local policemen joined in the first days of the Cyahinda attack, but those seeking refuge were able to disarm and kill them.<sup>1299</sup> The assailants were nonetheless successful in killing those seeking refuge in subsequent days. This killing brought large-scale slaughter to Butare which had already been experienced elsewhere in Rwanda.<sup>1300</sup>

651. Des Forges testified that the Gikongoro and Butare préfets met on 16 April 1994 to discuss the security situation. They issued a communiqué that same day acknowledging that ethnic violence in Gikongoro préfecture had spread to Nyakizu, Runyinya, Maraba and Nyabisindu communes in Butare préfecture. The communiqué also stated that the disturbances led to deplorable acts such as killings, the destruction of houses, looting and armed robbery.<sup>1301</sup>

652. Des Forges' Report stated that on 18 April 1994, soldiers, police and civilian assailants launched attacks on Simbi church in Maraba commune, on Kansi church in Nyaruhengeri commune and at the commune office of Kigembe. At Kansi church, she stated 10,000 to 10,500 persons were killed.<sup>1302</sup>

653. André Guichaoua, an expert in political sciences, testified that until 19 April 1994, there was strong resistance to the genocide in Butare préfecture due in part to the efforts of Préfet Habyalimana, Gendarmerie Commander Habyarabatuma and Colonel Gatsinzi of the Rwandan Army.<sup>1303</sup> He stated that there was not a spontaneous launching of massacres in Butare and that for the genocide to happen it was necessary to remove Préfet Habyalimana, Habyarabatuma and Colonel Gatsinzi from office. On 18 or 19 April 1994, these personalities, in the eyes of the inhabitants of Butare, were like a “shield”. They were considered to be protectors and the population trusted them. The resistance of the bourgmestres was based on the protection they enjoyed from these three men.<sup>1304</sup> With the removal of Préfet Habyalimana and Habyarabatuma around 19 April 1994, the two key figures of the préfecture, the administrative, political and military chain of command collapsed.<sup>1305</sup> It was necessary to eliminate Préfet Habyalimana because he was accepted by the local population and used to resist the massacres and genocide of Tutsis.<sup>1306</sup>

654. Guichaoua testified that from Préfet Habyalimana’s appointment in 1992, his running of Butare préfecture was considered exemplary.<sup>1307</sup> He contained partisan excesses and confrontations and safeguarded the security of persons and property in Butare.<sup>1308</sup>

655. Guichaoua testified that Préfet Habyalimana was part of a strong opposition to the generalisation of violence in Butare.<sup>1309</sup> Préfet Habyalimana was able to maintain a measure of independent control by using the préfecture Security Council to isolate people holding dissident opinions and to neutralise his opponents.<sup>1310</sup> Préfet Habyalimana maintained that conditions of law, order and security depended on the security committees of each commune. These committees followed the préfecture Security Council’s directives, which ordered that no arrests be made without search warrants.<sup>1311</sup>

656. The Interim Government decided to implement a policy of genocide at a meeting of the country’s préfets on 11 April 1994.<sup>1312</sup> At that meeting, Callixte Kalimanzira undertook to draft a report regarding Préfet Habyalimana, which he later provided to the Cabinet on 17 April 1994.<sup>1313</sup> Guichaoua testified that the decision to remove Préfet Habyalimana was made, and Nsabimana had already given his acceptance to become the new Butare préfet by 16 April 1994.<sup>1314</sup>

657. Guichaoua confirmed that there was a communiqué issued at the end of the 16 April 1994 Security Council meeting between the authorities of the Gikongoro and Butare préfectures.<sup>1315</sup> There were three resolutions stemming from the meeting identified by President Sindikubwabo, and contained in the communiqué.<sup>1316</sup> The third stated: “The population is requested to report to the authorities all persons suspected to be in possession of weapons of war without authorisation. These persons should be aware that failure to report such cases will be held against them and the consequences arising there from can be serious”.<sup>1317</sup> Guichaoua stated that the bourgmestre of Nyakizu was one of the persons targeted for keeping arms and transferring grenades to refugees from Burundi.<sup>1318</sup> The witness testified that on the day the communiqué was drafted, Kalimanzira was preparing a file in relation to Préfet Habyalimana. The minister in charge of the préfecture submitted the file the next day, calling for the resignation of the préfet. Guichaoua referred to this as “a slap in the face” to Habyalimana.<sup>1319</sup> Guichaoua testified that the Kalimanzira report was tabled to the Cabinet on 17 April 1994 and that Nyiramasuhuko read the report. The report alleged that Préfet Habyalimana was colluding with the Inkotanyi and that he attempted to attack the bourgmestre of Nyakizu commune.<sup>1320</sup>

658. Guichaoua’s Report states that Préfet Habyalimana’s removal from office was announced on 17 April 1994.<sup>1321</sup> On 18 or 19 April 1994, Préfet Habyalimana was formally removed from office and publicly humiliated during a visit of the Interim President.<sup>1322</sup>

659. As to responsibility for the decision, in his Report, Guichaoua said that Nyiramasuhuko’s diary provides insight into the power system in place. Nyiramasuhuko took notes concerning 17 April 1994, which appear in her diary entry for 2 February 1994. In the diary, it is written that the Interim Government debated and decided on important matters, including those involving the army. The Interim Government was the operations and coordinating organ of the State during the war.<sup>1323</sup>

660. Guichaoua stated that within the Interim Government, Nyiramasuhuko had responsibility for Butare préfecture.<sup>1324</sup> He admitted that nowhere in her diary is she explicitly assigned to Butare,<sup>1325</sup> but that the diary, taken as a whole, shows that Butare was her main concern.<sup>1326</sup> His Report pointed to two diary entries in particular. The 25 May 1994 diary entry (allegedly containing notes from 22 May 1994) states “[d]emystify the enemy, therefore journalists would travel with the ministers in charge of particular préfectures.” The 3 June 1994 diary entry (allegedly containing notes from 1 June 1994) states, “Mifaprofe → Muramba and Butare and keep an eye on Gikongoro.”<sup>1327</sup> Guichaoua asserted “Mifaprofe” means the Ministre de la famille et de la promotion féminine which was the post held by Nyiramasuhuko. Guichaoua concluded these diary entries show that Nyiramasuhuko was the minister within the Interim Government in charge of Butare préfecture.<sup>1328</sup>

661. Guichaoua’s Report stated that Préfet Habyalimana’s administration prevented the organisation and action of armed youth militias in Butare prior to the start of the genocide. No militia group was known to exist in Butare before 6 April 1994.<sup>1329</sup> In his testimony, Guichaoua clarified that no militia in Butare was systematically involved in acts of terror, murder or killings.<sup>1330</sup> Guichaoua acknowledged that some training of militia did occur at the SORWAL factory, but insisted that such training was clandestine.<sup>1331</sup> He also testified that the militia situation in Butare was distinct from other préfectures because Butare was not marked by constant confrontation between militia groups.<sup>1332</sup>

662. It was Guichaoua’s opinion that on 18 or 19 April 1994, despite the widespread violence in préfectures surrounding Butare, killings could have been limited in Butare préfecture if Préfet Habyalimana had not been removed from office.<sup>1333</sup> He stated that an influential Butare army officer<sup>1334</sup> told him that it would not have been possible to evacuate Préfet Habyalimana from Butare as of 14 April 1994.<sup>1335</sup> Préfet Habyalimana’s fate was already sealed; he was under surveillance and, as far as the officer was concerned, orders had been issued that Préfet Habyalimana should not be allowed to escape.<sup>1336</sup>

663. Guichaoua testified that in mid-May 1994, the gendarmes threatened and hunted down Préfet Habyalimana to appear before the Interim Government at Murambi.<sup>1337</sup> He left with the gendarmes sent to find him and was executed.<sup>1338</sup>

664. Guichaoua testified he was not present at the ceremony.<sup>1339</sup> He stated he was able to indicate the names of the ceremony's participants based upon the speeches they made, which were broadcast over the radio.<sup>1340</sup> He based his interpretations on transcripts of the speeches delivered on 19 April 1994 at Butare préfecture.<sup>1341</sup> Guichaoua explained that the announcement of Nsabimana's appointment as préfet was made on the radio on 18 April 1994. Nsabimana formally took up his duties on 19 April 1994 in Butare.<sup>1342</sup> Until he became préfet of Butare, Nsabimana's career was in difficulty, and he had experienced some failures, particularly in school and at university.<sup>1343</sup>

665. Being a PSD préfet in a préfecture where most of the sous-préfets and senior officials were close to MRND did not facilitate Nsabimana's work, especially since he did not have experience in that professional set-up.<sup>1344</sup> However, Nsabimana accepted the position, knowing exactly what he was doing, especially since someone better placed than him had turned the same position down.<sup>1345</sup>

666. Guichaoua stated that he had called Nsabimana a "préfet by proxy" in his Report, meaning that he had been placed at the helm of the préfecture for the purpose of being manipulated, and he let himself be manipulated.<sup>1346</sup> When Nsabimana took office, he was aware of what was happening. Any reasonable person, and particularly one who had been in political office for a few months, knew what was expected of him at that time.<sup>1347</sup>

667. Guichaoua testified that President Sindikubwabo, Prime Minister Kambanda, five ministers, a representative of the Minister of the Interior, Callixte Kalimanzira, two party representatives and Kanyabashi attended the swearing-in ceremony. Guichaoua's testimony relied on the speeches made by those present at the ceremony, information that he obtained from the radio, and various documents provided to him by the Kanyabashi Defence and the Prosecution.<sup>1348</sup> Guichaoua relied on a transcript of speeches delivered on 19 April 1994 at Butare préfecture, in forming the following analysis.<sup>1349</sup> He pointed out that from this material it was difficult to know the order of speakers, as some documents addressed material which appeared on radio in the days subsequent to the ceremony and not the ceremony per se.<sup>1350</sup>

668. Guichaoua stated that holding the meeting with all these authorities in Butare was supposed to impress the audience. According to a note on the top of a document Guichaoua had received from the Office of the Prosecutor, the meeting was held at the préfecture's ceremony hall, the former MRND Palace. He did not know who was seated on the podium. Asked whether he knew if members of the population were present, Guichaoua answered that he merely copied the information contained in the transcript, which listed many bourgmestres from Butare, conseillers and public servants from Butare, the Butare Prosecutor, the director of the prison, the rector of the University and military authorities.<sup>1351</sup> This list was not exhaustive.<sup>1352</sup>

669. Guichaoua stated that Butare préfecture was not “ready”, in the sense that the militia had not been sufficiently structured and that many people still had cold feet because of the resistance of the authorities, especially at the level of territorial administration. Concurrently, some “catching up work” had been done by the real authorities, beyond mere speeches, to prepare the préfecture before the authorities travelled there in great numbers to conduct the final shift to large-scale slaughters.<sup>1353</sup>

President Sindikubwabo's Speech

670. To analyse Sindikubwabo's speech, Guichaoua referred to Prosecution Exhibit 151B (Speeches by Sindikubwabo and others delivered on 19 April 1994). Guichaoua quoted President Sindikubwabo's speech, in which he identified the new Abatabazi ministers saying: “Ministers came out of their offices and went down into the field. There were days when they would be at the office and other days when they would work with the population. Problems will be studied together and solutions will be found by consensus.” According to Guichaoua, this description corresponds to the profile of Minister Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>1354</sup>

671. Guichaoua stated the President spoke after Kanyabashi. He testified that the President did not directly refer to Kanyabashi in his speech, although Kanyabashi had spoken before him.<sup>1355</sup> The President did refer to the préfet, saying that he was a member of the population under the préfet's control.<sup>1356</sup> He assured the préfet of his support. Guichaoua agreed that President Sindikubwabo resided in Cyarwa secteur, Ngoma commune, yet never mentioned that his bourgmestre was Kanyabashi. He further stated that, although the President ignored Kanyabashi while giving his speech, he issued a warning which according to the witness was clearly addressed to Kanyabashi. The President repeated the statement made by the Prime Minister, “[u]nfortunately I was informed, but I was unaware.” The President repeated this sentence twice.<sup>1357</sup>

672. To analyse Kanyabashi's speech, Guichaoua referred to Prosecution Exhibit 149C (Translation of speech by Kanyabashi).<sup>1358</sup> Kanyabashi spoke after Prime Minister Jean Kambanda<sup>1359</sup> and addressed the attendees on behalf of all the bourgmestres in Butare préfecture.<sup>1360</sup> Guichaoua commented on an extract from Kanyabashi's speech taken from a transcript of a broadcast on Radio Rwanda.<sup>1361</sup> The extract read:

We shall do anything in our power to ensure that our country does not fall into the hands of the enemies of Rwanda. We shall do everything in our power to ensure that each inhabitant wherever they may be become aware that they are concerned about the sovereignty of their country. We shall continue to maintain security where need be, and we shall have such security where there is no security.<sup>1362</sup>

673. According to Guichaoua, this extract confirmed what the Prime Minister had previously said and endorsed the fact that enemies of Rwanda exist. It was also significant given the venue of the speech, i.e. Butare préfecture. This implied that there were enemies in Butare préfecture, namely Tutsi civilians, who could only be defined and identified by the authorities.<sup>1363</sup>

674. Guichaoua concluded that Kanyabashi was a successful politician.<sup>1364</sup> He managed to protect his image. He was honoured by the population and respected by the President, which was not easy with so much political competition.<sup>1365</sup> Kanyabashi also retained his position at the head of Ngoma commune, even though he had already reached retirement age. He had worked at the helm of affairs there for more than 20 years and had full control over the finance and represented the office of the President in the south. He also sat on the central committee of the MRND party, which according to the witness, was how he retained his position.<sup>1366</sup>

675. Guichaoua stated that the following passage in Kanyabashi's speech was a reference to the Interim Government orders, issued many times before, but particularly at Gitarama during the meeting of préfets on 11 April 1994. The extract read: "Your Excellency, the Prime Minister, in these difficult times it is difficult to find one's words, but we want to reassure you that we shall do everything possible to implement what is possible based on the important advice you have given us and the directives you have recalled."<sup>1367</sup>

676. Guichaoua was asked whether Kanyabashi's speech was in-line with what all of the bourgmestres had been doing in Butare since 6 April 1994, namely, the safeguarding of security. Guichaoua responded that Kanyabashi was one of those bourgmestres that was not keen to go to war, but that the Prime Minister's speech of 19 April 1994 was a call to order. A bourgmestre like Kanyabashi could not have been unaware that the killings had already intensified in Gikongoro, Kibungo and Kibuye.<sup>1368</sup> He also could not have been unaware that the killings were happening in areas governed by préfets who had been present at the meeting on 11 April 1994 and who had agreed on what needed to be done. Kanyabashi could not have been completely unaware of these instructions or the reasons for media coverage of the visit of so many officials in Butare. Kanyabashi seemed unable to find the appropriate words to use in his speech. However, when Kanyabashi said that they shall implement what the President and Prime Minister had said through their advice and directives, he was thereby recognising that what had been said by the President and Prime Minister would be implemented.<sup>1369</sup>

677. Guichaoua did not hear Kanyabashi's speech of 19 April 1994, but stated that it did not last longer than five minutes and that it seemed to have been an impromptu address.<sup>1370</sup> According to Prosecution Exhibit 149C, Kanyabashi did not mention or address the President, which was why Guichaoua had doubts regarding Sindikubwabo's presence.<sup>1371</sup>

678. Guichaoua further commented on another extract of Kanyabashi's speech which was read aloud to him. The extract read:

We too in Butare préfecture, on behalf of our population, will express our gratitude by maintaining the peace he [President Habyarimana] gave us and safeguarding the unity he left with us. Your Excellency, Mister Prime Minister and the government you head, we renew our support for you, as we have always supported your government and we shall leave no stone unturned to make sure the government achieves its objectives.<sup>1372</sup>

679. Guichaoua testified that Kanyabashi's reference to the peace and unity the préfecture enjoyed when President Habyarimana was still alive, may have been a message of peace. However, Guichaoua testified that the message of the speech could have been ambiguous since the President had not espoused peace as understood by various parties, including Kanyabashi, for some time. While it was an impromptu speech which was not calling people to take up arms, it may have been intended to indicate that they were not in a position to do anything else but renew their support to the Government and to its actions since 6 April 1994, when Butare préfecture was relatively sheltered from the violence prevailing elsewhere in the country. President Sindikubwabo's speech, by comparison, was quite clear as to what was expected from the préfet, the Government and the administration. The two speeches were not in the same category.<sup>1373</sup>

The transcript says, "We also in Butare préfecture, on behalf of our people, our acknowledgement would be to maintain the peace that has been granted us and to protect the unity that he bequeathed us" and "Your Excellency, the President, the government you are heading, we wish to reassure you of our support, you have always supported our government and we will do everything possible for the government to meet its objectives"; Prosecution Exhibit 149C (Translation of Speech by Kanyabashi).

680. Guichaoua testified that Kanyabashi promised to support the Government, whose objective was not to maintain peace in Butare préfecture. While Guichaoua did not exclude the possibility that Kanyabashi was referring to the “positive facet” of Kambanda’s speech and possibly regretted the turn things had taken, Kanyabashi was still responding to the Prime Minister who at this point had not made a speech that purported to be calming.<sup>1374</sup>

681. Guichaoua agreed that the population of Rwanda was informed about the war situation. According to his information, the RPF shot down the President’s plane. As of 7 April 1994 there were RPF troops in Kigali and more marching towards the capital. Further, Butare town was only 30 kilometres from the border with Burundi and there was propaganda about a possible RPF offensive from the south, i.e. from Burundi, even if this did not correspond to the facts. These were rumours that were unfounded as there was no “southern front” to speak of in terms of the RPF advancement, although the population of Butare might have wished for these rumours to come to fruition, given that there were some 150,000 Tutsi residents in Butare préfecture.<sup>1375</sup>

Order of Speeches

682. Guichaoua pointed out that the order of the speeches was of great importance to how Kanyabashi was supposed to reply. He could not tell in which order the speeches were broadcast on the radio.<sup>1376</sup>

683. Guichaoua was questioned on Prosecution Exhibit 151B (Speeches by Sindikubwabo and others delivered on 19 April 1994) and the re-broadcast of the speeches on radio.<sup>1377</sup> He testified that he used different documents and transcripts in order to determine the order of speeches, but that this did not actually help him to ascertain the order. However, it seemed that the President spoke after Kanyabashi, as the President arrived towards the end of the meeting. Of particular difficulty was Defence Exhibit 573B (Extracts of speeches by Kambanda and Kanyabashi) because it contained the end of a speech by Kambanda while the beginning was missing.<sup>1378</sup> A journalist, Jean-Baptiste Bamwanga, then spoke and Kanyabashi took the floor thereafter.<sup>1379</sup>

684. Analysing Prosecution Exhibit 151B, Guichaoua asserted that if the version of events based on this exhibit is correct, then Jean Kambanda spoke before Kanyabashi. At the end of his speech, Kambanda said: “I am saying this to some bourgmestres who I had told [sic] had gone training amongst the Inkotanyi so that they tell them that the government is determined, the state, the army and the population – we are determined to wage this war and to win it.”<sup>1380</sup>

685. Guichaoua speculated that Kanyabashi was responding to this sentence in his ensuing speech. If this version was correct, it would be terrible because Kambanda was saying that three bourgmestres had to be eliminated and Kanyabashi would be replying to this. However, Guichaoua could not be sure if this was fabricated by the radio and done after the ceremony on 19 April 1994.<sup>1381</sup>

686. Guichaoua was then asked whether from the beginning of Kambanda’s speech, where Kambanda greeted President Sindikubwabo, one could assume that the President was present for the speeches. The extract referred to read: “Your Excellency the President of the Republic, Honourable Ministers, Prefets and Burgmestres, and residents of Butare attending this meeting, first of all, I would like to greet you.”<sup>1382</sup>

687. This was Guichaoua’s assumption but he had also been told by others that it was not the case that President Sindikubwabo was present during Kambanda’s speech. He was doubtful, but assumed that Sindikubwabo had in fact been present for the speeches. Guichaoua also agreed that it would seem that there were at least three other ministers present. Guichaoua used the French version given to him by the Office of the Prosecutor as the basis for his analysis; he had not listened to the original tapes. The witness stressed that if Kanyabashi spoke after Kambanda’s accusation of the bourgmestres who had become traitors, then there could not have been a scapegoat as Kambanda’s speech required. The mere fact of having listened to and registering it would have been the equivalent of a tacit acceptance of a direct order. This also applied to the possibility of Kanyabashi’s speech being made after Sindikubwabo’s, because this speech was not couched in trivial terms, and merely saying “we shall put into practice all that is possible by relying, in particular, on the important advice you have given us, in addition to the directives you reminded us of” signified a firm commitment.<sup>1383</sup>

Minutes in Nyiramasuhuko’s Diary on the Swearing-in Ceremony

688. Guichaoua testified that Nyiramasuhuko’s diary mentioned the swearing-in ceremony in the entries of 10 and 11 February 1994. The entry for 10 February 2004 mentions the introduction of the new préfet in the presence of the President and the Prime Minister and four bourgmestres. The entry then has something written in Kinyarwanda and then a word by the representative of the bourgmestres, by the new préfet and the President. The entry makes no reference to the content of the speeches of the incoming préfet and the bourgmestres’ representative. The last person to have spoken seemed to have been the President, but these were assumptions in the diary. Guichaoua testified that he did not wish to delve into the issue of whether protocol required the President to speak last. The entry did not mention that Kambanda gave a speech.<sup>1384</sup>

689. Guichaoua acknowledged that there was a certain amount of disorder by 14 April 1994, but noted the préfecture had not fallen into the wide-scale killings or massacres that affected other parts of Rwanda. He acknowledged that from 14 April 1994, there were some soldiers who showed signs of impatience to follow national directives.<sup>1385</sup>

690. Guichaoua's Report stated that at the 16 April 1994 meeting of the Interim Government, Interim President Théodore Sindikubwabo requested that the PL Chairman and Minister Mugenzi agree to exchange the préfet post in Butare préfecture for the préfet post of Gisenyi.<sup>1386</sup> Nsabimana, a member of the PSD, was then granted the post of préfet for Butare.<sup>1387</sup> The PSD had split into two factions and, when the genocide began, the power wing of the PSD had control of the party. The power wing openly supported the policies of the MRND after the assassination of the Secretary General of the PSD, Félicien Gatabazi.<sup>1388</sup> Guichaoua testified that the MRND could not appoint a member of its own party as préfet because it was considered a party of northerners and disliked by the southerners in Butare.<sup>1389</sup>

691. Guichaoua emphasised that external factors started the massacres in Butare préfecture. He stated that on 19 April 1994, there was a shift in the implementation of the Interim Government policy that came from outside the préfecture.<sup>1390</sup> He stated in his Report, and confirmed in testimony, that military units from Kigali and militiamen were forced to intervene to quash the last bastions of resistance in Butare préfecture.<sup>1391</sup>

692. Guichaoua testified that on 20 April 1994, the massive killings began in Butare préfecture, although he testified, in reference to his Report, that there was a massacre of Tutsis in Nyakizu commune starting on 13 or 15 April 1994. He also confirmed there was a massacre in Maraba commune prior to 19 April 1994. Finally, he confirmed that there were attacks on Runyinya commune prior to 19 April 1994, without indicating the magnitude of those attacks.<sup>1392</sup>

693. In his Report, Guichaoua stated that Nyakizu commune was the only commune within Butare préfecture that was capable of organising large-scale killings starting from 13 April 1994. On 15 April 1994, the bourgmestre and others opposed to the genocide were killed. On 17 April 1994, there was a massacre at Cyahinda church despite a visit from Préfet Habyalimana and Major Habyarabatuma. On 18 April 1994, President Sindikubwabo went to

694. President Sindikubwabo gave a speech at the 19 April 1994 meeting. Sindikubwabo stated that he had passed through Maraba commune and met with the bourgmestre regarding the problem of refugees. He also stated that he travelled to Nyakizu commune, but was unable to meet with that bourgmestre who had left on another mission. He observed that the inhabitants were frightened and that it appeared that the refugees had powerful weapons, rifles and grenades. He did not state whether there had been massacres or killings in these communes, but stated that there was a situation of insecurity in Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>1394</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Francis Ntakirutimana

695. Francis Ntakirutimana testified as an expert in social linguistics, discourse analysis, lexicology, semantics and language planning.<sup>1395</sup> He testified that from 6 April 1994 to 19 April 1994 he lived in Butare préfecture and killing was going on throughout Rwanda, but not in Butare préfecture.<sup>1396</sup>

696. Ntakirutimana's Report analysed the use of proverbs and phrases in Rwanda during the events of 1994.<sup>1397</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that a speech cannot be analysed without taking its form and substance into account. In order to understand the subtleties of the message in a speech, it is important to pay particular attention not only to what is said but also how what is said is expressed.<sup>1398</sup>

697. In his Report, Ntakirutimana explained that the manner a speaker uses combines not only vocal signs that are likely to be graphically re-transcribed, but can also include non-vocal signs like gestures, tone, mimes, the appearance of the speaker, instruments the speaker uses and his clothing. These ingredients unquestionably contribute to strengthening the message of a speech.<sup>1399</sup>

do not always signify what they suggest at first sight.<sup>1401</sup> Recourse to encyclopaedic knowledge is often required in order to grasp the purpose of a speech in all its complexity. These complexities are dependent on a number of closely linked factors including the speaker's social status, the context, the feedback from the audience and the speaker's attitude, such as demeanour, gestures and tone of voice. The aim of a speech needs to be judged by the results achieved, where this is possible.<sup>1402</sup>

700. Ntakirutimana's Report explained that the prologue of Sindikubwabo's speech consists of the first seven paragraphs and represents the general framework of the speech. The President and his colleagues had travelled to Butare from Gikongoro, where they had discussed the problem of insecurity with administrative officials. Gikongoro, which borders Butare, was facing the same problem of insecurity, which had been heightened by an influx of internally displaced persons. Ntakirutimana explained that in the speech, a generic use of the word refugee to mean both refugees and internally displaced persons is implied and the Kinyarwanda language does not make a distinction between the two terms.<sup>1406</sup>

701. Ntakirutimana's Report referred to Paragraph 1 of the speech, which read: “[A]bout the problem of those who are referred to as refugees, but who are they at this time?”<sup>1407</sup>

702. The Report also referred to Paragraph 3, which stated: “So this is the issue of the refugees, I wish there was someone to explain to us exactly what it is. Because I don't understand it yet. What refugees are these? Are they Hutus who have fled? Are they Tutsis who have fled? Who are these refugees? What were they running away from? That is the question.”<sup>1408</sup>

703. Ntakirutimana stated that the rhetorical question posed by the President as to who the refugees were at that time and whether they were Hutus or Tutsis, revealed that the refugees' ethnic identity was the crux of the problem.<sup>1409</sup>

704. Ntakirutimana further explained that directing questions to the audience in this way permitted the establishment of a direct dialogue and aimed to win over the target audience. The latter should feel compelled to go along with the speaker. Ntakirutimana explained that these questions gave the audience an opportunity to reflect and take appropriate measures.<sup>1410</sup>

705. Ntakirutimana's Report stated that the term rubanda (inhabitants), which was of particular significance in this speech, took on a different meaning during the war. Generally the term means "crowd, populace, public or people". However, rubanda came to mean members of the Hutu ethnic group known as rubanda nyamwiinshi (majority ordinary people) in reference to their large number. The President was disturbed by the attack on the majority ethnic group and the behaviour of some members of the majority ethnic group, who abandoned their tasks and gave way to greed. Paragraph 5 of the speech reads:

Yesterday, I had the unhappy experience of asking a citizen a question ... "Aren't there any men in this commune?" The citizen had the courage to answer that there were not many left. "What about the others?" I asked him....He told me that they were eaten up by greed .... I said "gendarmes" but in fact, I think you have not understood the directives we have issued, you have not understood what we have asked you to do, or else you understand perfectly but refuse to act for reasons that are unknown to us.<sup>1411</sup>

706. Paragraph 2 of the speech reads:

I met members of the local population [at Nyakizi commune]. They are faced with the same problem as the refugees, who, they said, are being housed in the Nyumba church precinct. What I saw was that the inhabitants were afraid of them, because it would appear that they possess very powerful weapons, guns and grenades.... Some of them were on top of the hill, according to one of the Ministers ... the way they do things, the others were inside the church while the defenceless common folk were roaming about.<sup>1412</sup>

707. It was clear to Ntakirutimana that although the paragraph does not refer to Tutsis as the enemy and Hutus as the ordinary people [or defenceless common folk], the enemies were undoubtedly Tutsis and the ordinary people were Hutus.<sup>1413</sup>

708. Ntakirutimana's Report referred to Paragraph 7 of the speech. It reads: "Unhappily, I have been informed of something I didn't know, namely that there were some among the administrative officials who are training to fight against us. Fortunately, the Prime Minister has declared that we will fight them back."<sup>1414</sup>

709. Ntakirutimana stated that the Prime Minister's remarks endorsed by the President in the paragraph cited above encourage vengeance rather than tolerance. This constitutes a second response to the problem of insecurity, i.e. that it is necessary to fight.<sup>1415</sup>

710. Ntakirutimana's Report stated that, according to the President, the existence of the refugee centres was not a matter for satisfaction, as people "suffer there when it rains" and "others go there for porridge." The Report explained that in the speech the President referred to refugee centres as full of armed people with guns and grenades; the refugees posed a threat to the security of the inhabitants. Sindikubwabo supported Kambanda's exhortation to "fight them back". Ntakirutimana explained that here again, Sindikubwabo's response to fight them back contains no trace of tolerance.<sup>1416</sup>

711. Paragraphs 14 and 15 of Sindikubwabo's speech state: "We have been lucky so far, because the war has not yet reached the region ... do not take things lightly .... by the grace of God, you have been spared from the war so far .... No, be vigilant, protect your préfecture."<sup>1417</sup>

712. Ntakirutimana explained that the purpose of these references was to attract the attention of the people of Butare. The President was saying that the business of security must not be left solely to the gendarmes. Rather, security was a matter of concern for everyone especially political officials and their colleagues, from ministers to cellule committee members. Ntakirutimana explained that the use of the word kudaabagira (to live the good life) in reference to not taking things lightly and protecting the préfecture was an invitation to fight as a form of self-defence. In Paragraph 15, the President reminded the new préfet that he was accountable for the préfecture.<sup>1418</sup> The paragraph reads: "The préfecture the préfet is in charge of ... do not think that you are coming to heaven: you are coming at the wrong time ... Approach your bourgmestres, hold frequent meetings with them ... If you conclude that he is lazy or naïve, tell him to get down to work instead of leaving it all for the others to do."<sup>1419</sup>

713. Ntakirutimana explained that the verb gukora (to work) has, over the years, come to mean to kill Tutsis.<sup>1420</sup> He listed different examples of the use of gukora and explained that once the target is identified, the next step is action, i.e. going for the target.<sup>1421</sup> The operation to eliminate the enemy is euphemistically called gukora.<sup>1422</sup> In the end, gukora means to kill Tutsis or to destroy their houses so as to avoid their possible return to the place.<sup>1423</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that when reference was made to the meaning of the verb gukora, the message conveyed to the people of Butare was a powerful and unambiguous one. It did not go hand in hand with tolerance.<sup>1424</sup>

714. Ntakirutimana wrote that Paragraph 16 from the President's speech reads:

So I think, dear people of Butare and forgive me, because I'm not used to speaking like this ... those who wait for others to do the work, those who don't feel concerned, well, they should come out into the open and let the rest of us do the work, and they can watch while we work, but without being part of our team ... ... get him out of the way just have to get him out of the way as quickly as possible, because there are other good workers who want to work for their country.<sup>1425</sup>

715. Ntakirutimana explained that this apology is a powerful one. The President was obliged to apologise for the message and the harsh tone used to convey it, probably because he realised he had gone too far.<sup>1426</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that apologising is a way of admitting one's guilt. However Sindikubwabo's apology read together with related comments conveyed a message that was spine-chilling and explicit. It was aimed at easing the impact on any sensitive listeners.<sup>1427</sup>

716. Ntakirutimana went on to discuss Paragraphs 16 and 17, which read:

If someone wants to say: "Me, I'm not concerned, that's not my business ...", he should go far away from us ... get him out of the way ... they are other good workers who want to work for their country ... These traitors who went for weapons training in order to eliminate us ... let us be rid of them! ... "We must fight and win this war" ... We shall win if you get rid of the "it-doesn't-concern-me" types ... who went to learn how to kill, and rid them for us.<sup>1428</sup>

717. Ntakirutimana explained that this meant that such people must be eliminated swiftly, which was an open invitation to violence. The President urged the people of Butare to work in concert with the Government towards final victory. Ntakirutimana explained that this was quite obvious incitement to murder anyone who was indifferent to the ongoing situation.<sup>1429</sup>

718. The President also said, "[w]e are going to begin watching everyone's behaviour and here I am referring particularly to the behaviour of the leadership."<sup>1430</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that Sindikubwabo meant that the road to the ultimate goal was still long. Draconian measures were required of everyone. It was clear that everyone, particularly the leadership, was under the Government's control.<sup>1431</sup> Paragraph 18 reads: "A government without a common philosophy has nothing to do with ours, because ours is an Abatabazi government."<sup>1432</sup>

719. Ntakirutimana explained that as the name Abatabazi (saviour) indicated, the Government had a common philosophy, with the single goal or ideal of victory and peace for Rwandans.<sup>1433</sup>

720. Paragraph 22 states:

the employees whose job it is to receive visitors ... must be capable of performing their duties, not people who are only there to make money ... it is the same people who are against transparency, they are the same people we are fighting against ... They attack us with their stupidity ... They are enemies too. They must be eliminated.<sup>1434</sup>

721. Ntakirutimana reported that in Kinyarwanda, umwaanzi (enemy), the antonym of which is incuti (friend), is a term derived from the verb to hate (kwaanga). The word umwaanzi gave rise to a number of proverbs or set expressions. From a traditional Rwandan perspective, the aggressor of Rwanda, the Tutsis, were referred to as a real enemy and their elimination or driving out, which was prescribed by ancestral practices, should be respected. That “a person who hates another so much that he cannot wish him any good ... is the image Hutus have of Tutsis”. Linguistic expressions revealed that the enemy were the Tutsis and the defenceless ordinary people were the Hutus.<sup>1435</sup>

722. In his speech, President Sindikubwabo said: “I want you to be able to analyse our message, understand it and analyse the terms we use, you must know why we choose one term over another. The reason is that we are going through an unusual period.” Sindikubwabo warned his listeners and recapitulated what his Government expected of them, as though to recall the idea that the people must do what the Government requires of them.<sup>1436</sup>

723. In conclusion, Sindikubwabo said “[j]okes, laughter, banter, childish behaviour, capriciousness and trifling must give way to work. After we have won the victory, once calm has been restored in the country, we can start making jokes once again but now is not the time for joking.”<sup>1437</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that here, the President reverted to the core message saying joking must stop and people must get down to “work.”<sup>1438</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that by the term kudaabagira, which connotes the good life, Sindikubwabo wanted people to be aware of the critical situation that existed and react accordingly, in any event not to be indifferent, which was a clear invitation to “work.”<sup>1439</sup>

724. Ntakirutimana explained that Sindikubwabo employed the communication technique of quoting another person of good faith in order to emphasise one’s agreement and solidarity with the message conveyed. In Paragraphs 1, 17, 18 and 23 he quotes statements of the Prime Minister and in Paragraph 13 he quotes Minister Mugenzi. Both spoke well and conveyed a pertinent message which was important to contemplate and heed in every detail. Sindikubwabo also repeated the response given by a deeply disgruntled ordinary citizen in order to emphasise the fact that the situation is truly appalling. By doing so, Sindikubwabo urged the population not to remain indifferent, but to fight to get rid of and eliminate the traitors. According to Ntakirutimana there was no question of tolerance here.<sup>1440</sup>

725. Ntakirutimana identified prolonged applause from the audience in several points in the speech. Ntakirutimana explained that people react directly or indirectly to everything that reaches their ears. The reaction made it possible to evaluate the impact of what they heard.<sup>1441</sup>

726. In the first part of the speech, the audience applauded the President when he pledged support for the new préfet. The audience gave two rounds of applause following the presentation of the new Government. There was also applause in the form of drums. Ntakirutimana's Report stated that in the cultural and religious context, drums are beaten during certain ceremonies to signal approval of the message conveyed, and it was to be inferred from the reactions of the audience that the Government and its programme would not meet with a great deal of resistance in Butare.<sup>1442</sup>

727. Ntakirutimana explained that it is common in many cases that a speaker is often applauded as a matter of courtesy at the end of his remarks. However, the multiple rounds of applause at the end of President Sindikubwabo's speech showed that this was not merely a matter of courtesy. These final acclamations were congratulating the speaker as a sign of recognition of the relevance of his message.<sup>1443</sup>

728. Ntakirutimana said the linguistic data showed that the speech was not indicative of tolerance. It was aimed at mobilising the people of Butare and heightening their awareness, urging them to stop being indifferent and encouraging them to fight for final victory. The feedback from the audience showed that the message was clearly understood.<sup>1444</sup>

729. Ntakirutimana disagreed with the proposition that the population could have understood the President's speech in different ways.<sup>1445</sup>

Kanyabashi's Speech

730. Ntakirutimana analysed Kanyabashi's speech in a Report entitled Kanyabashi's Unswerving Support for the Jean Kambanda Government.<sup>1446</sup> Ntakirutimana identified six strategies that inspired Kanyabashi in his speech. These were:

1. Support the Jean Kambanda Government and its objectives.
2. Support the Army in defending the sovereignty of the country.
3. Preserve the sovereignty of the country.
4. Sensitize the population to defend the sovereignty of the country.
5. Safeguard security everywhere and by all means.
6. Effectively honour the various promises made.<sup>1447</sup>

731. Ntakirutimana analysed Kanyabashi's radio broadcast speech in Kinyarwanda.<sup>1448</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that it would be expected that Kanyabashi's speech would reflect the ideas expressed by the different speakers and would accordingly be longer. Kanyabashi's speech was only half a page. The length of Kanyabashi's address in response to speeches by a number of members of the Government is unusual.<sup>1449</sup>

732. In part one of the speech, Kanyabashi on behalf of all the bourgmestres of Butare préfecture thanked the members of Government who visited the population during the hard times. According to Kanyabashi, the visit constituted tremendous support.<sup>1450</sup>

733. Kanyabashi then focused his message on the death of President Habyarimana and its direct consequences for Butare préfecture. Kanyabashi said that the people of Butare were deeply disturbed and overcome with grief by the event, but they did not know what they had to do. Ntakirutimana explained that Kanyabashi meant that the people of Butare did not know what to do to avenge this sudden death. All that they managed to do was react, like all other Rwandans. Kanyabashi did not elaborate on this reaction.<sup>1451</sup>

734. Kanyabashi returned to the death of the President to show that it was the only way that the criminals had to seize power. Kanyabashi said that the criminals deluded themselves given that the population had remained ever more attached to their President. Ntakirutimana explained that the Rwandan proverb which translates as "good rewards good" is often used ironically when evil is called into question. Therefore, Kanyabashi's use of the word kwitura, alluding to the Rwandan proverb of "good rewards good", was an allusion to acts of vengeance resulting from the death of President Habyarimana.<sup>1452</sup>

735. Kanyabashi indirectly mentioned the names of the assassins of President Habyarimana by using the word inyangarwanda, which Ntakirutimana explained literally translates to "those who hate Rwanda", means dishonest and disloyal people or a person who disturbs the peace of a country. Between 1990 and 1994, these definitions directly referred to Inkotanyi/RPF members and/or their accomplices. Ntakirutimana also explained the historical background and the set expressions and proverbs that have resulted from the word Inkotanyi.<sup>1453</sup>

736. From a day-to-day traditional Rwandan perspective, the aggressor of Rwanda, the Tutsi, was referred to as the real enemy. References to eliminating the enemy or flushing him out of the country therefore referred to Tutsis.<sup>1454</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that members of the RPF disturbed the peace by attacking Rwanda in October 1990 and deprived the population of President Habyarimana.<sup>1455</sup>

737. Ntakirutimana explained that referring to those who hate Rwanda and showing that they killed President Habyarimana, was a way of inciting the population to increase their vigilance so as to defend the sovereignty of the country. Kanyabashi concluded by affirming on behalf of the inhabitants of Butare that everything would be done to protect the peace and unity fostered by the late President. Ntakirutimana explained that this could mean that

Kanyabashi was saying that if you wish peace, prepare for war. Ntakirutimana explained that the visit of the Prime Minister and other members of Government came within the perspective of sensitising the population. Sindikubwabo's speech corroborated this assertion, when he made reference to the widespread killings already in the country.<sup>1456</sup>

738. Ntakirutimana explained that in part two, Kanyabashi revisited the six strategies to deal with the prevailing situation (mentioned above). In conclusion, Kanyabashi indicated that no energy would be spared to effectively execute these strategies by scrupulously following "the very important advice and directives" given by Prime Minister Kambanda. The use of that phrase illustrated that the advice and directives of the Prime Minister were to be strictly followed.<sup>1457</sup>

739. Ntakirutimana identified the key words in Kanyabashi's speech. Kanyabashi addressed the main speaker, the Prime Minister, six times. This was a clear way of emphasising his sympathy. The Prime Minister was addressed in each of the six paragraphs and the core message was to thank him for going to the field to give important advice and directives.<sup>1458</sup>

740. Ntakirutimana reported that it was important for the population to be abreast of the prevailing situation and be sensitised to the appropriate measures to defend the sovereignty and security of the country. The population was therefore an important component of this matter, and was mentioned nine times in the short speech. The death of President Habyarimana was mentioned five times. Ntakirutimana explained that by mentioning the death several times, Kanyabashi wanted to incite the population to react given that the criminals who caused the death had only one objective; to seize power.<sup>1459</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMCZ

741. Witness WMCZ, a Hutu classmate of Nyiramasuhuko, testified that killings started in his secteur, in Ndora commune on about 22 or 23 April 1994. He stated that at that time groups of bandits were created with the purpose of looting and killing Tutsis. Soldiers who had deserted the battlefield and who did not respect their commanders' orders began to attack, plunder and kill people. They started by attacking his home and demanding money.<sup>1460</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano

742. Charles Karemano, a Hutu sociologist who was formerly national secretary of the PSD party, testified that he arrived in Butare, Ngoma commune on 18 April 1994 when the bourgmestre was Kanyabashi.<sup>1461</sup> He went to the house of a Tutsi friend, Jean Marie Rumiya, who lived in one of the university houses in the Ngoma commune, Butare-ville secteur.<sup>1462</sup> Karemano asked Rumiya for shelter but Rumiya said that it was dangerous for the witness to stay with him. He showed the witness Mount Huye where houses were being burnt down and people were being killed and told him that Butare was also unsafe, although it did not appear that way to the witness.<sup>1463</sup> The witness testified that when he arrived in Butare and met Rumiya, the massacres had not yet started and he felt safe.<sup>1464</sup>

743. The witness spent the night of 18 April 1994 at a place known as the Procure of Butare located opposite the Butare Cathedral; this place was owned by the Diocese and gave priority lodging to former seminarians.<sup>1465</sup> People were seeking refuge there and fighting over rooms.<sup>1466</sup> On 19 April 1994, the witness went to Cyarwa where he had a house.<sup>1467</sup>

744. The witness confirmed that page 72 of his book, Beyond the Roadblocks, contained a reference to the events of 19 April 1994. The relevant section states:

19 April 1994: Theodore Sindikubwabo makes his first official speech in Butare and settles down in his house in Tumba, the killings start in Butare. Some consider that the beginning of the killings in Butare coincides with the dismissal of Préfet Jean-Baptiste Habyarimana. It is true that the latter had not favoured such killings. But what force did he have at his disposal to stop them? Neither the army nor the gendarmerie obeyed his orders, just as they will not obey his civilian successor. But, on the other hand, the speech of the interim president, first of all, and then his settling down in Butare, will spark things off. The speech urges the population to chase the enemy. They will be easily identified to the Tutsis. When he settled down in his town, he brought with him the guard of his assassinated predecessor. These soldiers kill and incite the population to also kill and loot. The population will note that it is possible to kill and take other people's possessions without being punished. And it will no longer stop.<sup>1468</sup>

745. The witness testified that he did not hear Sindikubwabo's speech, but from 19 April 1994 onwards, he heard many comments about it, especially in relation to the President's statement that people should not remain indifferent and should work, which stuck in people's minds. The meaning of the President's statement was easy to ascertain when viewed against the background of the events that occurred after 19 April 1994. The witness' understanding of what occurred was that the soldiers who accompanied the President killed and incited the population to loot. The population realised that this could be done with impunity and also started killing and looting. People used the speech to legitimate their actions.<sup>1469</sup>

746. To the witness' knowledge, the President's speech was made in Kinyarwanda and reference was made during the speech to the term "to work" or gukora. In the context of Sindikubwabo's speech, this word was ambiguous and not everyone understood the speech to mean the same thing. He did not know if those who perpetrated the killings used the word gukora. The witness confirmed that the person he referred to in page 83 of his book as disapproving of the inflammatory speeches and being regretful of the fact that he had to answer to Sindikubwabo's speech, was Kanyabashi.<sup>1470</sup>

747. The witness testified that he saw many dead bodies during his stay in Butare between 18 April and 3 July 1994. A truck-load of bodies passed his house around 19 to 22 April 1994 heading towards a mass grave close by. The vehicle was a public works vehicle from a department within the préfecture. There were many killings between 20 and 30 April 1994. The killings mainly began after 20 April 1994 and would occur during the day. Subsequently, people hid during the day, so most of the killings took place at night. It would have been difficult for the political and military authorities not to know what was going on. The witness did not personally see any killings.<sup>1471</sup>

748. By mid-May 1994, Tutsi professors Karenzi and Rumiya and many others had already been killed. Further, a Professor named Gaétan, whom people considered to be Tutsi, was killed. To Karemano's knowledge, all the Tutsi lecturers of the university who were in Butare on the campus were killed immediately after 19 April 1994.<sup>1472</sup>

749. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu,<sup>1473</sup> testified that on 18 or 19 April 1994, he noticed that homes were burning in Runyinya, Gishamvu and Huye communes.<sup>1474</sup> He testified that at the roadblock manned by soldiers at Hotel Faucon, he saw the body of a university lecturer called Claver Karenzi.<sup>1475</sup> He knew the professor but could not say if he was a Tutsi. He said it could clearly be seen that the soldiers had killed Karenzi. He did not see bodies at this roadblock on other days.<sup>1476</sup>

750. Witness D-1-4-O, a Hutu health worker, testified that refugees began to enter Ngoma commune from Gikongoro préfecture between 13 and 18 April 1994. The communes near Gikongoro préfecture, namely Nyakizu and Runyinya communes and the Nyaruguru region, were experiencing insecurity.<sup>1477</sup> Witness D-1-4-O testified that on 18 April 1994, people began burning and plundering homes in Ngoma commune.<sup>1478</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness Constant Julius Goetschalckx a.k.a. Brother Stan

751. Brother Stan, a Belgian clergyman, testified that on 18 April 1994, he heard for the first time a gunshot in Butare town. On that same day, he also observed houses set ablaze near Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>1479</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness AGWA

752. Witness AGWA, a Hutu, testified that he arrived in Kigembe commune on 12 April 1994 and the situation was calm. Shortly thereafter, the situation deteriorated rapidly because the area was receiving Tutsi refugees from the neighbouring Nyakizu and Runyinya communes. The refugees gathered at the commune office and at CERAI, an agricultural training centre. About one week later, around 19 April 1994, those gathering at CERAI were massacred.<sup>1480</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness Maurice Ntahobali

753. Maurice Ntahobali, Nyiramasuhuko's husband, Shalom Ntahobali's father and Rector of Rwandan National University,<sup>1481</sup> testified that he was aware that one of his friends, Professor Pierre Claver Karenzi, was murdered in April 1994 in Butare. He heard of this crime a few days after it occurred and he was sad at losing a friend, as well as a member of the teaching staff of the institution of which he was in charge.<sup>1482</sup> He did not visit Karenzi's widow, because he did not know how to find her. In addition, he was ill and had reduced his movements in order to avoid suffering the same fate as Karenzi.<sup>1483</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Expert Witness Eugène Shimamungu

754. Eugène Shimamungu, a doctor of linguistic science with a specialisation in grammar,<sup>1484</sup> testified on the use of propaganda in armed conflict to disseminate and manipulate information.<sup>1485</sup> He stated that the propaganda used in Rwanda was through radio - such as Radio Rwanda, RTLM for the Government and Radio Muhabura for the RPF - and written medium.<sup>1486</sup> In his opinion, Nyiramasuhuko used RTLM to transmit the message of non-violence because there were not many other choices.<sup>1487</sup>

755. Shimamungu explained that he used lexicon items (words) and semantic fields (the entire range of meaning that can be given to a word), to analyse the speeches made.<sup>1488</sup>

756. Shimamungu opined that Inyenzi was coined by Alloys Nkurumbe, who was a member of a Tutsi incursion group in the 1960s consisting of 36 people which, at the time, tried to destabilise the Government through terrorist actions. The word was coined by the group as a name for themselves after the 1959 Rwandan revolution which overthrew the Tutsi monarchy. This word has been used since that time in Rwanda to describe Tutsi incursions into Rwanda.<sup>1489</sup> Shimamungu was of the opinion that the word Inyenzi was understood to mean “aggressor” when the Inyenzi-Inkotanyi attacked the country. In 1994, the Inyenzi-Inkotanyi who attacked from Uganda could have been called aggressors.<sup>1490</sup>

757. Shimamungu explained that Inkotanyi was a word used to refer to the militia of Rwabugiri who was a king in power towards the end of the 19th century. He testified that the word was revived again by the RPF in 1990 so that they became known as the RPF-Inkotanyi and occasionally, Inyenzi-Inkotanyi. He testified that the word Inkotanyi itself meant die-hard combatant. The word Inkotanyi also carried the meaning “to devour”, which is an extreme meaning which causes fear if a group goes by this name.<sup>1491</sup>

758. In Shimamungu’s view, the words Inkotanyi and Inyenzi are related to war. Inyenzi means “cockroach” and cockroaches hide during the day and then operate during the night, similar to the actions of Inyenzi fighters. There was an attempt to transform the word Inyenzi into an acronym, meaning “the combatant of the militia,” and indicating they were the most valiant and brave.<sup>1492</sup>

759. It would be incorrect to say that the word Inkotanyi was used by people who did not like Rwandan Tutsis. From a historic standpoint, the origin of the word, which could not be subject to challenge according to Shimamungu, denotes that this would be an incorrect interpretation.<sup>1493</sup>

760. Shimamungu consulted Guichaoua’s Report and noted that Guichaoua analysed Nyiramasuhuko’s diary in which the word “enemy” was referenced. Shimamungu testified that although he read Guichaoua’s analysis of Nyiramasuhuko’s diary, he did not rely on it in reaching his conclusions because the diary was personal material and, in his opinion, “diaries use codes and it is not possible to analyse a diary without consulting the person who is the author of the diary. And therefore it is impossible to come to any conclusions.”<sup>1494</sup> Shimamungu opined that the people identified as belonging to the enemy circles were social groups from which members of the RPF were enlisted and recruited, mainly Tutsi refugees.<sup>1495</sup>

761. Shimamungu stated that the enemy was not only military or soldiers, but also civilians, particularly having regard to the infiltrators during the events of 1994. At the root of the massacres was that it was no longer possible to distinguish infiltrators from civilians during the events of 1994.<sup>1496</sup>

762. With reference to Sindikubwabo's speech of 19 April 1994, Shimamungu stated in his Report that:

There is no coding or encoding of the word Gukora ... outside of its meaning in everyday Kinyarwanda. The word has always been used in its usual context. There is no reason to establish codes for the purpose of giving orders. Everybody was surprised by events, but there was no time to codify anything whatsoever in connivance with the Rwandan population.<sup>1497</sup>

763. Shimamungu stated that the most common meanings of the word gukora were "do, work, act", and "be occupied with". He stated that the meaning of a word may mutate, based upon the context of a sentence. The word gukora carried negative meanings as well, but only when used in certain contexts. The negative meanings of gukora include "to destroy somebody's dwelling", and "to rob everything, to leave nothing behind." Other non-negative meanings of the term are "to pass a trial, a test".<sup>1498</sup>

764. Shimamungu opined that according to the 1985 dictionary he consulted, the meaning of gukora has never been "to kill Tutsis,"<sup>1499</sup> and Rwandans could not have understood it to mean so.<sup>1500</sup> The word did not have a coded meaning in President Sindikubwabo's speech.<sup>1501</sup>

765. Shimamungu testified that before 1994, the word gukora was somewhat related to umuganda, which generally meant "going to do community work in a self-help mutual assistance context." When neighbours were building, each person would bring a piece of timber to assist in the building and in that mutual self-help context, the term umuganda meant "to work." In February 1974, "umuganda" was introduced by the MRND. This involved building roads and other things that the state was unable to do but that could be effectuated by the community or population. This was mandatory every Saturday of each week. Shimamungu indicated this was a political meaning not found in the dictionary.<sup>1502</sup>

766. Shimamungu testified that after the introduction of multi-party politics in Rwanda in the 1990s, the practice of community work ended.<sup>1503</sup> Shimamungu clarified his opinion saying: "I appeared to hesitate at that time [earlier during his testimony] because I wasn't sure I was able to confirm umuganda existed, but not in any structure or organised manner by the MRND, but it was organised at the level of the population ... It existed right up to 1994."<sup>1504</sup>

767. In his Report, Shimamungu explained that in the 1994 framework gukora/umuganda represented the fight against the RPF and infiltrators, where the population came together to clear areas where the infiltrators could hide, such as forests and bushes. The RPF was issuing negative propaganda to discredit these operations and claimed that the population was trying to flush out Tutsis in order to massacre them.<sup>1505</sup>

768. Shimamungu consulted Alison Des Forges' book, Leave None to Tell the Story, for his Report.<sup>1506</sup> In the book Des Forges contended that the word gukora meant "kill the Tutsis" during the 1959 revolution and in 1994.<sup>1507</sup> Shimamungu stated that he did not rely upon the said paragraph because "all the scientific requirements were not met [, i.e.] some references ... to specific texts were missing".<sup>1508</sup>

769. Shimamungu further recalled his Report where he noted that the French translation of the speech by the President makes much reference to the word gukora to mean "work." In his opinion, the Prosecution gave the wrong meaning to the word gukora as used in Sindikubwabo's speech because the word has different meanings. Shimamungu did not use the word in his own translation because it was not suitable in the context. In place of the word "work," Shimamungu used the words, "[I]et them stand aside and allow us to act."<sup>1509</sup>

770. Shimamungu stated that when Sindikubwabo said "step aside" in the context of the war, the President was referring to people working in the administration.<sup>1510</sup> In other words, members of the administration who are ignorant and do not do their work should step aside and be replaced.<sup>1511</sup> Given the context, gukora and its derivatives were used exclusively with regard to staff and administrative personnel. In Shimamungu's opinion, it was not possible to conclude that President Sindikubwabo would have used that term to incite the population. Gukora is only used in very specific circumstances and with very specific meaning.<sup>1512</sup>

771. The main theme of the President's speech of 19 April 1994 was that everyone had to be "the guardian or the custodian of his or her neighbour". This theme concerned insecurity and the presence of so many displaced people. No gendarmes were available, so everyone was told to be his neighbour's keeper.<sup>1513</sup>

772. Shimamungu opined that in Sindikubwabo's speech, it was unclear who the refugees were, i.e. whether they were Hutus or Tutsis. The issue of security arose because refugees were carrying weapons. He concluded that Sindikubwabo was in fact talking about RPF infiltrators who were among the refugees in the camps. These infiltrators were not necessarily Tutsis.<sup>1514</sup>

773. In one part of his speech, Sindikubwabo stated "[s]eek these people out who went to learn how to kill us and get rid of them," and that "the traitors should be identified so that they maybe – maybe prevented from causing havoc." Shimamungu was asked what he understood by the phrases “getting rid of,” and “preventing them from causing havoc.” Shimamungu explained that Sindikubwabo was making reference to several people. At one point he referred to the administration – that blockages were caused by ignorance – so that those who were blocking the proper running of the administration should be replaced. The President also made reference to infiltrators who, in view of the war, should be neutralised to stop them causing havoc.<sup>1515</sup>

774. Shimamungu opined that the unusual appearance of the President at the swearing-in ceremony of a préfet – usually an administrative ceremony – was a cover-up, hiding the fact that the Government had fled Kigali and had been in hiding in Murambi. The fact that the Government had moved to Butare logically gave the population the awareness that there was fierce fighting in Kigali and that Kigali was either already in the hands of the RPF or about to be.<sup>1516</sup>

775. Shimamungu explained that the word nyirandabizi was not a coded word, but meant “those who claim to know everything.”<sup>1517</sup> The word referred to people who are waiting for the regime to change to make the best out of it. In Butare préfecture some people thought that the purpose of the war was to simply overthrow the Government, after which they would be able to obtain positions or posts.<sup>1518</sup>

776. When President Sindikubwabo spoke of “[t]hose who are indifferent”, he was not talking about enemies. Because he was talking in an administrative meeting, he meant that those who were indifferent should be ignored and not fought against with weapons.<sup>1519</sup> Shimamungu stated that Préfet Habyalimana might have been part of this group of indifferent/ignorant people, but that he was no longer a target after his removal.<sup>1520</sup>

777. Shimamungu considered the conclusion of Sindikubwabo’s speech to be consistent with his speech of 17 April 1994. In the conclusion, the President indicated that everyone was to work together for the same cause. His Government would not govern as the previous one and that rather than being a saviour Government, it was a crisis Government. His Government was united and would work for a common purpose, namely, victory and peace for Rwanda.<sup>1521</sup>

778. Shimamungu stated that it was difficult to make a detailed analysis of the statements in the President’s speech because they would have been taken out of context. The speech was made to administrative officials and not to the population. He explained that the speech was a product of the war and contained extremist statements calling for the death of others. He nonetheless noted that these statements were made by both sides of the conflict.<sup>1522</sup> Although the speech was delivered to administrative authorities, the fact that it was broadcast over the radio meant that it also targeted the population as a whole.<sup>1523</sup>

779. Shimamungu explained that the new Government used inauguration ceremonies to eliminate insecurity. During his speech, Nsabimana, the new préfet, accepted to perform his duties with the support of the President.<sup>1524</sup> No préfet could be sworn-in against his will – therefore, Nsabimana must have spoken during the ceremony and asked for support in the performance of his future duties. Shimamungu did not possess Nsabimana’s speech, if indeed he spoke.<sup>1525</sup>

Prime Minister Kambanda’s Speech

780. Shimamungu identified a document as a speech by Jean Kambanda, recorded on Radio Rwanda on 11 April 1994.<sup>1526</sup> Since the broadcast was given over the radio, it was addressed both to the authorities, as well as to the population.<sup>1527</sup> In his opinion, this broadcast as well as all the speeches made from 8 April 1994 to 19 April 1994 required members of the population and, more specifically the officials, to ensure the maintenance of security. This was a response to the fact that it had been observed that roadblocks had been erected without the knowledge of the authorities.<sup>1528</sup>

781. Shimamungu testified that he associated with the Habyarimana family when his company in France published the book Juvénal Habyarimana, the man assassinated on 6 April 1994 in 2004.<sup>1529</sup> As part of his membership of the RDR party (Movement for Democracy and Return of Refugees to Rwanda), he wrote Prosecution Exhibit 167B (correspondence between Shimamungu and the French media). The correspondents expressed their views on a television programme which concerned the reaction to justice in Rwanda following the 1994 genocide.<sup>1530</sup> Read as a whole, Exhibit 167B attributes responsibility for the genocide in Rwanda in 1994 to the current President Paul Kagame and his army, the RPF. Shimamungu considered that the programme wrongly blamed Hutus alone for the 1994 genocide and opined that the assassination of President Habyarimana triggered the genocide.<sup>1531</sup>

782. Shimamungu testified that he was a member of AGIIR, an association for impartial international justice for Rwanda following the events of 1994.<sup>1532</sup> He attended an AGIIR meeting that resulted in the Amsterdam Declaration of 28 November 2004, part of which calls on the democratic opposition and civil society in Rwanda to resist the current political regime and insists that donor agencies halt all assistance and support to the RPF regime.<sup>1533</sup>

783. Filip Reyntjens, an expert in Rwandan history, government and human rights, testified that the overriding reason why Préfet Habyalimana was killed was because he was Tutsi. He stated that commune authorities in Ngoma commune and Butare town did not play a major role in the genocide. Other factors intervened and other players committed the genocide in Butare.<sup>1534</sup>

784. Préfet Habyalimana, along with the bourgmestres of Butare town and Ngoma commune, managed to maintain the peace. The dismissal of Préfet Habyalimana under very humiliating circumstances was also a factor precipitating violence.<sup>1535</sup> The dismissal was particularly humiliating because it was announced to the populace when the Interim President, the Prime Minister and eight ministers were visiting town. Préfet Habyalimana was chased out unceremoniously and was later assassinated.<sup>1536</sup> Reyntjens testified that the Interim Government decided to dismiss Préfet Habyalimana on 16 April 1994 and that he was formally removed from office on 19 April 1994.<sup>1537</sup> Only after Préfet Habyalimana was removed, and the Interim President spoke at the 19 April 1994 meeting, did the genocide spread throughout Butare préfecture.<sup>1538</sup>

785. Reyntjens testified that on 19 April 1994, President Sindikubwabo, Prime Minister Kambanda and eight ministers came to Butare town; they held speeches which were also broadcast over radio, thus reaching all the inhabitants of Butare préfecture. The speakers demanded that the inhabitants should not stand by while the events were taking place in other parts of the country. Reyntjens further testified that the massacres started in Butare through "external influences."<sup>1539</sup>

786. Reyntjens confirmed that the replacement of the préfet, the speeches by Kambanda and Sindikubwabo, the introduction of the Presidential Guard and the introduction of the Interahamwe in Butare contributed to the spread of the genocide in Butare.<sup>1540</sup> The Government did not need to communicate with the population through the bourgmestres; it had means to communicate directly with the population via radio or speeches.<sup>1541</sup>

Kambanda's and Kanyabashi's Speeches

787. Reyntjens testified that he had analysed a transcript of a radio broadcast, containing a short excerpt of Kambanda's speech and the full text of Kanyabashi's speech.<sup>1542</sup> The two speeches were in a transcript from a Radio Rwanda broadcast, with a journalist from Radio Rwanda, Jean Baptiste Bamwanga, speaking between the Kambanda excerpt and Kanyabashi's speech.<sup>1543</sup>

788. Reyntjens also analysed a document of 38 pages containing the larger part of Kambanda's 19 April 1994 speech from the beginning, but with the end cut off.<sup>1544</sup> He received the French translation from the Kanyabashi Defence, but never saw the original transcript or the audio tape.<sup>1545</sup> Reyntjens analysed the speeches on the basis of the French translation of the transcripts only. He did not specifically interview anybody in connection with these speeches.<sup>1546</sup>

Prime Minister Kambanda's Speech

789. Reyntjens testified that Prime Minister Kambanda ended with a direct threat to the bourgmestres, by saying, "I am saying this to some bourgmestres about whom it has been said, they are going to have themselves trained among the Inkotanyi." Reyntjens stated that "[a]mong the Inkotanyi" obviously referred to the RPF. Reyntjens stated that Kanyabashi was almost arrested in October 1990 as a so-called accomplice of the RPF.<sup>1547</sup>

790. Kambanda's speech was a sign of "the spread of power" because the Prime Minister was addressing himself directly to responsables de cellule, the lowest echelons of the administrative system, instead of following the normal hierarchical way – through the préfets, bourgmestres and conseillers. The broadcast of the address to the population and to the political parties was a sign of the power spread from the traditional hierarchies to the political parties.<sup>1548</sup>

791. Reyntjens agreed that President Sindikubwabo's speech was an appeal for the spread of the genocide to Butare and an instruction from the highest authority to start the massacres in Butare.<sup>1549</sup> Reyntjens confirmed that the President directed himself to Nsabimana saying that the new préfet had just promised to do his utmost to discharge his duties and that Nsabimana asked for the Government's support.<sup>1550</sup> Reyntjens confirmed that in the context of talking about spreading the genocide to Butare, the duties of the préfet included the massacre of Tutsis.<sup>1551</sup>

792. Reyntjens confirmed the President directly addressed the préfet saying, “[a]pproach the bourgmestres, organise meetings with them often, ask each of them what he needs ... If you decide he is lazy or carefree, tell him to apply himself to the work instead of leaving all the work to others.”<sup>1552</sup> He agreed that “work” in this context of genocide in Rwanda between April and July 1994 meant to kill Tutsis. Reyntjens affirmed that the President's words, “[n]ow be vigilant ... protect your préfecture instead. It is everybody's duties”, meant that everyone, including the bourgmestres, should start the massacres of the Tutsis.<sup>1553</sup>

793. Reyntjens testified that Sindikubwabo and Kambanda had sent a clear message to the people of Butare, and more precisely, to the local authorities, telling them that, “[y]ou are either with us or against us.”<sup>1554</sup> He added that Sindikubwabo, who had legitimate political power and power over the army, required the people of Butare to follow the Government. Therefore no commune authority could have openly opposed the genocide, otherwise he would have been killed. Reyntjens stated that several bourgmestres tried to flee and they were killed.<sup>1555</sup>

794. Reyntjens testified that President Sindikubwabo's speech with its open or veiled threats, and the speech of Prime Minister Kambanda, with its threats towards the bourgmestres and the dismissal of Préfet Habyarimana, sent a message to everybody in Butare that the Government expected Butare town and préfecture to get involved in the genocide.<sup>1556</sup> Reyntjens later stated that he found Kambanda's and Sindikubwabo's speeches “fundamentally different”. President Sindikubwabo appealed to the population of Butare to spread the genocide to Butare préfecture; Kambanda's speech seemed to be legitimate and without any “double meaning”. Reyntjens added that the two tasks that Kambanda assigned to the bourgmestres, to ensure the security of the population and to safeguard national sovereignty, appeared to be normal and legitimate within the context of the time.<sup>1557</sup>

795. Reyntjens also analysed Kanyabashi's speech of 19 April 1994.<sup>1558</sup> When Kanyabashi delivered his speech he “did not have any choice. He had to say something ... it was a speech which was not prepared.”<sup>1559</sup> Reyntjens added that Kanyabashi was the elder of the bourgmestres in Butare préfecture, and a refusal to speak would have been seen as a hostile act from the opposition, given what had been said by the President and the Prime Minister.<sup>1560</sup>

796. Reyntjens testified that Kanyabashi’s speech expressed discomfort, referring to passages, such as “[i]t is difficult to find the appropriate words.”<sup>1561</sup> Reyntjens stated that Kanyabashi remained “extremely vague” in his speech. Reyntjens referred to the following passage: “I wanted to say that we espouse the ideas of peace and unity”,<sup>1562</sup> and stated that Kanyabashi did not specify his objectives. Reyntjens added that Kanyabashi subscribed to the two Governmental objectives mentioned in Kambanda’s speech without involving in the plan to commit genocide, namely the security of the population and the safeguard of the national sovereignty. Reyntjens stated that he did not find any support for the genocide plan of the Interim Government in Kanyabashi’s speech.<sup>1563</sup>

797. Reyntjens testified that he did not see anything incriminating in Kanyabashi’s speech, if he was simply responding to Kambanda’s speech. Kanyabashi tried to focus on positive elements. Reyntjens emphasised that if Kanyabashi had subscribed to the statements of the President and accepted the fact that the genocide should have been spread to that préfecture, he would have told the President that he agreed with his speech. Kanyabashi did not say this.<sup>1564</sup>

798. Reyntjens was asked about Kanyabashi’s speech in which he stated, “[a]s we have shown, we would like to reiterate our support to your Government and we will continue to do our utmost for the Government to achieve its objectives.” Reyntjens confirmed that Kanyabashi was addressing the Prime Minister and all of the other members of the Government and that he was affirming the support of all bourgmestres and of the people to the objectives of the Government.<sup>1565</sup>

799. Reyntjens disagreed with the suggestion that the population who listened to the speeches of 19 April 1994 got the impression that all the authorities at the national, préfecture and commune level who were attending the ceremony, were in support of the Government’s plan of genocide. He stated that Kanyabashi only addressed the Prime Minister but not the President; and this could be because Kanyabashi was in disagreement with the President’s speech.<sup>1566</sup>

800. Reyntjens stated that Kanyabashi held a pacification meeting on 19 April 1994, on the same day as Nsabimana’s swearing-in ceremony. He discouraged the genocide, that too after Sindikubwabo’s speech, which must have required a certain amount of courage.<sup>1567</sup>

Order of the Speeches

801. Reyntjens voiced uncertainty regarding the order in which the speeches were made.<sup>1568</sup> From the details of the radio broadcast, he deduced that the speeches were probably delivered in the following order: first Kambanda, then Sindikubwabo and finally Kanyabashi.<sup>1569</sup>

802. Reyntjens admitted that before coming to testify, he had not seen the importance of the order of the speeches. He had therefore accepted the research done by Des Forges. He conceded that he should and could have looked into this before coming to testify. He stated that he did not have the documents concerning the order of the speeches when he drafted his Report.<sup>1570</sup>

803. Reyntjens testified that he did not consider Kanyabashi as a friend but as an acquaintance and that his relationship with Kanyabashi did not have any impact on his independent opinion as an expert.<sup>1571</sup> Reyntjens said that he had brief conversations with Kanyabashi in the street, he shared a drink with Kanyabashi four or five times, but they never visited each other's homes.<sup>1572</sup>

804. Kanyabashi named Reyntjens as his lawyer before Investigating Judge Vandermeersch in Belgium, however, Reyntjens said that he did not talk to Kanyabashi after his arrest, or represent Kanyabashi as he was not a practicing lawyer at the time.<sup>1573</sup> In that statement, Reyntjens indicated that he had known Kanyabashi for a long time and that "he knew him as somebody who never practiced ethnic discrimination and who always did everything to maintain peace in his commune."<sup>1574</sup>

Start of Killings in Butare Préfecture

805. Reyntjens testified that events in Butare préfecture did not follow what was happening in other regions of Rwanda between 6 April 1994 and 19 to 20 April 1994.<sup>1575</sup> There were massacres in some préfectures that commenced within 24 hours after 6 April 1994. In contrast, the only préfecture in Rwanda in which there were no massacres in the first days after the President's plane crash was Butare préfecture.<sup>1576</sup>

806. Reyntjens testified that up until 19 or 20 April 1994, there was no genocide taking place in Butare town despite the fact that other communes close to Butare town were suffering from mass killings.<sup>1577</sup> The genocide only began in Butare town when people from outside arrived.<sup>1578</sup> The fact that violence was delayed in Butare town and Butare préfecture was no coincidence; it was due to internal factors within Butare, including the presence of Préfet

Habyalimana.<sup>1579</sup> Butare was able to resist the genocide because Préfet Habyalimana set a policy of preventing violence, which was carried down through the administrative chain to bourgmestres and conseillers, despite the national genocide policy.<sup>1580</sup> However, Reyntjens confirmed that massacres started on a small scale quite early after 6 April 1994 in Butare préfecture.<sup>1581</sup>

807. He testified that even if President Sindikubwabo had not spoken at the swearing-in ceremony, Préfet Habyalimana had not been replaced, and the Presidential Guard and Interahamwe had not been introduced into Butare préfecture, the genocide would still likely have spread to Butare préfecture. The witness stated that even before the speech of 19 April 1994, the genocide was spreading like wildfire. Even if Sindikubwabo and Kambanda had not come to make their speeches, Reyntjens opined that it was very likely that Butare would not have been spared. He did, however, recognise that this was speculation as the speeches were made and the préfet was replaced, and it is difficult to verify what did not happen.<sup>1582</sup>

808. In his Report, however, Reyntjens explained that there were some cases of violence immediately after the death of President Habyarimana. He stated that the situation began to deteriorate during the course of the week of 11 April 1994 with the arrival of displaced people and “troublemakers” in Gikongoro. From 15 April 1994, more locals joined the killers who had arrived from elsewhere. The massacres of Tutsis in Simbi, Kansi, Kigembe, Nyakizu and Huye communes were telling of the extension of the genocide to Butare. The préfecture was inevitably sliding towards the situation that was widespread in the rest of Rwanda.<sup>1583</sup>

Nsabimana

809. Nsabimana was a member of the PSD political party.<sup>1584</sup> On 16 April 1994, Francois Ndungutse and Etienne Bashimiki, both PSD members, visited Nsabimana at his home and proposed his appointment as préfet of Butare préfecture.<sup>1585</sup> Nsabimana was surprised by the visit as he had never considered such a post, knew nothing about politics and viewed political positions as being onerous. Nsabimana refused, telling them to return to him only if they did not find anyone else.<sup>1586</sup> He also told Jean Kambanda that he would not be interested in the post of préfet.<sup>1587</sup> From Guichaoua’s Report, Nsabimana learned that Ndungutse and Bashimiki had first approached Jean Bapfakurera, a well-respected PSD member, to become

préfet.<sup>1588</sup> Nsabimana testified that he did not think it possible to refuse the position of préfet in mid-April 1994.<sup>1589</sup>

810. Nsabimana testified that on 17 April 1994, a trader who worked in Butare town informed him that he had been appointed préfet. Nsabimana told the trader that he had no comment and had not heard the news.<sup>1590</sup> Although he initially refused the appointment, he could do nothing about his situation.<sup>1591</sup> On 18 April 1994, Nsabimana listened to the radio and confirmed his appointment as préfet. He heard that the swearing-in ceremony would take place on 19 April 1994. He had no written document of appointment; everything was done over the radio.<sup>1592</sup> No one from the Ministry contacted Nsabimana about the appointment.<sup>1593</sup>

811. Nsabimana testified that he met Nyiramasuhuko at Chez Christine on 10 June 1994 and she denied involvement in the arrest of Préfet Habyalimana.<sup>1594</sup>

The Swearing-in Ceremony

812. Nsabimana testified that the ceremony took place in Ngoma in Butare town on 19 April 1994, on a Tuesday.<sup>1595</sup> Nsabimana arrived for the swearing-in ceremony at the MRND Palace, also known then as the multi-purpose house in Butare town at precisely 10.00 a.m.<sup>1596</sup> Soon thereafter the Government officials arrived.<sup>1597</sup> The ceremony was attended by Government ministers, bourgmestres and other officials, including Callixte Kalimanzira - a representative of the Ministry of Interior, who was the master of ceremonies, Prime Minister Jean Kambanda, Doctor Straton Nsabumukunzi - the Minister of Culture, Minister Justin Mugenzi, the Interim President Sindikubwabo, Eliezer Niyitegeka - Minister of Information, Colonel Muvunyi and Bourgmestre Kanyabashi of Ngoma commune.<sup>1598</sup> Nsabimana did not see Nyiramasuhuko when she arrived at the swearing-in ceremony, but concluded that she was also there.<sup>1599</sup>

813. Nsabimana testified that he did not expect to see the President at the ceremony and he was surprised by the manner in which he came. It looked as if the President had arrived by chance and Nsabimana was surprised.<sup>1600</sup> Sindikubwabo sat next to Nsabimana at the front.<sup>1601</sup> Nsabimana could not confirm whether Nteziryayo was present at the ceremony.<sup>1602</sup> Nsabimana explained that Sindikubwabo was not wearing military fatigues that day.<sup>1603</sup>

Speeches

814. Nsabimana testified that Ministers Mugenzi and Niyitegeka spoke in harsh tones.<sup>1604</sup> Prime Minister Kambanda used a normal tone of speech and essentially provided an account of what happened, akin to a briefing of the situation.<sup>1605</sup> Bourgmestre Kanyabashi also spoke and President Sindikubwabo made a lengthy speech in a very harsh tone.<sup>1606</sup>

815. Nsabimana testified that Ministers Mugenzi and Niyitegeka spoke first.<sup>1607</sup> Prime Minister Kambanda then took the floor after he was introduced by Kalimanzira.<sup>1608</sup> President Sindikubwabo was not present when Kambanda began his speech. Sindikubwabo arrived while Kambanda was making his speech.<sup>1609</sup> Sindikubwabo then took the floor and spoke at length.<sup>1610</sup> At the conclusion of his speech, Sindikubwabo gave the floor to Nsabimana.<sup>1611</sup> After a brief address by Nsabimana, the President took the floor again to say that he had to leave to attend to other concerns and he left.<sup>1612</sup> After the President left, the ceremony continued and Kambanda resumed his speech that he had started before the President's arrival.<sup>1613</sup> After Kambanda's speech, Kanyabashi spoke and at the end, the bourgmestres put questions to the Prime Minister.<sup>1614</sup> Kanyabashi was the last to speak.<sup>1615</sup> The question and answer session involving the bourgmestres did not last long and although Nsabimana did not remember the specific questions asked, he was sure they concerned insecurity.<sup>1616</sup> The outgoing préfet, Habyalimana, was present in the room but never took the floor to speak.<sup>1617</sup>

President Sindikubwabo's Speech

816. Nsabimana testified that the President had the effect of a "tsunami" when he took the floor.<sup>1618</sup> Sindikubwabo spoke at length and used a very harsh tone. Nsabimana did not remember whether Sindikubwabo also used gestures and body language.<sup>1619</sup> Nsabimana said that nothing was written but the President had a small agenda with words written at random on a piece of paper and his speech was a political speech. The President thanked the former préfet for his work. When the President was speaking, it was noticeable that something was happening within him. Nsabimana queried whether it was anguish, sadness, fury or anger and stated that the situation was rather complicated.<sup>1620</sup>

817. Nsabimana testified that Sindikubwabo spoke about his recent tour of Gikongoro préfecture, his visit to Maraba and Nyakizu in Butare and then gave his speech. Sindikubwabo described how he addressed the population in Nyakizu, that people had already been killed in Nyakizu, and that there was insecurity everywhere in Butare.<sup>1621</sup> Nsabimana testified that the President used the word ntidindeba, which means “it does not concern me” or “I am not concerned.”<sup>1622</sup> The President also used the word barajenjetse which Nsabimana loosely translated to mean “perhaps they are not serious”. Nsabimana understood these words but not what the President meant by them in his speech. Nsabimana concluded that those who were present at the speech did not understand and were wondering about the President’s complex speech.<sup>1623</sup>

818. Nsabimana heard the totality of Sindikubwabo’s speech but its analysis was not his concern at the time. His only concern was that he was becoming préfet; he was seeing ministers; he had never been in the presence of the President of the Republic and was concerned where all this was leading to.<sup>1624</sup> Nsabimana testified that Sindikubwabo made a very ambiguous political speech,<sup>1625</sup> and that an expert was needed to translate and explain the words the President used.<sup>1626</sup>

819. Nsabimana testified that the majority of Sindikubwabo’s speech was in a harsh tone so much so that the people attending were not saying a word; they were trying to listen and Nsabimana wondered whether they understood anything. Nsabimana did not personally perceive the speech as providing him guidelines or as inciting him to carry out any action whatsoever in his capacity as préfet of Butare.<sup>1627</sup>

820. Nsabimana explained that he called Sindikubwabo’s speech inflammatory while he was in exile around September 1994. Nsabimana said that as time went by he understood more and more that it was indeed inflammatory and that the massacres took place in Butare because of this speech.<sup>1628</sup>

821. On the President’s specific message to Nsabimana as the new préfet in paragraph 9 of Defence Exhibit 279, Nsabimana explained that he did not vote for the President. He had no particular interest in what the President was saying to him and that Sindikubwabo’s words were only binding on Sindikubwabo himself. He stated that the President might have repeated his words 10,000 times but it did not matter to Nsabimana.<sup>1629</sup> The President never helped him solve the préfecture's problems. Nsabimana testified that he asked no one about the mission assigned to him in the President's speech because it was not necessary. He said that what he expected to hear was not what he heard. Nsabimana said he understood Kinyarwanda but could not understand when people speak in parables.<sup>1630</sup>

822. The Prosecution confronted Nsabimana with Prosecution Exhibit 114A (Interview with Nsabimana, dated 1 October 1994) in which he said: "The President made a speech which was very bad. This speech was only telling people to kill others. People didn't know why he was giving this speech."<sup>1631</sup> Nsabimana agreed that Prosecution Exhibit 114A contained a faithful reflection of what he had said during an interview but denied that he was aware of a plan to eliminate Tutsis before he accepted to become préfet of Butare in April 1994.<sup>1632</sup> Nsabimana explained that the interview recorded in Prosecution Exhibit 114A was not given to Expert Witness Des Forges and that the document did not specify with whom the interview was conducted. Nsabimana explained that he spoke to Des Forges on the telephone on two occasions in March and April 1995 or 1996, but that these two interviews were not admitted in evidence. Nsabimana did not know how Des Forges came by Prosecution Exhibit 114A.<sup>1633</sup> Nsabimana thought that he gave this information in a video interview to two individuals from the BBC. Nsabimana did not deny the content of the document.<sup>1634</sup>

823. Annex IX to Defence Exhibit 492B (Letter from Nsabimana to the Prosecutor of the ICTR, dated 20 January 1997) was admitted into evidence as Prosecution Exhibit 185 (Telephone conversation between Des Forges and Nsabimana, March 1996). Nsabimana recognised that document as being his own.<sup>1635</sup> On the first page of Prosecution Exhibit 185, Nsabimana described the speeches of Sindikubwabo, Niyitegeka and Mugenzi as "an incitement to hatred, ... inflammatory."<sup>1636</sup>

Other Speeches

824. Nsabimana testified that he spoke at his swearing-in ceremony, thanking the authorities for his appointment, and invited bourgmestres for a council meeting the following day on 20 April 1994 so that they could inform him what was happening in their communes.<sup>1637</sup> He delivered one or two sentences; his speech was so insignificant and it was not broadcast on the radio.<sup>1638</sup>

825. Nsabimana testified that Minister Mugenzi spoke about the war in Kigali, including roadblocks. People could interpret his speech in various ways. His impression was that Mugenzi was speaking in the context of war. Mugenzi spoke in a harsh tone, in very simple terms and spoke fluently; Mugenzi said nothing about Butare and what he said was not important to Nsabimana.<sup>1639</sup> There was nothing new in Mugenzi's speech as Nsabimana had heard all that he said over the radio.<sup>1640</sup>

826. Nsabimana testified that Minister Niyitegeka spoke about massacres on the hills and mountains in Kibuye. Niyitegeka spoke in a rather harsh tone and said nothing about Butare. It was not of interest to Nsabimana.<sup>1641</sup> Niyitegeka's speech had a negative effect in the minds of the people of Butare and it was not needed in Butare.<sup>1642</sup> Nsabimana explained that people in Butare were already or nearly at the point of explosion. People who heard this kind of speech, particularly those who were involved in the massacres which started on 20 or 21 April 1994, used this speech to resume the killings. That was the negative aspect of the speech according to Nsabimana.<sup>1643</sup>

827. Nsabimana did not perceive anything particular in Kambanda's speech. It was more of an informative statement giving a briefing or an account of what happened in Kigali and how the attacks were being launched. Kambanda had a normal tone, different from Niyitegeka and Mugenzi.<sup>1644</sup> Kanyabashi, the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune also took the floor.<sup>1645</sup> Kanyabashi did not speak for long; he thanked Kambanda who was present since the President had left already, and thanked the people.<sup>1646</sup>

828. Nsabimana testified that he heard about killings in Maraba commune prior to his installation as préfet.<sup>1647</sup> Around 22 April 1994, he decided to visit the areas where massacres had occurred with Colonel Muvunyi.<sup>1648</sup> Muvunyi and Nsabimana travelled to Simbi parish in Maraba commune.<sup>1649</sup> Nsabimana testified that on 16 April 1994, there was a massive influx of refugees from Gikongoro to Maraba.<sup>1650</sup> There was a massacre there on about 17 April 1994. Muvunyi knew one of the nuns who managed the parish school and asked her who had committed the killings. She stated that it was people from Kinyamakara commune, in Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>1651</sup> Inside the church, they saw that the church had been washed with water, window panes were broken and there were traces of blood on the altar. Outside of the church there was a small tomb. They attempted to speak to the bourgmestre of Maraba commune but were unable to locate him.<sup>1652</sup>

829. Nsabimana and Muvunyi travelled to Gishamvu commune in Nyumba parish. Nyumba church was locked and they were unable to enter. Opposite the church, they observed that a number of bodies had been buried. They were unable to speak to anyone during this visit because no one would approach them. At Gishamvu, Sous-préfet Simbarikure told them that the dead bodies at the parish were people from Runyinya commune and Gishamvu itself. The sous-préfet stated that the killers were two policemen and soldiers from Gishamvu commune.<sup>1653</sup>

830. Nsabimana and Muvunyi then travelled to Nyakizu commune.<sup>1654</sup> They did not meet the bourgmestre and continued to Cyahinda parish. The entrance door and the walls of the church were cracked as a result of an explosion. Inside the church, there were bricks scattered all over and a smell of rot or stench.<sup>1655</sup> The schools next door to the church were destroyed and there were sheep's heads and skins in the courtyard.<sup>1656</sup> Nsabimana concluded that those who were killed were attacked and could not defend themselves properly. He stated that it had occurred on 15 April 1994.<sup>1657</sup>

831. Sous-préfet Hakizimungu told Nsabimana that people fought among themselves and there were killings in Nyakizu commune.<sup>1658</sup> Colonel Muvunyi told him that two gendarmes were killed at the Cyahinda church by refugees at the Cyahinda parish.<sup>1659</sup> The massacres were a result of the death of those two gendarmes.<sup>1660</sup> Nsabimana concluded that the explosion was caused by a shot from soldiers, but that the explosion was not the only action carried out; civilians were involved as well.<sup>1661</sup> He clarified that the perpetrators of the Cyahinda massacres were Interahamwe and gendarmes.<sup>1662</sup>

The Removal of Préfet Habyalimana

832. Nyiramasuhuko testified that Préfet Habyalimana was a personal friend of hers and she had nothing critical to say about his performance as préfet.<sup>1663</sup> She confirmed that Préfet Habyalimana was not present at the 11 April 1994 meeting of the country's préfets in Kigali.<sup>1664</sup> The Government was not provided any reason for his absence, and Habyalimana did

That is what I saw – all sorts of people ... I had seen animal skins, not skins, but rather pieces of – pieces of skin."); compare T. 14 September 2006 pp. 84-85 (Nsabimana) (French) ("Et j'ai vu dans la cour meme les têtes de moutons, des peaux...c'était un mélange. not send anyone to replace him.<sup>1665</sup> The absent préfets, including Préfet Habyalimana, were not criticised for failing to attend the meeting.<sup>1666</sup>

833. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she took notes in her diary regarding the 16 to 17 April 1994 Cabinet meeting.<sup>1667</sup> The diary listed the names of the newly appointed préfets and began “Butare PSD: Sylvain Nsabimana.”<sup>1668</sup> She stated that the préfet of Butare was dismissed at that meeting and another préfet was appointed.<sup>1669</sup> On cross-examination, Nyiramasuhuko stated she was unsure whether she took notes at this meeting.<sup>1670</sup>

834. Nyiramasuhuko explained the manner in which préfets were appointed. She stated that during the time of multi-party politics, each political party would submit a candidate for a préfet to be short-listed. This policy was not followed on 17 April 1994. On that date, each of the five political parties that were part of the Interim Government was required to reach a consensus on a single candidate.<sup>1671</sup> The Interim Government was then to submit the candidate to the Minister of the Interior.<sup>1672</sup> Because the Minister of the Interior was in Tanzania, the Prime Minister submitted the name of the candidate to the Council of Ministers.<sup>1673</sup> The Interim Government was then obliged to endorse that choice; it did not turn down any candidate once the person was selected by the parties.<sup>1674</sup> Another guiding principle for choosing préfets was that the préfet should be native to the area over which he had jurisdiction.<sup>1675</sup>

835. As to the removal of Préfet Habyalimana, Nyiramasuhuko stated that the PL and the PSD political parties came to an agreement by which the PSD would obtain the office of préfet in Butare and the PL would obtain the office of préfet for Gisenyi.<sup>1676</sup> It was necessary for a préfet to be appointed from a party with many supporters, because then he would be better understood by the population.<sup>1677</sup> The PSD argued that it had many members in Butare and that a PSD préfet would help to restore peace among the population.<sup>1678</sup> The PSD presented their candidate for Butare and the Interim Government accepted their choice.<sup>1679</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko did not refuse the appointment because she wanted peace restored as the PSD promised to do.<sup>1680</sup>

836. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the ministers adhered to the demands of the political parties in removing Préfet Habyalimana because the parties had control over the population. The ministers needed the help of the parties in restoring security in the country. The population listened to Préfet Habyalimana before 7 April 1994, but the political landscape changed after the death of the President. Therefore, the political parties suggested that he be replaced by a member of a party with more militants.<sup>1681</sup>

837. Nyiramasuhuko denied that she personally insisted that Préfet Habyalimana be replaced. The political parties made decisions on préfet appointments. She stated that she was not a member of the political bureau and therefore could not intervene on Préfet Habyalimana's behalf. She denied that she wanted or sought to kill Préfet Habyalimana.<sup>1682</sup> She stated: "I am not a killer, but you know, how could I suddenly become a killer at my age, whereas I have never done that, right from my birth. I can't even kill a chicken. So, I would say to you, all these people [Guichaoua and Des Forges] told lies about me."<sup>1683</sup>

838. Nyiramasuhuko testified that around the end of May, or during June 1994 she heard Habyalimana was imprisoned in Butare due to security concerns.<sup>1684</sup>

The Swearing-in Ceremony

839. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the entry in her diary dated 10 February 1994 referred to the swearing-in ceremony of the new préfet of Butare. The notes state: "Meeting to introduce the new préfet, presence of the President and the Prime Minister." Apart from herself, the Prime Minister and the President, other members of the Government were present, as well as ministers of all political parties. Nyiramasuhuko did not know, however, if there was a PDC minister. The reason for the meeting was to show support to a new official who was mandated to restore peace in Butare préfecture.<sup>1685</sup> Nyiramasuhuko stated that the entry for 19 April 1994 in her diary did not correspond to the events of that day, but to what Préfet Zilimwabagabo said on 3 May 1994 during the pacification operations in Gisenyi.<sup>1686</sup>

840. Nyiramasuhuko confirmed that Nsabimana took office on 19 April 1994 as préfet of Butare. The appointment was discussed at a meeting of the Council of Ministers.<sup>1687</sup> Nyiramasuhuko acknowledged that the Interim Government under Prime Minister Kambanda had issued a communiqué to the public on 17 April 1994.<sup>1688</sup> The communiqué stated:

The Cabinet also decided to dismiss the préfets of Butare and Kibungo. Silvain Nsabimana has become the new préfet of Butare and Anaclet Rudakubana is the new préfet of Kibungo. The Cabinet congratulated the préfets of Kigali-Ville, Gitarama, Gikongoro, Cyangugu, and Kibuye on the work they have done. It also confirmed that those préfets will continue to head those préfectures.<sup>1689</sup>

841. Another portion of the communiqué stated: “[A]fter hearing the ideas and proposals from the representatives of the political parties in the Government, the Cabinet appointed the préfets of those préfectures as follows...”.<sup>1690</sup> This confirmed that the political parties had come together and asked the Government to follow their demands in terms of these appointments. As it was put together by the political parties, the Government recognised that it had to follow these requests. It could not refuse what was in the interest of the Rwandan people.<sup>1691</sup>

842. Nyiramasuhuko was informed on 18 April 1994 while she was in Murambi, that Nsabimana would be officially installed as préfet of Butare and went to the ceremony with the other ministers, citing Straton Nsabumukunzi, the Prime Minister, the President, Mugenzi, Ntamabyariro, Eliezer and Mugiraneza. Callixte Kalimanzira was also present and possibly Ntagerura as well. Nyiramasuhuko believed Callixte Kalimanzira attended the ceremony because he was directeur de cabinet and a native of Butare. He did not go to other ceremonies where préfets were installed, like the one at Gisenyi on 21 April 1994. Nyiramasuhuko did not know how President Sindikubwabo travelled to Butare, but stated that he had been in Gikongoro on the preceding day.<sup>1692</sup>

843. Nyiramasuhuko stated that she arrived at the venue for the ceremonies around 10.00 a.m. The President was not yet present. She believed that he arrived when she was already inside the hall and left while she was still there. When he walked in, he was with his bodyguard. Nyiramasuhuko believed that there must have been guards outside. Nyiramasuhuko stressed that it was public knowledge that the President was accompanied by Presidential Guards. According to Nyiramasuhuko, the President explained in his speech why he was present for the ceremony. Prime Minister Kambanda stated in his speech that he was interested in events in his préfecture and was obliged to travel to Butare because he was in charge of the Ministry of the Interior.<sup>1693</sup> Nyiramasuhuko left at the end of the meeting, at around 2.00 p.m.<sup>1694</sup>

844. Nyiramasuhuko stated that she did not speak at the meeting.<sup>1695</sup> The outgoing préfet, Jean-Baptiste Habyalimana, was present. Habyalimana was not humiliated, but was congratulated by the President who said, “man is not all-powerful” and told him that he had done what he was able to do well. Nyiramasuhuko did not see Habyalimana ordered to leave the hall.<sup>1696</sup> She thought that she did not see Nteziryayo in the hall during the installation ceremony.<sup>1697</sup>

845. Nyiramasuhuko testified that the swearing-in ceremony of the new préfet, Nsabimana, took place at the multi-purpose hall and it was not open to the public. Only those who were invited were present.<sup>1698</sup> Ndayambaje did not attend the ceremony, as students were not allowed to do so at that time.<sup>1699</sup>

President Sindikubwabo's Speech

846. Nyiramasuhuko stated that the message the Government sought to convey to the leaders of Butare préfecture was to ensure the security and safety of their neighbours. The President said that the natives of Butare were known to be individualistic, but this habit had to be dropped in this difficult situation. They had to be aware that they too were concerned by the security of their peers, as well as the problems of the country.<sup>1700</sup> The mission assigned to the new préfet was to restore peace in Butare préfecture. The new préfet also spoke and said that he would do his utmost to accomplish this mission. Asked about the atmosphere at the ceremony, she said that there could not be any relaxed atmosphere during war time and that it was visible that there was an atmosphere of war. However, there was a will to put an end to that situation and restore peace and security.<sup>1701</sup>

847. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she heard parts of the President's 19 April 1994 speech on the radio. Radio Rwanda broadcast excerpts on 19 and 20 April 1994, and the full speech was broadcast on 21 April 1994.<sup>1702</sup> She heard the full speech on 21 April 1994 on Radio Rwanda.<sup>1703</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that it was not possible that President Sindikubwabo told the Butare administrators to encourage and continue killings, because the President was an old and peace-loving man. Further, it was not possible to talk about killings in Butare along ethnic lines. The President never encouraged, incited, ordered or otherwise called on the population to exterminate Tutsis in his speeches.<sup>1704</sup>

848. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she first learned of large-scale massacres occurring in Butare préfecture during the swearing-in ceremony of the préfet in Maraba commune on 19 April 1994.<sup>1705</sup> She denied involvement in the Maraba commune massacre, stating: (1) she was not present at the massacre site; (2) she did not know who had committed the massacres because she did not know the daily goings-on in Butare; (3) she was not responsible, she did not have a duty to know and did not have any authority in Butare préfecture to be able to do anything whatsoever and nobody asked for her help; and (4) she learned about the massacre when she could no longer do anything.<sup>1706</sup> She noted that she learned of the killing of gendarmes at Cyahinda parish on 15 April 1994. However this was not a large-scale massacre.<sup>1707</sup>

849. Nyiramasuhuko said that when she learned of the killings she asked to be informed and was told that the perpetrators of the crimes would be punished. She believed that the local authorities and the judiciary would arrest and punish the arrested criminals.<sup>1708</sup>

Ndayambaje

850. Ndayambaje testified that on 18 April 1994, he was travelling from his home in Butare town to Muganza commune and heard a gunshot as he was leaving Butare town.<sup>1709</sup> On that same trip, he also noticed some houses were burning to the west of Butare town in the vicinity of Huye and Runyinya communes.<sup>1710</sup> Ndayambaje stated that he was not aware of any deaths in Mugombwa secteur, Muganza commune, on 20 April 1994.<sup>1711</sup>

3.5.4 Deliberations

851. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution relies, inter alia, on the testimony of Expert Witnesses Des Forges and Guichaoua in support of allegations addressed in this section. As the Chamber noted in its Oral Decision of 23 June 2004 in relation to the testimony of Expert Witness Guichaoua, expert witnesses give opinion evidence, some of which may be based on hearsay evidence. This is subject to evaluation and consideration by the Chamber in its deliberations.<sup>1712</sup> The Chamber reiterates that it is not bound by an expert witness' opinion, but must weigh the evidentiary value of the relevant portion of an expert's report and testimony.<sup>1713</sup>

3.5.4.1 Background to the Removal of Préfet Habyalimana and Nsabimana's Swearing-in Ceremony

852. The Prosecution asserts that the genocide in Butare did not commence immediately following the death of the President on 6 April 1994, but alleges that it took two weeks before the large-scale massacres of Tutsis began. Groups of people from different walks of life acting in concert organised, planned, and carried out the massacres. It alleges the removal of Préfet Habyalimana and Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony are key to understanding why and how the genocide commenced in Butare préfecture.<sup>1714</sup>

853. The Chamber notes the theory advanced by the Nyiramasuhuko, Ntahobali and Nsabimana Defences that massacres already occurred in Nyakizu and Maraba before 19 April 1994. This, however, does not contradict the Prosecution theory that the genocide in Butare did not commence immediately following the death of the President on 6 April 1994 and that the large-scale massacres of Tutsis began two weeks later. The determination as to whether the swearing-in ceremony of 19 April 1994 had an impact on the massacres must be evaluated in light of the scale of the massacres in Butare prior to and after the swearing-in ceremony.

854. Prosecution Witness TQ, Prosecution Expert Witnesses Des Forges and Guichaoua, Defence Witness D-1-4-O, Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko, testified consistently that killings occurred prior to 17 April 1994, within Butare's western communes.<sup>1715</sup> Furthermore, the joint communiqué issued by the Butare and Gikongoro préfets on 16 April 1994, confirmed that ethnic violence had spread to Butare's western communes across the border with Gikongoro.<sup>1716</sup>

855. The Chamber attributes significant weight to the communiqué emanating from the 16 April 1994 meeting of the Butare and Gikongoro préfets.<sup>1717</sup> Préfets Habyalimana and Bucyibaruta had nothing to gain by falsely asserting that ethnic violence was spilling into Butare's western communes on 16 April 1994. In this connection, the Chamber finds Prosecution Witness TQ to be credible and reliable regarding his testimony that people were already being killed on 16 April 1994.<sup>1718</sup> Furthermore, the Chamber considers that Witness D-1-4-O was working in a health clinic, and learned of the particular details of the refugees from the forms they filled out. Although his evidence is largely hearsay, Witness D-1-4-O's testimony that refugees were already fleeing from Gikongoro towards Ngoma commune between 13 and 18 April<sup>1719</sup> lends credence to the testimonies of Witness TQ, Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko.

856. Nsabimana, Des Forges and Guichaoua also testified that there was an attack at Cyahinda church on around 15 April 1994.<sup>1720</sup> The Chamber treats Nsabimana's testimony with appropriate caution; however this evidence was corroborated by Des Forges and Guichaoua. Furthermore, Nyiramasuhuko testified that she heard about the killing of gendarmes at Cyahinda parish, Nyakizu commune that occurred on 15 April 1994, but stated that this was not a large-scale massacre.<sup>1721</sup> However, the three other aforementioned witnesses who testified as to this event were consistent as to this attack being of a larger-scale. Chamber concludes that homes were burnt and Tutsis were killed in Butare's western communes prior to 17 April 1994.

3.5.4.2 The Removal of Préfet Habyalimana

857. Expert Witnesses Guichaoua, Des Forges and Reyntjens agreed that Préfet Habyalimana had established a strong control of the administrative hierarchy within Butare préfecture.<sup>1722</sup> The Chamber finds these conclusions to be reliable because the assessment of Préfet Habyalimana's historical and political role falls squarely within the experts' area of expertise and the experts also agree on this point. Even Nyiramasuhuko agreed that Habyalimana had the confidence of the population prior to 7 April 1994.<sup>1723</sup> Guichaoua testified that from 6 April 1994, Habyalimana used the préfecture Security Council to maintain control within the préfecture.<sup>1724</sup> Although Guichaoua acknowledged that some soldiers in Butare were showing signs of impatience to start killing, he testified that the administrative hierarchy under Préfet Habyalimana largely obeyed his directives to maintain order.<sup>1725</sup>

858. Guichaoua testified that Callixte Kalimanzira drafted a report that was read out by Nyiramasuhuko at the 16 April 1994 meeting of préfets and the Interim Government, in which it was alleged that Préfet Habyalimana was colluding with the Inkotanyi and that he attempted to attack the bourgmestre of Nyakizu commune.<sup>1726</sup> Guichaoua had not seen the alleged Kalimanzira report, and based his opinion on references to the alleged report in other documents.<sup>1727</sup> This report was not tendered into evidence and this assertion is not corroborated either. Therefore, the Chamber does not find that the Prosecution has proven the existence of the alleged Kalimanzira report or its contents.<sup>1728</sup>

859. The evidence established that Habyalimana's removal and Nsabimana's appointment were Government decisions. Nyiramasuhuko claims that the PSD and PL political parties made the decision to remove Préfet Habyalimana and to appoint Nsabimana in his place.<sup>1729</sup> She admits that names of préfet candidates were brought to the Ministry of the Interior. In view of the fact that he was not present, as he was in Tanzania at the time, the Prime Minister, acting on behalf of the Minister of the Interior, submitted the names to the Council of Ministers for approval.<sup>1730</sup>

860. Nyiramasuhuko claims that she had no choice but to consent to the removal of Préfet Habyalimana.<sup>1731</sup> She claims she and the rest of the Interim Government were figureheads with no real power to make the important decision of appointing préfets.<sup>1732</sup> Guichaoua contradicted this testimony. Guichaoua testified that Interim President Sindikubwabo proposed to the PL Chairman Justin Mugenzi the exchange of the préfet post in Butare for that of the préfet post of Gisenyi préfecture.<sup>1733</sup> Nyiramasuhuko also testified that the Interim Government was obliged to accept the proposal of the PSD to appoint Nsabimana in order to gain the support of the PSD militants in Butare.<sup>1734</sup> Guichaoua opined that the PSD had split into two factions and, when the genocide began, the power wing of the PSD had control of the party. This group supported the policies of the MRND after the assassination of the Secretary General of the PSD, Félicien Gatabazi.<sup>1735</sup> The MRND could not appoint a member of its own party to be préfet because it was considered a party of northerners and disliked by the southerners in Butare.<sup>1736</sup>

861. Nyiramasuhuko's testimony was not credible with regard to the decision to remove Habyalimana. Guichaoua testified, and Nyiramasuhuko's diary confirmed, that the Interim Government met at least 19 times between 6 April 1994 and July 1994 and that Nyiramasuhuko attended each of these meetings.<sup>1737</sup> Many of these meetings extended over the course of two days.<sup>1738</sup> Further, the préfets and bourgmestres of the country continued to report to the Interim Government throughout this period.<sup>1739</sup> Guichaoua testified that the Interim Government elevated and demoted military leaders at these meetings.<sup>1740</sup> The Defence did not refute this claim. Therefore, the Chamber considers that the Interim Government had the power to make important decisions about the running of the Government after the Presidential plane crash. Even if the political parties made the initial proposal to remove Habyalimana, the ministers made the final decision to remove him and replace him with Nsabimana at the 16-17 April 1994 meeting.

862. Nyiramasuhuko admits that she took part in the 16 to 17 April 1994 Cabinet meeting and that the decision to remove Préfet Habyalimana was taken at that meeting.<sup>1741</sup> This decision was recorded, albeit briefly, in her diary which noted the name of the new préfet, Nsabimana, and his political party next to Butare.<sup>1742</sup> The testimony of Guichaoua corroborated this account.<sup>1743</sup> The Chamber therefore finds that Nyiramasuhuko participated in the Cabinet meeting in which the Interim Government decided to remove Préfet Habyalimana from office on 16-17 April 1994.

863. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she was unaware of large-scale killings in Butare préfecture until 19 April 1994.<sup>1744</sup> Yet she stated the purpose of removing Habyalimana, on 16-17 April 1994 was to restore peace. In this regard, she stated: (1) the political parties in Butare decided that a new préfet was necessary in order to restore the peace; (2) the Interim Government adhered to the political parties' request to replace Préfet Habyalimana because they needed the parties' help to restore calm in the country; and (3) the new préfet, Nsabimana, was given a mandate to restore peace.<sup>1745</sup> It is incongruous that she would seek to restore peace in Butare when she was unaware of large-scale killings within that préfecture. Despite the chaos and prevalence of massacres throughout Rwanda between 6 April 1994 and 17 April 1994, Butare was the only préfecture in Rwanda that resisted large-scale killings. Yet she asserts that the people of Butare had lost faith in Préfet Habyalimana and the Interim Government chose to remove him to restore peace.<sup>1746</sup> The Chamber does not find Nyiramasuhuko's testimony to be credible on this point.

864. Nyiramasuhuko denied responsibility for the Maraba commune massacre citing several logically inconsistent rationales. She stated that she did not have any responsibility for Butare préfecture and therefore could not have done anything. Yet, she lamented that she learned of the massacre after it occurred when it was too late for her to do anything.<sup>1747</sup> This latter claim suggests Nyiramasuhuko did have power in Butare and could have taken action to prevent the massacre if she knew about it sooner. Nonetheless, there was no other evidence led to support this possibility. The Trial Chamber finds that Nyiramasuhuko, as a member of the Interim Government, participated in the decision to remove Préfet Habyalimana from office for reasons other than maintaining peace.

3.5.4.3 Nsabimana's Swearing-in Ceremony

865. Prosecution and Defence evidence establishes that President Sindikubwabo, Prime Minister Kambanda, Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi and a number of ministers from the Interim Government attended the swearing-in ceremony.<sup>1748</sup> The speakers at the ceremony included, inter alia, Sindikubwabo, Kambanda, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana.<sup>1749</sup> Most of the speeches at the ceremony were broadcast on Radio Rwanda.<sup>1750</sup> Nyiramasuhuko testified that she heard parts of the President's 19 April speech on the radio. Radio Rwanda broadcast excerpts on 19 and 20 April 1994, and the full speech was broadcast on 21 April 1994. Nyiramasuhuko heard the full speech on 21 April 1994 on Radio Rwanda.<sup>1751</sup> Shimamungu stated that although the speech was delivered to administrative authorities, the fact that it was broadcast over the radio meant that it also targeted the population as a whole.<sup>1752</sup> In the Chamber's view, the fact that the speeches were retransmitted by radio extended their influence, and implies that they were also intended for a wider audience composed of members of the population.

866. Although several speeches were made during the ceremony, in the Chamber's view the most important speeches were those of Sindikubwabo, Kambanda, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana. These speeches shall be looked at in turn. Although Kambanda and Sindikubwabo are not accused in this case, their speeches are important to understand the context and effect of the ceremony on the population of Butare at the time.

3.5.4.4 Sindikubwabo's Speech

867. Expert witnesses analysed various sections of Sindikubwabo's speech, including the following excerpt:

I met members of the local population [at Nyakizi commune]. They are faced with the same problem as the refugees, who, they said, are being housed in the Nyumba church precinct. What I saw was that the inhabitants were afraid of them, because it would appear that they possess very powerful weapons, guns and grenades.... Some of them were on top of the hill, according to one of the Ministers ... the way they do things, the others were inside the church while the defenceless common folk were roaming about.

The issue of refugees therefore, I wanted someone to tell us exactly what this was about, because I don't understand it yet. Which refugees are these? Are these Hutus who have fled? Are these Tutsis who have fled? Who are these refugees? What are they fleeing from? That is the question.<sup>1753</sup>

868. Ntakirutimana explained that the term rubanda (inhabitants), which is of particular significance in this speech, took on a different shade of meaning during the war and probably well before that. Generally the term means "crowd, populace, public or people." However, rubanda (inhabitants) developed to mean members of the Hutu ethnic group known as rubanda nyamwiinshi (majority ordinary people) in reference to their large number.<sup>1754</sup> Although the speech does not give any specific indication as to the ethnicity of the ordinary population, or the implied "enemy", Ntakirutimana confirmed that the enemies were Tutsis and the ordinary people were the Hutus.<sup>1755</sup>

869. Shimamungu stated that it was unclear whether the refugees referred to were Hutus or Tutsis. He suggested that Sindikubwabo was talking about RPF infiltrators who were among the refugees in the camps and also said that the infiltrators may not have been Tutsis.<sup>1756</sup>

870. The Chamber notes that Shimamungu's testimony was tainted by bias. He testified that he associated with the Habyarimana family when his company in France published Juvénal

Habyarimana, the man assassinated on 6 April 1994, in 2004.<sup>1757</sup> Shimamungu also testified that, as part of his political activism during his membership of the RDR party (Movement for Democracy and Return of Refugees to Rwanda<sup>1758</sup>), he wrote Prosecution Exhibit 167B (correspondence between Shimamungu and the French media) on behalf of himself and his party. The correspondence expressed their views on a television programme which concerned the reaction to justice in Rwanda following the 1994 genocide.<sup>1759</sup> Read as a whole, this Exhibit attributes responsibility for the genocide in Rwanda in 1994 to the current President Paul Kagame and his army, the RPF. Shimamungu considered that the programme wrongly blamed Hutus alone for the 1994 genocide and opined that the assassination of President Habyarimana triggered the genocide.<sup>1760</sup>

871. Shimamungu testified that he was a member of AGIIR, an association for impartial international justice for Rwanda following the events of 1994.<sup>1761</sup> He attended an AGIIR meeting that resulted in the Amsterdam Declaration of 28 November 2004, part of which calls on the democratic opposition and civil society in Rwanda to resist the current political regime and insists that donor agencies halt all assistance and support to the RPF regime.<sup>1762</sup>

872. The Chamber considers that Shimamungu's political and civic activism illustrate his opposition to the RPF who were considered to be the enemies of Rwanda in 1994. This opposition was also shared by the Interim Government of which Nyiramasuhuko was a member and Nyiramasuhuko as an individual. Such activism when viewed independently does not adversely affect his credibility. However, when viewed against the background of the 1994 events, Shimamungu's defence of Nyiramasuhuko, with whom he shared interests and views (for example, that the enemy in 1994 was the RPF Inkotanyi), is tainted by his activism. The Chamber further recalls Shimamungu's admission that according to what the Nyiramasuhuko Defence required of him, he was specifically to criticise Ntakirutimana's report.<sup>1763</sup> His testimony should therefore be viewed with appropriate caution.

873. The Chamber therefore does not consider Shimamungu's opinion to be plausible on the issue as to whether the refugees referred to were Hutus or Tutsis. Sindikubwabo's choice of words revealed that the refugees' ethnic identity was the major distinguishing factor in understanding the security problem at hand. The listeners had to determine on which side the Hutus and Tutsis fell in Sindikubwabo's speech, i.e. which group represented the defenceless inhabitants and which group was armed on hilltops and in churches. The Chamber finds Ntakirutimana's analysis to be credible on this point, as his reasoning is both plausible and in-line with a plain reading of the extract of Sindikubwabo's speech. The Chamber finds that the references in Sindikubwabo's speech to refugees and armed groups in churches and on hilltops were references to Tutsis. Sindikubwabo was implying that the Tutsis used these guns and grenades to attack the defenceless ordinary people, i.e. the Hutus. In the Chamber's view, the purpose of such words was to provoke Sindikubwabo's listeners into viewing Tutsis as an armed threat against which Hutus needed to be protected.

874. Sindikubwabo also said the following:

We also have the "none of my business" type here in Butare, as well as the "I know it all" types ....

[I]n Butare there is a certain lie which ... produces the "none-of-my-business" type. And so everybody says: "Ah! If they acted like this, if they acted like that, if things were like this"; but who is they? This is my message to you. I leave this problem in your hands; it is for you to solve and I wish you success! ...

We will win [the war] if you get rid of the "that is none of my business" types.... This government to which I am speaking, look for the "that is none of my business" type, look for those people who ... have gone to train so as to kill us and get rid of them for us. As for the rest of the Rwandan citizens, those of us who are decided, we will continue until the final victory.<sup>1764</sup>

875. Ntakirutimana explained that the "it-is-not-my-business" types are those who deliberately detach themselves from a matter of national concern in order to take care of personal business that is often unrelated to the community's concerns.<sup>1765</sup> The reference to getting rid of the "it-is-not-my-business-types" was an open invitation to murder.<sup>1766</sup> The President urged the people of Butare to work in concert with the Government towards final victory. Ntakirutimana explained that this was quite obvious incitement to murder anyone who was indifferent to the prevailing situation.<sup>1767</sup>

876. The reference to the "know-it-all" types is to those who claim to know everything and by implication, have no need at all for guidance or advice in their actions. Ntakirutimana explained that these two terms reveal that in both Butare and Gikongoro, there were people who were completely detached from the national concern of safeguarding security, and they included administrative officials.<sup>1768</sup>

877. Ntakirutimana's explanation of these two types of individuals was corroborated by Shimamungu, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana.<sup>1769</sup> Ntakirutimana's analysis and explanation demonstrate that Sindikubwabo wanted these types of people to either be removed or to begin supporting the Interim Government's actions in response to the security situation.

878. Sindikubwabo continued in his speech:

[T]hose who are waiting for others to work do not feel concerned. Well, let them come clean and leave us to work, and let them watch us work but without being part of our team. If somebody feels like saying: “I am not concerned; that does not concern me; I am afraid,” let him withdraw far from us. Those who are in charge of ... getting rid of him for us should do it as quickly as possible, because there are other good persons willing to work for their country ....<sup>1770</sup>

879. The Chamber recalls the testimony of Nsabimana Defence Witness Karemano that although he did not hear Sindikubwabo’s speech, the President’s statement that people should not remain indifferent and should work stuck in the people’s minds and was widely commented on.<sup>1771</sup> In Karemano’s view, the meaning of the President’s statement was easy to ascertain when viewed in the context of the events that occurred after 19 April 1994, i.e. killings and lootings.<sup>1772</sup>

880. Considered in the context of 1994 in Rwanda, with the massacre of Tutsis spreading throughout Butare and people anxious to hear from the Government on what to do at the time, the President’s words constituted an instruction to the people of Butare to change their attitude and get actively involved in the massacre of Tutsis. Implicit in this instruction was a threat that those who failed to take action and participate in the genocide would be sought out and removed. In the Chamber’s view, Sindikubwabo’s words on this issue were inflammatory.

881. Sindikubwabo concluded:

I should like, dear brothers, to end my message or rather suspend it by going back on what I have just said. I would like you to analyze our message, understand it and analyze the terms we are using; you should understand why we choose to use one term and not another. It is because we are in an unusual period.

Jokes, laughter, jesting, childishness and caprice should give way to work. After obtaining victory, when the country will have regained calm, we will go back to our jokes; but now is not the time for joking.<sup>1773</sup>

882. According to Des Forges, this part of the President’s speech constituted a threat.<sup>1774</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that here Sindikubwabo was warning his listeners and recapitulating what his Government expected of them. Ntakirutimana further stated that the President was aware of the coded meaning of the terms he used and asked his listeners to decode carefully in order to understand the message. He observed that encoding was common practice in speeches during the period 1990 to 1994.<sup>1775</sup>

883. The Chamber considers Ntakirutimana’s analysis to be plausible and consistent with a plain reading of the President’s conclusion. At the end of his speech, Sindikubwabo clearly acknowledged that he used coded language and ordered his audience to analyse the specific words and phrases used in his speech in order to decipher the Government’s message.

884. The parties also led evidence from a number of factual witnesses on the content and impact of Sindikubwabo's speech. Nyiramasuhuko did not consider the speech to be inflammatory. In contrast, Nsabimana explained that when the President took the floor, the effect was like a "tsunami".<sup>1776</sup> He testified that as time went by after the speech, he came to realise that it was indeed inflammatory.<sup>1777</sup> Ntakirutimana opined that for all practical purposes, the aim of a speech needs to be judged by the results achieved where this is possible.<sup>1778</sup> The testimony of Witnesses TQ, QJ, QI, FAM, QBU, FAE and Karemano concerning events in the Butare area around 19 April 1994, demonstrate that the massacres in Butare commenced or intensified after that date.<sup>1779</sup> The Chamber recalls that at the time of their testimony, Witnesses FAM and QBU, both Hutus, were detained witnesses in Rwanda serving sentences for their involvement in the 1994 genocide. In the Chamber's view, the status of these witnesses as accomplices renders them capable of bias and their testimony should therefore be treated with appropriate caution. Witness TQ had also been convicted of genocide but had been acquitted and released from prison before he testified in 2004. The Chamber therefore considers that he had no reason to implicate any one of the Accused, as he was acquitted prior to testifying in this case and by virtue of the fact that he was a Hutu.

885. Witness QA also testified regarding President Sindikubwabo's speech. However, on recall in 2008, Witness QA testified that he had lied about Kanyabashi's speech and that most of his prior testimony was lies. The Chamber does not rely on Witness QA's testimony.

886. Nsabimana testified that he heard the totality of Sindikubwabo's speech but its analysis was not his concern. He further stated that he understood the words barajenjetse and ntibindeba in Sindikubwabo's speech but not what Sindikubwabo meant by them;<sup>1780</sup> that an expert was needed to translate and explain Sindikubwabo's words in his very ambiguous and political speech;<sup>1781</sup> that he called Sindikubwabo's speech inflammatory while in exile in September 1994; and that only after a period of time after the swearing-in ceremony did he come to realise that the speech was inflammatory and the massacres took place because of it.<sup>1782</sup> Nsabimana insisted that he did not understand anything in Sindikubwabo's speech.<sup>1783</sup>

887. Notwithstanding Nsabimana's assertions that he did not appreciate the nature and impact of the speech when it was delivered, contradictory evidence establishes that Nsabimana did in fact understand Sindikubwabo's speech as and when it was given on 19 April 1994. Furthermore, the Chamber notes that in Prosecution Exhibit 114A (Interview with Nsabimana, dated 1 October 1994), Nsabimana stated: "The President made a speech which was very bad. This speech was only telling people to kill others. People didn't know why he was giving this speech.” Nsabimana agreed that Prosecution Exhibit 114A contained a faithful reflection of what he had said during the interview.<sup>1784</sup> In the interview, Nsabimana does not indicate that he only came to realise the inflammatory nature of the President’s speech until after the event. On the contrary, a plain reading of Prosecution Exhibit 114 suggests that Nsabimana’s opinion of the speech was based on the impressions he formed when the speech was delivered. Similarly, Nsabimana recognised Prosecution Exhibit 185 (Telephone conversation between Des Forges and Nsabimana, March 1996) as being part of a letter he had sent to the Prosecutor in January 1997.<sup>1785</sup> On the first page of that exhibit, Nsabimana describes the speeches of Sindikubwabo, Niyitegeka and Mugenzi as “an incitement to hatred, ... inflammatory”. He subsequently explains, “Visibly, in that atmosphere, I did not know what to do.”<sup>1786</sup> The fact that Nsabimana admitted that he did not know what to do when the President gave his inflammatory speech suggests that he must have been aware that the speech constituted incitement at the time the speech was given, rather than afterwards.

888. Des Forges also disagreed with the contention that Nsabimana was not a knowing and therefore guilty participant in the official genocide plan. She stressed the importance of Nsabimana’s post as préfet and opined that when Nsabimana accepted to be sworn in as préfet, he knew what the Government’s plan was and agreed to serve a Government that intended to kill the Tutsis in Butare.<sup>1787</sup> Reyntjens agreed that President Sindikubwabo’s speech was an instruction from the highest authority to start the massacres in Butare and confirmed that the duties of the préfet included the massacre of Tutsis.<sup>1788</sup> Reyntjens further confirmed that the President directly addressed the préfet saying, “[a]pproach the bourgmestres, organise meetings with them often, ask each of them what he needs...”<sup>1789</sup> In this connection, the Chamber takes note of Nsabimana’s admission that he convened a meeting of all the bourgmestres on 20 April 1994, the day following his swearing-in ceremony.<sup>1790</sup> In the Chamber’s view, this is a clear indication that Nsabimana understood the President’s speech and acted on the instructions contained therein.

889. The Chamber recalls Nsabimana’s demeanour in court when answering questions regarding his understanding of Sindikubwabo’s speech. Nsabimana was very elusive, avoiding or refusing to answer questions particularly from the Prosecution on his specific understanding of this speech, while insisting that he understood nothing in Sindikubwabo’s speech.<sup>1791</sup> The Chamber considers that Nsabimana’s description of Sindikubwabo’s speech as being inflammatory, as described in the previous paragraph, conflicts with his insistence that he did not understand it at all and points to his lack of truthfulness with regard to his testimony on his specific understanding of Sindikubwabo’s speech on 19 April 1994.<sup>1792</sup> Nsabimana’s testimony that he did not understand a thing is an exaggeration and not plausible. Nsabimana described and showed understanding of the speeches by Niyitegeka, Mugenzi and Kambanda given in similar language at the same ceremony. Taking all of the above into account, the Chamber considers that Nsabimana is not truthful and his testimony is therefore not credible with regard to his understanding of Sindikubwabo's speech on 19 April 1994 and on the impact of the speech.

890. In light of all of the above, and bearing in mind the political context in which the speech was delivered and the existence of war, the Chamber finds that the attendance of the President, Prime Minister and a number of ministers made Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony a very important occasion. The people of Butare were looking for guidance from the Interim Government. When Sindikubwabo took the floor and made his speech, he clearly called on his audience to take action against Tutsis, which translated in their participation in the killings. The Chamber is therefore convinced that Sindikubwabo's speech of 19 April 1994 was inflammatory and called on his listeners to kill Tutsis and their accomplices.

3.5.4.5 Kambanda's Speech and Sindikubwabo's Speech – Shared Themes

891. The expert witnesses analysed various sections of Kambanda's speech, including the following excerpt:<sup>1793</sup> "I am saying this to some bourgmestres who I had told [sic] had gone training amongst the Inkotanyi so that they tell them that the government is determined, the state, the army and the population – we are determined to wage this war and to win it."<sup>1794</sup>

892. The speeches made by Sindikubwabo and Kambanda share a number of common themes. Both speeches underline the existence of war, urge the people of Butare to take action and warn of traitors who underwent weapons training. These common themes illustrate that the speeches were complementary and had a common purpose at the swearing-in ceremony: that of inciting the population to take action against Tutsis. The Chamber therefore considers that when Kambanda talked about not tolerating those who support the enemy and the bourgmestres who he had been told went to train with the Inkotanyi, he was in effect inciting his listeners to commit killings and violence against these people.

893. According to Witness RV, Kambanda defined the enemy as Inkotanyi as well as the Inkotanyi accomplices who were Tutsis or Hutus who had ideas that supported the RPF.<sup>1795</sup> In explaining the historical background and the set expressions and proverbs that have resulted from the word Inkotanyi, Ntakirutimana opined that from a day-to-day traditional Rwandan perspective, the aggressor of Rwanda, the Tutsi, was referred to as the real enemy. References to eliminating the enemy or flushing him out of the country therefore referred to Tutsis.<sup>1796</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that the linguistic expressions in the President's speech revealed that the enemy was the Tutsis and the defenceless ordinary people were the Hutus.<sup>1797</sup>

894. At the time of his testimony, Witness RV was a detained witness in Rwanda serving a sentence for his involvement in the 1994 genocide. Given his status as an accomplice witness, the Chamber will treat his evidence with appropriate caution. Bearing this in mind, the Chamber considers that Witnesses RV and Ntakirutimana described the Tutsis in Rwanda, the RPF Inkotanyi and Hutus in Rwanda who were dissatisfied with the regime, as falling within the definition of “enemy”. The common feature of these categories is either being Tutsi, being directly or indirectly associated with Tutsis. The Chamber considers this conclusion to be credible in the context of the events of 1994 in Rwanda. It is also supported by Sindikubwabo’s speech where he raises the issue of whether the refugees are Hutus or Tutsis. In view of the foregoing consistent evidence on the identity of the “enemy” in Rwanda in 1994, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has established that the enemy as described in Sindikubwabo and Kambanda’s speeches were the Tutsis.

895. As regards the use of the word gukora, or “work”, Shimamungu identified several positive usages of the word gukora including to do, to act and to be occupied with.<sup>1798</sup> In his view, gukora did not have a coded meaning.<sup>1799</sup> Shimamungu said in his opinion that up until 19 April 1994 the word had never been used to mean “to kill Tutsis.”<sup>1800</sup> In contrast, Ntakirutimana claimed that the verb gukora (to work) has, since the 1959 social revolution and the abolition of the monarchy, taken on a coded meaning and come to refer to killing Tutsis. In his view, gukora also meant to destroy the homes of Tutsis to prevent them from returning to their home.<sup>1801</sup> Any message conveyed using this word would therefore be a very powerful one.<sup>1802</sup> Des Forges explained that in the context of the killing campaign, slaughter was known as work and machetes and firearms were described as tools.<sup>1803</sup> Witness TQ testified that he was told that during the meeting of 19 April 1994, the President expressed his anger with the people of Butare because they were not working. At that time “work” meant to kill and the President’s statement was coded language inciting people to engage in killings.<sup>1804</sup> Although this is hearsay evidence, as he was not present at the meeting, it corroborates the following testimonies.

896. Witness RV testified that “work” referred to the struggle against the enemy, i.e. the Tutsis.<sup>1805</sup> Reyntjens agreed that “work” in the context of genocide in Rwanda between April and July 1994 meant to kill Tutsis.<sup>1806</sup> Karemano stated that the use of the word “work” or gukora in Sindikubwabo’s speech was ambiguous.<sup>1807</sup> Although this witness did not hear Sindikubwabo’s speech, the statement that people should not remain indifferent and should work stuck in the people’s minds and was widely commented on.<sup>1808</sup>

897. Bearing in mind its finding that Shimamungu's testimony should be treated with appropriate caution, the Chamber does not consider Shimamungu's unsupported opinion on the meaning of gukora to be plausible. The Chamber considers Ntakirutimana's explanation to be convincing and corroborated by Expert Witness Des Forges, Witnesses TQ and RV, Expert Witness Reyntjens and Charles Karemano, both Defence witnesses. The Prosecution has established beyond a reasonable doubt that in Kambanda and Sindikubwabo's speeches of 19 April 1994, the word "work" (gukora) meant to kill Tutsis.

898. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that Kambanda's speech was inflammatory and called upon the population to identify and kill Tutsis and their accomplices.

3.5.4.6 Kanyabashi's Speech

899. It is not disputed that Kanyabashi was present at the swearing-in ceremony on 19 April 1994 and made a speech. The Kanyabashi Defence only contends that in the circumstances, Kanyabashi could not have disapproved of anything in Sindikubwabo's speech or else he and his family would have faced death. The Defence also contends that Kanyabashi spoke before the President and in response to Kambanda, not Sindikubwabo.

3.5.4.7 The Order of Speeches

900. The expert witnesses did not provide any conclusive evidence on the order of the speeches, but Guichaoua and Des Forges agreed about the importance of determining to whom Kanyabashi was responding when he took the floor, and hypothesised that Kanyabashi spoke after Kambanda.<sup>1809</sup> Reyntjens maintained uncertainty, and admitted that he did not see the importance of determining the order of the speeches.<sup>1810</sup> From the radio broadcast that he analysed, he concluded that the order may have been Kambanda, Sindikubwabo and then Kanyabashi.<sup>1811</sup>

901. Guichaoua admitted that he could not tell in which order the speeches were broadcast on the radio.<sup>1812</sup> He used different documents and transcripts in order to determine the order of speeches, but this did not actually help him to ascertain the order of the speakers.<sup>1813</sup> However, he opined that it seemed that the President spoke after Kanyabashi, as the President arrived towards the end of the meeting.<sup>1814</sup> Based on the concluding remarks of Kambanda's speech, Guichaoua stated that Kambanda spoke before Kanyabashi.<sup>1815</sup> Guichaoua asserted that Kanyabashi's vague assertion that "we shall put into practice all that is possible by relying, in particular, on the important advice you have given us, in addition to the directives you reminded us of”,<sup>1816</sup> signifies a firm commitment. This could have been in response to either Kambanda’s or Sindikubwabo’s speeches.<sup>1817</sup>

902. Des Forges stated that she received information on the itinerary of President Sindikubwabo, suggesting that the President was in Gikongoro on the morning of 19 April 1994, making it likely that he arrived after the meeting in Butare had begun.<sup>1818</sup> Therefore, she was not convinced that Kanyabashi had heard Sindikubwabo’s speech before he spoke at the beginning of the meeting. She did not exclude the possibility that Kanyabashi spoke after Kambanda but before the President and in the presence of both the President and Kambanda.<sup>1819</sup>

903. Nsabimana testified that Ministers Mugenzi and Niyitegeka spoke first followed by Kambanda.<sup>1820</sup> Sindikubwabo was not present when Kambanda began his speech but arrived while Kambanda was speaking.<sup>1821</sup> Sindikubwabo then took the floor followed by Nsabimana.<sup>1822</sup> After a brief address by Nsabimana, Sindikubwabo took the floor again to say that he had to leave.<sup>1823</sup> After the President left, Kambanda resumed the speech that he had started before the President’s arrival.<sup>1824</sup> After Kambanda’s speech, Kanyabashi spoke and at the end, the bourgmestres put questions to the Prime Minister.<sup>1825</sup>

904. Witness RV stated that the ceremony started before noon and went on into the afternoon.<sup>1826</sup> Kanyabashi was in attendance but the witness stated that he did not hear Kanyabashi on that day.<sup>1827</sup> Kambanda spoke first, followed by Sindikubwabo.<sup>1828</sup> Nsabimana took the floor and expressed his thanks.<sup>1829</sup>

905. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she arrived at the ceremony around 10.00 a.m. The President had not yet arrived. He arrived when Nyiramasuhuko was already inside the hall and left while she was still there.<sup>1830</sup> This was consistent with Nsabimana’s testimony on Sindikubwabo’s presence at the ceremony.<sup>1831</sup> The President and the Prime Minister both delivered speeches.<sup>1832</sup> Nyiramasuhuko did not specify who spoke first or whether Nsabimana or Kanyabashi delivered speeches that day.

906. Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana are co-Accused together with Kanyabashi, and as such they may have had an incentive to implicate Kanyabashi in order to deflect potential liability. Nevertheless, the Chamber considers that on the specific issue of who spoke at the ceremony or the order of speeches, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana are credible. Their testimonies provided a detailed, eyewitness account of the ceremony, which was not contradicted by any other source. Nsabimana, in particular, corroborates Guichaoua and Des Forges in his assertion that Kanyabashi spoke after Kambanda. Nyiramasuhuko's diary entry for 10 February 1994 reads that the representatives of the bourgmestres, the new préfet and the President spoke. According to the diary, the last person to have spoken seemed to have been the President.<sup>1833</sup>

907. The Chamber therefore considers their testimony plausible and reliable on this particular issue. Although Witness RV's status as a detained witness and an accomplice renders him capable of bias, the Chamber does not find that he had any reason to lie on the issue of the order of speeches. As such, the Chamber considers his testimony to be reliable in this regard. Witness RV corroborates Nsabimana's testimony that Kambanda spoke first followed by Sindikubwabo and Nsabimana.

908. The Chamber notes Witness RV's evidence that he did not "hear" Kanyabashi speak during the ceremony.<sup>1834</sup> However, the Chamber does not consider that this contradicts Nsabimana's testimony that Kanyabashi spoke at the ceremony. Witness RV's evidence on this point was in response to the following specific question: "Is it correct to say, Witness, that during the meeting for the swearing-in, the swearing-in of 19 April 1994, you did not hear any statement from Kanyabashi inciting people to kill the Tutsi?"<sup>1835</sup> The fact that Witness RV did not hear Kanyabashi incite people to kill Tutsis does not exclude the possibility that Kanyabashi addressed the attendees at the end of the ceremony. Similarly, the fact that Nyiramasuhuko did not mention Nsabimana's or Kanyabashi's speeches during her testimony does not mean that they did not take the floor.

909. Nsabimana's testimony on the order of the speeches is supported by Des Forges who stated that, following the usual order of precedence, a bourgmestre would not have spoken between the Prime Minister and the President; normally the least important authority would either speak first or last.<sup>1836</sup> The Chamber considers this explanation by Des Forges to be plausible. Although Des Forges was clearly speculating, as she herself was unconvinced that Kanyabashi heard the President's speech,<sup>1837</sup> the Chamber considers it logical that the only reason Kanyabashi did not mention Sindikubwabo in his speech was because Sindikubwabo was not present at the time Kanyabashi made his speech, having left during the ceremony.

910. In light of all the evidence, the Chamber considers that Nsabimana's account of the order of the speeches, which is supported by Nyiramasuhuko and to a certain extent, Des Forges, is the more convincing account. The Chamber concludes that Kanyabashi spoke after having heard the inflammatory speeches of both Kambanda and Sindikubwabo. The reason why Kanyabashi made no reference to Sindikubwabo in his speech was because by the time

Kanyabashi took the floor, Sindikubwabo had left the ceremony. Additionally, Sindikubwabo and Kambanda did not refer to Kanyabashi's speech in their own speeches because Kanyabashi had not yet spoken.

3.5.4.8 Content of Kanyabashi's Speech

911. The Chamber recalls its finding that Kambanda and Sindikubwabo's speeches were inflammatory and that Kanyabashi took the floor after those speeches. The Chamber notes that in common with Sindikubwabo and Kambanda, Kanyabashi also referred to "enemies".<sup>1838</sup> Ntakirutimana explained that in his speech, Kanyabashi promised that the inhabitants of Butare préfecture and their authorities would do everything possible to support the Kambanda Government and the army, preserve the sovereignty of the country and safeguard security.<sup>1839</sup> He also considered that the following sentence illustrated that the Prime Minister's orders were to be strictly followed:

Prime Minister, it is difficult to find the right words during these difficult times, but we assure you that we shall put into practice all that is possible by relying, in particular, on the important advice you have given us, in addition to the directives you reminded us of. We, in turn, at our level, and the population at all levels, shall do all we possibly can to safeguard together the security of our préfecture.<sup>1840</sup>

912. Ntakirutimana further identified multiple repetitions of key words in Kanyabashi's speech, such as Prime Minister, the population and the death of the President. Ntakirutimana concluded that Kanyabashi staunchly supported the Prime Minister's directives.<sup>1841</sup>

913. Guichaoua opined that Kanyabashi's speech was an expression of the préfecture's support for the policies of the Government.<sup>1842</sup> Reyntjens disagreed and stated that when Kanyabashi delivered his speech he did not have any choice and had to say something. His speech was unprepared. As the elder of the bourgmestres in Butare préfecture, any refusal to speak by Kanyabashi would have been seen as a hostile act in view of what had been said by the President and the Prime Minister.<sup>1843</sup>

914. The Chamber recalls Reyntjens' testimony that he did not consider Kanyabashi as a friend but as an acquaintance and that his relationship with Kanyabashi did not have any impact on his independent opinion as an expert.<sup>1844</sup> Reyntjens said that he had brief conversations with Kanyabashi in the street, he shared a drink with Kanyabashi four or five times, but they never visited each other's homes.<sup>1845</sup>

915. However, Reyntjens confirmed that Kanyabashi named him as his lawyer before Investigating Judge Vandermeersch in Belgium, in 1995. However, Reyntjens said that he did not talk to Kanyabashi after his arrest, or represent Kanyabashi as he was not a practicing lawyer at the time.<sup>1846</sup> Reyntjens confirmed that Defence Exhibit 584B was his statement to Judge Vandermeersch in Brussels on 31 July 1995 concerning the genocide in Rwanda. In that statement, Reyntjens indicated that he had known Kanyabashi for a long time and that “he knew him as somebody who never practiced ethnic discrimination and who always did everything to maintain peace in his commune.”<sup>1847</sup>

916. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers that although Reyntjens may have downplayed his knowledge of and friendship with Kanyabashi during his testimony, he had known and been friends with Kanyabashi for a long time. For this reason, the Chamber finds that Reyntjens’ testimony and Report, with respect to Kanyabashi’s speech, might have been biased in Kanyabashi’s favour. His testimony in relation to Kanyabashi should therefore be treated with appropriate caution.

917. The Chamber considers Ntakirutimana and Guichaoua’s analyses to be more reliable than Reyntjens’ and further considers that they are corroborated by a plain reading of Kanyabashi’s speech. The Chamber recalls the words used by Kanyabashi when he concluded his speech (reproduced above) and is of the view that they constituted an unambiguous commitment to support the objectives of the Interim Government as set forth in the speeches of Sindikubwabo and Kambanda.

918. The Chamber finds that Kanyabashi did not dissociate himself from the inflammatory statements made by the President or the Prime Minister. Furthermore, having analysed the content of Kanyabashi’s speech, the Chamber finds that this speech was in support of Sindikubwabo and Kambanda and contained a commitment to execute the directives and instructions previously announced by the President and Prime Minister.

3.5.4.9 Nyiramasuhuko’s Presence

919. It is not disputed that Nyiramasuhuko was present at the swearing-in ceremony. Nyiramasuhuko acknowledges having been present as part of the Government delegation as a Minister.<sup>1848</sup> The content of Sindikubwabo’s speech has been discussed at length above and the Chamber recalls its finding that it was inflammatory.

920. In the Chamber’s view, it is understandable that Nyiramasuhuko, as a minister in Sindikubwabo’s Interim Government, would maintain that the President preached peace in his speech. Nonetheless, this illustrates that Nyiramasuhuko believed in and supported the actions of the Government, of which she was a member, when it issued its inflammatory instructions to the people of Butare. The Chamber finds that Nyiramasuhuko ascribed to and supported the policies of the Government of which she was a member, as set forth in Sindikubwabo’s speech. Accordingly, her silence constituted tacit approval of those policies.

921. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber finds that Nyiramasuhuko’s presence at the swearing-in ceremony and her failure to dissociate herself from the statements made by the President and Prime Minister, constituted tacit approval of their inflammatory statements.

3.5.4.10 Nsabimana's Presence

922. It is not disputed that Nsabimana was present at his swearing-in ceremony. Nsabimana acknowledges that he was there and provides an account of how he learned of the appointment.<sup>1849</sup>

923. When Nsabimana learned of his appointment as préfet, he made an informed decision, as an adult of sound mind, to accept the offer. When he was first approached by Ndungutse and Bashimiki to become préfet, Nsabimana told them to return only if they failed to find another candidate. Nsabimana did not reject the proposal outright nor did he give any indication of his unwillingness to take up this political position. Furthermore, when Nsabimana heard of his appointment over the radio on 18 April 1994, he took no steps to distance himself from the appointment nor did he make any attempt to decline the position.

924. The Chamber recalls its finding above that Nsabimana's testimony that he did not understand the content and import of the President's speech was not credible. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that he was present at the ceremony as a political appointee and failed to dissociate himself from the statements made by the President and Prime Minister. In doing so, the Chamber considers that he gave his tacit approval to the President's and Prime Minister's inflammatory statements.

3.5.4.11 Conclusion to Nsabimana's Swearing-in Ceremony

925. In light of all of the above, the Chamber finds that the speeches delivered by Sindikubwabo and Kambanda at Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony on 19 April 1994 were inflammatory and contained coded language that was understood by the attendees and the public. In particular, the Chamber considers that "enemy" meant Tutsis and the word "work" (gukora) meant to kill Tutsis.

926. The Chamber further finds that the presence of Nyiramasuhuko, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana at the ceremony and their failure to dissociate themselves from the statements made by the President and Prime Minister constituted tacit approval of their inflammatory statements and the directives and instructions to the population contained therein. In addition, with respect to Kanyabashi specifically, the Chamber considers that Kanyabashi's speech was in support of Sindikubwabo and Kambanda, and contained a commitment to execute the directives and instructions previously announced by the President and Prime Minister.

3.5.4.12 Start of Widespread Killings in Butare Préfecture

927. Although there is some evidence suggesting that a few large-scale massacres occurred around 17 and 18 April 1994,<sup>1850</sup> there is overwhelming evidence that massacres in most of the Butare communes started in the wake of the events of 19 April 1994.

928. Witness FAM testified that killings started after 20 April 1994, when Kanyabashi came to the secteur office to tell the conseiller that the killing had already finished elsewhere and to ask him when he was going to start.<sup>1851</sup> Witness QBU testified that in Rususa cellule, killings of Tutsis began around 20 April 1994.<sup>1852</sup> Witness QCB estimated the killings started in Nyakizu, Runyinya and Gishamvu communes, on 20 April 1994.<sup>1853</sup> Witness FAI testified that killings started in Nyabisindu commune two weeks after the death of the President, or around 20 April 1994.<sup>1854</sup> He also testified that killings started in Muyira commune around the middle of April, but was not more specific.<sup>1855</sup> Witness QI testified that the killings began in his secteur on 21 and 22 April 1994.<sup>1856</sup> Witnesses FAB, FAE, Defence Witness WMCZ and Ndayambaje estimated that killings began on dates between 21 and 27 April 1994 in Muyaga, Ngoma, Ndora and Muganza communes, respectively.<sup>1857</sup> These communes are located in central or eastern Butare préfecture.<sup>1858</sup> None of these witnesses estimated that killings began prior to 17 April 1994.

929. Witness QAH's testimony was inconsistent in this regard. He stated that killings only started after Préfet Habyalimana's assassination was announced,<sup>1859</sup> which, based on the evidence of Des Forges, Guichaoua and Nyiramasuhuko, was in May or June 1994.<sup>1860</sup> Witness QAH fluctuated between stating that killings started after 10 April 1994, and asserting that he could not remember the date the killings began.<sup>1861</sup> The Chamber concludes that Witness QAH's recollection as to the date killings began is unreliable.

930. The variation in the exact date identified by the witnesses is plausible considering each resided in different communes in April to July 1994. In addition, the evidence of Witnesses FAB, FAE, WMCZ, Ntakirutimana and Ndayambaje was corroborated by Prosecution Witnesses RV and QJ and Expert Witnesses Des Forges and Guichaoua.<sup>1862</sup> The Chamber finds that widespread killings of Tutsis did not occur in Butare préfecture prior to 19 April 1994.

3.5.5 Conclusion

931. Expert Witnesses Guichaoua and Des Forges testified that the genocide would not have occurred within Butare préfecture if Préfet Habyalimana had not been removed from office.<sup>1863</sup> Expert Witness Reyntjens asserted that Préfet Habyalimana's removal triggered the start of the large-scale massacres in Butare.<sup>1864</sup> The Chamber is not bound by the Expert Witnesses' opinions in this regard. However, in view of the evidence that large-scale killings did not occur in the heart of Butare préfecture until after the removal of Préfet Habyalimana, and the substantial work performed by Des Forges and Guichaoua in their research into the history of the Rwandan genocide, the Chamber accepts that the removal of Préfet Habyalimana was one of the events that triggered the start of mass-killings in Butare préfecture. Furthermore, the Chamber finds that as long as Préfet Habyalimana stayed in office, he was a major force in limiting killings within the préfecture.

932. Regarding President Sindikubwabo's speech, Expert Witness Ntakirutimana stated that the aim of a speech may be judged by the results achieved in its aftermath.<sup>1865</sup> An audience's reaction to a speech makes it possible to evaluate the impact of the speech.<sup>1866</sup> Likewise, Charles Karemano testified that from 19 April 1994 onwards, he heard many comments about Sindikubwabo's speech, especially in relation to the statement that people should not remain indifferent and should work.<sup>1867</sup> Here, the meaning of the President's statements was easy to ascertain when viewed against the background of the events that occurred after 19 April 1994.<sup>1868</sup> People used the speech to legitimate their actions.<sup>1869</sup> The Chamber finds that the inflammatory nature of the speeches delivered at the swearing-in ceremony on 19 April 1994 in Butare, also triggered the widespread killings and large-scale massacres in Butare préfecture.

933. Recalling its finding that widespread killings of Tutsis did not occur in Butare préfecture prior to 18 or 19 April 1994, and in light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the removal of Préfet Habyalimana, the appointment of Nsabimana as préfet, and the speeches at Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony were factors that were consistent with the commencement of widespread killings and large-scale massacres throughout Butare préfecture, including in the large number of communes that had resisted such massacres until that time.

3.6 Events After 19 April 1994

3.6.1 Arrival of Soldiers at Butare Airport, 20 April 1994

3.6.1.1 Introduction

934. Each of the Indictments alleges that on 20 April 1994, two military planes landed in Butare, transporting numerous Presidential Guard and Para-Commando Battalion soldiers. According to each of the Indictments these soldiers, in tandem with the Interahamwe of Butare, took part in murdering and massacring civilians, notably Rosalie Gicanda, the former Tutsi Queen of Rwanda.<sup>1870</sup>

935. The Prosecution did not make any submissions on this allegation.

936. The Ntahobali Defence disputes that a large plane landed in Butare to deliver the Interahamwe and soldiers, as the Butare airport was too small to accommodate a jumbo aircraft.<sup>1871</sup> The Ntahobali Defence relies on the testimony of Witness WDUSA.

937. The other Defence teams do not dispute that a plane landed in Butare around 20 April 1994 but submit that the purpose of the plane was to evacuate expatriates. The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the evidence of Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges in this regard.<sup>1872</sup> Des Forges, Prosecution Witnesses QA, QAH, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-5-W, D-13-D and D-9-U, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBTT and Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Reyntjens all gave evidence that a plane landed in Butare around 20 April 1994.

3.6.1.2 Preliminary Issues

938. The Chamber notes that this allegation is not in support of any counts against any of the Accused. The Prosecution did not make any submission in this respect. Therefore, the Chamber declines to make any finding in respect of this allegation.

3.6.1.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QA

939. Witness QA testified that at the end of a meeting held at Ngoma secteur office around 18 April 1994, at around 5.30 p.m., people attending the meeting heard an engine noise, like the sound of a helicopter that was landing at the Butare airfield.<sup>1873</sup> On the day after the meeting, he saw many Interahamwe, wearing kitenge clothing and berets with the effigy of the President.<sup>1874</sup> There were also several soldiers in the city of Butare.<sup>1875</sup>

940. Witness QA stated that he went to the airport at about 9.00 a.m. the next day.<sup>1876</sup> He saw the plane and was told that on that plane, Interahamwe and soldiers or Presidential Guards arrived in the area.<sup>1877</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAH

941. Witness QAH stated that he heard of the arrival of the Presidential Guards by aircraft at the Butare airport and he heard they had killed Préfet Habyalimana and had started the killings in Butare town.<sup>1878</sup> The witness was unable to provide a specific time or date of arrival.<sup>1879</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

942. Alison Des Forges stated in her Report that militiamen and members of the Presidential Guard from Kigali arrived by plane in Butare before 20 April 1994.<sup>1880</sup>

943. She later acknowledged that the statement in her Report about the Presidential Guard flying into Butare airport was erroneous.<sup>1881</sup> According to the witness, this was a rumour prevalent in Butare at the time. On further investigation she discovered that the airplane which flew into Butare airport was actually a Belgian C-130 which landed to evacuate UN military observers and a group of Spanish nuns.<sup>1882</sup> Des Forges learned that the airplane was in fact dispatched by the UN through documents recording the movement of airplane related to the UN force.<sup>1883</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WBTT

944. Witness WBTT testified that she and her children were evacuated on 20 April 1994 in a Belgian plane which had come from Bujumbura to Butare to evacuate nuns.<sup>1884</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-W

945. Witness D-2-5-W testified that on the afternoon of 20 April 1994, a huge military aircraft landed at Butare airport. The aircraft had difficulties to land but managed after a third attempt.<sup>1885</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-13-D

946. Witness D-13-D, a driver from Huye commune, testified that on the night of 19 April 1994, between 11.00 p.m. and midnight, the population of Butare town heard an aircraft arriving that made a lot of noise. Very early the next morning, attacks were launched against the residence of Madam Kabatesi and the massacres began in Mpare secteur.<sup>1886</sup> The following day some people said that the plane carried Presidential Guards or Interahamwe to perpetrate killings; others said the plane came to evacuate Belgians.<sup>1887</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-9-U

947. Witness D-9-U, a farmer from Nkima secteur, testified that about two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana, a huge aircraft landed at Butare. The witness placed this event three days after the population had started to guard the border to push back assailants from Huye.<sup>1888</sup> The following morning, many soldiers accompanied by Interahamwe were seen around the area and it was on that day that the search for Tutsis began.<sup>1889</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WDUSA

948. Witness WDUSA stated that due to the small size of the Butare airstrip it was not possible and was prohibited for planes larger than 20 seats to land there.<sup>1890</sup> The witness said that his statements regarding the size of an aeroplane referred to civilian planes only, and that military planes like the C-130 do not need a long landing strip to land.<sup>1891</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens

949. Filip Reyntjens testified that on 20 April 1994 a Belgian military aircraft landed in Butare to evacuate expatriates and Spanish religious persons.<sup>1892</sup>

3.6.1.4 Deliberations

950. The Prosecution and Defence evidence suggests that a plane indeed landed in Butare around 20 April 1994. The Chamber does not consider the fact that the plane carried soldiers and Interahamwe on board to be established. On this point, the Chamber has heard the hearsay testimonies of Prosecution Witnesses QA and QAH, and those of Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-9-U and D-13-D.

951. The Chamber is reluctant to give weight to Witness QA's testimony without corroboration due to serious reservations about his credibility. During his first appearance before this Chamber Witness QA gave false testimony at the request of individuals living in Rwanda.<sup>1893</sup> The Chamber is also reluctant to give weight to the hearsay testimony of detainee Witness QAH without corroboration due to reservations about his credibility. In addition, Des Forges testified that her statement about a plane bringing soldiers to Butare in her Report was a mistake and that the plane was in fact arriving to evacuate foreigners.<sup>1894</sup> Her testimony was corroborated by Defence Witness WBTT and Reyntjens.<sup>1895</sup>

952. The Chamber considers that the Prosecution has not led sufficient evidence to support the allegation that soldiers arrived in Butare by airplane and that these soldiers in tandem with the Interahamwe, took part in murdering and massacring civilians in Butare, notably the former Queen of Rwanda, Rosalie Gicanda.

3.6.2 Meeting with Bourgmestres and Gatonde Secteur Meeting, 20 April 1994

3.6.2.1 Introduction

953. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that in the days following his taking office, Nsabimana called a meeting of all the bourgmestres of the préfecture where he was informed of the extent of the massacres of Tutsis that had begun in Butare. The Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took no decision, nor did he propose any measures to stop the massacres, and thus, the bourgmestres returned to their communes and ordered the massacres to continue, and that the administrative authorities who opposed this order were dismissed.<sup>1896</sup>

954. The Prosecution further submits, without giving a precise time frame, that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings in Butare préfecture during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis.<sup>1897</sup> Nsabimana's role in the conspiracy to commit genocide was, inter alia, to convene and attend meetings to give effect to the plan.<sup>1898</sup> The Prosecution contends that every meeting resulted in a decision leading to the execution of the common plan to kill Tutsis. The conspiracy was continuous and endorsed in subsequent meetings held by the Accused, including Nsabimana.<sup>1899</sup>

955. Specifically, the Prosecution submits that on 20 April 1994, Nsabimana convened a meeting bringing together the bourgmestres of the préfecture where he revisited the objectives, which consisted of fighting the enemy and erecting roadblocks to prevent the enemy from taking up positions in the country. The enemy, as described by Prime Minister Kambanda at the 19 April 1994 meeting, were described as Tutsis, the Inkotanyi and Tutsi accomplices.<sup>1900</sup> The participants at the meeting are alleged to have agreed that the "infiltrators" were responsible for the violence and the local Tutsi residents were armed RPF agents. The Prosecution argues that this meeting planned ahead for the hunt that would follow the first massacres; the participants talked of eliminating hiding places, such as empty houses, and of directing all residents to cut the "brush" around their houses.<sup>1901</sup> According to the Prosecution, the meeting destroyed the last hope of most bourgmestres opposed to the genocide, and the only inference to be drawn from this meeting (and the 19 April 1994 meeting) is that massacres of Tutsis were planned, as evidence shows that massacres took place at Kabakobwa, Matyazo, Kabuye Hill and elsewhere in Butare.<sup>1902</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witness RV and Prosecution Expert Witnesses André Guichaoua and Alison Des Forges.

956. The Prosecution also refers to a meeting that allegedly took place in Gatonde secteur, Ntyazo commune, Butare préfecture, at the end of April 1994. It alleges that the purpose of this meeting was to inform the participants that orders had been given from a meeting held in Butare to kill the Tutsis. The president of the MDR party in Gatonde secteur chaired the meeting and told the participants that Nsabimana had openly told him that killing Tutsis should not be only the responsibility of other préfectures but that Butare should do the same. The Prosecution alleges that after this meeting, the Gatonde conseiller assembled members of the population from the secteur and told them that the Tutsis had been delivered to be killed, given that they had plotted against the government. The few Tutsis present fled and the Hutus started burning their houses, and after this meeting Hutus started killing Tutsis at roadblocks.<sup>1903</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on Witness FAI.

957. The Nsabimana Defence does not challenge the Prosecution's allegation that on 19 April 1994, Nsabimana called a meeting of all the bourgmestres for the following day.<sup>1904</sup> However, in addition to its submission that Paragraph 6.26 of the Indictment is unduly vague, addressed below, the Nsabimana Defence, relying on Nsabimana's testimony, rejects the allegation that during this meeting Nsabimana was informed about the massacres in the préfecture, as well as any implicit allegation that the purpose of the meeting was to launch, extend or organise killings in Butare.<sup>1905</sup> The Defence submits that Nsabimana, as the newly installed préfet, requested the meeting to be informed about the current situation in the préfecture.<sup>1906</sup> The Nsabimana Defence asserts that none of the Prosecution witnesses testified to Nsabimana having received information on the extent of the massacres in Butare during the alleged meeting.<sup>1907</sup> The Nsabimana Defence denies that the purpose of the 20 April 1994 meeting was to organise killings and denies that the meeting was the catalyst for massacres in Butare préfecture.<sup>1908</sup> Nsabimana testified on his own behalf with respect to this allegation.

958. Further, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Nsabimana cannot be held responsible for the dismissal of the three bourgmestres on 17 June 1994, since he neither took that decision nor instigated it.<sup>1909</sup> The Nsabimana Defence further refers to the killing of some bourgmestres which occurred sometime after the 20 April 1994 meeting, and argues that there is confusion in the Prosecution's case because no link has been established between the 20 April 1994 meeting and these deaths.<sup>1910</sup> In support of its submission, the Nsabimana Defence relies on Prosecution Witness RV and Expert Witness André Guichaoua.

959. Regarding the allegation concerning the meeting in Gatonde secteur, the Nsabimana Defence submits that Witness FAI's testimony cannot be relied upon because it is not credible.<sup>1911</sup>

3.6.2.2 Preliminary Issues

960. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraph 6.26 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is unduly vague in that it does not provide the date or place of the meeting specified, the names of the bourgmestres in attendance, or the identity of the authorities who were allegedly dismissed for opposing the order to carry on the massacres.<sup>1912</sup> The Prosecution concedes that the date of 20 April 1994 was not specifically pled in Paragraph 6.26 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, but argues that a reading of the Indictment in its entirety makes clear that Nsabimana had notice that the meeting would fall within Paragraph 6.26.<sup>1913</sup>

961. The Chamber notes that while Paragraph 6.26 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment makes a general accusation that Nsabimana called a meeting of all the bourgmestres of the préfecture in the days following his taking office, the reference to the alleged meeting in the Indictment is exceedingly broad, and did not adequately provide Nsabimana with sufficient notice to prepare his defence with respect to this allegation. The Indictment is therefore defective in this respect.

962. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber must determine whether Paragraph 6.26 was cured of its defects through subsequent disclosure by the Prosecution. The Chamber notes that in its opening statement, the Prosecution alleged that Nsabimana summoned the bourgmestres to a meeting on 20 April 1994, in order to organise “work”.<sup>1914</sup>

963. The Chamber further notes that in his 2 October 1997 statement, Witness RV stated that he met Nsabimana on the day he was sworn in, and that during the ceremony, Nsabimana asked all the bourgmestres to attend a meeting the following day, 20 April 1994.<sup>1915</sup> During the meeting in question, Nsabimana presented his work plan and asked the people to increase the frequency of the patrols in order to prevent the RPF from infiltrating. According to Witness RV, the situation in the neighbouring communes was serious because houses were being burned down. Faced with these threats, Witness RV stated that he informed the sous-préfet of the matter.<sup>1916</sup> According to Witness RV, the sous-préfet passed along the information to Nsabimana, who said to wait until the end of the meeting. Witness RV alleges that he did not receive a ‘positive answer’.

964. Witness RV was not listed as a potential witness in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief because he was added to the Prosecution’s witness list on 24 July 2001.<sup>1917</sup> The Nsabimana Defence, however, was provided with Witness RV’s previous statements in three separate disclosures on 14 March 2001, 23 May 2001 and 27 May 2002, well before the witness started his examination-in-chief on 16 February 2004. The Chamber considers the length of time between the disclosure of Witness RV’s statements to the Nsabimana Defence and the witness’ testimony in court alleviated any possible prejudice that might have been caused to the Nsabimana Defence by the later addition of Witness RV to the Prosecution witness list.<sup>1918</sup>

965. The Chamber finds that the disclosure of Witness RV's previous statements, together with the information contained in the Prosecution opening statement, sufficiently informed Nsabimana of the material facts the Prosecution intended to prove at trial. Nsabimana was therefore able to adequately prepare his defence with regard to this allegation.

3.6.2.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness RV

966. Witness RV, a Hutu and former civil servant who was detained at the time he testified, gave evidence that he was awoken on the morning of 20 April 1994 by Ndayambaje and a priest by the name of Father Tiziano, and was told that there was 'no security' in Mugombwa secteur.<sup>1919</sup> Witness RV went to Mugombwa where he saw armed attackers.<sup>1920</sup> He then travelled to Butare where he spoke with Sous-préfet Dominique Ntawukulilyayo about his security concerns. Witness RV testified that the sous-préfet told him that he would speak to Nsabimana about the matter. Witness RV testified that the sous-préfet later confirmed that he had discussed the matter with Nsabimana, and that the issue would be addressed at the meeting being held later that morning.<sup>1921</sup>

967. Witness RV testified that the meeting, chaired by Nsabimana, was held at approximately 11.00 am on 20 April 1994, bringing together bourgmestres, sous-préfets, heads of departments in the préfecture, and other senior officers, and that during the meeting Nsabimana revisited the objectives, which consisted of fighting the enemy, carrying out patrols and erecting roadblocks to prevent the enemy from taking up positions in the country.<sup>1922</sup> Witness RV testified that the "enemy" as defined by Prime Minister Jean Kambanda, was the Inkotanyi as well as their accomplices who, as he understood, were Tutsis or Hutus who had ideas that supported the RPF.<sup>1923</sup> Witness RV further testified that Nsabimana did not address the security concerns that RV had previously raised with Sous-préfet Ntawukulilyayo regarding the situation in Mugombwa, and that at around 7.00 p.m. that same day the witness left Butare to return to Muganza commune.<sup>1924</sup>

968. Witness RV further testified that on 18 June 1994, the bourgmestre of Muganza commune was dismissed in order to be replaced by the former bourgmestre, Élie Ndayambaje. Other bourgmestres were dismissed at the same time, on the grounds that they had not been capable of maintaining security and safety.<sup>1925</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAI

969. Witness FAI, a Hutu health worker who was appointed to public office in May 1994 and a detained witness when he gave evidence, testified that at the end of April 1994, a secret meeting was held in Gatonde secteur, Ntyazo commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>1926</sup> The meeting was chaired by Zaché Twagiramungu, president of the MDR party in Ntyazo commune and attended by Hutu intellectuals, including two teachers, a trader, a businessman, a conseiller and the witness.<sup>1927</sup> Twagiramungu informed the attendees that he had attended a meeting in Butare sometime between 20 and 25 April during which the new préfet of Butare, Nsabimana, had openly stated that other préfectures should not bear the responsibility of killing Tutsis alone and that Butare should also be responsible for killings.<sup>1928</sup> The purpose of the meeting in Gatonde secteur was to transmit the order that Tutsis should be killed.<sup>1929</sup> Twagiramungu said that he had been invited to attend the meeting with Nsabimana because of his capacity as President of the MDR party in Ntyazo commune.<sup>1930</sup>

970. After the meeting, the conseiller assembled a group of young men from Gatonde secteur and informed them that Tutsis had to be killed as they had plotted against the country. The few Tutsis who were present in the commune fled and the Hutus started burning Tutsi homes. After the meeting, Tutsis were killed at the roadblock in front of the Nyamure Health Centre.<sup>1931</sup>

971. In cross-examination, it was suggested to Witness FAI that he had not mentioned the secret meeting in Gatonde secteur in any of his previous statements. The witness stated that he had very briefly mentioned the meeting and hoped to be able to provide more details during his testimony.<sup>1932</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

972. Alison Des Forges did not directly testify about the 20 April 1994 meeting; however, in her Report she stated that on the day after his swearing-in, Nsabimana chaired a well-attended meeting of the préfecture security committee during which the participants agreed that “infiltrators” accounted for the mounting violence; that such persons must be arrested and brought to the authorities; that military operations would be executed to disarm those who were armed; that search operations should be carried out whenever solid information indicated the need; and that administrative meetings should be held the next day with subordinate officials and other local leaders “who could contribute to restoring security”.<sup>1933</sup>

973. André Guichaoua testified that on 20 April 1994, Nsabimana chaired a meeting of bourgmestres. According to Guichaoua, the objective of this meeting was to implement directives adopted by the highest State authorities announced the previous day, and after the meeting massacres commenced in the communes of the préfecture.<sup>1934</sup>

974. Guichaoua further testified that the local officials were to implement the instructions and orders set forth at the 20 April 1994 meeting, and that they were to be assessed or rejected based on their actions pursuant to those orders. The witness referred to some local bourgmestres who were murdered soon after the meeting took place, namely Jean-Marie Vinne Gisagara, the bourgmestre of Nyabisindo, Narcissi Nyajasaza, the bourgmestre of Ntyazo, Jean-Batiste Nyagaza and Denis Simonyo.<sup>1935</sup>

975. Nsabimana testified that he held a meeting with the bourgmestres in Butare préfecture at the MRND party house, on 20 April 1994.<sup>1936</sup> Nsabimana testified that the meeting took the form of a panel, where he asked the bourgmestres whether there were displaced persons in their respective communes, or whether massacres had taken place. He testified that the bourgmestres generally told him that there had not been massacres in their communes except for some 10 or 15 persons. Nsabimana testified that he had already seen people moving about, that the town was teeming with people, and thus he was expecting to hear whether people had been killed in the communes, or if there were criminals around.<sup>1937</sup>

976. Nsabimana testified that after the questions of massacres and displaced persons were discussed, the participants addressed the issue of how the on-going problems were to be solved in the communes.<sup>1938</sup> Nsabimana testified that some resolutions relating to issues of security, famine, displaced persons, refugees and petrol were discussed. He further stated that it was noted that a number of people had to be arrested.<sup>1939</sup>

977. Nsabimana testified that during the meeting of 20 April 1994, Colonel Muvunyi announced to the bourgmestres that young persons would be recruited into the Rwandan army, but no plan on how to conduct the recruitment was discussed. Nsabimana denied that anyone defined the strategy for fighting the enemy during the meeting. Nsabimana testified that he did not know what the “enemy” would have meant, and that neither he nor the bourgmestres present were soldiers, and thus they would not be discussing “how to go to war”.<sup>1940</sup> Nsabimana disagreed with Expert Witness Guichaoua’s interpretation of the purpose of the 20 April 1994 meeting.<sup>1941</sup>

978. Nsabimana also testified that while Sous-préfet Hakizamungu was taking down official minutes of the meeting, he himself took notes as well as he could, though he undoubtedly left out a number of things and might have added a few others.<sup>1942</sup> Nsabimana testified that on 21 or 22 April 1994, he had the opportunity to see Hakizamungu's notes, and that Hakizamungu told Nsabimana what he had written. Nsabimana testified that he could recognise Hakizamungu's handwriting.<sup>1943</sup> The English translation of Hakizamungu's notes was admitted into evidence during Nsabimana's testimony as Defence Exhibit 465C.<sup>1944</sup>

979. When confronted with FAI's testimony, Nsabimana denied that the meeting at Gatonde secteur took place. He further explained the meeting he held on 20 April 1994 with all the bourgmestres was only open to certain people and there was no reason for someone in Zaché Twagiramungu's position to attend such a meeting.<sup>1945</sup>

980. It is not disputed that Nsabimana called a meeting of bourgmestres for the 20 April 1994, the day after his swearing-in. Nsabimana confirmed this in his testimony. The issues before the Chamber are: the purpose and content of the meeting; whether Nsabimana was informed, during the meeting, about the extent of the ongoing massacres; whether, upon return to the communes, the various bourgmestres who took part in the said meeting ordered the slaughter to continue; and thus whether Nsabimana's inaction at the meeting resulted in a continuation of the massacres.

981. The Chamber notes that both Des Forges and Guichaoua gave evidence with respect to the 20 April 1994 meeting either in testimony or through their respective Reports. The Chamber recalls that while it may not rely on expert witness evidence alone to prove a factual allegation in support of a count, it may, however, use expert evidence to interpret a fact once it is proven.<sup>1946</sup>

982. The Chamber further observes that Witness RV is the only factual Prosecution witness to testify about the 20 April 1994 meeting. The Chamber considers that Witness RV was a detained witness at the time of his testimony, and was subject to potential further criminal proceedings in Rwanda; that he had previously confessed to aiding in the murder of Tutsis in Gacaca proceedings;<sup>1947</sup> and that during April 1994, Witness RV was a figure of authority in Butare, which might entail that his testimony could be that of an accomplice. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber will treat Witness RV's testimony with appropriate caution.

983. In order to assess Nsabimana's responsibility with regard to his alleged failure to stop the killings, the Chamber must first consider whether or not, despite any decision that might or might have not been taken by Nsabimana at this meeting, the killings continued after 20 April 1994 in the various communes, and whether they were carried out under the instructions of the bourgmestres who attended the meeting.

984. The Chamber has found that massacres took place at various locations in Butare, including Kabakobwa (), Matyazo () and Kabuye Hill (), in the period after the 20 April meeting.

985. As to the content of the 20 April 1994 meeting, Witness RV testified that during the meeting Nsabimana revisited the objectives, which consisted of fighting the enemy, carrying out patrols and erecting roadblocks to prevent the enemy from taking up positions in the country.<sup>1948</sup> Similarly, Guichaoua gave evidence that during the meeting, the implementation of directives adopted by the State authorities was discussed.<sup>1949</sup> Nsabimana's testimony partially corroborates this evidence. He testified, in more general terms, that in the course of the meeting, the massacres, security, famine, displaced persons, refugees and petrol were discussed, and that solutions for these problems were also addressed.<sup>1950</sup>

986. Nsabimana's testimony finds corroboration in Defence Exhibit 465C, a copy of the notes taken by Sous-préfet Hakizamungu during the 20 April 1994 meeting. The Exhibit contains the subject heading: "Infiltration by people seeking to cause unrests", and lists six topics covered during the meeting. The first was to obtain information in order to identify people who support the RPF and who are in possession of weapons. Such people were to be arrested and handed over to the authorities. Under this subheading are six bullet points: (1) intervention to be limited to disarming those who are armed; (2) searches to be conducted on the basis of accurate information; (3) contact with Gikongoro administrative authorities; (4) meetings to be held with administrative authorities capable of restoring security; (5) displaced persons to return to their homes, and to receive assistance; and (6) search for the leaders: identify them and know where they are located.<sup>1951</sup>

987. Witness RV testified that he raised the matter of his concern over security in Mugombwa secteur with Sous-préfet Ntawukulilyayo, who also stated that he would raise the issue with Nsabimana. Later, according to Witness RV, the sous-préfet confirmed that he had done so.<sup>1952</sup> Nsabimana testified that he asked the bourgmestres whether massacres were occurring in their respective communes, but was told that generally they were not.<sup>1953</sup> Defence Exhibit 465C, however, indicates that during the meeting it was stated that the people of Nyabisindu commune said that their "kith and kin" had been "exterminated".<sup>1954</sup>

988. The Chamber observes that Witness RV provided no detail as to what exactly is alleged to have been said to Nsabimana by Sous-préfet Ntawukulilyayo, and notes that the issue of whether any information regarding the witness' security concerns was in fact passed on to Nsabimana is hearsay and uncorroborated.

989. The only other reference to potential massacres in the record is the abovementioned statement contained in Defence Exhibit 465C, regarding the extermination in Nyabisindu commune. No other information which could be construed as relating to on-going massacres is provided.

990. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the 20 April 1994 meeting primarily dealt with issues of safety, security, displaced persons, and measures to be taken in order to keep the situation under control. It has not been established that the furtherance of the massacres was discussed.

991. The Chamber further recalls the testimony of Witnesses RV and Guichaoua, that right after the meeting some of the bourgmestres were dismissed, replaced, or even murdered.<sup>1955</sup> However, the Chamber notes that Guichaoua did not give a clear explanation as to why such measures were taken, and Witness RV generally stated it was done because these administrative authorities had not been capable of maintaining security and safety. The Chamber thus finds the evidence has not established that these repercussions were a consequence of the fact that the said bourgmestres had opposed the orders given by Nsabimana at the 20 April meeting. No other evidence was led in relation to the events taking place right after the meeting. Therefore, and considering that it was not established that Nsabimana gave any order relating to the progress of the massacres during the meeting, no link can be drawn between the dismissal of the said authorities and the furtherance of the massacres.

992. Having weighed all the evidence before it, the Chamber finds that it was not established beyond a reasonable doubt that during the 20 April meeting Nsabimana was “informed of the extent of massacres of Tutsi that had begun in the communes of Butare”, as the Indictment alleges. Furthermore, it was not proven that after the 20 April 1994 meeting the bourgmestres returned to their communes and ordered to kill, while those who refused to do so were dismissed. Therefore, though it has been found that after the 20 April massacres occurred in various locations in Butare, a link between these massacres and the said meeting was not established. Accordingly, the Chamber finds it has not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt that, as a consequence to Nsabimana’s failure to take any measure with a view to stop the killings during the 20 April 1994 meeting, the slaughter continued.

993. The Prosecution also seeks to use Witness FAI’s testimony on the secret meeting in Gatonde secteur to illustrate that Nsabimana’s orders to kill Tutsis were implemented on the ground. The Prosecution does not allege that Nsabimana was present at the secret meeting in Gatonde secteur, but the evidence adduced was used to provide the content of a previous meeting, allegedly held by Nsabimana between 20 and 25 April 1994. Witness FAI testified that the chairman of the secret meeting, Zaché Twagiramungu, told the participants that he had attended an earlier meeting held between 20 and 25 April 1994 during which Nsabimana had ordered the killing of Tutsis.<sup>1956</sup> After the secret meeting in Gatonde secteur, Tutsis were killed.<sup>1957</sup>

994. In relation to the content of secret meeting in Gatonde secteur, where Zaché Twagiramungu allegedly reported Nsabimana's orders to kill, the Chamber notes that Witness FAI's testimony is uncorroborated hearsay.

995. Further, the Chamber notes there are credibility issues in relation to Witness FAI. The witness pled guilty to crimes including genocide in 1997 and was a detained witness awaiting sentence when he gave evidence before the Tribunal, in 2002.<sup>1958</sup> The Chamber exercises appropriate caution when deliberating on the testimony of an accomplice witness, particularly since Witness FAI was detained at the time of his testimony. The Chamber considers that Witness FAI's testimony may have been motivated by a hope that, by testifying against Nsabimana he would receive favourable or lenient treatment when sentenced. The Chamber further notes that in his previous statement of 24 February 2000, Witness FAI mentioned that Zaché Twagiramungu told him that he had attended a meeting at which Nsabimana had ordered the extermination of Tutsis. However, the witness made no reference in this statement to any secret meeting subsequently held in Gatonde secteur, during which Zaché Twagiramungu allegedly informed Hutu intellectuals about Nsabimana's orders.<sup>1959</sup>

996. In view of the nature of Witness FAI's evidence as uncorroborated hearsay in relation to the secret meeting in Gatonde secteur, the credibility issues outlined above and the omission of key aspects of his testimony from his previous statement, the Chamber does not consider Witness FAI's testimony to be credible on this particular event.

997. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution did not provide any further evidence concerning a meeting held in Gatonde secteur, or any evidence to establish that Zaché Twagiramungu in fact stated that Nsabimana had issued orders to kill at a previous meeting. The Chamber also recalls Nsabimana's testimony that Zaché Twagiramungu would not have had any reason to attend the secteur-level meeting of 20 April 1994, as it was not open to persons in his position, i.e. a commune-level party president.<sup>1960</sup> Further, as found above, no evidence was led that Nsabimana actually issued orders to kill Tutsis at the meeting of 20 April 1994.

998. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to establish that a meeting chaired by Zaché Twagiramungu was held in Gatonde secteur at the end of April 1994, during which Nsabimana's orders to kill Tutsis, previously issued at another meeting, were conveyed to the participants.

3.6.3 Sahera Secteur Office Meeting, 20 April 1994

3.6.3.1 Introduction

999. Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment provides that on several occasions between 20 April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed the soldiers and militiamen, and certain members of the civilian population, to search for Tutsis who had escaped the massacres, in order to exterminate them. These instructions were given notably on

21 April 1994 in Butare, in late April in Save, and in June 1994 near Butare.<sup>1961</sup> Paragraph 6.28 of the same Indictment alleges that in Ngoma commune, Kanyabashi, meeting the commitment he had made on the occasion of President Sindikubwabo's speech at Nsabimana's swearing-in ceremony, took the necessary measures for Tutsis to be eliminated.<sup>1962</sup>

1000. The Prosecution submits that Kanyabashi directly participated in the massacres of Tutsis through his acts, conduct, utterances and directives in Butare préfecture, between April and July 1994.<sup>1963</sup> It contends that in April 1994, Kanyabashi came to the secteur office and told the conseiller when he was going to start the killings and that in other areas they had finished the killing.<sup>1964</sup> Kanyabashi asked him what he was going to do.<sup>1965</sup> The next day the Interahamwe told Tutsis to go to Kabakobwa Hill, where many people died.<sup>1966</sup> The Prosecution submits that the conseillers were vital in encouraging and leading the attackers against the Tutsis.<sup>1967</sup> In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness QAM.

1001. In addition to its contention that the Indictment is defective,<sup>1968</sup> the Kanyabashi Defence cites the testimony of Prosecution Witness QCB stating that on 20 April 1994, Kanyabashi went to Kabuga asking the population not to harm the refugees as Kanyabashi did not want killings to take place within Ngoma commune.<sup>1969</sup> Finally, the Defence submits that Witness QAM was part of a group that fabricated false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>1970</sup> In support of this submission the Defence relies on Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-21-T.<sup>1971</sup>

1002. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that this meeting was not mentioned in the Kanyabashi Indictment and therefore the Indictment is defective.<sup>1972</sup> The Chamber observes that the alleged meeting between Kanyabashi and the conseiller of Sahera on around 20 April 1994, is not specifically pled in the Kanyabashi Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective in this regard.

1003. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists one witness, Witness QAM, who was expected to testify that Kanyabashi went to her secteur shortly before the massacres began and gave instructions to the conseiller, saying: "What are you waiting for? Your people are not doing anything, whereas others have already finished the job."<sup>1973</sup>

1004. The Chamber observes that Witness QAM's prior statement, dated 20 May 1997, was disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998 and in unredacted form on 23 April 2001.<sup>1974</sup> This statement made a specific reference to the meeting between Kanyabashi and the conseiller. Witness QAM identified her secteur as Sahera and clearly specified that the massacres began in her secteur on 23 April 1994. Kanyabashi came to her secteur the day before the massacres and said to the conseiller, "what are you waiting for; your people are not doing anything whereas others have already finished the job." These disclosures were made well before the start of Witness QAM's testimony on 22 October 2001.

1005. The Chamber notes that the summary of the intended evidence and the prior statement of Witness QAM provided adequate details as to the exact date and the specific locations of this meeting. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that the Kanyabashi Indictment was cured by the disclosure of clear, consistent and timely information.<sup>1975</sup> Consequently, Kanyabashi was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence case.

3.6.3.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QAM

1007. Witness QAM testified that the last time she saw Kanyabashi was when he came to the Sahera secteur office.<sup>1981</sup> She testified that it was an evening on or after 20 April 1994 and a short time before people were attacked at Kabakobwa.<sup>1982</sup> Kanyabashi travelled in a vehicle, but the witness did not specify as to which type of vehicle it was.<sup>1983</sup> The vehicle stopped at the secteur office and Kanyabashi came out alone.<sup>1984</sup> Kanyabashi then met the conseiller of Sahera outside the secteur office, slightly to the side of the door.<sup>1985</sup> There was nobody else apart from Kanyabashi and the conseiller during this encounter.<sup>1986</sup> Kanyabashi addressed the conseiller, saying: “Elsewhere they have already finished killing. What are you waiting for as far as you are concerned.”<sup>1987</sup> Kanyabashi immediately left after talking to the conseiller.<sup>1988</sup> Witness QAM was about three metres away from Kanyabashi when Kanyabashi spoke.<sup>1989</sup> She heard everything that Kanyabashi said, but not the statements of the conseiller, as she moved away once Kanyabashi stopped speaking.<sup>1990</sup> At that time, the witness was with three or four other young people on the road next to the secteur office.<sup>1991</sup> None of these young people were members of her family, and they were no longer alive.<sup>1992</sup> She could only remember two of their names.<sup>1993</sup>

1008. Witness QAM testified that after hearing what Kanyabashi said, she and the other children went back to her house. Upon their arrival, the witness reported to her mother what Kanyabashi had said to the conseiller. Her family decided not to sleep at their house that night and instead spent the night in a school just below their house. They returned home the next morning at around 5.00 a.m.<sup>1994</sup>

1009. Confronted with her prior statement of 20 May 1997, which stated that upon hearing what Kanyabashi said, Witness QAM and the young people she was with tried to escape but were told by the conseiller that they had nothing to fear, Witness QAM suggested the statement was not an accurate reflection of what she said but conceded that she could not remember everything she told the investigators at that time as it was a long time ago.<sup>1995</sup>

1010. Witness QAM testified that she did not know Rose Burizihiza or Béllancie Knayire.<sup>1996</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

1011. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>1997</sup> testified that on 20 April 1994, refugees from Gishamvu, Runyinya and Nyakizu came down to Ngoma commune. The refugees went by the school located between Sahera and Nkubi secteurs. Upon the refugees’ arrival, Conseillers Kanywabahizi and Habyarimana Pascal went to report to Kanyabashi about what they had noticed. Shortly after, Kanyabashi convened the members of population of Sahera and Nkubi secteurs and the refugees to a meeting during which, Kanyabashi stated that he did not want any crimes to be committed in his commune. that day, Witness QCB spent the night with the refugees in order to protect them from attacks perpetrated by assailants from Gishamvu.<sup>1998</sup>

3.6.3.4 Deliberations

1012. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of a single eyewitness, Witness QAM, in support of its allegation that on around 20 April 1994, Kanyabashi came to the Sahera secteur office, met with the conseiller and asked him why the killings had not yet started in Sahera.<sup>1999</sup> Witness QAM's evidence is that she was with other children very near the secteur office when Kanyabashi arrived and met with the conseiller outside the office.<sup>2000</sup> She was about three metres away from Kanyabashi and heard everything that Kanyabashi said to the conseiller.<sup>2001</sup>

1013. Witness QCB testified that on 20 April 1994, refugees from Gishamvu, Runyinya and Nyakizu came to settle at a place located between Sahera and Nkubi secteurs, Ngoma commune.<sup>2002</sup> Upon the refugees' arrival, Kanyabashi convened the members of population of Sahera and Nkubi secteurs and the refugees to a meeting during which, Kanyabashi declared that he did not want any crimes to be committed in his commune.<sup>2003</sup>

1014. The Chamber observes that Witness QCB's testimony relates to a specific meeting which may have also taken place on around 20 April 1994; however it does not rule out the possibility that another meeting took place at some point the same day without Witness QCB's knowledge.

1015. The Chamber is not convinced by Witness QAM's testimony regarding her presence at the location from where she was alleged to have heard Kanyabashi's address to the conseiller on around 20 April 1994. The Chamber observes that it is unlikely that Witness QAM could remember and repeat the words that Kanyabashi might have said to the conseiller, but was unable to provide the number and especially the identity of all children with whom she was alleged to have been playing at that time. Witness QAM merely disclosed the family name of two children and not their first names and claimed that none of these children were members of her family.<sup>2004</sup> In addition, Witness QAM's testimony lacks details regarding the type or colour of the vehicle that was used by Kanyabashi.<sup>2005</sup> Assuming that Witness QAM was present when Kanyabashi allegedly met with the conseiller, the Chamber considers that her testimony still requires corroboration in order to be reliable.

1016. Consequently, the Chamber is of the view that the Prosecution has failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi met with the conseiller of Sahera secteur at the secteur office, on around 20 April 1994. Because the Chamber has concluded that the Prosecution has failed to prove this allegation for independent reasons, it need not address the

3.6.4 Mugombwa Church Massacre, 20-21 April 1994

3.6.4.1 Introduction

1017. The Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that before and during the events referred to therein, Ndayambaje distributed weapons to the militiamen and certain carefully selected members of the civilian population with the intent to exterminate the Tutsi population and its "accomplices."<sup>2006</sup> The Prosecution submits that Ndayambaje distributed weapons to Hutu attackers at Mugombwa Church in April 1994 in order to facilitate the massacre there.<sup>2007</sup>

1018. Paragraph 6.37 of the Ndayambaje Indictment states that from 20 April 1994 in Muganza commune and the surrounding area, Ndayambaje ordered, supervised and participated in massacres of the Tutsi population, committed by militiamen, soldiers, commune policemen and commune authorities.<sup>2008</sup>

1019. The Prosecution submits that Ndayambaje facilitated the massacre at Mugombwa Church in April 1994 through the acts specified in Paragraphs 5.13 and 6.37.<sup>2009</sup>

1020. In support of these submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QAR, FAG, TU and FAU.

1021. The Ndayambaje Defence does not dispute that attacks took place at Mugombwa Church on Wednesday, 20 and Thursday, 21 April 1994.<sup>2010</sup> The Ndayambaje Defence submits, however, that the Indictment is unduly vague and does not adequately inform the Accused of the allegation that he participated in the massacre at Mugombwa Church or that he was alleged to have distributed weapons at the massacre site.<sup>2011</sup>

1022. In the alternative, the Ndayambaje Defence submits that the Prosecution witnesses lacked credibility, that Ndayambaje was not present at Mugombwa Church on 20 and 21 April 1994, and therefore, the Accused could not have ordered, supervised or participated in the massacre there or distributed weapons to the attackers.<sup>2012</sup> The Defence submits that Ndayambaje was at the commune office from 20 to 23 April 1994.<sup>2013</sup> To establish this alibi the Defence relies on the testimony of Defence Witnesses GABON, KEPİR, MARVA, BIDI and Ndayambaje.

Pleading of Ndayambaje's Alleged Participation in the Massacre at Mugombwa Church

1023. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that the events at Mugombwa Church are not pled in the Indictment and thus requests the Chamber not to consider the evidence relating to Mugombwa Church.<sup>2014</sup> This objection was raised on 3 March 2004, but the Chamber declined to make a finding on the issue at that stage of the proceedings.<sup>2015</sup>

1024. The Chamber notes that the location and dates of the massacre at Mugombwa Church are not specified in the Indictment. Recalling the principles set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (), the Chamber finds that Ndayambaje's alleged role in the massacre at Mugombwa Church is not sufficiently pled in the Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective on this point. The Chamber will determine whether the defect in the Indictment was subsequently cured through timely, clear and consistent notice to the Ndayambaje Defence.

1025. The Chamber further notes that the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief does not mention Witness QAR's intention to testify about the massacre at Mugombwa Church.<sup>2016</sup> The Chamber observes, however, that the summaries of Witnesses FAG's, FAU's and TU's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief mention Ndayambaje's participation in the attacks at Mugombwa Church.<sup>2017</sup>

1026. The summary of Witness FAG's anticipated testimony states that he was ordered by Venant, Kanyenzi, Bosco, the assistant bourgmestre of Muganza, and Viateur to go to Mugombwa where there was a group of attackers that was brought there by Ndayambaje. Witness FAG states that the attackers threw grenades at the Tutsis and killed them. Witness FAG saw Ndayambaje driving the pickup with about 20 Burundians on board.<sup>2018</sup>

1027. Witness FAU's anticipated testimony further states that in April 1994, he witnessed the massacre of 300 Tutsis at Mugombwa Church and that Ndayambaje supervised the massacre.<sup>2019</sup>

1028. The summary of Witness TU's anticipated testimony states that on 21 April 1994, he hid with others in Mugombwa Church. On 24 April 1994, Ndayambaje arrived at the church with his white pickup, loaded with soldiers with grenades. Ndayambaje then instructed the soldiers to kill those inside the church. The soldiers began throwing grenades into the church which resulted in the death of approximately 2,000 people.<sup>2020</sup> Witness TU was not called to testify.

1029. Furthermore, the Chamber observes that in its opening statement, the Prosecution mentioned that large-scale massacres took place at the end of April at Mugombwa Church.<sup>2021</sup>

1030. The Chamber finds that the Prosecution was in possession of material facts regarding the massacre at Mugombwa Church which it failed to include in the Amended Indictment.

1031. However, having regard to the summaries of the anticipated testimonies of Witnesses FAG, FAU and TU in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, the Chamber considers that in the present circumstances, the Prosecution gave the Defence timely, clear and consistent notice that Ndayambaje was accused of participating in, including through giving orders, and supervising the massacre at Mugombwa Church, Muganza commune, along with other commune authorities in late April 1994. The Chamber finds the defect in Paragraph 6.37 of the Indictment is thereby cured, and there was no prejudice in the preparation of Ndayambaje's defence case.

Ndayambaje's Alleged Distribution of Weapons at Mugombwa Church

1032. With regard to Ndayambaje's alleged distribution of weapons, the Chamber notes that the Indictment does not specify Mugombwa Church as an alleged site of weapons distribution, nor does it specify the identities of those to whom he is alleged to have distributed weapons. The Chamber therefore finds that this allegation was not sufficiently pled in the Indictment and the Indictment was therefore defective.

1033. The summary of Witness TU's anticipated testimony in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief stated that on 24 April 1994, Ndayambaje arrived at the church with his white pickup, loaded with soldiers with grenades. Ndayambaje then instructed the soldiers to kill those inside the church. The soldiers began throwing grenades into the church, which resulted in the death of approximately 2,000 people.<sup>2022</sup> In his previous statement of 18 December 1996, disclosed to the Defence on 4 November 1998, Witness TU stated that Ndayambaje transported soldiers with grenades and guns to Mugombwa Church to facilitate the massacre.<sup>2023</sup> The Chamber observes that neither the summary of Witness TU's anticipated testimony included in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief nor his previous statement of 18 December 1996, mention that Ndayambaje distributed weapons at the church.

1034. The summary of Witness FAU's anticipated testimony in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief stated that in April 1994, Witness FAU witnessed the massacre of 300 Tutsis at Mugombwa Church and that Ndayambaje supervised the massacre. The summary further states that Witness FAU saw Ndayambaje participate in arms distribution.<sup>2024</sup> The Chamber observes that there is no information in the summary about the date, place or circumstances of the alleged arms distribution, nor is the allegation seemingly connected to the massacre at Mugombwa Church.

1036. The Chamber notes that there was no mention of Ndayambaje's alleged distribution of weapons in the summary of Witness QAR's anticipated testimony in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief.<sup>2027</sup> The alleged distribution of weapons by Ndayambaje at Mugombwa Church was however mentioned in Witness QAR's previous statement of 20 May 1997 but not mentioned in her previous statements of 20 June 1995 or 14 October 1997.<sup>2028</sup> The Chamber considers that the mention of the alleged distribution of weapons in a single witness statement does not constitute clear and consistent notice of the allegation.

1037. The Chamber therefore finds that the defect in the Indictment was not cured. As a result, the Chamber will not make a finding on the alleged distribution of weapons by Ndayambaje at Mugombwa Church.

Prosecution Witness QAR

1038. Witness QAR, a Tutsi woman from Muganza commune, testified that she had known Ndayambaje since they were both children.<sup>2029</sup> The witness identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2030</sup> The witness testified that at 8.00 a.m. on Wednesday, 19 April 1994, she and many other Tutsis arrived and took refuge in Mugombwa Church.<sup>2031</sup> She maintained that she arrived in the morning, despite being presented with her previous statement of 20 June 1995, which states that she arrived at the church at 2.00 p.m.<sup>2032</sup> When told that 19 April 1994 was a Tuesday, the witness said she was sure that the events at issue commenced on a Wednesday morning.<sup>2033</sup> The witness denied that she had given a different account of events to Prosecution investigators in her previous statement of 20 May 1997.<sup>2034</sup>

1039. Witness QAR testified that within an hour and a half of her arrival, the church was full.<sup>2035</sup> Inside the church there were several thousands of people from various hills, namely

Mugombwa, Saga, Cyumba, Rinda, Nyagahuru and Kibayi, the majority of whom the witness did not know.<sup>2036</sup> The refugees in the church were either Tutsis or the spouses of Tutsis, as the Hutus had not fled their homes.<sup>2037</sup> As Witness QAR was entering the church, people outside were throwing stones which broke all the windows in the church.<sup>2038</sup> During the morning, the priest of Mugombwa Church had attempted to lock all the doors to the church and then left following a quarrel with those outside the church.<sup>2039</sup>

1040. The witness testified that at approximately noon, from her position inside the church, she saw Ndayambaje arrive in a white vehicle from the road leading to Remera, where the commune office was.<sup>2040</sup> She later testified that she did not actually see Ndayambaje arrive but was informed of his arrival, only then seeing his car that was already parked, facing the direction of Remera.<sup>2041</sup>

1041. Witness QAR testified that she occupied various positions inside the church which was oval-shaped, since the people inside were pushing and shoving each other.<sup>2042</sup> She saw Ndayambaje through a broken window, which she stood near, but in the centre of the church.<sup>2043</sup> Without getting out of his vehicle, Ndayambaje showed those in the church a picture of President Habyarimana.<sup>2044</sup> The picture was approximately 24 by 30 centimetres in size, and Ndayambaje held it in front of his own face.<sup>2045</sup> Ndayambaje kept the photograph.<sup>2046</sup> Ndayambaje said that those in the church were going to be killed because they were accomplices of the Inkotanyi who had killed the President.<sup>2047</sup> The witness denied telling investigators that Ndayambaje was carrying a gun and handed the photograph to someone else, as reflected in her previous statement of 20 June 1995.<sup>2048</sup>

1042. Witness QAR testified that when Ndayambaje arrived, she saw many other Hutus with bows and arrows, spears and machetes outside the church.<sup>2049</sup> There were no priests, policemen or soldiers present.<sup>2050</sup> Ndayambaje said to them, in Kinyarwanda, that since the people in the church were now gathered together, their work would no longer be very difficult. He told the attackers that some of them should stay and watch those in the church and others should go and look for those that were hiding in ditches and in bushes. Upon hearing this,

1043. At approximately 4.00 p.m., two grenades were thrown at the people inside the church, which exploded killing some and wounding others.<sup>2054</sup> The witness denied that she told investigators that only one of the two grenades exploded.<sup>2055</sup> The witness testified that she did not see who threw either grenade.<sup>2056</sup> She maintained that she did not see who threw the grenades and claimed that her previous statement of 20 May 1997, which stated that Witness QAR saw a boy throw two grenades, did not reflect the account she gave to the investigators.<sup>2057</sup> Among the attackers present at the church on Wednesday were Damascene, Tabaro, Mathias, Mushimire, Sikubwabo, Cyabarena, Yohani, Siridiyo and Nyandwi.<sup>2058</sup>

1044. Witness QAR testified that at about 10.00 a.m. the next day, Thursday (which she said was 20 April 1994), from her position by the entrance door and through a broken window, she saw Ndayambaje return to the church by the road leading to Remera.<sup>2059</sup> Ndayambaje arrived in the same white vehicle that the witness had seen him in the previous day.<sup>2060</sup> The witness saw Ndayambaje park his car approximately 10 metres away from her vantage point.<sup>2061</sup> Ndayambaje told the crowd outside the church that he saw they were concentrating on eating the Tutsis' cows, asked what they were going to do when the cows would be exhausted, and what they would pay if the owners of the cows escaped.<sup>2062</sup> Seeing that some of the crowd had no weapons, Ndayambaje left again in the direction of Remera and returned at about 10.30 a.m. with machetes and small axes, which he distributed to the people.<sup>2063</sup> Ndayambaje left the church immediately after distributing these weapons.<sup>2064</sup>

1045. Witness QAR testified that after Ndayambaje had left, at about 3.00 p.m., five grenades were thrown into the church, killing and injuring some of the people inside.<sup>2065</sup> After the grenades were thrown, petrol was poured inside the church.<sup>2066</sup> As the petrol was being poured, the men outside the church were trying to break down the church door.<sup>2067</sup> Fire broke out in the church at the same time the door was broken down.<sup>2068</sup> Some of the attackers wanted to enter the church, but they were dissuaded from doing so by the people outside.<sup>2069</sup> Witness QAR denied that it was Ndayambaje who advised the attackers against entering the church, despite an assertion to this effect that appeared in her previous statement of 20 May 1997.<sup>2070</sup>

1046. Witness QAR testified that she decided to leave the church through the broken door, considering that it was better to be killed by machete than by fire.<sup>2071</sup> Witness QAR indicated in Prosecution Exhibit 41 (Video of commune office and Mugombwa Church) the broken door of the church through which she came out.<sup>2072</sup> She also pointed out the rear part of the church<sup>2073</sup> and the inside of the church where the grenades were thrown in<sup>2074</sup> and their various impacts.<sup>2075</sup> The witness confirmed the passage in her previous statement of 20 June 1995 that the attackers tricked the women in the church into leaving by promising them safety, only then to attack them.<sup>2076</sup> She was the fourth person to leave the church; three women left before her.<sup>2077</sup> Witness QAR testified that at the doorway the witness was told to remove her clothes, which she did. She was asked whether she was a Hutu and answered that she was.<sup>2078</sup>

1047. Witness QAR testified that she was permitted to leave the church and went to the middle of the church compound where she was met by three Burundians about 30 steps from the church door.<sup>2079</sup> The Burundians wanted to attack her with machetes but following Witness QAR's request to be allowed to sit, and the intervention of the Hutu father of Witness QAR's child, they spared her and accompanied her to a place in front of the priest's office.<sup>2080</sup> The many people still alive in the church at this time were being attacked.<sup>2081</sup> In the courtyard, she saw the corpses of very many people who had been cut to pieces.<sup>2082</sup> The people had been massacred by the "Bene Sebahinzi", who were Hutus from many places, including Mugombwa and Saga.<sup>2083</sup> Six other women survived the massacre at the church.<sup>2084</sup> The seven women were taken to the priest's house, where they spent the night, and were released the following day,

Prosecution Witness FAG

1048. Witness FAG, a 16-year-old Hutu farmer in Muganza commune in 1994, who confessed to having participated in attacks on Tutsis during the genocide and is no longer detained,<sup>2087</sup> testified that on Thursday 21 April 1994, he was in a group of over 100 people at Bishya Centre when, at approximately 2.00 p.m., he saw a number of community leaders, including Viateur, the conseiller of Mugombwa, Kanyenzi, Venant and Bosco Mushimiyimana, the assistant bourgmestre.<sup>2088</sup> He also saw Ndayambaje, who stopped his vehicle and talked to these community leaders without alighting. After this conversation, Ndayambaje left in his vehicle in the direction of Butare.<sup>2089</sup>

1049. After these community leaders had listened to Ndayambaje, they told Witness FAG and his group that Ndayambaje was ordering all those present in Bishya to go to Mugombwa Parish.<sup>2090</sup> Witness FAG was standing very close, side by side, to these people when the instructions were given.<sup>2091</sup> Witness FAG maintained that these community leaders told him and his group that they were conveying orders issued by Ndayambaje and that they referred to Ndayambaje by name rather than by the title “bourgmestre”.<sup>2092</sup> He clarified that if his previous statement of 23 February 2000 made no mention of Ndayambaje, it was an omission by the person recording this statement rather than his own error or contradiction.<sup>2093</sup>

1050. Witness FAG testified that immediately upon hearing those words, all the able-bodied people walked quickly to Mugombwa Parish, arriving there at about 2.15 p.m.<sup>2094</sup> The witness heard no explosions during his walk to Mugombwa.<sup>2095</sup>

when the witness arrived.<sup>2099</sup> All those assembled had come to kill Tutsis in Mugombwa Parish.<sup>2100</sup>

1052. Witness FAG testified that between 2.15 and 3.00 p.m. a growing number of refugees gathered together in Mugombwa.<sup>2101</sup> Witness FAG estimated that 5,000 Tutsis were inside the church at the time of the attack. This assessment was based on his knowledge that in the normal course of events the church accommodated about 3,000 to 4,000 people, and the fact that on the day of the attack he saw from outside the church that a large number of Tutsis inside could not sit down.<sup>2102</sup>

1053. Witness FAG testified that he participated in the attack against the Tutsis hiding in Mugombwa Church, insofar as he was present at the scene with a club that he would have used to defend himself if he was attacked.<sup>2103</sup> He did not kill anybody.<sup>2104</sup> Everybody who was present participated in the attack.<sup>2105</sup> No Hutus were targeted.<sup>2106</sup> The attack began at 3.00 p.m. as the group of Burundians threw grenades at and into the church.<sup>2107</sup> These Burundians then threw bottles of petrol, taken from jerry cans they brought with them and dry fodder into the church and started a fire.<sup>2108</sup> Witness FAG did not go into the church.<sup>2109</sup> After they had run out of grenades, some of the attackers used traditional weapons including clubs, axes, and spears to break down the church door and bring out and kill those Tutsis who were not yet dead.<sup>2110</sup> While the witness was present, nobody was able to leave the church without being killed.<sup>2111</sup>

1054. Witness FAG testified that he did not stay at the church until the end of the attack and so he did not know whether anybody survived.<sup>2112</sup> Later, he stated that all those in the church were killed; there were no survivors.<sup>2113</sup>

1055. Witness FAG testified that he did not see Ndayambaje in Mugombwa on this day.<sup>2114</sup>

1056. Witness FAG testified that he did not mention the attacks on Mugombwa Church in his previous statement dated 11 August 1998 because at that time he was afraid and there were things he could not talk about.<sup>2115</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAU

1057. Witness FAU, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune, detained at the time of his testimony,<sup>2116</sup> testified that on one afternoon in late April 1994, he went to Mugombwa to see the refugees who had gathered inside the church.<sup>2117</sup> Witness FAU was not armed.<sup>2118</sup> The refugees had been locked inside the church by the priest who had then left.<sup>2119</sup>

1058. Witness FAU saw the priest leave at midday but was told by somebody else that the priest had said he was going to Butare to get protection for the refugees.<sup>2120</sup> At this time there was a large crowd outside the church as well as the refugees inside.<sup>2121</sup> There were no assailants or attackers; the crowd was composed of Tutsis and Hutus who wanted to buy things brought by the refugees inside the church and Hutus who had sought refuge out of fear.<sup>2122</sup> The witness saw no policemen or gendarmes at the church.<sup>2123</sup> There were no injured people in the courtyard of the church.<sup>2124</sup> After the priest had left, the witness returned to his home and saw nothing more of what happened at the church that day.<sup>2125</sup>

1059. On that day, only one person was killed by gunshot at Mugombwa and no other victims died.<sup>2126</sup> Witness FAU did not go up to the doors or windows of the church. Witness FAU was told that some people were taken out of the church and to safety by their family members, although he did not see this himself.<sup>2127</sup>

1060. At night, Witness FAU heard many explosions from his home, where he was on a night patrol on his hill.<sup>2128</sup> The explosions were only heard at night.<sup>2129</sup> He was told that the Burundians attacked the church and the refugees with projectiles they had made themselves from bottles and inflammable liquid, and the witness heard explosions.<sup>2130</sup>

1061. Witness FAU returned to the church the following morning along with many others, including Cassien Ngonza and Rutabama, who he knew.<sup>2131</sup> He saw no policemen or gendarmes at the church that morning.<sup>2132</sup> Witness FAU went to the church in the hope of finding some items abandoned by the refugees but there were no such items there.<sup>2133</sup> Upon his arrival, the witness saw corpses inside the church and on the church grounds.<sup>2134</sup> He did not witness any attacks, although he saw people with machetes and spears.<sup>2135</sup>

1063. Witness FAU testified that he did not see Witness RV at the church.<sup>2140</sup> The witness stated that he did not see a man named Venant at the church and that he could not remember whether he saw Kanyenzi at the church, but stated that these men were leading the attacks and so were everywhere.<sup>2141</sup> Witness FAU was reminded about his statement of 10 (sic) October 1999, in which he said that there were 2,500 Tutsis in the church, that Kanyenzi and Venant led the Hutus and Burundians in attacking the church, and that he saw Ndayambaje in vehicles belonging, respectively, to the commune and an international organisation.<sup>2142</sup> Witness FAU testified that this was information received from other people rather than things that he saw himself and that any discrepancies are attributable to the passage of a very long time.<sup>2143</sup>

1064. When confronted with his confession of 29 December 1999, which stated that Ndayambaje arrived at the church after the priest's departure, Witness FAU noted that he was obliged to include all evidence, including hearsay, in his confession.<sup>2144</sup> The witness was read his statement of 22 February 2001, in which he said that he witnessed the murder of an estimated 200 to 300 Tutsi refugees at Mugombwa Church by gendarmes following the orders of Ndayambaje who was at the scene.<sup>2145</sup> The witness testified that there were many things that he could not remember. He denied that his testimony contradicted this previous statement.<sup>2146</sup>

1065. Witness RV, a Hutu civil servant in Muganza commune, testified that on 20 April 1994, he was woken at 6.00 a.m. by Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano, the Italian priest of Mugombwa Parish, who told him that the local population in Mugombwa had taken up arms and that there was insecurity in the area.<sup>2147</sup> Father Tiziano drove with the witness and Ndayambaje to the commune office. Witness RV joined Ndayambaje in the commune vehicle until they collected a driver from his home in Bishya. The driver then drove Witness RV while Ndayambaje accompanied Father Tiziano. Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano proceeded to Ndayambaje's residence.<sup>2148</sup>

1066. The vehicle Witness RV was travelling in stopped when it came across a group of about 30 assailants, including Conseiller Viateur Singirankabo.<sup>2149</sup> Witness RV asked the group why they had mobilised themselves and was told that if he did not watch out he would be killed.<sup>2150</sup>

1067. At about 7.30 a.m., the witness went to Ndayambaje's residence to tell Ndayambaje that he was overwhelmed and that he was going to Butare to request assistance.<sup>2151</sup> Witness RV proceeded to Butare, where he reported the event to Dominique Ntawukulilyayo, the sous-préfet of Gisagara.<sup>2152</sup>

1068. Witness RV waited until about 6.00 p.m. for the sous-préfet to accompany him to Mugombwa, but he did not come so he left without him.<sup>2153</sup>

1069. Witness RV testified that upon returning to the Muganza commune office, at about 7.00 p.m. that day, he found that many people had taken refuge at the commune office, including Ndayambaje and his family, two on-duty policemen and six armed gendarmes.<sup>2154</sup> After about 30 minutes, the witness heard grenades exploding from the direction of Mugombwa Parish.<sup>2155</sup> He then learned that Tutsis had taken refuge at the parish.<sup>2156</sup> He did not go to the church because the gendarmerie commander refused to go with him and, along with the conseiller and Ndayambaje, the witness thought it would be suicidal to go there, and he was afraid.<sup>2157</sup> Instead, the witness spent the night in the commune office. The last time Witness RV saw Ndayambaje that evening was at 8.00 p.m., when Ndayambaje went to his room with his family.<sup>2158</sup> The sound of grenade explosions stopped during the night of 20 April 1994.<sup>2159</sup>

1070. During the afternoon of 21 April 1994, Witness RV went to Mugombwa Parish with Ndayambaje, who wanted to collect a khaki Toyota Corolla that belonged to a white woman called Monique.<sup>2160</sup> The witness waited until the afternoon because his driver, who Witness RV had sent to the church in the morning, had already reported to him that there was no one left there to save.<sup>2161</sup> The killing had stopped, but there were about 1,000 corpses in the compound. Witness RV supposed that there were more bodies in the church, but he did not go inside.<sup>2162</sup> He saw no survivors.<sup>2163</sup>

1071. The witness asserted that most of the victims were Tutsis, although a few Hutus who had taken refuge in the church had also been killed.<sup>2164</sup> Witness RV stated that he learned that the attack had been launched by Burundian refugees, assisted by the inhabitants of Kivomo secteur and Kibaye commune.<sup>2165</sup> The witness reported the incident to the sous-préfet, who was the closest authority.<sup>2166</sup>

Prosecution Witness RT

1072. Witness RT, a Tutsi teacher from Muganza commune, testified that on a Wednesday, which was either 19 or 20 April 1994, he remained at home.<sup>2167</sup> On that day, soon after 9.30 a.m., he saw the parish priest, Father Tiziano, drive past the witness' house in a vehicle, heading in the direction of the commune office. The priest again passed his house, driving back in the direction of the church, followed by the official commune vehicle in which sat Witness RV and some police officers.<sup>2168</sup> Witness RT did not see Ndayambaje in the commune vehicle.<sup>2169</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness JAMES

1074. Witness JAMES testified that he used to attend mass at Mugombwa Church.<sup>2173</sup> The church had stained glass windows which could not be opened.<sup>2174</sup> It was impossible to see through the windows from inside and recognise people outside and vice versa.<sup>2175</sup> He testified that every single window was made of coloured glass.<sup>2176</sup> Explosions at the church in 1994 broke the windows but he was not sure exactly when the windows broke.<sup>2177</sup> The church was made of brick, and there were ventilation holes in the church walls that were not covered with glass but it was not possible to see through them from the inside because they were slanted.<sup>2178</sup> There were seven doors in the church, and it was impossible to see through them.<sup>2179</sup> The church was around 100 to 120 metres from the witness' home.<sup>2180</sup>

1075. Witness JAMES testified that two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana, killings started in his area.<sup>2181</sup> The witness saw members of the population carrying their luggage on their heads fleeing towards Mugombwa Parish at 6.00 a.m.<sup>2182</sup> He remembered this day to be a Wednesday because it was market day.<sup>2183</sup> The witness testified that he did not know why people were fleeing.<sup>2184</sup>

1076. The same day, between 3.00 and 5.00 p.m., the witness heard explosions from Mugombwa Church.<sup>2185</sup> This was Wednesday 20 April 1994.<sup>2186</sup> There were many explosions, he could not say how many, but there were less explosions than on the next day.<sup>2187</sup>

1077. Witness JAMES testified that the same day (Wednesday) he was at a pub.<sup>2188</sup> At around 3.30 p.m., Cyabarene and Mushimire came to the pub followed by a group of hoodlums including Frédéric Mushimire and Innocent and some inhabitants of Karonkano, including Boniface, Nkundabagenzi and Kibirikibi.<sup>2189</sup> Cyabarene told those present to come and help him and the others at Mugombwa Church because the situation had become complicated.<sup>2190</sup>

1078. Witness JAMES testified that Mushimire, Cyabarene and other hoodlums relayed to those present in the bar that they were attacking people at Mugombwa Church but they had not been successful and they had had to get some Burundian refugees to help them.<sup>2191</sup> The hoodlums told them that the first attack on the church was carried out by them, the second one by Burundian refugees and the last one by a different group of assailants.<sup>2192</sup>

1079. On Wednesday night, Cyabarene came to the witness' house. He asked the witness' mother and younger brother to leave.<sup>2193</sup> The witness' mother and sister left to go to Kayitani's house.<sup>2194</sup> Cyabarene spent the night of 20 April 1994 in a building close to the witness' house, while the witness stayed at the witness' house.<sup>2195</sup>

1080. The witness did not hear anyone mention the name of Ndayambaje with respect to the attack launched on the church.<sup>2196</sup> On cross-examination, he admitted that his knowledge of what happened at the church was based on what a few of the attackers said and he overheard.<sup>2197</sup>

1081. Witness JAMES testified that he saw Cyabarene, Mushimire and Innocent again on Thursday, 21 April 1994. Mushimire and others told the witness that a further attack had been carried out at Mugombwa Church and that an axe was used to break the church door to get access inside on that day.<sup>2198</sup> He did not hear anybody mention Ndayambaje's name with respect to the attack on the church.<sup>2199</sup> On cross-examination, when it was put to him that he could not have heard everything the men at the bar discussed about the attacks they participated in, Witness JAMES testified that he narrated what he had heard.<sup>2200</sup>

1082. Witness JAMES testified that the assailants ate and drank at the bar but did not spend the night there.<sup>2201</sup> They came in the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday at about 5.00 p.m. and would leave around 8.00 p.m.<sup>2202</sup>

1083. On cross-examination he said it was not possible that Ndayambaje had gone to the church, it would have been known if he had.<sup>2203</sup>

1085. On cross-examination, Witness JAMES drew a sketch describing various sites including his home, the Statue of the Virgin Mary, Kayitani's house, Mugombwa Church, the

1086. Witness JAMES testified that he was with the father of Witness QAR's child at all times on Wednesday, 20 April 1994. He heard that Witness QAR was inside Mugombwa Church. He did not see her that day. The witness testified that the next day, Thursday, 21 April 1994, Damascène from Chez Amahuma came to the bar and told the witness' cousin that his wife had just been brought out of the church, and that she was near the primary school headmaster's office.<sup>2210</sup>

1087. Witness JAMES testified that he saw Witness QAR between 7.00 and 8.00 p.m. on Thursday 21 April 1994; Witness QAR was with the father of Witness QAR's child, and some other people the witness did not recognise.<sup>2211</sup> Thereafter, Witness QAR and her husband went to a house and spent the night there.<sup>2212</sup> On cross-examination, the witness testified that he saw Witness QAR go to the house from his vantage point outside the bar where he worked. It was dark at the time.<sup>2213</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness MAJIK

1088. Witness MAJIK, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune, testified that on a Wednesday two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana, her mother asked her to go to Mugombwa, from her house, to visit Witness MAJIK's maternal aunt, a Tutsi, and check whether she was experiencing any problems.<sup>2214</sup> On her way, she passed by Mugombwa Church at about 11.30 a.m.<sup>2215</sup> She noticed that the church doors were closed and that outside the church there were people carrying traditional weapons.<sup>2216</sup> One of the armed assailants, a young boy who was Witness MAJIK's neighbour, told her that Tutsis had taken refuge inside the church.<sup>2217</sup> The people inside the church were screaming.<sup>2218</sup> The witness saw no vehicle on the church grounds.<sup>2219</sup>

1089. The witness then proceeded to her aunt's home, but found that it was closed and her aunt was not there. She went to her maternal uncle's home, which was also closed. She then returned to Mugombwa Church to look for her uncle.<sup>2220</sup>

1090. The armed assailants were still at the front of the church. Nobody could see into the church as the doors were shut and the windows were opaque.<sup>2221</sup> At around 12.30 p.m., having

1091. The witness testified that in April 1994, the Muganza commune office had one vehicle, a white Toyota. She did not see this vehicle on Wednesday when she passed by Mugombwa Church.<sup>2224</sup>

1092. The witness did not see Ndayambaje, whom she knew from his time as bourgmestre.<sup>2225</sup> Nobody told the witness that Ndayambaje had been present at the church on that day.<sup>2226</sup> Witness MAJIK did not see Ndayambaje in Muganza during the period 6 April 1994 to the beginning of May 1994.<sup>2227</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness ALIZA

1093. Witness ALIZA, a Hutu student in 1994, testified that about two weeks after Habyarimana's death, disturbances started in Muganza commune. On a Wednesday evening, at around 5.00 p.m., the witness heard gunshots and explosions coming from the direction of Mugombwa Church, which was about five to seven kilometres from Witness ALIZA's home.<sup>2228</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness KEPİR

1094. Witness KEPİR, son of a Hutu father and Tutsi mother, was a friend of Ndayambaje.<sup>2229</sup>

1095. Witness KEPİR testified that he was at the commune office on 20 April 1994, when he saw Ndayambaje arrive in a car that he did not recognise. On arrival, Ndayambaje informed the witness that he had come to seek refuge because he had heard gunfire in his neighbourhood.<sup>2230</sup> The witness and Ndayambaje then walked to the witness' house a short distance away.<sup>2231</sup> The vehicle that brought Ndayambaje to the commune office left and returned a few minutes later with Ndayambaje's family and some others.<sup>2232</sup> Ndayambaje lived approximately 15 minutes away from the commune office by car.<sup>2233</sup> Ndayambaje was joined by his family and the others who had travelled with them at the witness' house and 10 or 15 minutes later, they all went together to the commune office.<sup>2234</sup>

1096. Ndayambaje, a gendarme and the witness took the vehicle belonging to an international organisation and left at approximately 12.30 or 1.00 p.m. to inform Bourgmestre Chrysologue in Butare of the prevailing situation in the commune.<sup>2235</sup> They arrived in Butare at approximately 2.00 p.m., returning to the Muganza commune office at around 4.00 or 5.00 p.m.<sup>2236</sup> Ndayambaje spent the night of 20 April 1994 in the courtyard of the commune office.<sup>2237</sup>

1097. Witness KEPIR testified that he did not see Ndayambaje leave the commune office on the night of 20 April 1994.<sup>2238</sup> That evening, the bourgmestre used the commune vehicle to move items between his home and the commune office where he stayed the night.<sup>2239</sup> Both the commune vehicle and the vehicle belonging to an international organisation remained in the parking space behind the commune office during that night.<sup>2240</sup>

1098. On Thursday 21 April 1994, neither Ndayambaje nor the commune vehicle left the commune office.<sup>2241</sup> Witness KEPIR testified that at around 4.00 or 5.00 p.m. on 21 April 1994, he heard very loud noises followed by grenade detonations from Mugombwa Parish, which was about seven to 10 kilometres away from the commune office.<sup>2242</sup>

1099. On the morning of 22 April 1994, Witness KEPIR saw and spoke to Ndayambaje, Witness RV and Charles. This group told the witness that they were leaving to monitor the situation in Mugombwa and Kabuga.<sup>2243</sup> The witness testified that Ndayambaje wanted to collect a car from an expatriate called Monique who worked there and to check on his mother at the Mugombwa health centre.<sup>2244</sup> The group left at around 10.00 a.m. Ndayambaje returned to the commune office 20 to 30 minutes later in the car he had collected. It was a khaki-coloured Toyota Corolla.<sup>2245</sup> Ndayambaje was not accompanied by his mother.<sup>2246</sup>

1101. At approximately 1.00 or 2.00 p.m. on 22 April 1994, the witness accompanied Ndayambaje who decided to collect the vehicle belonging to the Kirarambogo health centre.<sup>2249</sup> They left in the vehicle belonging to an expatriate.<sup>2250</sup> Returning from Kirarambogo, Ndayambaje drove the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle and the witness followed close behind.<sup>2251</sup> Both cars stopped at a roadblock that was about 500 metres from the Kirarambogo health centre and then proceeded to the Muganza commune office, arriving at about 4.00 p.m.<sup>2252</sup> Witness KEPIR stayed with Ndayambaje that evening until they parted company to go to bed.<sup>2253</sup>

1102. The witness testified that Ndayambaje did not leave the commune office on 22 April 1994, on any occasion other than the trip to Mugombwa and the trip to Kirarambogo.<sup>2254</sup>

1103. The witness testified that in 1994, Muganza commune had a white single-cabin Stout pickup with “Muganza commune” written on the side.<sup>2255</sup> The official driver of this vehicle was Charles Habakurama.<sup>2256</sup> Ndayambaje had his own private vehicle in April 1994, a white double-cabin Toyota Hilux with slats on the back on which tarpaulin could be placed. The vehicle was rented out to Médecins Sans Frontières (“MSF”) Belgium, in Butare.<sup>2257</sup> The witness did not see this vehicle in Muganza commune in April 1994 and disagreed that Ndayambaje used this vehicle on 22 April 1994.<sup>2258</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness GABON

1104. Witness GABON, a Hutu policeman, testified that on 20 April 1994, he went to the Muganza commune office at around 9.00 or 9.30 a.m.<sup>2259</sup> At that time, the bourgmestre was not present.<sup>2260</sup> A policeman on duty told the witness that the situation in Mugombwa was precarious and that Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano, the parish priest, had come by car to the commune office to look for Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana.<sup>2261</sup> Witness GABON’s colleague said that the bourgmestre left in his car with his driver.<sup>2262</sup>

commune vehicle, which they parked in the car park.<sup>2267</sup> On the night of 20 April 1994 these were the only two vehicles in the commune office car park.<sup>2268</sup>

1106. Witness GABON testified that about 150 people took refuge at the commune office on Wednesday, 20 April 1994.<sup>2269</sup> They stayed day and night at the commune office until the following Saturday.<sup>2270</sup>

1107. Witness GABON testified that Ndayambaje did not leave the commune office premises during the day or night of 21 April 1994.<sup>2271</sup> Ndayajbame remained there, playing cards with other refugees.<sup>2272</sup> Witness GABON testified that Ndayambaje was still present at the commune office on the morning of 22 April 1994, which was a Friday.<sup>2273</sup> Ndayambaje left the office with the bourgmestre in the commune vehicle at about 9.00 a.m.<sup>2274</sup>

1109. Witness GABON testified that at about 11.00 a.m., Ndayambaje left the commune office with Witness KEPIR and a driver in the blue vehicle belonging to an international organisation.<sup>2278</sup> At approximately 2.00 p.m., Ndayambaje returned alone in the khaki-coloured Kirarambogo health centre dual-cabin van, which was normally used as an ambulance.<sup>2279</sup> Witness GABON emphasised that the Kirarambogo health centre had two vehicles and, while he knew little about motor vehicles, this van should not be confused with the sedan vehicle used by Ndayambaje earlier that day.<sup>2280</sup> Soon after Ndayambaje's return, Witness KEPIR and his driver arrived in the vehicle and parked in the commune office car park. Thereafter, none of the four vehicles left the commune office for the rest of the day. Ndayambaje and his family spent the night of 22 April 1994 in the IGA room of the commune office.<sup>2281</sup>

1111. Witness MARVA, a Hutu from Muganza commune, testified that on the Wednesday two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana she was at Ndayambaje's home.<sup>2283</sup> A Tutsi named Chanvrier and Elyseus' family, including a person named Uwodukunda, took refuge in Ndayambaje's residence.<sup>2284</sup> After Elyseus' family arrived, loud gunshots were heard coming from a distance.<sup>2285</sup> They all decided to flee.<sup>2286</sup>

1112. During cross-examination, Witness MARVA testified that these gunshots were not coming from the direction of Mugombwa Church. She stated that she did not hear that Mugombwa Church was attacked in April 1994.<sup>2287</sup> She testified that it takes approximately 10 minutes to drive to Mugombwa Church from Ndayambaje's home.<sup>2288</sup>

1113. Witness MARVA testified that Ndayambaje was picked up by someone in a vehicle in order to take him to the commune office to seek refuge.<sup>2289</sup> After approximately one hour, the vehicle came back to take her, François, Uwodukunda, Chanvrier, Ndayambaje's wife and children to the Muganza commune office where they all took refuge.<sup>2290</sup>

1114. Witness MARVA testified that they met Ndayambaje at Witness KEPIR's house before proceeding to the IGA building in the Muganza commune office compound.<sup>2291</sup> François, Uwodukunda, Chanvrier, Ndayambaje, Ndayambaje's wife and children and the witness walked to the IGA building from Witness KEPIR's house on foot since it was not far.<sup>2292</sup> She testified that once they arrived at the IGA building, other people were there.<sup>2293</sup> She did not know most of their names, but knew that Witness KEPIR's wife and the driver's wife were there.<sup>2294</sup>

1115. Witness MARVA testified that all this happened on a Wednesday, and the rest of the day and night was spent in the IGA building. She testified that everyone spent the night in the same room, including Ndayambaje.<sup>2295</sup> She explained that they all stayed in the IGA building until Saturday, and Ndayambaje did not leave the room.<sup>2296</sup>

1116. During cross-examination, it was suggested that Ndayambaje could not have spent the entire night in the same enclosed room, but the witness reaffirmed that he did.<sup>2297</sup> When asked if he could have left for some fresh air, to use the bathroom or to check on his vehicle, the witness admitted that upon their arrival at the commune office, Ndayambaje went to see Chrysologue, the bourgmestre of Muganza commune, in order to ask about the situation, but that she did not ask him what had happened and did not see Chrysologue herself.<sup>2298</sup> Then, according to the witness, Ndayambaje went to his room and never went out again.<sup>2299</sup>

1117. During cross-examination, Witness MARVA explained that it takes an hour to get to the commune office from Ndayambaje's house by foot. She conceded that from the time Ndayambaje left in the vehicle to the time the witness and the others arrived at the commune office, the witness did not see Ndayambaje and could not tell the Chamber what he was doing and where he had been.<sup>2300</sup> On cross-examination, she testified that when they arrived at the commune office premises, there were commune policemen there. She testified that she saw them as they moved about in the courtyard, every day, through the windows from the room in which she was locked in, or when she had to go to the restroom outside. She stated that she did not see these policemen greet and speak to Ndayambaje, however. She stated that she was with Ndayambaje inside the room, and could not see what was happening outside.<sup>2301</sup>

1118. Witness MARVA testified that Ndayambaje and the rest of the group remained in the same room throughout Thursday, 21 April 1994.<sup>2302</sup> They stayed in the same place until the following Saturday when the commune office was attacked and the group, including Ndayambaje, fled.<sup>2303</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness Father Tiziano Pegoraro

1119. Father Tiziano Pegoraro, an Italian priest, testified that from 1988 until 20 April 1994 he was the parish priest of Mugombwa.<sup>2304</sup> He had known Ndayambaje since 1983, when Ndayambaje was the bourgmestre of Muganza commune. In his capacity as parish priest, the witness worked with Ndayambaje on social and educational projects.<sup>2305</sup>

1120. Father Tiziano drew a sketch of Mugombwa Church (Defence Exhibit 677).<sup>2306</sup> He marked and explained the church's shape, the position of the church bell, the altar, the sacristy, and the seven doors and windows.<sup>2307</sup> From the inside the windows were 1.20 metres above the ground; from the outside the height differed because the church was built on a slope.<sup>2308</sup> The church was between 50 and 60 metres long.<sup>2309</sup>

1121. Father Tiziano testified that in the evenings, the church staff would close all doors from the inside, save for the last one which was closed from the outside with a padlock.<sup>2310</sup> He stated that the windows had opaque green glass, so it was not possible to look through them.<sup>2311</sup> He said that there were small benches in the church and that about 700 persons could be seated in the church. The church had no electricity; natural light came through the windows and roof.<sup>2312</sup> He testified that the distance between the church building and the priest's residence was about 20 metres.<sup>2313</sup>

1122. Father Tiziano testified that on 20 April 1994, at around 6.00 a.m., Ndayambaje knocked at his window and told him that there had been riots and that it was necessary to speak with Witness RV who lived close to the commune office.<sup>2314</sup> The witness and Ndayambaje therefore drove to Remera Hill, Muganza commune, in the parish vehicle.<sup>2315</sup>

1123. Father Tiziano testified that at the commune office, they first talked to a gendarme who went to fetch Witness RV from his residence.<sup>2316</sup> The witness later stated that he and Ndayambaje went directly to Witness RV's residence.<sup>2317</sup> Ndayambaje informed Witness RV about the riots and Witness RV said that he would deliver a speech at Kabuga Market around 9.00 a.m. to calm the population.<sup>2318</sup> Father Tiziano stated that the bourgmestre did not get into the witness' car on 20 April 1994, contrary to Witness RV's testimony.<sup>2319</sup> After speaking with the bourgmestre, Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje drove to Mugombwa Church in the parish vehicle. Ndayambaje got out of the vehicle and went home on foot, while Father Tiziano drove into the church premises with the vehicle.<sup>2320</sup>

1124. Father Tiziano testified that he walked to Ndayambaje's house at 9.00 a.m. on 20 April 1994, because they had agreed to drive together to Kabuga.<sup>2321</sup> The distance between his residence and that of Ndayambaje was approximately 500 metres.<sup>2322</sup> On his way, Father Tiziano encountered a group of violent people, armed with machetes and spears, and wearing banana leaves on their heads near the Chapel of Our Lady opposite the entrance of the health centre.<sup>2323</sup> They seemed to be drugged. Father Tiziano told them to go back home and not engage in violent activities.<sup>2324</sup>

1125. Father Tiziano continued walking towards Ndayambaje's residence. He met Ndayambaje on the road opposite his house talking with people. Ndayambaje said that they should wait for Witness RV before going to Kabuga, but mentioned that as the situation in Kabuga was dangerous, the witness was free to return home if the bourgmestre did not turn up. Ndayambaje then said that they would certainly not go to Kabuga. The witness waited for a few minutes for the bourgmestre and then returned to the parish on foot.<sup>2325</sup> That was the last time he saw Ndayambaje.<sup>2326</sup>

1126. Father Tiziano testified that he left Ndayambaje at around 9.30 a.m. When he returned to the parish around 60 refugees, men, women and children carrying arms, had gathered in the church.<sup>2327</sup> He went into the church and asked the refugees what they were doing in the church bearing arms. The refugees told him that they fled because there had been violence on their hills and at their homes.<sup>2328</sup> He asked them to leave and to find a safer place to hide, such as schools, because the witness had heard via radio that churches were not secure.<sup>2329</sup> On cross-examination, he added that he also asked them to put down the machetes, but only a few did so.<sup>2330</sup> The witness stated that he asked them to lay down the weapons because he did not think the refugees would be attacked in Mugombwa Church.<sup>2331</sup>

1127. Father Tiziano testified that when he left the church, he saw huts burning and people running away on the hillside opposite Saga parish, in Kibayi commune. One could see groups of people who were running away.<sup>2332</sup>

1128. Father Tiziano testified that at around 11.30 a.m., upon a suggestion of Bosco Munyaneza, the chef de cellule of Karonkano, he drove to the Muganza commune office to report the violent situation to the authorities.<sup>2333</sup> The witness stated that between 9.30 a.m. until the time he left at around 11.30 a.m., no vehicle passed the front of the church.<sup>2334</sup>

1129. Father Tiziano testified that at the Muganza commune office, he did not find any person of authority, besides a few policemen and the criminal investigations officer who asked the witness to give him a lift to Butare town, which Tiziano declined to do.<sup>2335</sup> At that moment, Brother Stan, a monk who worked in a Burundian refugee camp arrived by car at Muganza commune office. The witness and Brother Stan greeted each other and Brother Stan went with the criminal investigations officer to Butare.<sup>2336</sup>

1130. Father Tiziano testified that he left the commune office and drove towards Mugombwa.<sup>2337</sup> He met the bourgmestre's assistant, Bosco, about 10 metres from the commune office yard, who asked the witness to give him a lift to Bishya.<sup>2338</sup> The witness only allowed Bosco to sit in the back of the car, because Bosco was carrying a machete.<sup>2339</sup> On cross-examination, he added that he drove a blue single-cabin Toyota Hilux truck.<sup>2340</sup> He drove directly to Mugombwa Church.<sup>2341</sup>

1131. Father Tiziano testified that he drove inside the premises despite the fact that Bosco was armed. Bosco immediately left through the exit gate where he met Bosco Munyaneza, the chef de cellule. The witness saw that they were talking to each other but could not hear what they said.<sup>2342</sup>

1132. Father Tiziano testified that on returning to the parish at around 12:30 p.m., the church windows were broken and stones were lying in the yard.<sup>2343</sup> On the road leading to the health centre, the witness saw a group of armed individuals, some of them were sitting down, others were standing, and some of them were dancing around.<sup>2344</sup> His fellow clergymen told the witness that numerous armed individuals had attacked the church and that the body of a parishioner from Mugombwa,<sup>2345</sup> Chrysostome, was opposite the small staircase outside the brothers' accommodation. Chrysostome had been stoned to death. The witness assumed that the armed individuals, who he had seen previously, had participated in the attack on the church.<sup>2346</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that the attackers were of Hutu ethnicity.<sup>2347</sup>

1133. On cross-examination, Father Tiziano testified when he entered the church the second time at around 2.30 p.m., the number of refugees had increased to 200 or 300 people. He confirmed that most of them were Tutsis.<sup>2348</sup> The witness stated that they did not provide food to the refugees, as they had not asked for it and because the parish had nothing to give.<sup>2349</sup>

1134. Father Tiziano testified that in view of the violent situation, he and his fellow clergymen decided to leave the parish.<sup>2350</sup> At around 3.30 p.m., the witness left the parish together with the three nuns who were in charge of the Italian health centre, three clergymen and another Italian nun, who lived at the parish.<sup>2351</sup> They left in three vehicles, two belonging to the parish and one belonging to the health centre, driving through Bishya, Kibilizi and Tumba towards Butare town.<sup>2352</sup> On cross-examination, he testified that it took around one hour and 10 minutes to drive from Mugombwa to the centre of Butare town via Kibilizi.<sup>2353</sup>

1135. Father Tiziano testified that he did not inform any authorities about the incident.<sup>2354</sup> The witness stated that he presumed that Bosco, the assistant of the bourgmestre, and Bosco, the head of the cellule, discussed the incident and the refugees when they met just outside the precincts of the parish church.<sup>2355</sup> For that reason, Father Tiziano did not ask Bosco to give assistance with regard to the security of the refugees in the church and in the area as a whole.<sup>2356</sup>

1136. Ndayambaje parked Monique's vehicle in the parking lot of the parish on 19 April 1994 because it was the only protected parking lot.<sup>2357</sup> It remained there when Father Tiziano left on 20 April 1994.<sup>2358</sup>

1138. Brother Stan testified that attacks against the Tutsis had commenced on 18 April 1994.<sup>2363</sup>

1139. Brother Stan testified that he saw Ndayambaje's mother at Ndayambaje's house prior to 20 April 1994, and he believed she was ill at the time. He did not know if she travelled with Ndayambaje to Kibayi later, he did not know what happened to her.<sup>2364</sup>

that he saw Ndayambaje in the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle on 23 April 1994 near the Saga camp.<sup>2367</sup> The witness saw Ndayambaje with Monique's car and the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle in the month of May 1994.<sup>2368</sup>

1141. Brother Stan testified that the Mugombwa health centre was run by Italian nuns who left with Father Tiziano on 20 April 1994. Brother Stan testified that he had heard that after the nuns left, the patients at the health centre were taken to the church in the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>2369</sup>

1142. Brother Stan testified that at 8.00 a.m. on the morning of 20 April 1994, he set off to the Kibayi commune office from the Saga camp where he was staying. He was delivering supplies to those who had sought refuge there.<sup>2370</sup> The distance between Saga and Kibayi is approximately 15 kilometres and the witness arrived there between 8.30 and 9.00 a.m.<sup>2371</sup> He was stopped by the commune office secretary in Kibayi who told him that there was insecurity in the commune and he asked Brother Stan to accompany him to inform the bourgmestre of Kibayi commune who was in Butare.<sup>2372</sup> Brother Stan agreed and they set off in the normal direction, passing by the Saga camp towards Kabuga, Mugombwa, Bishya and on to Butare.<sup>2373</sup>

1143. Brother Stan testified that after having gone past the Saga camp, before getting to Kabuga, a crowd of hundreds or thousands of people with spears and machetes surrounded the vehicle and climbed onto it, so they could not continue to Kabuga. The crowd was saying that they were going to fight at Kabuga.<sup>2374</sup> He testified that he drove slowly backwards towards the Saga camp. Just before getting to the Saga camp, he drove on the road which leads from Saga to Saga 2 and on towards Kirarambogo.<sup>2375</sup>

1144. Brother Stan testified that he arrived at the Muganza commune office at about 12.30 p.m. on 20 April 1994.<sup>2376</sup> He was informed that Ndayambaje and his family had sought refuge there.<sup>2377</sup> He stopped at the commune office to ask for authorisation to drive around. The bourgmestre was not there but he saw Father Tiziano from Mugombwa Parish who was leaving when he arrived.<sup>2378</sup>

1145. Brother Stan testified that he met the criminal investigations officer at the commune office who asked if he could accompany Brother Stan to Butare.<sup>2379</sup> They went in the direction of Mugombwa Parish in order to pick up some fuel.<sup>2380</sup>

1146. From Muganza commune to Mugombwa Parish the witness travelled with the commune secretary of Kibayi and the criminal investigations officer. On arrival in Bishya, the criminal investigations officer asked the witness to take Mr. Fidèle, the district judge, his wife who was about to give birth, and a young girl in the vehicle. They travelled together in the vehicle towards the Mugombwa health centre.<sup>2381</sup> He testified that he arrived in Mugombwa Parish at about 1.00 or 1.30 p.m.<sup>2382</sup> He was not able to go any further than the parish because the vehicle was surrounded by a group of people armed with machetes and spears and he was concerned because the district judge was with him. The district judge, his wife and the young girl were Tutsis.<sup>2383</sup> The crowd was hostile because of the presence of the district judge in the car. He reversed and when he was level with his house he shouted that he needed petrol, and two jerry cans were put in his vehicle.<sup>2384</sup> The witness testified that the land in front of the parish was empty. He had gone past the church in order to go to the health centre when the gang appeared.<sup>2385</sup>

1147. Brother Stan testified that on leaving Mugombwa Parish he proceeded to the MRND Palace in Butare where the bourgmestre's meeting was being held.<sup>2386</sup> On the way to Butare, the witness' car was stopped at a roadblock manned by armed soldiers.<sup>2387</sup> Those travelling in the vehicle were asked for their identity papers.<sup>2388</sup> Mr. Fidèle and the young girl travelling with him had their documents. Mr. Fidèle's wife, who was about to give birth, did not have an identity card. She was asked to get out of the vehicle, and Mr. Fidèle stayed with his wife at that roadblock. Brother Stan dropped off the girl at Bihira's place, and on his return, stopped at the roadblock to find out whether Mr. Fidèle and his wife were still there. He was told that they had gone to the hospital. He did not attempt to find out what happened to them. He never saw them again.<sup>2389</sup> Given the circumstances at the time, he believed they were killed but he did not know where or when.<sup>2390</sup>

commune secretary from Kibayi commune. He dropped the criminal investigations officer off at the Muganza commune office at about 5.00 or 5.30 p.m.<sup>2392</sup>

1149. Brother Stan testified that on arrival at the commune office that evening, he was informed that Ndayambaje and his family had sought refuge there but he did not see him. He spent the night of 20 April 1994 at Saga refugee camp.<sup>2393</sup>

1150. Brother Stan testified that the massacre at Mugombwa Church began on 21 April 1994.<sup>2394</sup> He testified that on 21 April 1994, he heard grenades explode at the level of Mugombwa Church which was a little more than a kilometre from Saga camp as the crowd flies.<sup>2395</sup> He remained at Saga camp throughout 22 April 1994 until the morning of 23 April 1994. He did not hear anything out of the ordinary.<sup>2396</sup>

1151. Brother Stan testified that because there was a food shortage in Saga camp, he left the camp with some students and went to Mugombwa Parish to get food supplies which were stored near the old church and the Amici house. As they drove past the church, the witness noticed that there were bodies of people who had been killed everywhere on the parish ground.<sup>2397</sup> He did not enter Mugombwa Church on 23 April 1994. With the car, he drove through the bodies to the stores, got the food supplies and returned to Saga camp in the evening.<sup>2398</sup> On seeing the dead bodies, he decided to flee Rwanda the following day but he was turned back at the Burundian border on 24 April 1994.<sup>2399</sup>

1152. There were Burundian refugees who participated in the killings on or around 20 April 1994, some from the Saga camp where he worked, but the bulk of Burundian refugees remained locked up in their houses at the refugee camp.<sup>2400</sup> He informed the bourgmestre that some of the Burundian refugees were involved in the killings.<sup>2401</sup> He did not make any attempt to disarm the refugees in the camp who had machetes. He was a simple priest, and in his mind, machetes had never been weapons as such.<sup>2402</sup> The Burundian refugees were not armed. They had hoes, as everybody did, and everyone had machetes. They were not weapons. They were tools which they used in April 1994. Some of them used them in April 1994, but they were not weapons. There was no possible measure to rid the persons of their tools which they needed for their work.<sup>2403</sup> During April 1994 the refugees remained in the camps, and wherever possible, they would render or carry out agricultural work for Rwandans living around the camp.<sup>2404</sup> The Burundian refugees were not armed. They had agricultural instruments. Brother Stan did not inform the préfecture authorities because he did not know how.<sup>2405</sup>

1153. When referred to his previous statement to the Belgian judge, Vandermeersch, dated 24 November 1995, the witness testified that his statement was incorrect and that he saw Ndayambaje on 23 April 1994, on his way to Kibayi with his family, not on 27 or 28 April 1994 as recorded in the statement.<sup>2406</sup> Brother Stan testified that the judge was mistaken.<sup>2407</sup>

1156. Brother Stan testified that on 25 April 1994, he decided to start burying the dead who were lying around Mugombwa Church and on the road leading up to it. He went to the church with a group of about 20 Burundian refugees to start the burial.<sup>2412</sup> There were about 200 dead people inside the church, most of whom were children, women and the elderly. There were about 200 dead bodies on the grounds in front of the church and the primary school classes, and there were some dead bodies scattered here and there in the woods or on the pitch near the old church.<sup>2413</sup> He clarified that the burials started on 25 April 1994 and went on for more than a week, until 2 or 3 May 1994.<sup>2414</sup>

1157. Brother Stan testified that he saw that the Mugombwa health centre had reopened after he had completed burying the dead.<sup>2415</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness ANGES

1159. Witness ANGES, a Hutu shopkeeper from Muganza commune, testified that the road from Kibayi to Mugombwa passed by the Bishya shopping centre.<sup>2417</sup> Bishya and Mugombwa were around one and a half kilometres from each other. Her house and shop were around three metres away from the road and she could see everything that was happening on the road and at the Bishya shopping centre.<sup>2418</sup>

1160. Witness ANGES testified that the road forked in different directions at the Bishya shopping centre. One road led to the forest; a second led to the church; and a third went to the Muganza commune office. The distance between Bishya shopping centre and the commune office was around two to three kilometres.<sup>2419</sup> In Bishya, there was another main road going from Bishya to Butare.<sup>2420</sup>

1161. Witness ANGES testified that on Wednesday, 20 April 1994, which was a market day, she went with her husband on his motorcycle to Ndayambaje's house.<sup>2421</sup> Around 20 metres before Ndayambaje's house, the witness saw around 30 to 50 persons with traditional weapons. They were shouting and seemed to be searching for people.<sup>2422</sup>

1162. Witness ANGES testified that she and her husband arrived at Ndayambaje's house around 7.30 or 8.00 a.m. When she entered the house she met Chanvrièr, a teacher from APAME who had sought refuge at Ndayambaje's house because assailants had wanted to kill him.<sup>2423</sup> In cross-examination, the witness confirmed that Chanvrièr was still alive in July 1994.<sup>2424</sup>

1163. Witness ANGES testified that she could not go to work that day due to the insecure situation and the attackers outside. On cross-examination, the witness stated that when Ndayambaje heard about the attackers, he became frightened and remained at home.<sup>2425</sup> Witness ANGES said that she spent around one hour at Ndayambaje's house because they could still hear the noise from the attacks on the road.<sup>2426</sup> Afterwards, the witness and her husband drove home on the way through the forest below Mugombwa Parish, arriving at home between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m.<sup>2427</sup>

1164. Witness ANGES testified that after she returned home, she remained at her house that day. Around midday, she saw Ndayambaje being chauffeured in a vehicle on the road from Mugombwa heading towards the Muganza commune office in Remera.<sup>2428</sup> In cross-examination, Witness ANGES testified that she stayed the whole day in front of her house. She only went inside her house to use the bathroom twice and to eat her meal.<sup>2429</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness BOZAN

1165. Witness BOZAN, a Hutu civil servant from Muganza commune, used to attend mass at Mugombwa Church in 1994.<sup>2430</sup> The witness testified that the church had metallic windows which could not be opened and the panes were multi-coloured.<sup>2431</sup> He indicated that from inside the church, one could not see anybody outside through those windows and vice versa.<sup>2432</sup> On cross-examination, the witness testified that Mugombwa Parish was in Nyarunazi cellule and that he lived two kilometres from the parish and the Statue of the Virgin Mary.<sup>2433</sup>

1166. The witness did not see Ndayambaje travelling in the pickup belonging to the Muganza commune between April and June 1994.<sup>2434</sup>

1168. Witness BOZAN testified that the Mugombwa dispensary was shut from 20 April 1994 onwards due to insecurity in the area.<sup>2438</sup>

1169. On cross-examination, Witness BOZAN testified that in the morning of 20 April 1994, around 9.30 a.m., Augustin Ntambara, who was the catechist at Mugombwa Parish, came to the witness' home to inform him of the situation at the church.<sup>2439</sup> Ntambara begged the witness to come with him to the church so they went there together and reached the place after 30 minutes walk. Upon their arrival, Ntambara pointed out to the witness a group of persons who had gathered outside the church and another group locked up in the church.<sup>2440</sup> He saw three groups of people numbering about 15 in one group and 20 in another. One group was by the road leading to the health centre, one group was by the school by the church and one group was by the convent.<sup>2441</sup> There was a group of men in the church courtyard who were armed with clubs and short sticks. There were people inside the church; the witness could not see them but could hear their voices. He testified that the assailants had not yet started throwing stones at the church.<sup>2442</sup>

1170. Witness BOZAN testified that the assailants did not appreciate his presence at the church. Realising this, the witness went to see Côme, a.k.a. Kosima, the parish gardener to accompany him to look for the priest inside the presbytery.<sup>2443</sup> The priest, Father Tiziano said that he was overwhelmed by the events. The witness asked him to go and inform the bourgmestre.<sup>2444</sup>

1171. Father Tiziano took his car and rushed to the commune office.<sup>2445</sup> Before leaving, Father Tiziano asked the witness to stay there so as to prevent the thugs from gaining access to his home.<sup>2446</sup> Father Tiziano was alone on that day but normally he lived with Brother Stan.<sup>2447</sup>

1172. The witness testified that assailants started throwing stones and broke one window of the church right after the priest's departure, around 11.15 or 11.20 a.m.<sup>2448</sup> He was standing in front of the presbytery gate and could see that only one window was broken.<sup>2449</sup> The witness denied that he took part in the attack on the church.<sup>2450</sup> He testified that he was unarmed and frightened and stayed to the side of the attack.<sup>2451</sup> He talked to one of the assailants, Samson, who was not happy with his presence there and told him "this isn't yourself".<sup>2452</sup> Witness BOZAN admitted that the assailants knew of his presence at the priest's residence during the attack.<sup>2453</sup>

1173. Witness BOZAN testified that he witnessed the murder of Chrysostome by a group of 15 to 20 assailants from his position on the veranda.<sup>2454</sup> The assailants chased Chrysostome while he was running in the direction of the convent of the nuns, he was carrying a sword, and the assailants chased him. Chrysostome went through the entrance to the presbytery used by the priest to say mass and the assailants killed him with stones which had been left there for the construction of the church.<sup>2455</sup> He was killed on the stairs by the door to the priest's residence.<sup>2456</sup> The witness recognised Samson, Cyabarene, Innocent and Kalinda among the killers.<sup>2457</sup>

1174. On Friday, 22 April 1994, the witness reported the murder of Chrysostome to the conseiller who, in turn, handed the matter over to André, a member of the cellule, who was supposed to bring the report to the commune office.<sup>2458</sup> Despite the report, those four thugs were not arrested. He added that those individuals were also involved in the killings of Tutsis in his area between April and July 1994.<sup>2459</sup>

1175. Witness BOZAN testified that Father Tiziano returned at around 12.30 p.m.; he was accompanied by the assistant bourgmestre, Bosco Nshimiyimana, in a blue single-cabin Hilux.<sup>2460</sup> The witness reported to Father Tiziano and the assistant bourgmestre about what happened during their absence and showed them Chrysostome's corpse and the broken window. The attackers were still in the church courtyard, on the road leading to the health centre and on the road leading to his house, and were watching Witness BOZAN and Father Tiziano.<sup>2461</sup> The witness denied the Prosecution's suggestion that he was walking around comfortably among the assailants, but testified that the assailants were angry with him.<sup>2462</sup>

1176. Witness BOZAN testified that the attack was over by the time Father Tiziano and Bosco arrived at the church.<sup>2463</sup> Bosco Nshimiyimana wore a machete on his belt.<sup>2464</sup> Bosco Nshimiyimana was among those who perpetrated genocide in Mugombwa but it happened after he was no longer assistant bourgmestre.<sup>2465</sup>

1177. Witness BOZAN testified that he went home at around 1.00 p.m. to assist his wife who was about to give birth.<sup>2466</sup> He testified that he did not return to the church after the afternoon of 21 April 1994 and did not leave his cellule except to go to the market at Kabuga until he left the country in July 1994.<sup>2467</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness SHICO

1178. Witness SHICO, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune married to a Tutsi in 1994, testified that two weeks after the President's death, the situation changed in the witness' commune. It was being said that the RPF was attacking people and killing them.<sup>2468</sup>

1179. Witness SHICO testified that she went to mass with her husband at Mugombwa Church at 6.00 a.m. on a Wednesday when war broke out.<sup>2469</sup> It was Easter and many people attended church that day in order to have their children baptised.<sup>2470</sup> At the end of mass people from Mugombwa, Kibayi and Saga came into the church and said that war had broken out and that people were trying to kill them.<sup>2471</sup> The witness and her husband were frightened and left the church. On their way home – around half an hour on foot – the witness noticed smoke and houses on fire.<sup>2472</sup>

1180. Witness SHICO testified that she heard that people had been killed at Mugombwa Church but she did not witness the killings because she had sought refuge on Kabuye Hill.<sup>2473</sup>

Ndayambaje

1181. Ndayambaje testified that on 20 April 1994 at around 6.00 a.m., he noticed that houses were burning on the hills of Saga and Kibayi.<sup>2474</sup> He decided to go and see the parish priest of Mugombwa, Father Tiziano, so that they could go together and warn the commune authorities about what was happening.<sup>2475</sup> Mugombwa Church was 500 metres away from Ndayambaje's residence and he went there on foot.<sup>2476</sup> Ndayambaje met Father Tiziano in his room and immediately thereafter they headed to the commune office in Remera in Father Tiziano's car, a blue single-cabin Toyota Hilux pickup.<sup>2477</sup> On arriving at the commune office, they met a security guard who told Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano that the bourgmestre was still asleep.<sup>2478</sup> After a wait of 30 or 40 minutes, the bourgmestre came and Ndayambaje reported what he had seen on the hills of Saga and Kibayi.<sup>2479</sup> The bourgmestre said that he had to go to Butare for a meeting but that he would first stop at Mugombwa to assess the situation.<sup>2480</sup> The bourgmestre stated that he would meet Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano at Ndayambaje's home so that they could go to Kabuga together to address the population.<sup>2481</sup> Thereafter, Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano returned to Mugombwa, still aboard Father Tiziano's car.<sup>2482</sup> They left the bourgmestre at the commune office.<sup>2483</sup> Father Tiziano dropped Ndayambaje off at the presbytery between 7.00 and 8.00 a.m. in front of the church. Ndayambaje continued on foot towards his residence.<sup>2484</sup>

1182. When he arrived home he found a man known as Chanvrier who had come to seek refuge.<sup>2485</sup> Ndayambaje took Chanvrier to the guest room to rest.<sup>2486</sup> At around 9.00 a.m., Father Tiziano came to see Ndayambaje on the road outside his home where they were supposed to meet with the bourgmestre.<sup>2487</sup> Ndayambaje, Father Tiziano and the bourgmestre had agreed that the three of them would go and address the population at the marketplace of

Kabuga, however the bourgmestre did not show up.<sup>2488</sup> Father Tiziano therefore decided to return home (to the parish).<sup>2489</sup>

1185. Ndayambaje testified that around 1.00 p.m.,<sup>2498</sup> he went with Witness KEPIR and a gendarme to Butare aboard the vehicle belonging to an international organisation, to notify the bourgmestre of the deteriorating situation.<sup>2499</sup> The vehicle was a blue double-cabin Toyota Hilux.<sup>2500</sup> On cross-examination, Ndayambaje testified that they took the road through Gisagara because Gisagara was still safe.<sup>2501</sup> They went directly to Butare through Gisagara in Ndora commune.<sup>2502</sup> It was impossible for them to access the MRND hall where the bourgmestres attended a meeting.<sup>2503</sup> However, the driver of the Muganza commune vehicle, Charles Habakurama saw and approached them.<sup>2504</sup> Ndayambaje talked to Charles Habakurama and asked him to convey a message to the bourgmestre.<sup>2505</sup> On cross-examination, he testified that the meeting was between the préfet and bourgmestres.<sup>2506</sup>

1186. Ndayambaje testified that thereafter he and the others returned to Muganza using the same road.<sup>2507</sup> They reached the commune office between 4.00 and 5.00 p.m.<sup>2508</sup> Witness KEPIR's family also joined the others at the commune office premises, along with other people.<sup>2509</sup> He did not leave the commune office after his return from Butare on 20 April 1994.<sup>2510</sup> The blue vehicle belonging to the international organisation was parked at the parking lot of the commune office.<sup>2511</sup>

1188. Ndayambaje testified that during that night, explosions were heard from Mugombwa area.<sup>2515</sup> He added that like everyone else, Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana was also frightened by these explosions and deterred him from going to Mugombwa Parish.<sup>2516</sup> Ndayambaje testified that the blue vehicle belonging to an international organisation and the commune vehicle were the only vehicles which were parked at the commune office on that day.<sup>2517</sup> He did not leave the commune office after his return from Butare on 20 April 1994.<sup>2518</sup> Ndayambaje did not travel in the commune vehicle on 20 April 1994.<sup>2519</sup> On cross-examination, Ndayambaje testified that there were five or six kilometres between Mugombwa Parish and the Muganza commune office.<sup>2520</sup>

1189. Ndayambaje testified that he remained at the Muganza commune office throughout 21 April 1994.<sup>2521</sup> The situation had seriously deteriorated as other people came to the commune office fleeing the violence on the hills.<sup>2522</sup> In the afternoon, further explosions were heard. Ndayambaje testified that nobody dared to leave the Muganza commune office, including Bourgmestre Chrysologue Bimenyimana. Because of the insecurity, Witness RV also spent the night at the commune office. In the morning, Ndayambaje and Witness RV found each other in the internal courtyard of the commune compound.<sup>2523</sup>

1190. On cross-examination, Ndayambaje testified that there were only two vehicles which were parked at the commune office parking lot on 21 April 1994, the PAMU vehicle and the Muganza commune car.<sup>2524</sup> Ndayambaje testified that Ngiryi Bridge and the Mugombwa Parish church were 25 kilometres apart and the distance could be covered in more than one hour, given the state of the roads. He added that the road between Remera and Ngiryi River was rough, very slippery and rocky.<sup>2525</sup>

1191. Ndayambaje testified that he did not go to Mugombwa Church on 21 April 1994 to distribute machetes and axes.<sup>2526</sup> He spent the night with his family in the classroom of the IGA.<sup>2527</sup>

1192. Ndayambaje testified that on 22 April 1994, he went to Mugombwa Parish to pick up Monique's car, to check on his house and to check on his mother who had been admitted to the health centre.<sup>2528</sup> He got a lift with Witness RV and the commune driver in the white Toyota pickup. Witness RV dropped him at the Statue of the Virgin Mary in front of the Mugombwa health centre.<sup>2529</sup> Ndayambaje retrieved Monique's car which was parked at the parish priest's house and went on towards his house.<sup>2530</sup> When he arrived at his house he learned that his mother and grandmother had sought temporary refuge at his house. They had already left when he arrived and had returned to their houses in Cyumba secteur, Muganza commune.<sup>2531</sup> Ndayambaje returned to the commune office 45 minutes to an hour later, around noon.<sup>2532</sup>

1193. At around 2.00 p.m. he went to the Kirarambogo health centre with Witness KEPIR, a driver and a gendarme to pick up the Kirarambogo health centre pickup truck after which they returned to the commune office. The trip took about two hours.<sup>2533</sup>

1194. It is not disputed that a massacre took place at Mugombwa Church on 20 and 21 April 1994. The issue before the Chamber is what role, if any, Ndayambaje had in the massacre.

1195. With respect to the scale of the massacre, Witness QAR testified that the church was crowded with thousands of Tutsis on the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>2534</sup> She testified that she was one of seven women who survived the attack on the second day, 21 April 1994.<sup>2535</sup> Her testimony was corroborated by Witness FAG who estimated that there were about 5,000 Tutsis inside the church during the attack in the afternoon of 21 April 1994.<sup>2536</sup> He did not stay at the church until the end of the attack and did not know whether anybody survived, although he presumed not.<sup>2537</sup> Witness RV testified that on the afternoon of 21 April 1994, he saw about 1,000 corpses in the church grounds.<sup>2538</sup> Most of the victims were Tutsis.<sup>2539</sup> He saw no survivors.<sup>2540</sup> Brother Stan testified that he began burying the dead bodies in the church and its surrounding area on 25 April 1994 with a group of about 20 Burundian refugees.<sup>2541</sup> There were about 200 dead people inside the church and about 200 dead bodies in the surrounding grounds.<sup>2542</sup> It took more than a week to bury the dead.<sup>2543</sup> Witness FAU gave hearsay testimony that 2,000 Tutsis were killed in the massacre at the church.<sup>2544</sup> The Chamber finds that the eyewitness testimony of Witnesses QAR, FAG, RV and Brother Stan, and the hearsay testimony of Witness FAU, establishes that hundreds, if not thousands, of Tutsis died in the massacre at Mugombwa Church on 20 and 21 April 1994.

1196. Witnesses BOZAN, GABON, KEPIR, MARVA and ANGES gave alibi evidence that they were with Ndayambaje, in various locations, on 20 and 21 April 1994 and that Ndayambaje did not participate in or facilitate the massacre at Mugombwa Church.

1197. The Chamber observes that the Ndayambaje Defence did not file a formal notice of alibi before the start of the trial. The Chamber recalls that the Defence only filed an “additional” notice of alibi identifying its witnesses on 29 April 2008.<sup>2545</sup> The Chamber recalls the applicable law relating to notice of alibi set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (). The Chamber recalls the Chamber’s Decision of 1 March 2005, on the Prosecutor’s Motion to be Served with Particulars of Alibi, in which the Chamber directed the Defence to make the necessary disclosure if it wished to rely on alibi evidence.<sup>2546</sup> The Chamber observes that the Ndayambaje Defence did not comply with the Chamber’s Decision, despite the clear intention, evidenced in the Ndayambaje Pre-Defence Brief that it intended to rely on alibi evidence.

1198. The Prosecution complained about the Avis additionnel et identification des témoins d’alibi indicating that Ndayambaje was contesting the Prosecution evidence placing him at Mugombwa Church.<sup>2547</sup> The Avis additionnel states that Ndayambaje had sought refuge at the Muganza commune office during the Mugombwa Church massacre. It was served on the Prosecution just over one month before the Ndayambaje Defence case commenced. The Chamber finds that the Avis additionnel is no substitute for providing the Prosecution with formal notice of alibi in accordance with the Rules. The Chamber reiterates that it is settled case law that where good cause is not shown for the application of Rule 67 (B), which states that the Defence’s failure to file a notice of alibi under Rule 67 (A) shall not limit the accused's right to rely on an alibi defence, the Chamber is entitled to take such failure into account when weighing the credibility of the alibi.<sup>2548</sup> The Chamber further notes that Witness MARVA and Father Tiziano, who also gave evidence in support of Ndayambaje's alibi, were not named in the Avis additionnel. Witness MARVA was reinstated to the Ndayambaje Defence's witness list on 4 June 2008, after having been initially removed on 23 January 2006.<sup>2549</sup> The Chamber also recalls that in cross-examination by the Ndayambaje Defence, the Prosecution witnesses were not confronted with the Defence's assertion that Ndayambaje could not have been at the scene of the events because he had an alibi. This further detracts from the credibility of the alibi.

1199. As to the credibility of the alibi witnesses, the Chamber recalls that all of the alibi witnesses have close ties to Ndayambaje. Witness GABON is a former policeman employed by Ndayambaje.<sup>2550</sup> Witness MARVA was an employee of Ndayambaje.<sup>2551</sup> Witness KEPIR lived and worked a short distance from the commune office in Remera, he used to report to Ndayambaje on matters related to his professional activities and accompanied him on various trips throughout Butare in the latter half of April 1994.<sup>2552</sup> Witness KEPIR also testified that he was a friend of Ndayambaje.<sup>2553</sup> Witness BIDI is a friend of Ndayambaje.<sup>2554</sup> Accordingly, their evidence must be reviewed bearing these personal ties in mind. Furthermore, Witness KEPIR is implicated in the massacres at Kabuye Hill by eyewitness accounts of two Prosecution witnesses.<sup>2555</sup> This evidence also has a bearing on Witness KEPIR's credibility ( ).

1200. Father Tiziano testified that Ndayambaje came to see him at about 6.00 a.m. on 20 April 1994 and together they went to see Witness RV.<sup>2556</sup> They left the commune office together and the witness dropped Ndayambaje near his home at an unspecified time before 9.00 a.m.; the witness later saw Ndayambaje again at the latter's home around 9.00 a.m.<sup>2557</sup> This is consistent with Ndayambaje's account of his movements on the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>2558</sup> Witness RV on the other hand testified that Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano did indeed come to see him at 6.00 a.m. but contradicts their assertions that they later waited for him in vain outside Ndayambaje's residence at 9.00 a.m. in order to go to Kabuga to address the population. Instead, Witness RV contends that he went to Ndayambaje's residence at around 7.30 a.m. and informed Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano that he was going to Butare.<sup>2559</sup>

day.<sup>2560</sup> She subsequently met up with him at the house of Witness KEPIR, near the commune office.<sup>2561</sup> Witness MARVA, Ndayambaje and his family went to the commune office and remained in the IGA building, until Saturday, 23 April 1994.<sup>2562</sup> Ndayambaje did not leave the IGA building during that time.<sup>2563</sup> Witness MARVA's testimony is, however, contradicted by Witness KEPIR who testified that Ndayambaje spent the night of 20 April 1994 in the courtyard of the commune office.<sup>2564</sup> Her testimony is also contradicted by that of Witness GABON who stated that he saw Ndayambaje playing cards in the courtyard with other refugees, away from the IGA building.<sup>2565</sup> Furthermore, the Chamber recalls that Ndayambaje himself testified that on the morning of 21 April 1994, he met with Chrysologue Bimenyimana in the courtyard of the commune compound.<sup>2566</sup>

1202. The Chamber observes that Father Tiziano's testimony contradicts that of Ndayambaje and Witness RV regarding Ndayambaje's movements on 20 April 1994. Father Tiziano testified that he went to Ndayambaje's house at about 9.30 a.m. and left shortly afterwards to return to the parish.<sup>2567</sup> This was the last time that he saw Ndayambaje.<sup>2568</sup> He further testified that when he drove to the Muganza commune office at around 11.30 a.m. to report the situation to the authorities, he was alone.<sup>2569</sup> This contradicts Ndayambaje's testimony that he went to Father Tiziano's house at 6.00 a.m. and that they went to the Muganza commune office together to warn the authorities of the insecurity in the area.<sup>2570</sup> Ndayambaje's testimony is in concordance with that of Witness RV who testified that he was woken at 6.00 a.m. by Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano warning him of insecurity in the area. Witness RV further testified that Father Tiziano drove the witness and Ndayambaje to the commune office.<sup>2571</sup>

1203. Addressing first the morning of 20 April 1994, the Chamber considers that the evidence of Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano on Ndayambaje's presence at his home at around 9.00 a.m. is not credible. The Chamber recalls that as an Accused, Ndayambaje's testimony must be treated with appropriate caution as he has a personal interest in demonstrating that he was not present at Ngiriyi Bridge on the morning of 20 April 1994. The Chamber also has doubts regarding the credibility of Father Tiziano.

1204. Father Tiziano testified that there were only about 60 people seeking refuge at the church by 9.30 a.m. on 20 April 1994 and they were armed.<sup>2572</sup> Father Tiziano asked those seeking refuge in the church to leave because it was not safe. On cross-examination, he testified that he asked them to lay down their weapons because he did not think the refugees would be attacked in the church.<sup>2573</sup> The Chamber finds his testimony to be contradictory. The Chamber observes that Witnesses QAR and FAU gave first-hand testimony that Father Tiziano attempted to, or succeeded in locking the doors to the church in the morning of 20 April 1994 before leaving the site.<sup>2574</sup> Witness QAR testified that Father Tiziano tried to lock the door after a quarrel with those outside the church.<sup>2575</sup> Witness FAU testified that Father Tiziano locked the door to the church; he heard that the priest was going to Butare to fetch help for the refugees.<sup>2576</sup> Further, Father Tiziano testified that he went to the Muganza commune office to report the situation but there were no authorities at the commune office.<sup>2577</sup> However, Father Tiziano also testified that he met Bosco, the bourgmestre's assistant about 10 metres from the commune office. According to Father Tiziano's testimony, Bosco was armed with a machete and Father Tiziano and Bosco returned to Mugombwa Church together.<sup>2578</sup> Father Tiziano testified that he left the parish in the afternoon of 20 April 1994 due to the violent situation. He did not ask Bosco for help in ensuring the security of those seeking refuge in the church.<sup>2579</sup>

1205. Considering the testimony of Witnesses QAR and FAU placing Father Tiziano at the massacre site and Father Tiziano's incentive to minimise his role, in addition to his testimony that he did not request help for those seeking refuge in the church, the Chamber finds Father Tiziano's testimony not credible as to the sequence of events in the morning of 20 April 1994.

1206. In this connection, the Chamber refers to the convincing eyewitness testimony of Witnesses QAR and FAU that Father Tiziano locked those seeking refuge inside the church, who were later massacred. This witness may have had an incentive to minimise his involvement in the events of 1994 or at least minimise the role of Ndayambaje, a long-standing acquaintance. For these reasons, the Chamber does not consider the alibi evidence provided by Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje to be reasonably possibly true, and therefore finds it does not raise a reasonable doubt as to the Prosecution's case that Ndayambaje was at Ngiryi Bridge early in the morning of 20 April 1994.

1207. As regards the evidence of Witness MARVA, the Chamber notes that she said she saw Ndayambaje at an unspecified time in the morning of 20 April 1994 when he hid Chanvrier in the guest room.<sup>2580</sup> Witness MARVA could not specify at what time Ndayambaje left his home or the time when he was reunited with his family and the witness at Witness KEPİR's residence. Her evidence was simply that a decision was taken to flee on the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>2581</sup> kilometres.<sup>2583</sup> The distance between Ngiryi and Remera is approximately 25 kilometres, a journey that would take around one hour by car.<sup>2584</sup> On this basis, Ndayambaje would have needed between two and three hours on the morning of 20 April 1994 to travel from his home in Mugombwa secteur to Ngiryi and from Ngiryi back to his home or to Witness KEPIR's residence.

1209. In assessing the alibi evidence for 20 April 1994, the Chamber considers it to be significant that Witness MARVA did not testify to the whereabouts of the Accused during a substantial part of the morning of 20 April 1994. Although Ndayambaje may not have had time to travel to Gisagara before going to Witness KEPIR's home near the commune office, the Chamber considers that he could have made a return trip from his home to Gisagara in the time between being seen by Witness RV at around 7.30 a.m. and hiding Chanvrier in his guest room, as testified to by Witness MARVA. In the absence of any other explanation for the Accused's whereabouts, the Chamber considers that the Defence alibi evidence is not reasonably possibly true, and therefore finds it does not raise a reasonable doubt in the Prosecution case as regards the morning of 20 April 1994.

1210. Ndayambaje testified that he was picked up from his home at around noon, and was reunited with his family later that afternoon, before 1.00 p.m.<sup>2585</sup> Witness MARVA testified that it took one hour for the car that first collected Ndayambaje to return and pick up the witness.<sup>2586</sup> The car then had to travel approximately six kilometres from Mugombwa secteur, where Ndayambaje lived, to nearby the Muganza commune office in Remera to drop the witness off at Witness KEPIR's residence, a journey that takes around one hour by foot or approximately 15 minutes by car.<sup>2587</sup> Taking this evidence together, Ndayambaje would have been out of Witness MARVA's sight for between one and a quarter and one and a half hours. This is consistent with Ndayambaje's account of the time lapse between his departure from home and the arrival of his family at Witness KEPIR's house.

and the church; a distance of approximately six kilometres and an estimated 15 minutes by car.<sup>2590</sup>

1212. Ndayambaje testified that his mother was being cared for at the Mugombwa health centre from 20 April 1994 and this is why she did not join him and the rest of his family at the Muganza commune office.<sup>2591</sup> The Chamber finds his account doubtful. When he heard explosions on 20 April 1994 Ndayambaje testified that he decided to evacuate his family to the commune office. He did not, however, collect his mother from the health centre despite the proximity of the health centre to his house and the ease with which she could have been evacuated with the rest of his family. Furthermore, Father Tiziano testified that he left Mugombwa Parish along with the three nuns who were in charge of the health centre in the afternoon of 20 April 1994.<sup>2592</sup> In the Chamber's view this casts doubt on the version of events given by Ndayambaje. Ndayambaje testified that he left with his family to seek refuge in Kibayi commune on the afternoon of 23 April 1994.<sup>2593</sup> He did not testify that his mother joined the rest of his family in Kibayi commune. The Chamber does not find Ndayambaje's account regarding his whereabouts, and those of his mother on 20 April 1994 to be convincing.

1213. Brother Stan gave hearsay testimony that Ndayambaje and his family had sought refuge at the Muganza commune office when he arrived there at approximately 12.30 p.m. on 20 April 1994.<sup>2594</sup> The Chamber has doubts regarding Brother Stan's credibility. Brother Stan testified that attacks against the Tutsis had started by 18 April 1994.<sup>2595</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds it curious that two days later, he left two Tutsis; Mr. Fidèle and his pregnant wife, at a roadblock manned by armed soldiers.<sup>2596</sup> He did not attempt to find out what happened to them but he believed they may have been killed.<sup>2597</sup> This incident casts doubt on his credibility.

1214. The Chamber observes that Brother Stan acknowledged that Burundian refugees from the Saga camp where he worked participated in the killings on and around 20 April 1994.<sup>2598</sup> By his own admission, he did not make any attempt to disarm the refugees in the camp who had machetes, stating that he was a simple priest. He testified that in his view machetes were not weapons and the Burundian refugees were therefore not armed.<sup>2599</sup> In his view, there was no way he could confiscate their machetes because they needed them for their work.<sup>2600</sup> The Chamber finds this reasoning very weak. By his own admission, the refugees were not working in the fields after the outbreak of violence in April 1994, but, he testified, remained inside the camps.<sup>2601</sup> They therefore did not need the machetes for "work". Further, Brother

Stan was not just a “simple priest”, but worked in the refugee camp in education and therefore exercised a degree of authority over the refugees.

1215. Brother Stan testified that he was able to travel around Butare freely prior to 25 April 1994. Despite this fact, he made no attempt to notify the authorities of the unrest in Kibayi and Muganza communes. It was the Kibayi commune office secretary who wished to notify the authorities about the insecurity in the commune and he asked Brother Stan to accompany him.<sup>2602</sup> Brother Stan did not inform the préfecture authorities because, he explained, he did not know how.<sup>2603</sup> The Chamber does not accept this explanation and finds that his failure to seek assistance, despite his knowledge of the Burundian refugees’ involvement, and his position of responsibility over them, further detracts from his credibility.

1216. The Chamber also notes that there were some discrepancies between two earlier statements given in 1995, to a Belgian judge and a journalist, respectively. In his previous statement before the Belgian judge, Vandermeersch, the witness stated that he saw Ndayambaje on his way to Kibayi on 27 or 28 April 1994.<sup>2604</sup> Brother Stan testified that the judge was mistaken and that the correct date was 23 April 1994.<sup>2605</sup> In the letter of complaint he wrote to the journalist Van den Abeele, he stated that Ndayambaje had sought refuge at the commune office from 20 to 25 April 1994. At trial, Brother Stan testified that this was a mistake and that he saw Ndayambaje on 23 April 1994 on his way to Kibayi.<sup>2606</sup> He testified that he was mistaken in this statement in the letter that Ndayambaje sought refuge at the commune office from 20 to 25 April; the correct dates were 20 to 23 April 1994.<sup>2607</sup> Seeking to explain the discrepancy in dates, Brother Stan testified that his testimony before the Tribunal is clearer and more precise than the statements he made in 1995 because he was still traumatised by the events of 1994. In his view, this is why there were contradictions between the statement to Judge Vandermeersch and the letter to the journalist written in 1995, and his testimony in 2008 but that he is clearer now about the events of 1994.<sup>2608</sup> The Chamber does not find this reasoning to be convincing. In the Chamber’s view, Brother Stan would have been much clearer about the dates of certain events one year later. The Chamber rejects his statement that he is clearer about the events of 1994, and their specific dates, 14 years later.

1217. Taking these factors into consideration, and noting that Brother Stan was a close friend of Ndayambaje and close associate of the Burundian refugees, some of whom are implicated in the massacres at Kabuye Hill and Mugombwa Church, the Chamber does not find Brother Stan’s evidence credible insofar as it relates to Ndayambaje’s presence at the Muganza commune office at 12.30 p.m. on 20 April 1994.

1218. The Chamber therefore considers that the alibi evidence does not raise a reasonable doubt in the Prosecution case that Ndayambaje was present at Mugombwa Church for 15 minutes between about noon and 1.00 p.m. on 20 April 1994.

1219. With respect to the morning of 21 April 1994, Witness QAR testified that Ndayambaje arrived at Mugombwa Church at approximately 10.00 a.m. According to her testimony she saw him arrive at the church by the road from Remera.<sup>2609</sup> He went away and returned half an hour later, after which he left immediately afterwards.<sup>2610</sup>

1220. With respect to the alibi evidence brought by the Defence regarding the whereabouts of Ndayambaje on 21 April 1994, Witness GABON testified that Ndayambaje did not leave the commune office compound on 21 April 1994. The Chamber recalls that on cross-examination, Witness GABON testified that between 20 and 24 April 1994, he slept for just 27 minutes.<sup>2611</sup> The Chamber finds his testimony to be unrealistic in this respect. Furthermore, the Chamber recalls Defence Exhibit 694 (Sketch Map, by Ndayambaje) which establishes that the Muganza commune office comprises a number of buildings.<sup>2612</sup> Witness GABON would therefore not have had sight of Ndayambaje at all times during 21 April 1994 due to the size and layout of the commune office.

1221. Witness MARVA testified that Ndayambaje and the rest of the group remained in the same room throughout Thursday, 21 April 1994.<sup>2613</sup> The Chamber also finds this to be unrealistic. The Chamber observes that Witness MARVA's testimony is contradicted by Witness GABON who saw Ndayambaje playing cards in the courtyard with other refugees.<sup>2614</sup> Furthermore, the Chamber recalls that Ndayambaje himself testified that on the morning of 21 April 1994, he met with Chrysologue Bimenyimana in the courtyard of the commune compound.<sup>2615</sup>

1222. Witness MARVA further testified that she and Ndayambaje remained in the room until Saturday, 23 April 1994 when the commune office was attacked and the group, including Ndayambaje, fled.<sup>2616</sup> In addition to the Chamber's finding that this is not realistic, her evidence is contradicted by Witness KEPIR, Witness GABON and Ndayambaje himself who all testified that Ndayambaje left the commune office on two occasions on 22 April 1994, to go to Mugombwa to pick up Monique's car, and to retrieve the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle.

1223. Ndayambaje testified that he was at the commune office all day on 21 April 1994 and did not leave. The Chamber recalls that there were approximately 150 people seeking refuge at the commune office between 20 and 24 April 1994.<sup>2617</sup> Given the relatively large geographical space and the large number of people present at the commune office, the Chamber does not find that the evidence of Witnesses GABON, KEPIR and MARVA that they were with Ndayambaje at all times over the course of 21 April 1994 to be credible and finds that they were not in a position to state that Ndayambaje never left the commune office on 21 April 1994.

1224. Witness FAG, a participant in the massacre, testified that he was told to go to Mugombwa Church by community leaders Kanyenzi, Venant, Bosco and Viateur who were acting on the orders of Ndayambaje.

1225. The Chamber also heard evidence from two passers-by, Witnesses FAU and MAJIK who were in the vicinity of the church before and after the massacre; from Witness RV, Brother Stan and Ndayambaje who testified that they visited the church in the aftermath of the massacre; Father Tiziano, the parish priest of Mugombwa who was present before the attacks started; and Witness ALIZA who heard explosions coming from the church.

1226. The Chamber observes that Witnesses FAU, FAG and RV were detained witnesses at the time of their testimony. Witness FAU was awaiting trial in Rwanda for crimes related to the 1994 genocide.<sup>2618</sup> Witness FAG confessed to having participated in various attacks in 1994, spent eight years in prison and was released in 2003,<sup>2619</sup> before he gave evidence to this Tribunal in 2004. Despite being released from prison he nevertheless still awaited a decision by a Gacaca court at the time of his testimony.<sup>2620</sup> The Chamber therefore treats his testimony with appropriate caution considering he may have had an incentive to lie during his testimony in order to obtain preferential treatment in connection with his Gacaca sentence. Witness RV had pled guilty to crimes committed during the genocide and was waiting to see if his plea would be accepted at the time of his testimony. The Chamber will therefore treat their testimony with appropriate caution.

1227. Witness QAR testified that she had known Ndayambaje since they were children.<sup>2621</sup> This was not challenged by the Ndayambaje Defence. She testified that she saw him at noon on 20 April 1994 at Mugombwa Church, about 10 metres from her position inside the church.<sup>2622</sup> She saw Ndayambaje speaking to the attackers through a broken window.<sup>2623</sup> Father Tiziano and Witnesses JAMES and BOZAN testified that the windows in the church were made of opaque coloured glass and it was not possible to look through them unless they were broken.<sup>2624</sup> This evidence supports Witness QAR's account of her sighting of Ndayambaje in the church grounds on that day.

1228. The Chamber observes that there are conflicting accounts of precisely when the windows in the church were broken. Witness QAR testified that as she entered the church at about 8.00 a.m. on 20 April 1994, people were throwing stones at the church, breaking the windows.<sup>2625</sup> According to her testimony, the window by which she was standing was broken by noon, enabling her to see Ndayambaje outside the church.<sup>2626</sup> Witness BOZAN testified that the attackers had not started throwing stones at the church by around 9.30 a.m. but that later he saw from his vantage point near the presbytery, that at about 11.15 a.m. a single window nearest the priest's house was broken.<sup>2627</sup> The Chamber observes that Witness BOZAN testified that he watched the assailants throwing stones from the presbytery gate where he saw only one window broken.<sup>2628</sup> His view of the church was restricted to one side of the church and does not cast doubt on the testimony of Witness QAR that more than one window was broken. Furthermore, Father Tiziano testified that the windows in the church were broken by about 12.30 p.m. and there were stones lying in the churchyard.<sup>2629</sup> His testimony corroborates that of Witness QAR regarding the broken windows.

1229. Witness QAR gave testimony that when Ndayambaje arrived at the church on 20 April 1994 there were no priests, policemen or soldiers present and the massacre had not yet begun.<sup>2630</sup> This is corroborated by the testimony of Prosecution Witness FAU and Defence Witness MAJIK. Witness FAU testified that he saw the priest leave the church at midday but that there were no police or gendarmes present at the church at this time and the massacre had not started.<sup>2631</sup> He left the site shortly afterwards.<sup>2632</sup> Witness MAJIK passed by Mugombwa Church at about 11.30 a.m. on 20 April 1994. The church doors were closed; she could hear the people inside the church screaming. There were people outside the church carrying traditional weapons.<sup>2633</sup> On her way back past the church an hour later the attackers had not attacked the church.<sup>2634</sup> Witness QAR further testified that upon arrival, Ndayambaje rolled down the windows of the vehicle and stretched out his hand to show the refugees a photograph of Habyarimana, saying that the Tutsis had to be killed as they were accomplices in the President's death, after which he left in his vehicle with the photograph.<sup>2635</sup>

1230. Witness FAU testified that he did not remember if Ndayambaje was at the church on 20 April 1994.<sup>2636</sup> Witness MAJIK also testified that she did not see Ndayambaje on either of her journeys past the church.<sup>2637</sup> The Chamber observes, however, that both witnesses were passers-by and neither witness was at the church for an extended period of time on that day. The Chamber therefore finds that their testimony does not cast doubt on Witness QAR's eyewitness testimony that Ndayambaje came to the church for 15 minutes at about midday when he spoke to the attackers.

1231. Witness QAR testified that the attack on the church began at about 4.00 p.m. on 20 April 1994 when grenades were thrown into the church.<sup>2638</sup> This account is consistent with the testimony of Witness ALIZA who heard gunshots coming from Mugombwa Church at around

5.00 p.m. that afternoon,<sup>2639</sup> Witness JAMES who heard explosions coming from the church between 3.00 and 5.00 p.m.,<sup>2640</sup> and Witness FAU who heard explosions coming from the church during the night of 20 April 1994.<sup>2641</sup>

1232. Witness QAR testified that Ndayambaje returned to the church the next day, 21 April 1994, at approximately 10.00 a.m. She saw him arrive in the same white vehicle he had been driving the day before, through a broken window from her position in the church near the door.<sup>2642</sup> He was approximately 10 metres away and she saw him address the crowd after which he left in the direction of Remera, returning at about 10.30 a.m. with machetes and axes which he distributed to the people. He left immediately afterwards.<sup>2643</sup>

1233. Witness QAR testified that some hours after Ndayambaje left the church, at about 3.00 p.m. on 21 April 1994, five grenades were thrown into the church after which petrol was poured into the church and it was set on fire.<sup>2644</sup> As the fire broke out some of the attackers tried to break down the door.<sup>2645</sup> This sequence of events is corroborated by Witness FAG who testified that attackers congregated at Mugombwa between around 2.15 and 3.00 p.m. on that afternoon.<sup>2646</sup> The attack began at about 3.00 p.m. when a group of Burundians threw grenades into the church, then bottles of petrol and dry fodder, in order to start a fire. The attackers then tried to break down the door and bring out those that were not yet dead. Nobody left the church alive while Witness FAG was there but he did not stay until the end of the attack.<sup>2647</sup>

1234. Witness FAG testified that he did not see Ndayambaje at the massacre site at 2.15 p.m.<sup>2648</sup> That Witness FAG did not see Ndayambaje when he arrived at the church in the afternoon of 21 April 1994 does not cast doubt on Witness QAR's assertion that Ndayambaje had visited the church in the morning of that day. The Chamber observes that Witness FAG's testimony corroborates Witness QAR with respect to the grenade attack, the church being set on fire and the attempts by the attackers to break down the church door on the afternoon of 21 April 1994. Her testimony on these events is further corroborated by the hearsay testimony of Witness JAMES who testified that he overheard the attackers discussing a further attack on the church on that day in which an axe was used to break the church door.<sup>2649</sup>

1235. Witness QAR testified that Damascene, Tabaro, Mathias, Mushimire, Sikubwabo, Cyabarene, Yohane, Siridiyo and Nyandwi were among the attackers present at the church on Wednesday.<sup>2650</sup> Her testimony with respect to the identity of the assailants at the church is partly corroborated by Witness BOZAN who identified Cyabarene and Innocent among the killers<sup>2651</sup> and Witness JAMES' hearsay testimony that Cyabarene and Mushimire were among the attackers at the church.<sup>2652</sup>

1236. Witness FAG gave detailed testimony regarding the identities of the assailants and the sequence of events during the massacre. Nonetheless, the Chamber notes that Witness FAG did not mention the attacks on Mugombwa Church in his confession to the Rwandan authorities as well as his explanation that he was afraid, and there were things he could not talk about at the time.<sup>2653</sup> The Chamber accepts his explanation for not mentioning the massacre at Mugombwa Church in his 1998 confession. The Chamber accepts Witness FAG's testimony insofar as it relates to the massacre at Mugombwa Church on 21 April 1994 and his account of how he came to find himself at Mugombwa Church.

1237. Witness QAR testified that on leaving the church on 21 April 1994 she was forced to take off her clothes and was able to avoid being attacked by Burundians with machetes when the father of her child, a Hutu, intervened. As a result she was taken to the priest's house and released the following day.<sup>2654</sup> The presence of Burundian refugees at the church on 21 April 1994 is corroborated by the testimony of Witness FAG that Burundian refugees attacked the church with grenades that afternoon,<sup>2655</sup> and the hearsay testimony of Witness JAMES that the attackers at the church were accompanied by Burundian refugees.<sup>2656</sup>

1238. The Chamber observes that there are some discrepancies between Witness QAR's testimony at trial and her previous statements of 20 June 1995 and 20 May 1997. At trial, the witness testified that she took refuge inside Mugombwa Church at around 8.00 a.m. on Wednesday, whereas in her previous statement of 20 June 1995, she stated that she arrived at the church at 2.00 p.m.<sup>2657</sup> The witness explained the discrepancy between her previous statement and her testimony at trial arose because the investigators had not recorded her statements correctly.<sup>2658</sup>

lie and this discrepancy arose because her statement had been wrongly recorded.<sup>2662</sup> The Chamber does not find this discrepancy material and observes that she is consistent in her previous statements that she saw Ndayambaje at the site.

1240. Witness QAR testified that on Wednesday, two grenades were thrown into the church and exploded, but she did not see who threw them or who distributed them. In her previous statement, she stated that grenades were distributed at the church on Wednesday by a white clergyman, that a boy among the assailants threw them, and that only one grenade exploded.<sup>2663</sup> The Chamber observes that the witness explained the discrepancies between her previous statements and her testimony at trial by stating that the investigators had made mistakes in recording her statements and that additions had been made to her statements.<sup>2664</sup> The Chamber accepts her explanation and finds it reasonable.

1241. The Chamber finds that the discrepancies between the testimony of Witness QAR and her previous statements of 20 June 1995 and 20 May 1997, are not material and do not cast doubt on her credibility.

1242. The Chamber observes that Witness JAMES testified that Witness QAR gave false testimony regarding the events of 21 April 1994. According to Witness JAMES, Witness QAR was released from the church on 21 April 1994 on account of an intervention by the Hutu father of her child. His hearsay evidence on this point corroborates Witness QAR's testimony that she was spared by the Burundians outside the church after the intervention of her child's Hutu father.<sup>2665</sup> However, contrary to Witness QAR's testimony that she spent the night in the priest's house on 21 April 1994 and was released the following day, Witness JAMES testified that he saw her at the bar where he worked in the evening of 21 April 1994 and that Witness QAR spent the night at a nearby house.<sup>2666</sup>

1243. The Chamber accepts Witness JAMES' hearsay evidence insofar as it corroborates the presence of Witness QAR inside the church on 20 and 21 April 1994.<sup>2667</sup> The Chamber recalls Witness QAR was an eyewitness to the massacre at Mugombwa Church and her testimony was compelling. In relation to Witness JAMES' testimony that Witness QAR was not telling the truth about where she spent the night on 21 April 1994, the Chamber considers that Witness JAMES' account does not contradict Witness QAR's evidence in any material respect. The Chamber accepts Witness QAR's evidence that she spent the night at the priest's house. Witness QAR testified that she returned home on 22 April 1994 and it is possible that Witness JAMES was mistaken and that he in fact saw her on the following evening. The Chamber therefore finds that Witness JAMES' evidence does not cast doubt on Witness QAR's credibility.

1244. The Chamber considers the circumstances of Witness QAR's identification of Ndayambaje at Mugombwa Church on 20 and 21 April 1994 and her prior knowledge of the Accused. Further, the Chamber notes the corroboration of the salient details of Witness QAR's testimony concerning the attacks on the church on 20 April 1994 by Witnesses FAU, ALIZA, BOZAN and JAMES, i.e. that the attack on the church began at about 4.00 p.m. when grenades were thrown into the church;<sup>2668</sup> and by Witnesses FAG and JAMES, i.e. that at about 3.00 p.m. on 21 April 1994 grenades were thrown into the church after which it was set on fire and some attackers, among whom were Innocent and Cyabarene,<sup>2669</sup> tried to break down the door.<sup>2670</sup> In light of the foregoing, and considering the consistent and detailed account of Witness QAR, the Chamber finds that the alibi evidence does not raise a reasonable doubt as to the Prosecution's case that Ndayambaje was present at Mugombwa Church in the morning of 21 April 1994.

1245. The Chamber therefore finds it proven beyond a reasonable doubt that on the morning of 20 April 1994 Ndayambaje spoke with community leaders at Bishya trade centre who immediately thereafter directed men at Bishya, including Witness FAG, to Mugombwa Church; several thousand refugees, predominantly Tutsis, were seeking shelter in Mugombwa Church at the time, while a number of armed civilians were outside the church; Ndayambaje came to Mugombwa Church at about noon on 20 April 1994; Ndayambaje showed the refugees in the church a picture of President Habyarimana and told the refugees that they were going to be killed because they were accomplices of the Inkotanyi who had killed the President; Ndayambaje also spoke to a group of armed people posted outside the church and told them that since the people in the church were now gathered together, their work would no longer be very difficult; he also told the attackers that some of them should stay and watch those in the church and others should go and look for those that were hiding in ditches and in bushes, after which many people left, whereas some stayed behind at the church; Ndayambaje remained on the spot for about 15 minutes and left; and the same day at around 4.00 p.m., the armed people launched an attack against the Tutsis sheltering in the church.

1246. The Chamber also finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje came to Mugombwa Church for half an hour at around 10.00 a.m. on 21 April 1994; he asked the crowd what they would pay if the cattle's Tutsi owners escaped, then left; he returned to the church at about 10.30 a.m., before leaving again; at about 3.00 p.m. several grenades were thrown into the church, petrol was poured inside the church, and fire erupted; at least one refugee escaping the church was told to remove her clothes; all the escaping refugees were attacked by the civilians outside in the church courtyard; several hundred, if not thousands, of Tutsis died.

1247. Lastly, the Chamber recalls Witness QAR testified that she was told to remove her clothes at the doorway of the church before being allowed to escape, which she did.<sup>2671</sup> The Chamber observes the Ndayambaje Indictment does not refer to this specific incident and the Chamber is of the view that the Ndayambaje Defence was not provided with notice of this allegation by means of information in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. As such, the Chamber will not base any conviction upon this finding.

3.6.5 Kabuye Hill Massacre, 20-24 April 1994

3.6.5.1 Introduction

1248. The Ndayambaje Indictment alleges that on 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje took commune policeman to Gisagara commune, Butare préfecture, where, together with soldiers, they arrested refugees and took them to Kabuye Hill. The Tutsis were separated from the other refugees and forced to relinquish their traditional tools. It is further alleged that on 22 April 1994, Ndayambaje, commune policemen, gendarmes, soldiers and civilians armed with traditional tools attacked the Tutsis at Kabuye Hill resulting in deaths and injuries. On the night of 22 April, armed civilians prevented the survivors of that day's attack from escaping. The attacks at Kabuye Hill continued on 23 and 24 April 1994. Ndayambaje transported attackers to Kabuye Hill, issued them with weapons and personally threw grenades into the crowd of refugees.<sup>2672</sup>

1249. The Prosecution submits that between January and July 1994, Ndayambaje was an influential figure who exercised his authority over the public, subordinates in the commune office, conseillers and the commune police even though he was no longer officially bourgmestre of Muganza commune.<sup>2673</sup> He ordered the Interahamwe to kill Tutsis and his instructions were followed.<sup>2674</sup> The Prosecution claims that Ndayambaje led the attack on Kabuye Hill, instigated others to participate in the attack, provided weapons and supervised the killing of Tutsis.<sup>2675</sup> The Prosecution asserts that Ndayambaje personally murdered two individuals at Kabuye Hill: the uncle of Witness TW<sup>2676</sup> and a Tutsi woman by the name of Venerande.<sup>2677</sup>

1250. In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses EV, RT, TW, QAQ, TP, QAL, RV, FAU, FAG and QBZ.

1251. In addition to its submission on defects in the Indictment, considered below, the Ndayambaje Defence submits that the Prosecution evidence is inconsistent and contradictory, particularly as regards the time frame of events, and the presence of soldiers and vehicles at Kabuye.<sup>2678</sup> The Defence presented an alibi for the time when Ndayambaje was allegedly at <sup>2672</sup> Paras. 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment (in support of Counts 1-3, 5-9 pursuant to Article 6 (1) and 6 (3)).

Kabuye Hill; it submits that Ndayambaje was not present at Kabuye Hill between 20 and 24 April 1994 claiming that Ndayambaje was at the commune office from 20 to 23 April 1994 and thereafter took refuge at Kibayi for one week as from 23 April 1994.<sup>2679</sup>

1252. In support of its submissions, the Ndayambaje Defence relies on the testimony of Ndayambaje Defence Witnesses ALIZA, TOVIA, KEPIR, GABON, MARVA, BIDI, Father Tiziano, SABINE, Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-5 and Ndayambaje.

3.6.5.2 Preliminary Issues

Vagueness of Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment

1253. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment lack specificity. In particular, the Defence claims that Paragraph 6.30 does not mention the identity and number of policemen involved, their place of departure or how they were transported to Gisagara. Nor is there any reference to where or when the refugees were arrested, or whether Ndayambaje was present during the arrests and the subsequent transportation of refugees to Kabuye Hill. Paragraph 6.31 fails to specify when the attack took place at Kabuye, whether Ndayambaje was present, his role and conduct during the attack, and the identity, number and origin of the policemen, gendarmes, soldiers and civilians. There is no reference to Ndayambaje's involvement in the events that occurred at night when the attackers prevented the refugees from fleeing or the link between him and the alleged attackers. Lastly, Paragraph 6.32 does not specify the number or identity of the attackers reportedly transported by Ndayambaje to Kabuye, or the link between Ndayambaje and the attackers.<sup>2680</sup> There is no indication as to when the weapons were distributed or how they were used. As regards the allegation that Ndayambaje threw grenades into a crowd of refugees, there is no information on the number of grenades used, the number of victims or the date and place of the attack.<sup>2681</sup>

1254. The Chamber first notes that the events at Kabuye Hill, which are addressed in Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, are linked to a number of general themes running through the Indictment, such as Ndayambaje's position of authority, and should not be considered in isolation. Rather, the Indictment should be read as a whole. As regards Ndayambaje's alleged relationship with his subordinates, the Chamber refers to Paragraphs 3.5, 4.2, 4.3 and 6.28 of the Ndayambaje Indictment. Paragraph 3.5 sets out the bourgmestre's position in the administrative hierarchy, in particular his position of authority over civil servants in the commune and his duties concerning the enforcement of law and order. Paragraph 4.2 explains that Ndayambaje held the office of bourgmestre of Muganza commune from 1983 to 1992 and again from June 1994, while Paragraph 4.3 alleges that the Accused continued to exercise authority over his subordinates during the period between 1992 and June 1994. Paragraph 6.28 further alleges that Ndayambaje was an influential political figure in Muganza commune in 1994 even though he no longer officially held office.

1255. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber is of the view that the Ndayambaje Indictment, when read as a whole, was drafted with sufficient precision as to provide notice to the Accused and enable him to adequately prepare a defence against the allegations contained in Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment. In this connection, the Chamber notes that key elements of the Kabuye Hill events, i.e. the movement of Tutsis to Kabuye Hill, the attacks that took place there, the distribution of weapons and the grenade incident, are linked to a specific date or dates and a specific location. Ndayambaje is placed at the scene of each of these events and his role as a superior over subordinates can be inferred from the Prosecution's allegations elsewhere in the Indictment.<sup>2682</sup> The alleged attackers are identified by reference to their category (policeman, soldier, gendarme or civilian) rather than identity and the Chamber underlines that a superior need not necessarily know the exact identity of his subordinates who perpetrate crimes in order to incur liability under Article 6 (3) of the Statute.<sup>2683</sup> The Chamber does not consider the mode of transportation used to be material to the Prosecution's case. As regards the alleged grenade attack, Paragraph 6.32 specifies that numerous Tutsis were killed or injured, which is consistent with the effect of throwing a grenade into a crowd of people. The precise number of grenades used in such an attack or the number of victims would not be material to the Prosecution case. For the above reasons, the Chamber finds that Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment provided sufficient notice to the Accused to enable him to prepare his defence.

Murder of Witness TW's Uncle and Venerande at Kabuye Hill

1257. The Chamber notes that Ndayambaje is charged with murder as a crime against humanity and killing as a serious violation of Article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions and Additional Protocol II pursuant to Article 6 (1) of the Statute.<sup>2686</sup> The Chamber further notes that Paragraphs 6.30, 6.31 and 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment are listed in support of those counts. That said, the Indictment makes no reference to the Prosecution's allegation that two identifiable individuals were murdered by Ndayambaje at Kabuye. Although Ndayambaje is accused of having thrown grenades into a crowd of refugees, there is nothing to suggest that these individuals were victims of such an attack. Indeed, Witnesses TW and QBZ made no mention of grenades being used in the murders of these specific individuals. No information is provided on when the murders took place or how the victims were killed. Furthermore, in relation to the allegation that Ndayambaje murdered Witness TW's uncle, it is clear from Witness TW's previous statement given on 15 November 1995, over six months before the original Indictment was filed, that the Prosecution was aware of the identity of the alleged victim, yet failed to include that information in any of the Indictments. For the above reasons, the Chamber finds that the Ndayambaje Indictment is defective as regards both murder allegations.

1258. The Chamber notes, with regard to the murder of Witness TW's uncle, that the summary of this witness' testimony as set forth in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states: "TW saw his family member sitting at the back of Ndayambaje's Toyota pickup truck with his hands tied at his back. Ndayambaje said: 'I will kill this one myself.'" The Pre-Trial Brief goes on to state, "TW learned that Ndayambaje killed his family member."<sup>2687</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness TW's statement gives a similar account to that found in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief. It indicates that Witness TW never saw his uncle again and that he later heard Ndayambaje killed his uncle.<sup>2688</sup> This statement was first disclosed in December 2000, over three years before Witness TW was called to testify, and disclosed again in December 2001 in unredacted form. With regard to the murder of Venerande, there is no mention of this allegation anywhere in either of the witness' previous statements of November 2000 and March 2001, or in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or opening statement.

1259. Even though the allegation that Ndayambaje murdered Witness TW's uncle was not specifically included in the Indictment, the Chamber nevertheless considers that the information contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, when read together with Witness TW's previous statement of 1995, disclosed in 2000 and again in 2001, was sufficient to inform Ndayambaje of the allegation and enable him to prepare his defence. Ndayambaje's Defence would have had time to read and investigate the allegations made by Witness TW in his previous statement and prepare for his cross-examination in court. Witness TW's previous statement and the summary of his expected testimony contained in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief are clear and consistent with each other. Accordingly, the Chamber considers that the defect in the Indictment has been cured.

1260. As regards the allegation that Ndayambaje murdered Venerande, the Chamber considers that in view of the absence of subsequent Prosecution disclosures, the lack of notice of this allegation has not been cured. This allegation would cause prejudice to the Defence were it not excluded. The Ndayambaje Defence had no way of knowing about this allegation until Witness QBZ testified in February 2004 and was therefore unable to properly prepare its defence case in respect of this alleged murder. Accordingly, the Chamber considers that the defect in the Indictment has not been cured. The Chamber therefore finds that the testimony of Witness QBZ should be excluded insofar as it relates to the allegation that Ndayambaje murdered a Tutsi named Venerande in April 1994 at Kabuye Hill.

Chamber's Refusal to Authorise a Site Visit

1261. The Ndayambaje Defence submits that the witnesses heard during trial and the documents tendered as exhibits do not allow for a proper assessment of the sites. Referring to the Trial Chamber's Decision of 26 February 2009, the Defence claims that the Chamber's refusal to authorise a site visit led to incomprehension of the sites and therefore caused serious prejudice to the Defence.<sup>2689</sup>

1262. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 26 February 2009 in which it denied the Prosecutor's Motion for site visits, in particular paragraph 21 thereof which reads:

[T]he Chamber considers that the visits are no longer necessary for the following reasons. Firstly, a considerable number of photographs, sketches and maps have been tendered as exhibits to assist the Chamber's familiarisation with relevant locations testified upon by the witnesses and to assist in the determination of truth. Secondly, the Chamber considers that after over 14 years, it is likely that most of the sites to be visited will no longer be in the same state as they were in 1994 and that visiting them may not help much in the discovery of the truth or in the fair determination of the matters before the Chamber. In addition, the sites proposed by the Parties are too numerous and may have extraordinary logistical and cost implications for the Tribunal and may not be completed in a short period of time.<sup>2690</sup>

1263. In its submissions, the Ndayambaje Defence does not describe the kind of prejudice it allegedly suffered as a result of the Chamber's refusal to authorise a site visit nor does it explain how or why there is "incomprehension" of the sites. Further, the Chamber has considered a number of exhibits relating to Kabuye Hill including video footage, photographs and sketches of the site. The Chamber therefore sees no reason to reconsider its Decision of 26 February 2009 and does not find the Defence's allegation of prejudice to have been established.

3.6.5.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness EV

1264. Witness EV, a Tutsi teacher from Muganza commune, testified that he had known Ndayambaje for a long time, since the Accused's days as a primary school student.<sup>2691</sup> He and his family fled their home in Muganza commune, Butare préfecture, on 19 April 1994 because their house was burnt down.<sup>2692</sup> On cross-examination, the witness stated that he left his house in the evening of 18 April 1994 and wandered all night with his family; they finally decided to leave on 19 April 1994 even though they had nowhere to go.<sup>2693</sup>

1266. When the vehicles reached the front of the crowd, the occupants got out to prevent the crowd from advancing.<sup>2707</sup> Ndayambaje and the sous-préfet ordered the refugees to stop and they were then beaten by members of the population and the soldiers. Shots were also fired.<sup>2708</sup> The refugees turned and headed back the way they had come towards Gisagara secteur, Ndora commune, followed by the three vehicles.<sup>2709</sup> It was before midday.<sup>2710</sup> The refugees arrived at Gisagara marketplace for the second time at 10 a.m., although in cross-examination the witness stated that the refugees arrived before sunset, around 4.00 p.m.<sup>2711</sup> The three vehicles that had previously intercepted the refugees also parked in the marketplace.<sup>2712</sup> Ndayambaje was there with President Sindikubwabo and several others.<sup>2713</sup> The President, who was standing on a table, addressed the crowd using a megaphone and demanded that the refugees go to Kabuye Hill in Ndora commune.<sup>2714</sup> The refugees were then escorted by soldiers and policemen on foot in the direction of Kabuye Hill.<sup>2715</sup> The soldiers wore different uniforms: some had red berets, others black berets, some had khaki uniforms, other camouflage.<sup>2716</sup>

1267. The refugees arrived at Kabuye Hill before 6.00 p.m. when it was still daylight.<sup>2717</sup> The journey from Gisagara marketplace did not take long because Gisagara secteur neighbours the secteur in Ndora commune where Kabuye Hill is located. The witness saw the same three-vehicle convoy.<sup>2718</sup> There were as many as 50,000 refugees on the hill who had come from various communes including Kibayi, Muganza, Ndora, Runyinya and Nyaruguru.<sup>2719</sup> Most were Tutsis but there were also a few Hutu women married to Tutsi men who were with their children and husbands, and some Hutu men who did not agree with what was going on. The witness saw a total of three Hutus.<sup>2720</sup> The refugees were unarmed.<sup>2721</sup> During his stay at Kabuye Hill, the witness saw people being killed with a variety of weapons and observed many corpses.<sup>2722</sup> He thought he spent five days at Kabuye Hill, arriving there on a Wednesday and leaving with his wife and children on a Saturday night at around 1.00 a.m.<sup>2723</sup>

1268. Some of the soldiers who arrived at Kabuye Hill with the refugees on that first day spent the night there while others left in a vehicle. The vehicle brought back soldiers and took away others.<sup>2724</sup>

1269. The massacres started on the day Witness EV arrived at Kabuye Hill.<sup>2725</sup> On that day, the refugees were surrounded by groups of people on three sides, comprising soldiers, the Interahamwe and members of the Hutu population who had accompanied the soldiers.<sup>2726</sup> Ndayambaje arrived before noon in a white Hilux driven by Charles Habakurama.<sup>2727</sup> He was accompanied by several others including two commune policemen called Pierre Karekeza and Népomuscène and Witness KEPIR.<sup>2728</sup> The refugees were attacked with bows and arrows, clubs, guns and grenades; they tried to defend themselves by throwing stones at the attackers.<sup>2729</sup> The witness recognised Ndayambaje among the attackers, who was wearing black trousers and a khaki shirt, and carrying a pistol.<sup>2730</sup> Witness EV was approximately 20 to 30 metres from the Accused.<sup>2731</sup> Ndayambaje also had grenades in his vehicle, which were taken by other assailants.<sup>2732</sup> The witness saw Ndayambaje fire his weapon and throw grenades that he had brought with him in his vehicle. Everyone tried to escape but there was no way of doing so.<sup>2733</sup> The gunfire continued that night and the male refugees tried to shield the women and children from the attackers.<sup>2734</sup>

1270. After the first day, the attacks worsened and the number of assailants increased.<sup>2735</sup> The additional assailants arrived in vehicles with rear cages and bars, some of which were painted in military colours.<sup>2736</sup> He saw Ndayambaje arriving before noon on the second day from the direction of Muganza commune in the same white Hilux vehicle as the previous day.<sup>2737</sup> The witness was approximately nine metres from Ndayambaje's vehicle.<sup>2738</sup> The space in front of the witness was occupied by other male refugees leaving approximately two clear metres between the front of the refugee group and Ndayambaje.<sup>2739</sup> The Accused was accompanied by Bosco, an assistant bourgmestre, the two policemen named Pierre and Népomuscène, Ndayambaje's driver Charles, and other civilians.<sup>2740</sup> The occupants of the vehicle got out and began shooting at the refugees, who were also being shot at by other people.<sup>2741</sup> Witness EV saw the vehicle again in the evening when the assailants went home.<sup>2742</sup>

1271. Ndayambaje arrived on the third day at about 10.00 a.m. with Witness KEPIR and others in two separate vehicles.<sup>2743</sup> Witness KEPIR was driving a blue double-cabin Hilux.<sup>2744</sup>

The witness was unable to identify who was driving Ndayambaje's vehicle.<sup>2745</sup> The vehicles parked at Ndatemwa, between Kabuye and Dahwe Hills, about 20 metres away from the witness.<sup>2746</sup> At that time, Witness EV and his fellow refugees were under attack from a group of assailants on Dahwe Hill.<sup>2747</sup> There were approximately 100 metres between Kabuye Hill and Dahwe Hill.<sup>2748</sup> The assailants descended Dahwe Hill, crossed the valley and began to climb Kabuye Hill towards the refugees.<sup>2749</sup> When Ndayambaje got out of his vehicle, the witness turned and went to the other side of the hill.<sup>2750</sup> He heard shots but did not see from whom they emanated.<sup>2751</sup> Ndayambaje's vehicle left at approximately 3.00 or 4.00 p.m. and did not return again that day.<sup>2752</sup> The attacks on the refugees continued throughout the night.<sup>2753</sup>

1272. Ndayambaje returned to Kabuye Hill on the fourth day from the direction of Gisagara, arriving at around 10.00 a.m. in a convoy of three vehicles.<sup>2754</sup> One of the vehicles was a Daihatsu full of Burundian refugees.<sup>2755</sup> Ndayambaje was travelling in a green double-cabin Hilux vehicle bearing the acronym "MRND".<sup>2756</sup> The third vehicle was the blue Hilux driven by Witness KEPIR.<sup>2757</sup> The vehicles parked near the top of Kabuye Hill, slightly higher than the location of the refugees.<sup>2758</sup> Ndayambaje was wearing a khaki trousers and a black denim shirt.<sup>2759</sup> Witness EV did not see Ndayambaje shoot on the fourth day, although the Burundians who had arrived with Ndayambaje attacked the refugees with grenades.<sup>2760</sup> Ndayambaje left at about 5.00 p.m.<sup>2761</sup> On the night of the fourth day there was some light rain and Witness EV's wife and children sheltered in one of the approximately 100 abandoned houses on Kabuye Hill.<sup>2762</sup> Soldiers continued to shoot and attack the refugees throughout the night.<sup>2763</sup>

1273. On the fifth day it rained towards the evening and throughout the night until morning.<sup>2764</sup> Ndayambaje arrived around 9.30 a.m. in a convoy of vehicles carrying a number of people including Kabuga, the trader, and three conseillers de secteur, Kikubwabo from Tawe, Rwamabare from Baziro and Singirankabo from Mugombwa.<sup>2765</sup> The Accused was wearing a black sleeveless sweater over a white shirt and khaki trousers.<sup>2766</sup> The witness did not see which vehicle Ndayambaje arrived in, he only saw the Accused walking in the company of the three conseillers de secteur.<sup>2767</sup> The group left around 4.00 p.m.<sup>2768</sup> He did not see the conseillers or Ndayambaje carrying weapons.<sup>2769</sup> That night, the witness fled from Kabuye Hill with his wife and children and returned to his secteur where he stayed in the house next door to his own as his own had been destroyed.<sup>2770</sup> It was raining heavily when they left.<sup>2771</sup>

1274. During the massacre, people were dying in large numbers. There were corpses everywhere. Everywhere you stepped, was strewn with corpses.<sup>2772</sup>

Prosecution Witness RT

1276. Witness RT, a Tutsi teacher from Muganza commune, testified that on Wednesday 19 April 1994, he and his wife, together with other refugees, fled their homes as violence had broken out in their area.<sup>2777</sup> On cross-examination, the witness stated that while he was not completely certain of the dates, he was sure of the day, Wednesday, as that was market day in his neighbourhood.<sup>2778</sup> They took refuge at the Remera secteur office at about 10.00 a.m.<sup>2779</sup> At around 2.00 p.m. the refugees decided to flee to Burundi via Gisagara commune because there was no fighting in that direction and all other the roads were blocked.<sup>2780</sup> On the way to Gisagara people joined their group until they numbered approximately 18,000.<sup>2781</sup> On their way towards Burundi, the refugees stopped in Gisagara marketplace at about 7.00 p.m. Many people had gathered there and the sous-préfet instructed the refugees to remain there so that the authorities could ensure their safety. After the sous-préfet's departure, policemen wearing green uniforms and berets surrounded the refugees and confiscated their weapons.<sup>2782</sup> Approximately 20,000 refugees stayed in the marketplace that night waiting for instructions, but none came.<sup>2783</sup> Policemen guarded the crowd until the morning.<sup>2784</sup> In the morning, the refugees overheard Hutus discussing using grenades on the refugees so they fled, continuing their journey towards the Burundian border at 9.00 or 10.00 a.m.<sup>2785</sup>

1277. At around 11.00 a.m., the refugees were intercepted by about four policemen upon reaching the Ngiriyi river area between Mugusa and Muyaga communes.<sup>2786</sup> The policemen wore normal green police uniforms and yellow berets, and were on foot.<sup>2787</sup> A red Toyota vehicle carrying four soldiers arrived from the direction of Gisagara.<sup>2788</sup> The vehicle had a front cabin for the driver and passenger and a box with bars on the back; the soldiers were travelling in the back and Ndayambaje was in the front passenger seat.<sup>2789</sup> The vehicle passed Witness RT and stopped approximately 80 metres away.<sup>2790</sup> Both the driver of the vehicle and Ndayambaje were wearing civilian clothes.<sup>2791</sup> The soldiers wore camouflage fatigues and black berets, and carried guns.<sup>2792</sup> They got out of the Toyota and started firing into the air.<sup>2793</sup> Ndayambaje remained inside the vehicle.<sup>2794</sup> At the sound of the gunfire, the refugees ran in all directions; most ran back towards Gisagara.<sup>2795</sup> The witness did not return to Gisagara because he wanted to go to Burundi.<sup>2796</sup> He reached Nyerinzi Hill in Muyaga commune where he came across the bourgmestre of Muyaga commune who was travelling in a white single-cabin Toyota Hilux vehicle accompanied by approximately eight gendarmes.<sup>2797</sup> On the orders of the Muyaga bourgmestre, the witness turned back and headed towards Gisagara commune. He reached Gisagara marketplace at about 6.00 p.m. and spent the night there with other refugees.<sup>2798</sup> They were guarded by policemen all night.<sup>2799</sup>

1278. The following morning, Friday, policemen and Hutus armed with traditional weapons escorted the refugees from Gisagara marketplace to Kabuye Hill, a distance of approximately three kilometres.<sup>2800</sup> They arrived at Kabuye Hill around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m. and encountered a group of Hutu civilians armed with traditional weapons and grenades.<sup>2801</sup> There were approximately 40,000 people gathered on Kabuye Hill.<sup>2802</sup> Upon their arrival, soldiers and policemen opened fire on the refugees from all directions.<sup>2803</sup> He subsequently testified that he did not see any soldiers on this day.<sup>2804</sup> Those who attempted to flee the gunfire were attacked by armed Hutus bearing machetes and hoes.<sup>2805</sup> The attack on the refugees continued until the evening when the attackers went home.<sup>2806</sup> On cross-examination, the witness clarified that the attackers left between 2.00 and 3.00 p.m.<sup>2807</sup> Many people were killed that day, but Witness RT could not put a figure on the number of casualties.<sup>2808</sup>

1279. The attackers returned the following morning, Saturday, at about 9.00 a.m. and small groups of attackers with traditional weapons, soldiers and commune policemen gathered near Dahwe and Gahondo.<sup>2809</sup> Subsequently, Ndayambaje arrived aboard a white Toyota commune vehicle with approximately 10 soldiers in the back.<sup>2810</sup> The witness observed the soldiers' arrival from approximately 100 metres.<sup>2811</sup> He saw conseillers and Ndayambaje walking around and distributing grenades to the attackers.<sup>2812</sup> He did not actually see grenades in Ndayambaje's hands but he assumed that the items being distributed by the Accused were indeed grenades because many assailants subsequently used grenades against the refugees that day.<sup>2813</sup> Witness RT was about 80 to 100 steps away from Ndayambaje and could see him clearly.<sup>2814</sup> Ndayambaje left shortly thereafter but Witness RT saw the Accused's vehicle make approximately three round-trips transporting people to and from the hill, though he could not exactly see who was being transported.<sup>2815</sup> He did not see Ndayambaje during those trips.<sup>2816</sup>

1280. The next day, Sunday, more Tutsi refugees were killed on Kabuye Hill by attackers with guns and traditional weapons; the attackers were police and Hutus, he did not see any soldiers on that day.<sup>2817</sup> The attacks lasted all day and it was raining.<sup>2818</sup> The witness stayed on Kabuye Hill that day and night hiding in a house with his children; he did not know the whereabouts of his wife.<sup>2819</sup> One of his children was killed on Sunday evening and another four were killed on the following Monday morning when a grenade exploded in front of the house in which they were hiding.<sup>2820</sup>

1281. Witness RT testified that he had known Ndayambaje prior to the events of 1994 in his capacity as the bourgmestre. He also knew that Ndayambaje ceased to be the bourgmestre and went on study leave. The witness used to see him often, at least twice a week.<sup>2821</sup> Witness RT positively identified the Accused in court.<sup>2822</sup>

Prosecution Witness TW

1282. Witness TW, a Tutsi farmer from Muganza commune, testified that he had known Ndayambaje for a long time before the events of 1994 because he was the bourgmestre of Muganza commune where the witness lived.<sup>2823</sup> On the afternoon of 19 April 1994, the witness saw Ndayambaje drive past his bar in Muganza commune.<sup>2824</sup> Ndayambaje was driving the official vehicle of the bourgmestre, a white double-cabin vehicle, and there were soldiers in the cabin and on the back of the vehicle.<sup>2825</sup> The soldiers were wearing camouflage uniforms and black berets, and carried weapons.<sup>2826</sup>

1283. Later that night, Witness TW saw Tutsi homes being torched in his neighbourhood and decided to flee with his family.<sup>2827</sup> They spent one night hiding in their sorghum field and the next day walked to the area where the witness was born.<sup>2828</sup> The witness and his family spent one night there and left the next day for Kabuye.<sup>2829</sup> They arrived at Kabuye Hill two days later at around 7.00 p.m. when it was already dark and spent three days there.<sup>2830</sup> Approximately 20,000 Tutsi refugees had gathered on Kabuye Hill.<sup>2831</sup> His estimation of the number of refugees was based on subsequent reports that the remains of 20,000 people were buried there.<sup>2832</sup> He did not see any bodies at Kabuye Hill that night and there were no attacks.<sup>2833</sup>

1284. The following day, Witness TW's first day at Kabuye Hill, he saw Ndayambaje arrive at the hill between 11.00 a.m. and noon.<sup>2834</sup> Ndayambaje was in a white double-cabin Toyota Hilux or similar and was transporting Hutu civilians armed with traditional weapons.<sup>2835</sup> Ndayambaje made two trips to the hill<sup>2836</sup> and drove the vehicle himself.<sup>2837</sup> The witness could clearly see Ndayambaje from where he was standing, between 100 and 200 metres away.<sup>2838</sup> Ndayambaje got out of his vehicle and stood talking to the attackers.<sup>2839</sup> Around noon, the armed civilians attacked the Tutsi refugees.<sup>2840</sup> The refugees were able to repel the armed attackers, who were fewer in number, using stones and domestic implements that they had brought with them.<sup>2841</sup>

1286. On the same day, Ndayambaje also made several trips in his white double-cabin vehicle to Kabuye Hill transporting armed policemen and civilians, and Burundian refugees carrying traditional weapons.<sup>2845</sup> Those who had not been killed by gunfire were killed by other attackers with traditional weapons.<sup>2846</sup> Witness TW did not see any soldiers at Kabuye Hill on the second day.<sup>2847</sup>

1287. On the third day,<sup>2848</sup> the witness saw Ndayambaje driving the same white vehicle transporting soldiers and Interahamwe armed with grenades and machetes.<sup>2849</sup> The soldiers wore military uniforms and berets.<sup>2850</sup> In the evening, the refugees were attacked.<sup>2851</sup> Soldiers were also stationed on neighbouring hills from which they shot at the refugees.<sup>2852</sup> The refugees could not defend themselves with stones alone and almost all were killed.<sup>2853</sup> Witness EV's wife, five children, mother and eight younger brothers perished in this attack.<sup>2854</sup>

1288. The witness did not see Ndayambaje carrying weapons or distributing grenades or guns; he did, however, see him transporting people armed with guns and grenades to Kabuye Hill.<sup>2855</sup> Witness TW identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2856</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAQ

1289. Witness QAQ, a Tutsi civil servant from Muganza commune, testified that he knew Ndayambaje from when the Accused was in his 6th year of primary school.<sup>2857</sup> Until the events of 1994, the witness was friends with Ndayambaje and they regularly visited each other's homes.<sup>2858</sup> Witness QAQ stated that on 20 April 1994, Hutus began killing Tutsis and burning down houses in his home secteur.<sup>2859</sup> He therefore fled and hid in the bush for three or four days.<sup>2860</sup> He subsequently followed other refugees to Kabuye Hill.<sup>2861</sup>

1290. The witness arrived at Kabuye Hill at about 10.00 a.m. He could not see all the refugees from where he was positioned but estimated that there were 300 refugees near him.<sup>2862</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that he could see 300 refugees although many refugees came later and there were others that the witness could not see as they were outside his field of vision.<sup>2863</sup> He spent the night at Kabuye Hill and the following day, at around 10.00 a.m., he saw Ndayambaje driving a white vehicle carrying gendarmes.<sup>2864</sup> He did not count the number of gendarmes on board, but estimated there were more than five.<sup>2865</sup> The gendarmes were positioned on Dahwe Hill, opposite Kabuye Hill.<sup>2866</sup> In cross-examination Witness QAQ testified that from where he was he could not personally say whether the person in the car was Ndayambaje.<sup>2867</sup> Other refugees in the company of Witness QAQ on Kabuye Hill recognised Ndayambaje's vehicle and told the witness it was the same vehicle that had prevented them from continuing on their way to Burundi the previous day.<sup>2868</sup> The witness saw the vehicle come and go on three occasions but did not know whether it was transporting people as the refugees were under attack at the time.<sup>2869</sup> The gendarmes shot at the refugees who tried to defend themselves by throwing stones. The refugees were also attacked by Interahamwe carrying clubs and machetes.<sup>2870</sup> Several people died as a result of these attacks, but the witness did not know the exact number of victims; all he knew was that after the war people came to exhume the bodies for a proper reburial.<sup>2871</sup>

1291. Witness QAQ identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2872</sup>

Prosecution Witness TP

1292. Witness TP, a Hutu farmer who was married to a Tutsi, testified that she and her family arrived in Gisagara at around 7.00 p.m. on Wednesday 20 April 1994.<sup>2873</sup> Upon their arrival, they saw Ndayambaje who told them to go home as it was safe.<sup>2874</sup> Witness TP was a few metres from Ndayambaje and recognised his face and voice.<sup>2875</sup> Ndayambaje then left in his official vehicle, which was white with two doors.<sup>2876</sup> The witness spent the night in the marketplace at Gisagara.<sup>2877</sup>

1293. The following morning, Thursday 21 April 2004, the sous-préfet visited the refugees and told them that if they had somewhere else to go, they could leave.<sup>2878</sup> Witness TP did not see the sous-préfet because of the huge crowd but other refugees told her what he said.<sup>2879</sup> The witness' husband decided that they would leave for Burundi and set out at 6.30 a.m.<sup>2880</sup> At 11.00 a.m., the witness and her family were intercepted by a group of people armed with traditional weapons and grenades at Musha and were told to go back home in order not to create insecurity.<sup>2881</sup> They threw arrows at the witness and her family, loaded their guns and prepared grenades for launching.<sup>2882</sup> Witness QAQ and her family therefore went back to the marketplace at Gisagara.<sup>2883</sup> The assailants did not pursue them.<sup>2884</sup> On their way back to Gisagara, they were again harassed at Ngiriyi by armed civilians and soldiers who told them to go back and so they returned to Gisagara.<sup>2885</sup>

1294. The refugees arrived at Gisagara for the second time around 8 p.m. where they spent the night. The sous-préfet was there but he did not speak that evening.<sup>2886</sup> During the night, Ndayambaje passed by the marketplace on his way home at around 3.00 a.m., but did not stop. Witness TP thought Ndayambaje had prevented the refugees from continuing their journey to Burundi.<sup>2887</sup> The next morning, 22 April 1994, the sous-préfet told the refugees to go to Kabuye where there would be more space for their cattle and children.<sup>2888</sup> She and the other refugees left Gisagara for Kabuye at 7.00 a.m.<sup>2889</sup>

they could not fight the refugees.<sup>2895</sup> In the witness' view, this was because the refugees far outnumbered the attackers.<sup>2896</sup> The witness did not see any policemen, soldiers or vehicles at Kabuye Hill on Saturday.<sup>2897</sup>

1296. On the evening of Sunday 24 April 1994 at around 7.30 p.m., five vehicles full of people arrived at Kabuye Hill.<sup>2898</sup> It was dark but the moon was bright.<sup>2899</sup> There were three buses, a white vehicle called ruhumbangegera, which was used for patrols in the commune, and Ndayambaje's vehicle.<sup>2900</sup> Ndayambaje's vehicle, which led the convoy, was small, white, with two doors and a cage in the back.<sup>2901</sup> She did not see Ndayambaje but guessed that he was on board since it was his vehicle.<sup>2902</sup> Witness TP did not see the buses but she was told by others that they contained members of the Presidential Guard.<sup>2903</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that she did see the buses and they were white and green.<sup>2904</sup> However, because it was dark and raining, the witness could not describe the passengers' uniforms but she could tell that they wore military uniforms.<sup>2905</sup>

1297. The people who arrived in the vehicles rushed at the refugees and attacked them.<sup>2906</sup> The attackers, who included some of the witness' Hutu neighbours and policemen, were using clubs, machetes, small hoes, spears, bows and arrows, grenades and guns.<sup>2907</sup> Some of the attackers hurled grenades at the refugees from the neighbouring hills of Kanyahukeri, Dahwe and Gahondo.<sup>2908</sup> Many refugees were killed during the attack on Sunday evening and Witness TP estimated that not more than 50 refugees survived.<sup>2909</sup> Refugees were running up the hill and in all directions in panic.<sup>2910</sup> The witness lost a number of family members during the attack including her husband.<sup>2911</sup> The witness and nine of her children left Kabuye Hill between 8.30 and 9.00 p.m. on Sunday 24 April 1994.<sup>2912</sup> In cross-examination, the witness testified that the attack on Sunday started at 6.00 a.m. and that it rained heavily from about 5.00 p.m. until the following morning.<sup>2913</sup> The witness could not estimate how many people were killed; even an educated person would not be able to count the victims. It was not possible to bury the victims decently. The bodies of the victims were just covered with some earth.<sup>2914</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAL

1299. Witness QAL, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune, testified that Ndayambaje had officiated her marriage in 1987.<sup>2918</sup> She stated that she saw Ndayambaje driving the commune's white Toyota pickup truck in Muganza secteur, Muganza commune, at around 2.00 p.m. while on her way to the market one Thursday in April 1994.<sup>2919</sup> The vehicle was carrying guns and grenades in the back.<sup>2920</sup> It was followed by a green vehicle driven by a man in military uniform.<sup>2921</sup> The witness was approximately two metres away from the vehicle at the time.<sup>2922</sup> Ndayambaje was telling people to hurry up and go in the direction of Kabuye.<sup>2923</sup> The vehicles were travelling in the direction of Kabuye Hill where Tutsis had started to take refuge the previous day, Wednesday.<sup>2924</sup> The vehicles were moving slowly and were followed by a crowd of people.<sup>2925</sup> One or two hours later that day, she heard gunfire from the direction where the two vehicles had headed.<sup>2926</sup> The gunfire lasted throughout the night until the next day, which was a Friday.<sup>2927</sup>

1300. Witness QAL identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2928</sup>

Prosecution Witness RV

1301. Witness RV, a Hutu civil servant in 1994 and a detainee in Rwanda at the time of his testimony, testified that on 20 April 1994, he was woken at 6.00 a.m. by Ndayambaje and Tiziano Pegoraro, the Italian priest of Mugombwa Parish, who told him that the local population in Mugombwa had taken up arms and that there was insecurity in the area.<sup>2929</sup> The witness could not recall the type of vehicle in which Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje arrived.<sup>2930</sup> The witness, Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje drove to the commune office in the vehicle in which Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje had arrived where they collected the commune vehicle that was parked there. At the commune office, Witness RV and Ndayambaje got aboard the commune vehicle and drove to Bishya where they collected the commune driver, Charles, from his home. Father Tiziano followed in his own vehicle; the vehicle in which Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje had used to reach the witness' house. From the commune office, Charles drove Witness RV while Ndayambaje accompanied Father Tiziano. Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano proceeded to Ndayambaje's residence.<sup>2931</sup>

1302. At about 7.30 a.m., the witness went to Ndayambaje's residence to tell him that he was overwhelmed and that he was going to Butare to request assistance; he saw Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano there.<sup>2932</sup> Witness RV proceeded to Butare, arriving at about 9.00 a.m., where he reported the event to Dominique Ntawukulilyayo, the sous-préfet of Gisagara.<sup>2933</sup>

1303. Witness RV further testified that Hutus began to attack Tutsi refugees on Kabuye Hill on 22 April 1994 but they were unable to kill them so they needed firearms to attack them.<sup>2934</sup> There was an arms and ammunitions store in the same building as the Muganza commune office.<sup>2935</sup> On Saturday 23 April at about 1.00 p.m., Witness RV met Ndayambaje at Bishya. Ndayambaje was with Célestin Habiyambere, the chairman of the MRND in Muganza commune, and they were travelling in an off-white double-cabin Toyota Hilux vehicle.<sup>2936</sup> Ndayambaje was angry with the witness because he needed firearms and ammunition to use at Kabuye and had not been able to find Witness RV to help him do this.<sup>2937</sup> Ndayambaje told the witness that he was going to Kibayi commune to look for weapons to use in the attack at Kabuye.<sup>2938</sup> Ndayambaje left in the direction of Kibayi commune.<sup>2939</sup> Witness RV left Bishya with Célestin Habiyambere on a motorbike belonging to an agricultural project in Muganza commune and they drove to the Muganza commune office.<sup>2940</sup>

through Charles that the Tutsis in Kabuye were killed with the support of members of the population who assisted the attackers with traditional weapons.<sup>2944</sup>

1305. On cross-examination, Witness RV testified that on the morning of 23 April 1994, he saw the deputy to the police brigadier taking bullets from the weapons store in the Muganza commune office and stopped him. At about 10.00 a.m., Witness RV left the commune office and went to the dispensary in Mugombwa. Célestin Habiya mbere came to see him there to complain that he needed guns.<sup>2945</sup> Witness RV testified that he met Ndayambaje and Célestin Habiya mbere at 5.00 p.m. when he arrived at Bishya and they addressed him in a violent manner.<sup>2946</sup> Ndayambaje went to Kibayi to look for guns while Habiya mbere went with the witness to the commune office.<sup>2947</sup> Célestin Habiya mbere told Witness RV that they needed the guns for Kabuye because they were going to kill some people. Witness RV saw that other people had come with Célestin Habiya mbere and they were getting ready to open the weapons store by force if he were to refuse to open it.<sup>2948</sup>

1306. Witness RV did not open the weapons store until Ndayambaje had returned from Kibayi.<sup>2949</sup> Ndayambaje asked where the witness had gone because he had been trying to get in touch with him; he asked Witness RV to supply guns and stated that they were to go to do some work in Kabuye.<sup>2950</sup> When Witness RV opened the weapons store, Ndayambaje asked Charles, the driver, to go inside the store and to come out with all the equipment he needed. Charles came out with ammunition and a large gun which he said did not work.<sup>2951</sup> They loaded everything into the vehicle and headed for Kabuye.<sup>2952</sup> Witness RV stated that Ndayambaje and Célestin Habiya mbere travelled in a whitish double-cabin Toyota Hilux belonging to the Kirarambogo health centre with “C-M-S Kirarambogo” written on the side.<sup>2953</sup>

1307. Witness RV identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2954</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAU

1308. Witness FAU, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune and a detainee in Rwanda at the time of his testimony, testified that one Saturday he went on foot to Bishya to have a drink.<sup>2955</sup> He arrived at the Bishya business centre at around noon where Ndayambaje and Charles, a

1309. When they reached the Muganza commune office, Ndayambaje got out of the vehicle and went inside for about 10 minutes.<sup>2960</sup> Brigadier Pierre took a gun from the commune office weapons store and he, along with the witness and two policemen named Makubwa and Ferdinand, went to Kabuye Hill with Ndayambaje.<sup>2961</sup> There was also another white vehicle belonging to the commune driven by Charles, the commune policeman, which went to Kabuye Hill carrying other persons later that day.<sup>2962</sup> On cross-examination, Witness FAU testified that Brigadier Pierre took three Kalashnikovs from the weapons store; he gave one each to the policemen Makubwa and Ferdinand, and kept one for himself.<sup>2963</sup> They left in the direction of Kabuye before noon.<sup>2964</sup>

1310. Witness FAU testified that he often used to see the Accused during the events of April 1994.<sup>2965</sup> He identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2966</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAG

1311. Witness FAG, a Hutu farmer from Muganza commune, testified that he remembered seeing Ndayambaje approximately 10 times before the events in 1994.<sup>2967</sup> The witness confessed to having participated in various attacks in 1994 when he was aged 16.<sup>2968</sup> He spent eight years in prison and was released in 2003, before he gave evidence.<sup>2969</sup> He was nevertheless still waiting to be sentenced by Gacaca courts.<sup>2970</sup>

1312. Witness FAG testified that two weeks and two days after the death of the President, trouble erupted in Kibaye commune; Tutsis were attacked and houses were torched.<sup>2971</sup> He saw Tutsi homes being destroyed and Tutsis fleeing into the hills, mainly towards Kabuye Hill, because they were being pursued by Hutus.<sup>2972</sup> Two weeks and five days after the President's death, Witness FAG saw Ndayambaje driving a Muganza commune vehicle, a Hilux, at around

10.00 a.m. in Bishya, Muganza commune.<sup>2973</sup> He saw Ndayambaje on four separate occasions; on each occasion, the Accused was transporting people in his vehicle, including Burundians, people from Mugombwa, Kibaye and Sagwa and policemen.<sup>2974</sup> The policemen were armed with guns and the civilians carried traditional weapons.<sup>2975</sup> The vehicle was moving between Kibayi and the area of the commune office via Bishya.<sup>2976</sup> The vehicle was empty when travelling in the direction of Kibayi whereas when it went in the opposite direction, towards the area of the commune office, there were passengers in the vehicle.<sup>2977</sup> Witness FAG saw the vehicle go towards Kibayi at about 10.00 a.m. and come back through Bishya around 10.30 a.m.<sup>2978</sup> The third time he saw Ndayambaje, the latter was coming from the direction of the commune office and Kabuye, heading towards Kibayi around 12.15 p.m.<sup>2979</sup> He was alone in the vehicle apart from his two police escorts.<sup>2980</sup> The last time he saw Ndayambaje in Bishya centre that day was around 1.00 p.m.<sup>2981</sup>

1314. Witness FAG testified that the next day, a Sunday, he saw the bodies of many refugees who had been shot on Kabuye Hill.<sup>2986</sup> He recalled having heard many gunshots the previous Saturday evening between 7.00 p.m. and 9.00 p.m.<sup>2987</sup> People informed the witness that Ndayambaje had gone for reinforcements from Butare and that the shots had been fired by soldiers from Butare.<sup>2988</sup> Witness FAG identified Ndayambaje in court.<sup>2989</sup>

Ndayambaje was a student; he also used to see the Accused when he was bourgmestre.<sup>2990</sup> The witness was a detainee in Rwanda when he testified before the court in 2004.<sup>2991</sup> Witness QBZ testified that about one week after the death of the President, he went to Kabuye with Ndayambaje, members of the cellule committee and commune conseillers, including Kanyabashi, all of whom were Hutus.<sup>2992</sup> They went there in order to kill Tutsis who had taken refuge on the hill.<sup>2993</sup> The group went on foot, arriving at 10.00 a.m. on Friday and were joined by civilians on their way.<sup>2994</sup> On arriving they met resistance from the Tutsis so Ndayambaje therefore left at 11.00 a.m. in the Muganza commune vehicle in order to fetch soldiers from Butare as they needed reinforcements.<sup>2995</sup> Ndayambaje dropped off five policemen at the commune office then continued on his way to Butare with his police escort and members of the population.<sup>2996</sup> The witness also travelled to Butare in the Ndora commune vehicle.<sup>2997</sup>

1316. The military reinforcements were collected in Butare; they travelled in the Ndora and Muganza commune vehicles, a green military vehicle and a bus. Other reinforcements also came from the direction of Kibayi.<sup>2998</sup> They arrived at Kabuye at around 2.00 p.m. on Friday.<sup>2999</sup> A number of Hutu soldiers were already shooting at the refugees.<sup>3000</sup> The killings started on Friday and did not stop until 4.00 p.m. on Sunday.<sup>3001</sup> The soldiers left on Monday while members of the population who participated in the attack left on Sunday.<sup>3002</sup> Ndayambaje was not present at Kabuye during the night; he would leave at the end of each day and return the following morning.<sup>3003</sup>

1317. Witness QBZ left Kabuye on Sunday and went home to rest, returning to Kabuye on Monday with other Hutus to bury the bodies.<sup>3004</sup> They used hoes and shovels to dig pits and there was also a vehicle equipped with a compressor which filled the pits with earth over the corpses.<sup>3005</sup> During the burial process, various authorities were present including Ndayambaje, policemen, commune conseillers and members of the cellule committees.<sup>3006</sup>

1319. Witness ALIZA, whose father was Hutu and mother was Tutsi, was brought up as Tutsi in Muganza commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>3008</sup> In 1994, he was a 19-year-old student.<sup>3009</sup> About two weeks after Habyarimana's death, disturbances started in Muganza commune.<sup>3010</sup> One Wednesday, around 5.00 p.m., there were gunshots and explosions coming from Remera hill. The witness remembered that it was a Wednesday because it was market day and Gisagara market was open.<sup>3011</sup> Witness ALIZA and the Tutsi members of his family decided to flee to Burundi with their livestock.<sup>3012</sup> They headed in the direction of Gisagara and arrived there on the same Wednesday between 6.30 and 7.00 p.m.<sup>3013</sup> The witness and his family spent the night at Gisagara football pitch with around 2,000 other refugees; some refugees also settled in the adjacent market square.<sup>3014</sup> There was no violence that night and the refugees were free to move around and buy supplies at a store without any hindrance.<sup>3015</sup> At some point, policemen passed by in a vehicle belonging to Ndora commune; the policemen remained in the car and observed the refugees. Apart from the policemen, the witness did not see any gendarmes, soldiers or persons of authority at Gisagara.<sup>3016</sup> He did not see Ndayambaje at Gisagara.<sup>3017</sup> He later learned that the date was 19 April 1994.<sup>3018</sup>

1320. The following day, Thursday, the number of refugees at Gisagara had increased to between 2,000 and 5,000.<sup>3019</sup> In the morning at around 8.00 a.m., all of the refugees continued their journey to Ngiryi Bridge, located between Ndora and Mugusa communes, arriving there around midday.<sup>3020</sup> The witness did not see any vehicles during the journey to Ngiryi Bridge nor did he see or hear people attempting to prevent the refugees from moving.<sup>3021</sup> When Witness ALIZA crossed Ngiryi Bridge, he and his family were towards the front of the column of refugees,<sup>3022</sup> there were lines of refugees moving ahead of him and even more refugees behind him.<sup>3023</sup> After crossing the bridge, the refugees were stopped by two commune policemen with firearms and two or three civilians.<sup>3024</sup> The policemen had come from the direction of Mugusa commune.<sup>3025</sup> One of the civilians said that the refugees had to turn around.<sup>3026</sup> When the refugees did not obey, the policemen pointed their guns at the refugees ready to open fire. The refugees were scared and returned to Ngiryi Bridge. The policemen did not fire their weapons nor beat the refugees.<sup>3027</sup> The witness did not see Ndayambaje at Ngiryi Bridge when the refugees were intercepted, nor did he see any other police officers, soldiers or gendarmes.<sup>3028</sup>

1321. After being intercepted, the refugees went back towards Gisagara.<sup>3029</sup> Witness ALIZA and his family were in the middle of the stream of refugees towards the end of the crowd as it headed back to Gisagara, although he could still not see the people at the end of the procession.<sup>3030</sup> The witness did not see the refugees being escorted by three vehicles nor did he see any policemen or soldiers following the refugees to Gisagara. The witness and his family reached Gisagara on Thursday at around 4.00 p.m. and rested at Gisagara football field for 40 minutes to one hour. There were no authorities at Gisagara but Witness ALIZA heard from others that President Sindikubwabo had come to Gisagara.<sup>3031</sup> After resting, the witness left Gisagara for Kabuye Hill, a journey which took around 40 minutes. During that journey, the refugees were not attacked by civilians nor were they escorted by policemen or soldiers.<sup>3032</sup>

1322. Witness ALIZA testified that Kabuye secteur was comprised of four hills separated by small valleys.<sup>3033</sup> The first hill was Ku Ka Kabuye, the second Ku Badivantiste, the third did not have a name and the fourth was called Mugorewindekwe.<sup>3034</sup> The refugees went to the nameless hill and gathered there.<sup>3035</sup> When the witness and his family arrived at Kabuye around 6.00 p.m., he saw that the nameless hill was covered with refugees. They settled near the valley, from where the witness could see the hill with refugees. The witness estimated that there were between 4,000 and 5,000 refugees on the hill.<sup>3036</sup> He explained that the refugees chose to remain on the hill instead of going home because they were convinced that together they would be in a better position to defend themselves.<sup>3037</sup> On that day, Thursday, Witness ALIZA did not see or hear about vehicles coming to the hill nor was he aware of Ndayambaje having been present.<sup>3038</sup> There were no attacks during the night from Thursday to Friday.<sup>3039</sup>

1323. On Friday, at around 10.00 or 11.00 a.m., between 50 and 70 civilians carrying traditional weapons arrived from Gahondo cellule.<sup>3040</sup> The assailants wanted to take the refugees' livestock and they attacked the refugees, who fought back using bows and arrows, machetes and stones.<sup>3041</sup> The attack started around midday and lasted until around 5.00 p.m.<sup>3042</sup>

More attackers arrived around 1.00 p.m.<sup>3043</sup> In total, there were between 100 and 200 assailants.<sup>3044</sup> That day, around 20 refugees died and many sustained injuries.<sup>3045</sup> No guns or grenades were used during the attack.<sup>3046</sup> After the attack ended and the assailants departed, the refugees dug pits in which they buried the victims.<sup>3047</sup> Witness ALIZA did not see any vehicles in the vicinity of the refugees on that Friday but he did see cars moving on the road going past the peak of Kabuye Hill and on the road linking Muganza and Ndora cellule.<sup>3048</sup> After sunset, the witness and his family rested; there were no attacks during the night.<sup>3049</sup> He did not see or hear that Ndayambaje had been present on the hills that day.<sup>3050</sup>

1324. On the morning of Saturday around 10.00 a.m., the refugees were attacked again by civilians carrying traditional weapons, and the number of assailants increased during the day; by around 2.00 p.m. there were approximately 1,000 attackers.<sup>3051</sup> Around 4.00 p.m., between 100 and 200 persons came from Ku-Badivantiste hill carrying Kalashnikovs and grenades.<sup>3052</sup> They wore camouflage uniform, normally worn by Rwandan soldiers, and caps, normally worn by gendarmes.<sup>3053</sup> They crossed the valley separating Gahondo hill from the hill where the refugees had gathered and moved towards the refugees in a half circle to prevent them from fleeing.<sup>3054</sup> The refugees who were on top of the hill without a name told Witness ALIZA that they had seen vehicles at the top of Ku Badivantiste hill bringing soldiers.<sup>3055</sup> The witness did not see any figure of authority but he had the impression that the soldiers followed instructions because they drew nearer without shooting and then all opened fire at the same time.<sup>3056</sup> There were about 4,000 to 5,000 refugees at the site.<sup>3057</sup> The refugees defended themselves by throwing stones and using traditional weapons.<sup>3058</sup> Around 5.00 p.m., the soldiers opened fire and threw grenades.<sup>3059</sup> People were falling like fruit being shaken from a tree; after around 30 minutes, there was thunder and heavy rain and the attackers withdrew to Ku-Badivantiste hill.<sup>3060</sup> The attack lasted between 30 and 50 minutes.<sup>3061</sup> It was very hard to estimate how many people were killed but about 1,000 refugees survived.<sup>3062</sup>

1325. Witness ALIZA testified that he did not see Ndayambaje or hear of his presence that Saturday afternoon.<sup>3063</sup> He conceded that when the attack was launched and people were

On the morning of Sunday, the witness and his cousin returned to Kabuye to look for family members.<sup>3066</sup> They saw civilians with traditional weapons attacking and killing women and children who had survived the previous attack. The witness and his cousin therefore fled and hid at a sorghum farm.<sup>3067</sup>

1327. Witness ALIZA testified that he knew Ndayambaje as bourgmestre of Muganza commune. In 1991, Ndayambaje certified that the witness' mother was unable to pay for the witness' school fees and, as a consequence, he was given financial assistance to fund his studies.<sup>3068</sup> Ndayambaje resigned from the post of bourgmestre in 1992 and was succeeded by Chrysologue who remained bourgmestre until 1994.<sup>3069</sup> In 1994, Muganza commune had a white single-cabin Toyota Hilux vehicle without a tarpaulin at the back.<sup>3070</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness TOVIA

1328. Witness TOVIA, a local Hutu politician in 1994, testified that approximately two weeks after the death of the President,<sup>3071</sup> on 21 April 1994,<sup>3072</sup> a named individual who lived near Ngiriyi Bridge informed him that assailants with traditional weapons had launched an attack on that bridge.<sup>3073</sup> The witness immediately went to Ngiriyi valley to verify the information and on arrival saw a crowd of civilians and cattle.<sup>3074</sup> He estimated that there were between 500 and 600 people in the crowd at Ngiriyi Bridge although he had no idea of their ethnicity.<sup>3075</sup>

1329. Witness TOVIA testified that Ndayambaje was not present at Ngiriyi Bridge on that day nor did he see any vehicles carrying policemen or soldiers.<sup>3076</sup> If Ndayambaje had been present, the witness would have been informed.<sup>3077</sup> After verifying the situation at Ngiriyi Bridge, the witness went to the commune office and informed the bourgmestre of Mugusa commune about what had happened.<sup>3078</sup> He told the bourgmestre that a crowd of people were attempting to gain access to Mugusa commune.<sup>3079</sup> The bourgmestre had his driver take him, together with the witness and two policemen, to Ngiryi Bridge in order to check on the situation.<sup>3080</sup>

1330. The bourgmestre's car stopped in the centre of Musha, the occupants got out and they headed towards the area where the crowd was in Rugarama cellule.<sup>3081</sup> The bourgmestre stood in front of the crowd and asked where the people were going. After an address of between 15 and 20 minutes, during which the bourgmestre told the people to leave, the crowd returned to Ndora commune using Ngiryi Bridge. During this address the two policemen accompanying the bourgmestre were carrying firearms but were not threatening anybody; the barrels of their firearms were not pointed at anyone.<sup>3082</sup> There were no other vehicles present in the areas surrounding Ngiryi Bridge that day.<sup>3083</sup> Furthermore, no acts of violence were perpetrated against the crowd of civilians as they obeyed the bourgmestre's instructions to return back.<sup>3084</sup>

1331. The day after the events at Ngiryi Bridge, the bourgmestre told Witness TOVIA that he had drafted a report on the events and asked the witness to take it to Butare town.<sup>3085</sup> The witness acknowledged that Defence Exhibit 555C was the report submitted by the bourgmestre of Mugusa commune on the incident at Ngiryi Bridge.<sup>3086</sup> The witness agreed that the date written on the right-hand corner of the document was 22 April 1994 which meant that the events at Ngiryi Bridge occurred on 21 April 1994.<sup>3087</sup>

Nteziryayo Defence Witness AND-5

1332. Witness AND-5, a Hutu policeman, was a detained witness when he gave evidence, having been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for his participation in killings in Mugusa commune, although he intended to lodge an appeal.<sup>3088</sup> He testified that around 21 April 1994, he and another policeman accompanied the bourgmestre of Mugusa commune and Witness TOVIA on a trip to the border between Ndora and Mugusa communes at the Ngiryi river in order to verify the presence of refugees there.<sup>3089</sup> Witness TOVIA had alerted the bourgmestre to the situation. The group had to leave the blue commune vehicle in Musha centre and walk two kilometres to where the refugees were as this route was not accessible by car.<sup>3090</sup> The refugees told the group that they were fleeing because they had heard gunshots. The bourgmestre told them to return to where they had come from because their movement would create panic among the population and disrupt the safety of the commune.<sup>3091</sup> The group accompanied the refugees back to the bridge over the Ngiryi river; there were no gunshots or cars present.<sup>3092</sup> The witness did not see Ndayambaje in the vicinity of the Ngiryi Bridge nor

Ndayambaje Defence Witness KEPİR

1333. Witness KEPİR, son of a Hutu father and Tutsi mother, testified that he saw Ndayambaje at the commune office on 20 April 1994. Ndayambaje arrived in a car that the witness did not recognise and informed the witness that he was fleeing because he had heard gunfire in his neighbourhood.<sup>3095</sup> Witness KEPİR and Ndayambaje then walked to the witness' house.<sup>3096</sup> The vehicle that brought Ndayambaje to the commune office left and returned a few minutes later with Ndayambaje's family and some others.<sup>3097</sup> Ndayambaje was joined by his family and the others who had travelled with them at the witness' house and 10 or 15 minutes later, they all went together to the commune office.<sup>3098</sup>

1334. Ndayambaje, a gendarme and the witness took the vehicle belonging to an international organisation and left at approximately 12.30 or 1.00 p.m. to inform Bourgmestre Chrysologue in Butare of the prevailing situation in the commune.<sup>3099</sup> They arrived in Butare at approximately 2.00 p.m., returning to the Muganza commune office at around 4.00 or 5.00 p.m.<sup>3100</sup> Ndayambaje spent the night of 20 April 1994 in the courtyard of the commune office.<sup>3101</sup>

1336. On the morning of 22 April 1994, Witness KEPİR saw and spoke to Ndayambaje, Bourgmestre Chrysologue and the bourgmestre's driver, Charles. This group told the witness that they were leaving to monitor the situation in Mugombwa and Kabuga.<sup>3103</sup> The witness testified that Ndayambaje wanted to collect a car from an expatriate called Monique who worked there and to check on his mother who was hospitalised at the Mugombwa clinic.<sup>3104</sup> The group left at around 10.00 a.m.<sup>3105</sup> Ndayambaje returned to the commune office 20 to 30 minutes later in the car he had collected, a khaki-coloured Toyota Corolla.<sup>3106</sup> Ndayambaje was not accompanied by his mother.<sup>3107</sup> At approximately 1.00 or 2.00 p.m. on 22 April 1994, the witness accompanied Ndayambaje who decided to collect the vehicle belonging to the

Ndayambaje Defence Witness GABON

1339. Witness GABON, a Hutu policeman, testified that on 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje arrived at the Remera commune office in a vehicle at about 11.00 a.m. which left soon afterwards.<sup>3123</sup> He returned at about 12.30 p.m. with his family and others.<sup>3124</sup> Ndayambaje and his family moved into the IGA room in the commune office.<sup>3125</sup> Later, Ndayambaje left in a blue vehicle belonging to an international organisation and went to Butare.<sup>3126</sup> He returned between 5.00 p.m. and 5.30 p.m.<sup>3127</sup> The witness testified that about 150 persons took refuge at the commune office on Wednesday 20 April 1994.<sup>3128</sup> They stayed day and night at the commune office until the following Saturday.<sup>3129</sup>

1341. On Friday 22 April 1994 Ndayambaje left the commune office at around 9.00 a.m., returning one hour later. He left again at about 11.00 a.m. in the blue vehicle belonging to an international organisation, returning at about 2.00 p.m., driving the vehicle of the Kirarambogo health centre.<sup>3131</sup> Ndayambaje and his family spent the night in the IGA room of the commune office.<sup>3132</sup>

1342. There was an attack at the commune office at about 9.00 a.m. on Saturday 23 April 1994 in which people were abducted. Ndayambaje and his family were still in the IGA room at the time of the attack.<sup>3133</sup> Later that same day, Ndayambaje, his family and others left in the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle heading in the direction of Mugombwa; he was told they were going to Kibayi.<sup>3134</sup> Ndayambaje did not return to the commune office that day.<sup>3135</sup>

1343. On cross-examination, Witness GABON testified that he remained at the commune office until 24 April and that from 20 April until then he slept for just 27 minutes.<sup>3136</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness MARVA

1344. Witness MARVA, a Hutu who lived in Ndayambaje's house from 1990 until 1994 in Mugombwa secteur, Muganza commune, testified that on a Wednesday, two weeks after the death of the President at around 8.00 a.m. or 8.30 a.m., a young man named Chanvrièr came to Ndayambaje's house, where she was living, to seek refuge.<sup>3137</sup> Ndayambaje hid Chanvrièr in the guest room and locked him inside.<sup>3138</sup> Later that morning, after hearing gunshots, they all decided to flee.<sup>3139</sup> A man who was driving his vehicle on the way to the market square passed by Ndayambaje's house to pick him up and take him to the commune office to seek refuge.<sup>3140</sup> The man returned after approximately one hour to pick up the remaining people in the Accused's house, including the witness.<sup>3141</sup> They went by car to the home of Witness KEPIR, near the commune office, where they met Ndayambaje.<sup>3142</sup> They then went on foot to the

Muganza commune office.<sup>3143</sup> On cross-examination, Witness MARVA stated that the distance between Ndayambaje's home and the commune office would take around one hour to cover on foot.<sup>3144</sup> They remained at the commune office from Wednesday 20 April 1994 until Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>3145</sup>

1345. On Saturday 23 April 1994, assailants attacked the commune office and abducted people.<sup>3146</sup> In the afternoon, Ndayambaje, his family and other persons, including Witness MARVA went to Kibayi commune where they stayed all week at someone's house.<sup>3147</sup> They left at about 3.00 or 4.00 p.m. and arrived after sunset.<sup>3148</sup> There were three buildings at the house where they were staying.<sup>3149</sup> Ndayambaje and the witness stayed in the main house; they slept in separate rooms.<sup>3150</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness BIDI

1347. Witness BIDI was confronted with the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses EV, QAQ, TW and TP allegedly placing Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill on the morning of Sunday 24 April 1994. She disagreed with the accounts provided by those witnesses and reiterated that Ndayambaje did not leave her house on that day.<sup>3155</sup>

1348. Father Tiziano Pegoraro, an Italian priest, testified that from 1988 until 20 April 1994 he was the parish priest of Mugombwa Parish.<sup>3156</sup> He had known Ndayambaje since becoming a member of the Mugombwa community in 1983, when Ndayambaje was the bourgmestre of Muganza commune.<sup>3157</sup> He testified that on 20 April 1994, at around 6.00 a.m., Ndayambaje knocked at the witness' window and told him that there had been riots and that it was necessary to speak with Witness RV who lived close to the commune office. Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje therefore drove to Remera hill, Muganza commune, in the parish vehicle.<sup>3158</sup>

1349. Father Tiziano testified that at the commune office, they first talked to a gendarme who went to fetch Witness RV from his residence.<sup>3159</sup> The witness later stated that he and Ndayambaje went directly to Witness RV's residence.<sup>3160</sup> Ndayambaje informed Witness RV about the riots and Witness RV said that he would deliver a speech at Kabuga market around 9.00 a.m. to calm the population.<sup>3161</sup> Father Tiziano stated that Witness RV did not get into the witness' car on 20 April 1994, contrary to Witness RV's testimony.<sup>3162</sup> After speaking with Witness RV, Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje drove to Mugombwa Church in the parish vehicle. Ndayambaje got out of the vehicle and went home on foot, while Father Tiziano drove into the church premises with the vehicle.<sup>3163</sup>

1350. At 9.00 a.m. the witness walked to Ndayambaje's house because they had agreed to drive together to Kabuga.<sup>3164</sup> He met Ndayambaje on the road opposite his house talking to various people. Ndayambaje said that they should wait for Witness RV before going to Kabuga but mentioned that as the situation in Kabuga was dangerous, Father Tiziano was free to return home if Witness RV did not turn up. Ndayambaje then said that they would certainly not go to Kabuga. Father Tiziano waited for a few minutes for Witness RV and then returned to the parish on foot.<sup>3165</sup> That was the last time he saw Ndayambaje.<sup>3166</sup> Ndayambaje lived approximately 15 minutes away from the commune office by car.<sup>3167</sup>

1351. Father Tiziano testified that he left Mugombwa Parish along with the three nuns who were in charge of the health centre in the afternoon of 20 April 1994.<sup>3168</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness Constant Julius Goetschalckx, a.k.a Brother Stan

1352. Brother Stan is a Catholic monk who lived in Mugombwa Parish from 1993 to 1994.<sup>3169</sup> He had known Ndayambaje since 1988 and they were friends.<sup>3170</sup> In 1994 the witness worked in education in the Burundian refugee camps and lived and worked mainly in Saga refugee camp in Kibayi commune.<sup>3171</sup>

1356. Brother Stan testified that the Mugombwa health centre was run by Italian nuns who left with Father Tiziano on 20 April 1994. Brother Stan testified that he had heard that after the nuns left the patients at the health centre were taken to Mugombwa Church in the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>3176</sup>

1357. Brother Stan testified that at 8.00 a.m. on the morning of 20 April 1994 he set off to the Kibayi commune office from the Saga camp where he was staying, to deliver supplies to those who had sought refuge there.<sup>3177</sup> The distance between Saga and Kibayi was approximately 15 kilometres and the witness arrived there between 8.30 a.m. and 9.00 a.m.<sup>3178</sup> He was stopped by the commune office secretary in Kibayi who told him that there was insecurity in the commune and he asked Brother Stan to accompany him to inform the bourgmestre of Kibayi commune who was in Butare. He testified that he agreed and they set off in the normal direction, passing by the Saga camp towards Kabuga, Mugombwa, Bishya and on to Butare.<sup>3179</sup>

1358. Brother Stan testified that after having gone past the Saga camp, before getting to Kabuga, a crowd of hundreds or thousands of people with spears and machetes surrounded the vehicle and climbed onto it so they could not continue to Kabuga. The crowd were saying that they were going to fight at Kabuga.<sup>3180</sup> He testified that he drove slowly backwards towards the Saga camp; just before getting to the Saga camp he took the road which leads from Saga to Saga 2 and on towards Kirarambogo.<sup>3181</sup>

1359. Brother Stan testified that he arrived at Muganza commune at about 12.30 p.m. on 20 April 1994. He stopped at the commune office to ask permission to drive around. The bourgmestre was not there but he saw Father Tiziano from Mugombwa Parish who was leaving when he arrived.<sup>3182</sup> He was informed that Ndayambaje and his family had sought refuge there.<sup>3183</sup> Brother Stan testified that he met the criminal investigations officer at the commune office who asked if he could accompany Brother Stan to Butare. They first went in the direction of Mugombwa Parish in order to pick up some fuel.<sup>3184</sup>

1360. From Muganza commune to Mugombwa Parish the witness travelled with the Kibayi commune secretary and the criminal investigations officer. On arrival in Bishya, the criminal investigations officer asked the witness to take Mr. Fidèle, the district judge, his wife who was about to give birth, and a young girl in the vehicle. They travelled together in the vehicle towards the Mugombwa health centre.<sup>3185</sup> He testified that he arrived in Mugombwa Parish at about 1.00 p.m. or 1.30 p.m.<sup>3186</sup> He was not able to go any further than the parish because the vehicle was surrounded by a group of people armed with machetes and spears; the crowd was hostile because of the presence of the district judge in the car.<sup>3187</sup> The district judge, his wife and the young girl were Tutsis.<sup>3188</sup> He reversed and when he was level with his house he shouted that he needed petrol, and two jerry cans were put in his vehicle.<sup>3189</sup> The witness testified that the land in front of the parish was empty. He had gone past the church in order to go to the health centre when the gang appeared.<sup>3190</sup>

1361. Brother Stan testified that on leaving Mugombwa Parish he proceeded to the MRND Palace in Butare where the bourgmestre's meeting was being held.<sup>3191</sup> On the way to Butare, the witness' car was stopped at a roadblock manned by armed soldiers.<sup>3192</sup> Those travelling in the vehicle were asked for their identity papers.<sup>3193</sup> Mr. Fidèle and the young girl travelling with him had their documents. Mr. Fidèle's wife, who was about to give birth, did not have an identity card. She was asked to get out of the vehicle, and Mr. Fidèle stayed with his wife at that roadblock. Brother Stan dropped off the girl at Bihira's place, and on his return, stopped at the roadblock to find out whether Mr. Fidèle and his wife were still there. He was told that they had gone to the hospital. He did not attempt to find out what happened to them. He never saw them again.<sup>3194</sup> Given the circumstances at the time he believed they were killed but he did not know where or when.<sup>3195</sup>

secretary from Kibayi commune.<sup>3196</sup> He dropped the criminal investigations officer off at the Muganza commune office at about 5.00 or 5.30 p.m.<sup>3197</sup>

1365. Brother Stan testified that in the afternoon of 23 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje on the road near Saga camp. Ndayambaje told the witness that he was with his family on his way to Kibayi.<sup>3201</sup>

1366. Brother Stan testified that he left the camp with some students and went to Mugombwa Parish to get food supplies which were stored near the old church and the Amici house because there was a food shortage in Saga camp. As they drove past the church, the witness noticed that there were bodies of people who had been killed everywhere on the parish ground.<sup>3202</sup> He did not enter Mugombwa Church on 23 April 1994. With the car, he drove through the bodies to the stores, got the food supplies and returned to Saga camp in the evening.<sup>3203</sup> On seeing the dead bodies, he decided to flee Rwanda the following day but he was turned back at the Burundian border on 24 April.<sup>3204</sup>

possible, they would carry out agricultural work for Rwandans living around the camp.<sup>3209</sup> The Burundian refugees were not armed, they had agricultural instruments. Brother Stan did not inform the préfecture authorities because he did not know how; he had never heard of any measure by a bourgmestre to take away a person's tools.<sup>3210</sup>

1368. On being referred to a previous statement before the Belgian judge, Vandermeersch, dated 24 November 1995 the witness testified that his statement was incorrect and that he saw Ndayambaje on 23 April 1994, on his way to Kibayi with his family, not on 27 or 28 April 1994 as recorded in the statement.<sup>3211</sup> Brother Stan testified that the judge was mistaken.<sup>3212</sup>

1369. On cross-examination, Brother Stan was referred to a letter of complaint he wrote on 25 November 1995 to a journalist named Van den Abeele of Belgische Radio en Televisie Nederlands, regarding the television coverage of the genocide in relation to Muganza commune.<sup>3213</sup> In this letter, he stated that Ndayambaje had sought refuge at the commune office from 20 to 25 April. Brother Stan testified that there was a mistake in the letter and that he was not under oath at the time of its writing; he saw Ndayambaje at about 4.00 or 4.30 p.m. on 23 April at Saga camp where he was travelling in the Kirarambogo health centre vehicle, on his way to Kibayi. He testified that he had been mistaken in this letter when he said that Ndayambaje sought refuge at the commune office from 20 to 25 April, the correct dates were 20 to 23 April 1994.<sup>3214</sup>

1370. Brother Stan testified that his testimony before the Tribunal was clearer and more precise than the statements he made in 1995 because at the time of his statements he was still traumatised by the events of 1994. In his view, this is why there were contradictions between the statement to the Belgian judge and the letter to the journalist written in 1995, and his testimony in 2008.<sup>3215</sup>

1371. Brother Stan and some Burundian refugees buried the dead at Mugombwa Church from 25 April 1994 until 2 or 3 May 1994.<sup>3216</sup> It took about 10 days. The dead were virtually all women, children and elderly.<sup>3217</sup>

Ndayambaje Defence Witness SABINE

1373. Witness SABINE was convicted for genocide-related killings and had been released from prison having served his sentence when he gave evidence before the Tribunal.<sup>3219</sup> He testified that one Sunday around two weeks after the death of the President, he went to Kabuye Hill with some acquaintances in order to loot from the bodies of dead refugees.<sup>3220</sup> From Kabuye Hill, the witness had a view of Dahwe Hill although his view of the road on that hill was obscured by trees. The distance between Dahwe and Kabuye Hills could be covered in 30 minutes to one hour. He said that throughout the time he was on Kabuye Hill, he did not see or hear about any vehicles on the road on Dahwe Hill. Furthermore, he did not hear any gunshots or explosions, or see any soldiers while he was on Kabuye Hill.<sup>3221</sup>

1374. Witness SABINE testified that he did not see Ndayambaje or hear that he had been present on Kabuye or Dahwe Hills that Sunday.<sup>3222</sup> The witness disagreed with the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QAQ and TW that Ndayambaje allegedly transported attackers to Kabuye Hill on Sunday 24 April 1994.<sup>3223</sup> He said that he did not go to Kabuye Hill on the previous Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday nor did he hear of attacks having taken place on those days.<sup>3224</sup>

1375. Ndayambaje testified that on 20 April 1994 at around 6.00 a.m., he noticed that houses were burning on the hills of Saga and Kibayi.<sup>3225</sup> He decided to go and see the parish priest of Mugombwa, Father Tiziano, so that they could go together and warn the commune authorities about what was happening.<sup>3226</sup> Mugombwa Church was 500 metres away from Ndayambaje's residence and he went there on foot.<sup>3227</sup> Ndayambaje met Father Tiziano in his room and immediately thereafter they headed to the commune office in Remera in Father Tiziano's car, a blue single-cabin Hilux pickup. On arriving at the commune office, they met a security guard who told Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano that Witness RV was still asleep. The guard therefore went to inform Witness RV that he had visitors.<sup>3228</sup> After a wait of 30 or 40 minutes, Witness RV came and Ndayambaje reported what he had seen on the hills of Saga and Kibayi.<sup>3229</sup> Witness RV said that he had to go to Butare for a meeting but that he would first stop at Mugombwa to assess the situation.<sup>3230</sup> Witness RV stated that he would meet Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano at Ndayambaje's home so that they could go to Kabuga together to address the population.<sup>3231</sup> Thereafter, Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano returned to

1376. When he arrived home he found a man known as Chanvriev who had come to seek refuge.<sup>3235</sup> Ndayambaje took Chanvriev to the guest room to rest.<sup>3236</sup> At around 9.00 a.m., Father Tiziano came to see Ndayambaje on the road outside his home where they were supposed to meet with Witness RV.<sup>3237</sup> Ndayambaje, Father Tiziano and Witness RV had agreed that the three of them would go and address the population at the marketplace of Kabuga, however Witness RV did not show up.<sup>3238</sup> Father Tiziano therefore decided to go back home.<sup>3239</sup>

1380. Ndayambaje testified that he did not go to Kabuye Hill on 22 April 1994.<sup>3253</sup> He went to Mugombwa in the morning of 22 April with Bourgmestre Bimenyimana. They travelled in the white pickup and the bourgmestre dropped him off in Mugombwa where he went to retrieve Monique's car which was parked at the priest's house.<sup>3254</sup>

1381. Ndayambaje retrieved Monique's car which was parked at the parish priest's house and went on towards his house.<sup>3255</sup> When he arrived at his house he learned that his mother and grandmother had sought temporary refuge at his house. They had already left when he arrived and had returned to their houses in Cyumba secteur, Muganza commune.<sup>3256</sup> Ndayambaje returned to the commune office 45 minutes to an hour later, around noon.<sup>3257</sup> Ndayambaje left the commune office again at about 2.00 p.m. with the bourgmestre in the vehicle belonging to an international organisation. He returned driving the khaki Kirarambogo health centre vehicle.<sup>3258</sup> He spent the night of 22 April 1994 at the Muganza commune office.<sup>3259</sup>

1383. Ndayambaje testified that he saw Brother Stan on his way to Kibayi on that day.<sup>3262</sup> On cross-examination, Ndayambaje testified that he stopped, alighted from the vehicle and talked to Brother Stan for a few moments before continuing on his way.<sup>3263</sup> Ndayambaje testified that they went through various roadblocks and at each roadblock they were searched and had to unload all their luggage. Sometimes these searches took a very long time especially at roadblocks located within Kibayi commune. The roadblocks were located in Kabuga, Saga, Kirembwa and at Nyabisagara and were manned by civilians.<sup>3264</sup> They arrived at 7.00 p.m.; the

1386. Paragraphs 6.30 to 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment allege Ndayambaje's involvement in the arrest, transfer and massacre of Tutsi refugees at Kabuye Hill, covering the period from 20 to 24 April 1994. The Defence led alibi evidence to establish that Ndayambaje could not have been involved in the arrest of Tutsis at Gisagara and their subsequent escort to Kabuye Hill on 20 April; the attacks at Kabuye Hill on 22, 23 and 24 April 1994; the transportation of attackers to Kabuye Hill; and the distribution of weapons to the attackers. In its deliberations, the Chamber has considered each piece of evidence in light of the totality of evidence admitted at trial. In addition, it has assessed the Prosecution evidence in respect of each Indictment paragraph alongside the Defence alibi evidence.

1387. The Chamber recalls that there are a number of general issues regarding the Defence alibi evidence, set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (), that have been borne in mind when considering each Indictment paragraph. In this connection, the Chamber notes that the Ndayambaje Defence did not file a formal notice of alibi. While Rule 67 (B) of the Rules specifies that failure of the Defence to provide notice of an alibi shall not limit the right of the accused to rely on an alibi defence, in its Decision of 1 March 2005 on the Prosecutor's Motion to be Served with Particulars of Alibi pursuant to Rule 67 (A)(ii)(a) the Chamber specifically directed the Defence to make the necessary disclosure in accordance with the Rules.<sup>3274</sup> The Ndayambaje Defence did not comply with the Chamber's direction, despite its clear intention to rely on alibi evidence.

1388. The Defence filed an Avis additionnel et identification des témoins d'alibi ("additional notification and identification of alibi witnesses") on 29 April 2008, less than one month before the Defence opened its case, summarising the evidence of Witnesses BIDI, GABON and KEPIR. The Avis additionnel states that Ndayambaje had sought refuge at a family friend's house during the massacre at Kabuye Hill. Despite its name, this Avis additionnel or additional notification was the first occasion on which the Ndayambaje Defence gave notice of its intention to raise an alibi. The Chamber finds that the Avis additionnel is no substitute for providing the Prosecution with formal notice of alibi in accordance with the Rules. The Chamber reiterates that it is settled case law that where good cause is not shown for the application of Rule 67 (B), which states that the Defence's failure to file a notice of alibi under Rule 67 (A) shall not limit the accused's right to rely on an alibi defence, the Chamber is entitled to take such failure into account when weighing the credibility of the alibi. The Chamber further notes that Witnesses MARVA and Tiziano, who also gave evidence in support of the Accused's alibi, were not named in the Avis additionnel. Witness MARVA was reinstated to the Ndayambaje Defence's witness list on 4 June 2008, after having been initially removed on 23 January 2006.<sup>3275</sup> The Chamber also recalls that in cross-examination by the Ndayambaje Defence, the Prosecution witnesses were not confronted with the Defence's assertion that Ndayambaje could not have been at the scene of the events because he had an alibi. This further detracts from the credibility of the alibi. Furthermore, the Chamber observes that the late notice the Defence gave regarding its decision to bring alibi evidence suggests that the alibi may be a fabrication, tailored to suit the Prosecution's case.

1389. As to the credibility of the alibi witnesses, the Chamber recalls that Witness GABON testified that between 20 and 24 April he slept for just 27 minutes.<sup>3276</sup> The Chamber does not consider such an assertion to be plausible. Furthermore, the Chamber notes that all of the alibi witnesses have close ties to Ndayambaje. Witness MARVA lived in Ndayambaje's house between 1990 until 1994 and fled Rwanda with Ndayambaje's family in July 1994.<sup>3277</sup> Witness GABON is a former policeman employed by Ndayambaje.<sup>3278</sup> Witness KEPIR, a friend of Ndayambaje, lived and worked a short distance from the commune office in Remera. He used to report to Ndayambaje on matters related to his professional activities and has been implicated in the massacre at Kabuye Hill.<sup>3279</sup> Witness BIDI is the daughter of Ndayambaje's friend and Ndayambaje claimed to have taken refuge at Witness BIDI's family home on 23 April 1994.<sup>3280</sup> Accordingly, their evidence must be reviewed bearing these personal ties in mind. Furthermore, as regards Witness KEPIR, the Chamber recalls Witness EV's testimony that on the day of his arrival at Kabuye Hill, he saw Witness KEPIR with Ndayambaje on two separate occasions during which refugees came under attack.<sup>3281</sup> On the second occasion, Witness KEPIR was driving a blue double-cabin Hilux.<sup>3282</sup> Witness FAU also testified that Ndayambaje used Witness KEPIR's blue vehicle to drive to the Muganza commune office to pick up weapons for use at Kabuye Hill.<sup>3283</sup> This evidence also has a bearing on Witness KEPIR's credibility.

1390. Brother Stan gave alibi evidence that he saw Ndayambaje on the afternoon of 23 April 1994, travelling with his family to Kibayi commune.<sup>3284</sup> The Chamber has doubts regarding Brother Stan's credibility. Brother Stan testified that attacks against the Tutsis had started by 18 April 1994.<sup>3285</sup> Yet, the Chamber notes that two days later, he left two Tutsis, Mr. Fidèle and his pregnant wife, at a roadblock manned by armed soldiers.<sup>3286</sup> The Chamber finds it curious that he made no effort to follow-up or report the incident to the authorities, nor did he attempt to find out what happened to them although he testified that he believed they may have been killed.<sup>3287</sup> This incident casts doubt on his credibility.

1392. Brother Stan testified that he was able to travel around Butare freely prior to 25 April 1994.<sup>3293</sup> Despite this fact, he made no attempt to notify the authorities of the unrest in Kibayi and Muganza communes. It was the Kibayi commune office secretary who wished to notify the authorities about the insecurity in the commune and he asked Brother Stan to accompany him.<sup>3294</sup> Further, Brother Stan did not inform the préfecture authorities that the Burundian refugees who participated in the killings were armed with traditional weapons because, he explained, he did not know how and had never heard of any measure by a bourgmestre to take away a person's tools.<sup>3295</sup> The Chamber does not accept this explanation and finds that his failure to seek assistance, despite his knowledge of the Burundian refugees' involvement in killings, and his position of responsibility over them, further detracts from his credibility.

1394. The Chamber further notes that Brother Stan was also a close friend of Ndayambaje and a close associate of the Burundian refugees, some of whom are implicated in the massacres at Kabuye Hill and Mugombwa Church. For the reasons set out above the Chamber does not find Brother Stan's evidence credible.

1395. Ndayambaje testified that his mother was being cared for at the Mugombwa health centre from 20 April 1994 and this is why she did not join him and the rest of his family at the commune office.<sup>3301</sup> The Chamber finds his account not credible. When he heard explosions on 20 April 1994 Ndayambaje testified that he decided to evacuate his family to the Muganza commune office. He did not, however, collect his mother from the health centre despite the proximity of the health centre to his house, merely 500 metres, and the ease with which she could have been evacuated with the rest of his family.<sup>3302</sup> Furthermore, Father Tiziano testified that he left Mugombwa Parish along with the three nuns who were in charge of the health centre in the afternoon of 20 April 1994,<sup>3303</sup> undermining Ndayambaje's claim that his mother was being cared for at the health centre from 20 April 1994.

1398. The Chamber is mindful that in addition to being present at Ngiriyi Bridge and Kabuye Hill on 20 and 21 April 1994, Ndayambaje is alleged to have visited Mugombwa Church at about noon on 20 April 1994 for approximately 15 minutes,<sup>3313</sup> and between 10.00 and 10.30 a.m. on 21 April 1994.<sup>3314</sup> The Chamber observes that the distances pertinent to Ndayambaje's alibi on these dates; between Ngiryi Bridge and the Muganza commune office, the commune office and Kabuye Hill, the commune office and Mugombwa Parish and between Kabuye Hill and Mugombwa Parish, are no more than one hour's distance from each other, and a matter of 10 kilometres or less in most instances. Between Ngiryi Bridge, where Ndayambaje is alleged to have been sighted in the morning of 20 April 1994, and Mugombwa Parish and the Muganza commune office, where Ndayambaje claims he was that morning, the distance is approximately 25 kilometres and took about one hour by car according to Ndayambaje.<sup>3315</sup> The distance between the Muganza commune office and Mugombwa Parish, where Ndayambaje claims to have been is six kilometres, according to Ndayambaje's testimony, and the distance between his house which was next door to the health centre, and Mugombwa Church was 500 metres.<sup>3316</sup> According to Ndayambaje, Kabuye Hill was nine or 10 kilometres from the Muganza commune office.<sup>3317</sup> The Chamber observes that it was therefore possible for Ndayambaje to reach each of these locations in little more than one hour's time and, in most cases, a significantly shorter time frame than the four hours' drive testified to by Ndayambaje. These aspects are considered in more detail below and in the section dealing with the Mugombwa Church Massacre ().

3.6.5.4.1 20 April 1994 – Tutsis Arrested and Escorted from Gisagara to Kabuye Hill

1399. The Defence led alibi evidence through Witnesses GABON, KEPİR, MARVA and Father Tiziano to establish that Ndayambaje could not have been involved in the arrest of Tutsis on the morning of 20 April 1994 as he was at home or at the Muganza commune office. Father Tiziano testified that Ndayambaje came to see him at 6.00 a.m. on 20 April 1994 and together they went to see Witness RV at the commune office.<sup>3318</sup> They left the commune office together and the witness dropped Ndayambaje near his home at an unspecified time before 9.00 a.m.; the witness later saw Ndayambaje again at the latter's home around 9.00 a.m.<sup>3319</sup> This is consistent with Ndayambaje's account of his movements on the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>3320</sup> Witness RV on the other hand testified that Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano did indeed come to see him at 6.00 a.m. but contradicts their assertions that they later waited for him in vain outside Ndayambaje's residence at 9.00 a.m. in order to go to Kabuga to address the population; instead, Witness RV contends that he went to Ndayambaje's residence at around 7.30 a.m. and informed Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano that he was going to Butare.<sup>3321</sup>

1401. The Chamber considers that the evidence of Ndayambaje and Father Tiziano as to Ndayambaje's presence at his home at 9.00 a.m. is not credible. The Chamber recalls that as an Accused, Ndayambaje's testimony must be treated with appropriate caution as he has a personal interest in demonstrating that he was not present at Ngiryi Bridge on the morning of 20 April 1994. In addition, the Chamber recalls its analysis that Father Tiziano was not a credible witness as regards the events at Mugombwa Church (). The Chamber considers that the reasons underpinning the finding that Father Tiziano was not credible as regards the events at Mugombwa Church are also relevant to the assessment of his general credibility as to whether he was with the Accused on the morning of 20 April 1994. In this connection, the Chamber refers to the convincing eyewitness testimony of Witnesses QAR and FAU that Father Tiziano locked refugees inside Mugombwa Church, who were later massacred<sup>3324</sup> (). He may have had an incentive to minimise his involvement in the events of 1994 or at least minimise the role of Ndayambaje, a long-standing acquaintance. For these reasons, the Chamber does not consider that the testimony of Father Tiziano and Ndayambaje to raise a reasonable doubt as to the Prosecution's case that Ndayambaje was at Ngiryi Bridge early in the morning of 20 April 1994.

1402. As regards the evidence of Witness MARVA, the Chamber notes that she said she saw Ndayambaje at an unspecified time in the morning of 20 April 1994 when he hid Chanvrier in the guest room.<sup>3325</sup> Witness MARVA could not specify at what time Ndayambaje left his home or the time when he was reunited with his family and the witness at Witness KEPIR's residence. Her evidence was simply that a decision was taken to flee on the morning of 20 April 1994.<sup>3326</sup> However, Ndayambaje testified that he was picked up from home at around noon and was reunited with his family later that afternoon, before 1.00 p.m.<sup>3327</sup> Witness MARVA testified that it took one hour for the car that first collected Ndayambaje to return and pick up the witness.<sup>3328</sup> The car then had to travel approximately six kilometres from Mugombwa secteur, where Ndayambaje lived, to near the Muganza commune office in Remera to drop the witness off at Witness KEPIR's residence, a journey that takes around one hour by foot or approximately 15 minutes by car.<sup>3329</sup> Taking this evidence together, Ndayambaje would have been out of Witness MARVA's sight for between one and a quarter and one and a half hours. This is consistent with Ndayambaje's account of the time lapse between his departure from home and the arrival of his family at Witness KEPIR's house. The Prosecution case is that on the morning of 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje was in the area of Ngiryi Bridge on the border between Muyaga and Mugusa communes between daybreak and 11.00 a.m.<sup>3330</sup> The distance between Mugombwa secteur, where Ndayambaje lived, and Ngiriyi, where the refugees were intercepted before being forced back to Gisagara commune, is approximately 31 kilometres.<sup>3331</sup> The distance between Ngiriyi and Remera is approximately 25 kilometres, a journey that would take around one hour by car.<sup>3332</sup> On this basis, Ndayambaje would have needed between two and three hours on the morning of 20 April 1994 to travel from his home in Mugombwa secteur to Ngiriyi and from Ngiriyi back to his home or to Witness KEPIR's residence.

1403. The Chamber considers it significant that Witness MARVA did not testify to the whereabouts of Ndayambaje during a substantial part of the morning of 20 April 1994. Although Ndayambaje may not have had time to travel to Gisagara before going to Witness KEPIR's home near the commune office, the Chamber considers that he could have made a return trip from his home to Gisagara in the time between being seen by Witness RV at 7.30 a.m. and hiding Chanvrièr in his guest room, as testified to by Witness MARVA.<sup>3333</sup>

1404. In the absence of any other explanation for the Accused's whereabouts, the Chamber considers the Defence alibi as regards the morning of 20 April 1994 not to be reasonably possibly true.

1405. The Prosecution led evidence through Witnesses EV, RT and TP, all survivors of the Kabuye Hill massacre, in support of the allegation that on 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje took commune policeman to Gisagara commune where, together with soldiers, they arrested refugees and later took them to Kabuye Hill. The Chamber observes that the evidence of Witnesses EV, RT and TP is consistent on this issue: all three witnesses testified to the general movement of Tutsis towards Burundi via Gisagara<sup>3334</sup> and the sous-préfet's address to the refugees at Gisagara marketplace.<sup>3335</sup> Witnesses EV and RT described their interception by Ndayambaje at Ngiriyi Bridge between Muyaga and Mugusa communes,<sup>3336</sup> their return to Gisagara<sup>3337</sup> and subsequent escort to Kabuye Hill by soldiers and policemen.<sup>3338</sup> Both witnesses further testified to the presence of soldiers,<sup>3339</sup> policemen,<sup>3340</sup> and the Accused<sup>3341</sup> at Ngiryi Bridge and the firing of guns to force the refugees to retreat.<sup>3342</sup> Witness TP testified that the refugees were harassed by armed civilians at Ngiryi and forced back to Gisagara marketplace.<sup>3343</sup> She described the presence of Ndayambaje at Gisagara marketplace on 20 and 21 April 1994 and her impression that Ndayambaje was responsible for preventing the refugees from continuing their journey to Burundi.<sup>3344</sup> Witness EV was able to name the policemen accompanying Ndayambaje, Pierre and Népomuscène, and also testified to seeing Ndayambaje in Gisagara after the refugees' interception at Ngiryi Bridge.<sup>3345</sup> With regard to the identification of the Accused, the Chamber notes that Witnesses EV, RT and TP all testified to knowing Ndayambaje before the 1994 events. Witness EV testified that he had known Ndayambaje since he was a primary school student,<sup>3346</sup> Witness RT that he had known Ndayambaje prior to the events of 1994 in his capacity as the bourgmestre. He also knew that Ndayambaje ceased to be the bourgmestre and went on a study leave. The witness used to see him often, at least twice a week.<sup>3347</sup> This prior knowledge was not challenged by the Defence.<sup>3348</sup> Witness TP was unable to identify Ndayambaje in court. The Chamber observes that she knew Ndayambaje before the events of 1994 in his capacity as bourgmestre of Muganza, and that she was asked to identify the Accused in court a decade later.<sup>3349</sup> As such, the Chamber finds that her failure to identify him in court does not diminish her credibility.

1406. As regards time frames, Witness EV testified that they reached Gisagara marketplace for the first time at noon on Tuesday 19 April 1994 and left at sunset, arriving at Ngiryi Bridge at daybreak the following morning, 20 April 1994.<sup>3350</sup> Witness EV stated that the refugees arrived at Gisagara for the second time around 10.00 a.m. (in examination-in-chief) and 4.00 p.m. (in cross-examination) on 20 April 1994 and reached Kabuye Hill before 6.00 p.m. on the same day.<sup>3351</sup> Witness RT stated that on a Wednesday, which he thought to be 19 April 1994, the refugees reached Gisagara for the first time around 7.00 p.m. and spent the night there, continuing to Ngiryi Bridge the following day, Thursday, and being intercepted around 11.00 a.m.<sup>3352</sup> The Chamber notes that the Wednesday to which Witness RT refers would have fallen on 20 April 1994. He said that on returning to Gisagara for the second time, the refugees spent the night there and were escorted to Kabuye Hill the next morning, a Friday, arriving at 9.00 or 10.00 a.m.<sup>3353</sup> Witness TP testified that the refugees arrived in Gisagara for the first time on 20 April 1994 where they spent the night and travelled towards Burundi the following day, 21 April 1994, when they were intercepted in the area of Mugusa, beyond Ngiryi Bridge, and forced back to Gisagara.<sup>3354</sup> The refugees stayed at Gisagara marketplace on the night of 21 April 1994 and went to Kabuye Hill on Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>3355</sup>

1407. Therefore, according to Witness RT's testimony, the refugees were intercepted at Ngiryi Bridge on 20 or 21 April 1994 and subsequently escorted to Kabuye Hill on 21 or 22 April 1994, while Witness EV testified that both events occurred on 20 April 1994. Witness TP's evidence was that the refugees were intercepted on 21 April 1994 and arrived at Kabuye Hill on 23 April 1994. Although there are some discrepancies as to times and dates of departures and arrivals, the Chamber does not consider these to be significant, especially in view of the time that has elapsed since the events and the trauma the witnesses may have suffered as a consequence. It is quite possible that given the number of refugees said to have been on the move between Gisagara, Ngiryi Bridge and Kabuye Hill, the refugees were moved in groups from Gisagara marketplace to Kabuye Hill, some on the same day as the interception at Ngiryi Bridge and Mugusa, and others on the days immediately after. Even if the refugees were not separated into groups, it is also possible that the slow movement of a huge number of refugees from one location to another would result in different departure and arrival times depending on the refugees' location within the crowd.

1408. In cross-examination, Witness EV was confronted with his statement of 20 June 1995 in which he failed to mention the presence of a white vehicle when the refugees were intercepted at Ngiryi Bridge or the three-vehicle convoy positioned at the head of the crowd of refugees to prevent them from advancing.<sup>3356</sup> The witness then explained that the investigators had not recorded his testimony properly.<sup>3357</sup> The Chamber does not consider that these omissions go to the root of the witness' testimony or contradict the thrust of the Prosecution's case in respect of Paragraph 6.30 of the Ndayambaje Indictment.

1409. Certain inconsistencies between the testimony of Witnesses EV and RT appeared, in particular as regards the number of vehicles present at Ngiryi Bridge,<sup>3358</sup> the colour of Ndayambaje's vehicle<sup>3359</sup> and whether Ndayambaje got out of his vehicle.<sup>3360</sup> However, the Chamber notes that the witnesses may have been in different locations in the large crowd of refugees and may not have witnessed the same events. The Chamber observes that as regards the colour of the vehicle in which Ndayambaje was allegedly travelling, the Accused admitted that he was driven from his home to the commune office on the morning of 20 April 1994 in a red pickup truck with a single cabin.<sup>3361</sup> This is consistent with Witness RT's testimony that he saw Ndayambaje in a red Toyota around 11.00 a.m. in Ngiryi on 20 April 1994.<sup>3362</sup> Witness

EV's testimony that he saw Ndayambaje travelling in a white single-cabin Toyota Hilux bearing the name of Muganza commune on the morning of 20 April 1994 is also supported by the testimony of Ndayambaje, Witness KEPIR and Witness ALIZA that in 1994, Muganza commune owned a white single-cabin Toyota pickup.<sup>3363</sup> The Chamber considers that Witness EV's description of Ndayambaje's vehicle is corroborated by the descriptions given by Ndayambaje, and Witnesses KEPIR, ALIZA, RT, TW, QAQ, QAL, RV and FAG of the vehicles Ndayambaje had access to or used on other occasions between 20 and 24 April 1994 in terms of colour, type and, in several cases, make, i.e. a white pickup, according to several witnesses to be a Toyota. In the Chamber's view, given that Ndayambaje had access to both a white and a red vehicle on 20 April 1994, it is plausible that both vehicles were present at Ngiryi Bridge on the morning of 20 April 1994 and that Ndayambaje used both vehicles during the interception of the refugees.

1410. The Chamber considers the testimony of Witnesses EV, RT and TP on this allegation are detailed, consistent, clear and convincing in terms of the sequence of events, the places and persons involved and time frames. It also considers to be consistent the testimonies of Witnesses EV, KEPIR, ALIZA, RT, TW, QAQ, QAL, RV FAG and Ndayambaje as to the vehicle used by Ndayambaje.

1411. The Defence led evidence through Witnesses ALIZA, TOVIA and AND-5 to show that Ndayambaje was not involved in the interception of refugees at Ngiryi Bridge. All three witnesses testified that refugees were intercepted at Ngiryi Bridge on 21 April 1994: Witness ALIZA stated that the interception took place on a Thursday morning about two weeks after the death of the President, which would have fallen on 21 April 1994;<sup>3364</sup> Witness TOVIA was certain of the date and referred to a report dated 22 April 1994 describing the event of the previous day;<sup>3365</sup> Witness AND-5 accompanied Witness TOVIA on an inspection of the site where the refugees were intercepted and also referred to 21 April 1994.<sup>3366</sup> According to their version of events, Ndayambaje was not involved in this incident.<sup>3367</sup> However, the Chamber recalls that the Prosecution's allegation as regards the events at Ngiryi Bridge focuses on 20 April 1994. The Chamber considers that, in view of the large number of refugees present in the vicinity of Gisagara and Ngiryi Bridge during the time frame in question, estimated by Witness ALIZA to have been between 2,000 and 5,000,<sup>3368</sup> it is quite possible that two different groups of refugees were intercepted on 20 and 21 April 1994. Indeed, Witness ALIZA's estimate of the numbers of refugees is consistent with Witness EV's testimony that the crowd of refugees at Ngiryi Bridge numbered in the thousands and Witness RT's testimony that there were approximately 20,000 refugees at Gisagara marketplace the night before their failed attempt to cross to Burundi.<sup>3369</sup> Even though Witness TOVIA only claimed that between 500 and 600 refugees were present at Ngiriyi Bridge, this could be explained by the witness' particular vantage point.

1412. The Chamber notes that the testimony of Witness ALIZA is also consistent with the testimony of Witnesses EV, RT and TP in a number of other respects: Witness ALIZA testified to the general movement of refugees from Gisagara to Burundi,<sup>3370</sup> their interception at Ngiriyi Bridge and return to Gisagara,<sup>3371</sup> the violence shown towards the refugees when they were intercepted<sup>3372</sup> and the alleged presence of Sindikubwabo at Gisagara.<sup>3373</sup> The Chamber considers Witness ALIZA's testimony to be reliable and credible in this regard.

1413. On the issue of Ndayambaje's absence from the scene of the event, the Chamber considers that in view of the number of refugees in the area at the time, as attested to by Witnesses EV, RT and ALIZA, it is quite possible Witnesses ALIZA, TOVIA and AND-5 simply did not have the same opportunities as the Prosecution witnesses to identify Ndayambaje in a crowd so large. The Chamber recalls Witness ALIZA's testimony that when he crossed Ngiriyi Bridge, there were rows of refugees ahead of him and even more behind.<sup>3374</sup> It would therefore have been difficult for him to pick out a single person from the midst of that crowd. Further, the Chamber notes that Witness ALIZA was only present at Gisagara for between 40 minutes and one hour.<sup>3375</sup> The Chamber also notes that Witness ALIZA may have felt inclined to omit any reference to Ndayambaje's presence at the scene of the events given that in 1991 the witness received financial assistance for school fees thanks to a decision taken by Ndayambaje as bourgmestre.<sup>3376</sup> Further, Witness TOVIA's claim that the policemen present at the scene did not point their guns at anyone is contradicted not only by Witnesses EV and RT but also by Witness ALIZA who stated that the policemen threatened the refugees by pointing their guns at them, ready to open fire.<sup>3377</sup> For these reasons, the Chamber does not consider that the testimony of Witnesses ALIZA, TOVIA or AND-5 casts doubt on the testimony of Witnesses EV and RT on the presence of Ndayambaje when the refugees were intercepted.

1414. In light of all of the foregoing, and bearing in mind the general issues relating to the Defence alibi evidence as explained above, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje travelled to Ngiriyi Bridge in Gisagara with several armed soldiers and commune policemen where they arrested Tutsi refugees fleeing to Burundi, fired shots in the air and threatened them with their guns, obliging them to return to Gisagara marketplace, and thereafter soldiers and policemen escorted the refugees on foot and later took them to Kabuye Hill, as alleged in Paragraph 6.30 of the Ndayambaje Indictment. Accordingly, the Chamber holds that the Prosecution has discharged its burden of proof in respect of this allegation. Further, having regard to the testimony of both Prosecution and Defence witnesses as to unrest in the commune which caused Tutsi refugees to flee,<sup>3378</sup> the Chamber accepts that the refugees were Tutsis.

3.6.5.4.2 22 April 1994 – Tutsis Attacked at Kabuye Hill

1415. The Defence led alibi evidence through Witness ALIZA that on 22 April 1994 the refugees were attacked by assailants armed with traditional weapons and that no guns were used during the attack.<sup>3379</sup> The Chamber notes that Witnesses EV and RT talked about guns being used during the attack on 22 April 1994.<sup>3380</sup> However, the Chamber notes that Witness RT also stated that civilians armed with traditional weapons participated in the attack on 22 April 1994.<sup>3381</sup> Further, Witness EV stated that Ndayambaje was present at Kabuye Hill on 22 April whereas Witness ALIZA testified that he did not see Ndayambaje or hear about his presence that day.<sup>3382</sup> The Chamber does not consider that Witness ALIZA's account casts a reasonable doubt on the testimony of the Prosecution witnesses. Witness ALIZA may have had a different experience on the hill due to his location and may have viewed a different aspect of the attack. Moreover, the Chamber observes that the fact that Witness ALIZA did not see Ndayambaje does not mean that the Accused was not present at all on that day. For these reasons, the Chamber does not consider that Witness ALIZA's testimony casts a reasonable doubt on the Prosecution's case.

1416. The Defence also led evidence through Witness MARVA that she and Ndayambaje remained in the IGA building of the commune office until Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>3383</sup> Witness MARVA's evidence as it relates to 22 April 1994 is contradicted by Witnesses KEPIR, GABON and Ndayambaje, who all testified that the Accused left the commune office on two occasions on 22 April 1994 to go to Mugombwa to pick up a car and collect the Kirarambogo Health Centre vehicle.<sup>3384</sup>

1417. The Chamber notes the contradictions between the evidence of Witness MARVA on the one hand and Witnesses KEPIR and GABON on the other. This, together with the general issues arising from the Defence alibi evidence described above, undermine the credibility of the alibi evidence, which the Chamber finds not to be reasonably possibly true in relation to the alleged events on 22 April 1994.

1418. The Prosecution led evidence through Witnesses EV and RT in support of the allegation that on 22 April 1994, Ndayambaje, commune policemen, gendarmes, soldiers and civilians armed with traditional tools attacked the Tutsis at Kabuye Hill and that at night, survivors of the attack were prevented from escaping by armed civilians. Both witnesses testified that the refugees gathered on Kabuye Hill were attacked that day.

1419. Witness RT testified that on 22 April 1994, there were approximately 40,000 people gathered on Kabuye Hill.<sup>3385</sup> Witness EV testified that when he arrived at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 20 April 1994, there were as many as 50,000 present.<sup>3386</sup> The Chamber considers these figures to be consistent given that, according to Witness EV's testimony, the refugees had already been attacked on 20 and 21 April 1994<sup>3387</sup> and many would have died. This would explain why there were fewer refugees on the hill when Witness RT observed the crowd on 22 April 1994. Although Witness QAQ estimated that there were only 300 refugees near him, the Chamber does not consider his account to be inconsistent with that of EV and RT because Witness QAQ explained that he could not see all of the refugees and that in any event, many came later on.<sup>3388</sup> The Chamber further recalls that Witness QAQ's testimony concerns a different day, i.e. 23 or 24 April 1994, when many of the refugees may have already fled or been killed.<sup>3389</sup>

1420. According to Witness EV, on the third day of his stay at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 22 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje arrive at around 10.00 a.m. from a distance of about 20 metres.<sup>3390</sup> At that time, the refugees, including the witness, were being pursued by a group of assailants who were approaching Kabuye Hill from neighbouring Dahwe Hill, about 100 metres away.<sup>3391</sup> The refugees were attacked and shots were fired.<sup>3392</sup> According to Witness EV, Ndayambaje left at around 3.00 or 4.00 p.m. and the attacks on the refugees continued throughout the night.<sup>3393</sup> The only figures of authority to stay on the hill at night throughout Witness EV's stay were those who were surrounding the refugees.<sup>3394</sup> Similarly, Witness RT testified that the day after his arrival, a Friday at around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m., which would also have fallen on 22 April 1994, soldiers and policemen opened fire on the refugees from all directions.<sup>3395</sup> Hutu civilians armed with machetes and hoes also participated in the attack.<sup>3396</sup> The attackers left between 2.00 and 3.00 p.m.<sup>3397</sup>

1421. The Chamber recalls that only Witness EV testified that Ndayambaje was present during the attack on 22 April 1994 and that the refugees were surrounded. However, the Chamber also notes the existence of circumstantial evidence that points to Ndayambaje's general involvement in the Kabuye Hill events and supports the contention that the refugees were surrounded. In this regard, the Chamber recalls that Witness EV testified that Ndayambaje was present or participated in attacks at Kabuye Hill on each day of the witness' stay from 20 to 24 April 1994.<sup>3398</sup> Witness RT also identified Ndayambaje as being present at Kabuye Hill distributing weapons on the Saturday following his arrival,<sup>3399</sup> which would have fallen on 23 April 1994. Moreover, Witness TW testified that he saw Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill on three consecutive days transporting armed attackers. By the Chamber's estimation, these days would have fallen on 23, 24 and 26 April 1994. The Chamber considers that there is considerable testimony placing Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill on 20, 21, 23, 24 and 26 April 1994 which supports the contention that he was also present on 22 April 1994. In connection with the allegation that the refugees were surrounded, the Chamber recalls Witness RT's testimony that on both nights he spent at Gisagara marketplace before being escorted to Kabuye Hill, the refugees were guarded by policemen until morning.<sup>3400</sup> In addition, Witness EV testified that the refugees were escorted from Gisagara marketplace to Kabuye Hill by soldiers and policemen.<sup>3401</sup> Witness EV recalled the presence of soldiers during his first night on the hill.<sup>3402</sup>

1422. The Chamber considers Witness EV's testimony on the presence of Ndayambaje during the attack on 22 April 1994 and the subsequent surrounding of refugees to be credible and convincing. It further considers that the circumstantial evidence described above on the Accused's presence at Kabuye Hill on days other than 22 April 1994 and on the refugees being surrounded demonstrates that Ndayambaje was closely involved in the series of events at Kabuye Hill and thus corroborates Witness EV's testimony that Ndayambaje was also present on 22 April 1994. Furthermore, the Chamber finds Witness RT's testimony on the involvement of policemen, soldiers and civilians armed with traditional weapons to be convincing and similarly well-corroborated by circumstantial evidence from Witnesses EV and TW.

1423. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has established that Ndayambaje was present at Kabuye Hill on 22 April 1994 when the refugees were attacked by soldiers, policemen and armed civilians and that the refugees were guarded at night to prevent them from escaping.

1424. Having considered the totality of the evidence admitted on Paragraph 6.31 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, and bearing in mind the general issues relating to the Defence alibi evidence as explained above, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that on 22 April 1994, Ndayambaje was present during an attack against Tutsis who had gathered on Kabuye Hill in which "large",<sup>3403</sup> albeit unquantified, numbers of Tutsis were killed. The Chamber further finds that soldiers, policemen with guns and civilians armed with traditional weapons participated in the attack and that at night, survivors of the attack were prevented from escaping. The Chamber therefore finds that the Prosecution has discharged its burden of proof in relation to this allegation.

3.6.5.4.3 23 and 24 April 1994 – Tutsis Attacked at Kabuye Hill, Transportation of Attackers and Distribution of Weapons

1425. The Prosecution led evidence through Witnesses EV, RT, TP, TW, FAG, QBZ, QAQ and QAL to demonstrate that attacks at Kabuye Hill continued on 23 and 24 April 1994, and that Ndayambaje transported attackers to Kabuye Hill, issued them with weapons and personally threw grenades into the crowd of refugees. The Chamber notes that all of these witnesses testified to knowing Ndayambaje before the 1994 events. Witnesses EV and QAQ testified that they had known Ndayambaje since he was a child;<sup>3404</sup> Witness QAL testified that Ndayambaje had officiated at her marriage in 1987;<sup>3405</sup> Witness QBZ testified that he had lived with Ndayambaje when he was a student;<sup>3406</sup> Witness FAG testified that he had seen Ndayambaje approximately 10 times before the events in 1994;<sup>3407</sup> and Witnesses RT, TP and TW testified that they knew Ndayambaje before the events of 1994 in his capacity as bourgmestre of Muganza.<sup>3408</sup> This prior knowledge was not contested by the Ndayambaje Defence.

3.6.5.4.3.1 Transportation of Attackers

1426. Prosecution Witnesses EV, RT, TW and QAQ testified to seeing Ndayambaje aboard or arriving with vehicles transporting individuals to Kabuye Hill who later participated in the attacks of 23 and 24 April 1994. Witness EV testified that he saw Ndayambaje arrive in a convoy of vehicles, one of which was full of Burundian refugees on the fourth day of his stay, which would have fallen on 23 April 1994.<sup>3409</sup> According to Witness EV, these Burundians subsequently attacked the Tutsis with grenades.<sup>3410</sup> Witness RT stated that on 23 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje in a white Toyota commune vehicle that was carrying approximately 10 soldiers.<sup>3411</sup> He testified that he saw the same vehicle make about three round-trips to and from the hill transporting people, although he did not see Ndayambaje during those trips.<sup>3412</sup> Witness TW saw Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill on 24 April 1994 driving a white double-cabin Toyota Hilux carrying Hutu civilians armed with traditional weapons.<sup>3413</sup> These civilians later attacked the Tutsis.<sup>3414</sup> On the day following his arrival at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 24 or 25 April 1994, Witness QAQ saw Ndayambaje driving a white vehicle transporting over five gendarmes to Kabuye Hill.<sup>3415</sup> He later witnessed the gendarmes shooting at the refugees.<sup>3416</sup>

1427. Witness TP testified that on 24 April 1994 she saw a convoy of vehicles, led by Ndayambaje's vehicle, arrive at Kabuye Hill.<sup>3417</sup> However, the Chamber considers that Witness TP's evidence on the events at Kabuye Hill on that day contain a number of serious discrepancies that render her testimony unreliable, but only as it relates to 24 April 1994. In this connection, the Chamber notes that she initially testified that she did not see the three buses in the convoy but later stated that she did in fact see them and that they were white and green.<sup>3418</sup> In addition, Witness TP stated that she could not describe the uniforms of the passengers because it was dark and raining although she previously described there being a bright moon.<sup>3419</sup> Furthermore, she testified that an attack followed the arrival of the convoy at 7.30 p.m. however subsequently claimed that the attack started at 6.00 a.m.<sup>3420</sup> For these reasons, the Chamber will not rely on the testimony of Witness TP as it relates to 24 April 1994.

1428. Prosecution Witness QBZ also testified that after meeting resistance from the Tutsis gathered at Kabuye Hill, Ndayambaje went to Butare for military reinforcements.<sup>3421</sup> The reinforcements were then transported to Kabuye in the Ndora and Muganza commune vehicles and a bus.<sup>3422</sup> Witness QBZ stated that this event occurred about one week after the death of the President, i.e. around 13 April 1994.<sup>3423</sup> Prosecution Witness FAG testified that about two weeks and five days after the President's death, i.e. around 25 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje transporting people in a Hilux vehicle belonging to Muganza commune in the direction of Kabuye, including Burundians, policemen and civilians armed with traditional weapons.<sup>3424</sup>

1429. The Chamber notes that although Witness QBZ provided a slightly different time frame for the alleged transportation of attackers, his testimony is consistent with regard to the material facts. As regards Witness FAG, the Chamber notes that the time frame advanced by this witness corresponds to the dates during which Ndayambaje was alleged to have transported attackers in Paragraph 6.32 of the Indictment. The Chamber is aware that Witness FAG confessed to having participated in various attacks in 1994, spent eight years in prison and was released in 2003,<sup>3425</sup> before he gave evidence to this Tribunal in 2004. Despite being released from prison he nevertheless still awaited a decision by a Gacaca court at the time of his testimony.<sup>3426</sup> The Chamber therefore treats his testimony with appropriate caution considering he may have had an incentive to lie during his testimony in order to obtain preferential treatment in connection with his Gacaca sentence. Nevertheless, the Chamber found his evidence to be detailed as regards dates, the number of trips Ndayambaje allegedly made through Bishya and the identification of the area to and from which the Accused's vehicle was moving. Furthermore, his testimony is partly corroborated by the account of Witnesses EV, TW, RT and QAQ as to the transportation of Burundians and armed civilians, and the use of a Hilux vehicle.<sup>3427</sup> The Chamber also notes that Witness FAG testified to having seen Ndayambaje before the events of 1994 and that this was not contested.<sup>3428</sup>

1430. The Chamber recalls the testimony of Ndayambaje and KEPİR that in 1994, Muganza commune owned a white single-cabin Toyota Stout.<sup>3429</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness TW testified to having seen a white double-cabin Toyota Hilux involved in the transportation of attackers. Witness RT stated that Ndayambaje was travelling in a white Toyota commune vehicle. Witness QAQ simply referred to a white vehicle while Witness FAG referred to a Hilux vehicle belonging to the commune. The Chamber considers that the description provided by Witnesses TW, RT, QAQ and FAG of the vehicle used by Ndayambaje to transport attackers is corroborated by the descriptions given by Ndayambaje, KEPİR, ALIZA, EV, QAL, RV and FAG of the vehicle Ndayambaje had access to and/or used on other occasions between 20 and 24 April 1994 in terms of colour, type and, in several cases, make, i.e. a white pickup, according to several witnesses to be a Toyota. Furthermore, the evidence points to the actual participation of the persons transported by Ndayambaje in the massacres.

1431. The Chamber therefore considers the testimony of Witnesses EV, RT, TW, QAQ and FAG to be credible on the issue of Ndayambaje's involvement in the transportation of attackers and therefore finds that on 23 and 24 April 1994, Ndayambaje transported soldiers, civilians and policemen to Kabuye Hill where they participated in attacks against Tutsis.

3.6.5.4.3.2 Distribution of Weapons

1432. Prosecution Witnesses RT, EV and QAL testified to Ndayambaje distributing weapons at Kabuye Hill. Witness RT testified the day after his arrival at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 23 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje arrive at Kabuye Hill in a white Toyota commune vehicle.<sup>3430</sup> The witness saw Ndayambaje distributing what he thought to be grenades to the attackers and supervising their distribution.<sup>3431</sup> While he did not actually see grenades in Ndayambaje's hands, Witness RT stated that the Accused must have been distributing grenades because many assailants subsequently threw grenades at the refugees and the grenades could only have come from the Accused.<sup>3432</sup>

1433. The Chamber notes Witness TW's testimony that Ndayambaje was present at Kabuye Hill but that he did not see Ndayambaje distribute weapons to the attackers, which differs from the account given by Witnesses EV and RT.<sup>3433</sup> However, the Chamber is of the view that these witnesses may not have had the same opportunities to witness the events in question. The Chamber also notes that there were many thousands of refugees on Kabuye Hill, which covered an expansive area.

1434. The Chamber recalls that only Witness RT testified that Ndayambaje distributed weapons within the time frame covered by Paragraph 6.32 of the Indictment. However, the Chamber also notes the existence of circumstantial evidence that supports the allegation that Ndayambaje was generally involved in distributing weapons at Kabuye Hill. In this connection, the Chamber recalls that Witness EV gave a detailed and consistent eyewitness account that on the day he arrived at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje arrived at Kabuye Hill in a white Hilux driven by Charles Habakurama.<sup>3434</sup> Ndayambaje brought grenades in his vehicle that were distributed to the attackers and then used in the ensuing massacre.<sup>3435</sup> Witness QAL also testified that she saw Ndayambaje driving the commune's white Toyota pickup carrying guns and grenades in the direction of Kabuye Hill one Thursday in April 1994.<sup>3436</sup>

1435. Moreover, the Chamber observes that Witnesses RT, EV and QAL gave similar descriptions of the vehicle Ndayambaje was travelling in when he was allegedly carrying or distributing weapons: a white Toyota commune vehicle, a white Hilux vehicle and the commune's white Toyota pickup, respectively.<sup>3437</sup> The Chamber considers that the description of Ndayambaje's vehicle as provided by Witnesses RT, EV and QAL is corroborated by the descriptions given by Ndayambaje, KEPIR, ALIZA, TW, QAQ, RV and FAG of the vehicle Ndayambaje had access to and/or used on other occasions between 20 and 24 April 1994 in terms of colour, type and, in several cases, make, i.e. a white pickup, according to several witnesses to be a Toyota. In addition, Witness EV testified that the vehicle was being driven by Charles Habakurama.<sup>3438</sup> This is also supported by the testimony of Ndayambaje and KEPIR that Charles Habakurama was the driver of Muganza commune in April 1994.<sup>3439</sup>

1436. On cross-examination, Witness EV was referred to his written statements of 20 June 1995, 4 October 1995 and 14 November 1995, in which the witness did not mention that Ndayambaje was among the crowd on 20 April 1994.<sup>3440</sup> The witness stated that the omission must be due to the error of the investigators who recorded his statements and that it was impossible for him to mention all the details of the events in his statements.<sup>3441</sup> The Chamber accepts Witness EV's explanation and finds his testimony to be credible. The Chamber considers that it would have been impossible for him to remember the details of all the events he experienced at Kabuye Hill. In view of the passage of time and the trauma associated with the events, Witness EV could not have been expected to provide a full description of every event that occurred at Kabuye Hill during his five-day stay.

1437. As for Witness QAL, the Chamber considers that she would not have had any reason to lie during her testimony. In this connection, the Chamber notes that Witness QAL was a Hutu and that the Accused officiated at her wedding. Accordingly, the Chamber considers the testimony of Witness QAL to be reliable on this particular issue.

1438. The Chamber finds that the eyewitness account of Witness RT on the distribution of grenades by Ndayambaje on 23 April 1994 to be clear and convincing and further finds that the testimony of Witnesses EV and QAL lends weight to Witness RT's account of weapons distribution by Ndayambaje.

1439. The Chamber has also considered evidence adduced by the Prosecution through Witnesses RV and FAU that Ndayambaje distributed weapons at the Muganza commune office for the purposes of arming the attackers at Kabuye Hill. Witness RV testified that Ndayambaje came to the commune office at 2.00 p.m. on 23 April 1994 with a commune policeman, took ammunition and a gun from the weapons store and left in the direction of Kabuye Hill.<sup>3442</sup> The Chamber recalls that in cross-examination, Witness RV also testified that on the morning of 23 April 1994, he tried to prevent the deputy police brigadier from taking bullets from the weapons store.<sup>3443</sup> He added that he went to the dispensary in Mugombwa where Habiyambere, the chairman of the MRND in Muganza commune, came to complain to him that he wanted guns.<sup>3444</sup> Ndayambaje went to Kibayi to look for guns while Habiyambere went with the witness to the commune office.<sup>3445</sup> Witness RV waited until Ndayambaje had returned from Kibayi before he opened the weapons store.<sup>3446</sup> The Chamber finds that these two versions are not inconsistent with regard to the sequence of events, simply that Witness RV did not mention the incident with the deputy police brigadier in the morning of 23 April 1994 until cross-examination. The Chamber finds Witness RV's testimony on this allegation to be detailed, credible and consistent. Furthermore, his testimony is partly corroborated by Witness FAU. The Chamber notes that it must treat Witness RV's testimony with appropriate caution; he was a figure of authority in April 1994 in Butare, was a detained witness at the time of his testimony, had previously confessed to aiding in the murder of Tutsis in Gacaca proceedings, and was subject to potential further criminal proceedings in Rwanda.<sup>3447</sup>

1440. The Chamber observes that Witness FAU was also a detained witness at the time of his testimony and was awaiting trial in Rwanda for crimes related to the 1994 genocide.<sup>3448</sup> Appropriate caution must therefore be exercised when deliberating on his evidence as he may have had incentives to implicate the Accused in order to secure favourable or lenient treatment. Witness FAU testified that he went to Bishya in April 1994 where he found Ndayambaje with

1441. On cross-examination, Witness FAU testified that Brigadier Pierre took out three Kalashnikovs from the weapons store: he kept one for himself and gave one each to Makubwa and Ferdinand.<sup>3453</sup> The Chamber finds that his testimony was clarified during cross-examination and corroborates Witness RV's testimony that weapons were distributed at Muganza commune office, which were later used against Tutsis during the massacre at Kabuye Hill. In this connection, the Chamber observes that Witnesses FAU and RV testified that Charles Habakurama, the Muganza commune office driver, accompanied Ndayambaje. This is consistent with the testimony of Ndayambaje and KEPIR that Charles Habakurama was the driver of Muganza commune in April 1994.<sup>3454</sup>

1442. The Chamber notes that there were some contradictions in the testimony of Witnesses RV and FAU. Witness FAU testified that the weapons distribution took place in the morning and that the weapons store was opened by Brigadier Pierre who gave guns to two policemen and took one for himself.<sup>3455</sup> According to Witness RV's account, on the morning of 23 April 1994 he stopped the deputy to the police brigadier from taking bullets from the weapons store at the commune office.<sup>3456</sup> He testified that at 2.00 p.m. that day, Ndayambaje came to the commune office with Witness FAU in search of weapons to use at Kabuye Hill.<sup>3457</sup> Witness RV testified that he opened the weapons store for Ndayambaje and Charles took ammunition and a gun before leaving with Ndayambaje for Kabuye Hill.<sup>3458</sup>

1443. The Chamber considers that both Witness RV and Witness FAU gave credible evidence on this allegation. In the Chamber's view, the contradictions in these two versions of events do not cast doubt on the two eyewitness accounts that Ndayambaje was involved in the distribution of weapons at the Muganza commune office on 23 April 1994.

1444. The Chamber therefore finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje distributed weapons at Kabuye Hill and the Muganza commune office and that these weapons were later used in the massacres at Kabuye Hill.

3.6.5.4.3.3 Attacks of 23 and 24 April 1994

travel to Kibayi commune.<sup>3459</sup> According to Witness KEPIR, Ndayambaje was at the commune office on Saturday 23 April 1994 until the afternoon when he left with his family for Kibayi.<sup>3460</sup> Witness BIDI testified that Ndayambaje came to stay at her family home on Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>3461</sup> According to her, the Accused did not leave the house on Sunday 24 April 1994.<sup>3462</sup> Witness BIDI disagreed with the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses EV, QAQ, TW and TP allegedly placing Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill on the morning of Sunday 24 April 1994, and reiterated that Ndayambaje did not leave her house on that day.<sup>3463</sup> Witness MARVA testified to being with Ndayambaje at the commune office until Saturday 23 April 1994 when she fled with the Accused and others to Kibayi commune where they stayed all week.<sup>3464</sup> Witness SABINE testified that he was present at Kabuye Hill on a Sunday around two weeks after the death of the President, which would have fallen on 24 April 1994.<sup>3465</sup> He stated that he did not see Ndayambaje or hear that he had been present on Kabuye or Dahwe Hills that Sunday and disagreed with the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QAQ and TW that Ndayambaje allegedly transported attackers to Kabuye Hill on Sunday 24 April 1994.<sup>3466</sup>

1446. The Chamber notes that Witnesses GABON, KEPIR, MARVA and BIDI contended that Ndayambaje left the commune office in the afternoon of 23 April 1994 and travelled with his family and Witness MARVA to a friend's house in Kibayi commune where he remained all day on 24 April 1994. The Chamber also recalls Brother Stan's testimony that in the afternoon of 23 April 1994, he saw Ndayambaje on the road near Saga camp and that Ndayambaje told the witness that he was with his family on his way to Kibayi.<sup>3467</sup> However, the Chamber considers that the general issues arising from the Defence alibi evidence, as described above, adversely affect the credibility of the alibi to such an extent that it cannot be said to be reasonably possibly true.

1447. As regards the evidence of Witness SABINE, the Chamber notes that this witness has convictions for genocide-related killings and his testimony should therefore be treated with appropriate caution. In any event, the fact that he did not see Ndayambaje at Kabuye Hill does not mean that Ndayambaje was not present.

1448. The Chamber observes that the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses EV, RT, TW and QAQ, all of whom are Tutsi survivors of the Kabuye Hill massacre, is consistent as to the events covered by Paragraph 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment: Witness EV testified to major attacks on the fourth and fifth days of his stay at Kabuye Hill (which would have fallen on 23 and 24 April 1994);<sup>3468</sup> Witness RT stated that attacks took place on 23 and 24 April 1994;<sup>3469</sup> Witness TW described an attack on 24 April;<sup>3470</sup> and Witness QAQ gave evidence that an attack occurred on 23 or 24 April 1994.<sup>3471</sup> Defence Witness ALIZA also testified that attacks took place on 23 and 24 April 1994.<sup>3472</sup> With regard to the first attack on 23 April 1994, Witnesses EV and RT stated that Ndayambaje arrived in the morning around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m. and testified that the refugees were attacked with grenades.<sup>3473</sup> Witness RT testified that Ndayambaje arrived in a white Toyota commune vehicle and described how an attack was launched by assailants who had gathered in the area of Dahwe.<sup>3474</sup> More specifically, Witness RT stated that the attackers included soldiers and commune police.<sup>3475</sup> Witness ALIZA also stated that soldiers shot at the refugees and threw grenades.<sup>3476</sup> Witness QAQ also testified that on 23 or 24 April 1994, Ndayambaje arrived around 10.00 a.m. in a white vehicle and saw that gendarmes were positioned on Dahwe Hill, opposite Kabuye Hill, who subsequently shot at the refugees.<sup>3477</sup> The Interahamwe also attacked the refugees with clubs and machetes.<sup>3478</sup> The Chamber notes that the testimony of Witnesses RT and QAQ on Ndayambaje's use of a white vehicle is supported by the testimony of Ndayambaje and Witness KEPIR who stated that in 1994, Muganza commune owned a white single-cabin Toyota Stout.<sup>3479</sup> With regard to the second attack of 24 April 1994, Witnesses EV and TW testified that they saw Ndayambaje arrive at Kabuye Hill between 10.00 a.m. and noon.<sup>3480</sup> Witnesses EV and RT both described how it rained on 24 April<sup>3481</sup> and Witnesses RT and TW stated that the attack involved the use of guns.<sup>3482</sup> Witness TW described how the refugees used stones to defend themselves.<sup>3483</sup> Witness QAQ also stated that on 23 or 24 April 1994, the refugees under attack defended themselves by throwing stones.<sup>3484</sup> Witness ALIZA said that the refugees used stones to defend themselves during the attack of 23 April 1994 which resulted in a massive number of deaths.<sup>3485</sup>

1449. Witness TW acknowledged that before the 1994 events, he and his brother had been arrested, detained and beaten up on the orders of the Accused for being Inyenzi accomplices.<sup>3486</sup> He also admitted that Ndayambaje had been involved in the forced closure of his bar.<sup>3487</sup> However, the witness denied harbouring any resentment towards the Accused.<sup>3488</sup>

Witness TW also acknowledged that his statement of 15 November 1995 contained some errors. In particular the witness' uncle, whom he alleged was killed by Ndayambaje, had been described as his maternal rather than paternal uncle.<sup>3489</sup> Furthermore, the statement describes how Ndayambaje passed by the witness' house on 19 April 1994 in the morning, rather than the evening as he stated in his testimony.<sup>3490</sup> Witness TW explained that he had pointed these errors out to investigators but they declined to correct the statements.<sup>3491</sup> In the Chamber's view, Witness TW's denial that events prior to 1994 may have influenced his testimony was vigorous and believable. As regards the inconsistencies between his previous statement and his testimony, the Chamber does not find these to be significant and they do not impact on the credibility of his testimony.

1450. With regard to the allegation in Paragraph 6.32 of the Indictment that Ndayambaje threw grenades into the crowd, the Chamber recalls the testimony of Witness EV that on the day he arrived at Kabuye Hill, which would have fallen on 20 April 1994, Ndayambaje fired his own weapon and threw the grenades he had brought.<sup>3492</sup> The Chamber first notes that the date on which this incident is alleged to have occurred by the witness does not correspond to the time frame advanced by the Prosecution in Paragraph 6.32 of the Indictment. Moreover, on cross-examination, Witness EV was referred to his written statements of 20 June 1995, 4 October 1995 and 14 November 1995, in which the witness did not mention that Ndayambaje was among the crowd on that day, that he had a weapon or that he shot at people during the Kabuye Hill events.<sup>3493</sup> As indicated in the discussion concerning distribution of weapons, above, Witness EV stated that he had consistently told the investigators that he saw Ndayambaje shooting and the omission must be due to the error of the investigators who recorded his statements; he stated that it was impossible for him to mention all the details of the events in his statements.<sup>3494</sup>

1451. While the Chamber agrees that it would have been impossible for Witness EV to remember all the details of his stay at Kabuye Hill, the Chamber considers that an incident as striking as the throwing of a grenade by a figure of authority such as Ndayambaje would have been at the forefront of the witness' mind when he recorded his experiences in his previous statements. For that reason, the Chamber accepts the witness' testimony that Ndayambaje distributed weapons at Kabuye Hill but finds his uncorroborated account that Ndayambaje threw grenades and shot at the refugees to be unconvincing.

1452. In sum, the Chamber considers the evidence led by the Prosecution on the attacks of 23 and 24 April 1994 to be clear, consistent and credible. The Chamber therefore finds that Ndayambaje transported attackers to Kabuye Hill, distributed weapons to the attackers and was present during the attacks against Tutsis at Kabuye Hill on 23 and 24 April 1994 and that thousands of deaths resulted from these attacks.

3.6.5.4.3.4 Murder of Witness TW's Uncle

1453. As regards the Prosecution allegation that Ndayambaje murdered Witness TW's uncle, the Chamber notes that the witness' account of this event is uncorroborated and he does not describe how his uncle died – the witness was not present at the time of the alleged murder and did not see his uncle's body. The Chamber does not consider there to be sufficient evidence to enable it to make such a determination. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje killed Witness TW's uncle.

3.6.5.4.3.5 Conclusion on Indictment Paragraph 6.32

1454. The Prosecution alleged that attacks at Kabuye Hill continued on 23 and 24 April 1994, and that Ndayambaje transported attackers to Kabuye Hill, issued them with weapons and personally threw grenades into the crowd of refugees.

1455. Having considered the totality of the evidence on all of the constituent elements of Paragraph 6.32 of the Ndayambaje Indictment, for the reasons set forth above, and bearing in mind the general issues relating to the Defence alibi evidence as explained above, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje transported soldiers, civilians and policemen to Kabuye Hill where they participated in attacks against Tutsis. Furthermore, the Chamber finds that Ndayambaje distributed grenades to the attackers on Kabuye Hill. The Chamber, however, does not find that Ndayambaje threw a grenade himself.

1456. The Chamber also finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ndayambaje participated in the removal of weapons from Muganza commune office on 23 April 1994, which were then distributed to attackers at Kabuye Hill. In addition, the Chamber finds it established that attacks took place at Kabuye Hill on 23 and 24 April 1994 and that Ndayambaje was present during the attacks against Tutsis at Kabuye Hill on 23 and 24 April 1994 and that deaths resulted from these attacks. Accordingly, the Chamber holds that the Prosecution has discharged its burden of proof in respect of this allegation.

3.6.6 IRST Massacre, 21 April 1994

3.6.6.1 Introduction

1457. Paragraph 6.15 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that on 27 April 1994, the Interim Government ordered roadblocks to be set up, knowing that the roadblocks were being used to identify the Tutsis and their “accomplices” for the purpose of eliminating them.<sup>3495</sup> Paragraph 6.35 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment further provides that from April to July 1994, Ntahobali travelled throughout Butare préfecture in search of Tutsis. When the victims were located, Ntahobali abducted them and took them to various locations, where they were executed.<sup>3496</sup>

1458. The Prosecution submits that Ntahobali participated in the abduction of Tutsis at the “fifth roadblock” and instructed the Interahamwe manning the roadblock to “take them to the same place where the others had been taken to”. Subsequently they were taken to this location and killed.<sup>3497</sup> In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness QCB.

1459. The Ntahobali Defence did not call any witnesses with regard to this allegation. Rather, the Defence challenged the credibility of Witness QCB, asserting that Witness QCB’s account of the 21 April 1994 events is incompatible in time with the testimony of Prosecution Witness TN.<sup>3498</sup> In support of its contentions, the Ntahobali Defence relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witness TN.

3.6.6.2 Preliminary Issues

1460. The Chamber, proprio motu, observes that this allegation is not specifically pled in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and therefore finds that the Indictment is defective. The Chamber must determine whether the Indictment has been cured through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

1461. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes that the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief lists one witness, Witness QCB, who was expected to testify that he went to three roadblocks. At the third roadblock, supervised by Ntahobali and situated opposite Ntahobali’s parents’ house, the Interahamwe and civilians wearing military vests were segregating Tutsis and putting them by the roadside. Subsequently, Ntahobali led those Tutsis to the ESO roadblock and to the Institut de Recherche Scientifique et Technique (“IRST”). Witness QCB saw them being killed.<sup>3499</sup> The Chamber notes that the summary of the intended evidence of Witness QCB provides adequate details as to the exact locations, but no time frame.

1462. The prior statement of Witness QCB, dated 7 April 1999 and disclosed to the Defence on 10 December 1999, stated that on 21 April 1994, Ntahobali led away Tutsis who were gathered at the ESO roadblock, located opposite Ntahobali’s parents’ house, towards the IRST. The witness further stated that he witnessed people being killed with traditional weapons.<sup>3500</sup> This disclosure was made well before the start of Witness QCB’s testimony on 20 March 2002.

1463. The Chamber finds the substance of Witness QCB’s previous statement is consistent with the summary of his anticipated testimony contained in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief.

1464. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is cured by the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information in line with previous jurisprudence.<sup>3501</sup> Consequently, Ntahobali was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him and there was no prejudice in the preparation of his defence.

3.6.6.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QCB

1465. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and a detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>3502</sup> testified that he went to his place of work on the morning of 21 April 1994 at around 7.00 a.m.<sup>3503</sup> On his way, he saw roadblocks and killings.<sup>3504</sup> He noticed that 13 roadblocks were erected throughout the area.<sup>3505</sup> There were no roadblocks in Nkubi secteur prior to that day.<sup>3506</sup> The witness rode on a motorcycle up to the “first roadblock” located at the residence of President Sindikubwabo, and after that he continued on foot as the motorcycle was not allowed to proceed.<sup>3507</sup> This first roadblock is indicated by the number “1” on Prosecution Exhibit 54, a hand-drawn map by Witness QCB of Butare town.<sup>3508</sup> It was manned by Presidential Guards.<sup>3509</sup>

1466. Witness QCB testified that one of the roadblocks was located at the house of Amandin Rugira<sup>3510</sup> on the main road to Bujumbura (the “Rugira roadblock”) also referred to by Witness QCB as the “fifth roadblock”.<sup>3511</sup> The location of the roadblock was indicated by the number “5” on Prosecution Exhibit 54. Interahamwe and two soldiers armed with knives and Kalashnikovs manned the roadblock.<sup>3512</sup> He reached this roadblock at around 8.30 a.m. The Interahamwe were checking people’s identity cards to determine their ethnicity. They allowed Hutus to go through and detained Tutsis on the spot.<sup>3513</sup> The witness observed that a woman unknown to him was asked to produce her identification, after which Interahamwe stabbed her to death with knives.<sup>3514</sup>

1467. Witness QCB saw another roadblock located near the house of Maurice Ntahobali also referred to by Witness QCB as the “sixth roadblock” and indicated by number “6” on Prosecution Exhibit 54.<sup>3515</sup> The witness saw Shalom standing in front of his parents’ house,

1469. Upon his arrival at work, Witness QCB was told that there was no assignment for him on that day, so he immediately decided to return home.<sup>3523</sup> On his way home, at around 9.10 a.m., he stopped at the fifth roadblock again, close to the mosque. He saw that Tutsis kept at this roadblock were being held at the EER School.<sup>3524</sup> They were being boarded onto a white Daihatsu pickup belonging to Isaac Munyagasheke.<sup>3525</sup> They had been arrested at the Rugira roadblock and were gathered at the primary school, which was made up of three buildings.<sup>3526</sup> The pickup was moving from the EER School to a place between the IRST and the Laboratory.<sup>3527</sup> A Peugeot car driven by Ntahobali drove behind the Daihatsu pickup. Ntahobali's vehicle stopped at the fifth roadblock, while the other Daihatsu pickup continued its journey until the place where massacres were subsequently carried out.<sup>3528</sup> The Peugeot car belonged to Ntahobali's father.<sup>3529</sup>

1470. At the roadblock, Ntahobali asked the Interahamwe if they had arrested anyone. The Interahamwe responded in the affirmative and Ntahobali told them to bring the arrestees to "the same place where the others have been taken to", a place between the IRST and the Laboratory, in order to join others who had been arrested.<sup>3530</sup> The witness was 10 steps away from Ntahobali.<sup>3531</sup> About 40 people were loaded onto the Daihatsu pickup and taken to the area indicated.<sup>3532</sup> Witness QCB went to that location and saw the pickup and the Peugeot parked there. People were being killed after they had been undressed.<sup>3533</sup> He heard people screaming as numerous Interahamwe killed about 200 people with clubs and knives.<sup>3534</sup>

Among the assailants, Witness QCB identified Ntahobali, Désiré the son of Munyagasheke, and Pierre Claver who worked at the service in charge of civilian buildings.<sup>3535</sup> He claimed that Ntahobali was the leader because he witnessed him issuing orders at this time.<sup>3536</sup> The witness left the scene at around 9.30 a.m.<sup>3537</sup>

1471. Witness QCB testified that his statement of 7 April 1999 was not properly recorded by Prosecution investigators where it was written, “I continued towards Mukoni when I heard screams”. The witness testified that he actually meant that he left the “fifth roadblock” and went on towards the IRST where he saw people being stripped naked, screaming and being killed. He was frightened by what he saw and was asked to leave, and decided to leave for Mukoni towards home.<sup>3538</sup> The witness explained that he did not fully understand what was being read to him because there were several documents and the investigator appeared to be in a hurry. He signed the documents as a matter of course because he believed them to be statements that he himself had made, and which were properly recorded.<sup>3539</sup>

Prosecution Witness TN

1472. Witness TN, a Tutsi who was 19 years old in 1994, testified that on 21 April 1994, she saw Ntahobali arrive in Tumba secteur accompanied by soldiers of the Presidential Guard in a Toyota.<sup>3540</sup> She identified Ntahobali’s companions as soldiers because they were wearing military uniforms.<sup>3541</sup> Ntahobali and some of the soldiers stepped out of the vehicle and took two Tutsi men – identified as Rwabugiri and Philippe – to the veterinarian’s house, behind the secteur office.<sup>3542</sup> On arrival at the veterinarian’s house, one of the soldiers handed a jack knife to Ntahobali. Ntahobali then attacked the men with the knife and killed them.<sup>3543</sup>

1473. These events took place between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m.<sup>3544</sup> The witness stated that she was approximately two and a half metres away from Ntahobali when Ntahobali killed the two Tutsi men.<sup>3545</sup> She further testified that after having killed Rwabugiri and Philippe, Ntahobali ordered that Tutsis should be found and killed.<sup>3546</sup>

3.6.6.4 Deliberations

1474. Prosecution Witness QCB is the only eyewitness to testify about this allegation. At the time of his testimony, Witness QCB was a detainee in Rwanda. He confessed to his participation in the killing of certain persons during the events and, at the time of his testimony, was awaiting his sentence.<sup>3547</sup> The Chamber will treat his testimony with appropriate caution as he may have had an incentive to implicate Ntahobali in order to avoid a severe sentence.

1475. Witness QCB provided first-hand testimony that on 21 April 1994, at around 9.00 a.m., on his way back from his place of work, he stopped at the Rugira roadblock, referred to as the “fifth roadblock”.<sup>3548</sup> At the roadblock, Witness QCB witnessed Tutsis, who were being held at the EER School, being boarded onto a white Daihatsu pickup belonging to Isaac Munyagasheke.<sup>3549</sup> Those Tutsis had been arrested at the Rugira roadblock.<sup>3550</sup> The pickup was moving from the EER School to a place located between the IRST and the Laboratory.<sup>3551</sup> A Peugeot car driven by Ntahobali followed the pickup and stopped at the Rugira roadblock, while the Daihatsu pickup continued its journey.<sup>3552</sup> Ntahobali then asked the Interahamwe posted there if they had arrested anyone.<sup>3553</sup> The Interahamwe responded in the affirmative and Ntahobali told them to bring those arrested to a place between the IRST and the Laboratory to join others who had been arrested.<sup>3554</sup>

1476. Although the witness stated that 21 April 1994 was the first time he saw Ntahobali, during his examination-in-chief, in cross-examination he stated that he knew Ntahobali for a while before 1994.<sup>3555</sup> Witness QCB explained this inconsistency by stating that he feared for his own safety and that was why he claimed to have met Ntahobali for the first time on 21 April 1994, during his evidence-in-chief, in open session.<sup>3556</sup> The Chamber accepts this explanation and notes that the witness clearly identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>3557</sup>

issuing orders during this time.<sup>3563</sup> Witness QCB was frightened by what he saw and decided to leave for Mukoni towards his home at around 9.30 a.m.<sup>3564</sup>

1480. The Chamber observes that Witness QCB is the only Prosecution witness to implicate Ntahobali in these events. Nevertheless the Chamber finds Witness QCB's detailed evidence to be credible with respect to this incident. In light of the foregoing and having assessed the evidence at hand, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that on 21 April 1994 Ntahobali participated in the abduction of approximately 40 Tutsis at the "Rugira roadblock" and subsequently took them to the IRST to be killed. Furthermore, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that at the Rugira roadblock, Ntahobali ordered the Interahamwe present to take those Tutsis who had been arrested to a place between the IRST and the Laboratory, and that at the massacre site, Ntahobali issued orders to the Interahamwe to kill the Tutsis. Ntahobali's orders were followed and approximately 200 Tutsis were killed at the IRST on 21 April 1994.

3.6.7 Tumba Secteur Abductions and Killings, 21 April 1994

3.6.7.1 Introduction

1481. Paragraph 6.35 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that in late April 1994, Ntahobali travelled throughout Butare préfecture searching for Tutsis. When the

Tutsis were located, Ntahobali abducted them and took them to various locations where they were executed.<sup>3570</sup>

1482. In support of this allegation, the Prosecution led evidence through Witness TN to show that on 21 April 1994, Ntahobali came to Tumba secteur in Ngoma commune accompanied by soldiers, abducted two Tutsis named Rwabugiri<sup>3571</sup> and Philippe,<sup>3572</sup> and killed them.<sup>3573</sup> In response to the Defence's submission that the murders were committed by a soldier who has already been tried and convicted of the crimes, the Prosecution submits that the existence of a judgement from a Rwandan court attributing responsibility for the murders to another person does not relieve Ntahobali from criminal responsibility before the ICTR. The Prosecution further submits that the judgement supports the Prosecution case.<sup>3574</sup>

1483. The Ntahobali Defence submits that Witness TN's testimony is not credible.<sup>3575</sup> It argues that Rwabugiri and Philippe were in fact murdered by a soldier, Jean Baptiste Nzisabira, who has already been convicted of the murders by the Rwandan Court of First Instance and the Military Court of Appeal. It further submits that Prosecution Witness QCB contradicts Witness TN as to the time frame during which Ntahobali allegedly abducted and killed Tutsis in Tumba secteur on 21 April 1994. According to the Ntahobali Defence, Ntahobali was at a roadblock outside Hotel Ihuliro at the time of his involvement in the abduction and murder of Rwabugiri and Philippe.<sup>3576</sup> In support of its submissions, the Ntahobali Defence relies on Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-21-T, Ntahobali and Witness QCB.

3.6.7.2 Preliminary Issues

1484. The Chamber notes that the allegation that Ntahobali abducted and personally murdered two Tutsis named Rwabugiri and Philippe was not pled in the Indictment. Although Paragraph 6.35 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that Ntahobali abducted Tutsis "and took them to various places, where they were executed", there is no mention of the murders of Rwabugiri and Philippe. Recalling the principles previously set out in this Judgement, the Chamber finds that it is not always necessary that an indictment provide the specific name of a victim. Nonetheless, where the Prosecution alleges that an accused personally committed criminal acts, it must plead the identity of the victim, the place and approximate date of the alleged criminal acts, and the means by which they were committed with the greatest precision (). The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment provides no information on the identity of the Tutsi victims, the locus of the crime, the date on which it took place or how the victims were murdered. It is clear from Witness TN's statement dated 11-12 March 1998, i.e. over one year before the Amended Indictment was filed, that the Prosecution was aware of the details of the alleged murders and the identities of the victims. In particular, Witness TN's statement contains her eyewitness account of the murders of two Tutsis, Rwabugiri and Philippe, behind the Tumba secteur office on 21 April 1994, by a man named Shalom, who used a knife. Such information should have been contained in the Indictment. The Indictment is thus defective in this respect.

1485. The Chamber must then determine whether the defect has been cured by subsequent Prosecution disclosures. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber notes that the Prosecution made no reference to the murders of Rwabugiri and Philippe by Ntahobali in either its Pre-Trial Brief or opening statement. The Prosecution disclosed a redacted version of Witness TN's statement of 11-12 March 1998 on 15 November 2000 and on 23 May 2001; an unredacted version was disclosed on 23 April 2001 and on 1 October 2001.<sup>3577</sup>

1486. The Chamber finds that the information provided to the Defence through subsequent disclosure was not consistent, as the murder of Rwabugiri and Philippe was only mentioned in a single witness statement that was disclosed on four separate occasions. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the defect in the Indictment has not been cured and it will not consider the Prosecution evidence insofar as it relates to this allegation. In any case, the Chamber notes that the evidence was insufficient to prove this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.8 Kabakobwa Massacres, 21-24 April 1994

3.6.8.1 Introduction

1487. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that on 21 and 22 April 1994, Tutsis fleeing the massacres took refuge in a pasture in Kabakobwa cellule on the orders of Kanyabashi, who had promised to protect them. Kanyabashi ordered his subordinates, notably conseillers de secteur, commune policemen and certain members of the Hutu population to go to Kabakobwa cellule to eliminate the refugees.<sup>3578</sup> Indictment Paragraph 6.45 also alleges that on one occasion on 21 April 1994 in Butare, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers and militiamen and certain members of the civilian population to search for Tutsis who had escaped massacres, in order to exterminate them.<sup>3579</sup>

1489. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that during the month of April 1994, thousands of Tutsi refugees gathered in various locations in Ngoma commune, such as Kabakobwa cellule, Matyazo Clinic and Ngoma Church, often on the recommendation of Kanyabashi, the long-serving bourgmestre, who had promised to protect them. Kanyabashi then ordered and supervised the massacres of these refugees by commune civil servants, soldiers and militiamen.<sup>3581</sup> The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment further alleges generally that between April and July 1994, to make sure that the massacres were carried out in an efficient and unflagging manner, Nsabimana, Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Nyiramasuhuko, individually or in the presence of one another, not only incited, but also aided and abetted the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>3582</sup>

1490. The Prosecution submits that in his capacity as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune, Kanyabashi was primarily responsible for planning, ordering and supervising the killing of Tutsis who had gathered at Kabakobwa. Kanyabashi knew that Tutsis were to be killed at Kabakobwa and that is why he encouraged them to go there.<sup>3583</sup> Moreover, Kanyabashi is alleged to have told certain individuals on the same day Tutsis were told to go to Kabakobwa that “those who burn leaves must first gather them”. This is alleged to be a proverb used to refer to the Tutsis and to invite members of the population to exterminate them.<sup>3584</sup> The Prosecution submits that through the use of such proverbs and direct encouragement, Kanyabashi incited the population to kill Tutsis as part of the genocidal campaign of the Interim Government of which he was a member.<sup>3585</sup>

1491. The Prosecution submits that once Tutsis were gathered at Kabakobwa, Kanyabashi issued instructions preventing them from escaping.<sup>3586</sup> Kanyabashi also authorised certain individuals to go to Kabakobwa, armed with machetes, clubs and traditional weapons, to attack the approximately 2,500 refugees who were present there, and policemen used Kalashnikovs and grenades to attack the refugees.<sup>3587</sup> Ngoma commune police took part in the attacks at Kabakobwa.<sup>3588</sup> While the massacres were taking place at Kabakobwa, Kanyabashi watched as Tutsi refugees were killed.<sup>3589</sup> The Prosecution Closing Brief further alleges that to ensure no Tutsis escaped from Kabakobwa, Kanyabashi ordered umuganda (communal work) the next day, 23 April 1994, and that upon these orders more Tutsis were killed.<sup>3590</sup>

1492. The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo instigated, ordered, and aided and abetted in the killing of Tutsis.<sup>3591</sup> Nteziryayo together with Kanyabashi authorised the population to arm themselves and go to Kabakobwa Hill to kill Tutsis.<sup>3592</sup> The Prosecution also submits that Nteziryayo is responsible pursuant to Article 6 (3) because he knew that Interahamwe and militia under his control were committing genocide, yet failed to prevent or punish them for the wrongs committed.<sup>3593</sup> Nteziryayo was together with Kanyabashi when Kanyabashi was rounding up members of the population to disguise themselves and go to Kabakobwa and knew that these people would kill.<sup>3594</sup>

1493. The Prosecution also submits that Nsabimana is responsible under Article 6 (1) and 6 (3) for aiding and abetting massacres in Butare, including the massacre in which Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo were implicated at Kabakobwa.<sup>3595</sup> Nsabimana was responsible for the disposal of the corpses after Kabakobwa and the manner in which he did this amounted to the commission of an inhumane act as a crime against humanity.<sup>3596</sup>

1494. In support of these allegations the Prosecution relies on Prosecution Witnesses FAM, QAM, QCB, QP and QW.

1495. The Kanyabashi Defence does not contest that there was a massacre at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994 involving soldiers, civilians and Interahamwe.<sup>3597</sup> It submits, however, that Kanyabashi was not involved in the massacre in any way. It submits that Kanyabashi was not at Rango market on 21 April 1994 nor at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994.<sup>3598</sup> It states that Kanyabashi did not order that the Tutsi refugees be forced to go to Kabakobwa; rather, refugees congregated on Kabakobwa Hill because it was a natural stopping point for refugees fleeing the unrest in Rwanda on their way to Burundi.<sup>3599</sup> It submits that the attackers at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994 were acting on the instructions of soldiers, and not Kanyabashi.<sup>3600</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that on 24 April 1994, a man named Semwiza issued the order to bury the bodies at Kabakobwa after the massacre, not Kanyabashi.<sup>3601</sup> Finally, it submits Prosecution Witnesses FAM, QAH, QCB, QAM and QP are part of a group of detained witnesses who conspired to fabricate testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>3602</sup>

1496. Regarding Article 6 (3) responsibility, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that commune policemen were not involved in the massacre at Kabakobwa and, in fact, Kanyabashi had held a meeting on 22 April 1994 exhorting his men not to participate in any killings.<sup>3603</sup> Although it acknowledges a commune policeman named Nsanzabahizi was a driver for the commune and was an attacker at Kabakobwa, it submits that Kanyabashi was not driven by this man.<sup>3604</sup>

1497. The Nteziryayo Defence challenges the credibility of the Prosecution witnesses called to testify about the Kabakobwa massacre, pointing out inconsistencies and examples of fabricated testimony.<sup>3605</sup> Nteziryayo submits he did not know of a place called Kabakobwa in 1994, did not know that a massacre took place there, and was not asked to go there by Kanyabashi. According to the Nteziryayo Defence, Nteziryayo is unaware of who committed the killings at Kabakobwa.<sup>3606</sup>

1498. In addition to submissions concerning notice, addressed below, the Nsabimana Defence challenges the credibility of Prosecution Witness QCB, the sole witness to implicate Nsabimana in the Kabakobwa events.<sup>3607</sup>

1499. The Defence for Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo rely on Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-10-Y, D-2-13-D, D-2-14-D, D-2-16-L, D-2-16-P and D-2-YYYY, Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WKML and Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges.

Alleged Defect in Paragraph 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment

1500. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that Paragraph 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is vague, and did not adequately plead the Kabakobwa massacres in order to provide notice to Nteziryayo. Accordingly, it argues the Kabakobwa incident should be excluded in its entirety, including all evidence from Prosecution Witness FAM implicating Nteziryayo.<sup>3608</sup> At trial, the Nteziryayo Defence specified that Paragraph 6.53 was impermissibly vague because it made no reference to Kabakobwa. Further, it argued that Paragraph 6.49, which mentions Kabakobwa, did not add specificity to the charge because it did not name Nteziryayo and was not listed in support of counts.<sup>3609</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence also objected to Witness FAM's testimony as to Nteziryayo's presence at Kabakobwa claiming Nteziryayo was not named or referred to in the Indictment with respect to Kabakobwa.<sup>3610</sup> The Chamber overruled this objection on the basis that the Nteziryayo Defence could cross-examine Witness FAM later to verify the veracity or return to the subject in its final submissions.<sup>3611</sup> The Nteziryayo Defence subsequently cross-examined Witness FAM the following day, 7 March 2002.

1501. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.53 alleges that between April and July 1994 Nsabimana, Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi and Nyiramasuhuko, individually or in the presence of one another, not only incited, but also aided and abetted the population to slaughter the Tutsis in Butare préfecture. Such a broad allegation is insufficient to have put Nteziryayo on notice to prepare his defence in regard to the Kabakobwa incident. Further, the Chamber considers that Paragraph 6.49, which was not listed in support of counts and did not name Nteziryayo, did not provide Nteziryayo notice that he was being charged with this event. The Chamber therefore finds the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment defective in this respect.

1502. The summary of Prosecution Witness FAM's anticipated testimony included in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo brought soldiers to kill the Tutsis gathered at Kabakobwa.<sup>3612</sup> The summary makes clear that Witness FAM was being brought to lead evidence with respect to Counts 1 to 9 against both Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo. In Witness FAM's statement of 24 February 2000, he states that Kanyabashi came back to Kabakobwa to check on the policemen he had left there the previous day, and to meet with Nteziryayo, who arrived at the same venue on board a white Pajero followed by a military truck full of soldiers. Witness FAM further states that the same Friday, the Tutsis who had gathered at Kabakobwa were killed by soldiers brought there by Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo.<sup>3613</sup>

1503. In the Chamber's view, the summary of Witness FAM's anticipated testimony included in the Pre-Trial Brief and Witness FAM's statement of 24 February 2000 provided timely, clear and consistent information to Nteziryayo that he was alleged to have been implicated in the Kabakobwa massacre by bringing soldiers to participate in the massacre. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the defect in the Indictment for failing to mention Nteziryayo's involvement in the Kabakobwa massacre was cured and that the Nteziryayo Defence was given adequate notice that it would need to defend against this allegation.

Kanyabashi's Alleged Involvement at Kabakobwa on 23 April 1994

1504. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the Prosecution wrongfully introduced evidence of events relating to Kabakobwa, which are alleged to have occurred on 23 and 24 April 1994, whereas the Indictment only mentions events having occurred on 21 and 22 April 1994.<sup>3614</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence first objected at trial to Witness FAM's testimony relating to events on Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>3615</sup> The Chamber overruled the objection on the basis that the Kanyabashi Defence could cross-examine Witness FAM later to verify the veracity or return to the subject in its final submissions.<sup>3616</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence subsequently cross-examined Witness FAM over the two following sitting days, 7 and 11 March 2002.

course of testifying.<sup>3618</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence cross-examined Witness QCB six days later, on 27 and 28 March 2002.

1506. The Chamber notes that the Kanyabashi Indictment specified that events relating to Kabakobwa occurred “[o]n 21 and 22 April 1994”.<sup>3619</sup> This language suggests that these are the only relevant dates in connection to the underlying allegation. Events related to Kabakobwa that occurred on 23 and 24 April 1994 are not pled in Paragraphs 6.32 and 6.33. The Chamber notes that although the Indictment only mentions 21 and 22 April 1994 with regard to the Kabakobwa massacre, Paragraph 6.33 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that, “[s]ubsequently, Kanyabashi called in reinforcements from the Presidential Guard. On their arrival they took part in the attacks”.

1507. The Chamber considers that the introduction of the evidence in relation to the killings on 23 April 1994 did not expand the charges in the Indictment as it was consistent with the assertion that Kanyabashi “subsequently” called in reinforcements to further the killings. In addition, Witness FAM’s prior statement of 24 February 2000 provides that on Saturday after the Kabakobwa killings, he witnessed Kanyabashi coming back with policemen to finish off those who had survived and search the neighbourhood for children and elderly to kill, as he participated in the communal work of burying the bodies of the victims.<sup>3620</sup> In the Chamber’s view, the additional details provided in Witness FAM’s prior statement provided Kanyabashi with notice that he was also being charged with killing the survivors of the first Kabakobwa attack on the following day, 23 April 1994.

1508. With respect to burials that occurred on Saturday, 23 April 1994, the Chamber notes that there is no mention of this in either Paragraphs 6.32 or 6.33 relating to Kabakobwa. The summary of Witness FAM’s anticipated testimony contained in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that Witness FAM witnessed the communal work of burying victims’ bodies, although it is not clear that this was linked in any way to the massacre at Kabakobwa.<sup>3621</sup> A plain reading of the summary of Witness FAM’s anticipated testimony gives the impression Witness FAM would testify generally on witnessing communal work. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers that evidence of the alleged burials on Saturday 23 April and Kanyabashi’s alleged involvement therein fall outside the scope of the Indictment.

Alleged Defect in Paragraph 6.32 of the Kanyabashi Indictment Concerning the Identity of Kanyabashi’s Subordinates

1509. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that following the Chamber’s Decision of 31 May 2000 ordering that subordinates be specified in the Kanyabashi Indictment, Paragraphs 6.32 and 6.33 were not amended to include the requisite information.<sup>3622</sup> Thus, it argues that

<sup>3618</sup> T. 21 March 2002 pp. 32-33 (Witness QCB) (ruling that, “the issue raised by the Defence is legitimate. And we would expect, in future, that that kind of exchange of information shall be done in order to facilitate the proceedings and the search for justice ... That would be the ruling of the Trial Chamber on this matter.”).

Kanyabashi cannot be held responsible pursuant to Article 6 (3) for acts allegedly committed at Kabakobwa by responsables de cellule.<sup>3623</sup>

1510. The Chamber recalls that the original Paragraph 6.29 set forth that Ngoma commune was the site of numerous massacres, in which Kanyabashi was either directly involved or in which his subordinates were implicated. The Chamber recalls that in its Decision of 31 May 2000, it ordered the Prosecution to specify the identity of the subordinates referred to in Paragraph 6.29 of the Amended Kanyabashi Indictment, filed 12 August 1999.<sup>3624</sup> The Prosecution amended Paragraph 6.29 of the Amended Kanyabashi Indictment, filed 29 June 2000, to state that Ngoma commune was the site of numerous massacres, in which Kanyabashi was either directly involved or in which his subordinates, as set out in Paragraph 6.32, were implicated. Paragraph 6.32 of the Amended Indictment states: Kanyabashi ordered his subordinates, notably conseillers de secteur and commune policemen, and asked certain members of the Hutu population to go to Kabakobwa cellule to eliminate the refugees.<sup>3625</sup>

1511. Although Amended Indictment Paragraphs 6.32 or 6.33 still do not include responsables de cellule as Kanyabashi's subordinates, the Chamber notes Paragraph 4.3 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that Kanyabashi exercised authority over his subordinates in his capacity as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune. According to Paragraph 6.32 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, those subordinates include, but are not limited to, conseillers de secteur and commune policemen. The Indictment therefore envisages the existence of other categories of subordinates insofar as Kanyabashi is concerned. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers it possible to infer from reading the Indictment as a whole that other civil servants, such as responsables de cellule, were also Kanyabashi's alleged subordinates.

1512. The Chamber notes the summary of Witness FAM's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief sets forth that on the Sunday following the Kabakobwa massacre, Kanyabashi came to the secteur and held a meeting with the conseiller and the responsables de cellule asking them to tell the surviving Tutsis to come out of hiding. Witness FAM's previous statement of 24 February 2000 is consistent with the summary of his anticipated evidence as to the Sunday events, namely that Kanyabashi came to the secteur and held a meeting with the conseiller and the responsables de cellule, asking them to tell the surviving Tutsis to come out of hiding.<sup>3626</sup>

1513. This disclosure is timely, clear and consistent and put Kanyabashi on notice that the Prosecution intended to bring evidence of the responsables de cellule's involvement with respect to the alleged 24 April 1994 meeting. Therefore, the Chamber considers the defect in the Indictment for failing to specify that Kanyabashi had authority over responsables de cellule is cured.

Nsabimana's Alleged Involvement at Kabakobwa on 23 April 1994

1514. In addition to submissions concerning the vagueness of Indictment Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 that allege Nsabimana aided and abetted the massacre of Tutsis,<sup>3627</sup> the Nsabimana Defence submits that it was not provided with any notice that Witness QCB, the sole Prosecution witness to implicate Nsabimana in the Kabakobwa events, would testify against Nsabimana.<sup>3628</sup> When Witness QCB testified about the Kabakobwa events and first testified about the presence of Nsabimana, the Nsabimana Defence objected on the basis of lack of notice.<sup>3629</sup> The Chamber ruled that the objection was legitimate insofar as Witness QCB's testimony was not mere information that came out in the course of testifying.<sup>3630</sup> The Nsabimana Defence cross-examined Witness QCB six days later, on 27 March 2002.

1515. The Chamber notes that Indictment Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 which allege that, inter alia, Nsabimana aided and abetted the massacre of Tutsis, fail to provide any details as to where or when the alleged acts of aiding and abetting occurred. Such a broad allegation is insufficient to have put Nsabimana on notice to adequately prepare his defence in regard to the Kabakobwa incident. For this reason, the Chamber agrees that Indictment Paragraphs 6.53 and 6.59 are defective in this respect.

1516. The Chamber further notes that while the summary of Prosecution Witness FAM's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief outlines how Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo allegedly contributed to the events at Kabakobwa, no mention is made of Nsabimana.<sup>3631</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber considers the Prosecution did not provide the Nsabimana Defence with adequate notice that he was being charged with aiding and abetting in the massacre at Kabakobwa such that the Chamber will not make any finding against Nsabimana in this respect.

Prosecution Witness FAM

1517. Witness FAM, a Hutu and detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>3632</sup> testified that Kanyabashi, in the company of Nsanzabahizi, came to Rango market, between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m. on a Thursday in April 1994.<sup>3633</sup> Kanyabashi told those present that roadblocks were to be erected in the various cellules and secteurs as protection against the enemy, and that Tutsis should not be allowed to leave Ngoma commune, but rather they should be guided to Kabakobwa where they could seek refuge.<sup>3634</sup>

1518. Colonel Muvunyi and some soldiers also came to Rango market on that day, but he did not notice their arrival as he was focused on Kanyabashi's address.<sup>3635</sup> Kanyabashi arrived with some policemen.<sup>3636</sup> Only Kanyabashi spoke during the gathering at Rango market, which lasted about one hour and was attended by more than 100 people.<sup>3637</sup> After the meeting, people dispersed and roadblocks were set up in compliance with Kanyabashi's instructions.<sup>3638</sup>

1519. Witness FAM testified that he saw Kanyabashi on the following day, Friday, and that Kanyabashi told him and others to cover themselves in banana leaves and anoint the upper parts of their bodies with black colour. Kanyabashi was in the presence of many soldiers, as well as Nteziryayo, Muvunyi and Mathias Nsanzabahizi. Kanyabashi told Witness FAM to accompany him to Kabakobwa.<sup>3639</sup>

1520. Witness FAM testified that the soldiers, policemen and civilians all left the market at the same time to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>3640</sup> As a result of what they were told, the group went to Kabakobwa armed with traditional weapons, especially machetes, spears and clubs. Kanyabashi, Nteziryayo and the policemen gave them authorisation to be armed.<sup>3641</sup> When he arrived at Kabakobwa, many people were gathered there whom he was told were Tutsis. There were more than 2,500 people at Kabakobwa.<sup>3642</sup>

1521. Nteziryayo arrived at Kabakobwa in a military vehicle at about the same time the witness arrived,<sup>3643</sup> and in the company of soldiers.<sup>3644</sup> Witness FAM testified that when his group arrived at Kabakobwa, around 3.00 p.m.,<sup>3645</sup> soldiers and policemen surrounded those people, and asked Witness FAM and his group to attack the Tutsis using their traditional weapons.<sup>3646</sup> Those who were attacked were able to resist, so two minutes later the soldiers and policemen shot into the crowd.<sup>3647</sup> He saw weapons such as Kalashnikov rifles and grenades used against the crowd by the soldiers.<sup>3648</sup> Commune policemen, soldiers and civilians all killed.<sup>3649</sup> The civilians attacked first, followed two minutes later by the military.<sup>3650</sup> When they finished the massacre, they loaded livestock, motorcycles and other valuable items which they found onto military vehicles. When they finished the killing, they left between 4.00 and 5.00 p.m.<sup>3651</sup> Witness FAM later stated he left at 5.30 p.m.<sup>3652</sup>

1522. Witness FAM testified that there were many other civilians at Kabakobwa dressed in banana leaves, but he did not remember the exact number.<sup>3653</sup> While the soldiers and policemen were shooting at the crowd at Kabakobwa, those dressed in banana leaves prevented anyone from escaping. Those dressed in banana leaves used traditional weapons to kill those people who tried to escape the gunfire.<sup>3654</sup>

1523. Witness FAM saw Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa standing next to a vehicle and observing the manner in which people were being massacred and how those who were trying to escape were being contained.<sup>3655</sup>

1524. The next day, Saturday [23 April 1994] at 8.00 a.m., Witness FAM returned to Kabakobwa on the authorisation of Kanyabashi to perform communal activities, known as umuganda.<sup>3656</sup> Kanyabashi told them to engage in finissage, or to massacre those who were not killed the day before.<sup>3657</sup> Witness FAM testified that they were asked to perform umuganda at 8.00 a.m. on that morning by both the cellule leaders and Kanyabashi.<sup>3658</sup> Kanyabashi was not at the meeting on Saturday morning when instructions on umuganda were given. However, since Kanyabashi was the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune at the time and nobody killed or performed umuganda without having received instructions, Kanyabashi was responsible.<sup>3659</sup>

1526. Witness FAM explained that he did not mention Kanyabashi or Nteziryayo in his confession of 3 August 1998 because he was detained with members of Kanyabashi's and Nteziryayo's families and was concerned for his safety.<sup>3664</sup> Witness FAM testified that he pled guilty in a Rwandan court to genocide for crimes committed at a roadblock and during night patrols.<sup>3665</sup> He testified that when he was first apprehended he did not admit his culpability because there was not a working judiciary in Rwanda at the time.<sup>3666</sup> At the time of his testimony Witness FAM had not yet been sentenced and still did not know whether his confession had been accepted or rejected.<sup>3667</sup> He denied that his fate was conditioned upon the testimony he gave before this Tribunal.<sup>3668</sup>

1527. Witness FAM said that after confessing, he was separated from the other detainees and placed into a new detention house for those who were confessing, called “Arusha”.<sup>3669</sup> The confessors were moved to ensure their security, but he denied that conditions in the Arusha house were better than in the general wing.<sup>3670</sup> He testified that he confessed because he wanted to tell the truth about the death of innocent people, not to gain additional rations or better conditions in detention.<sup>3671</sup>

1528. Witness FAM testified that he was detained with Witness QCB in Karubanda prison and had also been detained with Witness QCB in Arusha for 5 to 6 months while they waited to give their testimony before this Tribunal.<sup>3672</sup> He stated that he attended Gacaca sessions in Karubanda prison that discussed events in their secteur with Witness QCB, but that they were each concerned with their own case.<sup>3673</sup>

1529. Witness FAM knew Kanyabashi since 1985<sup>3674</sup> and identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>3675</sup> Witness FAM first saw Nteziryayo in the military barracks in Butare when he went there for arms training, in February 1994.<sup>3676</sup> Witness FAM last saw Nteziryayo in July 1994, while Nteziryayo was coming to collect the guns that had been distributed to those who were at roadblocks.<sup>3677</sup> Witness FAM identified Nteziryayo in court.<sup>3678</sup>

Prosecution Witness QAM

1530. Witness QAM, a Tutsi student,<sup>3679</sup> testified that on a Friday, the Interahamwe came to her house wielding spears and bludgeons.<sup>3680</sup> They went from house to house where they knew there were Tutsis, and told the Tutsis to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>3681</sup> The Interahamwe who came to her house told them the order came from the conseiller, and it appeared the conseiller received an order from the bourgmestre of Ngoma.<sup>3682</sup> She and her family proceeded to Kabakobwa immediately as ordered.<sup>3683</sup>

1531. They met other Tutsis also walking in the direction of Kabakobwa and walked there together.<sup>3684</sup> It took about one hour.<sup>3685</sup> She knew the others were Tutsis because they said so.<sup>3686</sup> Many people were already at Kabakobwa when they arrived.<sup>3687</sup> Witness QAM testified she arrived at Kabakobwa around 5.00 or 6.00 a.m.<sup>3688</sup> From her arrival until the attack occurred at 2.00 p.m. Witness QAM remained at Kabakobwa, at the river which serves as a border between Ngoma and Nyaruhengeri communes.<sup>3689</sup>

1532. Witness QAM testified that around 11.00 a.m. on the same day she arrived at Kabakobwa, she saw the same group of Interahamwe who previously came to her home, but they left quickly, saying that “they were going to announce to the bourgmestre that people at Kabakobwa were sufficient in number”.<sup>3690</sup> The person identified in Defence Exhibit 3 made this statement.<sup>3691</sup> The Interahamwe said they would return to confront those in Kabakobwa.<sup>3692</sup>

1533. The Interahamwe later came back to Kabakobwa armed with machetes, spears and cudgels and accompanied by commune policemen carrying guns and grenades.<sup>3693</sup> In the early afternoon, the policemen surrounded the people gathered at Kabakobwa from all sides.<sup>3694</sup> They then opened fire on them while the Interahamwe started cutting to pieces those who had been wounded with the bullets.<sup>3695</sup> Grenades were also used.<sup>3696</sup> Those who survived the bullets ran away towards Nyaruhengeri when the Interahamwe started attacking with machetes.<sup>3697</sup>

1534. She was unable to estimate the number of policemen who attacked the group at Kabakobwa. The policemen wore green uniforms.<sup>3698</sup> The attack started around 2.00 p.m. and continued until 3.00 or 4.00 p.m.<sup>3699</sup> Almost all of the people who were at Kabakobwa were killed and less than 50 were able to survive.<sup>3700</sup> She estimated the number of persons who had been gathered at Kabakobwa to be between 5,000 and 10,000.<sup>3701</sup> Two of her family members were killed there.<sup>3702</sup>

1535. Witness QAM did not see soldiers, gendarmes or members of the Presidential Guard at Kabakobwa.<sup>3703</sup> There were only civilians and commune policemen.<sup>3704</sup> When put to Witness QAM that her statement of 22 May 1997 stated that Kanyabashi sent soldiers from the Presidential Guard to exterminate Tutsis, she said the investigators got it wrong and she had told them that Kanyabashi did not have authority over the soldiers.<sup>3705</sup> She further explained that she intended to use the word “policemen” and not “soldier” in her statement.<sup>3706</sup> When put to her that her statement did not mention Interahamwe, Witness QAM said that she used this word because those who came to her house described themselves as Interahamwe,<sup>3707</sup> although she did not know what political party those Hutus belonged to.<sup>3708</sup> The Interahamwe wore ordinary clothes and a banana leaf tied around their waist.<sup>3709</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

1538. Witness QCB, a Hutu married to a Tutsi woman,<sup>3715</sup> and detained witness awaiting sentencing in Rwanda at the time of his testimony,<sup>3716</sup> testified that he went to his place of work on the morning of [Thursday] 21 April 1994, at around 7.00 a.m.,<sup>3717</sup> was told that there was no assignment for him on that day, and so he immediately decided to return home.<sup>3718</sup> On his way home, at about 9.00 or 9.10 a.m., he stopped at the Rugira roadblock, where he saw people being loaded into vehicles and taken to the IRST.<sup>3719</sup> He left the IRST around 9.30

a.m.<sup>3720</sup> and arrived at Rango market around 11.00 a.m., where he saw Kanyabashi and Muvunyi.<sup>3721</sup>

1539. Colonel Muvunyi was with five soldiers in a Land Rover and he beckoned the population to come near him. He asked an Interahamwe leader named Cyiza what the Tutsi refugees were doing at Kanyamanza in Tumba secteur, and stated that they must “leave that place”.<sup>3722</sup> Muvunyi told Cyiza to chase the refugees away but Kanyabashi said, “[n]o, let them go through to Kabakobwa”, but without their belongings.<sup>3723</sup> In cross-examination he added that Kanyabashi said, “no one should steal their property, and no one should touch them”. From this Witness QCB testified that he and the others understood that the security of the refugees would be guaranteed. However, at 6.00 p.m. that night a responsable de cellule came to tell them to surround the refugees and that none of them should escape.<sup>3724</sup>

1540. From the point where he stood, Witness QCB could see Kanyabashi clearly.<sup>3725</sup> Witness QCB marked the spot where he was standing on Prosecution Exhibit 53 as “Q2”.<sup>3726</sup> The presence of the 3,000 refugees in Kanyamanza was marked on Prosecution Exhibit 53 by drawing a circle around the words “secteur Tumba” in the upper right-hand corner.<sup>3727</sup>

1541. The refugees left for Kabakobwa without their possessions as Kanyabashi stated.<sup>3728</sup> These Tutsis had come from the school between Sahera and Nkubi secteurs. Witness QCB and others had taken the refugees from the school to Kanyamanza, near Rango market, and then to Kabakobwa. After the meeting at the market, Witness QCB again encountered Muvunyi down the road to Kansi. At that time, a truck passed which contained 10 dead bodies and some soldiers. Muvunyi told the soldiers to throw the bodies onto the ground and told Witness QCB and the others with him: “There you have an example of what you must do. You must kill the Tutsis.” Kanyabashi was not present at that moment.<sup>3729</sup> Witness QCB marked the spot where he was standing when he saw Muvunyi on Prosecution Exhibit 53 as “Q3”.<sup>3730</sup>

1542. Witness QCB testified that after this event, the same soldiers proceeded to Rukimbira’s house.<sup>3731</sup> He was not present during the killing of Rukimbira because he was still at Rango.<sup>3732</sup>

1543. Later that same day, [Thursday] 21 April 1994, at 6.00 p.m., Witness QCB testified that the responsable de cellule assembled the population along the road that goes to Kabakobwa and told them that Kanyabashi had ordered that all Tutsis should be watched and not allowed to return to their homes.<sup>3733</sup> They were told to watch the Tutsis until soldiers came to kill them.<sup>3734</sup> The responsable de cellule said those instructions came from the bourgmestre, Kanyabashi.<sup>3735</sup> For the remainder of the night, Witness QCB and others guarded the Tutsis.<sup>3736</sup> They did not sleep that night.<sup>3737</sup> About 3,000 Tutsis sought refuge in Kanyamanza, and by the time the refugees gathered at Kabakobwa they numbered 5,000.<sup>3738</sup> The meeting with the responsable de cellule took place at the spot marked “Q4” on Prosecution Exhibit 53.<sup>3739</sup>

1544. The next day, Friday 22 April 1994, at 10.00 a.m., Witness QCB saw soldiers come to Kabakobwa and approach the refugees to ask how many people were on the hill. The Tutsis told the soldiers that the Hutus had surrounded them and indicated their number to be 5,000. The leader of the soldiers then came to Witness QCB and other Hutus standing guard.<sup>3740</sup> The soldiers introduced themselves, said they were from the ESO camp in Butare and told the witness and others, “[d]o not think that we are Inkotanyi, we come from [the] ESO”.<sup>3741</sup> The leader of the soldiers said that they could not attack “them” with Kalashnikovs and that they were going to ask Muvunyi for more sophisticated weapons so that they could deal with the Tutsis.<sup>3742</sup> Witness QCB agreed that he did not include the soldiers’ words in his statement of 7 April 1999.<sup>3743</sup> His statement was incorrect insofar as it stated that the soldiers told the Hutus to go home.<sup>3744</sup>

1545. There were about 250 soldiers.<sup>3745</sup> The 250 soldiers included members of the “Rwandan Army” forces, who were wearing black berets and others from the gendarmes wearing red berets.<sup>3746</sup>

1546. Witness QCB testified that later that day, at about 3.00 p.m., he saw Mathias Nsanzabahizi, who worked both as Kanyabashi’s driver and as a policeman at the Ngoma commune, arrive at Kabakobwa where the Tutsis had been surrounded.<sup>3747</sup> Nsanzabahizi read a letter out loud, which stated that Kanyabashi asked the population to join the soldiers in attacking the Tutsis.<sup>3748</sup> Witness QCB saw the letter dated 22 April 1994, and said it bore the stamp of the commune and Kanyabashi’s signature.<sup>3749</sup> While Nsanzabahizi was reading the letter, the soldiers started shooting and Nsanzabahizi stopped reading. Nsanzabahizi told

1547. Nsanzabahizi had a gun and a grenade, which he subsequently used to kill the Tutsis. According to Witness QCB, when his gun could not shoot anymore, Nsanzabahizi used his grenade against the Tutsis.<sup>3754</sup> Witness QCB saw the soldiers shoot the Tutsis, and saw the Hutu civilians kill those Tutsis that tried to escape.<sup>3755</sup> Witness QCB testified that the soldiers opened fire on the refugees first, followed by the Hutu population and policemen.<sup>3756</sup> The attack on the refugees started around 3.30 p.m.<sup>3757</sup>

1548. When it was put to Witness QCB that none of his several statements that were disclosed to the Defence,<sup>3758</sup> including his statement to Rwandan authorities dated 26 August 1999,<sup>3759</sup> implicated commune policemen other than Nsanzabahizi in the Kabakobwa attacks, Witness QCB said he started with Nsanzabahizi because he was the leader of the policemen.<sup>3760</sup> He also named several other commune policemen from Nkubi and Sahera secteurs who he claimed were with him and killed people "like thunder" in the attack.<sup>3761</sup>

1549. Witness QCB testified that about 2,000 people were killed in Kabakobwa.<sup>3762</sup> The presence of the Hutu civilians from various secteurs that surrounded Kabakobwa was marked on Prosecution Exhibit 53.<sup>3763</sup> The place where the refugees gathered at Kabakobwa was also marked on Prosecution Exhibit 53.<sup>3764</sup>

1551. Witness QCB testified that he did not mention the letter read out by Nsanzabahizi in his testimony before the Canadian Court because he was asked questions about other people, and not Kanyabashi.<sup>3771</sup> Nsanzabahizi arrived at Kabakobwa in the morning to read out Kanyabashi's letter at about 7.00 a.m.,<sup>3772</sup> although he testified in 2002 before the Court that Nsanzabahizi had arrived with the letter in the afternoon.<sup>3773</sup> Nsanzabahizi returned in the afternoon around 3.00 p.m. to fire on the refugees.<sup>3774</sup> From 7.00 a.m. until 3.30 p.m., the Hutus surrounded the refugees and awaited orders to kill them.<sup>3775</sup>

1552. Witness QCB testified that on [Saturday] 23 April 1994 he went back to Kabakobwa to bury the deceased. At 7.30 a.m. he saw there were two trucks and a bulldozer at the site of the massacre.<sup>3776</sup> That same morning, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana came to the site at about 9.00 a.m., arriving aboard separate vehicles, one right after the other.<sup>3777</sup> They walked around and Kanyabashi commended the villagers for the work they had done in burying the dead. They only stayed five minutes and then left.<sup>3778</sup> All the local population, minus women and children, was present when they arrived.<sup>3779</sup> Kanyabashi and Nsabimana stood only three steps from Witness QCB.<sup>3780</sup> The spot from where Kanyabashi and Muvunyi observed events at Kabakobwa was marked on Prosecution Exhibit 53.<sup>3781</sup> Witness QCB acknowledged he had not mentioned Kanyabashi's presence at the burial site in Kabakobwa on the morning of 23 April 1994 in any of his statements which the Prosecution disclosed to the Defence.<sup>3782</sup>

Rather, he confessed because of the remorse he felt for the crimes that he committed.<sup>3785</sup>

1554. Witness QCB admitted that he was detained together with Witness FAM in Arusha pending his testimony before this Tribunal, and that they were detained in the same area in Rwanda. He noted that the prison in which they were detained contained 7,000 detainees.<sup>3786</sup>

Prosecution Witness QP

1555. Witness QP, a female Tutsi aged 15 in 1994,<sup>3787</sup> testified that Kanyabashi was the bourgmestre of her commune, and that she had seen him before April 1994 because he would come for meetings.<sup>3788</sup> On a Thursday in April at about noon, at Rwinuma cellule, she saw Kanyabashi inside a moving vehicle accompanied by a man in a green uniform going towards Kabuga, in Sahera.<sup>3789</sup> Kanyabashi was speaking into a microphone and repeated three times, “[h]e who will burn the weeds must first gather them.”<sup>3790</sup> Witness QP said she was at home before noon and on hearing the announcements, she went up the road to get closer.<sup>3791</sup> The witness was about 20 metres away from Kanyabashi at that time.<sup>3792</sup> The car’s driver was a policeman she did not know.<sup>3793</sup> Approximately 15 minutes later, Kanyabashi and his companion returned from the direction of Kabuga still speaking into the microphone and uttering the same words.<sup>3794</sup> After the vehicle returned the second time, the witness went home and asked her father what those words meant.<sup>3795</sup> Her father explained that the Tutsis were to be killed.<sup>3796</sup> Witness QP could not recall the type or colour of the vehicle that Kanyabashi travelled in that day or what it looked like, stating that too much time had passed.<sup>3797</sup> Witness QP could not positively identify Kanyabashi in court.<sup>3798</sup>

1556. Witness QP did not go to the market on Thursday morning, or hear of a pickup truck with soldiers that threw 10 dead bodies from the truck.<sup>3799</sup>

1557. Witness QP testified that later on the same day [Thursday] she saw Kanyabashi, she saw her responsable de cellule order Tutsi civilians to proceed to Kabakobwa to join the others.<sup>3800</sup> Witness QP, along with her parents, a sister and three brothers, walked to Kabakobwa on that Thursday, taking with them some of their cattle and household effects. They stayed there Thursday night.<sup>3801</sup> On arrival at Kabakobwa, she found so many Tutsi refugees that “one [could not] count them.”<sup>3802</sup> Apart from a few Hutu women who had followed their husbands, the rest of those seeking refuge were Tutsis.<sup>3803</sup> When put to Witness QP that in her statement of 24 June 1997 she stated that the responsable de cellule told the refugees to go to Kabakobwa for their safety, Witness QP testified that they were just told to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>3804</sup>

1558. Witness QP testified that on the Friday morning a man named Mathias, who was a Hutu from Gasharo cellule and an employee of Ngoma commune, arrived at Kabakobwa in a green Toyota vehicle belonging to Ngoma commune. Mathias came to Kabakobwa to fetch his sister, his Tutsi brother-in-law and their children who were among the Tutsi refugees at Kabakobwa.<sup>3805</sup> He came at 6.00 a.m. She was about 10 metres from the vehicle and saw his family members board it.<sup>3806</sup> She heard one of the refugees ask Mathias why he was taking these people away, and who would take care of those seeking refuge, to which Mathias responded, “[p]ray, because the hour of your death has come.”<sup>3807</sup>

1559. Witness QP testified that at approximately 2.00 p.m. on Friday 8 April 1994 (sic), soldiers attacked the refugees by throwing into the crowd things that “looked like small containers [that] exploded”, killing some refugees.<sup>3808</sup> The soldiers wore red berets, trousers and shirts with stains. The soldiers also had other weapons and shot at the refugees.<sup>3809</sup> There were also policemen and Hutu civilians among the attackers.<sup>3810</sup> The policemen were armed with guns.<sup>3811</sup> She could recognise policemen by their uniforms although she did not know their names.<sup>3812</sup> The civilians wore banana leaves and carried spears, swords, machetes, cudgels and hoes.<sup>3813</sup> They used their weapons on the civilians after the soldiers and policemen “had finished.” When they saw the civilian population attack with traditional arms, they

Prosecution Witness QW

1561. Witness QW, a female Tutsi who was 16 years old in 1994,<sup>3822</sup> testified that one Thursday in April 1994 the person in charge of her cellule told the Tutsis of his cellule that in furtherance of Bourgmestre Kanyabashi's orders, they were to seek refuge at Kabakobwa where they would find food and supplies.<sup>3823</sup> The responsible de cellule told the Tutsis that they would be protected in Kabakobwa, but that they must go there, and that they may be killed if they refused to go.<sup>3824</sup> They received the instructions in the morning and she and her family went to Kabakobwa in the afternoon.<sup>3825</sup> She did not know how Kanyabashi's instruction was conferred to her cellule leader.<sup>3826</sup> She recalled it was a Thursday because it was market day at Rango, although she did not go.<sup>3827</sup> She was at home that morning.<sup>3828</sup> She did not know whether a pickup full of soldiers passed through Rango market threatening Tutsis and telling them they would not get to use what they had purchased, nor had she heard of this incident.<sup>3829</sup>

protection.<sup>3832</sup> Witness QW denied that her and her family fled to Kabakobwa because of massacres in neighbouring secteurs.<sup>3833</sup>

1563. Witness QW testified that the next morning, between 10.00 and 11.00 a.m.,<sup>3834</sup> she saw a green vehicle bearing the inscription “Ngoma commune” arrive at Kabakobwa and recognised the driver, one Mathias, a commune employee.<sup>3835</sup> Upon his arrival at the site, Mathias told Witness QW and other refugees that he had come to Kabakobwa to collect his sister, one Marguerite who was among the refugees with her children.<sup>3836</sup> Witness QW was about three metres from Mathias’ car.<sup>3837</sup> When the refugees asked Mathias when the people supposed to protect the refugees would come, he told them, “[y]ou should believe in God because your fate has already been decided. Everything that was told to you previously was lies”, and “[y]our hour has come.”<sup>3838</sup> Witness QW saw Marguerite leave with her children.<sup>3839</sup> She was about 10 metres from the car at that point.<sup>3840</sup>

1564. Witness QW testified that the person she identified as Mathias came back towards the end of the afternoon on Friday accompanied by people in uniform, soldiers or policemen wearing green clothes with banana leaves and carrying guns, and members of the population wearing civilian clothes with banana leaves and carrying traditional weapons.<sup>3841</sup> The people in uniform went towards the refugees. The refugees moved towards them thinking that these people had come to ensure their safety. When they understood it was not the case, the refugees sat back down. The attackers then fired their guns at the refugees.<sup>3842</sup>

1565. Witness QW did not know whether those who fired the guns were soldiers or policemen but they were wearing banana leaves.<sup>3843</sup> Civilians carrying traditional weapons and wearing civilian clothes and banana leaves also attacked them.<sup>3844</sup> During the shooting, many refugees died, and those who did not die were later killed by the civilians.<sup>3845</sup> Those who were still alive fled to Kibilizi.<sup>3846</sup> Witness QW walked all night and arrived back at Kabakobwa the following morning, around 8.00 or 9.00 a.m.<sup>3847</sup> They were forced to return to Kabakobwa because wherever else they went there were massacres.<sup>3848</sup> Witness QW saw all the dead

1566. Witness QW agreed that she knew a girl by the same name as Witness QP and that they were in Arusha at the same time to give evidence.<sup>3851</sup> Witness QW did not see Witness QP at Kabakobwa but before she gave her statement to the Tribunal's investigators, she came to know that Witness QP was at Kabakobwa.<sup>3852</sup> She did not know that Witness QP had also given a statement to the Tribunal investigators.<sup>3853</sup> Witness QW also did not know a person by the same name as Witness QAM.<sup>3854</sup>

1567. Witness QW said she might have heard of an association called Ibuka, but she did not know what it did and she never received assistance from it.<sup>3855</sup> She had heard of a similar association called Avega but had never received assistance from it.<sup>3856</sup>

Prosecution Witness QBV

1570. Witness QBV testified that he was detained with some of Nteziryayo's relatives, including one Nshimabarezi, Nteziryayo's brother-in-law, who pressured him not to give Tribunal investigators many details that would incriminate Nteziryayo.<sup>3872</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

1571. Alison Des Forges agreed that for those who wanted to flee to Burundi with their cattle, Kabakobwa would have been one of the few practical places to gather in Ngoma commune, and a good place to travel through.<sup>3873</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WMKL

1572. Witness WMKL, a Hutu teacher,<sup>3874</sup> testified that he was at Rango market on Thursday 21 April 1994.<sup>3875</sup> At around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m., he heard gunshots from Tumba secteur.<sup>3876</sup> As a result, everyone at the market panicked and ran away either in the direction of Sahera or Nyaruhengeri. He did not see Kanyabashi at the market on that day.<sup>3877</sup> Witness WMKL did not go to Kabakobwa that day or subsequently.<sup>3878</sup> He did not hear of an order issued by Kanyabashi calling on people to go and assemble at Kabakobwa.<sup>3879</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

1573. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu,<sup>3880</sup> testified as to a commune police meeting chaired by Kanyabashi at the Ngoma commune office on 18 or 19 April 1994. The witness expressed some uncertainty as to whether he was present at that meeting, recalling that he was at home awaiting night duty at the time of the meeting and was later informed of what happened at the meeting by his colleagues.<sup>3881</sup> Witness D-2-5-I later testified that he was present at the 18 or 19 April 1994 meeting and that he inadvertently testified otherwise in his earlier testimony.<sup>3882</sup>

1574. Witness D-2-5-I stated that Kanyabashi instructed the police to cooperate with the population to prevent attackers from entering Ngoma commune and carrying out killings and to protect persons who sought refuge in Ngoma commune.<sup>3883</sup> At the meeting of 18 or 19 April, the attacks at Mukura and at Matyazo in Huye commune, and at Buvumo in Sahera, were discussed. Kanyabashi assigned police to mount roadblocks to prevent attackers from entering into Ngoma commune from those areas.<sup>3884</sup>

1576. Witness D-2-5-I testified that on Thursday, 21 April 1994, he arrived at the Rango market square at about 8.00 or 9.00 a.m.<sup>3888</sup> He later testified he arrived between 7.30 and 8.30 a.m.<sup>3889</sup> He came to Rango with one of his colleagues and a tax collector of the commune.<sup>3890</sup> Upon their arrival at the market, Witness D-2-5-I, his colleague and the tax collector noticed that the refugees who were in the market were getting ready to sell their cattle, but they were frightened.<sup>3891</sup> Between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m. he heard a grenade explosion from Mukura Bridge, which was on the tarmac road from Ngoma commune towards Gishamvu. There was lots of dust rising in the air, and he saw people running, so he went there to see what was happening.<sup>3892</sup> The distance between Rango market and Mukura Bridge could be covered in 10 to 20 minutes on foot.<sup>3893</sup> At Mukura Bridge, people, assisted by two policemen of Ngoma commune, were trying to counter an attack from Mubumbano and Gishamvu communes.<sup>3894</sup> There were also soldiers at the location who asked the policemen and the population to leave, as it was their duty to protect the area.<sup>3895</sup> He saw about eight to 10 soldiers at Mukura Bridge.<sup>3896</sup> Witness D-2-5-I spent five to 10 minutes at Mukura Bridge and then returned to the market place between 10.30 and 11.00 a.m.<sup>3897</sup>

1577. Upon arriving at the market he realised there was an air of insecurity and he saw displaced people from Tumba saying that they were trying to flee to Burundi where they might be safe.<sup>3898</sup> Witness D-2-5-I remained at Rango market until about 1.00 p.m. when he left with the brigadier of Ngoma commune to go visit the residences of the conseillers of Nkubi and Sahera secteurs.<sup>3899</sup> The brigadier relayed a message from Bourgmestre Kanyabashi to the two conseillers asking them to ensure the security of the population.<sup>3900</sup>

1578. On their way back to Rango, at the junction at the road that leads to Nyaruhengeri, Witness D-2-5-I and the brigadier found corpses by the road. People standing by the roadside told Witness D-2-5-I and his companions that a military vehicle had brought the corpses and thrown them there since the soldiers had told members of the population to kill Tutsis and loot their properties, and to know that the Tutsis were Inkotanyi accomplices.<sup>3901</sup> When the witness continued towards Rango he found people destroying the house that belonged to Déo, and heard gunshots fired in the direction of Tumba.<sup>3902</sup> Witness D-2-5-I estimated it was around 2.00 p.m.<sup>3903</sup> Witness D-2-5-I and the brigadier continued to Cyarwa secteur to meet the conseillers there.<sup>3904</sup> They returned to the commune office around 5.00 p.m.<sup>3905</sup> The witness went home at 7.00 p.m. on the night of 21 April 1994 and stayed there. During the night he heard gunshots.<sup>3906</sup> He testified that any witness who said that he was present at the commune office during the night of 21 April 1994 would be mistaken.<sup>3907</sup>

1579. Witness D-2-5-I did not see Kanyabashi at Rango market on 21 April 1994 during the period he was there.<sup>3908</sup> Witness D-2-5-I denied hearing any message by megaphone or loudspeaker from Kanyabashi while he was on duty at Rango market on 21 April 1994.<sup>3909</sup> He further denied hearing anyone talking about a message from Kanyabashi asking people to collect the weeds at Kabakobwa or inciting people to kill the enemy or the Tutsis.<sup>3910</sup> Witness D-2-5-I indicated that someone at either of the two markets in Rango could hear anything said from a megaphone on the passable road.<sup>3911</sup>

1580. Witness D-2-5-I knew that people died at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994 but was positive that Kanyabashi did not go to Kabakobwa that day since he would have gone with a policeman and the witness would have known about it.<sup>3912</sup> No Ngoma commune police officer was involved in the killings either.<sup>3913</sup> Witness D-2-5-I testified that he followed some Gacaca proceedings and no one there had implicated either Kanyabashi or Ngoma commune policemen in what happened in Kabakobwa.<sup>3914</sup>

1581. Witness D-2-5-I testified that when Kanyabashi visited various secteurs of his commune, he drove himself and was accompanied by a commune police officer, but he never travelled with gendarmes or soldiers.<sup>3915</sup> Witness D-2-5-I had personally accompanied Kanyabashi on several occasions, including on Saturday, 23 April 1994.<sup>3916</sup>

1582. Witness D-2-5-I did not go to Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April 1994.<sup>3917</sup> Witness D-2-5-I heard gunshots coming from Nyaruhengeri hill during the day.<sup>3918</sup> Witness D-2-5-I spent Friday, 22 April 1994 at home and returned to the commune office around 5.00 p.m.<sup>3919</sup> He did not see Kanyabashi at work that day since Kanyabashi had gone home at 4.30 p.m.<sup>3920</sup> When he arrived at work his colleagues informed him of a meeting Bourgmestre Kanyabashi had convened that day.<sup>3921</sup> Witness D-2-5-I was on duty during the night of Friday, 22 April 1994 and on Saturday, 23 April 1994.<sup>3922</sup>

1583. Kanyabashi came to the commune office on Saturday, 23 April 1994 around 9.00 a.m. and left at 11.00 a.m.<sup>3923</sup> Kanyabashi returned to the commune office from his residence around 5.00 p.m. and asked Witness D-2-5-I to accompany him in taking Brigadier Gahamanyi to Rango.<sup>3924</sup> When they arrived at the Mukoni roadblock, Presidential Guard troops who were manning the roadblock stopped and searched them.<sup>3925</sup> The troops said that they had weapons in the vehicle, insulted them, said Kanyabashi was an accomplice and ordered the three of them to leave on foot in the direction they had come from.<sup>3926</sup> The brigadier returned to Rango by foot while the witness and Kanyabashi continued by car.<sup>3927</sup>

1584. Witness D-2-5-I testified that they consequently returned and on getting to the roadblock at Hotel Faucon, he together with Brigadier Gahamanyi and Kanyabashi were again stopped and searched. When they reached the banque commerciale, gunshots were fired at their car from behind but Kanyabashi, who was driving, accelerated and they survived. Later that day, Kanyabashi returned to his house having “lost his mind”. Witness D-2-5-I spent that night at Kanyabashi’s house because of the insecurity.<sup>3928</sup>

1585. Witness D-2-5-I denied that Mathias Nsanzabahizi might have read Kanyabashi's letter of April 1994 asking the population to join the soldiers who had gathered at Kabakobwa. He did not think such a letter existed.<sup>3929</sup> While Witness D-2-5-I was detained at Karubanda prison, Mathias Nsanzabahizi was detained at Rwandex Prison and they met sometimes at the Gacaca hearings.<sup>3930</sup>

1586. Witness D-2-5-I testified that during one Gacaca hearing, Nsanzabahizi admitted his role in the Kabakobwa killings.<sup>3931</sup> Nsanzabahizi said that he went to Kabakobwa in the company of soldiers and participated together with them in the killings. Nsanzabahizi also testified before the Gacaca court that he was in Kabakobwa at the request of the soldiers, pled guilty in respect of his role and confessed.<sup>3932</sup> He said Nsanzabahizi told him that he went to Kabakobwa in a military uniform and armed with a firearm.<sup>3933</sup> Witness D-2-5-I testified that in all the Gacaca sessions he attended to date, no one ever mentioned any role played by Kanyabashi in any killings.<sup>3934</sup> Nsanzabahizi said that the bourgmestre did not know anything about him going to Kabakobwa with the soldiers.<sup>3935</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-10-Y

1587. Witness D-2-10-Y, a Tutsi gardener,<sup>3936</sup> testified that he and his family fled his father's residence on a Thursday, 20 or 21 April 1994, which was a market day at Rango, when he noticed that persons in his vicinity had been killed and houses were set ablaze near his own house.<sup>3937</sup> He left his home at around 1.00 or 2.00 p.m. and went to a school field in Rango, remaining there for about 30 minutes with other persons. Due to the prevailing insecurity, he and his family had decided to go into exile in Burundi.<sup>3938</sup>

1588. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that together with 30 to 50 persons, he then went to Nyaruhengeri commune office, but four commune policemen from Nyaruhengeri commune stopped them and sent them back.<sup>3939</sup> There was a roadblock at the office, which hindered the persons from passing by. Some of the people were beaten up.<sup>3940</sup> He and the other persons turned around at this point and spent the night in a bush located above Mukura belonging to an old man called Ndugu.<sup>3941</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y did not pass any other roadblocks while fleeing to Burundi.<sup>3942</sup>

1589. On the next day, Friday, [22 April 1994], Witness D-2-10-Y and the other refugees planned to reach Burundi on another route; from the bush at Mukura, they took a road to

Kabuga in Sahera, and another road to Kabakobwa.<sup>3943</sup> They were a group of about 30 people. They reached Kabuga at around 7.00 or 8.00 a.m. and stopped for a while not far from the building called “OCAR for girls”, before continuing to Kabakobwa.<sup>3944</sup> At around 9.00<sup>3945</sup> or 10.00 a.m., they arrived at Kabakobwa where there were already about 600 persons present; later, more people arrived.<sup>3946</sup>

1591. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that at a certain point in time, people dressed in ordinary clothes mingled with the refugees and said that the Hutus among the refugees should leave the area. He did not know who made that announcement but he heard them speak, and learned from other persons that they were dressed in civilian clothes.<sup>3952</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y heard it said that one Mathias came to fetch his sister.<sup>3953</sup>

1592. Witness D-2-10-Y did not see any soldiers at Kabakobwa between 9.00 a.m. and 3.00 p.m.<sup>3954</sup> Interahamwe and soldiers arrived around 3.00 or 3.30 p.m. on foot<sup>3955</sup> and a few moments after their arrival they threw grenades and opened fire on the men who defended the refugees.<sup>3956</sup> The killings started around 3.00 or 3.30 p.m.<sup>3957</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y could not remember if grenades were thrown at the beginning of the attack or after guns were fired.<sup>3958</sup> After the men surrounding the refugees had been killed, the members of the population hit the refugees with machetes. The surviving refugees started running.<sup>3959</sup>

1593. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that the soldiers were standing approximately 200 metres from the refugees,<sup>3960</sup> and that he saw around 10 soldiers firing, but he did not know the number of Interahamwe at Kabakobwa.<sup>3961</sup> The soldiers wore camouflage uniforms, some

Interahamwe wore army clothes and others were in civilian attire, while civilians wore dried banana leaves.<sup>3962</sup> Interahamwe carried grenades and firearms and therefore could be distinguished from civilians who did not carry such weaponry.<sup>3963</sup> Interahamwe included the youth of the MRND and the PSD, and all persons whose purpose was perpetrating killings irrespective of their political affiliation.<sup>3964</sup>

1595. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that his twin sister was killed during the attack and that he ran towards a valley and fled to a house in Tumba secteur.<sup>3969</sup> There, he learned that his family was still alive,<sup>3970</sup> and he got home after 8.00 p.m.<sup>3971</sup>

1596. Witness D-2-10-Y did not hear any instructions from Kanyabashi on either Thursday or Friday asking Tutsis not to go to their homes, nor did he learn about such an event later. He did not hear that Kanyabashi held a meeting at Kabakobwa on that Thursday, nor did he see Kanyabashi or hear that Kanyabashi was present at Kabakobwa on Friday.<sup>3972</sup> Witness D-2-10-Y did not hear instructions issued by any authorities, including Kanyabashi, the conseiller of his secteur, or cellule leaders, asking Tutsis to go to Kabakobwa, nor did he learn about such occurrences later.<sup>3973</sup> He did not hear of a message being disseminated through a megaphone by Kanyabashi asking people to gather the weeds in Kabakobwa on Thursday or inviting people to kill the Tutsis or the enemy.<sup>3974</sup> machines.<sup>3978</sup> While at Rango he heard explosions coming from two homes and saw people running. He completed disassembling his machine between noon and 1.00 p.m., and immediately left for his home,<sup>3979</sup> which was approximately 30 minutes walking distance from Rango market.<sup>3980</sup> Witness D-2-13-D did not attend any meeting,<sup>3981</sup> nor was he aware of any such meeting along the road to Kabakobwa on that Thursday.<sup>3982</sup> He did not hear anyone say that Kanyabashi came to Rango market or that Kanyabashi held a meeting there on that day.<sup>3983</sup>

1598. On that same day around 1.00 p.m. the witness, in the company of several refugees, saw soldiers in a Hilux vehicle throw several corpses onto the road.<sup>3984</sup> The bodies were dumped at the intersection of the road to Sahera and the road to Kibirizi in Agakera cellule, close by Rango.<sup>3985</sup> He did not see the soldiers speak to anyone.<sup>3986</sup> Witness D-2-13-D returned home around 2.00 or 3.00 p.m. and stayed home. He did not hear of any instructions from Kanyabashi telling the population to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>3987</sup>

1599. Witness D-2-13-D testified that at 10.00 a.m. on the Friday of the Kabakobwa killings, he and some others were at a friend's house when 10 soldiers arrived and descended from their vehicle.<sup>3988</sup> The soldiers had come to see their friend for assistance in launching an attack at Kabakobwa.<sup>3989</sup> The soldiers dressed the witness and his companions in banana leaves; about eight people put on banana leaves.<sup>3990</sup> Witness D-2-13-D was with six other members of the community whom he named. The soldiers wore black berets.<sup>3991</sup> The soldiers obliged the witness and the people he was with to go with them,<sup>3992</sup> and they left almost immediately<sup>3993</sup> towards Kabakobwa.<sup>3994</sup> The soldiers stood on Agasharu Hill,<sup>3995</sup> a hill adjacent to Kabakobwa or overlooking Kabakobwa, shot two bullets, then said they could not wage war against unarmed members of the population, and left.<sup>3996</sup> The point from where the soldiers shot the two bullets was about 60 metres from Witness D-2-14-D's house.<sup>3997</sup> The soldiers took them to the valley and they rubbed ash on their faces.<sup>3998</sup> From the time of the soldiers' arrival, their trip on foot to Agasharu Hill to fire two shots, return to the friend's house and departure for Rukimbira's, one and a half hours had elapsed.<sup>3999</sup>

1600. When put to Witness D-2-13-D that his statement did not refer to soldiers coming to his friend's house and taking them to fire upon refugees at Kabakobwa, the witness testified that maybe the investigator forgot to write it down.<sup>4000</sup>

1601. Witness D-2-13-D subsequently testified that it was approximately 3.00 p.m. when he and his group arrived at Kabakobwa.<sup>4001</sup> The soldiers present lined them up and told the Hutus who were at Kabakobwa to leave.<sup>4002</sup> The fighting then started immediately. The soldiers were firing at people, and the refugees were throwing stones back.<sup>4003</sup> A stone was even thrown at Mathias Nsanzabahizi, who dropped the gun he had been holding.<sup>4004</sup> The confrontation lasted from 3.00 to 6.00 p.m.<sup>4005</sup> Civilians present during the attack did not receive new instructions; they were only following instructions that they had been given earlier.<sup>4006</sup>

1602. Witness D-2-13-D testified that the group he was with went down into the valley and up again toward Kabakobwa where they assembled, which was not close to Nyaminani's or Nzabakurana's houses.<sup>4007</sup> The soldiers and civilians encircled Kabakobwa, but there was no one in the lower part of Kabakobwa in the direction of Nyaruhengeri. At the beginning of the attacks, he was on the Agasharu Hill, but he was on Kabakobwa Hill when the shooting started. He was a short distance away from Tutsis when the attack started, perhaps 50 metres away, because they were close enough that he could throw stones at them.<sup>4008</sup> Other inhabitants of Agasharu Hill remained on their side of the hill and watched the events but did not participate in the attack.<sup>4009</sup>

1603. Witness D-2-13-D testified that the soldiers only shot at those not wearing banana leaves. If they had not been wearing the banana leaves and ash on their faces he and his group would have been shot at.<sup>4010</sup> Thus, according to Witness D-2-13-D, all civilians who participated in the attacks wore banana leaves and had their faces covered in ash.<sup>4011</sup> There were about 200 civilians and 20 soldiers involved in the attack.<sup>4012</sup>

1604. Witness D-2-13-D estimated that there were about 600 to 700 Tutsis seeking refuge on Kabakobwa.<sup>4013</sup> He did not hear that the Interahamwe surrounded the hill to prevent refugees from escaping during the night; he testified that he only saw civilians carrying traditional weapons present on the adjacent hill when he arrived at Kabakobwa on Friday afternoon. The killings began when the soldiers opened fire. He had not heard of Kanyabashi giving any instructions to shoot.<sup>4014</sup>

1605. Witness D-2-13-D testified that he killed people at Kabakobwa because he was encouraged to do so by a man named Semwiza.<sup>4015</sup> Semwiza worked as a mason, was a member of the MDR party, and was the older brother of Mathias Nsanzabahizi.<sup>4016</sup> Prior to 1994, Semwiza had been a policeman.<sup>4017</sup> No one was behind Semwiza; he had declared himself to be in charge.<sup>4018</sup> On one occasion Conseiller Kanyabahizi told Semwiza that he must stop killing people or would have to answer for his conduct. Semwiza slapped Kanyabahizi for not performing his duties correctly.<sup>4019</sup> Semwiza and his group committed murders in other areas of the secteur outside Kabakobwa, despite Kanyabashi's call to the population not to kill anybody.<sup>4020</sup>

1606. Witness D-2-13-D testified that he did not see Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa, and that he would have seen Kanyabashi had he been there because the witness had criss-crossed the entire site. However, Witness D-2-13-D acknowledged that if Kanyabashi had been elsewhere in Kabakobwa, he might not have seen him.<sup>4021</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that he did not hear mention of the presence of any Ngoma commune policemen at Kabakobwa on that Friday. Even in prison and after his release, he did not hear of a police presence at Kabakobwa, nor did he see any.<sup>4022</sup>

1607. Although Witness D-2-13-D agreed that he could not have spoken with all 200 civilians at the hill, he testified that he had not heard anything about Kanyabashi giving instructions for Tutsis to gather at Kabakobwa Hill; if Kanyabashi had been addressing the refugees, the local inhabitants would have heard those instructions.<sup>4023</sup> Nsanzabahizi did not tell the witness that Kanyabashi had asked him to come to Kabakobwa.<sup>4024</sup> Witness D-2-13-D confirmed that he was at Kabakobwa when soldiers shot at people, and he and his group "finished off" those who were not dead, or who tried to escape. He confessed that he pelted people with stones and carried a stick, but denied he killed anyone. He saw the soldiers shooting, and people throwing stones, but did not see any refugees killed. He testified that there were civilians who killed people, but could not identify who they were.<sup>4025</sup> He did not pay attention to whether people were dead or just wounded, but he saw a lot of bodies.<sup>4026</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that soldiers at Kabakobwa looted the belongings of the victims, but once the soldiers left, everyone else left as well.<sup>4027</sup> Witness D-2-13-D knew the other civilians who participated in the massacre at Kabakobwa.<sup>4028</sup> Nsanzabahizi was next to him but he arrived later. He also saw Alexis Habyarimana, Bosco Yirihahandi, Jonas Havugimana and Innocent Nbanguwiha.<sup>4029</sup>

1608. Witness D-2-13-D testified that he had seen Nsanzabahizi before, but met him for the first time when Nsanzabahizi arrived at Kabakobwa at 3.00 p.m., after the attack had already started.<sup>4030</sup> He had heard that Nsanzabahizi had come to take his sister from Kabakobwa, but did not see this.<sup>4031</sup> When Witness D-2-13-D later spoke to Nsanzabahizi he confirmed that he had taken his sister.<sup>4032</sup> He did not know how Nsanzabahizi had arrived at Kabakobwa.<sup>4033</sup> He only knew that Nsanzabahizi was told that soldiers had arrived at Kabakobwa, and Nsanzabahizi went to Kabakobwa. He learned this information from Nsanzabahizi one week after the events at Kabakobwa when the two met at someone's house.<sup>4034</sup>

1609. Witness D-2-13-D knew Nsanzabahizi was a driver rather than a policeman and saw him driving. He knew him well as they were neighbours and they were imprisoned together for several years. Nsanzabahizi was the president of the Gacacas in prison.<sup>4035</sup> When put to the witness that his statement of 28 November 2004 stated he saw the policeman Mathias come to Kabakobwa with soldiers, Witness D-2-13-D stated that he may have been mistaken about Mathias being a policeman but he did not say that Mathias had come aboard the trucks to Kabakobwa.<sup>4036</sup>

1610. Witness D-2-13-D did not return to Kabakobwa on Saturday although he knew that others went there to finish off those who were not dead and to search their bodies. He did not hear of any meeting taking place that day concerned with burying bodies.<sup>4037</sup>

1611. Witness D-2-13-D testified that after the Kabakobwa massacre but prior to 3 May 1994, Kanyabashi arrested Semwiza and several other men who were responsible for leading groups of killers in attacks at Kabakobwa.<sup>4038</sup> Nsanzabahizi, however, was not arrested.<sup>4039</sup>

1612. Witness D-2-13-D referred to Semwiza as an "authority" because Semwiza was in charge in the absence of the conseiller [Kanyabahizi].<sup>4040</sup> Witness D-2-13-D knew Nkubi

secteur was under Kanyabahizi's responsibility. In Nkubi there was only one conseiller who represented the bourgmestre at the secteur level. During the events, the conseiller [Kanyabahizi] did not issue orders; it was Semwiza who was issuing orders. When Semwiza was arrested, the conseiller [Kanyabahizi] was able to move about the secteur.<sup>4041</sup>

1613. Witness D-2-13-D testified that at the Gacaca sessions in prison, he noted the presence of Nsanzabahizi, Martin Nyandwi and a certain Phillip. Nsanzabahizi presided over the Gacaca sessions and was the first to give his testimony.<sup>4042</sup> Nsanzabahizi mentioned his involvement in what happened in Kabakobwa and confessed to having opened fire on people there.<sup>4043</sup> Witness D-2-13-D had spoken to Nsanzabahizi about the events at Kabakobwa.<sup>4044</sup>

1614. Witness D-2-13-D testified that at the Gacaca sessions outside prison, the events at Kabakobwa were discussed at length because there had been fierce fighting there. They discussed anyone who had been there, but Witness D-2-13-D did not hear mention of Kanyabashi's name in connection with the events at Kabakobwa.<sup>4045</sup> Witness D-2-13-D stated that he had not attended and had not heard of Kanyabashi being accused before any Gacaca proceeding.<sup>4046</sup>

1615. Witness D-2-13-D pled guilty to participating in the attacks at Kabakobwa and to his presence at Rukimbira's killing.<sup>4047</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that during his time at the Butare Prison there was a small group of people who were trying to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>4048</sup> The group included Witnesses FAM, QAH and QCB together with a certain Ruvugabigwi from Ruhengeri commune, and a certain Mageza from Gikongoro.<sup>4049</sup>

1616. According to Witness D-2-13-D, Witness FAC together with Witnesses QCB and FAM found Witness D-2-13-D in his cell and told him that they wanted to recruit him into their community. They said that there was a group that was going to testify against Kanyabashi in Arusha. Witness D-2-13-D testified that he told them that he did not know anything about Kanyabashi and asked them to leave.<sup>4050</sup>

1617. Witness D-2-13-D testified that a person by the same full name as Witness D-2-14-D was a neighbour in 1994 and at the time of their testimony.<sup>4051</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that he could see Witness D-2-14-D on Sundays after church but they did not have specific chats.<sup>4052</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that he did not see Witness D-2-14-D at Kabakobwa on the day of the attack.<sup>4053</sup> Witness D-2-13-D also testified that he was in prison with a person by

1618. Witness D-2-14-D, a Hutu farmer, cleaner and gardener,<sup>4061</sup> was in his house on 21 April 1994, when he saw many people fleeing.<sup>4062</sup> He saw approximately 200 people at Kabakobwa,<sup>4063</sup> who told the witness that they were fleeing from Runyinya and Gishamvu communes, and that the killings had begun in Rango market. Witness D-2-14-D remembered the date because it was Thursday, a market day in Rango.<sup>4064</sup> He showed the fleeing people how to reach Burundi by directing them to follow the path he followed to visit his sister, which led through Kabakobwa and Nyaruhengeri.<sup>4065</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified that the people fleeing did not explain how or when exactly the killings occurred.<sup>4066</sup>

On 21 April 1994 he saw people at Kabakobwa, but did not “witness anything special” apart from people fleeing.<sup>4070</sup>

1620. Witness D-2-14-D testified that there were approximately 10 houses on Kabakobwa Hill, including the residence of a certain Nyamuhenda. He could see Kabakobwa Hill from his house, and could hear loud noises coming from the hill, but could not hear voices or call from his house to someone on the hill.<sup>4071</sup> Witness D-2-14-D indicated the location of his house relative to Kabakobwa Hill and Rango market on Defence Exhibit 557<sup>4072</sup> and marked the location of his house with the word “Urugo D-2-14-D”.<sup>4073</sup> In April 1994 he lived within view of, and a 10 minute walk from Kabakobwa.<sup>4074</sup> It was a 10 minute walk from the witness’ house to the nearest road, 40 minutes to walk from his house to Kibilizi, and 60 minutes to walk from his house to Rango market.<sup>4075</sup>

1621. Witness D-2-14-D testified that before noon on 22 April 1994, he saw a white, four-wheel-drive military vehicle arrive near Kabakobwa, with about five soldiers aboard.<sup>4076</sup> Witness D-2-14-D later testified, however, that he did not see soldiers arrive in a vehicle,<sup>4077</sup> and that the soldiers left on foot.<sup>4078</sup> The soldiers went to where the refugees were gathered and left five minutes later.<sup>4079</sup> The soldiers returned around 4.00 p.m. together with many members of the population, some of whom wore banana leaves, and this group of people surrounded Kabakobwa Hill.<sup>4080</sup> He was in his house at 4.00 p.m. when he heard gunshots, and went towards Kabakobwa.<sup>4081</sup> Witness D-2-14-D marked the location he went to after he heard gunshots in Kabakobwa in red with the letters “OA” on Defence Exhibit 558.<sup>4082</sup> He saw approximately 20 soldiers firing on the people at Kabakobwa, and his neighbours and others gathered and threw stones.<sup>4083</sup> Members of the population who were throwing stones were standing in front of the soldiers.<sup>4084</sup> The soldiers were shooting above the civilians in order to hit the refugees.<sup>4085</sup> There were approximately 700 refugees present.<sup>4086</sup> He estimated that 500 to 600 people were killed on Kabakobwa Hill.<sup>4087</sup>

1622. The witness marked the location of the soldiers in red with the letters “S1” and “S2”, and the direction they attacked with red arrows, on Defence Exhibit 558.<sup>4088</sup> The witness marked the location where he saw the first group of civilians as he left his home after having heard gunshots with a “C1”.<sup>4089</sup> The witness marked the location where he saw the second group of civilians who were accompanying the soldiers with a “C2”.<sup>4090</sup> S1 and C1 moved towards the refugees during the attack.<sup>4091</sup> The witness marked the spot where the refugees were then attacked with a circle and an “R”.<sup>4092</sup>

1623. Witness D-2-14-D estimated that he was 200 metres from his house and 100 metres from one group of soldiers when he saw them firing.<sup>4093</sup> He saw only two groups of soldiers and two groups of civilians.<sup>4094</sup> Witness D-2-14-D was closest to a group of about 150 civilians and another group contained approximately 300 civilians. He estimated there were 20 soldiers who wore military attire.<sup>4095</sup> He did not know from which camp the soldiers came although they were part of the Rwandan Armed Forces.<sup>4096</sup> He did not know any of the soldiers, whereas of the 500 civilian attackers he knew maybe 30 to 50 people.<sup>4097</sup> The witness knew the close group of civilians because he had worked with them.<sup>4098</sup>

1625. Witness D-2-14-D also testified that Nsanzabahizi was present at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994.<sup>4103</sup> The witness marked the spot where he saw Nsanzabahizi during the attack with a circle and an “N”, and marked the spot where he was standing when he saw Nsanzabahizi with a circle and a “W”.<sup>4104</sup> He was standing approximately five metres from Nsanzabahizi.<sup>4105</sup> The witness explained that Nsanzabahizi had been a soldier prior to becoming a commune policeman and then the driver for the commune.<sup>4106</sup> He was dressed as a soldier when he fired upon the refugees, and not as a commune policeman, although he was not a soldier at the time.<sup>4107</sup> Semwiza and Nsanzabahizi were half-brothers but they did not get on.<sup>4108</sup>

1626. Witness D-2-14-D described the attack as “remarkable” and testified that his conseiller and Kanyabashi would have heard of it, considering Kabakobwa was within Ngoma commune and under Kanyabashi’s jurisdiction.<sup>4109</sup> Witness D-2-14-D did not see Kanyabashi take any actions after the attack because neither the conseiller of his secteur, nor Bourgmestre Kanyabashi had any authority to punish criminals in the commune, because it was the soldiers who gave the orders.<sup>4110</sup> Civilians were taking orders from the soldiers.<sup>4111</sup>

1627. Members of the population who participated in the attack were wearing banana leaves, but the witness did not wear banana leaves.<sup>4112</sup> He did not see any Interahamwe present at the Kabakobwa massacre.<sup>4113</sup> When confronted with his statement of 28 November 2004, in which he stated, “I was with the soldiers and the other Interahamwe at Kabakobwa”, the witness explained that he referred to ordinary civilians as Interahamwe even though they were not really Interahamwe.<sup>4114</sup> The soldiers left Kabakobwa at approximately 5.00 p.m., and the civilians left later, after having picked up the refugees’ belongings, but before nightfall.<sup>4115</sup>

1628. Witness D-2-14-D did not see Ngoma commune police or hear any messages from the Ngoma commune police during the attack.<sup>4116</sup> Although Witness D-2-14-D did not know many Ngoma commune policemen, he knew there were no police present during the attack, because he did not see anyone in police uniform, which at the time was green.<sup>4117</sup> Similarly, he did not hear anyone mention the presence of the Ngoma commune police at Kabakobwa during the massacre during any of the Gacaca sessions he attended.<sup>4118</sup>

1629. Witness D-2-14-D observed Nsanzabahizi’s confession in Gacaca proceedings in Huye Stadium in Butare in January 2003.<sup>4119</sup> Nsanzabahizi confessed to firing on defenceless people “without receiving any instructions or orders from anybody”.<sup>4120</sup> Nsanzabahizi never mentioned Kanyabashi’s name.<sup>4121</sup> Nsanzabahizi said he was personally responsible for what he had done.<sup>4122</sup> During Nsanzabahizi’s confession he did not mention any letter written by Kanyabashi.<sup>4123</sup>

1630. Witness D-2-14-D testified that he did not hear during Gacaca that Kanyabashi told Tutsis not to go to their homes.<sup>4124</sup> Witness D-2-14-D did not see Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April 1994 nor did he ever hear anyone state during the Gacaca sessions that Kanyabashi was present at Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April 1994.<sup>4125</sup> He may have missed Kanyabashi if he had gone to Kabakobwa on foot.<sup>4126</sup> Witness D-2-14-D agreed that Gacaca sessions focused on the individual before them, and thus a Gacaca session not concerning Kanyabashi would likely not address him.<sup>4127</sup> He never heard anyone claim that Kanyabashi ordered people to go to Kabakobwa to search for and kill survivors.<sup>4128</sup> Nor did he hear anyone claim that Kanyabashi was responsible for the killings.<sup>4129</sup>

1631. The following day [23 April 1994], from the morning until noon people went back to Kabakobwa to plunder and loot the property of the victims, and to finish off those who had not died, under the supervision of Semwiza.<sup>4130</sup> While the witness was not involved in the looting during the morning, around 2.00 p.m. of the same day he was involved in the killing of one Rurangwa who had survived the Kabakobwa incident.<sup>4131</sup> Witness D-2-14-D subsequently said he did partake in the looting in the morning.<sup>4132</sup> Witness D-2-14-D became involved in the subsequent killings because of Semwiza, who was the person who directed the attacks and supervised the looting of people's bodies.<sup>4133</sup> Semwiza said the Tutsis were the enemy of the Hutus and that he knew Tutsis because he had fought them in 1959.<sup>4134</sup> The conseiller did not have a good relationship with Semwiza; rather Semwiza made himself into the conseiller and defied the former's authority.<sup>4135</sup> Semwiza once slapped the conseiller and told him that he was an accomplice of the Tutsis and that he hid them.<sup>4136</sup>

1632. Witness D-2-14-D did not know of Kanyabashi making any announcements for Tutsis to come out of their hiding places by megaphone.<sup>4137</sup>

1633. According to the witness, burials took place on Sunday, 24 April 1994.<sup>4138</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified that Semwiza and three others were arrested two days after the Kabakobwa burials and placed in detention.<sup>4139</sup> Several members of the population who lived in Nkubi secteur, including Nsanzabahizi, wrote a letter seeking their release. Semwiza was released when the RPF took Butare, but had since died.<sup>4140</sup> Witness D-2-14-D signed the petition calling for the release of the three remaining detainees on 29 May 1994 without knowing its purpose.<sup>4141</sup> Witness D-2-14-D did not know who carried out their arrests.<sup>4142</sup>

1634. Witness D-2-14-D knew Witness FAM and they were detained together in Karubanda.<sup>4143</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified Witness FAM lived about four kilometres from Kabakobwa.<sup>4144</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified Witness FAM was of bad character and was dismissed from his job for having stolen.<sup>4145</sup> In 1995 Witness FAM escaped from prison but was re-arrested. In prison Witness FAM stole from other detainees and was frequently held in isolation.<sup>4146</sup> After returning to Rwanda, Witness FAM told the other detainees that he had come to Arusha to testify against Kanyabashi.<sup>4147</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified that Witness FAM gave false testimony.<sup>4148</sup> When Witness FAM confessed to his crimes committed at Kabakobwa during the Gacaca sessions in prison, he did not mention Kanyabashi was in Kabakobwa.<sup>4149</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified that Witness FAM was inciting others in prison to falsely testify against Kanyabashi.<sup>4150</sup> No one approached Witness D-2-14-D to give false testimony before this Tribunal.<sup>4151</sup> Witness D-2-14-D was also detained in the “Arusha” block in Rwanda with Witness D-2-13-D and Witness QCB, who were both from his native cellule.<sup>4152</sup> Although Witness D-2-14-D lived together with Witness D-2-13-D in Arusha while waiting to testify before this Tribunal, he testified there would be both similarities and differences between their testimonies.<sup>4153</sup>

1635. Witness D-2-14-D further testified that he did not see Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa, or anywhere else, on 22, 23, or 24 April 1994.<sup>4154</sup> Witness D-2-14-D identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>4155</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-P

1637. Witness D-2-16-P, a Tutsi,<sup>4163</sup> testified that in the morning of Thursday, 21 April 1994, he along with other people, including three policemen from Ngoma commune, were at Mukura Bridge.<sup>4164</sup> On that morning, the conseiller for Mubumbano, Bumeyi, threw a grenade at people standing at the bridge, but no one was hurt.<sup>4165</sup> Bumeyi threw the grenade to scare away the population who was protecting the bridge and to allow the attackers to cross the bridge.<sup>4166</sup> After the grenade was thrown, soldiers arrived at the bridge where they found many members of the population, including the three policemen.<sup>4167</sup> There were 15 to 20 soldiers who arrived on board a vehicle.<sup>4168</sup> The soldiers asked the population what they were doing<sup>4169</sup> and one of the soldiers hit a policeman with the butt of his gun and told him, “[y]ou are supporting the Inkotanyi just like your bourgmestre, Kanyabashi”.<sup>4170</sup>

1638. After this incident, Witness D-2-16-P went home at around noon going through Kanyamanza Hill and Rango market, arriving home around 1.00 p.m.<sup>4171</sup> At Rango market, he saw a policeman, citizens and fleeing refugees.<sup>4172</sup> The distance between Mukura Bridge and Kanyamanza could be covered in 10 minutes on foot, and Rango market to Kanyamanza in 20 minutes on foot.<sup>4173</sup> It is a 40 minute walk to Kabakobwa from the witness’ house.<sup>4174</sup> He did not notice if Kanyabashi was present at Rango market on that day nor did he hear anyone say so.<sup>4175</sup>

1639. Witness D-2-16-P testified that on that Thursday [21 April 1994], security was shaky, as people were fleeing. Later that day, while at home, he heard gunshots following which he and his neighbours decided to pack their belongings and flee to Burundi. Since night was falling, they spent the night in Kabakobwa where they arrived between 5.00 and 6.00 p.m.<sup>4176</sup>

There were about 500 to 1,000 people at Kabakobwa.<sup>4177</sup> The people at Kabakobwa had come from Gishamvu, Runyinya and Huye communes, and Nyarugururu area; the witness and his family were from Ngoma commune.<sup>4178</sup> At 10.00 p.m. that night, some young men tried to cross the border to Burundi, but found a roadblock at a place called Ruhuha where they were attacked, seriously assaulted and killed, while the one boy who survived and returned to Kabakobwa was wounded in the head.<sup>4179</sup>

1640. No authority asked the people to go to Kabakobwa, and he never heard that authorities, be it Kanyabashi, secteur conseillers or cellule heads, gave directives on that Thursday that people should go to Kabakobwa.<sup>4180</sup> They stopped at Kabakobwa in order to prepare food for their children but their intention was to continue to Burundi the following day. They were not guarded that night.<sup>4181</sup> On Friday morning Witness D-2-16-P was unable to continue to Burundi because the young man who had been injured the night before told him that the roadblock was impassable.<sup>4182</sup> It was not until Friday at about 3.00 p.m. that they were surrounded by their attackers.<sup>4183</sup> Other civilians reached Kabakobwa in the morning and told the refugees who were there that Kabakobwa Hill was going to be attacked.<sup>4184</sup>

1642. After Mathias' arrival, gendarmes arrived on foot at Kabakobwa, called out for someone named "Africa" and asked him to assemble people so that a meeting could be held.<sup>4190</sup> He said that Africa told the gendarmes that the people would not obey his orders since they were sad and had lost family members, and the gendarmes left.<sup>4191</sup> The gendarmes wore camouflage uniforms, with red berets.<sup>4192</sup> Witness D-2-16-P did not see the gendarmes again after their departure.<sup>4193</sup>

1643. Later that Friday afternoon, between 2.00 and 3.00 p.m., soldiers came to Kabakobwa along with Interahamwe who wore banana leaves over their bodies and heads, and started shooting at people.<sup>4194</sup> He did not see how the soldiers arrived at Kabakobwa; he only saw them when they were standing at Agasharu cellule and were moving downwards towards them.<sup>4195</sup> The distance between the refugees at Kabakobwa and the attackers at Agasharu was about 500 metres, maybe more, while the distance to the attackers at Rwinuma was maybe 700 metres.<sup>4196</sup> The soldiers and Interahamwe surrounded them.<sup>4197</sup> The Interahamwe were walking behind the soldiers.<sup>4198</sup> The soldiers started firing while they were at Agasharu.<sup>4199</sup> He said the soldiers shot at people while the Interahamwe finished off those who had not been killed by bullets.<sup>4200</sup> Soldiers carried weapons and firearms, while the Interahamwe used traditional weapons like machetes.<sup>4201</sup> The gunfire lasted about 20 minutes and then a shell exploded. Witness D-2-16-P fled after the shell exploded.<sup>4202</sup> Witness D-2-16-P fled with his family and spent the night at Gikore in Nyaruhengeri commune.<sup>4203</sup> Since it was impossible to get to Burundi because the border crossings were blocked, the witness left Gikore the next morning [Saturday] at 10.00 a.m. and returned home, where he arrived around 4.00 or 5.00 p.m.<sup>4204</sup>

1644. Soldiers did not come to talk to the refugees earlier that day to tell them that Hutus and Tutsis needed to separate.<sup>4205</sup> During the period from April to July both Tutsis and some Hutus who were collaborating with Tutsis were killed.<sup>4206</sup>

1646. Witness D-2-16-P did not personally see Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa on that Friday.<sup>4211</sup> Witness D-2-16-P did not see any Ngoma commune police officers among the assailants, or hear anyone say so afterwards.<sup>4212</sup> In 1994 commune police officers wore green uniforms and yellow berets.<sup>4213</sup> He testified that he may not have recognised commune policemen if they were wearing something other than their usual attire.<sup>4214</sup> Witness D-2-16-P did not see or ever hear anyone say that Mathias was present at Kabakobwa on that Friday.<sup>4215</sup>

1647. After the events at Kabakobwa, the conseiller no longer had power. Semwiza had taken power. This was made clear from the fact that he had heard that at a meeting called by the conseiller to ask members of the public to co-exist peacefully, Semwiza slapped the conseiller and told the conseiller that what he was doing was not good.<sup>4216</sup> He did not personally see this, he only heard of it.<sup>4217</sup> Semwiza was one of the leaders of the attacks against the Tutsis in the witness' secteur.<sup>4218</sup> After the killings in Kabakobwa and before the beginning of July 1994, gendarmes arrested and detained Semwiza and other people who had been involved in the attack and killed the children of one Emmanuel who had sought refuge at the house of one Aloys.<sup>4219</sup> He did not personally see this, he only heard of it.<sup>4220</sup> He did not know who ordered those arrests.<sup>4221</sup> He did not know of Defence Exhibit 33, the document seeking the release of those arrested, although his name featured among those who signed it.<sup>4222</sup> Witness D-2-16-P testified that there are several people with his same first name in his secteur and one other person with his same first and family names, and it was that person who signed the petition.<sup>4223</sup>

1648. Witness D-2-16-P testified that from his home he could hear messages by megaphone from a vehicle on the road linking Nkubi and Sahera secteurs. Prior to April 1994, he could hear such messages delivered by megaphone, but he never heard such messages from April to early July 1994.<sup>4224</sup>

1649. Witness D-2-16-P attended all Gacaca proceedings in his home secteur including sessions where Kabakobwa events were mentioned; he never heard Kanyabashi or commune policemen mentioned in relation to the Kabakobwa events.<sup>4225</sup> Semwiza was mentioned at the Gacaca proceedings but never appeared there because he had died prior to the proceedings. Witness D-2-16-P also never heard, at Gacaca or elsewhere, of a letter read out by Kanyabashi calling on the public to join soldiers in order to kill people who had assembled at

Kabakobwa.<sup>4226</sup> Witness D-2-16-P also never heard Nsanzabahizi implicated in the Kabakobwa events at Gacaca proceedings.<sup>4227</sup> The witness later testified that Nsanzabahizi was often mentioned in relation to the Kabakobwa events at Gacaca proceedings.<sup>4228</sup>

1650. Witness D-2-16-P testified that Ibuka assists survivors of the genocide and provides them with advice to remain united. The association helps with rebuilding houses that were destroyed. At the préfecture level in Butare, the Ibuka leader was called Kabarega and he had assistants among members of the population.<sup>4229</sup> Witness D-2-16-P did not know if one Rutayisire definitely left Ibuka. He also denied knowing that one of Ibuka's duties was to help train witnesses to give evidence in various trials.<sup>4230</sup> Witness D-2-16-P testified that Ibuka prohibits its members from testifying for the Defence because the association considers that it is those former authorities who caused the genocide in Rwanda.<sup>4231</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-L

1651. Witness D-2-16-L, a Hutu and former army officer,<sup>4232</sup> testified that he knew a place called Kabakobwa located in Nkubi in Ngoma commune.<sup>4233</sup> He never heard that Kanyabashi asked refugees to go to Kanyamanza or that refugees went to Kabakobwa on Kanyabashi's request.<sup>4234</sup>

1652. Witness D-2-16-L started seeing killers from 21 April 1994.<sup>4235</sup> The shooting of the refugees at Kabakobwa started on 22 April 1994, and the people killed there were largely Tutsis though there were also some Hutus. Witness D-2-16-L first learned of the mass killings in Kabakobwa when he heard intense gunshots from Kabakobwa; however, he was afraid and did not go there. People ran from Rango and Gishamvu and those who passed through Kabakobwa were not lucky enough to survive.<sup>4236</sup>

and the forces carrying out the attacks were members of the MRND, including Interahamwe who were the youth wing of the MRND and MDR parties and that once he saw soldiers.<sup>4239</sup>

1654. Witness D-2-16-L was not present during Semwiza's arrest but learned of it after.<sup>4240</sup> While Witness D-2-16-L knew that Semwiza and his men committed crimes, he did not know if Semwiza was arrested for mass killings of Tutsis or for the death of one Mpakaniye (Sindikubwabo's brother-in-law), on the intervention of President Sindikubwabo.<sup>4241</sup> Witness D-2-16-L was unaware of anyone else who may have been arrested for the massacre of Tutsis in Nkubi secteur during the period April to July 1994.<sup>4242</sup>

1655. Witness D-2-16-L knew Mathias Nsanzabahizi was a driver for the commune police officers.<sup>4243</sup> He saw Nsanzabahizi drive commune policemen in the period prior to the genocide but not after 6 April 1994 when the genocide started.<sup>4244</sup> He knew Nsanzabahizi as a soldier and had known him for many years as they both served in the Rwandan army.<sup>4245</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

1656. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>4246</sup> testified that from 19 to 21 April 1994 he was at Mukura Bridge helping to prevent people from entering Ngoma.<sup>4247</sup> On the third day of being at Mukura Bridge, Thursday 21 April 1994, Witness D-2-YYYY went home while others guarded the bridge.<sup>4248</sup> There were skirmishes in the morning because Conseiller Bumeya of Mubumbano, in Gishamvu commune<sup>4249</sup> arrived with approximately 50 Interahamwe armed with traditional weapons<sup>4250</sup> trying to go to Tumba to get at the people taking refuge there. Witness D-2-YYYY received word of the skirmish and it took him 30 to 40 minutes to get to the bridge.<sup>4251</sup> As he headed back to the bridge, he heard an explosion in the direction of Rango market and people told him that Bumeya had shot a grenade at them.<sup>4252</sup> It was 8.00 or 9.00 a.m. when Witness D-2-YYYY returned to the bridge.<sup>4253</sup>

1657. Witness D-2-YYYY remained at the bridge and two and a half or three hours after the incident with Bumeya, a vehicle arrived at Mukura Bridge carrying about six soldiers.<sup>4254</sup> The soldiers asked what they were doing there and asked their ethnic identities. Witness D-2-YYYY answered that they were ensuring security on behalf of their commune and that they were both Hutus and Tutsis, after which the soldier threatened them and called them accomplices of their boss and struck a commune police officer in the chest.<sup>4255</sup> The soldier asked where Bumeya was and they then continued on their way.<sup>4256</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY returned home via Rango market around noon or 12.30 p.m. because he was afraid after what the soldier had said.<sup>4257</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY lived between two and a half to three kilometres from Kabakobwa and it would take between 45 minutes to an hour to cover the distance by foot.<sup>4258</sup>

1658. At about 1.30 p.m. Witness D-2-YYYY saw approximately 50 people pass his house coming from Rango and heading towards Nkubi secteur. They said that a Tutsi named Athanase Karanganwa had just been killed.<sup>4259</sup> He remembered it was a Thursday [21 April 1994] because it was market day and at 8.00 a.m. his wife went to Rango market to sell a goat.<sup>4260</sup> When they met at home, the witness' wife did not talk of Kanyabashi's presence at the market on that day.<sup>4261</sup> At about 3.00 or 3.30 p.m., the commune vehicle came to pick the witness up to go to work.<sup>4262</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY did not hear from anyone that Kanyabashi was present at Rango on Thursday.<sup>4263</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY spent Thursday night at the commune office.<sup>4264</sup> When put to Witness D-2-YYYY that his statement of 19 November 2004 stated that he did not work on Thursday, 21 April 1994, in contradiction to his testimony, Witness D-2-YYYY explained it was a misunderstanding, as he had told the investigator that he had a rest day that day, not that he had rested that day.<sup>4265</sup>

1659. Witness D-2-YYYY testified that at 8.30 a.m. on Friday, 22 April 1994, a meeting was held in the conference room on the ground floor of the commune office that was chaired by Kanyabashi.<sup>4266</sup> Kanyabashi asked the brigadier about the situation in various secteurs and stated that he did not want the commune police to get involved in the Tutsi massacres. Kanyabashi said that anyone who behaved properly would be rewarded and Kanyabashi urged them to hide people seeking refuge in their homes. They told Kanyabashi about the situation with the soldiers and Kanyabashi said he would talk to his superiors and to the soldiers.<sup>4267</sup>

Witness D-2-YYYY testified that Kanyabashi told them not to get involved in the massacres because the police did not have the requisite capabilities to stop the killings.<sup>4268</sup>

1660. After the meeting, Kanyabashi remained at the commune office for the day although he went home between 1.30 and 3.30 p.m.<sup>4269</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY saw Kanyabashi leave in the direction of his home, but could not be sure whether Kanyabashi went anywhere other than his home.<sup>4270</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY estimated that it could take 20 or 30 minutes to reach Kabakobwa from the commune office, although he could not be sure because he had never covered that distance by car.<sup>4271</sup> Kanyabashi went home for the day at about 5.00 p.m.<sup>4272</sup> Although Witness D-2-YYYY spent Friday 22 April at the commune office he was aware that killings probably occurred at Kabakobwa because he could hear gunshots, and the events were subsequently discussed at Gacaca sessions.<sup>4273</sup> The killing of Tutsis was also discussed at that morning's meeting; the bourgmestre raised the issue and in turn the policemen reported what they had seen in relation to the killing of Tutsis, for example, the death of one Karanganwa at Mukura Bridge on 21 April.<sup>4274</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY testified that throughout that period he could hear gunshots in town, and there was "shooting all over the place", both during the day and at night.<sup>4275</sup>

YYYY never heard Kanyabashi mentioned in relation to the murder of Tutsis at Kabakobwa, that Kanyabashi asked Tutsis to gather at Kabakobwa, that Kanyabashi ordered that Tutsis should not be able to return home, or anything about a message broadcast by megaphone at the behest of Kanyabashi.<sup>4285</sup> At the Gacaca sessions it was said that refugees from Rango and Tumba gathered at Kabakobwa only in order to continue their journey to Burundi.<sup>4286</sup> At the Gacaca sessions he attended, Witness D-2-YYYY also never heard any mention of Mathias Nsanzabahizi reading a letter from Kanyabashi asking people to participate in the Kabakobwa massacre, or that policemen from Ngoma commune were implicated in the massacre.<sup>4287</sup>

1663. Witness D-2-YYYY did not personally carry out an investigation of the Kabakobwa killings because during that period the police had no power.<sup>4288</sup> Ordinary citizens, incited by soldiers, were the ones responsible for attacking refugees at Kabakobwa, although it was the soldiers who first opened fire. He did not know from which camps the soldiers came, he only saw people wearing military uniforms.<sup>4289</sup>

1664. Witness D-2-YYYY confirmed that Nsanzabahizi was said to have participated in the Kabakobwa killings and was charged with this at the Gacaca proceedings in Nkubi.<sup>4290</sup> Nsanzabahizi had just finished military service when he was recruited as a commune police officer.<sup>4291</sup> Nsanzabahizi had been a commune policeman from 1987 or 1988 for two or three years after which he became a driver. Nsanzabahizi was a driver for Ngoma commune between January and July 1994.<sup>4292</sup> From April to July 1994, Nsanzabahizi spent most of his time transporting commune police officers.<sup>4293</sup> While Nsanzabahizi was a driver, he wore civilian clothes and Witness D-2-YYYY never saw him with a gun.<sup>4294</sup> Commune policemen wore green trousers and shirts, and yellow berets with an insignia.<sup>4295</sup> Nsanzabahizi did not wear this uniform between April and July 1994.<sup>4296</sup>

1666. Nsabimana never knew of the occurrence of massacres in Kabakobwa in 1994. The massacre of people at Kabakobwa Hill was never raised at any Security Council meeting.<sup>4301</sup>

Nteziryayo

1667. Nteziryayo did not personally know the place Kabakobwa, had never been there, and had not heard about a massacre committed there in 1994.<sup>4302</sup> Nteziryayo testified that he was not approached by Kanyabashi to go to Kabakobwa nor did he ever go to Kabakobwa together with Colonel Muvunyi, Nsanzabahizi and soldiers on a Friday in April 1994 or any other time between April and July 1994.<sup>4303</sup> He was not present together with Kanyabashi and Colonel Muvunyi when persons who had sought refuge in Kabakobwa were being killed.<sup>4304</sup> He did not, together with Kanyabashi, order anybody to carry weapons to Kabakobwa. He did not know whether Kanyabashi went to Kabakobwa or authorised anyone to carry weapons in Kabakobwa.<sup>4305</sup>

Prosecution Witness Ghandi Shukry

1668. Ghandi Shukry, a Prosecution investigator since 1996,<sup>4306</sup> testified that Prosecution Exhibits 34A-G and 35 concerned Kabakobwa.<sup>4307</sup> Exhibit 34A was the view of the road going to Kabakobwa Valley from the top. Exhibit 34B showed a view of an alleged mass grave located in Kabakobwa; the mass grave was the flat, green grass surrounded by trees. Exhibits 34C, 34D and 34E were views of the alleged mass grave from different angles, and Exhibit 34F represented a view of the road from the valley towards where the mass grave was located on the left side of the photo. Exhibit 34G was a view of the alleged mass grave from a cluster of the trees surrounding it.<sup>4308</sup> Exhibit 35 was the related video footage of the photos regarding Kabakobwa.<sup>4309</sup>

3.6.8.4 Deliberations

1669. The following facts are not in dispute: on 22 April 1994, at least 500 and up to 10,000 mostly Tutsi refugees gathered at Kabakobwa Hill and were surrounded by 200 to 250 people from the surrounding secteurs dressed in banana leaves and armed with traditional weapons;<sup>4310</sup> at around 2.00 or 3.00 p.m. about 20 soldiers fired their weapons into the refugees and civilians thereafter attacked the refugees with clubs, bludgeons and spears,<sup>4311</sup> and the attack resulted in the death of at least hundreds, and possibly thousands, of the refugees.<sup>4312</sup>

1670. What is in dispute is: (1) the reason why the refugees fled to Kabakobwa; (2) the identity of the attackers on Friday 22 April and Saturday 23 April 1994; and (3) who directed the attacks at Kabakobwa. Further, the Chamber must assess whether Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo were involved or present during these events, and the extent of their individual involvement.

3.6.8.4.1 Evidence Regarding False Testimony

1671. The Kanyabashi Defence relied on the testimony of Witness D-2-21-T in support of the allegation that Witnesses QAM and QP were Ibuka members, who participated in three meetings during which they were coached to provide false testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>4313</sup> According to Witness D-2-21-T, during the December 1995 Ibuka meeting, Witness QAM was handed a sheet of paper containing false accusations against Kanyabashi, that she read out to the audience.<sup>4314</sup> She allegedly read that Kanyabashi had incited killings at Kabakobwa, and that he incited the public via megaphone, saying, “assemble the Tutsi who are at Kabakobwa,

The Chamber notes that Witness QCB estimated there were 250 soldiers, but he did not count soldiers and Interahamwe separately and may have included both in his count: T. 20 March 2002 p. 117 (Witness QCB). The 250 soldiers included members of the “Rwandan Army”, who were wearing black berets and others from the gendarmes wearing red berets: T. 20 March 2002 p. 121 (Witness QCB).

<sup>4312</sup> T. 7 March 2002 pp. 86, 104 (Witness FAM) (estimating there were more than 2,500 victims at Kabakobwa); T. 20 March 2002 p. 126 (Witness QCB); T. 2 April 2002 p. 58 (Witness QCB) (about 2,000 people were killed in Kabakobwa); T. 21 August 2007 p. 37 (Witness D-2-14-D); T. 28 August 2007 p. 45 (ICS) (Witness D-2-14-D) (estimating that 500 to 600 people were killed on Kabakobwa Hill); T. 21 January 2008 pp. 53-54 (Witness D-2-5-I) (witness knew that people died at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994).

since before burning the weeds, you have to first gather them”.<sup>4315</sup> Witness D-2-21-T testified that Witness QP similarly read that Kanyabashi incited killings at Kabakobwa, and that Kanyabashi used a megaphone and asked that Tutsis be assembled at Kabakobwa, stating that whoever wished to burn weeds must first gather them.<sup>4316</sup>

1672. The Chamber has taken into account Witness D-2-21-T’s testimony concerning details about the identity of Prosecution Witnesses QAM<sup>4317</sup> and QP.<sup>4318</sup> Nevertheless, given the Chamber’s finding that Witness D-2-21-T’s allegations regarding fabrication of testimony were neither credible nor reliable (), the Chamber finds that Witness D-2-21-T’s testimony does not undermine the credibility of Witnesses QAM and QP on events at Kabakobwa.

1673. The Kanyabashi Defence also relied on the testimony of Witness D-2-13-D in submitting that Prosecution Witnesses FAM and QCB, who testified on events at Kabakobwa, belonged to a pressure group in prison whose mission was to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>4319</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that Witnesses FAM and QCB were among a group of three people who approached him in jail and asked him to join their group in testifying against Kanyabashi.<sup>4320</sup> Witness D-2-13-D did not testify that the group members asked him to lie. In fact, when he asked them to leave him because he knew nothing about Kanyabashi’s alleged involvement, they apparently did so.<sup>4321</sup> Further, Witness D-2-13-D did not state why he thought the group was preparing to testify falsely against Kanyabashi. Therefore, the Chamber does not find that Witness D-2-13-D’s testimony undermines the testimony of Witnesses FAM and QCB. In sum, the Chamber finds that the testimony of Witnesses D-2-21-T and D-2-13-D does not undermine the credibility of Witnesses QP, QAM, FAM and QCB on events at Kabakobwa.

3.6.8.4.2 Kanyabashi’s Alleged Role in Ordering the Tutsi Refugees to Go to Kabakobwa

1674. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that on 21 and 22 April 1994, fleeing Tutsis took refuge in a pasture in Kabakobwa cellule on the orders of Kanyabashi, who had promised to protect them. Kanyabashi ordered his subordinates, notably conseillers, commune policemen, and certain members of the Hutu population to go to Kabakobwa cellule to eliminate the refugees.<sup>4322</sup>

1675. The Prosecution presented evidence that: Kanyabashi addressed the population at Rango market on 21 April 1994 and directed them to move the Tutsi refugees to Kabakobwa; a responsable de cellule told the population that he had been directed by Kanyabashi to move the refugees to Kabakobwa; and on 21 April 1994, in Rwinuma cellule, Kanyabashi spoke into

3.6.8.4.2.1 Kanyabashi's Alleged Presence at Rango Market on 21 April 1994

1676. The Prosecution alleges that Kanyabashi gave a speech at Rango market during which he stated that Tutsis should be taken to Kabakobwa, and relies upon Witnesses FAM and QCB in this respect. Witnesses QCB and FAM both testified that they saw Kanyabashi and Muvunyi at Rango market on 21 April 1994, sometime between 9.00 and 11.00 a.m., telling a crowd that Tutsis should not be allowed to leave Ngoma and should be taken to Kabakobwa.<sup>4323</sup> Witness FAM stated that the meeting lasted about one hour and that over 100 people were present.<sup>4324</sup> Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-13-D, D-2-16-P, D-2-YYYY and WMKL also testified that they were in the immediate vicinity of Rango market on the morning of 21 April 1994.<sup>4325</sup> In contrast to the evidence of Witnesses FAM and QCB however, they did not see Kanyabashi at the market giving a speech.<sup>4326</sup>

1677. The Chamber notes that three Defence witnesses who claimed that Kanyabashi was not present at Rango market on the morning of Thursday 21 April 1994, namely Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-YYYY and D-2-16-P, were at Mukura Bridge on the same morning.

1678. Witness D-2-5-I testified that he did not notice Kanyabashi at Rango market during the period he was there.<sup>4327</sup> However, Witness D-2-5-I also testified that he left Rango market for Mukura Bridge sometime around 9.00 or 10.00 a.m. when he heard a grenade explosion<sup>4328</sup> and only returned to Rango market between 10.30 and 11.00 a.m.<sup>4329</sup> Witness D-2-YYYY was also at Mukura Bridge on the same morning between 8.00 or 9.00 a.m.,<sup>4330</sup> until he headed home via Rango market around noon or 12.30 p.m.,<sup>4331</sup> as was Witness D-2-16-P during the morning in question,<sup>4332</sup> who only passed through Rango market again around noon.<sup>4333</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber considers the testimony of Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-YYYY and D-2-16-P that they did not see Kanyabashi at Rango market does not contradict the testimony of Witnesses FAM and QCB who testified as to Kanyabashi's presence at the market between 9.00 and 11.00 a.m.

1680. Similarly, while Witness D-2-13-D was in the immediate vicinity of Rango market<sup>4336</sup> between 9.00 a.m. and 1.00 p.m. on Thursday, 21 April 1994, he was busy on the premises of his nearby workplace<sup>4337</sup> and did not testify to having gone to Rango market. Further, the fact that Witness D-2-13-D did not hear anyone say that Kanyabashi came to Rango market on Thursday 21 April 1994 or that Kanyabashi held a meeting there on that day<sup>4338</sup> does not contradict evidence that Kanyabashi was present at Rango market on that day. The Chamber further recalls that Witness D-2-13-D was a detainee at the time of his testimony, for which reason his testimony should be treated with appropriate caution.

1681. Therefore, it is clear that Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-YYYY, D-2-16-P and D-2-13-D were not present at Rango market on the morning of Thursday, 21 April 1994 between approximately 9.00 and 11.00 a.m., the period when Witnesses FAM and QCB testified Kanyabashi was present.

1682. Witness WMKL testified that he was at Rango market on Thursday, 21 April 1994, but that he did not see Kanyabashi at the market on that day.<sup>4339</sup> Even if the Chamber were to accept that Witness WMKL may have been present at Rango market on the morning in question, there is insufficient detail about Witness WMKL's movements and length of his visit at the market on that morning to be able to ascertain whether he would have crossed paths with Kanyabashi. For this reason, the Chamber similarly does not consider his testimony conclusive.

1683. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers that the foregoing testimony of the Defence witnesses, each of whom denied that Kanyabashi was present at Rango market on the morning of Thursday, 21 April 1994, does not contradict the testimony of the Prosecution witnesses as to the presence of Kanyabashi at Rango market sometime between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m.

3.6.8.4.2.2 Kanyabashi's Alleged Speech at Rango Market on 21 April 1994

1684. Regarding the speakers at the meeting, Witness QCB stated that Muvunyi, who was with five soldiers in a Land Rover, spoke to an Interahamwe leader named Cyiza at the market and told him to chase the refugees gathered at Kanyamanza (in Tumba secteur) away, whereupon Kanyabashi stated that the Tutsi refugees should be “allowed to go through” to Kabakobwa.<sup>4340</sup> Witness QCB testified that he and the others understood Kanyabashi's words to mean that the security of the refugees would be guaranteed.<sup>4341</sup>

1685. Witness FAM testified that only Kanyabashi spoke during the gathering at Rango market.<sup>4342</sup> Notwithstanding this minor difference, the Chamber notes both witnesses testified to the presence of Muvunyi at that time.<sup>4343</sup> While Witness FAM testified that he did not notice when Muvunyi arrived because he was focused entirely on Kanyabashi's speech, he was aware of Muvunyi's presence at the market.<sup>4344</sup> Further, Witness FAM testified that Kanyabashi said that roadblocks were to be erected in the various cellules and secteurs as a protection against the enemy, and that the Tutsis should be guided towards Kabakobwa as this was the only place where they could take refuge.<sup>4345</sup> The Chamber considers this corroborates the testimony of Witness QCB with respect to the content of Kanyabashi's speech. Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber considers the testimony of Witnesses FAM and QCB to be mutually consistent.

1686. The Chamber recalls that Witnesses FAM and QCB were detained at the time of their testimony. Witness FAM personally killed a lot of people at Kabakobwa and Rango, had not yet been sentenced and did not know whether his confession had been accepted or rejected at the time of his testimony.<sup>4346</sup> Similarly, Witness QCB had not yet entered a guilty plea or been sentenced at the time of his testimony.<sup>4347</sup> Further, the Chamber has considered that these witnesses may be motivated by a desire to implicate Kanyabashi in order to receive a more favourable sentence in their own cases. For the foregoing reasons, the testimony of these witnesses has been considered with appropriate caution.

1687. The Chamber also notes that Witnesses FAM and QCB were detained together in Arusha for five to six months prior to their testimony in this case and that they were detained together in the Karubanda prison in Rwanda prior to that time.<sup>4348</sup> Witness FAM even stated that he and Witness QCB attended Gacaca sessions in Karubanda prison that discussed events in their secteur, although they were each concerned with their own case.<sup>4349</sup> Therefore, the Chamber acknowledges they may have had an opportunity to share information about the events at Kabakobwa.

1688. Nonetheless, both witnesses were forthcoming about knowing one another and about their confessions before Rwandan authorities. Both testified that they were motivated to testify by their remorse and not in order to seek better treatment in detention.<sup>4350</sup> In fact, Witness FAM stated that he feared for his own safety in testifying against Kanyabashi and Nteziryayo because he had been detained with members of their families.<sup>4351</sup> Having regard to the foregoing, the Chamber considers the testimony of Witnesses QCB and FAM as to the events at Kabakobwa should not be discounted solely by reason of their detainee status or their prior personal knowledge of each other.

1689. The Chamber also notes that Defence witnesses corroborated the evidence of these witnesses. For example, Witness QCB also testified that the same day after the meeting at Rango market, he again encountered Muvunyi in a truck containing 10 dead bodies, and some soldiers. Muvunyi told the soldiers to throw the bodies onto the ground and made it clear that the Tutsi refugees must be killed.<sup>4352</sup> Witness QCB's testimony in this respect is corroborated by Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I and D-2-13-D who both testified to seeing corpses by the road which had been thrown there by soldiers passing by in a military vehicle.<sup>4353</sup> In the Chamber's view, the overall credibility of Witness QCB is strengthened by this corroboration.

1690. Having regard to the Chamber's view that the testimony of Witnesses FAM and QCB is reliable and mutually consistent, and the further corroboration of certain aspects of their evidence by Defence witnesses, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi gave a speech at Rango market on the morning of Thursday, 21 April 1994, during which he stated that Tutsis should be "allowed to go through" to Kabakobwa. The Chamber also accepts that these words led Witness QCB to believe that the safety of these refugees would be protected.

3.6.8.4.2.3 Directives Attributed to Kanyabashi

1691. In addition to the direct evidence given by Witnesses FAM and QCB as to Kanyabashi's instructions at Rango market, three Tutsi Prosecution witnesses testified that they were told or ordered to go to Kabakobwa by various authorities, who in turn received instructions from Kanyabashi. Witness QP testified she saw Kanyabashi and a responsable de cellule order Tutsi civilians to proceed to Kabakobwa "to join the others".<sup>4354</sup> Witness QW testified that the person in charge of her cellule<sup>4355</sup> told the Tutsis within that cellule that in furtherance of Bourgmestre Kanyabashi's orders, they were to seek refuge at Kabakobwa where they would find food and supplies.<sup>4356</sup> Witness QW testified that fleeing refugees told her that they too had been told by Kanyabashi to go to Kabakobwa to receive assistance and protection.<sup>4357</sup> Witness QAM testified that her family was ordered to go to Kabakobwa by

Interahamwe who came to her house,<sup>4358</sup> saying that the order came from the conseiller. She stated that it appeared that the conseiller, who was under the authority of the bourgmestre, received the order from Kanyabashi.<sup>4359</sup>

1692. As to the reason for this directive, Witness QW testified that the responsable de cellule told the Tutsis that they would be protected in Kabakobwa, but that they may be killed if they refused to go.<sup>4360</sup> When it was put to Witness QP that in her statement of 24 June 1997 she stated that the responsable de cellule told the refugees to go to Kabakobwa for their safety, Witness QP testified that they were just told to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>4361</sup> The Chamber also recalls the testimony of Witness FAM as to Kanyabashi's speech at Rango Marker earlier that day that Tutsis should be guided towards Kabakobwa as this was the only place where they could take refuge.<sup>4362</sup>

1693. Witness QCB, a Hutu who participated in the Kabakobwa attacks, testified that although Kanyabashi's words at Rango market had given him the impression the refugees would be protected at Kabakobwa, at 6.00 p.m. that night a responsable de cellule from Ngoma commune assembled the population along the road to Kabakobwa and told them that Kanyabashi had ordered all Tutsis be surrounded and prohibited from returning to their homes.<sup>4363</sup> Witness QCB was the sole Prosecution witness to testify about receiving these instructions.

1694. The Prosecution evidence shows that several local authorities told the various members of the population that they must go to Kabakobwa and that these instructions were attributed to Kanyabashi. This testimony was offered by both Tutsi Kabakobwa victims (Witnesses QP, QW and QAM), as well as Witness QCB, a Hutu who participated in the attacks. The Tutsi Prosecution witnesses consistently testified they were told to go to Kabakobwa for their protection, while Witness QCB was told to go to Kabakobwa to guard the Tutsis gathered there.

1696. Further, Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu who participated in the attacks,<sup>4365</sup> also testified that he had not heard anything about Kanyabashi giving instructions for Tutsis to gather at Kabakobwa Hill and that if Kanyabashi had addressed the refugees, the local inhabitants would have heard those instructions.<sup>4366</sup> While the Chamber accepts that the local population may remember being directly addressed by Kanyabashi, the Chamber recalls that on the morning that these instructions were allegedly issued, Witness D-2-13-D was busy on the premises of his nearby workplace<sup>4367</sup> and did not testify to having gone to Rango market where he would have heard any such instructions.

1697. Lastly, while several Defence witnesses, namely Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-13-D and D-2-14-D, also testified that they never heard Kanyabashi implicated in the Kabakobwa events during Gacaca proceedings,<sup>4368</sup> the Chamber recalls the testimony of Witness D-2-14-D, who acknowledged that Gacaca sessions focused on the individual they were judging, and thus sessions which did not concern Kanyabashi would likely not address him.<sup>4369</sup> The Chamber therefore does not consider that the Defence evidence undermines the credibility of the Prosecution witnesses with respect to whether Kanyabashi ordered that Tutsis be directed towards Kabakobwa.

1698. Although the evidence led by Prosecution Witnesses QP, QW and QAM as to Kanyabashi's responsibility for instructing Tutsis to go to Kabakobwa is hearsay, it nevertheless corroborates the direct evidence of Witnesses FAM and QCB, who were present at Rango market, that it was Kanyabashi who initially directed Tutsis towards Kabakobwa.

1699. In the circumstances, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that various local authorities, including a conseiller and a responsable de cellule, as well as members of the Interahamwe directed Tutsis to Kabakobwa, and that other individuals were directed to go to Kabakobwa to guard the Tutsis. Although the Chamber previously found that Kanyabashi gave a speech at Rango market during which he stated that Tutsis should be "allowed to go through" to Kabakobwa, the Chamber nevertheless does not find it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi ordered that his subordinates direct Tutsis towards Kabakobwa under the guise of protection.

3.6.8.4.2.4 Allegation that Kanyabashi Recited a Kinyarwanda Proverb in Rwinuma Cellule

1700. Witness QP testified that on Thursday [21 April] at about noon, in Rwinuma cellule, she saw Kanyabashi inside a car reciting a Kinyarwanda proverb encouraging the population to expel Tutsis to a single location to be exterminated.<sup>4370</sup> Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I, D-2-10-Y and D-2-14-D all testified that they did not hear that Kanyabashi had circulated and announced inciting messages to the public.<sup>4371</sup> However, none of them were in Rwinuma cellule which, according to a map presented by Expert Witness Guichaoua,<sup>4372</sup> is some distance from Rango market and Mukura Bridge, where the Defence witnesses variously claimed to be on 21 April 1994.

1701. The Chamber notes this event is not corroborated by other witnesses. Even accepting that Kanyabashi would have had approximately one hour to reach Rwinuma from Rango market and may have been present in Rwinuma cellule, Witness QP could not recall the type or colour of the vehicle that Kanyabashi travelled in that day or what it had looked like.<sup>4373</sup> Further, Witness QP only saw the vehicle in question in passing and therefore did not have a good opportunity to view the occupants. Lastly, Witness QP could not recognise Kanyabashi in court even though she testified to having seen him on a number of occasions previous to the alleged event on 21 April 1994.<sup>4374</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds the testimony of Witness QP is not sufficiently reliable to support a finding beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi recited proverbs from a vehicle in Rwinuma cellule on the afternoon of Thursday, 21 April 1994.

3.6.8.4.2.5 Defence Theory that Refugees Were Travelling to Burundi

1702. The Defence presented evidence that the Tutsi refugees were at Kabakobwa because they were fleeing to Burundi and Kabakobwa was a geographically suitable location for them to rest en route. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that he and his family decided to flee to Burundi because houses were on fire near his home and people had been killed,<sup>4375</sup> and stopped at Kabakobwa while en route.<sup>4376</sup> Witness D-2-14-D also testified that on 21 April 1994 he saw many people who told him that they were fleeing from Runyinya and Gishamvu communes, and that he showed them how to reach Burundi by directing them to follow the path through Kabakobwa and Nyaruhengeri.<sup>4377</sup> Witness D-2-16-P also testified that he and his neighbours decided to pack their belongings and flee to Burundi on Thursday [21 April 1994] and that they eventually spent the night in Kabakobwa since night was falling.<sup>4378</sup> Expert Witness Des Forges corroborated this theory.<sup>4379</sup> Witness QW also corroborated this theory; she testified that many refugees at Kabakobwa were from neighbouring secteurs and communes and were fleeing other massacres.<sup>4380</sup>

1703. However, Witness QW denied that this was why she and her family fled,<sup>4381</sup> claiming instead they were instructed to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>4382</sup> Witness QAM also testified that she fled her home for Kabakobwa because the Interahamwe forced her.<sup>4383</sup> Witness QCB corroborated the fact that Interahamwe were involved in moving the Tutsi refugees to Kabakobwa.<sup>4384</sup>

Moreover, the Chamber notes that Witness D-2-14-D testified that there were no refugees on Kabakobwa Hill before 21 April 1994,<sup>4385</sup> but 500 to 600 refugees were killed there the next day.<sup>4386</sup>

1704. While the Chamber considers it may be plausible that many refugees stopped at Kabakobwa by chance while en route to Burundi, it does not consider this the sole explanation for the presence of hundreds of refugees at Kabakobwa. Having accepted that various local authorities instructed the population to go to Kabakobwa, the Chamber finds that Interahamwe and other members of the population ordered certain refugees to go to Kabakobwa.

3.6.8.4.3 The Morning of 22 April 1994

3.6.8.4.3.1 Intention to Kill Tutsis

1705. Although it was not disputed that the vast majority of the refugees at Kabakobwa were Tutsis, the Chamber notes several witnesses testified about deliberate separation of Hutus and Tutsis. First, Witness QAM, a Tutsi student,<sup>4387</sup> testified that on a Friday, the Interahamwe came to her house wielding spears and bludgeons. They went from house to house where they knew there were Tutsis, and told the Tutsis to go to Kabakobwa.<sup>4388</sup> Witness QAM further testified that there were only Tutsis at Kabakobwa since any Hutus present left.<sup>4389</sup> Kanyabashi's daughter had come to Kabakobwa with her husband, a Tutsi, but she was later taken home without her husband.<sup>4390</sup>

1706. Witness QAM's testimony that Hutu refugees left Kabakobwa was corroborated by Defence Witnesses D-2-10-Y and D-2-13-D. Witness D-2-10-Y testified that at a certain point in time, people dressed in ordinary clothes mingled with the refugees and said that the Hutus among the refugees should leave the area. He did not know who made that announcement but he heard them speak, and learned from other persons that they were dressed in civilian clothes.<sup>4391</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that when he and his group arrived at Kabakobwa the soldiers present lined them up and told the Hutus who were at Kabakobwa to leave.<sup>4392</sup>

1707. The witnesses variously identified soldiers, policemen and someone dressed in civilian clothes as the person responsible for telling Hutus to leave Kabakobwa. The Chamber does not consider this variance to be a discrepancy as to this account. Recalling there were hundreds, if not thousands of refugees gathered at Kabakobwa Hill, the Chamber considers that multiple people delivered this message among all those gathered at Kabakobwa Hill.

1708. Witness FAM, one of the Hutus who participated in the attack, testified that when his group arrived at Kabakobwa around 3.00 p.m.,<sup>4393</sup> soldiers and policemen surrounded those people, and asked Witness FAM and his group to attack the Tutsis using their traditional weapons.<sup>4394</sup>

1709. Further, there was testimony establishing the assailants' intent to kill Tutsis. Witness QW testified that one Mathias, a commune employee, arrived at Kabakobwa to collect his sister, one Marguerite who was among the refugees with her children.<sup>4395</sup> When the refugees asked Mathias when the people supposed to protect the refugees would come, he told them, "[y]ou should believe in God because your fate has already been decided. Everything that was told to you previously was lies", and "[y]our hour has come."<sup>4396</sup> Witness QW was about three metres from Mathias' car.<sup>4397</sup> Witness QW's account was corroborated by Witness QP who heard one of the refugees ask Mathias why he was taking these people away, and who would take care of those seeking refuge, to which Mathias responded, "[p]ray, because the hour of your death has come."<sup>4398</sup>

1710. Although Witness QW agreed that she knew a girl by the same name as Witness QP and that they were in Arusha at the same time to give evidence,<sup>4399</sup> Witness QP testified that she did not discuss the events at Kabakobwa with Witness QW.<sup>4400</sup> Both witnesses claimed they did not see each other during the events at Kabakobwa.<sup>4401</sup> Further, although no other witnesses testified about these words, the Chamber notes that Witnesses QP's and QW's account of Mathias' visit was corroborated by the hearsay evidence of Defence Witnesses D-2-13-D and D-2-10-Y who both testified they had heard that Nsanzabahizi had come to take his sister from Kabakobwa.<sup>4402</sup> When Witness D-2-13-D later spoke to Nsanzabahizi he confirmed that he had taken his sister.<sup>4403</sup> Having regard to the corroboration of Witnesses QP's and QW's account as to Nsanzabahizi's visit, the Chamber also accepts that Nsanzabahizi told the refugees, "[y]ou should believe in God because your fate has already been decided. Everything that was told to you previously was lies", and "[y]our hour has come."<sup>4404</sup>

1711. Having regard to the totality of the evidence, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that: Hutus present at Kabakobwa were told to leave; Nsanzabahizi told the refugees, "[y]ou should believe in God because your fate has already been decided. Everything that was told to you previously was lies", and "[y]our hour has come"; and that armed civilians were instructed to attack the Tutsi refugees.

3.6.8.4.3.2 Preparation for the Attack

1712. On Witness D-2-13-D's own account, on the morning of 22 April 1994, soldiers came to a friend's house to ask their friend for assistance in launching an attack at Kabakobwa. The soldiers found Witness D-2-13-D and his companions at the friend's house, dressed the witness and his companions in banana leaves,<sup>4405</sup> and obliged the witness and the people he was with to go with them towards Kabakobwa.<sup>4406</sup>

1713. Witness QAM testified that at around 11.00 a.m. on the same day she arrived at Kabakobwa, she saw the same group of Interahamwe who previously came to her home, but they left saying that "they were going to announce to the bourgmestre that people at Kabakobwa were sufficient in number".<sup>4407</sup> The person identified in Defence Exhibit 3 made this statement.<sup>4408</sup> The Interahamwe said they would return to confront those in Kabakobwa, and later returned to Kabakobwa armed and accompanied by commune policemen carrying guns and grenades.<sup>4409</sup>

1714. Witness QCB, a Hutu who participated in the attacks, similarly testified that he saw soldiers come to Kabakobwa and approach the refugees to ask how many people were on the hill. The Tutsis told the soldiers that the Hutus had surrounded them and indicated their number to be 5,000. The leader of the soldiers then came to Witness QCB and other Hutus standing guard, introduced themselves as coming from the ESO camp, and told the witness and others that they could not attack "them" with Kalashnikovs and that they were going to ask Muvunyi for more sophisticated weapons so that they could deal with the Tutsis.<sup>4410</sup>

1715. Witness QCB's account of soldiers was corroborated by Witness D-2-14-D, who testified that before noon on 22 April 1994, from his hill opposite Kabakobwa, he saw a white, four-wheel-drive military vehicle arrive near Kabakobwa, with about five soldiers aboard.<sup>4411</sup> Witness D-2-14-D later testified, however, that he did not see soldiers arrive in a vehicle,<sup>4412</sup> and that the soldiers left on foot.<sup>4413</sup> The soldiers went to where the refugees were gathered and left five minutes later.<sup>4414</sup> The soldiers returned around 4.00 p.m. together with many members of the population, some of whom wore banana leaves, and this group of people surrounded Kabakobwa Hill.<sup>4415</sup>

1716. Having regard to the totality of the evidence, the Chamber finds it established beyond a reasonable doubt that some time before noon on Friday, 22 April 1994 both Interahamwe and soldiers came to Kabakobwa, evaluated the number of refugees present, and left to inform their superiors, variously identified as Kanyabashi and Muvunyi, and to get reinforcements in preparation for the attack later that afternoon.

3.6.8.4.4 The Attack on 22 April 1994

3.6.8.4.4.1 Kanyabashi's Presence and Alleged Role

1717. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that Kanyabashi ordered his subordinates, notably conseillers, commune policemen, and certain members of the Hutu population to go to Kabakobwa cellule to eliminate the refugees.<sup>4416</sup> The Parties dispute whether Kanyabashi was present at or ordered the attack at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994.

1718. As to whether Kanyabashi ordered the Kabakobwa attack, Witness QCB testified that on the afternoon of Friday, 22 April 1994 Mathias Nsanzabahizi read out a letter from Kanyabashi which urged the population to join the soldiers in the killings.<sup>4417</sup> On recall in 2009, Witness QCB testified that it was Major Rusigariye with gendarmes who led the civilian attackers to Kabakobwa.<sup>4418</sup> However, the Chamber notes that Witness QCB originally testified that he did not know Major Rusigariye.<sup>4419</sup> Therefore, the Chamber does not find Witness QCB's initial testimony as to the alleged letter from Kanyabashi that Nsanzabahizi read out to be credible. Moreover, Witness QCB's account of this event is uncorroborated.

1719. As to Kanyabashi's presence during the Kabakobwa attack, Witness FAM testified that Kanyabashi was at Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April 1994 and watched the attacks while standing next to a car.<sup>4420</sup> This testimony is not corroborated by any other Prosecution witness, although the Chamber notes Witnesses QAM, QCB and QP also previously knew Kanyabashi<sup>4421</sup> and Witnesses QAM and QCB identified him in court.<sup>4422</sup>

1720. As such, the Chamber does not consider the evidence led by the Prosecution established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi either ordered or was present during the attack at Kabakobwa on 22 April 1994.

3.6.8.4.4.2 Involvement of Ngoma Commune Police in the Kabakobwa Attack

1721. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that on 22 April 1994, at around 4.00 p.m., the commune policemen and conseillers, assisted by Hutu peasant farmers and militiamen, attacked the refugees and that Kanyabashi subsequently called in reinforcements from the Presidential Guard who took part in the attacks.<sup>4423</sup>

1722. It is not contested that Mathias Nsanzabahizi was a driver for Ngoma commune, and former commune policeman,<sup>4424</sup> and that he participated in attacks at Kabakobwa by firing a gun on helpless people.<sup>4425</sup> The Parties dispute, however, whether other commune policemen participated in the attacks.

1723. Witness FAM, who participated in the attacks, testified that soldiers and policemen surrounded the people at Kabakobwa and attacked them.<sup>4426</sup> According to Witness FAM, commune policemen, soldiers and civilians all participated in the killings at Kabakobwa,<sup>4427</sup> while the soldiers and policemen were shooting at the crowd at Kabakobwa, those dressed in banana leaves prevented anyone from escaping.<sup>4428</sup>

Witness QW testified he was employed by the commune as a driver: T. 6 June 2002 pp. 137-138 (Witness QW). Witness D-2-16-P knew he was a soldier, before being a driver: T. 12 March 2008 p. 57; T. 13 March 2008 pp. 53-54; T. 18 March 2008 p. 21 (Witness D-2-16-P), but did not know whether Mathias had been a policeman: T. 13 March 2008 p. 54; T. 17 March 2008 p. 71 (ICS); T. 18 March 2008 p. 21 (Witness D-2-16-P).

1724. Witness QCB, a Hutu civilian who guarded Tutsis during the night of Thursday, 21 April,<sup>4429</sup> and also participated in the attacks at Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April, testified that soldiers opened fire on the refugees first, followed by the Hutu population and policemen.<sup>4430</sup> When it was put to Witness QCB that none of his several statements that were disclosed to the Defence,<sup>4431</sup> including his statement to Rwandan authorities dated 26 August 1999,<sup>4432</sup> implicated commune policemen other than Nsanzabahizi in the Kabakobwa attacks, Witness QCB said he started with Nsanzabahizi because he was the leader of the policemen.<sup>4433</sup> He also named several other commune policemen from Nkubi and Sahera secteurs who he claimed were with him and killed people “like thunder” in the attack.<sup>4434</sup>

1725. Having reviewed Witness QCB’s letter to the Rwandan Prosecutor of 26 August 1999, which names one policeman as a leader of the attacks at Kabakobwa at the time,<sup>4435</sup> the Chamber considers there is no omission of the type alleged by the Defence. The Chamber notes that the one alleged policeman identified by Witness QCB in his letter to the Rwandan Prosecutor is also one of the persons Witness D-2-YYYY listed in Defence Exhibit 613 as being a police officer as of 31 December 1993.<sup>4436</sup> The three policemen that Witness QCB also identified at trial as participating in the Kabakobwa attack are also included in Defence Exhibit 613 as being police officers as of 31 December 1993.<sup>4437</sup> Witness QCB otherwise also testified that there were 250 soldiers at Kabakobwa which included both members of the “Rwandan Army”, and gendarmes wearing red berets.<sup>4438</sup>

1726. Witness QP, a Tutsi victim at Kabakobwa, also testified that policemen armed with guns were among the attackers<sup>4439</sup> and she could recognise the policemen by their uniforms.<sup>4440</sup> She also corroborated the testimony of Witnesses FAM and QCB as to the other attackers present insofar as she testified that soldiers attacked the refugees by throwing into the crowd things that “looked like small containers [that] exploded” killing some refugees,<sup>4441</sup> as did civilians wearing banana leaves who carried spears, swords, machetes, cudgels and hoes.<sup>4442</sup>

1727. Witness QW, also a Tutsi victim at Kabakobwa, testified that one Mathias came towards the end of the afternoon on Friday accompanied by people in uniform, soldiers or policemen wearing green clothes with banana leaves and carrying guns, and members of the population wearing civilian clothes with banana leaves and carrying traditional weapons.<sup>4443</sup> The Chamber notes that although Witness QW could not distinguish between the men in uniform, she distinguished between people in green clothes and others in civilian clothes. Recalling various witness testimony that policemen wore green uniforms,<sup>4444</sup> whereas soldiers wore camouflage uniforms,<sup>4445</sup> the Chamber accepts that Witness QW was testifying that policemen were among the attackers at Kabakobwa.

1728. Witness QAM, another Tutsi victim of Kabakobwa, did not see soldiers, gendarmes or members of the Presidential Guard at Kabakobwa;<sup>4446</sup> there were only civilians and commune policemen.<sup>4447</sup> Witness QAM testified that Interahamwe returned to Kabakobwa in the afternoon [of Friday 21 April] armed with machetes, spears and cudgels and accompanied by commune policemen carrying guns and grenades.<sup>4448</sup> In the early afternoon, the policemen surrounded the people gathered at Kabakobwa from all sides<sup>4449</sup> and opened fire on them while the Interahamwe cut to pieces those who had been wounded with the bullets.<sup>4450</sup> The policemen wore green uniforms.<sup>4451</sup> Although her statement of 22 May 1997 stated that Kanyabashi sent soldiers from the Presidential Guard to exterminate Tutsis, Witness QAM said she intended to use the word “policemen” and not “soldier” in her statement.<sup>4452</sup> Considering no Prosecution witness testified about knowing Witness QAM,<sup>4453</sup> the Chamber accepts that Witness QAM made a mistake at the time of giving her statement.

1729. In contrast, Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I and D-2-YYYY both testified that at police meetings Kanyabashi instructed commune policemen not to participate in killings or lootings during the period in question.<sup>4454</sup> The Chamber recalls that both Witnesses D-2-5-I and D-2-YYYY worked closely with Kanyabashi during the events.<sup>4455</sup> The Chamber considers that as a consequence of these relationships, Witnesses D-2-5-I and D-2-YYYY may have had an interest in defending Kanyabashi for which reason their testimony should be treated with appropriate caution. While Witness D-2-5-I testified that no Ngoma commune police officer was involved in the killings,<sup>4456</sup> the Chamber notes that Witness D-2-5-I did not go to Kabakobwa on Friday 22 April 1994.<sup>4457</sup> In the circumstances, the Chamber considers Witness D-2-5-I was in no position to testify as to whether commune police participated in the attacks at Kabakobwa. Further, insofar as both Defence Witnesses D-2-5-I and D-2-YYYY also testified that they had not heard anyone at Gacaca proceedings implicate Ngoma commune policemen in what happened in Kabakobwa,<sup>4458</sup> the Chamber does not accept this as conclusive evidence that commune policemen were not among the numerous attackers.

1730. Witnesses D-2-13-D, D-2-14-D, D-2-10-Y, D-2-16-P and D-2-16-L also testified that police were not involved in the Kabakobwa attacks.

1731. Witness D-2-13-D only testified about the participation of soldiers and civilians during the Kabakobwa attacks.<sup>4459</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that he did not hear of the presence of any Ngoma commune policemen at Kabakobwa on that Friday. Even in prison and after his release, he did not hear of a police presence at Kabakobwa, nor did he see any.<sup>4460</sup> Witness D-2-14-D similarly did not see Ngoma commune police or hear any messages from the Ngoma commune police during the attack.<sup>4461</sup>

1732. Witness D-2-14-D testified that in April 1994 he lived within view of, and a 10 minute walk from Kabakobwa and indicated the location of his house relative to Kabakobwa Hill and Rango market on Defence Exhibit 557.<sup>4462</sup> Witness D-2-14-D testified that Witness D-2-13-D came from the same home cellule.<sup>4463</sup> This was confirmed by Witness D-2-13-D who testified that a person with the same full name as Witness D-2-14-D was a neighbour in 1994 and was still at the time of their testimony.<sup>4464</sup> Witness D-2-13-D testified that he could see Witness D-

1733. In addition to being neighbours, the Chamber notes both Witnesses D-2-13-D and D-2-14-D testified that they were imprisoned together in Karubanda prison in Rwanda,<sup>4467</sup> that they were together when they met and signed their statements to the Kanyabashi Defence investigator,<sup>4468</sup> that they came to Arusha to testify before this Tribunal together, and were detained together while awaiting to give their testimony before this Tribunal yet did not discuss their testimony.<sup>4469</sup> Witness D-2-13-D even testified that Witness D-2-14-D helped Witness D-2-13-D draft his confession which was sent to the Gacaca courts and was given to Nkeshimana, the Kanyabashi Defence investigator.<sup>4470</sup> The fact that both witnesses admitted to interacting with the Kanyabashi Defence investigator undermines their credibility. Further, in light of the close ties between these witnesses and the numerous opportunities which the Chamber considers they had to discuss their experiences, notwithstanding their detailed mutual corroboration, the Chamber considers the testimony of these witnesses is not reliable.<sup>4471</sup>

1734. Further, the Chamber recalls Witness D-2-14-D testified he was in his house at 4.00 p.m. when he heard gunshots, and went towards Kabakobwa.<sup>4472</sup> Witness D-2-14-D marked the location he went to after he heard gunshots in Kabakobwa in red with the letters "OA" on Defence Exhibit 558.<sup>4473</sup> Thereafter, the Chamber notes Witness D-2-14-D crossed the valley separating Agasharu and Kabakobwa Hills, because the witness marked the spot where he testified he saw Nsanzabahizi during the attack with a circle and an "N", and marked the spot where he was standing when he saw Nsanzabahizi with a circle and a "W".<sup>4474</sup> He was standing approximately five metres from Nsanzabahizi.<sup>4475</sup> The witness marked with a circle and an "R" the spot where the refugees were when attacked.<sup>4476</sup>

1735. Having reviewed Defence Exhibit 558, and even acknowledging that Witness D-2-14-D was a Hutu,<sup>4477</sup> the Chamber does not consider it plausible that Witness D-2-14-D left the safety of his house to go into the centre of an attack on Tutsis considering he was not participating in the attack, and all the more so considering Witness D-2-14-D's own testimony that he was not wearing banana leaves.<sup>4478</sup> The Chamber recalls that Witness D-2-13-D, a self-confessed participant in the Kabakobwa attacks, testified that the soldiers only shot at those not wearing banana leaves and if they had not been wearing the banana leaves and ash on their faces he and his group would have been shot at.<sup>4479</sup>

1736. In the circumstances, while accepting that Witness D-2-14-D observed the events in question from his hill, the Chamber does not accept as reliable Witness D-2-14-D's testimony that he did not see Ngoma commune police or hear any messages from the Ngoma commune police during the attack.<sup>4480</sup>

1737. While Witness D-2-10-Y, also a Tutsi Kabakobwa victim, first testified that he did not see any commune policemen,<sup>4481</sup> or hear afterwards that they had participated in the Kabakobwa attack,<sup>4482</sup> he also testified that he saw persons wearing fatigues arriving at Kabakobwa and did not know if they were gendarmes or soldiers.<sup>4483</sup> In the circumstances the Chamber does not consider Witness D-2-10-Y's testimony that policemen did not participate in the Kabakobwa attacks as conclusive.

1738. Witness D-2-16-P was equally a Tutsi victim at Kabakobwa. As a refugee who was fired upon, Witness D-2-16-P testified that the soldiers and Interahamwe surrounded them.<sup>4484</sup> By his own testimony, the distance between the refugees at Kabakobwa and the attackers at Agasharu was about 500 metres, maybe more, while the distance to the attackers at Rwinuma was maybe 700 metres.<sup>4485</sup> Although Witness D-2-16-P testified that he did not see any Ngoma commune police officers among the assailants,<sup>4486</sup> having regard to Defence Exhibit 646<sup>4487</sup> and noting Witness D-2-16-P's own testimony as to the distance between the attackers and the refugees, as well as the stressful conditions in which Witness D-2-16-P purportedly identified his attackers, the Chamber considers Witness D-2-16-P's identification of his attackers is not reliable.

1739. As for Witness D-2-16-L, the Chamber notes that he was afraid when he heard intense gunshots from Kabakobwa and testified he did not go there.<sup>4488</sup> As such, his testimony that there were no commune police at Kabakobwa is of limited value. Further, the Chamber does not consider his hearsay evidence that people at Kabakobwa said that it was soldiers who killed people at Kabakobwa<sup>4489</sup> to be inconsistent with the Prosecution evidence that policemen, alongside soldiers, killed people at Kabakobwa.

1740. Having regard to the corroborative and detailed evidence of Prosecution Witnesses FAM, QCB, QP, QW and QAM, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Ngoma commune police were present at and participated in the killings that occurred at Kabakobwa on Friday, 22 April 1994. The Chamber recalls that Nsanzabahizi, a commune driver and former commune policeman, was present and participated in killings at Kabakobwa. In light of this evidence, the Chamber also considers it established that at least one former Ngoma commune policeman participated in the attacks at Kabakobwa.

3.6.8.4.4.3 Involvement of Interahamwe

1741. It is uncontested that civilians from surrounding secteurs were involved in attacking the refugees at Kabakobwa and that they wore banana leaves and had ash on their faces.<sup>4490</sup> There is however disagreement as to whether these attackers were part of the Interahamwe.<sup>4491</sup> The Chamber does not find it necessary to determine whether the civilian attackers at Kabakobwa were part of the official Interahamwe, namely the MRND's youth wing, although it is of the view that the term Interahamwe was used to refer to all civilians participating in the attack.<sup>4492</sup> In any event, regardless of whether the attackers were official Interahamwe, it is established that they were acting in concert with the attackers to kill Tutsi refugees.

3.6.8.4.4.4 Nteziryayo's Alleged Role

1742. Witness FAM was the sole Prosecution witness to implicate Nteziryayo in the Kabakobwa events. Witness FAM was a detainee at the time of his testimony before this Tribunal in 2002,<sup>4493</sup> and was still waiting to appear before a Rwandan judge to be sentenced for his participation in events at Kabakobwa and Rango.<sup>4494</sup> As such, the Chamber has Witness QCB marked the presence of the Hutu civilians from various secteurs that surrounded Kabakobwa with hash marks on Prosecution Exhibit 53 (Sketch by Witness QCB): T. 20 March 2002 pp. 138, 140 (Witness QCB); T. 26 March 2002 pp. 105-106, 114 (Witness QCB).

<sup>4491</sup> Witness FAM testified that the attackers were civilians as did Witnesses QP and QW: T. 6 March 2002 p. 87 (Witness FAM); T. 6 June 2002 pp. 13, 17 (Witness QP); T. 6 June 2002 pp. 139, 141-142 (Witness QW). In contrast, Witnesses QAM and D-2-10-Y testified that there were Interahamwe among the attackers at Kabakobwa: T. 1 May 2008 p. 71 (Witness D-2-10-Y); T. 22 October 2001 pp. 62, 65 (Witness QAM); (...and they wore ordinary clothes and a banana leaf around their waist): T. 24 October 2001 p. 64 (Witness QAM). Witness D-2-16-P testified that soldiers came to Kabakobwa along with Interahamwe who wore banana leaves over their bodies and heads: T. 12 March 2008 p. 63; T. 18 March 2008 pp. 20, 22, 24, 30 (Witness D-2-16-P).

<sup>4492</sup> See, e.g., Witness QAM who testified that she used the word "Interahamwe" because those who came to her house described themselves as Interahamwe: T. 24 October 2001 pp. 11, 13-14 (Witness QAM), although she did not know what political party those Hutus belonged to: T. 24 October 2001 pp. 16-17 (Witness QAM). Witness D-2-14-D also clarified that although he referred to the attackers in his prior statement as Interahamwe, they were not really Interahamwe and he was referring to ordinary civilians: T. 27 August 2007 pp. 76, 78-79 (Witness D-2-14-D). Witness D-2-10-Y testified that Interahamwe included the youth of MRND and the PSD, as well as all persons whose purpose was perpetrating killings irrespective of their political affiliation: T. 1 May 2008 p. 21 (ICS) (Witness D-2-10-Y). Witness D-2-16-L testified that those carrying out the attacks were members of the MRND, including Interahamwe who were the youth wing of the MRND and MDR parties and that once he saw soldiers: T. 3 March 2008 pp. 6-7 (ICS) (Witness D-2-16-L).

considered that he may be motivated by a desire to implicate either or both Accused in order to receive a more favourable sentence for which reason his testimony should be considered with appropriate caution.

1743. Witness FAM testified that Kanyabashi, Nteziryayo and their policemen gave them authorisation to be armed. As a result of this authorisation, Witness FAM's group of civilians left the market for Kabakobwa armed with traditional weapons, especially machetes, spears and clubs.<sup>4495</sup> Witness FAM testified that Nteziryayo arrived at Kabakobwa in a military vehicle at about the same time the witness arrived,<sup>4496</sup> around 3.00 p.m.,<sup>4497</sup> and in the company of soldiers.<sup>4498</sup> Witness FAM testified that when his group arrived at Kabakobwa, soldiers and policemen surrounded all those people and asked Witness FAM and his group to attack the Tutsis using their traditional weapons.<sup>4499</sup>

1744. The Chamber recalls that Witness FAM did not mention Kanyabashi or Nteziryayo in his confession to Rwandan authorities of 3 August 1998 because he was detained with members of Kanyabashi's and Nteziryayo's families and was concerned for his safety.<sup>4500</sup> The Chamber has reviewed Witness FAM's confession to Rwandan authorities.<sup>4501</sup> The confession details the individual crimes in which Witness FAM participated, including the killing of several people and looting. While the confession details dates of the killings, and names Witness FAM's co-perpetrators, as well as how the murders occurred, the confession does not make any reference to Nteziryayo, Kanyabashi, or the context in which the killings occurred. As such, the Chamber considers the omission of this information from Witness FAM's confession to be significant, and undermines the credibility of his testimony with respect to Nteziryayo's alleged role in the Kabakobwa attacks.

1745. The Nteziryayo Defence submits that Witness FAM's testimony as to Nteziryayo's presence at Kabakobwa at 3.00 p.m. contradicts the testimony of Witness QBV, who testified Nteziryayo was at a roadblock in Kibilizi at 2.00 p.m. and a meeting at Mugusa commune office at 4.00 p.m.<sup>4502</sup>

1746. The Chamber refers to its findings as to the credibility of Witness QBV's testimony concerning the events at the Kibilizi roadblock on the Butare-Mugusa road on 22 April 1994. The Chamber found that there were numerous inconsistencies between Witness QBV's previous statements and his trial testimony which Witness QBV did not adequately explain, such that the Chamber did not find the testimony of Witness QBV adequate to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo was at the roadblock in Kibilizi secteur, Mugusa commune, on or about 22 and 23 April 1994, as Witness QBV testified (). Notwithstanding this finding, the Chamber considers the Prosecution led contradictory evidence as to Nteziryayo's whereabouts on this occasion.

1747. Having had regard to the testimony of Witnesses QBV and FAM, the Chamber considers the evidence of these witnesses as to Nteziryayo's location during the afternoon of Friday, 22 April 1994 is inconsistent. Reconstructing the timeline of events for 22 April 1994, Witness QBV testified Nteziryayo was at a roadblock in Kibilizi on the Butare-Mugusa road at 2.00 p.m.<sup>4503</sup> They stayed at the roadblock for approximately one hour<sup>4504</sup> and left at 3.00 p.m.<sup>4505</sup> Witness FAM testified that Nteziryayo arrived at Kabakobwa at about the same time he did,<sup>4506</sup> around 3.00 p.m.<sup>4507</sup> Having regard to Prosecution Exhibit 1, the Chamber estimates the approximate distance between Kibilizi in Mugusa commune to Kabakobwa is around 15 kilometres.<sup>4508</sup> Although Witness FAM testified that the policemen, soldiers and civilians left Kabakobwa when they finished the killing between 4.00 and 5.00 p.m.<sup>4509</sup> he did not testify about how long Nteziryayo stayed at Kabakobwa, or when Nteziryayo left. Witness QBV testified that he next saw Nteziryayo at 4.00 p.m., at the Mugusa commune office with Muvunyi.<sup>4510</sup> Although Witness QBV's testimony does not account for Nteziryayo's presence between 3.00 and 4.00 p.m., given the Chamber's estimated distance between Kibilizi secteur and Kabakobwa Hill,<sup>4511</sup> the Chamber considers this one hour period was insufficient to allow Nteziryayo and Muvunyi to travel approximately 30 kilometres from the Kibilizi roadblock to Kabakobwa, before returning to Mugusa commune office which was located in Ramba cellule, Kibilizi secteur,<sup>4512</sup> by 4.00 p.m.

1748. Accordingly, notwithstanding the detailed and variously corroborated testimony of Witness FAM with respect to the events at Kabakobwa, considering Witness FAM's detainee status at the time of his testimony,<sup>4513</sup> his potential motivation to implicate either or both Accused in order to receive a more favourable sentence, and contradictory evidence as to Nteziryayo's whereabouts led through Witness QBV, absent any further corroboration on the issue, the Chamber does not consider the evidence led by the Prosecution sufficient to establish a finding of fact beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo was present at Kabakobwa when the attack began at around 3.00 p.m. on Friday, 21 April 1994, or that he brought soldiers to Kabakobwa to participate in the attack.

3.6.8.4.5 The Killings on 23 April 1994

1749. Witness FAM testified that the day after the initial attack, Saturday [23 April 1994] at 8.00 a.m., he returned to Kabakobwa on the authorisation of Kanyabashi to perform communal activities, known as umuganda.<sup>4514</sup> Kanyabashi told them to engage in 'finissage', or to massacre those who were not killed the day before.<sup>4515</sup> Witness FAM testified that they were asked to perform umuganda at 8.00 a.m. on that morning by both the cellule leaders and

Kanyabashi.<sup>4516</sup> Although Kanyabashi was not at the meeting on Saturday morning when instructions on umuganda were given, Kanyabashi was the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune at the time and nobody killed or performed umuganda without having received instructions, so Kanyabashi was responsible.<sup>4517</sup> Witness FAM subsequently testified that Kanyabashi, the conseiller, Kanywabahizi, and Jean Semwiza were present at Kabakobwa on Saturday 23 April 1994.<sup>4518</sup>

1750. Witness FAM's testimony was corroborated by Witness D-2-14-D, who had participated in the attack on Friday 22 April. Witness D-2-14-D testified that the following day [23 April 1994], from the morning until noon people went back to Kabakobwa to plunder and loot the property of the victims, and to finish off those who had not died, under the supervision of Semwiza.<sup>4519</sup> Witness D-2-14-D was present during the killing of one Rurangwa, a survivor of the previous Kabakobwa attack, around 2.00 p.m. that day.<sup>4520</sup> Witness D-2-14-D also testified that he was approximately 50 metres from one Daphrose<sup>4521</sup> when he witnessed one Phillip Ntawuhiganayo kill her at around 10.00 a.m., on 23 April 1994.<sup>4522</sup> With respect to Daphrose however, the Chamber notes that Witness D-2-14-D later testified that he arrived at Kabakobwa at 2.00 p.m. the day after the massacre,<sup>4523</sup> whereas the witness also confirmed that his written confession stated that he witnessed Ntawuhiganayo kill Daphrose at 9.00 a.m.<sup>4524</sup> In contrast to Witness FAM, Witness D-2-14-D testified that he did not see Kanyabashi at Kabakobwa, or anywhere else, on 23 April 1994, nor did he hear anyone say so at subsequent Gacaca sessions.<sup>4525</sup>

1751. Witness D-2-13-D testified he did not return to Kabakobwa on Saturday, but knew that others went there to finish off those who were not dead and to search their bodies.<sup>4526</sup> Although hearsay, Witness D-2-13-D's testimony also corroborates Witnesses FAM and D-2-14-D.

1752. In contrast to the foregoing witnesses, neither Witnesses QCB nor QW who were for various reasons at Kabakobwa Hill on the morning of Saturday, 23 April 1994, testified about further killings. Witness QCB testified that on [Saturday] 23 April 1994 he went back to Kabakobwa to bury the deceased and testified about the presence of bulldozers at Kabakobwa as early as 7.30 a.m.<sup>4527</sup> Although he provided detailed evidence as to the burial of the victims,<sup>4528</sup> he did not testify about any further killings that occurred on Saturday, 23 April 1994. Witness QW testified that she escaped Kabakobwa and walked all night, arriving back at Kabakobwa the following morning around 8.00 or 9.00 a.m. She saw all the dead bodies and left; she did not stay there long.<sup>4529</sup> She did not see any bulldozers there, and did not see any gathering of people with authorities.<sup>4530</sup> Witness QW also did not testify about any killings that occurred that day.

Having reviewed the confession, the Chamber notes the confession actually states that Witness D-2-14-D went to feed the pigs at Kabakobwa at 9.00 a.m. but does not specify what time he witnessed the death of Daphrose.

1753. Given that the killings that occurred on Saturday, 23 April 1994 were intended to “finish off” the few survivors from the previous day’s attack, the Chamber considers the killings occurred on a significantly smaller scale than the attack of the previous day. As such, the Chamber does not consider it significant that neither Witness QCB nor Witness QW testified to witnessing any further killings at Kabakobwa on the morning of Saturday 23 April 1994.

1754. Therefore, having regard to the detailed testimony of Witness FAM, when read together with the corroborative testimony of Witness D-2-14-D and the hearsay testimony of Witness D-2-13-D, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that some of the attackers who participated in the attacks on Friday, 22 April returned to Kabakobwa on Saturday, 23 April 1994 to finish off the survivors and loot their property. Notwithstanding this finding, the Chamber does not consider it established beyond a reasonable doubt on the basis of Witness FAM’s testimony alone that Kanyabashi was present at Kabakobwa on Saturday, 23 April 1994.

3.6.8.5 Conclusion

1755. In conclusion, the Chamber considers it established that Kanyabashi gave a speech at Rango market on the morning of Thursday, 21 April 1994, during which he stated that Tutsis should go to Kabakobwa. The Chamber also finds it established that local authorities directed Tutsi refugees to Kabakobwa. However, the Chamber does not find the Prosecution has proven that Kanyabashi instructed local authorities to move Tutsis to Kabakobwa. Consequently, the Chamber accepts that many refugees fleeing to Burundi may have found themselves at Kabakobwa per chance. The Chamber also does not consider it proven that Kanyabashi recited proverbs from a vehicle in Rwinuma cellule on the afternoon of Thursday, 21 April 1994.

1756. With respect to the Kabakobwa attack on 22 April 1994, the Chamber does not consider it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi was present during the attack. Nevertheless, it accepts that soldiers, members of the Ngoma commune police and civilians massacred Tutsi refugees there. As to Nteziryayo’s role, the Chamber does not consider it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Nteziryayo was present at Kabakobwa when the attack began at around 3.00 p.m. on Friday, 21 April 1994, and that he brought soldiers to Kabakobwa to participate in the attack. With respect to the subsequent killings at Kabakobwa on 23 April 1994, the Chamber considers it established beyond a reasonable doubt that further killings took place that aimed to “finish off” survivors from the previous day’s attack, but does not consider it established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi was present at Kabakobwa on Saturday, 23 April 1994.

3.6.9 Nkubi Secteur Office Meeting, 24 April 1994

1757. The Kanyabashi Indictment provides that on several occasions between 20 April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed the soldiers and militiamen, and certain members of the civilian population, to search for the Tutsis who had escaped the massacres, in order to exterminate them. These instructions were given notably on 21 April in Butare, in late April in Save, and in June 1994 near Butare.<sup>4531</sup> The Kanyabashi Indictment also provides between April and July 1994, Kanyabashi not only called on, but aided and abetted the population in slaughtering the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>4532</sup>

1758. According to the Prosecution, Kanyabashi's role in the genocide conspiracy was to, inter alia, attend meetings, give instructions to kill Tutsis in hiding and use his position and power to incite the population to join in the killings.<sup>4533</sup> Kanyabashi directly participated in the massacres of Tutsis through his acts, conduct and utterances in Butare, between April and July 1994.<sup>4534</sup> The Prosecution submits that when Kanyabashi gave orders to the population they were obeyed.<sup>4535</sup> In this respect, the Prosecution submits that on 24 April 1994, Kanyabashi held a meeting at the Nkubi secteur office during which he urged Tutsis to come out of hiding. The Prosecution submits this was a plan to lure Tutsis out of hiding since those Tutsis who came out of hiding were subsequently killed.<sup>4536</sup> After this meeting, one Rukimbira was killed upon Kanyabashi's orders.<sup>4537</sup> The Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Witness FAM.

1759. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the meeting of 24 April 1994 falls outside the scope of the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>4538</sup> It otherwise submits that Witness FAM's testimony was uncorroborated and lacking in details with respect to the killings that allegedly followed the meeting.<sup>4539</sup>

1760. In the context of the Kabakobwa attacks that occurred on 22 and 23 April 1994, the Prosecution introduced evidence related to an alleged Nkubi secteur meeting, held on Sunday where Kanyabashi and Nsanzabahizi told Tutsis to come out of hiding because security had been restored, after which those Tutsis who came out of their hiding places were killed.<sup>4540</sup> The

1761. The Chamber notes that this is a separate and distinct allegation that did not take place at Kabakobwa and occurred two days after the killings described in the Indictment. The Chamber is of the view that this allegation falls outside the scope of Paragraphs 6.32 and 6.33 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. Therefore, the Chamber will not consider the evidence as to the alleged 24 April 1994 secteur meeting with respect to these Indictment paragraphs. The Chamber will instead consider evidence led about this meeting under the relevant Indictment paragraphs pertaining to meetings where appropriate.

1762. Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that between April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers and militiamen, and certain members of the civilian population to search for Tutsis who had escaped massacres, in order to exterminate them.<sup>4542</sup> Further, Paragraph 6.58 alleges that between April and July 1994, Kanyabashi and his co-Accused, individually or in the presence of one another, not only called on but also aided and abetted the population to slaughter Tutsis in Butare préfecture.<sup>4543</sup>

1763. Insofar as these paragraphs fail to specify 24 April 1994 as one occasion on which Kanyabashi called for the search of Tutsis and fail to identify the location where Kanyabashi is alleged to have incited the population to commit genocide, namely at the Nkubi secteur office, the Chamber finds these paragraphs defective for failing to put the Kanyabashi Defence on notice of this event.

1764. The Chamber notes the summary of Witness FAM's anticipated testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief sets forth that on the Sunday following the Kabakobwa massacre, Kanyabashi came to the secteur and held a meeting with the conseiller and the responsables de cellule, asking them to tell the surviving Tutsis to come out of hiding, whereupon those Tutsis who came out of hiding were killed by the Hutu population.<sup>4544</sup>

1765. A review of Witness FAM's previous statement of 24 February 2000 shows that its content corresponds to the summary of information provided in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. The statement however provides additional detail insofar as it specifies the secteur in issue, namely Nkubi secteur, and states that the message given at the meeting was subsequently disseminated by megaphone in a commune vehicle. Those Tutsis who did come out of hiding were killed by the Hutu population.<sup>4545</sup> Recalling that Witness FAM's statement was disclosed in 2000 and 2001, this disclosure to the Defence was timely, clear and consistent.

1766. Accordingly, the Chamber considers Kanyabashi was provided with adequate notice that the Prosecution intended to bring evidence of this alleged 24 April 1994 meeting as part of its case against Kanyabashi, such that the defect in the Indictment is cured. Insofar as the Kanyabashi Defence also had the opportunity to cross-examine Witness FAM on this event over two sitting days, 7 and 11 March 2002, the Chamber considers no prejudice was caused to the Defence.

3.6.9.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FAM

1767. Witness FAM, a Hutu and detainee at the time of his testimony,<sup>4546</sup> testified that there was a secteur meeting on Sunday, between 10.00 a.m. and 12.00 p.m., at the Nkubi secteur office.<sup>4547</sup> During the meeting, Kanyabashi told the population that security had been restored, and therefore the Tutsis should come out of their hiding places since no one was to be killed again in the commune. There were no Tutsis present at this meeting.<sup>4548</sup> Nsanzabahizi spoke after Kanyabashi and told the population that they must affect “finissage”, upon the Tutsis who came out from hiding to finish the extermination.<sup>4549</sup> This message was then spread throughout the secteur by Kanyabashi, who announced by megaphone as he went around in a vehicle that it was safe for those hiding to come out.<sup>4550</sup> In cross-examination, Witness FAM testified that the message was broadcast by a man aboard the vehicle who was doing so in the name of Bourgmestre Kanyabashi.<sup>4551</sup> As a result of that message some Tutsis came out of hiding and they were killed.<sup>4552</sup> Witness FAM could not recall precisely when he mentioned the secteur meeting or the megaphone incident prior to his statement of 25 February 2000.<sup>4553</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-14-D

1769. Witness D-2-14-D, a Hutu farmer, cleaner and gardener,<sup>4557</sup> did not know of or attend any meeting convened by Kanyabashi where Kanyabashi said that security had been restored and that Tutsis could come out of their hiding places, or where Mathias Nsanzabahizi said that those Tutsis coming out of hiding should be finished off so that the extermination could be completed.<sup>4558</sup> He also did not know of Kanyabashi making any such announcements by megaphone.<sup>4559</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-16-P

1770. Witness D-2-16-P, a Tutsi,<sup>4560</sup> testified that the only two meetings Kanyabashi held in April 1994 were on 18 and 19 April 1994. No meeting took place at the end of April in Rango, because if there was the witness would have heard of it and attended.<sup>4561</sup> Witness D-2-16-P testified that from his home he could hear messages by megaphone from a vehicle on the road linking Nkubi and Sahera secteurs.<sup>4562</sup> Prior to April 1994, he could hear such messages delivered by megaphone, but he never heard such messages from April to early July 1994.<sup>4563</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-YYYY

1771. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant in 1994,<sup>4564</sup> spent Saturday night and Sunday at Kanyabashi's house.<sup>4565</sup> Kanyabashi spent all day Sunday at home and was visited by the conseiller of Matyazo and the brigadier.<sup>4566</sup>

3.6.9.4 Deliberations

1772. Witness FAM was the sole Prosecution witness called who testified about the substance of what was said at a secteur meeting held on Sunday at the Nkubi secteur office.<sup>4567</sup> The Chamber notes Witness FAM's detainee status at the time of his testimony,<sup>4568</sup> and his potential motivation to implicate Kanyabashi in order to receive a more favourable sentence. The Chamber will therefore treat his testimony with appropriate caution. Witness FAM's testimony about the occurrence of a meeting was corroborated by Witness QCB, who testified that a secteur meeting was held on Sunday 24 April 1994. However, Witness QCB did not attend the meeting<sup>4569</sup> and did not provide any testimony as to the content of the meeting.

1773. While Witnesses D-2-14-D<sup>4570</sup> and D-2-16-P<sup>4571</sup> testified they did not know of or attend any meeting convened by Kanyabashi where Kanyabashi said that security had been restored and that Tutsis could come out of their hiding places, the Chamber does not consider this conclusive evidence that there was no meeting.

1774. Further, Witness D-2-YYYY testified that he spent Saturday night and Sunday at Kanyabashi's house<sup>4572</sup> and that Kanyabashi spent all day Sunday at home where he was visited by the conseiller of Matyazo and the brigadier.<sup>4573</sup> Recalling the Chamber's views that Witness D-2-YYYY may have an interest in defending Kanyabashi by reason of having worked with Kanyabashi during the events,<sup>4574</sup> the Chamber considers his testimony does not raise a reasonable doubt as to Kanyabashi's presence at a meeting at Nkubi secteur on Sunday, 24 April 1994.

1775. In the circumstances, considering Witness FAM's detainee status at the time of his testimony,<sup>4575</sup> and his potential motivation to implicate Kanyabashi in order to receive a more favourable sentence, absent any more reliable corroboration as to the meeting, the Chamber does not consider the evidence led by the Prosecution sufficient to establish a finding beyond a reasonable doubt that a meeting was held on Sunday, 24 April 1994 at the Nkubi secteur office, at which Kanyabashi told the population that security had been restored, and urged Tutsis to come out of their hiding places. Because the Chamber has concluded that the Prosecution has failed to prove this allegation for independent reasons, it need not address the impact of Witness D-2-21-T's testimony on his credibility as regards this allegation.

3.6.10 Killing of Rukimbira, Around 22-24 April 1994

3.6.10.1 Introduction

1776. Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment provides that on several occasions between 20 April and June 1994, Kanyabashi encouraged and instructed soldiers, militiamen and certain members of the civilian population to search for Tutsis who had escaped the massacres in order to exterminate them. These instructions were given notably on 21 April in Butare, in late April in Save, and in June 1994 near Butare.<sup>4576</sup>

1777. On the basis of the testimony of Witness FAM, the Prosecution asserts that on or around 24 April 1994, Kanyabashi ordered the killing of a Tutsi, Rukimbira.<sup>4577</sup>

1778. The Defence argues that during the testimony of Witness FAM, it objected to this witness' evidence relating to the killing of Rukimbira. The Defence maintains that this allegation is not pled in the Kanyabashi Indictment and that, as a consequence, Kanyabashi should not have to defend himself against this specific charge.<sup>4578</sup> In the alternative, the Defence asserts that the Prosecution evidence is not consistent as to this event. Another Prosecution witness, Witness QCB, testified that he learned Rukimbira was killed by soldiers on 21 April 1994. According to the Defence, Witness QCB's version of events does not correspond to that narrated by Witness FAM.<sup>4579</sup>

1779. Relying upon the testimony of Defence Witness D-2-13-D, the Defence submits that Rukimbira was killed under different circumstances on 22 April 1994. Finally, the Defence asserts that Witness FAM was part of a group of detainees who induced inmates to falsely implicate Kanyabashi.<sup>4580</sup>

3.6.10.2 Preliminary issues

1780. As raised by the Defence, the Chamber observes that the killing of Rukimbira was not specifically pled in the Kanyabashi Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective in this regard. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will proceed to determine whether this defect was cured through subsequent Prosecution disclosure.

1781. The Chamber has reviewed the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and its Appendix, and notes that the summary of Witness FAM indicates that he was expected to testify about the killing of a Tutsi driver, Rukimbira, in support of Counts 1 to 9 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>4581</sup> The Chamber further notes that Witness FAM's written statement dated 24 February 2000 and disclosed to the Defence on 1 October 2001 addresses this specific killing.<sup>4582</sup> Witness FAM started his testimony on 6 March 2002, allowing ample time for the Defence to prepare.

1782. Considering the above, the Chamber finds that Kanyabashi had timely, clear and consistent notice of the allegation that Kanyabashi ordered the killing of Rukimbira. Therefore, the Chamber considers that Paragraph 6.45 was cured of its defect through subsequent Prosecution disclosures, and no prejudice was caused to the Defence.

Prosecution Witness FAM

1783. Witness FAM, a Hutu, was a detainee at the time of his testimony who had pled guilty to certain crimes including genocide.<sup>4583</sup> He took part in killings and lootings in his secteur throughout the war.<sup>4584</sup> He testified that he had yet to be brought before a judge in Rwanda to enter any plea of guilt. At the time of his testimony, he had yet to be informed whether the Rwandan Prosecutor accepted or rejected his confession.<sup>4585</sup>

1784. Witness FAM testified that he knew one Rukimbira who was a driver for the préfecture.<sup>4586</sup> The witness stated that he was informed that Rukimbira was a Tutsi.<sup>4587</sup> He stated that Kanyabashi ordered policemen to take Rukimbira out of his house and hand him over to the population to be killed.<sup>4588</sup> Kanyabashi was in the compound of Rukimbira's house when he gave these orders.<sup>4589</sup> Kanyabashi was standing approximately one metre away from Rukimbira when he was killed.<sup>4590</sup> The witness saw the killing from a distance of three to five metres.<sup>4591</sup> The witness stated that he was at the scene on the orders of Kanyabashi.<sup>4592</sup> Rukimbira was killed at 10.00 a.m. on the Sunday following the Kabakobwa events.<sup>4593</sup> Witness FAM mentioned Mathias Nsanzabahizi, Master Élias Kiyobe, Yirirwahande, Jean-Bosco and several others as having been present at the killing of Rukimbira.<sup>4594</sup> Witness FAM identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>4595</sup>

<sup>4582</sup> 24 February 2000, Statement of Witness FAM, disclosed 1 October 2001 (“The same Sunday, Kanyabashi asked a group of men to go and force a certain Rukimbira, a Tutsi who was a driver at the préfecture, out of his house. I was among the group. We told him that the man could be having grenades in his house. So, Kanyabashi returned to the commune and came back with four communal policemen, who forced Rukimbira out and killed him behind his house, in front of Kanyabashi.”).

1785. Witness FAM made his confession on 3 August 1998.<sup>4596</sup> However, he did not mention the names of persons whom he killed nor that of Kanyabashi in this confession in order to safeguard his own security and that of his family.<sup>4597</sup> The witness further stated that he did not mention the killing of Rukimbira in this confession because the killers of Rukimbira were all dead and the person who handed Rukimbira over to the killers was in exile.<sup>4598</sup> The witness indicated that at the time of his confession, he was detained at the Karubanda prison as well as Kanyabashi's two sons: Patrice who was a doctor and Babu.<sup>4599</sup>

1786. Counsel for Kanyabashi confronted the witness with the record of Witness FAM's hearing before the Rwandan authorities, dated 18 August 1998, in which he alleged that soldiers were also present when Rukimbira was killed.<sup>4600</sup> The witness explained that the person who recorded his statements made a mistake because soldiers only arrived there after Rukimbira's burial.<sup>4601</sup>

Prosecution Witness QCB

1787. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and a detainee at the time of his testimony, testified in cross-examination that Jean-Marie Rukimbira, whom the witness knew as the driver at the préfecture, was killed on 21 April 1994.<sup>4602</sup> After having thrown the dead bodies of Tutsis on the road not far from Rango market on that day, soldiers moved on to Jean-Marie Rukimbira's house, arrested him and handed him over to Martin Nzabamwita, who killed him

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-D

1788. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu, stated that at about 8.30 a.m. on Friday (22 April 1994) he saw two old blue minibuses known as “Combi” with about 10 soldiers stop at Alexis Habyarimana’s house.<sup>4606</sup> The soldiers alighted from the vehicles and called Alexis Habyarimana and then went toward Kabakobwa.<sup>4607</sup>

1789. The soldiers stood on Nkubi Hill adjacent to or overlooking Kabakobwa.<sup>4608</sup> They shot two bullets, said they could not wage war against unarmed members of the population and then left.<sup>4609</sup> The witness and Gashumba followed the soldiers because Alexis’ house was not far from Kabakobwa.<sup>4610</sup> Once at Alexis’ house, the soldiers compelled the witness and Gashumba to get in their vehicles with them.<sup>4611</sup>

1790. Six people got in the military vehicles with the soldiers.<sup>4612</sup> They proceeded to Rukimbira’s house, and the soldiers said, “[t]his is the préfet’s driver” and then stopped on the road.<sup>4613</sup> The soldiers said that Rukimbira was an accomplice of the Inkotanyi. The witness stated that he knew Rukimbira very well; Rukimbira lived in Agasharu and had been the préfet’s driver since about the 1980s.<sup>4614</sup> The last time he saw Rukimbira go to work was about a month before the events.<sup>4615</sup>

1791. Witness D-2-13-D stated that the soldiers alighted from their vehicles and knocked on the door of Rukimbira’s house.<sup>4616</sup> Rukimbira came out wearing a towel with his hands up.<sup>4617</sup> The witness stated that Rukimbira was home alone.<sup>4618</sup> A soldier called Athanase Kamana killed Rukimbira with a machete, and Martin Nzabamwita finished him off.<sup>4619</sup> Kamana and Nzabamwita were brothers and lived in Agasharu cellule.<sup>4620</sup>

1793. On cross-examination, Witness D-2-13-D confirmed to have said in his statement of 28 November 2004 that after going to Kabakobwa, the soldiers and Interahamwe went to Rukimbira's home, and that he was one of those Interahamwe. In this same statement, he confirmed to have said that Kamana, Kiyobe, Yirinwahandi and Bisesemi were also present.<sup>4624</sup> The witness however testified that he and Gashumba were not Interahamwe but mere members of the population; since they participated in the killing of Rukimbira, they also became Interahamwe.<sup>4625</sup>

1794. In the same statement, Witness D-2-13-D stated that after the Kabakobwa massacres the soldiers and Interahamwe went to Rukimbira's house and killed him. On cross-examination, he acknowledged making that statement but he insisted that Rukimbira was killed before noon and before the Kabakobwa massacres.<sup>4626</sup>

1795. Witness D-2-13-D did not see Semwiza at all on the day that Rukimbira was killed. He did not hear of Semwiza being involved at all in the death of Rukimbira.<sup>4627</sup>

1796. Witness D-2-13-D stated that he was tried twice by the Gacaca court. At the first trial in 2006, he pled guilty to the murder of Rukimbira and confessed that he was present at Rukimbira's death. He also confessed to killing Nyirabudondi and his child and being present at their deaths. He admitted to Babeya's wife and child being killed in his presence. He confessed to having looted the belongings of Paul Sekamana, an agronomist named Pierre and Daphrose Rwingwini.<sup>4628</sup>

1797. Witness D-2-13-D testified that during his time at the Butare prison, there was a small group of people who were trying to incriminate Kanyabashi.<sup>4629</sup> This group, including an individual with the same full name as Witness FAM, found Witness D-2-13-D in his cell and told him they wanted to recruit him into their community.<sup>4630</sup> They said that there was a group that was going to testify against Kanyabashi in Arusha.<sup>4631</sup> The witness told them that he did not know anything about Kanyabashi and asked them to leave.<sup>4632</sup>

1798. It is not disputed that Rukimbira, a Tutsi driver at the préfecture, was killed near his residence.<sup>4633</sup> The disputed issues are the time frame of Rukimbira's killing and the involvement of Kanyabashi in this event, if any.

1799. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness FAM in support of its allegation that Rukimbira was killed on a Sunday that followed the Kabakobwa events, i.e. 24 April 1994, at 10.00 a.m.<sup>4634</sup> On that occasion, Kanyabashi ordered policemen to remove Rukimbira from his home and hand him over to the population who then killed him because he was Tutsi.<sup>4635</sup> Kanyabashi was present when Rukimbira was put to death.<sup>4636</sup>

1800. The Chamber underscores that Witness FAM, as a detained witness, may have had reason to testify against Kanyabashi in order to receive a more favourable sentence in his case. Accordingly, his evidence should be considered with appropriate caution.

1801. The testimony of Witness FAM is put into question by Witnesses QCB and D-2-13-D. The Chamber recalls that as discussed earlier in this Judgement, Witness D-2-13-D's testimony on fabrication of evidence against Kanyabashi does not undermine the testimony of Witness FAM ().

1802. Even though Witness QCB was not expected to testify about the killing of Rukimbira, he stated in cross-examination that Rukimbira was killed by Martin Nzabamwita on 21 April 1994 after his arrest by soldiers.<sup>4637</sup> Witness QCB however did not witness the killing himself; rather, he learned of it upon his return from Rango the same day.<sup>4638</sup>

1803. Witness D-2-13-D declared that Rukimbira was killed on the morning of the Kabakobwa massacre, i.e. Friday, 22 April 1994 at about 10.20 or 10.30 a.m.<sup>4639</sup> A soldier named Athanase Kamana killed Rukimbira with a machete and Martin Nzabamwita finished him off.<sup>4640</sup>

1805. The Chamber observes discrepancies between the respective testimonies of Witnesses FAM and QCB, both Prosecution witnesses. First, the Chamber notes the discrepancy in the witnesses' testimony regarding the date of the incident. In and of itself, the Chamber considers this a minor discrepancy, especially taking into account the significant amount of time elapsed since the events and the fact that Witness QCB testified to a number of events which occurred in April 1994.

1806. However, other more significant discrepancies exist as well. Witness FAM testified that Rukimbira was taken out of his home by policemen in the presence of Kanyabashi, who then ordered his killing.<sup>4643</sup> Witness QCB heard that Rukimbira was arrested and killed by soldiers without any further details. Notably, he makes no mention of Kanyabashi's presence.<sup>4644</sup> Furthermore, Witness FAM's 3 August 1998 confession makes no mention of the order given by Kanyabashi to kill Rukimbira. When asked about this significant omission, the witness provided an unconvincing explanation.<sup>4645</sup>

1807. Taking into account these various discrepancies, the omission, and Witness FAM's status as a detainee at the time of his testimony, the Chamber concludes that it is not proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi ordered the killing of Rukimbira on around 24 April 1994. Because the Chamber has concluded that the Prosecution failed to prove this allegation for independent reasons, it need not address the impact of Witness D-2-21-T's testimony on his credibility as regards this allegation.

3.6.11 Groupe Scolaire Attacks, April 1994

3.6.11.1 *Introduction

1808. Paragraph 6.29 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that in the days following the death of President Habyarimana, Nteziryayo went to Butare to take over his "new assignment". As the official in charge of civil defence for Butare préfecture, between April and June 1994 Nteziryayo supervised the training of militiamen and distributed weapons to them.<sup>4646</sup> Paragraph 6.35 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from 20 April 1994 the massacres became widespread within the préfecture, and that Tutsis were killed where they had sought refuge thinking that the authorities would protect them.<sup>4647</sup> The Indictment alleges that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo knew that massacres of the civilian population were being committed and took no measures to stop them.<sup>4648</sup> It further alleges that, acting in their positions of authority, and in concert with others, they participated in the planning and preparation or execution of a common scheme, strategy or plan to commit these atrocities. The crimes were committed by them personally, by persons they assisted or by their subordinates, and with their knowledge or consent.<sup>4649</sup>

1809. The Prosecution submits that soldiers and Interahamwe beat and intimidated Tutsi refugees at the Groupe Scolaire.<sup>4650</sup> The Prosecution contends that, from April to June 1994 Nteziryayo was responsible for civil self-defence in Butare préfecture and as such exercised authority over the Interahamwe and certain civilians in the préfecture.<sup>4651</sup>

1810. Furthermore, the Prosecution submits that Nsabimana is responsible under Article 6 (3) of the Statute for the massacres which occurred during the time he was préfet of Butare, in 1994.<sup>4652</sup> Specifically, the Prosecution alleges that Nsabimana distributed weapons to his subordinates, the bourgmestres, to be used in civilian defence. These weapons were subsequently used to kill the Tutsi civilian population.<sup>4653</sup>

1811. In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witness TQ and Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges.

1812. The Nteziryayo and Nsabimana Defences make no specific submissions with regard to the attacks that took place at the Groupe Scolaire. The Nsabimana Defence, in particular, did not challenge the allegation.<sup>4654</sup>

3.6.11.2 Preliminary Issues

1813. The Chamber notes that the allegation that there were attacks perpetrated at the Groupe Scolaire in April 1994 was not pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. Paragraphs 6.60 and 6.61 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that Nsabimana and Nteziryayo knew that massacres were taking place; they took no measures to stop them and indeed consented to their occurrence. The Chamber notes, however, that these paragraphs are not pled in support of any counts against the Accused. Recalling the principles set out in the Preliminary Issues section of this Judgement (), the Chamber considers that the allegations contained in these paragraphs are not charged as crimes; a defect that cannot be cured by the provision of timely, clear and consistent Prosecution disclosures. The Chamber therefore declines to make a finding in this respect.

1814. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.29 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment sets forth a clear allegation in relation to Nteziryayo's position within Butare préfecture. However, this paragraph does not refer to any attacks or killings, especially at the Groupe Scolaire. Paragraph 6.35 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that killings occurred, but does not substantiate Nsabimana or Nteziryayo's alleged role or participation in these killings and as such constitutes a failure to properly plead the modes of participation of the crimes alleged under Article 6 (1) of the Statute. The Chamber recalls that where it is alleged that the accused planned, instigated, ordered, or aided and abetted in the planning, preparation or execution of the alleged crimes, the Prosecution is required to identify the "particular acts" or "the particular course of conduct" on the part of the accused that forms the basis for the charges in question (). Furthermore, there is no mention of any specific attacks at the Groupe Scolaire perpetrated by any alleged subordinates.

1815. The Chamber is of the view that the Prosecution's failure to refer to these specific attacks at the Groupe Scolaire constitutes a failure to properly plead this charge. Any decision to the contrary would be an impermissible expansion of the Indictment and a radical transformation of the charge as alleged in Paragraphs 6.29 and 6.35, which can only result in prejudice to the Accused.<sup>4655</sup> As a result the Chamber will not make a finding as to the attacks perpetrated at the Groupe Scolaire or as to Nsabimana and Nteziryayo's alleged involvement or participation therein.

3.6.12 Mugusa Commune Office Meeting, 22 April 1994

3.6.12.1 Introduction

1816. Paragraph 5.8 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that from April to July 1994, Nteziryayo, among others, publicly incited the people to exterminate the Tutsi population and its "accomplices".<sup>4656</sup> The Prosecution submits that Nteziryayo made public statements inciting people to exterminate the Tutsi population not in his personal capacity, but as part of the genocidal plan of the Interim Government.<sup>4657</sup> Paragraph 6.59 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment further provides that military officers, members of the Interim Government and local authorities including Nteziryayo, aided and abetted their subordinates and others in carrying out the massacres of the Tutsi population and its "accomplices". Without the complicity of the local and national civil and military authorities, the principal massacres would not have occurred.<sup>4658</sup>

1817. The Prosecution relies on the testimony of Witness QBV to assert that around 22 April 1994, Nteziryayo attended a meeting held outside the Mugusa commune office during which Nteziryayo told the bourgmestre that all the other communes had already finished killing the Tutsis and their accomplices while in Mugusa and Muyaga, nothing had been done yet. Later on the same day and after Nteziryayo's departure, Tutsis who sought refuge at the commune office were killed by, among others, soldiers who accompanied Nteziryayo during the earlier meeting.<sup>4659</sup>

1818. The Defence submits that allegations relating to the Mugusa incidents are not pled in the Indictment.<sup>4660</sup> In the alternative, the Defence challenges the credibility of Witness QBV.<sup>4661</sup> The Defence called Witness AND-5 to prove that Nteziryayo did not participate in nor hold any meeting in Mugusa commune. Most of the time Witness AND-5 accompanied the bourgmestre and, if Nteziryayo had come to Mugusa to chair a meeting, the witness would have known about it.<sup>4662</sup>

3.6.12.2 Preliminary Issues

1819. The Chamber observes that the meeting allegedly held by Nteziryayo at the Mugusa commune office around 22 April 1994 and the subsequent killings of Tutsis refugees who settled there the same day are not specifically pled in the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment. The Indictment is therefore defective in this regard.

1820. Bearing in mind the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber will proceed to determine whether this defect was cured through subsequent Prosecution disclosure.

1821. The Chamber has reviewed the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief and its annexes filed on 10 April 2001 as well as the Prosecution opening statement of 12 June 2001 and observes that there is no specific mention of the material allegations at stake.<sup>4663</sup> Witness QBV gave three prior statements respectively dated 11 October 1999, 11 May 2000 and 30 March 2001, which do not refer to the Mugusa commune office meeting and the ensuing killings of Tutsis which allegedly took place on around 22 April 1994. The Chamber therefore concludes that the defect is not cured. As a result, the Chamber will not make any finding on these specific factual allegations.

3.6.13 Mutunda Stadium Meeting, 18-19 April 1994, and Killings, 25-27 April 1994

3.6.13.1 Introduction

1822. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment allege that from late 1990 to July 1994, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. In executing this plan they organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>4664</sup>

1823. The Prosecution submits that numerous meetings were held in Butare préfecture in which decisions were made to further the conspiracy to exterminate the Tutsis.<sup>4665</sup> Pursuant to the conspiracy, large-scale massacres ensued throughout Butare.<sup>4666</sup> According to the Prosecution, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana took part in such a meeting at Mutunda Stadium,<sup>4667</sup> Mbazi commune, on or about 18 April 1994 after which killings of Tutsis took place.<sup>4668</sup>

1824. Nyiramasuhuko is charged with genocide pursuant to Article 6 (1) and 6 (3) in respect of massacres of Tutsis, or individuals who appeared to be Tutsis, committed by the military, gendarmes, Hutu militiamen and others in Butare préfecture from April to July 1994.<sup>4669</sup> The Prosecution alleges that the massacres perpetrated throughout Butare, including one at Mutunda Stadium on or about 19 April 1994, were the result of a strategy that Nyiramasuhuko planned, adhered to and elaborated.<sup>4670</sup> Nyiramasuhuko is also charged with extermination as a crime against humanity by reason of her participation in the massacre at Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4671</sup>

1825. Nsabimana is charged with murder and extermination as crimes against humanity pursuant to Article 6 (1) and 6 (3) of the Statute. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana knew or ought to have known that widespread and systematic attacks against Tutsis were occurring throughout Butare, including Mbazi commune.<sup>4672</sup>

1826. In support of these allegations, the Prosecution relies upon the testimony of Prosecution Witness FAS.

1827. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that Nyiramasuhuko had nothing to do with the attack on Tutsis who gathered at Mutunda Stadium and that she did not set foot there at any time between April and July 1994. In addition, the Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko Defence challenge Prosecution Witness FAS's credibility and submit that the alleged meeting at Mutunda Stadium did not take place.<sup>4673</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence relies on Defence Witnesses WZNJC and LHC, and the Accused Nyiramasuhuko.

Witnesses FAS and LHC refer to the stadium as Mbazi Stadium, Witness LHC testified that Mutunda Stadium was located on Mutunda Hill, but that some called it Mbazi Stadium as it was in Mbazi commune: T. 15 February 2005 p. 70 (Witness LHC). The Chamber thus accepts that these witnesses are referring to the same place, namely Mutunda Stadium.

Sufficiency of the Indictments

1828. The Nyiramasuhuko Defence submits that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is defective for failing to plead the meeting at Mbazi Stadium.<sup>4674</sup> The Nyiramasuhuko Defence also submits that Paragraphs 5.1, 6.52 and 6.56 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment are impermissibly vague, even when read in the context of the Indictment as a whole.<sup>4675</sup>

1829. The Chamber notes that the material facts supporting a charge must be pled in the Indictment with sufficient precision to provide notice to the accused.<sup>4676</sup> The Chamber observes that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment contains three paragraphs which refer to Nyiramasuhuko's involvement in meetings.<sup>4677</sup> However, none of the three paragraphs in the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment encompasses meetings held at or near Mutunda Stadium. In addition, the Prosecution did not specifically plead the Mutunda Stadium meeting in any of the Indictment paragraphs relating to conspiracy. The Chamber thus finds the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment defective by reason of its failure to refer to the meeting held at Mutunda Stadium in Mbazi commune on 18 to 19 April 1994.

1830. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraphs 5.1, 6.57 and 6.61 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment are vague insofar as they fail to identify any dates or locations where Nsabimana may have taken part in elaborating a plan to exterminate Tutsis.<sup>4678</sup> The Chamber observes that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings, however, the paragraph does not mention the Mutunda Stadium meeting. In addition, the Prosecution did not specifically plead the Mutunda Stadium meeting in any of the Indictment paragraphs relating to conspiracy. The Chamber thus finds the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment defective by reason of its failure to refer to the meeting held at Mutunda Stadium in Mbazi commune on 18 to 19 April 1994.

Curing of the Indictment Defects

1831. The Chamber will assess whether the Indictment defects were cured through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

1832. The Chamber observes that the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that on or about 18 April 1994, Witness FAS saw a meeting led by Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko at Mbazi Stadium at which it was decided to kill Tutsis and burn their houses. That night

<sup>4677</sup> Para. 6.32 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment contains a general allegation that numerous meetings were held at the Butare préfecture office involving various authorities of the préfecture and is cited in support of Counts 1-3, 5-6, 8-10 as to Nyiramasuhuko only. Para. 6.13 alleges that numerous Cabinet meetings were held which involved various ministers, including Nyiramasuhuko, and at which they were briefed on the massacres. Para. 6.14 alleges that directives and instructions intended to incite and aid and abet the perpetration of massacres were issued during these Cabinet meetings. Paras. 6.13 and 6.14 are cited in support of Counts 1-3, 5-6, 8, 10 as to Nyiramasuhuko only.

attacks started. Witness FAS participated in some killings of those fleeing the stadium and Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko gave orders to kill.<sup>4679</sup>

1833. Witness FAS' statement of 21 February 2001 indicated that on the evening of 18 April 1994 Préfet Nsabimana, Minister Nyiramasuhuko and the bourgmestre of Mbazi commune, Sibomana convened a meeting in Mutunda secteur at Mbazi Stadium. Although Witness FAS did not attend the meeting, Gerard Hategekimana, an MDR leader in his cellule, told him that he had attended a meeting where it was decided that Tutsis should be killed. The attacks started that night. The following day, 19 April 1994, Witness FAS saw Nyiramasuhuko at the stadium with gendarmes, although he was not close enough to her to hear what she was saying.<sup>4680</sup>

1834. The Chamber considers that the content of Witness FAS' previous statement was clear and consistent with the summary of his expected testimony in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief. Further, the Chamber notes Witness FAS' previous statement was disclosed on 14 March 2001, well before he commenced his testimony before the Tribunal in April 2004. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber finds that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence and the Nsabimana Defence had adequate notice of the current allegation.

1835. Further, in the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, Witness FAS was listed in support of Counts 1 and 4 against Nsabimana and Counts 1 to 6 and 8 to 11 against Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>4681</sup> In these circumstances, the Chamber finds that Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko were on notice that the Prosecution would lead evidence from Witness FAS about the Mutunda Stadium meeting and subsequent killings with respect to the charge of conspiracy to commit genocide (Count 1 in both Indictments).

1836. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber considers that the defects in the conspiracy-related paragraphs, namely Paragraphs 5.1, 6.52 and 6.56 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment and Paragraphs 5.1, 6.57 and 6.61 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment were cured by the disclosure of timely, clear and consistent information.

Notice of Responsibility for Killings

1837. Paragraphs 6.38 and 6.47 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment<sup>4682</sup> and Paragraphs 6.32 and 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment<sup>4683</sup> allege that between April and June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana not only incited but aided and abetted the population in massacring the Tutsis in Butare préfecture.

<sup>4682</sup> Para. 6.38 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali (in support of Counts 2-6, 8 and 10 pursuant to Article 6 (1) and 6 (3), except for Count 4 which charges Article 6 (1) responsibility alone against Nyiramasuhuko); Para. 6.47 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment (in support of Counts 2-6, 8 and 10 pursuant to Article 6 (1) and 6 (3), except for Count 4 which charges Article 6 (1) responsibility alone against Nyiramasuhuko).

<sup>4683</sup> Para. 6.32 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment (in support of Counts 1-7 and 9 against Nsabimana); Para. 6.53 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment (in support of all counts against Nsabimana).

1838. The Chamber notes these paragraphs fail to mention how the respective Accused aided and abetted in the massacres they are alleged to have participated in. These paragraphs also fail to mention any specific dates or locations of any massacres in which the Accused allegedly participated. Because of their vagueness, the Chamber considers these Indictment paragraphs defective.

1839. The Chamber must then determine whether these Indictment paragraphs were cured of their respective defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures. The Chamber observes that the summary of anticipated evidence of Witness FAS in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief states that after the foregoing meeting held on or around 18 April 1994, attacks started and that Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko gave orders to kill during those attacks.<sup>4684</sup>

1840. In his previous statement of 21 February 2001, Witness FAS stated that the day after the meeting of 18 April 1994, he saw Nyiramasuhuko at the stadium with gendarmes, although he was not close enough to her to hear what she was saying. That afternoon, Witness FAS heard gunshots and grenades from which he understood the massacre of refugees had started. His statement concludes with “[t]his in short is the circumstance under which I saw Pauline and Sylvain. They came to give us order [sic] to kill Tutsis and we executed the orders.”<sup>4685</sup>

1841. Although Witness FAS’ statement does not outline how or what orders were given, the Chamber is of the view that the information contained in the statement is clear and consistent with the summary of the witness’ expected testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief. As already noted, the statement was disclosed in a timely manner, three years before he commenced his testimony. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber finds that the Nyiramasuhuko Defence and the Nsabimana Defence had adequate notice that they would also be charged for their role in the killings which followed the 18 April 1994 meeting.

3.6.13.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness FAS

1842. Witness FAS, a Hutu farmer and detainee from Mbazi commune,<sup>4686</sup> testified that around 18 April 1994, the bourgmestre of his commune asked the population via megaphone for assistance to counter the people from Maraba commune who had come and created disorder.<sup>4687</sup> In compliance with the bourgmestre’s instructions, a group of people, including Witness FAS, left his cellule for Gihindamuyaga, at 7.00 a.m. that day.<sup>4688</sup> The group was comprised of Hutus, Tutsis and Twas from Mbazi commune, and was armed with clubs, spears and machetes.<sup>4689</sup> There were also four commune policemen with green shirts and yellow berets who carried guns.<sup>4690</sup> Once in Gihindamuyaga, the Mbazi group went across a ditch through the stream that separated Mbazi from Huye commune. They were able to push back the people from Maraba commune because they had policemen with rifles.<sup>4691</sup> The invaders from Maraba had no weapons and retreated behind the stream.<sup>4692</sup> The Mbazi group stayed at the ditch until noon.<sup>4693</sup>

1843. The Mbazi group was forced to leave the ditch area when two soldiers, known to Witness FAS, arrived from Butare aboard a red Hilux vehicle. These soldiers wore camouflage uniforms and black berets.<sup>4694</sup> The soldiers started shooting at the Mbazi group.<sup>4695</sup> The group scattered and went home through the forest.<sup>4696</sup>

1844. Witness FAS testified that on their way back from Gihindamuyaga, the Mbazi group saw Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana, the commune secretary Gérard Hategekimana and Responsable de cellule François Sinzabakwira on the road at Byiza, not far from Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4697</sup> Nyiramasuhuko, Nsabimana and the others stood next to Nyiramasuhuko's car, a white double-cabin Hilux, parked on the road.<sup>4698</sup> The bourgmestre of Mbazi commune, Antoine Sibomana, arrived shortly thereafter with his driver. Witness FAS heard the bourgmestre say that he had come from Butare.<sup>4699</sup>

1845. Witness FAS followed the five authorities, including Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana, as they walked to the stadium, where they proceeded to speak among themselves for some time.<sup>4700</sup> Byiza and Mutunda Stadium are very close to each other.<sup>4701</sup> The authorities stood inside the stadium.<sup>4702</sup> Inside the stadium there were seats, and the authorities stood at the fourth bench in the row, about four metres away from Witness FAS.<sup>4703</sup> Witness FAS stood outside the stadium fence and listened to what the authorities were saying.<sup>4704</sup> Witness FAS heard Nyiramasuhuko tell the bourgmestre to "let the people kill these snakes, the Tutsis and all those who looked like Tutsi."<sup>4705</sup> Nyiramasuhuko further stated that if they needed firearms, she would provide them with firearms.<sup>4706</sup> At that time, refugees had not yet gathered at the stadium.<sup>4707</sup>

1846. Witness FAS listened for only two minutes before heading home.<sup>4708</sup> When it was put to Witness FAS that his prior statement of 21 February 2001 stated that he remained outside the stadium and heard nothing that might have been said by the authorities, Witness FAS responded that he did not know the investigators were from the court and so he did not want them to discover that he had followed the authorities at that time.<sup>4709</sup>

1847. Later that afternoon [18 April 1994], Witness FAS met Gérard Hategekimana and Gasper Sabagirwa at a bar. Hategekimana told those present that he had just come back from a meeting held by Nyiramasuhuko, who had asked them to kill the Tutsis.<sup>4710</sup> Thereafter, Hategekimana ordered Witness FAS and others to go and look for drums. Upon his orders, Witness FAS and others obtained drums and beat them throughout the night. That night they visited Tutsis' homes to flush out and kill Tutsis, they looted their property and set their homes on fire.<sup>4711</sup> Only one person was killed that night. Witness FAS personally went to six Tutsi homes that night.<sup>4712</sup>

1848. Witness FAS later testified that these dates were estimates and he could not be sure whether his encounter with the authorities occurred on 18 or 19 April 1994.<sup>4713</sup> He did not know if the killings actually occurred on 25 April 1994.<sup>4714</sup> He later testified that it would not be right to say that the killings occurred on 25 April 1994.<sup>4715</sup>

1849. The following morning [19 April 1994], Witness FAS met the Mbazi commune secretary and responsable de cellule, François Sinzabakwira, at a bar.<sup>4716</sup> Sinzabakwira called upon Witness FAS and others to kill all Tutsis who had hidden at the commune secretary's house, which they did, killing 14 Tutsis.<sup>4717</sup> After being told by Sinzabakwira that other Tutsis had gone to the Mutunda Stadium in the morning, Witness FAS and others decided to go there as well.<sup>4718</sup> Witness FAS went there in the morning then immediately left and returned again in the evening with others.<sup>4719</sup> Witness FAS was armed with a club that morning.<sup>4720</sup> Witness FAS saw about 3,000 unarmed Tutsis had gathered at the Mutunda Stadium that morning.<sup>4721</sup> Witness FAS testified that the Tutsis at the stadium were killed during the day.<sup>4722</sup> However, the killings had not yet begun when Witness FAS left the stadium that morning.<sup>4723</sup> He did not see Nyiramasuhuko or any commune police at the stadium in the morning.<sup>4724</sup>

1850. Witness FAS testified that he returned to the stadium with others later that evening when he heard gunfire and explosions coming from the stadium.<sup>4725</sup> He later testified that he returned to the stadium in the afternoon.<sup>4726</sup> Upon their arrival at the stadium, Witness FAS saw Nyiramasuhuko, gendarmes, commune policemen and a soldier called Gatwaza from Gahenerezo. At that time, Nyiramasuhuko was moving among the dead bodies and she said something that Witness FAS could not hear given his distance from the authorities.<sup>4727</sup> Witness FAS heard from others that the bourgmestre organised the burial of the victims, but Witness FAS did not personally participate in their burial.<sup>4728</sup>

1851. When it was put to the witness that his statement of 21 February 2001 said he saw Nyiramasuhuko and other officials at the stadium in the morning, rather than the afternoon, Witness FAS testified that he saw Nyiramasuhuko and the others that day, and did not specify whether he saw her in the morning or afternoon. When it was put to the witness that his statement made no reference to the presence of a soldier, Witness FAS testified his statement was not re-read to him but he had spoken of the presence of a soldier, in addition to the gendarmes.<sup>4729</sup> When it was put to the witness that his statement made no reference to Nyiramasuhuko moving among the bodies of the refugees, Witness FAS repeated that his statement was not re-read to him.<sup>4730</sup>

1852. Witness FAS was unaware of any attack occurring at 5.30 a.m. or that soldiers ran out of ammunition around 7.30 a.m.<sup>4731</sup> Witness FAS was unaware of whether the bourgmestre of his commune asked the Tutsis to gather at Mutunda Stadium at three o'clock. Witness FAS denied that thousands of refugees had been at Mutunda Stadium for several days and that the authorities had stopped the water supplies to the stadium.<sup>4732</sup> Witness FAS was unaware of a meeting called by the bourgmestre on 21 April 1994 attended by all the people in the commune.<sup>4733</sup>

1853. Witness FAS testified that Hategekimana was responsible for supervising the killings at the cellule level. He did not know who was responsible at the commune level.<sup>4734</sup> Witness FAS was involved in the killing of about 50 Tutsis in his home cellule.<sup>4735</sup>

1854. Witness FAS denied having killed people at Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4736</sup> When it was put to him that his prior statement stated "we managed to stop those who attempted to flee and killed them with machetes and clubs", Witness FAS clarified that he and others killed three refugees fleeing from the stadium about two kilometres away from the stadium itself.<sup>4737</sup> He explained that when he heard shots coming from the stadium in the afternoon, he went to the valley where he saw Tutsi refugees fleeing the stadium for the forest. This is where he killed them. He testified that he killed these people because of their Tutsi ethnicity and because he was told to.<sup>4738</sup> Witness FAS testified that he was not accusing Nsabimana of incitement to go and kill, he was only testifying that Nsabimana was present with Nyiramasuhuko at Byiza.<sup>4739</sup>

1855. Witness FAS testified that while Hutus and Tutsis together were defending their secteur at Gihindamuyaga, the situation changed after Nyiramasuhuko's meeting and after Hategekimana started sensitising people and exhorting them to kill Tutsis.<sup>4740</sup>

1856. Witness FAS identified Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana in court.<sup>4741</sup>

Prosecution Witness Ghandi Shukry

1857. Ghandi Shukry testified that Prosecution Exhibit 40 showed video footage of Mbazi commune office and stadium taken on 22 February 2001.<sup>4742</sup> As the screen displayed 11:03, the video showed the road leading to Mbazi commune office and the front side of Mbazi commune office. Shukry stated that Mbazi Stadium was located approximately 400 to 500 metres from the commune office.<sup>4743</sup> At time 11:20 the video showed the stadium entrance and at time 11:30 the video showed the opposite side of the stadium entrance.<sup>4744</sup> At time 11:47, the video showed a view of the stadium from a different angle. The alleged mass grave was located behind and under the building shown, 150 metres away from the playground.<sup>4745</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness WZNJC

1858. Witness WZNJC, a Hutu student from Mbazi commune,<sup>4746</sup> testified that two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana, houses were set ablaze in Huye and Maraba communes.<sup>4747</sup> Therefore, pursuant to instructions issued by radio, members of the population in Mbazi commune, irrespective of their ethnicity, organised themselves to prevent unrest from spilling over in their commune and to repel any possible attacks.<sup>4748</sup>

1859. Witness WZNJC stated that thereafter, Mbazi commune was attacked from all sides, including Huye and Maraba communes, so the members of the population split up into groups of 200 people. Each group went to places that were not secure. Along with others, Witness WZNJC went to the border between Maraba and Mbazi communes on two separate days.<sup>4749</sup>

1860. Witness WZNJC testified that the number of Tutsis who participated in the protection of Mbazi commune decreased as the days went by, and at some point, the Tutsis completely withdrew from the group.<sup>4750</sup> Thereafter, Tutsis left their houses and went to settle in various locations including churches and schools within the commune.<sup>4751</sup> Witness WZNJC did not know why the Tutsis ceased to take part in the protection of the commune.<sup>4752</sup>

1861. Witness WZNJC stated that Tutsis killed their Hutu neighbours in Mbazi; he knew certain Hutus who were killed in his area.<sup>4753</sup> Subsequently, about 500 Tutsis gathered at Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4754</sup> They were armed with the same weapons as other members of the population.<sup>4755</sup> Witness WZNJC testified that there was a confrontation between the Tutsis in the stadium and their attackers, a group of between 500 and 700 Hutus from the same commune.<sup>4756</sup> The stadium was not enclosed.<sup>4757</sup>

1862. From his home close by on a hill opposite the stadium,<sup>4758</sup> Witness WZNJC could see the stadium and, during the confrontation, he heard explosions, gunshots and screaming from the stadium.<sup>4759</sup> At around 2.00 p.m., Witness WZNJC went to the stadium to see what was happening; he stayed 100 metres away from the stadium from where he observed an exchange of insults between the people outside the stadium and those inside the stadium.<sup>4760</sup> After 20 minutes he returned home without having seen any fighting.<sup>4761</sup> He could not observe the stadium again from his home because it was early evening and it was no longer easy to see the stadium at night.<sup>4762</sup> Witness WZNJC subsequently learned that, later in the evening, fighting resumed at the stadium.<sup>4763</sup> When it was put to Witness WZNJC that he would not have been able to see Nyiramasuhuko if she was at the stadium in the afternoon, he testified that he would have subsequently heard of her arrival.<sup>4764</sup>

1863. When Witness WZNJC observed the stadium the next morning he no longer saw anyone at the stadium. He believed that some people had died, or were lying on the ground dead.<sup>4765</sup>

1864. Witness WZNJC lived close enough to the stadium to be able to hear loud noises from the stadium.<sup>4766</sup> Witness WZNJC did not hear any beating of drums on the eve or on the day of the clash in Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4767</sup> He did not see anyone in military uniform, policemen or Interahamwe.<sup>4768</sup>

1865. Witness WZNJC never heard that Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana came to Gihandamuyaga secteur on 18 April 1994 or that they had a meeting where it was decided that Tutsis should be chased out of the commune and their houses burnt, or that Nyiramasuhuko promised to supply weapons.<sup>4769</sup> He also did not see Nyiramasuhuko at the stadium or in its vicinity on the day that he went to the stadium or at any other time between April and July 1994.<sup>4770</sup>

1866. When it was put to Witness WZNJC that the Tutsis at Mbazi Stadium were attacked by Hutus, Witness WZNJC testified that they may have been attacked because they had previously killed their Hutu neighbours in Mbazi.<sup>4771</sup>

1867. Witness WZNJC could not remember the dates of the events in question.<sup>4772</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witness LHC

1868. Witness LHC, a Hutu teacher,<sup>4773</sup> stated that on 26 or 27 April 1994 approximately 500 Tutsis, from Mutunda Hill and other hills, gathered at Mutunda Stadium where they were attacked by Hutus from Huye commune.<sup>4774</sup> He could not be very sure of the precise date.<sup>4775</sup> Witness LHC testified that Mutunda Stadium was located on Mutunda Hill; some called it Mbazi Stadium as it was in Mbazi commune.<sup>4776</sup> The attack started at about 3.00 to 3.30 p.m. and ended at nightfall, around 6.00 to 6.30 p.m.<sup>4777</sup> Witness LHC was on the other side, opposite the Mutunda Stadium watching what was happening on Mutunda Hill.<sup>4778</sup> It appeared that the attack came from Huye commune.<sup>4779</sup> Of the small group of people who were in the stadium, some were armed with clubs and machetes.<sup>4780</sup>

1869. When it was put to Witness LHC that from his house, across another hill he could not see people meeting in the stadium, Witness LHC testified that he could see the stadium since there was no other hill between Mutunda Hill and the hill where he lived.<sup>4781</sup> When it was put to Witness LHC that Mbazi Stadium was surrounded by trees, Witness LHC disagreed.<sup>4782</sup>

When Witness LHC was shown Prosecution Exhibit 40 (videotape of Mbazi Stadium), he agreed that there were old trees at 11:22 of the video that would have existed in 1994.<sup>4783</sup>

1870. Witness LHC did not know of any instructions issued by the bourgmestre to assemble the local Tutsi population in the stadium.<sup>4784</sup> Witness LHC did not hear any beating of drums on the eve or on the day of the clash in Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4785</sup> Witness LHC testified that on the eve of the confrontation at Mutunda Stadium, he had not seen Nyiramasuhuko or the bourgmestre of Mbazi commune, Antoine Sibomana, at Byiza, an area adjacent to the stadium.<sup>4786</sup>

1871. He stated that no one in military uniform took part in the attack, which was undertaken only by people in civilian clothing.<sup>4787</sup> The day after the confrontation, Witness LHC saw dead bodies at the stadium.<sup>4788</sup> He subsequently heard that people had gone out to collect the dead bodies.<sup>4789</sup> Witness LHC did not see Nyiramasuhuko walking among the bodies the day after the confrontation.<sup>4790</sup>

Innocent Rutayisire

1872. Innocent Rutayisire, a Hutu trader,<sup>4791</sup> testified that between 15 and 17 April 1994 Bourgmestre Sibomana asked both Hutu and Tutsi members of the population to defend the commune's border in order to repel attacks from Hutus from Maraba commune who wanted to cause insecurity in their commune.<sup>4792</sup>

1873. Between 21 and 25 April 1994, massacres started from Ndumyaga and Maraba in Mbazi commune, specifically at the Mbazi Stadium which was called Mutunda, located approximately five kilometres from the witness' house.<sup>4793</sup> They woke up in the morning to the explosion of grenades. They were later told by youth who had gone to the stadium that Gatwaza and soldiers of Ngoma camp had killed the Tutsis at the stadium. Those Tutsis were from various secteurs of Mbazi commune and had sought the protection of the bourgmestre.<sup>4794</sup> Gatwaza was a corporal who was working at Ngoma camp and lived in Gahenerezo, at the border between Ngoma and Huye communes.<sup>4795</sup>

1874. Rutayisire testified that he did not learn about a meeting which allegedly took place at the Mutunda Stadium between Nsabimana, Nyiramasuhuko and Sibomana.<sup>4796</sup> In the period 19 April to 1 May 1994 Rutayisire did not leave his commune because of ongoing killings.<sup>4797</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko

1875. Nyiramasuhuko testified that she never went to Byiza, close to Mutunda Stadium in Mbazi, and never had a meeting with Nsabimana, Gérard Hategekimana, François Sinzabakwira and Antoine Sibomana to discuss the killing of Tutsi refugees at Mutunda Stadium or elsewhere. She never went to Mutunda Stadium where refugees were killed or walked over the bodies of the victims in April 1994.<sup>4798</sup>

Nsabimana

1876. Nsabimana testified that from 6 April until 19 April 1994 he was at his home in Mbazi commune and did not leave his house until the morning of 19 April 1994 when he went to Butare which was about two kilometres away.<sup>4799</sup> Nsabimana testified that on 20 or 21 April 1994, while on his way to the commune office, he saw a lot of people running towards Mutunda Stadium although at that time no people were gathered at the stadium.<sup>4800</sup>

1877. Nsabimana testified that he saw the Mbazi commune bourgmestre, Sibomana, on 26 April 1994 around 7.00 or 8.00 p.m., at a bar in Mbazi.<sup>4801</sup> He later testified that the meeting occurred on the evening of 25 April 1994.<sup>4802</sup> He initially met with Bourgmestre Sibomana to discuss the provision of beans. However, while at the bar the bourgmestre told Nsabimana that he had spent the whole day organising the burial of people who had been killed at Mutunda on 25 or 26 April 1994.<sup>4803</sup> The bourgmestre did not tell him where the killings occurred, but Nsabimana understood he was referring to killings around the stadium.<sup>4804</sup> According to Bourgmestre Sibomana, at 5.00 a.m. on the day of the attack, a vehicle came from Dihindamuyaga<sup>4805</sup> and stopped 800 metres from the stadium at a place called Ndobogo. People came to the stadium and started to launch grenades on the refugees there.<sup>4806</sup> The bourgmestre told Nsabimana that a soldier called Gatwaza was responsible for the attack at Mutunda Stadium, together with some people living in Mutunda centre in Mbazi commune.<sup>4807</sup>

The people in the stadium were refugees but he did not know why they had gathered there.<sup>4808</sup> He had no idea how many people were killed at the stadium.<sup>4809</sup>

1878. Nsabimana testified that he did not meet Bourgmestre Sibomana in Mbazi before these events, nor was there a meeting with Nyiramasuhuko, Sibomana and others around the stadium before the Mutunda killings.<sup>4810</sup>

1879. The Chamber notes that at the time of his testimony, Witness FAS was a detainee in Rwanda.<sup>4811</sup> He had been arrested on 15 February 1995 and released on 1 February 2003 pursuant to a decree of the President that those who had pled guilty and had served more than half their sentence should be freed.<sup>4812</sup> Pursuant to Rwandan law, Witness FAS spent three months in a solidarity camp and then went home on 5 May 2003.<sup>4813</sup> In December 2003, Witness FAS was re-arrested on the same charges, convicted and sentenced to 12 years in prison by a Rwandan court.<sup>4814</sup> In a judgement rendered by a Rwandan court on 4 December 2003, he was found guilty of the two killings committed in Cyayove cellule to which he had previously confessed but he was also convicted of killings to which he did not confess, including killings at Mutunda Stadium, looting and arson.<sup>4815</sup> Because of the fact that Witness FAS was detained again, this time by reason of his involvement in killings at Mutunda Stadium, the Chamber considers that he may have an incentive to implicate the Accused in order to diminish his own responsibility for the killings for which he was convicted. In fact, Witness FAS testified that he killed Tutsis because he was taught to.<sup>4816</sup> Therefore, his testimony will be treated with appropriate caution.

3.6.13.4.1 Meeting at Mutunda Stadium, Around 18 April 1994

1880. Witness FAS was the sole witness to testify about a meeting between Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana held just prior to the Mutunda Stadium killings. Witness FAS alleged that from his position outside the stadium fence, he listened to the authorities and heard Nyiramasuhuko, in the presence of Nteziryayo, Gérard Hategekimana and François Sinzabakwira, tell the bourgmestre of Mbazi commune, Antoine Sibomana, to “let the people kill these snakes, the Tutsi and all those who looked like Tutsi”.<sup>4817</sup> Witness FAS stated that he was four metres away from Nyiramasuhuko, at that time.<sup>4818</sup> In contrast to his testimony, in his previous statement of 21 February 2001 Witness FAS stated that he remained outside the stadium and heard nothing that might have been said by the authorities.<sup>4819</sup>

1881. Asked about this discrepancy, Witness FAS testified that at the time, he did not want to tell the Prosecution investigators that he had been present because he did not want “those people” to know that he had been with those officials.<sup>4820</sup> The Chamber does not consider this to be a plausible explanation. This discrepancy between his earlier statement and his testimony is significant enough to render his evidence on this specific event unreliable.

1882. In addition, the Chamber is not convinced by Witness FAS’ account that he allegedly met the listed personalities on the road at Byiza, not far from Mutunda Stadium,<sup>4821</sup> or that he followed them to Mutunda Stadium where he overheard their discussions.<sup>4822</sup> Witness FAS’ testimony in this regard was vague, lacking in detail and strikes the Chamber as implausible.

1883. Having regard therefore to the significant discrepancy concerning Witness FAS’ overhearing of discussions that occurred at Mutunda Stadium, in addition to his implausible account as to how he met the authorities in question, the Prosecution has, therefore, failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that inter alia, Nyiramasuhuko and Nsabimana met at Mutunda Stadium, Mbazi commune on or around 18 April 1994 and held a meeting which furthered the alleged conspiracy to exterminate Tutsis.

3.6.13.4.2 Killing of Tutsis at Mutunda Stadium, Around 25-27 April 1994

1884. The Chamber finds credible the testimonies of Witnesses FAS and WZNJC that around two weeks after the death of Habyarimana, unrest unfolded in Mbazi’s neighbouring communes, including Maraba.<sup>4823</sup> To ensure security within the commune, members of the population of Mbazi comprising Hutus, Tutsis and Twas, went to the border with Maraba to prevent assailants and wrongdoers [from Maraba] from entering Mbazi.<sup>4824</sup> The evidence also established that shortly after, Tutsis, mainly from Mbazi, went to settle at Mutunda Stadium in Mbazi commune.<sup>4825</sup> The presence of Tutsis at Mutunda Stadium was corroborated by Witness LHC.<sup>4826</sup>

1885. However, the evidence differs as to the number of Tutsis who gathered at the stadium. Witness FAS mentioned about 3,000 individuals, whereas Witnesses WZNJC and LHC estimated that there were around 500 people.<sup>4827</sup>

1886. The Chamber accepts that Witness FAS was present during the attacks and had first-hand knowledge of the event given that Witness FAS was convicted based upon his participation in the killings at Mutunda Stadium. Further, Defence witnesses corroborated aspects of Witness FAS' testimony about events at Mutunda Stadium. For example, Witness FAS' sighting of Gatwaza at Mutunda Stadium was corroborated by both Nsabimana's and Rutayisire's hearsay testimony claiming that a soldier by the name of Gatwaza was responsible for the attack at Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4828</sup> The Chamber thus accepts that Witness FAS was present at the stadium and for this reason finds his estimate that there were 3,000 Tutsis at the stadium credible. In contrast, both Witnesses WZNJC and LHC based their estimates on what they observed from a certain distance from Mutunda Stadium.<sup>4829</sup>

1887. Based on the evidence of Witnesses FAS, WZNJC, LHC and Nsabimana, it is not disputed that Tutsis who gathered at Mutunda Stadium were attacked in April 1994, resulting in the deaths of some members of the group.<sup>4830</sup> However, there is a discrepancy in respect of when the event occurred. While Witness FAS admitted he placed this event on 19 April 1994 in his written statement, he testified that these dates were estimates and he could not be sure whether his encounter with the authorities occurred on 18 or 19 April 1994.<sup>4831</sup> He also was not sure if the killings actually occurred on 25 April 1994, although he later testified that it would not be right to say that the killings occurred on 25 April 1994.<sup>4832</sup>

1888. While Witness WZNJC could not remember the dates of the events in question,<sup>4833</sup> a review of the timeline of events he recounted in his testimony makes clear that the Mutunda attacks occurred after the general unrest in the commune<sup>4834</sup> which he estimated occurred two weeks after the death of President Habyarimana.<sup>4835</sup> Thus, according to Witness WZNJC, the Mutunda attacks occurred some time after 18 April 1994. According to Rutayisire, massacres started in Mbazi commune and specifically at Mutunda Stadium between 21 and 25 April 1994,<sup>4836</sup> whereas Witnesses LHC and Nsabimana place it around 25 to 27 April 1994.<sup>4837</sup> In view of the corroborated evidence of Witnesses LHC, WZNJC, Rutayisire and Nsabimana, the Chamber considers that the killings of Tutsis at Mutunda Stadium occurred on or around 25-27 April 1994. In any case, the Chamber accepts Witness FAS' explanation that the date of 19 April 1994 that he put forward as the time of the killing of Tutsis at Mutunda Stadium was only an estimate and that the actual time frame of this attack is around 25 to 27 April 1994.<sup>4838</sup>

1889. With regard to Nyiramasuhuko's alleged presence during the killings, the Chamber notes that Witness FAS is the sole witness to claim to have seen Nyiramasuhuko at Mutunda Stadium on the evening of the attack. Witness FAS testified that at that time, Nyiramasuhuko was in the company of certain persons, including a soldier called Gatwaza, and that Nyiramasuhuko was moving among the dead bodies.<sup>4839</sup> Nyiramasuhuko denied her presence.<sup>4840</sup>

1890. The Chamber recalls the discrepancy between Witness FAS' testimony and his written statement concerning Nyiramasuhuko's presence. In his written statement Witness FAS stated that he saw Nyiramasuhuko at Mutunda Stadium when he went there on the morning of 19 April 1994 at which time she was walking among the refugees. At trial, Witness FAS testified that he did not see Nyiramasuhuko or any commune police at the stadium when he went in the morning.<sup>4841</sup> Rather, he saw Nyiramasuhuko, together with gendarmes, commune policemen and a soldier called Gatwaza from Gahenerezo when he returned to the stadium in the afternoon or evening of 19 April 1994.<sup>4842</sup> At that time, Nyiramasuhuko was moving among the dead bodies and she said something that Witness FAS could not hear given the distance between the authorities and Witness FAS himself.<sup>4843</sup>

1891. When this discrepancy was put to the witness, Witness FAS testified that he did not specify whether he saw Nyiramasuhuko at Mutunda Stadium in the morning or afternoon.<sup>4844</sup> The Chamber rejects this explanation considering it is clearly contradictory to the testimony just cited.

1892. Accordingly, notwithstanding the Chamber's view that the attack at Mutunda Stadium occurred and that Witness FAS was present at the stadium during the attack, the Chamber is of the opinion that Witness FAS' contradictory and uncorroborated evidence as to Nyiramasuhuko's presence is not sufficiently reliable to ground a finding of fact beyond a reasonable doubt. As such, it is not established beyond a reasonable doubt that Nyiramasuhuko was present at Mutunda Stadium on the evening of the attack.

1893. As concerns Nsabimana, Witness FAS never testified that Nsabimana was present during the killings at Mutunda Stadium. In fact, he testified that he was not accusing Nsabimana of incitement to kill, he was only testifying that Nsabimana was present with Nyiramasuhuko during the meeting at Byiza.<sup>4845</sup> Given that the Prosecution did not charge

3.6.14 Meetings After Security Committee Press Release, 26-28 April 1994

1894. The Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment and the Kanyabashi Indictment allege that from late 1990 to July 1994, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi conspired with others to devise a plan to exterminate the civilian Tutsi population and members of the opposition. Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, together with others, allegedly adhered to and executed this plan and in doing so, organised, ordered and participated in massacres against Tutsis and moderate Hutus.<sup>4846</sup> The Nsabimana Indictment alleges that Nsabimana took part in meetings with his bourgmestres, including at least one convened by Nyiramasuhuko in April 1994, during which the progress of the massacres was discussed as well as the means by which to complete them.<sup>4847</sup> The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that Kanyabashi held a meeting in Ngoma Parish in late April 1994 during which he gave assurances that the massacres were over. Tutsis who were fleeing the killings sought refuge in Ngoma Parish Church and were later killed.<sup>4848</sup>

1895. The Prosecution submits that Nsabimana participated in numerous meetings in Butare préfecture during which decisions were made to further the extermination of Tutsis. Nsabimana's role in the conspiracy to commit genocide was, inter alia, to convene and attend meetings to give effect to the plan. The Prosecution argues that Nsabimana reached an agreement with his co-conspirators to kill Tutsis in Butare.<sup>4849</sup> It submits that one aspect of Nsabimana's meeting activities involved implementing the Interim Government's campaign of pacification or restoring security.<sup>4850</sup> In this connection, the Prosecution points to a press release dated 25 April 1994 addressed to the inhabitants of Ngoma commune in which Nsabimana ordered security meetings to be held at Huye Stadium on 26 April 1994 for the inhabitants of Butare-ville secteur; at Ngoma Parish football field on 27 April 1994 for the inhabitants of Ngoma and Matyazo secteurs; and in Rango on 28 April 1994 for the inhabitants of Cyarwa, Nkubi and Sahera secteurs.<sup>4851</sup> The Prosecution claims that these meetings demonstrate that Nsabimana was aware of the killings of Tutsis in Butare préfecture. Nsabimana and Kanyabashi organised the meeting of 27 April 1994 at the Ngoma Parish football field where the attendees were informed that residents would be expected to participate in patrolling and guarding roadblocks.<sup>4852</sup> Another meeting was alleged to have taken place on 27 April 1994, during which President Sindikubwabo told the préfecture Security Committee to bring the killings under greater control.<sup>4853</sup> The Prosecution contends that the aim of the press release issued after that meeting on 27 April 1994 was not to restore security but rather to involve as many people as possible in the killing of Tutsis.<sup>4854</sup>

1896. The Prosecution also submits that Kanyabashi's role in the genocide conspiracy was, inter alia, to attend meetings, give instructions to kill Tutsis in hiding and use his position and power to incite the population to join in the killings.<sup>4855</sup>

1897. In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges and Witnesses RL and QA.<sup>4856</sup> Ntahobali also gave evidence against Kanyabashi and Nsabimana.

1898. In addition to its submissions on vagueness of Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment, considered below, the Nsabimana Defence challenges the reliability of Alison Des Forges, contending that the press release dated 25 April 1994 was an initiative of the préfet of Butare to control the massacres and was not an instrument to implement directives of the Interim Government.<sup>4857</sup> According to the Nsabimana Defence, the aim of the meetings of 26, 27 and 28 April 1994 was to condemn the killings and appeal for calm.<sup>4858</sup> Furthermore, it asserts the press release dated 27 April 1994 made no distinction between Hutus and Tutsis and therefore could not be interpreted as encouraging the killing of Tutsis; on the contrary, its aim was to stop attacks on Tutsis.<sup>4859</sup>

1899. In addition to its submissions on the vagueness of the Kanyabashi Indictment, considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that the Prosecution has failed to prove that meetings to plan the genocide took place or that Kanyabashi participated in any conspiracy.<sup>4860</sup> It asserts that Kanyabashi's character was such that he would not have involved himself in the planning of genocide.<sup>4861</sup>

1900. In support of their submissions, the Nsabimana Defence and Kanyabashi Defence rely on Kanyabashi Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens, Nyiramasuhuko Expert Witness Eugène Shimamungu, Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-14-W, D-2-5-I and D-2-13-D, Nsabimana Defence Witnesses BE and Charles Karemano and Nsabimana.<sup>4862</sup>

1901. The Nsabimana Defence submits that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is impermissibly vague because it does not give an indication of the meeting dates, venues, attendees or the number of meetings. It also argues that Paragraph 6.28 does not clearly state whether the progress of the massacres and the means by which to complete them was discussed during all of the meetings, or only at the meeting or meetings convened by Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>4863</sup>

1902. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment alleges that Nsabimana participated in other meetings with his bourgmestres, including one meeting called by Nyiramasuhuko, where the progress and means to complete the massacres were discussed. The Chamber observes that this paragraph fails to indicate the number and dates of the alleged meetings, although it specifies that the participants at such meetings are said to have been bourgmestres. As regards the purpose of the meetings, a plain reading of Paragraph 6.28 suggests that the progress of the massacres and how to complete them was only discussed at a single meeting which was convened by Nyiramasuhuko. However, Paragraph 6.28 refers to meetings in the plural. Accordingly, there is confusion as to how many meetings Nsabimana participated in, how many were convened by Nyiramasuhuko and what was discussed at the meetings. The Chamber therefore considers that Paragraph 6.28 of the Nsabimana and Nteziryayo Indictment is defective. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraph 6.28 was cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

1903. Recalling the principles of notice previously articulated in this Judgement (), the Chamber observes: (1) In relation to the alleged meeting at Huye Stadium on 26 April 1994, no information was provided, either in the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or in witnesses' prior statements. The Chamber thus finds that Nsabimana was not put on notice of this specific allegation; (2) In relation to the alleged meeting at Ngoma football field on 27 April 1994, the Chamber notes that in the summary for Witness FAR included in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, it is alleged that on or about 20 April 1994, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi addressed a meeting at Ngoma football field, where Nsabimana spoke about erecting roadblocks and arming the population.<sup>4864</sup> Also the summary for Witness FAC makes reference, though more generally, to a meeting held in Ngoma commune on about 25 April 1994 and addressed by, inter alia, Nsabimana and Kanyabashi. During this meeting, Kanyabashi allegedly said that all the Tutsis who were hiding should come out because peace had been restored; however, as soon as they assembled at the secteur office, they were all killed.<sup>4865</sup> Witness FAC's previous statement of 23 February 2000 contains an account of a similar meeting, though it omits reference to the meeting's date or location.<sup>4866</sup> The Chamber notes that Witnesses FAR's and FAC's accounts on this issue are not entirely consistent; however, it takes into account the proximity in the dates and the location of the alleged meetings, and the consistency as to the identity of the alleged participants, and thus finds that Witness FAC's account is corroborative of Witness FAR's anticipated evidence on a meeting held at Ngoma football field. Also the summary of Witness RL's anticipated testimony refers to Kanyabashi addressing a crowd of Interahamwe around the end of April at Ngoma Church, thanking them for their work and urging them to look for and kill hidden Tutsis; however, it does not mention Nsabimana's presence at this event.<sup>4867</sup> The Chamber finds that combined information contained in Witnesses FAC's and FAR's summaries included in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief were sufficient to give adequate notice to Nsabimana about his alleged participation at a meeting held on or about 27 April at the Ngoma football field, and he was able to prepare his defence. Therefore, the defects in the Indictment are cured with respect to this specific allegation; and (3) In relation to the alleged meeting at Rango on 28 April 1994, no information was provided, either in the witness summary grid in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief or in witnesses' prior statements. The Chamber thus finds that Nsabimana was not put on notice of this specific allegation.

1904. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that besides the specific incidents mentioned in Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, this paragraph is too general and fails to inform the Accused of the acts he is alleged to have committed.<sup>4868</sup> The Chamber notes that Paragraph 6.45 describes the alleged actions attributed to Kanyabashi, i.e. that he encouraged and instructed people to search for Tutsis and exterminate them. It also specifies the persons to whom such encouragement or instructions were directed, i.e. soldiers, militiamen and members of the public. However, it fails to provide any details of specific incidents that took place at the end of April 1994, the location of such incidents, what was said and the impact of such statements. The Chamber therefore considers Paragraph 6.45 to be defective. The Chamber must then determine whether Paragraph 6.45 was cured of its defects through subsequent Prosecution disclosures.

1905. The Chamber observes that in the Appendix to the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief, Witness FAR was expected to testify as to a meeting in the latter half of April 1994, where Nsabimana and Kanyabashi addressed a crowd of 1,000 people at the Ngoma football field.<sup>4869</sup> Kanyabashi reportedly told the attendees to follow orders and not to confuse the enemy. In the same document, Witness QA's intended testimony included the allegation that Kanyabashi convened a meeting in Ngoma Parish during which he announced that the killings had stopped and that those in hiding had nothing to fear.<sup>4870</sup> The Chamber notes that Witness FAR's previous statement of 21 February 2001 is reasonably consistent with the summary of his expected testimony in the Appendix to the Pre-Trial Brief although he places the event as having occurred in May rather than April 1994.<sup>4871</sup> Similarly, Witness QA's previous statement of 14 May 1996 states that Kanyabashi convened a meeting at which he said that the killings had stopped and that those in hiding had nothing to fear. However, the witness contended that this meeting took place in May 1994.<sup>4872</sup>

1906. In light of the above, the Chamber considers that the Kanyabashi Defence received sufficient notice of the Prosecution's intention to lead evidence on a meeting at Ngoma Parish during which Kanyabashi addressed the crowd using words that, having regard to the Prosecution's overall case, could be regarded as inflammatory in Butare in 1994. Accordingly, the Chamber considers that the defects in Paragraph 6.45 of the Kanyabashi Indictment have been cured.

Prosecution Witness QA

1907. Witness QA, a Hutu former member of the PSD party, testified that at the end of May 1994, a meeting was held at the secteur office in the courtyard of Ngoma Parish.<sup>4873</sup> In cross-examination, he clarified that the meeting was held on the football pitch next to Ngoma Church.<sup>4874</sup> Approximately 1,200 people from Ngoma and Matyazo secteurs were present.<sup>4875</sup> Kanyabashi and Nsabimana were in attendance.<sup>4876</sup> The meeting had been convened by Kanyabashi, who was first to take the floor.<sup>4877</sup> Kanyabashi announced that the killings had stopped and that no one was entitled to kill; anyone who did kill would be shot.<sup>4878</sup> Nsabimana spoke next, confirmed what had been said by Kanyabashi and added that things had to continue as planned, as the President had announced.<sup>4879</sup> The witness claimed that the audience did not understand Nsabimana's message as it conflicted with that of Kanyabashi.<sup>4880</sup>

1908. Witness QA testified that after the meeting, he came to realise that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi's address had a special meaning; their intention was for those who attended the meeting to finish the job they had started and flush people out.<sup>4881</sup> Nsabimana's speech was not a recommendation to stop the killings but rather code for saying that the killings had stopped but that things should continue as planned.<sup>4882</sup> That night, people who had taken refuge in Ngoma Church, which was located about 10 metres away, were killed.<sup>4883</sup>

1909. When recalled to testify, Witness QA confirmed that he had made a statement before a Canadian Rogatory Committee concerning Nsabimana's address to the attendees of the meeting that took place at the end of May 1994 at the Ngoma Parish football pitch.<sup>4884</sup> The witness told the committee that Nsabimana said that the killings that had taken place at the Ngoma Parish were the last and if anyone else was to be arrested for killing, he himself would be shot.<sup>4885</sup> Nsabimana also urged those in hiding to come out.<sup>4886</sup> The witness admitted that on the request of two named individuals, he gave false testimony to the Chamber in 2004, in which he stated that Nsabimana had also told the meeting attendees to continue with the scheduled programme, as announced by the President.<sup>4887</sup> He stated that only a few aspects of his original testimony were true; most of his original testimony was a lie.<sup>4888</sup>

1910. Witness QA testified that he knew Nsabimana before the 1994 events as a member of his party, the PSD.<sup>4889</sup> He identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>4890</sup> He also testified that he knew Kanyabashi before 1994 and identified him in court.<sup>4891</sup>

Prosecution Witness RL

1911. Witness RL, a Tutsi who was 13 years old in 1994, testified that between two weeks and a half and three weeks after the death of the President, in April 1994, he fled to Ngoma Church.<sup>4892</sup> When he arrived, there were not many Tutsi refugees, although the number later increased.<sup>4893</sup> Five or six days after his arrival, at the beginning of May 1994, the refugees were attacked and killed by soldiers and the Interahamwe.<sup>4894</sup>

1912. Between five days and one week after the attack, Kanyabashi held a meeting in the church grounds which was attended by approximately 1,000 Interahamwe.<sup>4895</sup> Witness RL was inside the church when the meeting took place and observed events through ventilation holes in the concrete walls of the church.<sup>4896</sup> He did not hear everything that Kanyabashi said during his address.<sup>4897</sup> The witness was shown a photograph of the interior of Ngoma Church. On the photograph, he identified a ventilation space between the roof of the church and the top of the right-hand side exterior wall, from which he said he witnessed the meeting.<sup>4898</sup> He explained that he climbed up to his viewing position using the blocks that protruded from the wall near the back of the church.<sup>4899</sup> Kanyabashi used a megaphone to address the crowd and urged the Interahamwe and the conseiller to spread the news that peace had returned and that there would be no more killings.<sup>4900</sup> On another photograph of the area of ground adjacent to the church with the church in the background, the witness identified where Kanyabashi stood when he delivered his speech and where the witness had observed the events.<sup>4901</sup>

1913. On cross-examination, the witness stated that he did not see or hear a new préfet being introduced to the crowd during the meeting nor did he hear Kanyabashi say that people should stop killing each other and should live in harmony.<sup>4902</sup> He also said that he did not see any meetings near the church prior to the attack during which he was injured.<sup>4903</sup>

1914. Witness RL testified that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre before 1994, but he did not know his first name.<sup>4904</sup> The witness had seen Kanyabashi on several occasions before and after President Habyarimana's death.<sup>4905</sup> Before the President's death, he saw Kanyabashi at the stadium and the secteur office when he convened meetings, along the road whenever he received authorities from other areas, and driving a Peugeot 305.<sup>4906</sup> The witness identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>4907</sup> In cross-examination, the witness was confronted with the assertion that he may have mistaken Cyriaque Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi at the scene of a massacre at Ngoma Church.<sup>4908</sup> Moreover, counsel contended that the witness' description of Habyarabatuma matched that of Kanyabashi in 1994.<sup>4909</sup> In response, the witness stated that in 1994 Kanyabashi had white hair and was wearing a suit and he could not say anything else about his appearance.<sup>4910</sup> In re-examination, the witness acknowledged that he had seen Habyarabatuma prior to the 1994 events.<sup>4911</sup> Habyarabatuma's complexion was darker than Kanyabashi's and he had a large head.<sup>4912</sup> The witness testified that there is "no way" he would mistake Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi because he knew both of them.<sup>4913</sup> Even though he was still a child in 1994, Habyarabatuma and Kanyabashi held positions of authority – one used to come and hold meetings with the people and the other would be present whenever there was a search.<sup>4914</sup>

1915. Witness RL testified that he was not a member of any survivors' groups nor had he ever attended any trial in Rwanda concerning the events that occurred in Ngoma and Matyazo in 1994.<sup>4915</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

1916. Alison Des Forges testified that during a meeting of the Security Council on 23 April 1994, the Interim Government decided on its policy of pacification or restoration of security.<sup>4916</sup> This policy was officially communicated via the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 118B.<sup>4917</sup> She testified that in response, Nsabimana issued a press release to the inhabitants of Ngoma commune on 25 April 1994 in which he directed three meetings to take place at particular venues on specified dates.<sup>4918</sup> In cross-examination, Des Forges was questioned as to how the press release issued by Nsabimana on 25 April 1994 could implement the Government's subsequent instruction on pacification dated 27 April 1994.<sup>4919</sup> Des Forges explained that the press release of 25 April 1994 confirmed the earlier decision taken at the meeting of the Council of Ministers, on 23 April 1994, on the pacification policy.<sup>4920</sup> Des Forges responded that at the 23 April 1994 meeting, Nyiramasuhuko was assigned the responsibility of implementing the pacification campaign to Butare préfecture and she was often present there.<sup>4921</sup>

1917. Des Forges gave evidence on the minutes of a meeting held on 26 April 1994, which she obtained from the Butare préfecture office.<sup>4922</sup> She said that the meeting took place pursuant to the press release from Nsabimana of the previous day, and stated that it resulted in the detailed organisation of patrols and roadblocks in Butare-ville; the area was divided into zones and a person was assigned responsibility for each zone.<sup>4923</sup>

1918. On 27 April 1994, President Sindikubwabo came to Butare to check on the progress of the campaign to restore security.<sup>4924</sup> He held a meeting with the préfecture Security Committee at which he announced that the killings had to be brought under tighter control.<sup>4925</sup> This meeting resulted in Nsabimana issuing a message on the same day, aimed at restoring security in the communes of Butare.<sup>4926</sup> This message, containing five specific instructions directed at citizens, was admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 119B.<sup>4927</sup> Des Forges stated that the message also implemented the government's policy of pacification or restoring security.<sup>4928</sup> She interpreted the references to "restoring security" in that document as meaning eliminating the enemy threat, i.e. the Tutsis.<sup>4929</sup> With regard to the second instruction in the message, which stated that everyone must avoid harming others unless there was proof that they were an Inkotanyi accomplice, Des Forges opined that such proof was sometimes the identity card categorising the person as Tutsi.<sup>4930</sup> Des Forges considered that the message contained in

Prosecution Exhibit 119B was an illustration of how national policy was being transmitted by the préfets to the communes.<sup>4931</sup>

1919. In her Report, Des Forges referred to a meeting that took place on 27 April 1994 on the football field next to Ngoma Church. Nearly 500 people who had survived the massacre at Matyazo Clinic or who had been forced to flee were sheltering in the church at the time. Two days later at 10.00 p.m. on 29 April 1994, militia and civilians attacked the church but those inside defended themselves with stones and prevented the attackers from entering. At around 10.00 a.m. the next morning, 22 soldiers arrived at the church and assured the crowd sheltering inside that they would not be killed but would instead be taken to prison. However, the military commander ordered civilians to kill those who had sought refuge in the church. Some victims were taken to be killed in the nearby woods.<sup>4932</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness BE

1920. Witness BE, a Rango resident of unspecified ethnicity who was a member of the clergy in 1994, testified that on 28 or 29 April 1994 at around 5.00 p.m., he saw between 80 and 100 people assembled close to Rango primary school.<sup>4933</sup> The witness saw the préfet addressing the crowd using a megaphone.<sup>4934</sup> He also recognised the conseiller of Nkubi secteur, Augustin Kanyawabahizi.<sup>4935</sup> He learned that the speaker was the préfet because towards the end of the meeting, people said that the préfet had spoken.<sup>4936</sup> The préfet encouraged the attendees to be patient and calm, and urged them “not to engage in acts of violence against others or attack their neighbours’ property.”<sup>4937</sup> The witness stated that he stayed until the end of the meeting and that no other speakers took the floor after the préfet.<sup>4938</sup> He did not notice any hostility towards the préfet.<sup>4939</sup> The following day, the witness perceived that the atmosphere had changed. People left their homes and the witness resumed his duties.<sup>4940</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Charles Karemano

1921. Charles Karemano, a Hutu and secretary of the PSD party in 1994, testified that he attended a meeting at the Rango secteur office around 28 April 1994. He arrived before Nsabimana, but could not recall at what time.<sup>4941</sup> There were approximately 100 people there. Nsabimana did not speak for long and urged the attendees to try to live in harmony again and to go back to work.<sup>4942</sup> The witness could not recall seeing Kanyabashi at the meeting.<sup>4943</sup>

1922. Nsabimana identified Prosecution Exhibit 117C as the press release addressed to the population of Ngoma urban commune on 25 April 1994, signed by him in his capacity as chairman of the Butare préfecture Security Committee.<sup>4944</sup> The aim of this press release was to provide information on meetings that would take place in order to ask the population to remain calm.<sup>4945</sup> The press release was given to Kanyabashi who, as bourgmestre, took the necessary action to communicate its contents to the population.<sup>4946</sup>

1923. Nsabimana testified that the first meeting mentioned in the press release took place on 26 April 1994 at Huye Stadium in Butare-ville secteur, at 3.00 p.m. rather than 2.00 p.m., as specified in the press release.<sup>4947</sup> Not many people attended; the covered part of the stadium's stands were one third or half full and the attendees were concentrated in the centre part of the stands.<sup>4948</sup> Kanyabashi was already at the stadium when Nsabimana arrived.<sup>4949</sup> Nsabimana could not recall whether the other members of the Butare préfecture Security Committee were present.<sup>4950</sup> Kanyabashi introduced Nsabimana to the crowd and gave him the floor.<sup>4951</sup> Nsabimana stood facing the crowd with the football pitch to his back at a distance of two or three metres from the first row of the stands and addressed the crowd with a megaphone.<sup>4952</sup> He read the contents of the 25 April 1994 press release to the crowd and told them that what had happened was not human and that there had to be a return to order and security.<sup>4953</sup> He recalled that in April 1994, there had been killings and lootings over which they had no control; they therefore tried to take measures to stop such events.<sup>4954</sup> Nsabimana testified that the attendees asked questions about patrols and some indicated that they did not want to carry out patrols at night and wanted to be accompanied by soldiers.<sup>4955</sup> Nsabimana stated that he had no solution to propose to such issues.<sup>4956</sup> When Nsabimana left after approximately one hour, the crowd was still discussing the issues raised during the question session.<sup>4957</sup> No one took notes at this meeting.<sup>4958</sup>

1924. Around noon the following day, 27 April 1994, Nsabimana attended a meeting of the Security Council which was chaired by President Sindikubwabo at the latter's residence in Ngoma commune, Butare préfecture.<sup>4959</sup> The other attendees were Kanyabashi, Sous-préfet

Hakizamungu, Colonel Muvunyi, Vice-Rector Nshimumuremyi, Public Prosecutor Bushishi, Halindintwari of the intelligence services, and the President of the Court of First Instance, Ruzindaza.<sup>4960</sup> The President raised a number of issues at the meeting including why the killings were still ongoing in Butare and why his message had not been properly communicated.<sup>4961</sup> None of the attendees were able to answer the President's questions.<sup>4962</sup> After addressing the Council for about one hour, the President left and Nsabimana took over the chair. The attendees then discussed the unanswered questions the President had raised.<sup>4963</sup> They wanted to inform the population of the President's concerns and show them that the issues raised by the President were of concern to the Security Council; they therefore issued a communiqué to that effect, signed by Nsabimana and stating, in part, that "[t]he looting and massacres must cease immediately and the attackers who are armed with all sorts of weapons but who are not assigned to man any roadblock recognised by the authorities, must stop their activities."<sup>4964</sup> Nsabimana testified that no part of the communiqué incited the public to engage in killings.<sup>4965</sup> The Security Council also wanted to issue a second message to the people of Butare through the bourgmestres.<sup>4966</sup> Nsabimana identified Prosecution Exhibit 119B as that message.<sup>4967</sup>

1925. The second meeting mentioned in the press release of 25 April 1994 took place at the Ngoma Parish football field on 27 April 1994, around 2.00 p.m., after the Security Council meeting.<sup>4968</sup> Nsabimana testified that Kanyabashi was already at the meeting when he arrived although he could not recall if others were present.<sup>4969</sup> Nsabimana read the press release of 25 April 1994 to the crowd and told them that if there were any more killings, the perpetrators would be shot. He then left without taking questions from the floor.<sup>4970</sup>

1926. The third meeting referred to in the press release of 25 April 1994 took place in the centre of Rango on 28 April 1994 at 3.00 p.m.<sup>4971</sup> Kanyabashi was already present when Nsabimana arrived and he introduced the new préfet to the crowd.<sup>4972</sup> Nsabimana read the contents of the press release of 25 April 1994 to the crowd and asked them to restore order.<sup>4973</sup>

He could not recall whether Kanyabashi spoke at the meeting aside from introducing Nsabimana to the attendees.<sup>4974</sup> The meeting ended after 5.00 p.m.<sup>4975</sup>

1927. Nsabimana testified that he received the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security of 27 April 1994 after that date.<sup>4976</sup> The communiqué that was issued as a result of the security meeting of 27 April 1994, and the message aimed at restoring security issued by Nsabimana, were therefore drafted without knowledge of the Prime Minister's instructions issued on the same day and accordingly did not implement those instructions.<sup>4977</sup> Had he been aware of the Prime Minister's instructions on restoring security, Nsabimana testified he would have reflected them in the messages he issued on 27 April 1994.<sup>4978</sup>

Nyiramasuhuko Expert Witness Eugène Shimamungu

1928. Eugène Shimamungu expressed the view that Prosecution Exhibit 119B (Nsabimana's Message of Pacification to the Communes of Butare Préfecture, 27 April 1994) implemented the directives on restoring security, issued on the same day by the Prime Minister.<sup>4979</sup> The witness testified that the second instruction in Prosecution Exhibit 119B, which required a person not to be harmed unless there is proof that they are Inkotanyi, drew a distinction between Tutsis and the Inkotanyi so that only the latter were targeted.<sup>4980</sup> This instruction highlighted the importance that the authorities attached to the distinction between Inkotanyi and Tutsis.<sup>4981</sup> Shimamungu stated that the third instruction, which ordered citizens to avoid all forms of disturbances and looting, was addressed to all citizens regardless of ethnic group.<sup>4982</sup> The fourth instruction, which underlined the need to organise patrols and establish roadblocks, reflected the authorities' concern over the setting up of unauthorised roadblocks.<sup>4983</sup> The fifth instruction, which required those who were suspected of collusion with the Inkotanyi to be brought before the commune authorities, did not, in the witness' view, authorise killings.<sup>4984</sup> The witness opined that the objective of the message was to protect all Rwandans, regardless of ethnicity, because all ethnic groups were vulnerable to the chaos, Tutsis and Hutus alike. Nsabimana, who authored Prosecution Exhibit 119B, must have fully understood the Prime Minister's Directive on pacification contained in Prosecution Exhibit 118B.<sup>4985</sup>

1929. Witness D-2-14-W, a Hutu teacher who lived in Ngoma commune,<sup>4986</sup> Butare préfecture, in 1994, testified that he attended a meeting at Huye Stadium on 25 or 26 April 1994.<sup>4987</sup> The meeting started at 2.00 p.m. and lasted approximately two hours.<sup>4988</sup> The killings in Butare had started before that date.<sup>4989</sup> The witness arrived at the meeting three or four minutes after it had started and stayed until the end.<sup>4990</sup> There were between 200 and 300 persons present, none of whom were Tutsis.<sup>4991</sup>

1930. Kanyabashi introduced the newly appointed préfet of Butare, Nsabimana, to the public and at the same time condemned the killings that had occurred in Kabakobwa, Butare town, Buye and Matyazo and said that the perpetrators of those killings had to be punished.<sup>4992</sup> Thereafter, Nsabimana also took the floor and said that there was a need to ensure security which had to be discussed with the military authorities. Nsabimana also condemned the violence and killings in Butare.<sup>4993</sup> The speakers stood while they addressed the crowd and did not use a public address system or a megaphone.<sup>4994</sup> The organisation of night patrols and the erection of roadblocks were not discussed during the meeting.<sup>4995</sup> The witness stated that he did not see any other authorities at the meeting apart from Nsabimana and Kanyabashi, who were guarded by two gendarmes and a policeman, respectively.<sup>4996</sup> He knew Bernard Mutwewengabo, a university lecturer, but did not see him during the meeting. He did not see anyone who took notes during that meeting. The witness left the meeting after Kanyabashi and Nsabimana had left.<sup>4997</sup> Witness D-2-14-W knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of his commune, Ngoma, and identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>4998</sup>

1931. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu, testified that he attended a meeting on 27 April 1994 on the football field adjacent to Ngoma Church.<sup>4999</sup> The meeting was attended by Kanyabashi, Nsabimana, the commander of Ngoma camp, conseillers and approximately 200 members of the public from Matyazo and Ngoma secteurs.<sup>5000</sup> The authorities sat in chairs facing the public, some of whom were sitting on the ground while others stood.<sup>5001</sup> The meeting was convened to discuss security issues in view of the killings that had been taking place.<sup>5002</sup> Kanyabashi took the floor first, followed by Nsabimana and the commander of Ngoma camp. The speakers used a microphone or a megaphone. The commander of Ngoma camp promised to do everything possible to restore security in the area.<sup>5003</sup> Kanyabashi and Nsabimana said that they would cooperate with the military commander but did not specify how they planned to restore security.<sup>5004</sup> They also urged the population to remain united and forbade them from participating in the killings.<sup>5005</sup> The witness interpreted this as meaning that the authorities would prosecute anyone who took part in the killings.<sup>5006</sup> Witness D-2-5-I testified that Kanyabashi had been bourgmestre of Ngoma commune since the witness was a child.<sup>5007</sup> He identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>5008</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-13-D

1932. Witness D-2-13-D, a Hutu who owned a mill in Rango, testified that he attended a meeting in the last week of April 1994 at Rango. He arrived after the meeting had started; Kanyabashi and Préfet Nsabimana were already present.<sup>5009</sup> Kanyabashi announced that he had come to introduce the new préfet.<sup>5010</sup> Kanyabashi ordered the attendees to put an end to the assaults and killings.<sup>5011</sup> He stated that those who had committed such crimes would be punished and urged the assembled members of the public to return to normality.<sup>5012</sup> No one else took the floor after Kanyabashi.<sup>5013</sup> The witness did not inquire as to whether, before he arrived at the meeting, anyone spoke before Kanyabashi.<sup>5014</sup> He did not know whether Conseiller Kanyawabahizi attended the second meeting.<sup>5015</sup> The witness testified that he had known Kanyabashi since 1974 or 1976.<sup>5016</sup> He identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>5017</sup>

Kanyabashi Expert Witness Filip Reyntjens

1933. In his Expert Report, Filip Reyntjens referred to the minutes of the meeting among the inhabitants of Butare-ville, held on 26 April 1994.<sup>5018</sup> The third paragraph of those minutes stated that due to pressing business elsewhere, Kanyabashi, who was to have chaired the meeting, left and delegated his powers to Mutwewengabo, a university lecturer, and

Nzitabakuze.<sup>5019</sup> Reyntjens opined that this was an example of an attempt by Kanyabashi to distance himself from the killings and recalled that he had done the same thing, i.e. delegate his powers to Mutwewengabo, in a meeting of 7 June 1994.<sup>5020</sup> In the witness' view, it was impossible for Kanyabashi to oppose the genocide openly; he therefore refrained from engaging in activities related to the genocide.<sup>5021</sup> According to the witness, if Kanyabashi had been actively involved in the genocide, Kanyabashi would have chaired such meetings himself.<sup>5022</sup>

1934. Reyntjens also considered it probable that Kanyabashi was not present at the meeting.<sup>5023</sup> However, he acknowledged that page four of the minutes records the fact that Kanyabashi entered the meeting and, after giving security instructions and his opinion on some of the issues raised, he left. The witness stated that it was unclear whether or not Kanyabashi had been present at the meeting.<sup>5024</sup>

1935. Reyntjens considered it unlikely that Prosecution Exhibit 119B (Nsabimana's Message of Pacification to the Communes of Butare Préfecture, 27 April 1994) put in place, in a general way, the instructions contained in Prosecution Exhibit 118B (Prime Minister Kambanda's instructions to restore security in the country, 27 April 1994) of the same date, unless the instructions were broadcast by radio.<sup>5025</sup> He testified that Prosecution Exhibit 119B seemed to strengthen the content of Prosecution Exhibit 117C (Press Release to the inhabitants of Ngoma Urban commune, 25 April 1994). With regard to the content of the second instruction in Prosecution Exhibit 119B—which stated that everyone must avoid harming others unless there is proof that they are an Inkotanyi accomplice—the witness declined to comment specifically on Nsabimana's choice of words. However, he did say that if Nsabimana had used double-speak, the references to accomplices and Inkotanyi could possibly be taken to mean Tutsis.<sup>5026</sup> The witness was also questioned on the fifth instruction, which states that anyone suspected of colluding with the Inkotanyi or caught looting must be brought before the commune authorities. He considered that anyone involved in such acts would have been killed on the spot rather than brought to the commune office.<sup>5027</sup>

Ntahobali

1936. Ntahobali testified that he attended a meeting at Huye Stadium on 26 April 1994.<sup>5028</sup> The authorities who attended the meeting included Nsabimana, military officials, representatives of the gendarmerie and Kanyabashi who chaired the meeting.<sup>5029</sup> The meeting started at around 3.00 p.m. and ended at 6.00 p.m.<sup>5030</sup> There were between 500 and 800 people present.<sup>5031</sup> Ntahobali testified that Bernard Mutwewengabo, a university lecturer, was appointed to chair part of the meeting with the assistance of Jean-Bosco Nzitabakuze when Kanyabashi left to attend to other matters.<sup>5032</sup> Mutwewengabo was in charge of the minutes of the meeting.<sup>5033</sup> Ntahobali stated that Mutwewengabo dropped his notes during the meeting and Ntahobali picked them up and returned them.<sup>5034</sup> Ntahobali testified that he was acquainted with Mutwewengabo's handwriting even before the meeting of 26 April 1994.<sup>5035</sup> The minutes of the meeting were tendered by the Ntahobali Defence as evidence and admitted as Defence Exhibit 406C.<sup>5036</sup>

1937. Ntahobali sat in the middle of the stadium's covered stand, five metres away from the authorities.<sup>5037</sup> A megaphone was used during the meeting and it was handed around the attendees to enable them to take the floor.<sup>5038</sup> The aim of the meeting was to restore security and the issues discussed included erecting roadblocks and organising patrols.<sup>5039</sup> Ntahobali testified that authorities told the attendees that acts of violence had been perpetrated by thugs who were working for the enemy.<sup>5040</sup> They were requested to check the identity of people passing through roadblocks and during night patrols, to ask about their movements. Suspects were to be taken to the authorities, i.e. the cellule officer, conseiller, bourgmestre or judicial authorities.<sup>5041</sup> Kanyabashi took the floor three times: to give a speech and introduce Nsabimana; to introduce Muvunyi; and to speak again when the other authorities including Nsabimana had left.<sup>5042</sup> During one of his interventions, Kanyabashi stated that he would consider the issue of weapons training for the inhabitants.<sup>5043</sup> Nsabimana's speech lasted between five and 10 minutes, during which he talked about security and stated that the authorities were seeking ways to restore security.<sup>5044</sup>

3.6.14.4.1 Implementation of the Interim Government's "Pacification" Policy Through the Issuance of Press Releases, 25 and 27 April 1994

1938. The Prosecution argues that Prosecution Exhibits 117C (Press Release to the inhabitants of Ngoma Urban commune, 25 April 1994) and 119B (Nsabimana's Message of Pacification to the Communes of Butare Préfecture, 27 April 1994) were issued by Nsabimana in implementation of the Interim Government's national policy on pacification.<sup>5045</sup> It also contends that “pacification” was a policy of covertly continuing the genocide of Tutsis. The Chamber notes that Prosecution Exhibit 118B, the Prime Minister’s Directive on restoring security of 27 April 1994, was the official manifestation of that policy.<sup>5046</sup> 1939. In this regard, the Chamber recalls its findings on Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment. The Chamber found that the intention behind the Interim Government’s directives and instructions, including Prosecution Exhibit 118B, was to encourage the population to hunt down and take action against the enemy and its accomplices, terms which referred to Tutsis in general ().

1940. Des Forges testified that Prosecution Exhibit 117C, in which Nsabimana ordered the holding of security meetings and the opening of shops and markets, implemented the Interim Government’s policy of pacification.<sup>5047</sup> Des Forges asserted that even though Nsabimana’s press release of 25 April 1994 pre-dated the Prime Minister’s official Directive on restoring security issued on 27 April 1994, the former was a confirmation of the original decision on restoring security, which was taken by the Council of Ministers on 23 April 1994.<sup>5048</sup>

1941. Des Forges further explained the discrepancy between the dates by referring to Nyiramasuhuko’s appointment as the person in charge of implementing the pacification campaign in Butare.<sup>5049</sup> Des Forges seemed to suggest that Nyiramasuhuko, as the person responsible for pacification in Butare, transmitted the 23 April 1994 decision on restoring security to Nsabimana, who thereafter issued the press release of 25 April 1994.<sup>5050</sup>

1942. The Chamber again recalls its previous deliberations on Paragraph 6.14 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment in the “Cabinet Meetings” section of this Judgement (). Paragraph 6.14 alleges, inter alia, that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for pacification in Butare. In that section, the Chamber found that notwithstanding the evidence that Nyiramasuhuko attended Cabinet meetings at which the pacification programme was drawn up, the Prosecution had not established that Nyiramasuhuko was assigned responsibility for what was termed “pacification” in Butare, as alleged in Paragraph 6.14 ().

1943. The Chamber notes that no other evidence was adduced to show how the decision on restoring security or pacification of 23 April 1994 was transmitted to Nsabimana. As a consequence, the Chamber does not consider that the Prosecution has established that Nsabimana’s press release of 25 April 1994, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 117C, implemented the Interim Government’s national policy on pacification as enshrined in the Prime Minister’s Directive on restoring security of 27 April 1994, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 118B.<sup>5051</sup>

1944. Des Forges further testified that a Security Council meeting was held on 27 April 1994, at which the President announced that the killings had to be brought under tighter control.<sup>5052</sup>

Des Forges stated that this meeting resulted in Nsabimana, who had been present at the meeting, issuing a message on the same day to the public, aimed at restoring security, which was admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 119B.<sup>5053</sup>

1945. Des Forges claimed that this message also implemented the Interim Government's policy of pacification, contained in Prosecution Exhibit 118B.<sup>5054</sup> In particular, she testified that the references to "restoring security" were a code for eliminating Tutsis.<sup>5055</sup> Shimamungu opined that Nsabimana's message contained in Prosecution Exhibit 119B did implement the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security, although he did not consider that the message could be interpreted as targeting Tutsis.<sup>5056</sup> Expert Witness Reyntjens considered it unlikely that Prosecution Exhibit 119B implemented the national policy on pacification, i.e. the Prime Minister's instructions on restoring security, unless it was broadcast by radio.<sup>5057</sup> Nsabimana testified that during the Security Council meeting of 27 April 1994, the President delivered a monologue and asked why the killings were continuing in Butare.<sup>5058</sup> After the President had left, Nsabimana issued a message to the people of Butare through the bourgmestres.<sup>5059</sup> Nsabimana stated that although the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security was dated 27 April 1994, the same day as the Security Council meeting, he did not receive the Directive until after that date.<sup>5060</sup> His message to the people of Butare was therefore drafted and issued without knowledge of the Prime Minister's instructions and did not implement those instructions.<sup>5061</sup>

1946. The Chamber notes that only Des Forges testified that Nsabimana's message to the people of Butare of 27 April 1994 positively implemented the Interim Government's pacification policy. However, aside from Des Forges' assertion, the Prosecution presented no concrete evidence to establish that Nsabimana was aware of the Prime Minister's Directive of 27 April 1994 when he issued his message to the people of Butare on the same day. For instance, the Prosecution did not establish that Nsabimana physically received the Directive on 27 April 1994 or ought to have been aware of its contents via radio broadcast. Further, in relation to the President's announcement that the killings had to be brought under greater control, Des Forges explained that there was an effort by the authorities' channel to tighten control over the killing process. The doctrine of pacification or restoring security was a 1947. The Chamber further notes that no other evidence was presented as to what happened during the Security Council meeting of 27 April 1994 in order to indicate that the resulting message implemented government policy. Although Shimamungu agreed that Nsabimana's message implemented the Prime Minister's Directive, his point of departure is very different from Des Forges', in that he did not think that "restoration of security" could have a nefarious double-meaning.<sup>5063</sup> For these reasons, the Chamber does not consider it to have been established that the purpose of Nsabimana's message to the people of Butare on 27 April 1994, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 119B, was to implement the Interim Government's national policy on pacification.

3.6.14.4.2 Meetings in Butare, 26, 27 and 28 April 1994

1948. The Chamber notes that the Nsabimana and Kanyabashi Defences do not dispute that the three meetings listed in Prosecution Exhibit 117C took place or that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi were present.<sup>5064</sup> The issue before the Chamber is whether Nsabimana and Kanyabashi used these meetings as an instrument to implement the genocide plan, organise killings or incite the population to kill Tutsis.

1949. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution did not lead evidence on the meeting at Huye Stadium on 26 April 1994. Ntahobali, however, testified that he attended this meeting.<sup>5065</sup> He stated that during the meeting, Kanyabashi said he would consider weapons training for civilians.<sup>5066</sup> He also stated that the erection of roadblocks and night patrols were discussed.<sup>5067</sup> Ntahobali produced what he believed to be the minutes of that meeting, which the Chamber notes contain detailed information on the establishment and organisation of patrols in various cellules.<sup>5068</sup> Ntahobali was able to identify the minutes because he recognised the handwriting as belonging to Bernard Mutwewengabo, who was designated to take notes at the meeting.<sup>5069</sup> Ntahobali claims that during the meeting, Mutwewengabo dropped his notes and Ntahobali picked them up.<sup>5070</sup> Witness D-2-14-W's testimony conflicted with Ntahobali's account. He testified that Kanyabashi introduced Nsabimana, that both condemned the killings and stated that night patrols and roadblocks were not discussed.<sup>5071</sup> He also denied that Mutwewengabo was present.<sup>5072</sup> Nsabimana testified that after being introduced by Kanyabashi, he read the contents of the 25 April 1994 press release and condemned the killings.<sup>5073</sup> He denied that notes were taken during the meeting.<sup>5074</sup>

1950. Ntahobali's testimony, if considered credible, could implicate Nsabimana and Kanyabashi in the organisation of the massacres in Butare préfecture. As an Accused, the Chamber must weigh Ntahobali's testimony against two of his co-Accused with appropriate caution. The Chamber considers that Ntahobali may have been motivated by a desire to implicate Nsabimana and Kanyabashi in criminal acts in order to deflect liability from himself. The substance of Ntahobali's testimony on what was discussed during the meeting is based on the minutes of the meeting submitted by the Ntahobali Defence as Defence Exhibit 406C.

1951. The Chamber does not find Ntahobali's account of how he was able to recognise the minutes of the meeting to be plausible and further observes that the minutes are unsigned. The Chamber is therefore not convinced that Defence Exhibit 406C is a faithful record of the meeting of 26 April 1994. This, combined with Nsabimana's and Witness D-2-14-W's testimony that no one took notes at the meeting and that Mutwewengabo was not present there, further undermines Ntahobali's account. In short, the Chamber does not consider Ntahobali's testimony to be credible on this particular event and therefore is not satisfied that the roadblocks or patrols were discussed at the meeting of 26 April 1994.

1952. With regard to the alleged meeting held on 27 April 1994 at the Ngoma Parish football ground, Witness QA placed the meeting at the end of May 1994, rather than the end of April 1994.<sup>5075</sup> He claimed that around 1200 people were present from Ngoma and Matyazo secteurs. Witness QA claimed that Kanyabashi and Nsabimana delivered a coded message to the attendees: Kanyabashi stated that anyone who engaged in killings would be shot; Nsabimana concurred and added that things had to continue as planned, as the President had announced.<sup>5076</sup> The witness understood this to mean that the public should finish the job they had started and continue with the killings as planned.<sup>5077</sup> In contrast, Nsabimana testified that, as at the previous day's meeting, he read the contents of the 25 April 1994 press release and warned the attendees that if there were any more killings, the perpetrators would be shot.<sup>5078</sup> Witness D-2-5-I testified that there were approximately 200 people at the meeting.<sup>5079</sup> Nsabimana and Kanyabashi urged the population to remain united and forbade them from participating in the killings.<sup>5080</sup>

1953. The Chamber notes the existence of serious credibility issues surrounding the testimony of Witness QA. When he was recalled by the Chamber for further questioning in 2008, he admitted that his original testimony that Nsabimana ordered the attendees to continue with the killings as planned was a lie.<sup>5081</sup> Furthermore, he stated that only a few aspects of his original testimony were true; most of his original testimony was a lie.<sup>5082</sup>

1954. The Prosecution also led evidence through Witness RL on the meeting at Ngoma Church football field. The Chamber refers to its Considerations in the “Ngoma Church Massacre” section of this Judgment, in which the Chamber found Witness RL to be credible for the reasons set forth in that section (). The Chamber recalls that the witness provided an in-depth account of a meeting that took place some days after the attack at Ngoma Church, in particular on how he was able to observe the meeting from a vantage point inside the church, the presence of Kanyabashi and what was said during the meeting.<sup>5083</sup> Witness RL was able to describe both the location of his vantage point and of Kanyabashi on the football field by reference to photographs of these sites.<sup>5084</sup> He stated that Kanyabashi used a megaphone to address the crowd, which is consistent with Witness D-2-5-I’s testimony that the speakers at the meeting used a public address system.<sup>5085</sup>

1955. Witness RL further testified that Kanyabashi spoke during the meeting and urged the Interahamwe and the conseiller to disseminate the message that peace had returned and that there would be no more killings.<sup>5086</sup> In the Chamber’s view, the fact that Witness RL stated that he did not see or hear any reference to the new préfet, Nsabimana, does not detract from the credibility of his testimony or necessarily contradict the testimony of Witness D-2-5-I or Nsabimana, according to which Nsabimana was indeed present at the meeting.<sup>5087</sup> The Chamber considers that Witness RL may not have had an opportunity to see Nsabimana, noting that the witness admitted to not having heard everything that Kanyabashi said during his address.<sup>5088</sup>

1956. The Chamber does not find Witness QA’s account on the meeting to be reliable or credible. Further, while the Chamber considers Witness RL’s testimony to be credible on this issue, it observes that no evidence was led to suggest that the statements attributed to Kanyabashi on this occasion had a hidden meaning. The Chamber therefore finds that it has not been established that Kanyabashi or Nsabimana used coded messages to order the killing of Tutsis at this meeting.

1957. The Prosecution did not lead any evidence on the meeting of 28 April 1994 in Rango. However, Nsabimana testified that at that particular meeting, he was introduced by Kanyabashi; he read the contents of the 25 April 1994 press release and called for order to be restored.<sup>5089</sup> Karemano testified that Nsabimana urged the attendees to try and live in harmony again.<sup>5090</sup> Witness D-2-13-D stated that Kanyabashi ordered an end to the killings.<sup>5091</sup>

1958. In view of all of the above, the Chamber does not consider that the Prosecution has established beyond a reasonable doubt that the meetings of 26, 27 and 28 April 1994 were held pursuant to the Interim Government's national policy on pacification as enshrined in the Prime Minister's Directive on restoring security of 27 April 1994, admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 118B.<sup>5092</sup> Furthermore, the Chamber does not consider that the Prosecution has established that these meetings formed part of the conspiracy to commit genocide.

3.6.15 Ngoma Parish Church Massacre, Late April 1994

3.6.15.1 Introduction

1959. The Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that Kanyabashi held a meeting in Ngoma Parish in late April 1994 during which he gave assurances that the massacres were over. Tutsis who were fleeing the killings, sought refuge in Ngoma Parish Church. On the morning of 30 April 1994, soldiers and Interahamwe armed with traditional weapons arrived at the church. The refugees left the church after the soldiers promised to take them to safety. The refugees were subsequently attacked by the Interahamwe on the sports field beside the church and massacred.<sup>5093</sup>

1960. The Prosecution submits that on 27 April 1994, Kanyabashi and Nsabimana jointly organised a pacification meeting on the football field next to Ngoma Church during which they delivered a coded message that greater care had to be taken in killing Tutsis.<sup>5094</sup> On 30 April 1994, Tutsis at the church were attacked and killed or taken away to be killed.<sup>5095</sup> The Prosecution argues that Kanyabashi and his subordinates led the killings of Tutsis in Ngoma commune, and that he organised, planned and was often present at the massacres.<sup>5096</sup> His subordinates included conseillers, commune policemen and responsables de cellule,<sup>5097</sup> and the killers themselves included soldiers and gendarmes.<sup>5098</sup> Jacques Habimana, the conseiller of Ngoma secteur appointed by Kanyabashi in April 1994, was a notorious killer who participated in the Ngoma Church massacre.<sup>5099</sup> Notwithstanding Habimana's notoriety and involvement in killings, Kanyabashi maintained Habimana in his position as conseiller and issued instructions to him.<sup>5100</sup> The Prosecution submits that Kanyabashi was aware of the massacres in Ngoma commune and points out that he lived and worked a short distance from the Ngoma Parish massacre site. The evidence adduced placed Kanyabashi at the massacre sites as the massacres unfolded or after they had taken place.<sup>5101</sup> In support of its allegations, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses RL and QA and Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges.

1961. In addition to its submissions on the vagueness of the Indictment<sup>5102</sup> considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence contends that Article 6 (3) responsibility cannot apply to the Accused because neither the subordinates nor the facts characterising an allegation of command responsibility are stipulated.<sup>5103</sup> Furthermore, there is no evidence that policemen or conseillers were involved in the attack.<sup>5104</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence asserts that the Prosecution failed to establish a link between the meeting held by Kanyabashi and the massacre of refugees, given that according to the Prosecution evidence, the meeting was after the attack.<sup>5105</sup> It further submits that the Prosecution evidence on what Kanyabashi said at the meeting is contradictory, which raises doubt as to the criminal objective of the meeting.<sup>5106</sup>

1962. The Defence argues that the death of Kanyabashi's relatives during the attack demonstrates Kanyabashi had no power over the attackers.<sup>5107</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence challenges the credibility of Prosecution Witness QA, who was recalled before the Chamber in 2008 and admitted lying about what Kanyabashi said during the meeting near Ngoma Church. He went on to confirm that the utterances at the meeting were in favour of peace and ending the killings.<sup>5108</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence submits that Prosecution Witnesses QA and RL, who testified on the massacre at Ngoma Church, attended meetings of the Ibuka association during which the falsification of testimony against Kanyabashi was discussed and they were incited to lie.<sup>5109</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Witnesses D-2-21-T and D-2-18-O.<sup>5110</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence also questions the identification of Kanyabashi by Witness RL.<sup>5111</sup>

Vagueness of Paragraph 6.35 of the Kanyabashi Indictment

1963. In its Closing Brief, the Kanyabashi Defence reiterates the arguments advanced in its Preliminary Motion filed on 9 October 1999 in which it submitted that Paragraph 6.35 of the Kanyabashi Indictment should be deleted because it is vague and fails to stipulate why <sup>5110</sup> The Chamber notes that it has previously set out the evidence of Witnesses D-2-21-T and D-2-18-O as it relates to the alleged fabrication claim (). The Chamber will take this evidence into account in the Deliberations section.

Kanyabashi should be held responsible for the allegations contained therein.<sup>5112</sup> With regard to Article 6 (3) liability, it further submits that Paragraph 6.35 does not identify the subordinates involved or the essential facts underpinning the allegation and thereby fails to meet the standards set down in the case law.<sup>5113</sup>

1964. The Chamber recalls its Decision of 31 May 2000 on Kanyabashi's Motion in which it considered it unnecessary to respond to the Defence's submissions concerning a number of paragraphs, including Paragraph 6.35, either because such paragraphs were sufficiently clear or because the factual precisions sought by the Defence bore on issues to be addressed during the trial on the merits, or because the requested precisions sought could be inferred from reading the Indictment as a whole.<sup>5114</sup>

1965. The Chamber considers that Kanyabashi's alleged involvement in and liability for the Ngoma Church massacre, as set out in Paragraph 6.35, is clear when read in the context of the Indictment as a whole.

1966. The key to Kanyabashi's liability lies in the fact that Paragraph 6.35 is cited in support of Article 6 (3) responsibility alone, as is clear from Section 7 of the Indictment entitled "CHARGES". Paragraph 6.35 of the Indictment describes how the Accused allegedly held a meeting at Ngoma Church during which he gave assurances that the massacres were over. On the basis of such assurances, Tutsi survivors sought refuge in the church. Soldiers promised to take the Tutsis to a place of safety and, when the refugees left the church, they were attacked by Interahamwe and massacred. In essence, therefore, Paragraph 6.35 attributes liability to Kanyabashi on the basis that he, as a superior, knew that his subordinates were committing criminal acts and failed to take steps to prevent such acts from occurring or to punish the perpetrators. Thus, the Kanyabashi Defence's submissions on the vagueness of Paragraph 6.35 and Article 6 (3) are closely linked and should therefore be considered together.

1967. The Chamber recalls the standards set forth in the case law which must be met if the Prosecution intends to rely on the theory of superior responsibility to hold an accused criminally responsible for a crime under Article 6 (3) of the Statute.<sup>5115</sup> The Chamber notes that the soldiers and Interahamwe referred to in Paragraph 6.35 are not specifically described as being Kanyabashi's subordinates. The issue is therefore whether it can be inferred from reading the Indictment as a whole that the soldiers and Interahamwe referred to in Paragraph 6.35 were Kanyabashi's subordinates.

1968. In this connection, the Chamber notes that Paragraph 4.3 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that Kanyabashi exercised authority over his subordinates in his capacity as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune. According to Paragraph 6.32 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, those subordinates include, but are not limited to, conseillers and commune policemen. The Indictment therefore envisages the existence of other categories of subordinates insofar as Kanyabashi is concerned. Paragraph 6.34, which is also cited in support of Article 6 (3) responsibility, refers to Kanyabashi giving orders to soldiers, which implies that the Accused held a position of authority vis-à-vis soldiers. Paragraphs 5.12 and 5.13 describe how Kanyabashi allegedly trained and distributed weapons to members of the civilian population and militiamen, which also suggests that the Accused exercised authority over such militia. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers it reasonable to infer, from reading the Indictment as a whole, that the soldiers and Interahamwe referred to in Paragraph 6.35 were Kanyabashi's alleged subordinates. The Chamber further observes that the alleged criminal conduct of the subordinates is specified, i.e. that the soldiers enticed the refugees out of the church and the Interahamwe subsequently attacked them. The Chamber therefore considers that reading the Indictment as a whole, the wording of Paragraph 6.35 is sufficiently specific to meet the standards set forth in the case law regarding Article 6 (3) responsibility.

1969. The Chamber notes that the allegation that in late April 1994, Kanyabashi held a meeting at the Ngoma Parish and that on the morning of 30 April 1994, there was a massacre led by soldiers and Interahamwe at the sports field beside the church, was directly pled in the Indictment. The Indictment is therefore not defective and consequently, Kanyabashi was reasonably able to understand the nature of the charges against him and suffered no prejudice in the preparation of his defence based on the Indictment.<sup>5116</sup>

Prosecution Witness RL

1970. Witness RL, a Tutsi who was 13 years old in 1994,<sup>5117</sup> testified that after the death of the President, he saw Kanyabashi twice; once one-and-a-half to two weeks after the death of the President in April 1994, and then about five days after the first.<sup>5118</sup> He was at the Matyazo dispensary, and both times Kanyabashi was in a Toyota Stout vehicle.<sup>5119</sup> During the night of the second time Witness RL saw Kanyabashi, the witness fled to Ngoma Church. When he arrived, there were not many Tutsi refugees although the number later increased to the point that the refugees filled the whole church.<sup>5120</sup> There were people of all ages, both adults and children.<sup>5121</sup>

1971. Five or six days after his arrival, at the beginning of May 1994 the refugees were attacked and killed by soldiers, assisted by the Interahamwe.<sup>5122</sup> The killings started at around 10.00 a.m. and continued into the evening.<sup>5123</sup> They took place in a wooded area below the priests' residence.<sup>5124</sup> The attackers took the victims out of the church in small groups at a time, to prevent them from escaping, adults first followed by children.<sup>5125</sup> The witness testified that between noon and 1.00 p.m., he was among a group of five children who were taken from the church into the woods to be killed.<sup>5126</sup>

1972. He was hit hard with a club on the back of his head on at least three occasions and lost consciousness.<sup>5127</sup> When he regained consciousness at about 5.00 p.m., he saw Interahamwe finishing off those who were dying. He was surrounded by bodies and there were also bodies lying over his legs.<sup>5128</sup> He was two or three metres away from a road and on regaining consciousness, he heard the noise of a car engine and saw a Toyota Stout vehicle parked on the road. He raised his head and saw Kanyabashi get out of the vehicle to look around.<sup>5129</sup> It was beginning to get dark.<sup>5130</sup> He heard the engine of the car and saw it when it had stopped but could not raise his head for fear of being seen and killed.<sup>5131</sup> In cross-examination, the witness clarified on a number of occasions that he raised his head slowly in order to see Kanyabashi and then lowered it again.<sup>5132</sup> A short while later, Kanyabashi returned to his vehicle and left.<sup>5133</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that even though he had received a blow to the head during the attack, he did not go blind and could still see quite far.<sup>5134</sup> The witness was shown video footage of a woodland area close to Ngoma Church and identified it as being the area where the refugees were attacked.<sup>5135</sup>

1973. The witness was referred to his statement of 16 January 1997 in which he stated that he was about 10 metres away from Kanyabashi when he saw the Accused on the road, rather than three metres away as he stated during examination-in-chief.<sup>5136</sup> Witness RL explained that his perception of the distance was an estimate rather than an exact measurement, but that 10 metres was an overestimation in any event.<sup>5137</sup>

1974. After the attack, Witness RL left the woods and returned to Ngoma Church where he was received by a cook named Jean and Father Eulade Rudahunga.<sup>5138</sup> He remained there for about two and a half months. Approximately five days to one week after the attack, Kanyabashi held a meeting in the church grounds which was attended by approximately 1,000 Interahamwe.<sup>5139</sup> Witness RL was confronted with his statement of 11 July 1996 in which he stated that the meeting at Ngoma Church football field took place about four days after the killings, rather than between five days and one week thereafter as stated in his examination-in-chief.<sup>5140</sup> The witness underlined that these time frames were estimates.<sup>5141</sup>

1975. The witness was inside the church when the meeting took place and observed events through ventilation holes in the concrete walls of the church.<sup>5142</sup> He was shown a photograph of the interior of Ngoma Church on which he identified the place from which he said he witnessed the meeting, being a ventilation space between the roof of the church and the top of the right-hand side exterior wall.<sup>5143</sup> He explained that he climbed up to his viewing position using the blocks that protruded from the wall near the back of the church.<sup>5144</sup>

1976. Kanyabashi used a megaphone which he held in his hand to address the crowd and urged the Interahamwe and the conseiller to spread the news that peace had returned and that there would be no more killings.<sup>5145</sup> The witness did not hear everything that Kanyabashi said during his address, but was able to hear the things that concerned him.<sup>5146</sup> On another photograph of the area of ground adjacent to the church, with the church in the background, the witness identified where he said Kanyabashi had been standing when he delivered his speech, by drawing a square on the photograph, and where the witness had observed events, indicated by a cross.<sup>5147</sup>

1977. Witness RL stated that he did not see or hear a new préfet being introduced to the crowd during the meeting. When asked if he heard Kanyabashi say that people should stop killing each other and should live in harmony, the witness responded that the Tutsis were already dead and had already been killed or were in hiding, how could they live together in harmony when they had already been killed?<sup>5148</sup> He also said that he did not see any meetings near the church prior to the attack during which he was injured.<sup>5149</sup>

1978. Witness RL testified that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre before 1994, but he did not know his first name.<sup>5150</sup> He had seen him on several occasions before and after President Habyarimana's death.<sup>5151</sup> Before the President's death, he saw Kanyabashi at the stadium and the Matyazo secteur office when he convened meetings, along the road whenever he received authorities from other areas and driving a Peugeot 305.<sup>5152</sup> The witness identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>5153</sup>

1979. In cross-examination, the witness was confronted with the assertion that it was Cyriaque Habyarabatuma, rather than Kanyabashi, who was present at Ngoma Church when the attackers were delivering the final blows to the victims.<sup>5154</sup> Moreover, Counsel contended that the witness' description of Habyarabatuma matched that of Kanyabashi in 1994.<sup>5155</sup> In response, the witness stated that in 1994 Kanyabashi had white hair and was wearing a suit and could not say anything else about his appearance.<sup>5156</sup> In re-examination, the witness acknowledged that he had seen Habyarabatuma prior to the 1994 events. Habyarabatuma's complexion was darker than Kanyabashi's and he had a large head.<sup>5157</sup> The witness testified that there is "no way" he would mistake Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi because he knew both of them.<sup>5158</sup> Even though he was still a child in 1994, Habyarabatuma and Kanyabashi held positions of authority – one used to come and hold meetings with the people and the other would be present whenever there was a search.<sup>5159</sup>

1980. Witness QA, a Hutu, testified that at the end of May 1994,<sup>5160</sup> a meeting was held at the secteur office in the courtyard of Ngoma Parish.<sup>5161</sup> The witness clarified that the meeting was held on the football field next to Ngoma Parish Church.<sup>5162</sup> He stated that it was possible that approximately 1,200 people from Ngoma and Matyazo secteurs were present.<sup>5163</sup> Kanyabashi and Nsabimana were in attendance.<sup>5164</sup> The meeting had been convened by Kanyabashi and he was first to take the floor.<sup>5165</sup> Kanyabashi announced: "The killings have stopped and from today onwards nobody has a right to kill anybody. Anybody who kills will be shot."<sup>5166</sup> Nsabimana spoke next, and confirmed what had been said by Kanyabashi. He said: "Indeed, what has just been said by your bourgmestre, that anybody who kills will be shot, is true. Any such person will be shot ... things must be such as they were programmed to be done, as was known by the President of the Republic."<sup>5167</sup> According to the witness, the audience did not understand Nsabimana's message as it conflicted with that of Kanyabashi. Kanyabashi said, "[w]hosoever shall kill shall be shot", whereas Nsabimana said, "[w]homsoever [sic] kills will be punished in an exemplary manner."<sup>5168</sup>

1981. Witness QA testified that after the meeting, he came to realise that Nsabimana and Kanyabashi's address had a special meaning; their intention was for those who attended the meeting to finish the job they had started and flush people out.<sup>5169</sup> Nsabimana's speech was not a recommendation to stop the killings but rather a secret manner of speaking, for saying that the killings had stopped but that things should continue as planned.<sup>5170</sup> That night, people who had taken refuge in Ngoma Church, which was located about 10 metres away, were killed.<sup>5171</sup>

1982. When recalled to testify, Witness QA confirmed that he had made a statement before a Canadian Rogatory Committee concerning Nsabimana's address to the attendees of the meeting that took place at the end of May 1994 at the Ngoma Parish football pitch.<sup>5172</sup> Nsabimana said that the killings that had taken place at the Ngoma Parish were the last and if anyone else were to be arrested for killing he himself would be shot.<sup>5173</sup> He also urged those in hiding to come out.<sup>5174</sup> The witness admitted that on the request of two named individuals he gave false testimony to the Chamber in 2004 in which he stated that Nsabimana had also told the meeting attendees to continue with the scheduled programme, as announced by the President.<sup>5175</sup>

1983. Witness QA testified that he knew Nsabimana before the 1994 events as a member of his party, the PSD. He identified Nsabimana in court.<sup>5176</sup> He also testified that he knew Kanyabashi before 1994 and identified him in court.<sup>5177</sup>

1984. Alison Des Forges testified that large-scale killings at Ngoma Parish, Matyazo and Kabakobwa occurred at the end of April 1994.<sup>5178</sup> In her Expert Report, the witness refers to a meeting that took place on 27 April 1994 on the football field next to Ngoma Church, this was a pacification meeting conducted jointly by Kanyabashi. Nearly 500 people who had survived the massacre at Matyazo health centre or who had been forced to flee their homes were sheltering in the church at the time. Two days later, at 10.00 p.m. on 29 April 1994, militia and local crowds attacked the church buildings, but those inside defended themselves with stones and prevented the attackers from entering. At around 10.00 a.m. the next morning, 22 soldiers arrived at the church under the command of Lieutenant Ildephonse Hategekimana, head of the Ngoma camp, and assured the crowd sheltering inside that they would not be killed but would instead be taken to prison. However, the military commander called for civilians to kill those who had sought refuge in the church. After an hour of attacks and killing, there was silence. Some victims were taken to be killed in the nearby woods and a number of the women were raped first. A commune policeman by the name of Marc Polepole sought out Kanyabashi's sister-in-law and her children, delivering them to the killers outside.<sup>5179</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

1986. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant,<sup>5181</sup> testified that he attended a meeting on 27 April 1994 on the football field adjacent to Ngoma Church.<sup>5182</sup> The meeting was attended by Kanyabashi, Nsabimana, the commander of Ngoma camp, conseillers and approximately 200 members of the public from Matyazo and Ngoma secteurs.<sup>5183</sup> The witness stated that he was not aware of the presence of refugees in Ngoma Church when the meeting took place nor did he know if refugees were present at the meeting, as he did not live at Ngoma Church. He simply went to the meeting and after the meeting returned home.<sup>5184</sup>

1987. The meeting started around 2.00 p.m. The authorities sat in chairs facing the public, some of whom were sitting on the ground while others stood.<sup>5185</sup> The meeting was convened to discuss security issues in view of the killings that had been taking place.<sup>5186</sup> Kanyabashi took the floor first, followed by Nsabimana and the commander of Ngoma camp, and then Nsabimana concluded the meeting.<sup>5187</sup> The witness could not recall what kind of microphone or megaphone was used, but confirmed that one was used.<sup>5188</sup> The commander of Ngoma camp promised to do everything possible to restore security in the area.<sup>5189</sup> Kanyabashi and Nsabimana said that they would cooperate with the commander but did not specify how they planned to restore security.<sup>5190</sup> They also urged the population to remain united and forbade them from participating in the killings.<sup>5191</sup> The witness interpreted this as meaning that the authorities would penalise anyone who took part in the killings.<sup>5192</sup> The witness confirmed that a few days after the meeting, refugees in Ngoma Church were massacred.<sup>5193</sup> Witness D-2-5-I testified that Kanyabashi had been bourgmestre of Ngoma commune since the witness was a child.<sup>5194</sup> He identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>5195</sup> chairman of the Butare préfecture Security Council.<sup>5196</sup> The aim of this press release was to provide information on meetings that would take place in order to ask the population to remain calm.<sup>5197</sup> Nsabimana's testimony on the contents of this press release is dealt with more fully in the section of this Judgement relating to Nsabimana's participation in meetings between 26 to 28 April 1994, pursuant to the Butare préfecture Security Committee press release of 25 April 1994 ().

1989. In the press release, Nsabimana ordered three security meetings to be held, the second of which took place on 27 April 1994 around 2.00 p.m. at the Ngoma Parish football field.<sup>5198</sup> The bourgmestre of Ngoma commune informed the population that the meeting would be held.<sup>5199</sup> Nsabimana testified that Kanyabashi was already at that meeting when he arrived although he could not recall if other officials were present. Nsabimana read out the communiqué of 25 April 1994 to the crowd and told them that if there were any more killings, the perpetrators would be shot.<sup>5200</sup> Kanyabashi repeated this statement.<sup>5201</sup> Nsabimana then left without taking questions from the floor, but the bourgmestre stayed.<sup>5202</sup> The distance between where the meeting was held on the football field and Ngoma Church was around 60 metres.<sup>5203</sup>

1990. Nsabimana testified the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune did not inform him of the massacres that occurred in Ngoma commune at the end of April 1994. Had anyone else learned of such massacres, they would have been obliged to inform Nsabimana. Nsabimana did not hear about such massacres from any source. He only found out that such massacres had occurred through information he obtained during the trial. Kanyabashi only informed Nsabimana that members of his family had been killed during the massacres at Ngoma Church during his time in Arusha.<sup>5204</sup>

1991. The Prosecution adduced evidence from two factual witnesses and one expert witness in support of Paragraph 6.35 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. Paragraph 6.35 alleges that Kanyabashi is responsible for the Ngoma Church massacre that occurred at the end of April 1994. The massacre comprises two main elements, as described in Paragraph 6.35 of the Indictment: an initial meeting held by Kanyabashi on the football field adjacent to the church, followed by an attack by Interahamwe and soldiers on those who had sought refuge inside the church.<sup>5205</sup>

1992. Witness RL was the only Prosecution eyewitness to testify specifically on the killings of Tutsis at Ngoma Church. Notwithstanding the witness' young age in 1994, the Chamber generally finds his testimony to be convincing and credible. He gave detailed evidence on when the massacre commenced, the methods and weapons used by the attackers, where he was attacked and what happened immediately afterwards.<sup>5206</sup> He testified that when he regained consciousness following a blow to the head, he heard the noise of a car engine and saw Kanyabashi emerge from a Toyota Stout vehicle.<sup>5207</sup> Kanyabashi allegedly surveyed the site very briefly, returned to his car and drove away.<sup>5208</sup>

1993. Even though the witness suffered a head injury during the attack which rendered him unconscious, the Chamber considers his identification of Kanyabashi to be reliable as he knew Kanyabashi before the events of April 1994 and also identified Kanyabashi as having been present at Matyazo Clinic on two occasions in the space of about a fortnight prior to the massacre at Ngoma Church.<sup>5209</sup> On both occasions, the witness testified that Kanyabashi had travelled in a Toyota Stout vehicle, which is consistent with his testimony concerning Kanyabashi's mode of transport to the site of the Ngoma Church massacre.<sup>5210</sup>

1994. The Chamber considers that Witness RL gave consistent and convincing testimony when confronted with the assertion that he may have mistaken Kanyabashi for another man, Major Cyriaque Habyarabatuma.<sup>5211</sup> The Chamber recalls that the witness insisted that there was "no way" he could have mistaken Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi, despite his young age in 1994.<sup>5212</sup> The witness clearly distinguished the positions of authority held by these men, one of whom used to hold meetings and the other who used to be present whenever there was a search.<sup>5213</sup> In this regard, the Chamber also refers to its deliberations on Witness RL's identification of Kanyabashi in the "Matyazo Clinic" section of this Judgement ( ).

1995. The witness further provided an in-depth account of a meeting that took place some days after the attack, in particular on how he was able to observe the meeting from a vantage point inside the church, the presence of Kanyabashi and what was said during the meeting.<sup>5214</sup> The Chamber recalls that he was able to describe both the location of his vantage point and that of Kanyabashi on the football field, by reference to photographs of these sites.<sup>5215</sup> He stated that Kanyabashi used a megaphone to address the crowd, which is consistent with Witness D-2-5-I's testimony that the speakers at the meeting used a public address system.<sup>5216</sup> The witness testified that Kanyabashi spoke during the meeting and urged the Interahamwe and the conseiller to disseminate the message that peace had returned and that there would be no more killings.<sup>5217</sup>

1996. The Chamber notes that Witness RL testified in examination-in-chief that he had raised his head from the ground in order to see Kanyabashi but had then later stated that he could not raise his head for fear of being seen.<sup>5218</sup> In cross-examination, the witness clarified on a number of occasions that he raised his head slowly in order to see the Accused and then lowered it again.<sup>5219</sup> He underlined that he saw Kanyabashi at the massacre site and that even though he had suffered a head injury, he was not blind and could still see.<sup>5220</sup> The Chamber does not consider this discrepancy to be significant and notes that the witness' testimony on other aspects of the Ngoma Church events was clear and consistent under cross-examination, in particular as regards time frames, the order of events and the identification of Kanyabashi.<sup>5221</sup>

1997. Also in cross-examination, the witness was referred to his previous statement of 16 January 1997 in which he stated that he was about 10 metres away from Kanyabashi when he saw the Accused on the road, rather than three metres away as he stated during examination-in-chief.<sup>5222</sup> Witness RL explained that his perception of the distance was an estimate rather than exact measurement but that 10 metres was an overestimation in any event.<sup>5223</sup> The Chamber takes note of this inconsistency and the witness' explanation but considers that he could still have identified Kanyabashi even at a distance of 10 metres, especially in view of his previous knowledge of the Accused from before the 1994 events and Matyazo Clinic.

1998. Witness RL was also confronted with his statement of 11 July 1996 in which he stated that the meeting at the Ngoma Church football field took place about four days after the killings, rather than between five days and one week thereafter as stated in his examination-in-chief.<sup>5224</sup> The witness underlined that these time frames were estimates.<sup>5225</sup> Again, the Chamber does not consider this slight discrepancy to have an impact on the veracity of the witness' testimony and considers his explanation to be plausible. Lastly, the fact that Witness RL stated that he did not see or hear any reference to the new préfet, Nsabimana, does not detract from the credibility of his testimony or necessarily contradict the testimony of Witness D-2-5-I or Nsabimana, according to which Nsabimana was indeed present at the meeting.<sup>5226</sup> The Chamber considers that Witness RL may not have had an opportunity to see Nsabimana and notes that he admitted to not having heard everything that Kanyabashi said during his address.<sup>5227</sup> The Chamber considers Witness RL's testimony to be credible also in this regard.

1999. As regards Witness QA, the Chamber recalls the existence of serious credibility issues surrounding the testimony of this witness. When he was recalled by the Chamber for further questioning in 2008, he admitted that his original testimony that Nsabimana ordered the attendees to continue with the killings as planned, was a lie.<sup>5228</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber does not find Witness QA's account of the meeting as a whole to be reliable or credible.

2000. In her Report, Des Forges stated that a meeting took place on 27 April 1994 at the Ngoma Church football field while almost 500 people were sheltering in the church building.<sup>5229</sup> Three days later, those who had been sheltering in the church were attacked by civilians and many died.<sup>5230</sup> The Chamber observes that Des Forges makes no mention of the presence of Kanyabashi at the meeting of 27 April or the subsequent attack. Nor does she suggest that these two events were linked in any way. The Chamber recalls its Oral Decision of 7 June 1994 in which it concluded that Des Forges was qualified to give expert testimony on the history of Rwanda up to and including the events of 1994 and on the analysis and research of the human rights situation in Rwanda up to and including the events of 1994.<sup>5231</sup> Although the Chamber cannot rely on her testimony to establish a fact, her evidence may be used to corroborate the testimony of another factual witness insofar as it relates to, inter alia, the events of 1994.

2001. In this regard, Des Forges corroborated Witness RL with regards to the attacks at Ngoma Church. Her account as to the timing of the attacks and the methods used by the attackers confirms the testimony of Witness RL.<sup>5232</sup>

2002. The Defence adduced evidence through Witnesses D-2-21-T to support assertions that Prosecution Witnesses RL and QA were Ibuka members who participated in meetings where they were asked to falsely accuse Kanyabashi regarding killings at Ngoma Parish and Matyazo. Witness D-2-21-T testified that a person whose full name matches that of Witness QA read aloud from his sheet of false accusations that he had seen Kanyabashi, inter alia, incite people to commit killings at Ngoma Church.<sup>5233</sup> Witness D-2-21-T also alleged that another participant whose first name matches that of Witness RL, read aloud that he had seen Kanyabashi incite people to perpetrate the killings in Ngoma and that Kanyabashi was with soldiers, policemen and Interahamwe in Ngoma. Witness D-2-21-T alleged that this person also read that Kanyabashi incited people to kill at the Matyazo health centre.<sup>5234</sup>

2003. As regards the identity of the Prosecution witnesses whom Witness D-2-21-T sought to implicate, the Chamber notes that Witness D-2-21-T provided the full name of Witness QA.<sup>5235</sup> While she only provided the first name of an individual who appears to be Prosecution

Witness RL, she indicated additional identifying details such as estimated age, place of residence and profession, that match the profile of Witness RL.<sup>5236</sup>

2004. The Chamber has taken into account Witness D-2-21-T's ability to indicate details relating to the identity of Prosecution Witnesses RL and QA. Given the Chamber's finding that Witness D-2-21-T's allegations regarding fabrication of testimony were neither credible nor reliable (), the Chamber finds that Witness D-2-21-T's testimony does not undermine the credibility of Witness RL on events at Ngoma Church or at Matyazo health centre. As regards Witness QA, the Chamber finds that his testimony on the meeting at Ngoma Church football field was unreliable for different reasons, and therefore it need not make a finding on the impact of Witness D-2-21-T's testimony on his credibility.

2005. The Kanyabashi Defence led evidence through Defence Witness D-2-18-O to further support Witness D-2-21-T's assertions that Witness RL was an Ibuka member who "suggested" at Ibuka meetings that people should testify to having seen Kanyabashi in the company of soldiers at Ngoma commune and Matyazo Clinic.<sup>5237</sup> Witness D-2-18-O claimed that Witness RL told the meeting that it was necessary to place Kanyabashi at Ngoma Church even though Witness RL told them that he had not seen Kanyabashi there.<sup>5238</sup>

2006. Witness D-2-18-O testified that discussions at Ibuka meetings centred on giving evidence for the Prosecution, even if the accused person is innocent.<sup>5239</sup> The witness also stated that while some of the association's members speak the truth, others do not.<sup>5240</sup> The Chamber however does not consider the Defence evidence on this issue to raise a reasonable doubt about the truthfulness of Witness RL's testimony under oath or to call his credibility into question insofar as the events at Matyazo Clinic or Ngoma Parish are concerned. Even if true, Witness D-2-18-O's claim that Witness RL encouraged Ibuka members to implicate Kanyabashi does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that his testimony is false or unreliable. Further, Witness D-2-18-O suggests no reason why Witness RL would want to implicate Kanyabashi in criminal acts.

2007. The Chamber further notes that Witness D-2-18-O conceded that some members of the association speak the truth.<sup>5241</sup> Taking into account the foregoing, as well as the Chamber's position, discussed above that Witness D-2-18-O's testimony should be treated with appropriate caution (), the Chamber finds that Witness D-2-18-O's assertions about Witness RL do not undermine the veracity of Witness RL's testimony under oath.

2008. Witness D-2-5-I testified that he attended a meeting on 27 April 1994 on the football field adjacent to Ngoma Church during which, inter alia, Kanyabashi urged the population to remain united and forbade them from participating in the killings.<sup>5242</sup> The Chamber recalls that Witness D-2-5-I was one of Kanyabashi's subordinates, having previously worked as a commune policeman, and for that reason may have felt inclined to protect Kanyabashi when he testified before the Chamber.<sup>5243</sup> His testimony should therefore be treated with appropriate caution.

2009. Having reviewed the entirety of the evidence adduced by both the Prosecution and the Defence in respect of Paragraph 6.35 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, the Chamber finds that Witness RL's testimony, while credible, is insufficient to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the allegations against Kanyabashi. Witness RL testified that the killings of refugees at Ngoma Church took place before Kanyabashi's meeting on the adjacent football field, which contrasts with Indictment Paragraph 6.35 which quite clearly states that the meeting preceded the killings.<sup>5244</sup> Witness RL also clearly explained that the killings took place in a wooded area below the priests' residence rather than on the sports field near the church, as described in Paragraph 6.35 of the Indictment.<sup>5245</sup> It also contradicts the order of events advanced by Des Forges in her Report.<sup>5246</sup>

2010. Furthermore, the Prosecution did not establish the existence of any link between the meeting and the killings, or vice versa. As regards the killings at Ngoma Church, Witness RL places Kanyabashi at the scene, but his presence was for a very short period of time after the killings had commenced when the Interahamwe were delivering the final blows to the remaining injured survivors.<sup>5247</sup> No evidence was led to show that when the Interahamwe commenced the attack, they were acting under the orders of Kanyabashi. Thus, in view of the inconsistencies between the Prosecution's evidence on this event and the Indictment paragraph – in terms of the order of events, the absence of any link between the meeting and the massacre and the absence of evidence on the involvement of soldiers, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to establish criminal liability under Article 6 (3) of the Statute for the massacre.

2011. As for the meeting on the Ngoma Church football field, the Prosecution led no evidence to suggest that Kanyabashi's address was in fact a coded message to kill Tutsis. In this connection, the Chamber refers to its previous finding that it was not convinced that the planning or organisation of the genocide was discussed at the meeting at Ngoma Church football field at the end of April 1994 or that the population was incited to kill Tutsis during that meeting (). For all of the reasons set forth above, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to prove Paragraph 6.35 of the Kanyabashi Indictment beyond a reasonable doubt.

3.6.16 Matyazo Clinic, Late April 1994

3.6.16.1 Introduction

2012. Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that in late April 1994, Tutsis who were fleeing the massacres sought refuge at Matyazo Clinic in Ngoma commune. After an initial attack carried out by soldiers and militiamen, Kanyabashi went to the clinic and asked the Tutsis to remain there for their own safety. Shortly thereafter, Kanyabashi ordered soldiers to open fire on the refugees, resulting in several people being killed.<sup>5248</sup>

2013. The Prosecution submits that not only did Kanyabashi know of the gathering at Matyazo Clinic, he actually directed Tutsis to assemble in that location and thereafter observed the ensuing massacres or arranged for killings to take place. The Prosecution claims that Kanyabashi knew about the killing of the refugees but did nothing to punish the perpetrators of the massacres because he was a key player in the killing of Tutsis.<sup>5249</sup> The Prosecution further asserts that the role Kanyabashi played between April and July 1994 vis-à-vis soldiers and the Interahamwe, coupled with the influence he exercised as bourgmestre, meant that he had effective control over conseillers, commune police, soldiers, Interahamwe and others and is therefore liable under Article 6 (3) of the Statute. The Prosecution contends that, notwithstanding Kanyabashi's alibi evidence, it has proved that Kanyabashi was at Matyazo during the relevant time period.<sup>5250</sup>

2014. In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the testimony of Prosecution Witnesses QI and RL.

2015. In addition to its submission on defects in the Indictment, considered below, the Kanyabashi Defence submits that there were two massacres in Matyazo, one at Matyazo School on 21 April 1994 and another at Matyazo Clinic on 22 April 1994, the latter referred to in Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>5251</sup>

2016. The Kanyabashi Defence refutes the allegation that Kanyabashi went to the clinic after an initial attack and asked the Tutsis to remain there and claims that Kanyabashi was not present at the clinic on the day of the attack.<sup>5252</sup> It denies that Kanyabashi ordered soldiers to shoot at Tutsis.<sup>5253</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence agrees that Tutsis were sheltering at Matyazo Clinic toward the end of April 1994.<sup>5254</sup> When people from Huye tried to attack the clinic, Conseiller Athanase Nshimiyimana asked Kanyabashi to intervene and provide assistance. Kanyabashi came to the clinic and arranged for reinforcements, which involved securing the border between Ngoma and Huye communes and erecting a blockade. Hutus and Tutsis, with the assistance of policemen, resisted the attackers from Huye before being overwhelmed by soldiers.<sup>5255</sup> The Kanyabashi Defence claims that soldiers were responsible for the massacres at Matyazo. They attacked Matyazo Primary School late in the afternoon of 21 April 1994 and then attacked Matyazo Clinic in the morning of 22 April 1994.<sup>5256</sup> Kanyabashi had no authority over soldiers, who were not his subordinates. In fact, the soldiers considered

Kanyabashi to be an RPF accomplice. None of Kanyabashi's subordinates, namely policemen and conseillers, participated in the attacks.<sup>5257</sup>

2017. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that of the two massacres in Matyazo, only the second, at the clinic, is referred to in Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that where witnesses did not clearly establish this distinction, their accounts should not be considered personal experiences.<sup>5258</sup>

2018. The Kanyabashi Defence also asserts that Prosecution Witnesses QI and RL, who testified on the massacre at Matyazo Clinic, were members of the Ibuka association, an organisation whose objective is to falsify testimony against Kanyabashi.<sup>5259</sup> According to the Kanyabashi Defence, the testimony of Witnesses QI and RL is false.<sup>5260</sup>

2019. In support of its submissions, the Kanyabashi Defence relies on the testimony of Kanyabashi Defence Witnesses D-2-18-O, D-2-5-W, D-9-U, D-2-YYYY, D-2-5-I and D-2-21-T.

3.6.16.2 Preliminary Issues

2020. The Kanyabashi Defence submits that the Prosecution has failed to properly plead superior responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (3) of the Statute in respect of Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.<sup>5261</sup> However, it does not advance any additional arguments in support of this submission. The Chamber notes that if the Prosecution intends to rely on the theory of superior responsibility to hold an accused criminally responsible for a crime under Article 6 (3) of the Statute, the indictment should plead the following: (i) that the accused is the superior of subordinates sufficiently identified, over whom he had effective control – in the sense of a material ability to prevent or punish criminal conduct – and for whose acts he is alleged to be responsible; (ii) the criminal conduct of those others for whom he is alleged to be responsible; (iii) the conduct of the accused by which he may be found to have known or had reason to know that the crimes were about to be committed or had been committed by his subordinates; and (iv) the conduct of the accused by which he may be found to have failed to take the necessary and reasonable measures to prevent such acts or to punish the persons who committed them.<sup>5262</sup> A superior need not necessarily know the exact identity of his or her subordinates who perpetrate crimes in order to incur liability under Article 6 (3) of the Statute.<sup>5263</sup>

2021. The Chamber notes that the soldiers referred to in Paragraph 6.34 are not specifically described as being Kanyabashi's subordinates. The issue is therefore whether it can be inferred from reading the Indictment as a whole that the soldiers referred to in Paragraph 6.34 were

<sup>5259</sup> Kanyabashi Closing Brief, paras. 10-12; The Chamber notes that it has previously set out the evidence of Witness D-2-21-T and D-2-18-O as it relates to the alleged fabrication claim (i). The Chamber will take this evidence into account in the Deliberations section.

Kanyabashi's subordinates. The Chamber notes that Paragraph 4.3 of the Kanyabashi Indictment states that Kanyabashi exercised authority over his subordinates in his capacity as bourgmestre of Ngoma commune. According to Paragraph 6.32 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, those subordinates include, but are not limited to, conseillers de secteur and commune policemen. The Indictment therefore envisages the existence of other categories of subordinates insofar as Kanyabashi is concerned. Paragraph 6.34 refers to Kanyabashi giving orders to soldiers, which implies that the Accused held a position of authority vis-à-vis soldiers, regardless of the existence of a formal superior-subordinate relationship.<sup>5264</sup> In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers it established from reading the Indictment as a whole that the soldiers referred to in Paragraph 6.34 were Kanyabashi's alleged subordinates. The Chamber further observes that the alleged criminal conduct of the subordinates is the shooting and killing of those who had sought refuge at the clinic. Lastly, Paragraph 6.65 alleges that Kanyabashi had knowledge that massacres of the civilian population were being committed, but took no measures to stop them. The Chamber therefore considers that when reading the Indictment as a whole, the wording of Paragraph 6.34 is sufficiently specific to meet the standards set forth in the case law regarding Article 6 (3) liability.

3.6.16.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QI

2022. Witness QI, a Tutsi, testified that due to insecurity because of the war, his employer advised him to return to his home secteur in Huye commune.<sup>5265</sup> He followed his employer's advice and went to a relative's house in his home secteur about five days after the announcement of the President's death but did not remain there for the duration of the war.<sup>5266</sup> He spent two weeks at his relative's house and thereafter proceeded to the Notre Dame Dispensary in Matyazo secteur, Ngoma commune, arriving there between 3.00 p.m. and 4.00 p.m.<sup>5267</sup> On his way to Matyazo he encountered six soldiers very close to the gate of the clinic, near the road.<sup>5268</sup> They stopped the witness and asked to see his identity card.<sup>5269</sup> On learning that the witness was Tutsi, they asked him for 5,000 Rwandan francs, which he paid them, before they allowed him to proceed.<sup>5270</sup> The soldiers informed the witness that he would be killed further down the road in any event.<sup>5271</sup> In cross-examination he said that the soldiers told him that in any event he would die in front of the clinic.<sup>5272</sup> Witness QI thought the soldiers were ordinary soldiers, and not part of the Presidential Guard.<sup>5273</sup> When put to him that his statement of 11 June 1996 only stated that he crossed one soldier, Witness QI testified that he only spoke with one of the six soldiers he crossed.<sup>5274</sup> Witness QI confirmed that in his statement he claimed the soldiers belonged to the Presidential Guard.<sup>5275</sup>

2023. Witness QI testified that when he got to the clinic, he did not go inside because he saw approximately 500 Tutsis there and thought that they would be killed.<sup>5276</sup> He concluded they would be killed because on his way to the clinic, he saw Tutsis being targeted and killed.<sup>5277</sup> However, in cross-examination the witness stated that he did not personally see people who had been killed on his way to Matyazo Clinic, although he had been told by others that people from Runyinya commune had been killed.<sup>5278</sup>

2024. Instead of entering the clinic, the witness hid in a bush on the opposite side of the road from the clinic, just beyond the Electrogaz buildings.<sup>5279</sup> In cross-examination he testified that he walked a little up the road and veered off the main road to hide in a bush just past several Electrogaz buildings.<sup>5280</sup> He did not flee immediately because it was still daylight and Hutu civilians were still moving about the roads.<sup>5281</sup>

2025. Witness QI testified that from his hiding place he could see the red door of the clinic, which was about 50 paces away.<sup>5282</sup> The road separating his hiding place and the dispensary was four paces wide and the distance between the edge of the road and the clinic was about two and a half paces or metres.<sup>5283</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that because he had to walk around some buildings, his hiding place was about 500 metres from the clinic.<sup>5284</sup> When asked to explain this discrepancy, Witness QI testified that while his route around the Electrogaz buildings covered a distance of about 500 metres, it took him to a position about 50 metres from the clinic.<sup>5285</sup> The ground on which he hid was lower than the ground level of the clinic.<sup>5286</sup>

2026. As soon as Witness QI arrived at his hideout, he saw Kanyabashi arrive in a Peugeot 305 vehicle.<sup>5287</sup> Kanyabashi was driving the vehicle and was accompanied by two soldiers with guns.<sup>5288</sup> He was wearing khaki trousers and a white shirt.<sup>5289</sup> Witness QI stated that he saw Kanyabashi enter the clinic's premises and heard him address the Tutsis.<sup>5290</sup> Kanyabashi told them to remain there, that their safety would be ensured and that they had nothing to fear.<sup>5291</sup> The witness testified that this address lasted one to two minutes.<sup>5292</sup> After speaking to the Tutsis, Kanyabashi came out of the clinic with six soldiers armed with G3 guns and told them that when he left they should “begin the job in collaboration with other civilians.”<sup>5293</sup> The six soldiers Kanyabashi instructed were the same six soldiers who Witness QI had encountered on his way to the clinic.<sup>5294</sup>

2027. There were about 30 Hutu civilians present wearing ordinary clothes and hats that covered their faces.<sup>5295</sup> They also carried traditional weapons, including machetes, clubs embedded with knives and small hoes.<sup>5296</sup> He recognised two people, Conseiller Atanazia Kizenga, and a regular citizen called Dodos Mbirizi.<sup>5297</sup> Both were from Matyazo.<sup>5298</sup> The witness understood Kanyabashi’s direction to mean that the Tutsis present in the clinic would have to die.<sup>5299</sup> After speaking to the soldiers and civilians, Kanyabashi immediately left in his vehicle.<sup>5300</sup> Witness QI did not see any commune policemen present.<sup>5301</sup> When put to Witness QI that he could not have recognised the conseiller and Mbirizi because they were masked, Witness QI testified that he saw the conseiller leave and come back in his vehicle with children.<sup>5302</sup> The witness heard that thereafter the conseiller took these children to the church where they were killed.<sup>5303</sup>

2028. Witness QI testified that between 20 and 50 seconds after Kanyabashi’s departure, the Hutu civilians rushed at the Tutsis, attacking them with machetes, and the soldiers started to shoot.<sup>5304</sup> The attack started at around 6.00 p.m. when it was dark, although there was some light in the clinic.<sup>5305</sup> The witness asserted that no one survived the attack, although he did not personally verify whether that was indeed the case.<sup>5306</sup> He learned from others that there were no survivors.<sup>5307</sup>

2029. Witness QI stated that he left his hiding place at around 8.00 p.m. on the same day he arrived and walked throughout the night, returning to his employer’s house in Huye commune.<sup>5308</sup> In cross-examination, the witness was confronted with his statement of 11 June 1996 in which he said that he had spent two days hiding near the Notre Dame Dispensary.<sup>5309</sup> The witness explained that he was in a very difficult situation at the time and that one second could have been a week.<sup>5310</sup> In cross-examination Witness QI was questioned about his statement which said that the attack occurred in two stages.<sup>5311</sup> Witness QI stated that he did not speak of two separate attacks; he said that Kanyabashi left orders with the soldiers to kill the refugees and that after his departure people began to be killed in the night hours.<sup>5312</sup>

2030. When put to Witness QI that the attack began at 9.30 a.m. when soldiers with grenades burst onto the compound, that people fleeing were killed by civilians with machetes and the attack ended around noon, Witness QI stated that each person can recount the version that he heard or saw. When put to Witness QI that he was unjustly incriminating Kanyabashi and that Kanyabashi was never present at Matyazo, Witness QI stated that he saw Kanyabashi on the day of the attack; he was a leader and did nothing to stop the soldiers or policemen over whom he had authority.<sup>5313</sup>

2031. Witness QI learned from others that Kanyabashi had police officers at his disposal and that soldiers lived at his house.<sup>5314</sup> Witness QI identified Kanyabashi in court and stated that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune.<sup>5315</sup>

2032. Witness QI testified that he knew a person with the same family name as Witness RL who came from Matyazo; that person had told Witness QI that he had been clubbed over the head during the war and survived by crawling to the nearby church where he had since lived with a priest in Ngoma secteur.<sup>5316</sup> Witness QI and this person had seen each other after the war.<sup>5317</sup>

Prosecution Witness RL

2033. Witness RL, a Tutsi who was 13 years old in 1994, testified that he lived in the vicinity of Matyazo Clinic in April 1994.<sup>5318</sup> The clinic was surrounded by barbed-wire fencing and was accessed via a gate leading into the clinic compound.<sup>5319</sup> After the President's death in April 1994, Witness RL saw Kanyabashi on two occasions.<sup>5320</sup>

2034. The first occasion was a week and a half to two weeks after the death of the President one day before noon at Matyazo Clinic.<sup>5321</sup> Witness RL testified in cross-examination that this sighting occurred in the days that followed Habyarimana's death, if not the first week.<sup>5322</sup>

Kanyabashi arrived in a Toyota Stout vehicle and was accompanied by about six soldiers in camouflage uniform.<sup>5323</sup> There were between 1,500 and 2,000 people present outside the clinic compound.<sup>5324</sup> They had arrived the previous day at around 3.00 p.m. from Gikongoro préfecture with their livestock and had spent the night outside the grounds of the clinic.<sup>5325</sup>

2035. Kanyabashi addressed the refugees but the witness only heard a short portion of his address, maybe 5 minutes, after which he left.<sup>5326</sup> Kanyabashi subsequently asked the guards for the keys and let the refugees into the compound.<sup>5327</sup> After the gate was unlocked, Kanyabashi handed the keys to the soldiers.<sup>5328</sup> In cross-examination, the witness stated that there was a watchman at the dispensary who opened the gate on the orders of Kanyabashi to let the refugees in.<sup>5329</sup> When put to Witness RL that he did not witness the handing over of the key, he testified that the key was handed over during the period of 5 minutes that Witness RL was present.<sup>5330</sup> The witness was about 20 to 25 metres from Kanyabashi at that point.<sup>5331</sup> In cross-examination, he testified that he could not remember how far he stood from Kanyabashi at that point, maybe a few metres.<sup>5332</sup> After 30 minutes to one hour, Kanyabashi left the clinic and the six soldiers stayed behind.<sup>5333</sup> When it was put to Witness RL that his statement of 16 January 1997 stated that three soldiers stayed behind, Witness RL testified that some soldiers stayed behind, but he could not be sure of how many.<sup>5334</sup>

2036. The witness testified that once inside the clinic compound, the refugees were not allowed to leave. A young man who tried to leave the compound was shot and killed by the soldiers.<sup>5335</sup> Although Witness RL personally witnessed this, he conceded that he had not mentioned this incident in any of the statements he gave to Prosecution investigators prior to his testimony.<sup>5336</sup>

Kanyabashi arrived with eight soldiers aboard the Toyota Stout, Witness RL clarified that he meant there were eight soldiers at the clinic.<sup>5340</sup>

2038. Witness RL saw Kanyabashi standing in front of the clinic speaking to the soldiers, but could not hear what was being said. He estimated that there were 2,500 to 3,000 people in the clinic at the time.<sup>5341</sup> After seeing Kanyabashi leave, the witness returned home.<sup>5342</sup> About an hour later, towards nightfall, he heard gunshots coming from the direction of the clinic and saw fire in the air.<sup>5343</sup> He decided to flee, spending the night in a bean farm, and the next day headed to Ngoma Parish.<sup>5344</sup>

2039. Witness RL thought the attack occurred on a Thursday.<sup>5345</sup> Witness RL denied the attack started at 9.30 a.m. on Friday, 22 April 1994.<sup>5346</sup> Witness RL testified that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre before 1994, but he did not know his first name.<sup>5347</sup> He had seen him on several occasions before and after President Habyarimana's death.<sup>5348</sup> Before the President's death, he saw Kanyabashi at the stadium and the secteur office when he convened meetings, along the road whenever he received authorities from other areas and driving a Peugeot 305.<sup>5349</sup> The witness identified Kanyabashi in court.<sup>5350</sup>

2040. The witness acknowledged that he knew what Major Cyriaque Habyarabatuma looked like and knew he was a leader.<sup>5351</sup> Habyarabatuma was of average height and had a dark complexion and a round face.<sup>5352</sup> Witness RL testified that he did not see Habyarabatuma during Kanyabashi's first visit to Matyazo Clinic.<sup>5353</sup> When Witness RL was being cross-examined and re-examined about the Ngoma Church massacre that took place following the events at Matyazo, he stated that there was "no way" he could have mistaken Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi because he knew both of them.<sup>5354</sup> Even though he was still a child in 1994, Habyarabatuma and Kanyabashi held positions of authority – one used to come and hold meetings with the people and the other would be present whenever there was a search.<sup>5355</sup>

2041. Witness RL testified that he was not a member of any survivors' group nor had he ever attended any trial in Rwanda concerning the events that occurred in Ngoma and Matyazo in 1994.<sup>5356</sup>

2042. Witness RL testified that he knew a person with the same surname as Witness QI.<sup>5357</sup> However, Witness RL testified that he never had any opportunity to discuss the events of April to July 1994 with that person.<sup>5358</sup> When it was put to Witness RL that Witness QI stated he knew a person by the same surname as Witness RL who was living with a priest, who had been hit on the head with a club and who had survived the Ngoma Church attack, Witness RL insisted he did not discuss the events of April to July 1994 with that person.<sup>5359</sup> Witness RL testified that he was hit very hard on the head with a club on at least three occasions at Ngoma Church.<sup>5360</sup>

Prosecution Witness Ghandi Shukry

2043. Ghandi Shukry testified that photo numbers 28, 29, 30 and 31 admitted as Prosecution Exhibits 13A, 13B, 13C and 13D respectively dealt with the Sponsor Notre Dame de la Route or the Matyazo Clinic. The first three photographs showed the front side of the clinic from different angles while photo number 31 indicated the backside, outside the clinic itself and where the alleged mass grave was.<sup>5361</sup> The sketch marked S2 and admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 14 described the Matyazo Clinic compound.<sup>5362</sup> The witness testified that the video admitted as Prosecution Exhibit 15 showed, among others, the ceiling of the clinic in which refugees allegedly hid and two sites where clothes were buried still within the compound.<sup>5363</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-18-O

2044. Witness D-2-18-O, a Tutsi who was a 16-year-old student in 1994, testified that in April 1994, one week after the death of the President, people sought refuge at Matyazo Clinic and Matyazo Primary School.<sup>5364</sup> It was said those refugees came from Gikongoro préfecture.<sup>5365</sup> The clinic was located near the Matyazo Market, approximately 15 to 20 minutes walk from Witness D-2-18-O's residence; the school was situated next to the Matyazo Pentecostal Church, about 15 minutes' walk from the witness' home.<sup>5366</sup> The clinic was opposite Electrogaz buildings and was surrounded by a 2.15 metre high barbed wire fence.<sup>5367</sup>

2045. Witness D-2-18-O testified that he met the people who ultimately took refuge in Matyazo Clinic when they were on the road heading towards the clinic.<sup>5368</sup> They told him that they had fled because assailants were burning down their homes and telling them they would be killed if they did not flee.<sup>5369</sup> The witness stated that he saw these people at Matyazo Clinic on a daily basis.<sup>5370</sup> They were unguarded.<sup>5371</sup> Some of them would go to the village to beg for food and others would tend to their cattle.<sup>5372</sup>

2048. Interahamwe and other soldiers arrived between 6.00 and 7.00 a.m. on the same day. They pelted the refugees in the clinic with stones and the witness was hit on the head.<sup>5381</sup> A member of the Interahamwe and a soldier stood at the door and required people to produce their identity cards before leaving.<sup>5382</sup> The witness stated that he and some other children queued behind people with Hutu identification cards and managed to leave, although the witness did not have an identity card. About 30 people left the clinic, most of them young children. After the witness left the clinic, the soldiers and Interahamwe opened fire on those who remained. This attack lasted until approximately 12.00 noon. He denied that the attack occurred at nighttime.<sup>5383</sup>

2049. Witness D-2-18-O described how he left the dispensary and hid in a house with four girls.<sup>5384</sup> The house was located about four or five minutes walk from the clinic.<sup>5385</sup> The fence of the clinic was visible from the house and he could hear gunshots from where he was hiding. He spent two days hiding in the house.<sup>5386</sup>

2050. Witness D-2-18-O never saw Kanyabashi or the conseiller of Matyazo secteur at Matyazo Clinic during the time he spent there.<sup>5387</sup> He did see Kanyabashi in Matyazo secteur in April 1994.<sup>5388</sup> Witness D-2-18-O never saw any Ngoma commune policeman at or close to the clinic.<sup>5389</sup>

2051. The witness stated that he once saw some refugees being pursued by assailants dressed in banana leaves. Kanyabashi subsequently came to the area and said that the refugees had to be provided with shelter and protected from the Interahamwe.<sup>5390</sup> He also claimed that a female friend told him that she saw survivors from the attack at Matyazo Clinic being taken to Butare Hospital by the former conseiller of Matyazo secteur aboard a commune vehicle.<sup>5391</sup> That female friend was also one of the surviving refugees.<sup>5392</sup>

2052. When it was put to Witness D-2-18-O that the judgement of the Gacaca court<sup>5393</sup> concluded that he was not present at Matyazo Clinic, Witness D-2-18-O stated that he was present at the clinic during the time of the killings and he participated in the killings during the night of 21-22 April 1994.<sup>5394</sup> The people he killed were Tutsis.<sup>5395</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-W

road between the clinic and the primary school there was a Pepsi kiosk, and near to the school was another landmark identified by the witness.<sup>5402</sup>

refugees.<sup>5418</sup> He asked the civilians for their assistance in checking whether there were RPF soldiers or accomplices hiding among the refugees who had come to Matyazo, starting first with Matyazo Primary School.<sup>5419</sup> Witness D-2-5-W's attitude towards the Tutsi refugees changed after Niyonteze's speech.<sup>5420</sup>

2058. When put to Witness D-2-5-W that his statement of 23 May 1997 to Rwandan authorities made no mention of RPF combatants hiding in Matyazo as refugees, Witness D-2-5-W stated that his statement was incomplete.<sup>5421</sup> When put to Witness D-2-5-W that there was no mention of this event in his confession of 3 June 1997 to Rwandan authorities, Witness D-2-5-W stated that he omitted many details from that confession.<sup>5422</sup> With reference to the omission from his statement to the Rwandan Prosecutor dated 12 November 1997, Witness D-2-5-W stated that he wrote it quickly and under pressure in the Prosecutor's office.<sup>5423</sup> He did include this information in his fourth statement to Rwandan authorities of 4 June 1999,<sup>5424</sup> in his statement to the Kanyabashi Defence team dated 26, 28 and 29 October 2004,<sup>5425</sup> and his confession to the President of the Gacaca court.<sup>5426</sup>

and lasted until sunrise, between 4.00 a.m. and 5.00 a.m.<sup>5436</sup> Between 250 and 300 people were killed.<sup>5437</sup> He stated that he did not see Kanyabashi, Conseiller Athanase Nshimiyimana, or commune policemen at Matyazo Primary School during the attack.<sup>5438</sup>

2060. Witness D-2-5-W testified that after the attack, the soldiers became angry when they realised the conseiller de secteur had not been present during the attack to fight the enemy.<sup>5439</sup> The soldiers claimed that the conseiller and Bourgmestre Kanyabashi, nicknamed Kanyabatutsi, were working together to protect Tutsis and accomplices.<sup>5440</sup> Before the attack on the clinic, Niyonteze said that the conseiller of Matyazo and Kanyabashi should be put on a shortlist of RPF supporters.<sup>5441</sup> In cross-examination Witness D-2-5-W testified that Niyonteze made this statement on 21 April 1994 and thereafter repeated it in the following days.<sup>5442</sup> Soldiers often said Kanyabashi was an RPF accomplice too.<sup>5443</sup>

2061. When put to Witness D-2-5-W that Niyonteze's statement was not included in his statement of 23 May 1997 to Rwandan authorities, Witness D-2-5-W stated that he had not had enough time to elaborate and could not remember all the details at the time of making the statement.<sup>5444</sup> Witness D-2-5-W agreed that he also omitted this from his statements to the Rwandan Prosecutor dated 12 November 1997 and 4 June 1998 because he only discussed salient points.<sup>5445</sup> This incident was also missing from his statement to the Kanyabashi Defence team dated 26, 28 and 29 October 2004, although Witness D-2-5-W testified that he told them about it.<sup>5446</sup> It was also not mentioned in his confession to the President of the Gacaca court because he could not mention every detail.<sup>5447</sup>

School, they checked the identity cards of people sheltering in the clinic; the Hutus returned home leaving the Tutsis.<sup>5452</sup> From the opposite side of the road, in front of the Electrogaz workers housing, the soldiers opened fire and threw grenades at the Tutsis sheltering in the clinic.<sup>5453</sup> The attack started between 7.20 a.m. and 7.30 a.m. and ended at 10.30 a.m.<sup>5454</sup> The attack did not take place between 6.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.<sup>5455</sup> Between 200 and 250 people were killed.<sup>5456</sup>

2066. In Gacaca proceedings Witness D-2-5-W learned that Conseiller Nshimiyimana admitted he went to the clinic in the afternoon after the killings had taken place and took some children he found who were not dead to a presbytery and others to the hospital.<sup>5466</sup> Witness D-2-5-W testified that if Second Lieutenant Niyonteze had not been at Matyazo, the killings would not have occurred there.<sup>5467</sup>

2070. In cross-examination Witness D-9-U testified that the refugees arrived at the clinic approximately one week after Habyarimana's death.<sup>5482</sup> They remained at the clinic for one week and were then killed two weeks after Habyarimana's death.<sup>5483</sup> When put to the witness that her statement of 29 November 2004 stated the refugees arrived at the clinic two weeks after Habyarimana's death, Witness D-9-U testified that it must have been recorded wrong. When put to the witness that her statement of 29 November 2004 also stated that she went to the clinic to see the refugees out of curiosity, rather than because the conseiller asked them to assist, Witness D-9-U testified that her statement was taken down wrong.<sup>5484</sup>

2073. Witness D-9-U testified that around 8.00 p.m. on the third day of the police and civilians' defence of the Matyazo secteur border, she heard gunshots coming from Matyazo Primary School, located close to her home, which lasted until 5.00 a.m. the following day.<sup>5495</sup> That morning the witness saw corpses at the school and concluded that the soldiers had killed the people who had been sheltering in the school.<sup>5496</sup> She also heard people say that soldiers and civilians had been responsible for the attack.<sup>5497</sup> At 9.00 a.m. or 10.00 a.m. the same day, the witness heard shots being fired from Matyazo Clinic, which lasted until 2.00 p.m. or 3.00 p.m.<sup>5498</sup> People were saying that the refugees at the dispensary were being massacred.<sup>5499</sup> The following day the witness saw corpses at the clinic.<sup>5500</sup>

2076. Witness D-2-YYYY, a Hutu civil servant in 1994,<sup>5505</sup> testified that from 19 to 21 April 1994, he had been assigned to guard one of Ngoma commune's border areas at Mukura bridge on the border between Ngoma and Gishamvu communes.<sup>5506</sup> On 21 April 1994, the witness intended to stay at home but on receiving a message from a colleague, he went to Mukura bridge at 8.30 or 9.00 a.m.<sup>5507</sup> He went home around noon.<sup>5508</sup> When put to Witness D-2-YYYY that his statement of 19 November 2004 stated that he did not work on Thursday 21 April 1994, in contradiction to his testimony, Witness D-2-YYYY explained it was a misunderstanding, as he had told the investigator that he had a rest day, not that he had rested that day.<sup>5509</sup>

Kanyabashi Defence Witness D-2-5-I

2079. Witness D-2-5-I, a Hutu civil servant in 1994, testified that on 22 April 1994 he rested at home until 5.00 p.m. when he reported for work at the commune office where he spent the night.<sup>5521</sup> On 23 April 1994, the witness remained at the commune office.<sup>5522</sup> At 5.00 p.m. Kanyabashi arrived and asked the witness to accompany him.<sup>5523</sup> Kanyabashi, the witness and another person drove to Mukoni and the Hotel Faucon, where they were shot at.<sup>5524</sup> In view of the prevailing insecurity, the witness spent the night at Kanyabashi's house.<sup>5525</sup> While he denied being on duty with Witness D-2-YYYY at Kanyabashi's residence on 23 April 1994,<sup>5526</sup> he testified that Witness D-2-YYYY was at Kanyabashi's residence on the night of 23 April 1994.<sup>5527</sup>

3.6.16.4 Deliberations

2080. Both Parties agree that massacres were carried out in Matyazo at the end of April. Further, Kanyabashi's presence on the site, at some point in time during the massacres, is not contested. The issue of contention is the role Kanyabashi played in this event and whether he had authority over the perpetrators of these massacres.

2081. The Defence presented an alibi through Witnesses D-2-YYYY and D-2-5-I. The Chamber recalls that an accused does not bear the burden of proving his alibi beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>5528</sup> Rather, "[h]e must simply produce the evidence tending to show that he was not present at the time of the alleged crime",<sup>5529</sup> or, otherwise stated, present evidence "likely to raise a reasonable doubt in the Prosecution case".<sup>5530</sup> The Chamber notes that the testimony of Witness D-2-YYYY, if believed, would provide Kanyabashi with an alibi for the following periods: 8.30 a.m.-1.30 p.m. and 3.30 to 5.00 p.m. on 22 April 1994;<sup>5531</sup> 5.00 to 6.00 p.m. and 7.00/7.30 p.m.-midnight on 23 April 1994;<sup>5532</sup> and until 5.00 p.m. on 24 April 1994.<sup>5533</sup> Similarly, the testimony of Witness D-2-5-I, if believed, would provide Kanyabashi with an alibi for the entire evening of 23 April 1994 from 5.00 p.m.<sup>5534</sup> The Prosecution evidence places the commission of the crime at between 21 and 25 April 1994, at 6.00 p.m./nightfall at Matyazo Clinic. Accordingly, the alibi evidence would account for Kanyabashi's activities for only part of the relevant time frame advanced by the Prosecution. In particular, it does not cover 21 and 25 April 1994. Further, as regards 22 and 24 April 1994, the alibi evidence covers most of the day up to 5.00 p.m., the time when Witness D-2-YYYY left Kanyabashi at the commune office and his home respectively. The Chamber estimates that the distance between the Ngoma commune office and Kanyabashi's house on the one hand and Matyazo Clinic on the other is no more than two kilometres,<sup>5535</sup> which could easily be covered in a few minutes by car. In this connection, the Chamber recalls that according to Prosecution Witnesses QI and RL, Kanyabashi travelled to Matyazo Clinic by car.<sup>5536</sup> The Chamber will now assess whether the Prosecution has eliminated the reasonable possibility that the alibi is true.<sup>5537</sup>

2082. The Chamber notes that Witness D-2-YYYY was recruited by Kanyabashi and served under him for 15 years.<sup>5538</sup> The Chamber considers that as a consequence of this long-standing relationship of subordination, he may have had an interest in defending Kanyabashi. The Chamber further observes that apart from the evening of 23 April 1994, Witness D-2-YYYY's alibi evidence is uncorroborated. As for Witness D-2-5-I, the Chamber notes that he was another of Kanyabashi's subordinates<sup>5539</sup> and for that reason may have felt inclined to protect Kanyabashi. The Chamber also notes that the Kanyabashi Defence failed to enter a notice of alibi under Rule 67 (A)(ii)(a) of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence, which further detracts from the credibility of the alibi. When viewed as a whole, the Chamber does not find that the evidence adduced in support of Kanyabashi's alibi for the attack at Matyazo Clinic raises a reasonable doubt in the Prosecution evidence placing him at the scene of the crime between 21 and 25 April 1994.

admission into evidence of these various documents.<sup>5543</sup> Moreover, the maps are consistent both with each other and with the testimony of each witness recalled above.

2084. The Chamber observes that there are a number of consistencies with respect to the events at Matyazo between the evidence of Prosecution Witnesses QI and RL. In particular, the Chamber notes that both witnesses testified to having seen Kanyabashi arrive at the clinic,<sup>5544</sup> address the Tutsis who were sheltering inside<sup>5545</sup> and leave shortly thereafter.<sup>5546</sup> Both witnesses testified to the presence of soldiers in or near the clinic and further testified that Kanyabashi was accompanied by soldiers during his visit.<sup>5547</sup> In this connection, the Chamber recalls Witness QI's testimony that he saw six soldiers close to the gate of the clinic and an additional two soldiers accompanying Kanyabashi.<sup>5548</sup> Witness RL similarly testified to the presence of a total of eight soldiers at the clinic, three or four of whom had arrived with Kanyabashi.<sup>5549</sup> Both witnesses testified that Kanyabashi spoke to the soldiers and Witness QI described how he saw the Accused tell the soldiers to "begin the job".<sup>5550</sup> Moreover, both witnesses testified that the attack involved shots being fired.<sup>5551</sup> Witness QI stated that the attack on the clinic started at around 6.00 p.m. and Witness RL testified that the attack took place around nightfall.<sup>5552</sup> Neither witness testified to an attack on Matyazo School. As regards time frames, Witness QI's testimony places the date of the attack about two weeks and five days after the death of the President, i.e. around 25 April 1994.<sup>5553</sup> Witness RL's estimation of the date of the attack is similar, being between 15 and 19 days after the President's death, namely between 21 and 25 April 1994.<sup>5554</sup> In any event, the Chamber does not consider the minor margin of difference as to time frames to be significant, especially in view of the time that has elapsed since the events.

2085. The Kanyabashi Defence questioned the identification testimony of Witness RL. It notes that Witness RL was 13 years old at the time, recalls his admission that he neither knew the Accused's first name nor the number of times he saw Kanyabashi before the events, and suggests that Witness RL mistakenly identified another man, Major Cyriaque Habyarabatura, as Kanyabashi.<sup>5555</sup> In respect of Witness RL's identification of Kanyabashi in 1994, the Chamber considers that, even considering the young age of the witness during the events of 1994, his testimony that he knew Kanyabashi to be bourgmestre and saw him in his locality before April 1994<sup>5556</sup> is credible in light of the fact that Kanyabashi was a public authority in Witness RL's home commune of Ngoma. The Chamber finds that by April 1994, the witness was capable of identifying Kanyabashi at Matyazo based on his previous experiences. Witness RL's courtroom identification of Kanyabashi,<sup>5557</sup> while of limited value, supports this finding. The Chamber further finds that Witness RL gave consistent and convincing testimony when confronted with the assertion that he may have mistaken Kanyabashi for another man, Major Cyriaque Habyarabatuma.<sup>5558</sup> The Chamber recalls that the witness insisted that there was "no way" he could have mistaken Habyarabatuma for Kanyabashi, despite his young age in 1994.<sup>5559</sup> The witness clearly distinguished the positions of authority held by these men, one of whom used to hold meetings and the other who used to be present whenever there was a search.<sup>5560</sup>

2086. Witness QI identified Kanyabashi in court and stated that he knew Kanyabashi as the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune.<sup>5561</sup> The Defence did not question Witness QI's ability to identify Kanyabashi, other than by questioning the witness' testimony in relation to seeing him at the Matyazo Clinic. The Kanyabashi Defence pointed to an apparent inconsistency between Witness QI's testimony during examination-in-chief that his hiding place was 50 paces from the clinic and his statement under cross-examination that he hid about 500 metres from the clinic.<sup>5562</sup> The Chamber does, however, accept the witness' explanation of the discrepancies in his testimony, i.e. that he travelled a total distance of 500 metres to arrive at a hiding place that was approximately 50 paces from the clinic.<sup>5563</sup> The Chamber does not agree with the Kanyabashi Defence's submission that even from a distance of 50 metres it would have been virtually impossible for Witness QI to clearly hear the words of an address attributed to Kanyabashi.<sup>5564</sup>

2087. The Chamber's attention has been drawn to the existence of inconsistencies in the Prosecution evidence and issues that may adversely impact upon the credibility of the witnesses. With regard to inconsistencies between the accounts on this event, the Chamber recalls that Witness QI stated that there were approximately 500 Tutsis at the clinic before the attack while Witness RL estimated there to have been between 2,500 and 3,000.<sup>5565</sup> However, the witnesses may not have had the same opportunities to observe the number of Tutsis who had gathered at the clinic. In particular, the Chamber notes that Witness QI did not actually enter the clinic building and was in hiding, in a bush approximately 50 metres away.<sup>5566</sup> In contrast, Witness RL was free to move about and testified to being on the road in front of the clinic when he saw the Accused for the second time.<sup>5567</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber does not consider this inconsistency to be significant.

2089. The witnesses' testimony also differs as to the length of time that elapsed between Kanyabashi's departure and the witnesses' realisation that an attack was underway: between 20 to 50 seconds on the one hand<sup>5570</sup> and one hour on the other.<sup>5571</sup> The Chamber recalls, however, that Witness RL left the clinic after Kanyabashi's departure.<sup>5572</sup> He did not see the start of the attack; rather, he heard gunshots from the direction of the clinic approximately one hour later.<sup>5573</sup> Witness QI testified that the refugees were attacked with machetes and shot at.<sup>5574</sup> In the Chamber's view, it is possible that there were two stages to the attack; the first involving machetes shortly after Kanyabashi left and the second involving guns one hour later. This would explain why Witness RL only heard shots one hour after his departure from the clinic. It is also possible that Witness RL simply did not hear the attack until later. For these reasons, the Chamber does not regard this difference to be materially important to the assessment of the witnesses' credibility.

suggested that there were two attacks, one before and one after Kanyabashi's visit,<sup>5579</sup> whereas according to his testimony the attack started after Kanyabashi left.<sup>5580</sup> The Chamber does not consider these inconsistencies to be sufficiently serious as to undermine Witness QI's credibility; the inconsistencies between his testimony and previous statement of 11 June 1996 do not go to the root of his account and concern details the clarity of which may be affected by the passage of time. The Chamber finds Witness QI's account of events at Matyazo to be generally robust and credible.

2091. As regards Witness RL, when it was put to him that his statements of 11 July 1996 and 16 January 1997 stated that the refugees were already in the clinic compound when Kanyabashi arrived,<sup>5581</sup> in contrast to his testimony that they were outside the clinic,<sup>5582</sup> the witness suggested that the statements had been taken down incorrectly and maintained the account he gave in examination-in-chief.<sup>5583</sup> In the same statements, the witness also stated that Kanyabashi first came to the clinic on 23 April 1994,<sup>5584</sup> rather than a week and a half to two weeks after the President's death, as mentioned during his testimony.<sup>5585</sup> After the events at Matyazo, Witness RL stated that he went to Ngoma Parish where he witnessed another attack.<sup>5586</sup> However, in his statement of 8 May 1998, he said he was present in Ngoma Parish between 13 and 20 April 1994,<sup>5587</sup> which conflicts with the dates on which he claimed to be in Matyazo as given in his testimony and other statements. In cross-examination, the witness underlined that the dates he gave in his statements were approximate and referred to the difficult conditions in which he was living at the time and his desire to survive.<sup>5588</sup>

2092. The Chamber considers these discrepancies to be of a minor nature. Furthermore, in the Chamber's view, the witness was able to provide plausible explanations for these inconsistencies and recalls that his young age during the events, the time that has elapsed since and the trauma he may have experienced may explain the date discrepancies. The Chamber does therefore not consider such discrepancies to have a material impact on the veracity of the witness' account or on his credibility, and is of the view that his testimony is generally clear and consistent.

Witness RL, read aloud that he had seen Kanyabashi incite people to perpetrate the killings in Ngoma and that Kanyabashi was with soldiers, policemen and Interahamwe in Ngoma.<sup>5589</sup> Witness D-2-21-T alleged that this person also read that Kanyabashi incited people to kill at the Matyazo health centre.<sup>5590</sup> Witness D-2-21-T also testified that a participant whose full name matched that of Witness QI read from his sheet of false accusations that he saw Kanyabashi with soldiers and policemen at Matyazo, inciting people to kill.<sup>5591</sup>

2096. The Kanyabashi Defence led evidence through Witness D-2-18-O to further support Witness D-2-21-T's assertions that Witnesses QI and RL were Ibuka members who "suggested" at Ibuka meetings that people should testify to having seen Kanyabashi in the company of soldiers at Ngoma commune and Matyazo Clinic.<sup>5596</sup> Witness D-2-18-O claimed that Witness RL told the meeting that it was necessary to place Kanyabashi at Ngoma Church even though Witness RL told them that he had not seen Kanyabashi there.<sup>5597</sup>

2100. Turning now to the Defence evidence on the attacks at Matyazo, the Chamber observes that, as with the Prosecution's witnesses, there are similarities between the testimony of Defence Witnesses D-2-18-O, D-2-5-W and D-9-U. In this regard, the Chamber recalls that all three witnesses testified that there were two separate attacks in Matyazo: Matyazo Primary School was attacked in the evening of 21 April or thereabouts<sup>5600</sup> and Matyazo Clinic was attacked early the following morning.<sup>5601</sup> The attack on the clinic involved shots being fired.<sup>5602</sup> The assailants included soldiers.<sup>5603</sup> Two witnesses further testified that they did not see Kanyabashi at the clinic.<sup>5604</sup>

2101. The Chamber also recalls that all three witnesses testified that the refugees who had gathered at the clinic were free to move around and were unguarded.<sup>5605</sup> The Chamber regards this aspect of the witnesses' testimony as lacking credibility in view of the existence of a roadblock approximately 120 metres from the clinic.<sup>5606</sup> Except for the testimony of Witnesses D-2-5-W and D-9-U that the refugees were free to move around, and without accepting the other aspects of their testimony as fact, the Chamber notes that the Defence provided a reasonably plausible and consistent account of events through Witnesses D-2-5-W and D-9-U. While Witness D-2-18-O's evidence also supports that account, the Chamber underlines that there are serious credibility issues surrounding his role in the events of 1994, as discussed above.

2102. Having considered the details of the attacks described by both the Prosecution and Defence, in particular the dates and times, the Chamber considers that the Defence's version of events could plausibly exist alongside the version advanced by the Prosecution. It is possible that Matyazo Clinic was subject to two separate attacks; one on or around 22 April 1994 which took place in the morning and another towards the end of April 1994 which took place at night.

Indeed, the Chamber notes that this is consistent with Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment, which alleges that an initial attack took place at the clinic before the massacre with which Kanyabashi stands charged.

2103. In light of all of the foregoing, having assessed the totality of the evidence, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has established beyond a reasonable doubt that in late April 1994, following an initial attack by soldiers, Kanyabashi went to Matyazo Clinic. The Chamber further finds it is established beyond a reasonable doubt that Kanyabashi addressed the Tutsis who were sheltering in the clinic at that time and thereafter ordered soldiers to open fire on the Tutsis, resulting in many deaths, as alleged in Paragraph 6.34 of the Kanyabashi Indictment.

3.6.17 Butare University Hospital, April – May 1994

3.6.17.1 Introduction

2104. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that in April and May 1994, Ntahobali, Kanyabashi and André Rwamakuba, accompanied by soldiers or militiamen of unknown identity acting under their orders, went to Butare University Hospital in Ngoma commune to select, kidnap and kill Tutsis who had sought treatment or refuge there.<sup>5607</sup>

2105. The Prosecution submits that Ntahobali led an attack at Butare University Hospital with a certain Doctor Gatera. It claims that this attack was part of a pattern of attacks led by soldiers and Interahamwe, including Ntahobali, throughout Butare préfecture.<sup>5608</sup> The Prosecution claims that Ntahobali and Doctor Gatera prevented Tutsi civilians at Butare University Hospital from getting medical treatment by specifically targeting the sick on the basis of their Tutsi ethnicity. The Prosecution asserts that Doctor Gatera was Ntahobali's accomplice and told nurses not to treat Tutsi patients. The Prosecution submits that in this regard, Ntahobali and Doctor Gatera knew or ought to have known that their actions could increase the pain and suffering of ill or injured Tutsi civilians.<sup>5609</sup>

2106. The Prosecution submits that in addition to participating in the commission of genocide as a direct perpetrator, Ntahobali also directly provoked, prompted or otherwise induced Interahamwe and soldiers to commit genocide. It submits that Ntahobali's presence at Butare University Hospital, where corpses were loaded into a vehicle while the Accused stood watching, was sufficient to instigate others to commit genocide.<sup>5610</sup>

2108. The Ntahobali Defence submits that of the five Prosecution witnesses called to testify to the events that took place at Butare University Hospital, only one, Witness QY, incriminated Ntahobali. The Ntahobali Defence further submits that Witness QY's testimony cannot be

3.6.17.2 Preliminary Issues

2109. The Ntahobali Defence submits that the Prosecution has failed to provide adequate specificity in pleading superior responsibility pursuant to Article 6 (3) of the Statute in respect of Paragraph 6.34 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment. Specifically, the Ntahobali Defence asserts that the identification of the individuals who allegedly acted under Ntahobali's authority as "soldiers or militiamen" is not clear and consistent information about persons or groups of persons over whom Ntahobali allegedly exercised control.<sup>5612</sup> In the Ntahobali Defence's view, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment was therefore defective and these defects were not cured.<sup>5613</sup>

2110. Recalling the requirements for adequately pleading Article 6 (3) responsibility, the Chamber considers that, if the wording of Paragraph 6.34 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is read in light of the Indictment as a whole, all the requisite elements pursuant to Article 6 (3) are provided. In Paragraph 6.34, the subordinates are identified by reference to a class or category of individuals, i.e. militiamen or soldiers. Although this paragraph does not specify particular militiamen or soldiers or address the issue of effective control, Paragraphs 4.4 and 4.5 assert that Ntahobali led the MRND militiamen and exercised authority over the Interahamwe in Butare. The Ntahobali Defence concedes that the designations "MRND militiamen" and "Interahamwe" are very clear and precise.<sup>5614</sup> Thus, the Indictment sets forth that these individuals were under the orders of Ntahobali. Further, the Indictment informed Ntahobali of the alleged criminal conduct in stating that he was present with the said individuals when Tutsis were selected, kidnapped and killed. Paragraph 6.34 specifies the criminal conduct alleged to have been committed by the subordinates, namely the kidnapping and killing of Tutsis and, furthermore, describes the subordinates as having acted under Ntahobali's orders. In addition, Paragraph 6.55 alleges that Ntahobali took no steps to halt the massacres. Therefore, the Indictment identified: Ntahobali's subordinates, specifying that Ntahobali had effective control over them; the alleged criminal conduct of his subordinates; Ntahobali's knowledge of the criminal conduct; and Ntahobali's failure to take necessary and reasonable measures to prevent or punish such acts.

2111. Accordingly, the Chamber concludes that the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment is not defective and the Prosecution has adequately pled superior responsibility under Article 6 (3). Further, there was no prejudice to Ntahobali in the preparation of his defence case.

3.6.17.3 Evidence

Prosecution Witness QY

2113. Witness QY testified that during her stay in the hospital, she witnessed an attack one late afternoon by Doctor Gatera and another man who was later identified to her as Shalom, the son of Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>5620</sup> The witness stated that she saw Shalom with her own eyes, although she could not remember whether his attire was civilian or military.<sup>5621</sup> The witness was about 14.5 metres away from Shalom at the time.<sup>5622</sup> She learned from a woman with whom she later fled, that the man’s name was Shalom.<sup>5623</sup>

2115. Witness QY stated she did not know where the abducted patients had been taken, but the next day she saw many corpses being loaded into a vehicle next to the hospital in the presence of the man she knew as Shalom. She stated that she stayed at the hospital until she was chased away.<sup>5625</sup>

or at the time of her testimony. Witness QY indicated that she would be unable to recognise that man. Because of the circumstances in which they found themselves, she was not able to observe Shalom closely.<sup>5626</sup>

Prosecution Witness RE

2117. Witness RE, a Tutsi who was 16 years old in 1994, testified that after the death of the President she left Gikongoro and sought refuge in Butare with other unidentified individuals.<sup>5627</sup> They first went to Butare University Hospital where they spent one week.<sup>5628</sup> During her stay at the hospital, she saw many wounded people inside the hospital buildings and outside, where plastic sheeting had been erected to provide temporary shelter.<sup>5629</sup>

Prosecution Witness SS

destroyed soon after.<sup>5639</sup> She left with a group of Tutsis and together they travelled on foot to the Butare préfecture office. They were accompanied by four soldiers.<sup>5640</sup>

Prosecution Witness FAP

2121. Witness FAP, a Tutsi who was a farmer in 1994, testified that she went to the children's ward of Butare University Hospital in April 1994 with one of her sons.<sup>5641</sup> She went there because she thought she had family there but could not find them.<sup>5642</sup> On arriving at the hospital she encountered approximately 60 patients being treated by the Red Cross in three tents pitched in front of the hospital.<sup>5643</sup> Two tents were occupied by wounded Tutsis and the third tent housed refugees from Burundi.<sup>5644</sup> She met four soldiers who beat her up on discovering that she was Tutsi.<sup>5645</sup>

2122. Witness FAP testified that the Red Cross was providing treatment at the hospital, although soldiers later took the Red Cross' medication away and the patients who were receiving treatment were killed. The soldiers subsequently informed Witness FAP that the makeshift shelter of plastic sheeting under which she had taken refuge had to be destroyed because of Inkotanyi infiltrators and those sheltering there had to go to the Butare préfecture office.<sup>5646</sup> There were between 15 and 50 people in the group that left the makeshift shelter.<sup>5647</sup> The group travelled to the préfecture office on foot and were accompanied by four soldiers.<sup>5648</sup> Witness FAP could not remember exactly how long she stayed in the hospital but on cross-examination stated that she spent around two weeks there.<sup>5649</sup>

Prosecution Witness SD

There were no Hutus sheltering at the hospital although there were some Burundian refugees whose ethnic origin was unknown to the witness.<sup>5654</sup>

2124. Witness SD testified that she and her children spent one week at the hospital and were then transferred by the hospital director, Doctor Gatera, to the Butare préfecture office.<sup>5655</sup> The witness stated that many other people were transported with her to the Butare préfecture office in a red Toyota vehicle that belonged to the hospital and was driven by a member of the hospital staff.<sup>5656</sup> A soldier accompanied the vehicle during the trip. Only those who refused to get into the vehicle were subjected to acts of violence.<sup>5657</sup>

Nsabimana Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika

2125. Alexandre Bararwandika, a Hutu doctor from Burundi, testified that after the death of the President, he briefly worked as a volunteer for the Belgian Red Cross until it left Butare on 13 or 14 April 1994.<sup>5658</sup> Given that various NGOs were withdrawing from the area, the witness, together with others, established an association to assist those in need.<sup>5659</sup> This association operated out of premises at Butare University Hospital and commenced its activities in the third week of April 1994.<sup>5660</sup> The director of the hospital at the time was Doctor Jothan Nshimyumukiza.<sup>5661</sup> The witness stayed at the hospital until 3 July 1994.<sup>5662</sup>

2126. Bararwandika stated that the association treated wounded men, women, children and some soldiers. The association's role in treating the wounded enabled it to care for others who had been abandoned, mostly Tutsis.<sup>5663</sup> The wounded arrived at the hospital in gendarmérie and Red Cross vehicles. The hospital only had 300 beds and at a certain point, all the wards were full. In order to address the problem of overcrowding, tents were erected outside.<sup>5664</sup>

2127. With regard to the issue of security at the hospital, Bararwandika testified that some patients disappeared during the night and stated that they could have left of their own volition or have been abducted. He knew that some patients had been abducted because other patients had seen the abductions and reported these events back to the witness, as well as identifying the perpetrators of the abductions as militia.<sup>5665</sup> The victims of the abductions were Tutsis.<sup>5666</sup> The witness testified that the patients who spoke to him about the abductions told him the attackers were Interahamwe and abicanyi, the latter word meaning "killers" in Kinyarwanda.<sup>5667</sup>

2128. Bararwandika testified that even though the hospital was guarded by soldiers and wounded persons with arms, abductions still took place. According to the witness, this was because there was collusion between some soldiers and militia.<sup>5668</sup> As a consequence of the prevailing insecurity at the hospital, many people hid in different rooms.<sup>5669</sup> In some cases, the doctors tried to extend patients' treatment time by exaggerating their illnesses, making their condition look more serious than was actually the case or by putting them in locked wards.<sup>5670</sup> In the witness' view, these measures worked because the abductions stopped and patients were still alive on 3 July 1994, when he left the hospital for good.<sup>5671</sup> The witness conceded that he never personally saw militia or anyone else carry out killings at the hospital.<sup>5672</sup> He worked at the hospital five or six days per week, but never worked at night.<sup>5673</sup>

2129. Bararwandika testified that some patients were moved to the Butare préfecture office and the EER primary school in mid-May 1994 following the issuance of a hospital directive to that effect.<sup>5674</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness H1B6

2130. Witness H1B6, a Hutu, testified that he lived and worked at Butare University Hospital between April and mid-June 1994. Following the death of the President, only a few of the hospital's staff reported for work.<sup>5675</sup> The first casualty of the war was admitted to the hospital on 8 or 9 April 1994.<sup>5676</sup> Médecins Sans Frontières arrived at the hospital around 10 April 1994 and erected a transit tent close to the paediatrics unit for patients who had left the hospital and were waiting to return to their homes.<sup>5677</sup> Three MSF officers brought medicines and equipment and worked alongside the few hospital staff who had reported for duty.<sup>5678</sup> The witness knew that they were MSF staff because of the MSF symbols on their tents and uniforms.<sup>5679</sup> The MSF staff left a little less than two weeks after their arrival.<sup>5680</sup> Witness H1B6 learned of their departure from a radio report stating that the MSF doctors had left because some of their patients had been taken from the hospital and killed.<sup>5681</sup> The witness said that he never witnessed the abduction or killings of patients.<sup>5682</sup> Patients were evacuated from the hospital for hygienic reasons, but not abducted.<sup>5683</sup>

2134. In April 1994, the director of the University Hospital was Doctor Zetam Nshimyumukiza, who often reported for duty, and the dean of the faculty of medicine was Karemera, an ophthalmologist, whom the witness did not see.<sup>5693</sup> Due to the security situation, most doctors preferred to stay at home.<sup>5694</sup> However some doctors, mainly surgeons, came when needed including Drs. Munyemana, Kageruka, Twagirayezu, Gatera, Viateur and Mwigimba.<sup>5695</sup>

Ntahobali Defence Witness WCNMC

2135. Witness WCNMC, a Hutu who was 19 years old in 1994, testified that she visited Butare University Hospital on approximately six occasions to visit her father who was a patient there between 4 and 25 April 1994.<sup>5696</sup> Her father was admitted to the wards located behind the paediatric unit.<sup>5697</sup>

2137. Witness WCNMC testified that during her visits to the hospital, she never saw Ntahobali nor did her father ever tell her that he had seen him.<sup>5699</sup> Moreover, she never heard that Ntahobali had come to the hospital to kill or abduct people, nor did she ever hear anyone asserting that people had been abducted or killed at that location between April and July 1994.<sup>5700</sup>

2138. It is uncontested that the Red Cross and MSF were providing healthcare to patients in tents placed in front of Butare University Hospital. Both Prosecution and Defence witnesses gave consistent evidence in this regard.<sup>5701</sup> In particular, the Chamber recalls the testimony of Nsabimana Defence Witness Alexandre Bararwandika, a Hutu who provided health care to refugees at the hospital during the genocide, who confirmed that there were hundreds of wounded persons, mainly Tutsis, who had been abandoned and who sought treatment at the hospital.<sup>5702</sup> The Chamber finds this witness generally credible. The issues before the Chamber are whether these Tutsi refugees who were sheltering at the hospital were then kidnapped and killed, and what role, if any, Ntahobali played in this event, as alleged in the Indictment against him.

Prosecution witnesses, who testified that they were deprived of necessary medical treatment because of their Tutsi ethnicity. For instance, Witness SS, a Tutsi, testified that she initially received treatment at the hospital but that Doctor Gatera prevented the Red Cross from treating Tutsis by taking away their medicine.<sup>5706</sup> Witness FAP corroborated the fact that the Red Cross' medication was taken away.<sup>5707</sup>

2140. Witness QY testified that she saw Doctor Gatera and Ntahobali removing blankets from patients to check their identity.<sup>5708</sup> The witness stated that she fled, but that upon her return to the hospital the next day, she observed Ntahobali standing next to a vehicle as it was loaded with corpses.<sup>5709</sup> Witness RE confirmed that those who refused to go to the Butare préfecture office on the orders of Doctor Gatera were taken away to be killed.<sup>5710</sup> However, Witness RE did not provide any details of the killings, nor did she assert that she witnessed this. In any event, Bararwandika also observed that some patients disappeared during the night and that other patients had observed abductions by Interahamwe.<sup>5711</sup>

2141. The Chamber notes that Witness QY is the only Prosecution witness to implicate Ntahobali in the events at Butare University Hospital. Witness QY did not know Ntahobali prior to the events and only based her identification of him on the hearsay statement of a fellow refugee after the incident. Furthermore, she was unable to identify Ntahobali in court.<sup>5712</sup> The Chamber recognises that the time period between the events at the hospital and the witness' testimony was significant and could account for her inability to identify Ntahobali in court. However, in the view of the Chamber, the hearsay nature of Witness QY's identification of Ntahobali coupled with the lack of any corroboration to the presence of Ntahobali at Butare University Hospital raises a doubt as to whether he was, in fact, present.

2142. In light of the foregoing, and having assessed the totality of the evidence, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to discharge its burden of proof in relation to the allegations contained in Paragraph 6.34 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment, related to Ntahobali. It has not been established beyond a reasonable doubt that in April and May 1994, Ntahobali went to Butare University Hospital with a view to select, kidnap and kill Tutsis that had sought treatment or refuge there.

3.6.18 Butare University Hospital – Kanyabashi

3.6.18.1 Introduction

further alleges that Kanyabashi led the convoy of refugees from the hospital and that the refugees were subsequently killed rather than being escorted home.<sup>5713</sup>

2144. Paragraph 6.38 of the Kanyabashi Indictment alleges that on 15 May 1994, Kanyabashi and soldiers checked the identity cards of patients at Butare University Hospital in order to identify Tutsis. Patients identified as Tutsis were allegedly abducted by the soldiers in the presence of Kanyabashi and later killed.<sup>5714</sup> The Chamber recalls that in its Decision on Defence Motions for Acquittal under Rule 98 bis dated 14 December 2004, it acquitted Kanyabashi of the charges insofar as they were based on this paragraph.<sup>5715</sup> Accordingly, Paragraph 6.38 of the Kanyabashi Indictment will not be considered in the present section under review.

2145. In support of its submissions, the Prosecution relies on the Expert Report of Alison Des Forges.

3.6.18.2 Preliminary Issues

2146. The Kanyabashi Defence raised several issues regarding alleged defects in the Indictment, including alleged defects in Paragraph 6.37.<sup>5716</sup> In its 31 May 2000 Decision, the Chamber held that, with the exception of a minor clarification, Paragraph 6.37 provided adequate notice of the charges against Kanyabashi and, consequently, dismissed the Kanyabashi Defence's request to set aside that paragraph of the Indictment.<sup>5717</sup> The Chamber need not revisit the Kanyabashi Defence's assertions regarding alleged defects in the Indictment.<sup>5718</sup>

Prosecution Expert Witness Alison Des Forges

2147. Alison Des Forges stated in her Expert Report that the bourgmestre of Ngoma commune helped persuade Tutsis from Huye commune who had sought refuge at Butare University Hospital to leave the hospital. The bourgmestre was also said to have returned on a number of occasions, twice in the company of soldiers, to see that other Tutsis be removed from the hospital. Some of the Tutsis who had been expelled were killed at a roadblock, a short distance away from the hospital.<sup>5719</sup> Des Forges did not give further evidence in relation to this issue.

3.6.18.4 Deliberations

2148. The Chamber observes that Paragraph 6.37 of the Kanyabashi Indictment is only cited in support of Article 6 (3) responsibility. In this regard, the Chamber notes that the only evidence proffered by the Prosecution regarding Kanyabashi's alleged activities at Butare University Hospital was a reference to page 39 of Des Forges' Report. The Prosecution led no evidence from its factual witnesses as to Kanyabashi's involvement in the events at Butare University Hospital as alleged in Paragraph 6.37 of the Indictment. None of the Prosecution witnesses placed Kanyabashi at the hospital or otherwise suggested that he may have been involved in transferring patients from the hospital to the Butare préfecture office. Furthermore, the Prosecution led no evidence establishing that Kanyabashi had effective control over the assailants, knew about the alleged criminal acts at Butare University Hospital, or that he failed to take reasonable or necessary measures to prevent the criminal acts. For these reasons, the Chamber finds that the Prosecution has failed to discharge its burden of proof in relation to the allegations contained in Paragraph 6.37 of the Kanyabashi Indictment. It has not been established beyond a reasonable doubt that in early May 1994, Kanyabashi went to Butare University Hospital where he collected the Tutsis under the false promise to protect them, and instead he subsequently killed them.

3.6.19 Butare Préfecture Office ("BPO"), April – June 1994

3.6.19.1 Introduction

2149. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that between 19 April 1994 and late June 1994, Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, accompanied by Interahamwe such as Jumapili, Nsengiyumva, and soldiers went to the BPO to abduct Tutsi refugees. Tutsis that attempted to resist were assaulted and sometimes killed. Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali often forced the Tutsis to undress completely before forcing them into vehicles that took them to their death.<sup>5720</sup>

2150. The Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment further alleges that aside from his attacks on members of the Tutsi population during this period, Ntahobali, assisted by unknown accomplices, participated in kidnapping and raping of Tutsi women.<sup>5721</sup> It is alleged that during the events referred to in the Indictment, rapes, sexual assaults and other crimes of a sexual nature were widely and notoriously committed throughout Rwanda. These crimes were perpetrated by, among others, soldiers, militiamen and gendarmes against the Tutsi population, in particular women and girls.<sup>5722</sup> Finally, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment alleges that Ntahobali exercised control over the Interahamwe militiamen in Butare préfecture.<sup>5723</sup>

<sup>5720</sup> Para. 6.30 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment (in support of Counts 2-3, 5-6, 8-10 against both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali); Para. 6.31 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment (in support of Counts 2-3, 5-6, 8-11 against both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali).

<sup>5721</sup> Para. 6.37 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment (in support of Counts 7 and 11 against both Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali).

abducted, killed and raped refugees at the BPO at night because he was responsible for turning the generator on and off at the Hotel Ihuliro.<sup>5732</sup>

2156. The Ntahobali Defence relies on Nyiramasuhuko Defence Witnesses Denise Ntahobali, WZNA, CEM, Clarisse Ntahobali, Céline Nyiraneza, WBUC, Maurice Ntahobali, Ntahobali Defence Witnesses Béatrice Munyenyezi, WDUSA, WUNJN, WUNHE, WMCZ and WUNHF and Ntahobali.

3.6.19.2 Preliminary Issues

Prima Facie Case

2157. On behalf of Nyiramasuhuko, the Ntahobali Defence asserts that the Chamber permitted the amendment of the Indictment to add the count of rape against Nyiramasuhuko without performing the requisite evaluation of the existence of prima facie evidence to support such a charge.<sup>5733</sup> In this regard, the Chamber recalls that on 10 August 1999, it granted leave to the Prosecutor to add a count of rape as a crime against humanity and to add Article 6 (3) responsibility to certain counts against Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>5734</sup> The Chamber recalls that in 1999, Rule 50 did not require the Chamber to make a prima facie determination in considering a motion to amend the indictment.<sup>5735</sup> This prima facie requirement was added to Rule 50 in 2004. Therefore, the Chamber was not required to make a prima facie determination in considering the Prosecution's Motion to add a count of rape against Nyiramasuhuko in 1999. Furthermore, the Nyiramasuhuko Defence did not appeal the Chamber's decision to grant leave to amend the Indictment or seek reconsideration by the Trial Chamber. Finally, after the completion of the Prosecution's case, the Chamber found that the Prosecution presented sufficient evidence that could sustain a conviction for the crime of rape against Nyiramasuhuko based on Article 6 (3).<sup>5736</sup> Therefore, the Chamber finds that Ntahobali's assertion on behalf of Nyiramasuhuko is unfounded, untimely and moot.

Superior-Subordinate Relationship

<sup>5734</sup> Nyiramasuhuko & Ntahobali, Decision on the Prosecutor's Request for Leave to Amend the Indictment (TC), 10 August 1999.

<sup>5735</sup> See Rule 50 of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Consolidated Texts (1 July 1999). Rule 50 was amended on 24 April 2004 to include subsection (A)(ii) which provides, "(ii) In deciding whether to grant leave to amend the indictment, the Trial Chamber or, where applicable, a Judge shall, mutatis mutandis, follow the procedures and apply the standards set out in Sub-Rules 47 (E) and (F) in addition to considering any other relevant factors."

subordinate.<sup>5738</sup> The Chamber recalls that the indictment should plead that the accused is the superior of subordinates sufficiently identified, over whom she had effective control and for whose acts she is alleged to be responsible. Nonetheless, a superior need not necessarily know the exact identity of his or her subordinates who perpetrate crimes, in order to incur liability under Article 6 (3) of the Statute.<sup>5739</sup> In this regard, Paragraph 6.54 of the Indictment asserts that Nyiramasuhuko, among others, aided and abetted her subordinates in carrying out the massacres of the Tutsi population. However, the Indictment does not identify her subordinates. With regard to the attacks at the BPO, the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali Indictment states that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali were accompanied by Interahamwe militiamen and soldiers to abduct Tutsi refugees, assault and kill them.<sup>5740</sup> Paragraph 6.30 does not specify that Nyiramasuhuko was superior to the Interahamwe or soldiers or that she directed them in the BPO attacks. Therefore, the Indictment was defective for failing to specify that Nyiramasuhuko was superior to the Interahamwe or soldiers.

Nyiramasuhuko ordered them to kill men and rape women before killing them.”); Witness RB (63) cited in support of Counts 1-2, 5 against Nyiramasuhuko, Counts 1-3 against Ntahobali, and Counts 1-3, 5-9 against Kanyabashi (“RB learned that Ntahobali murdered on behalf of Nyiramasuhuko.”).

disclosed on 4 November 1998, each stated that Nyiramasuhuko gave orders to the Interahamwe in the attacks at the BPO or that she was their superior.<sup>5746</sup> The statements of Witnesses QBP and QBQ, disclosed on 1 December 1999, contained similar information.<sup>5747</sup> Under these circumstances, the Chamber considers that Nyiramasuhuko received sufficient notice that she was charged with superior responsibility for the alleged acts of the following persons: Interahamwe, Ntahobali, militiamen, soldiers and commune police.

Failure to Plead Crimes of Abduction, Killing and Rape

<sup>5746</sup> 20 November 1996, Statement of Witness SU, disclosed 4 November 1998 (she “heard Pauline give an order to the Interahamwe and the soldiers who were at the préfecture to look for young boys and children. The order was respected and carried out ....”); 20 November 1996, Statement of Witness SS, disclosed 4 November 1998 (“Pauline was together with Interahamwe who took people and led away in the van ... I also heard her saying, ‘take young boy-children away too. Don’t leave anybody behind.’ The young boys were taken away and killed ... My impression is that Pauline was one of the people who were in charge of the killings and organized the transportation of the people to be killed.”); 19 November 1997, Statement of Witness TA, disclosed 4 November 1998 (“Pauline was definitely present several times at the Préfecture when Shalom and his men were raping girls.... Pauline was the most important person – she was even superior to Shalom. She is the one who spoke to the Préfet and she also chose people to be killed and issued commands to the men with her and Shalom.”); 22-23 April 1998, Statement of Witness TK, disclosed 4 November 1998 (“I do not know who was the Chief of the Interahamwe in the daytime but in the night time from my observations it was Pauline Nyiramasuhuko and her son Shalom (Ntahobali). Both would give orders to the other Interahamwe with comments like ‘Not to spare anyone.’ Also I believe they were the leaders because they (Pauline & Shalome) brought vehicles and they transported those to be killed. They also transported their Interahamwe.”).

<sup>5747</sup> 5 May 1999, Statement of Witness QBP, disclosed 1 December 1999 (during the attacks at the BPO, “some people were put in a big van on the orders of Pauline and taken away to a place called Kabutare to be killed ... Pauline did nothing to save the situation at the material time even though she had the power to do so”); 6 May 1999, Statement of Witness QBQ, disclosed 1 December 1999 (“Pauline again came in the ‘Pickup’ ... When she arrived she promptly ordered the Interahamwe to select some people from the crowd of refugees. Her orders were carried out to the letter.”).

<sup>5749</sup> The Ntahobali Defence suggests the Chamber follow the approach in the Kalimanzira Decision of 24 June 2008, in which Trial Chamber III held that the failure to mention particular killings which were susceptible of supporting a separate charge of murder, could not be cured by subsequent timely, clear and consistent disclosures. See Ntahobali Closing Brief, para. 76; Kalimanzira, Decision on Defence Motion to Exclude Prosecution Witnesses BWM, BWN, BXB, BXC, BXD and BXL (TC), 24 June 2008, para. 10. The 24 June 2008 Decision was limited to the particular circumstances of that case. Moreover, Trial Chamber III did not cite any Appeals Chamber decision to support the proposition that no amount of subsequent disclosures could cure the defects in the indictment. Therefore, the Chamber declines to follow the approach in the Kalimanzira Decision.

soldiers when they went to the BPO to abduct Tutsi refugees. Those who resisted were assaulted and sometimes killed outright at locations such as the EER woods. The Indictment provides that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali often made the refugees undress before forcing them onto vehicles and taking them to their deaths.<sup>5751</sup> Therefore, the crimes of abduction and killing at the BPO were clearly pled in the Indictment.

2163. As to the crime of rape, Paragraph 6.37 of the Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali indictment states that aside from the attacks on Tutsis, Ntahobali was assisted by accomplices in kidnapping and raping Tutsi women. The Chamber recalls that an indictment paragraph should be read in conjunction with the entire indictment as a whole. Read in this way, the crimes of kidnapping and rape were separately pled to the attacks occurring throughout the rest of the préfecture, including the attacks and abductions at the BPO. Nonetheless, the information in Paragraph 6.37 lacked necessary details, including specific dates, locations and the names of victims, to put Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko on notice that they were being charged with raping women or were responsible as a superior for rapes occurring at the BPO. The Indictment was therefore defective in this regard.

2165. In its opening statement, the Prosecution reiterated allegations that Nyiramasuhuko was responsible for numerous rapes.<sup>5754</sup>

<sup>5754</sup> Prosecution Opening Statement, T. 12 June 2001 p. 92 (“A woman from the Rwandan society, a woman who is a minister, who is a member of parliament. A woman who lost all her civil nature: People being raped before their parents; watching her children being raped. She had lost her civil nature because in her presence, the most serious rape under the cruelest conditions were applauded. She encouraged even her son to do as much. She put everything she had to the point that she was dressed in military gear to play her role of a militant minister. A woman who had lost every sense of feeling, Pauline Nyiramasuhuko.”). Moreover, although not a basis for this ruling, the Chamber notes the Supporting Materials attached to the Amended Indictment of 10 August 1999, and in support of the amended charge in Para. 6.37, the Prosecution cited the statement of Witness QZ which indicated that Shalom and four Interahamwe raped a young girl at the préfecture office and that Shalom later stood on her legs saying Tutsis are very proud and were too proud to marry Hutus in the past. Witness QZ’s statement also included an allegation that she herself was raped by Shalom and four Interahamwe. It stated that Pauline was present at the préfecture observing the rapes: Indictment Supporting Material, Attachment B, 18 August 1999, pp. 118-119; see also Attachment A to the Prosecutor’s Request for Leave to Amend Indictment, 18 August 1999, pp. 180-181. This information was provided to Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali within 30 days of their first appearance on the amended charges in 1999: T. 10 August 1999 p. 3.

2166. Based upon the large volume of timely, clear and consistent materials disclosed to Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali indicating that they participated in rapes at the BPO, the Chamber finds they had adequate notice to prepare a defence. The Chamber, therefore, finds this defect in the Indictment was cured. Moreover, the Accused suffered no prejudice as a result of the defect in the Indictment.

Pleading Facts Regarding Particular Victims

2167. On behalf of Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali, the Ntahobali Defence argues that the Prosecution failed to plead multiple factual allegations in the Indictment. As to the allegations against Nyiramasuhuko at the BPO, it argues that the Prosecution failed to plead that she: (1) ordered the abduction of Mbasha's wife and her children; (2) ordered that a woman named Trifina be killed; (3) abducted two persons named Semanyezi and Annonciata in order to kill them; and (4) ordered Interahamwe or soldiers to rape Tutsi girls and women at night. As to the allegations against Ntahobali at the BPO, the Ntahobali Defence argues that the Prosecution failed to plead that he: (1) abducted Mbasha's wife and her children in order to kill them; (2) raped and killed Tutsi refugees at a specific place with soldiers or Interahamwe; and (3) raped and killed a Tutsi woman named Immaculée.<sup>5755</sup>

2168. The Appeals Chamber has recognised that there may be instances where the sheer scale of the crimes alleged makes it impracticable to require a high degree of specificity in such matters as the identity of the victims and the dates for the commission of crimes.<sup>5756</sup> However, "[t]he Prosecution cannot simultaneously argue that the accused killed a named individual yet claim that the 'sheer scale' of the crime made it impossible to identify that individual in the indictment."<sup>5757</sup> The Appeals Chamber has held that the identification of a particular location itself refutes the argument that identifying it was somehow impracticable.<sup>5758</sup> The same logic would apply to the identification of a particular victim. Further, the Appeals Chamber has advised that, "[s]ince the identity of the victim is information that is valuable to the preparation of the defence case, if the Prosecution is in a position to name the victims, it should do so."<sup>5759</sup> A failure to plead the names of particular victims where they are known may render the indictment defective on that charge. Such a defect may be remedied by the provision of clear, consistent and timely disclosures.<sup>5760</sup>

2169. In the present case, the Indictment was not clear as to how many Tutsis were raped, abducted and killed at the BPO.<sup>5761</sup> However, the Pre-Trial Brief and witness statements disclosed to the Defence clearly set forth the Prosecution's case: that there were between several hundred and several thousand Tutsis seeking refuge at the BPO; that these persons were taken away by Interahamwe, soldiers and the Accused by repeatedly loading pickup trucks; and that the refugees were killed elsewhere. The Chamber considers that in view of the sheer scale of the attacks, rapes and killings alleged to have taken place at the BPO, it is impractical to require the Prosecution to name each of the alleged victims of this course of conduct. Therefore, there was no defect in the Indictment for failing to name each of the alleged victims at the BPO.

2170. However, the Chamber also notes that the names Immaculée, Mbasha, Trifina, Caritas, Semanyenzi and Annonciata did not appear in the Indictment even though this information was available to the Prosecution in the witness statements of Witnesses TA and TK. The Prosecution was under an obligation to disclose this information to the Defence. The question is whether the Defence was prejudiced by any delay in disclosing the names of these alleged victims.

2171. The witness statements of Witnesses TA and TK were disclosed on 4 November 1998 and 1 December 1999. These statements provided additional information underpinning the specific allegations as to the location, sequence of events and the Accused involved. The names of the relevant victims were redacted in those disclosures to the Defence. However, the Prosecution disclosed the unredacted witness statements of Witnesses TA and TK, which provided notice of the specific named victims, on 23 April 2001.<sup>5762</sup> This was six months prior to the beginning of Witness TA's testimony on 24 October 2001 and one year prior to the testimony of Witness TK which began on 20 May 2002. In addition, the Prosecution Pre-Trial Brief listed the first 12 witnesses the Prosecution intended to call to testify, which included Witnesses TA and TK.

2172. Nonetheless, the victims' names did not appear in the Indictment, the Pre-Trial Brief, its Appendix or the Prosecution opening statement. The disclosure of the victims' names in four witness statements occurred less than two months prior to trial and without any further indication to the Defence that this new information was being provided to them. Therefore, the Chamber finds the late disclosure of these victims' names accorded bias to the Defence in preparing its case. The Chamber will not convict the Accused, if established by the evidence, for alleged crimes against Trifina, Mrs. Mbasha, Annonciata, Semanyenzi, Caritas or Immaculée. Nonetheless, the Chamber will consider the evidence of these named individuals for other permissible purposes (for example, as background information, circumstantial evidence in support of other allegations, to demonstrate a special knowledge, opportunity, or identification of the accused).<sup>5763</sup> The other abductions, rapes and killings occurring at the BPO will be considered by the Chamber in support of counts as the Defence had adequate notice of these allegations of large-scale criminal conduct.

Ntahobali's Recorded Interview of 24 and 26 July 1997

2173. The Prosecution cross-examined Ntahobali based upon a recorded interview with the Prosecution investigator after his arrest on 24 and 26 July 1997. The proper use of this recorded interview was contested by the Parties.<sup>5764</sup> The Chamber recalls its Decision of 15 May 2006 in which it held that Ntahobali's recorded interview was admissible and relevant to the proceedings. In that Decision, the Chamber also held that the mention of the word "inaudible" in the transcripts did not affect the reliability or substance of the information contained therein. The Chamber, however, restricted the use of Ntahobali's prior statement by the Prosecution to issues pertaining to his credibility. The Chamber held that "since the Prosecution did not seek to use the interviews as evidence during the presentation of its case, it is precluded from using their substance at this stage of the proceedings."<sup>5765</sup> The Chamber therefore considers the recorded statement only to evaluate Ntahobali's credibility as a witness.

Prosecution Witness TA

2174. Witness TA, a Tutsi, testified that she was staying in her uncle's home when it was attacked by Interahamwe.<sup>5766</sup> She said that 80 family members, including 12 brothers and sisters and two parents, were killed in Butare in 1994.<sup>5767</sup> One of her brothers was killed at Kabutare.<sup>5768</sup> Her parents were killed.<sup>5769</sup> She later testified that her father was killed in 1987 and her mother died in April 1994.<sup>5770</sup> Many people were thrown into a latrine along with Witness TA.<sup>5771</sup> She escaped from the latrine and walked one hour to seek refuge at the home of her eldest sister where she stayed for four days.<sup>5772</sup> She was raped at that location.<sup>5773</sup> Around 20 April 1994, she sought refuge alone because her brothers had been killed.<sup>5774</sup> Passers-by told her that there were other Tutsis at the EER and BPO so she went there.<sup>5775</sup> She fled to the EER where she spent about one week until the pastor told them to leave.<sup>5776</sup> She then sought refuge at the BPO towards the end of April 1994.<sup>5777</sup> The refugees were always together, either at the BPO or at the EER.<sup>5778</sup> She saw more than 10,000 dead bodies on the path between her home and the BPO.<sup>5779</sup> Apart from her sister, she did not stay with any other relatives during the period she sought refuge.<sup>5780</sup>

2178. Witness TA testified that she later saw Nyiramasuhuko during one night in mid-May 1994.<sup>5797</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was accompanied by 10 Interahamwe, including her son,

Shalom.<sup>5798</sup> This was the first time Witness TA saw Shalom.<sup>5799</sup> Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali arrived together in the same Hilux pickup and told the Interahamwe who should be forced to board the bed of the pickup.<sup>5800</sup> Nyiramasuhuko wore a kitenge cloth.<sup>5801</sup> The truck's lights were illuminated.<sup>5802</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was standing in the courtyard of the BPO pointing out Tutsi refugees to the Interahamwe, saying as she pointed, "[t]his is another one, and another one and another one, and why are you leaving that one?"<sup>5803</sup> Those Tutsis were beaten up and forced onto the pickup.<sup>5804</sup> Witness TA testified that it appeared to her that Nyiramasuhuko and her son were in charge of the Interahamwe and leading the attacks at the BPO because Nyiramasuhuko pointed out people who were then taken away, whereas when Ntahobali said "stop", the Interahamwe took their car and left.<sup>5805</sup> For example, Shalom ordered the Interahamwe to stop killing refugees, as the number of dead people was in excess of what could be loaded in the vehicle.<sup>5806</sup> Although Witness TA testified that Nyiramasuhuko and Ntahobali seemed to lead the attack together, because they arrived with the same vehicle, she thought Nyiramasuhuko was superior to Ntahobali.<sup>5807</sup> She thought this because Nyiramasuhuko pointed at three refugees who had been cut up and ordered that they be loaded onto the vehicle.<sup>5808</sup>

and raped her.<sup>5816</sup> There was moonlight behind the BPO.<sup>5817</sup> In addition, some public lighting from the lamp posts occasionally reached the area from the other side of the road near Chez Venant.<sup>5818</sup> Ntahobali invited some eight other Interahamwe to rape Witness TA, including one named Ngoma, which they did.<sup>5819</sup> Ngoma and another person named Ntujenjeke remained at the BPO to oversee the refugees when they were asleep, but assisted the Interahamwe during the attacks.<sup>5820</sup> One of the Interahamwe that raped her put his machete on her leg, telling her that if she moved he would kill her.<sup>5821</sup> Witness TA was confronted with a prior statement in which she said she had also been anally raped. In response, she maintained that she had not been anally raped.<sup>5822</sup> While she was being raped, Witness TA saw two other women nearby who were also being raped by the Interahamwe.<sup>5823</sup>

2182. Seven days later, during the night, the Interahamwe arrived at the BPO in the same vehicle and started beating, cutting with machetes and killing people.<sup>5826</sup> There was also moonlight on this occasion.<sup>5827</sup> Ntahobali woke up Witness TA, dragged and pushed her behind the BPO and raped her.<sup>5828</sup> He hit her with a hammer, causing her head to swell.<sup>5829</sup> Witness TA was confronted with a prior statement in which she said she was in view of the other refugees when she was raped on this occasion and that he only showed her the hammer as a threat. She maintained in her testimony that she was taken behind the BPO and that he actually hit her with the hammer.<sup>5830</sup> At the same time, the Interahamwe took six other women and raped them near her.<sup>5831</sup> There would have been less than 5,000 refugees at the BPO the second time Ntahobali came since the Interahamwe killed refugees every day.<sup>5832</sup>

location, removed her clothes and raped her.<sup>5834</sup> He told them to do it quickly and return to the roadblock so that the Inkotanyi would not get to the roadblock first.<sup>5835</sup> These men were armed with machetes, hammers, clubs, big sticks and Rwandan clubs (clubs with nails in them).<sup>5836</sup> While she was being raped, she saw Shalom raping a girl named Caritas who was being raped about five to six metres away from her.<sup>5837</sup> There was also moonlight on this occasion.<sup>5838</sup>

2184. Another seven to 10 days later, a group of eight Interahamwe, including Shalom arrived at the BPO in the same vehicle.<sup>5839</sup> They attacked the refugees with machetes, hammers, Rwandan clubs and sticks.<sup>5840</sup> They killed some, wounded others and threw the dead and wounded into their vehicle.<sup>5841</sup> On this occasion, Shalom again handed Witness TA over to the Interahamwe.<sup>5842</sup> She was dragged and pushed to behind the ORINFOR building.<sup>5843</sup> Shalom told the Interahamwe to be quick and that he was on his way out, after which seven Interahamwe raped her.<sup>5844</sup> They were armed with weapons but put them down when they were raping her. The others stood around ready to hit her if she attempted to get up.<sup>5845</sup>

the fifth occasion that Ntahobali visited the BPO, on which occasion Witness TA was not personally raped.<sup>5854</sup>

2186. On a subsequent night, Shalom came to the BPO wearing ordinary clothes.<sup>5855</sup> On that occasion, Shalom ordered the Interahamwe accompanying him to take women and girls and to do what they wanted with them before taking them away and killing them.<sup>5856</sup>

2187. On a later date, Shalom again came by vehicle with the Interahamwe but Witness TA could not remember how many.<sup>5857</sup> She did not observe any rapes that night, but saw many people being killed.<sup>5858</sup>

2190. Witness TA learned from other refugees that Nyiramasuhuko was Shalom’s mother. She did not know Shalom’s family name but stated he was Nyiramasuhuko’s son.<sup>5867</sup> She also identified Nyiramasuhuko as the Minister of Women’s Affairs.<sup>5868</sup> Witness TA testified that she saw soldiers at the BPO.<sup>5869</sup> They would usually come with Interahamwe. Witness TA distinguished soldiers from Interahamwe by the clothes they were wearing: soldiers were wearing military uniforms, and those called Interahamwe were in ordinary attire.<sup>5870</sup> The Interahamwe would also wear banana leaves very often.<sup>5871</sup>

2193. Witness TA testified that she saw Ntahobali more than eight times at the BPO.<sup>5878</sup> She saw Nyiramasuhuko two times at the BPO.<sup>5879</sup> In addition, others told her when Nyiramasuhuko was in the courtyard of the BPO, while Interahamwe and soldiers were committing killings.<sup>5880</sup> She saw them once together at the BPO.<sup>5881</sup> Witness TA identified Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>5882</sup>

Prosecution Witness QJ

2194. Witness QJ, a Tutsi hotel worker in Butare town, testified that he had falsified his identity card to indicate that he was a Hutu. He did this prior to the start of the killings because it made it easier to move about freely and to acquire employment.<sup>5883</sup> He had a forged identity card because the authorities made a mistake and lightly crossed out the word Tutsi on his card. He deepened the crossing out of Tutsi on the identity card.<sup>5884</sup> The authorities also crossed out Hutu but they had not crossed it out properly.<sup>5885</sup> After the killings started, Witness QJ continued to travel freely around Butare town on account of his identity card. No one knew that he was a Tutsi because he was not from Butare.<sup>5886</sup> He could not return to his home

2195. He testified that he went to the BPO to seek information and to find out whether any of the persons he knew were among the refugees.<sup>5890</sup> The refugees were normally in the courtyard of the BPO, but would seek shelter from the rain and sun on the veranda.<sup>5891</sup> There were bodies visible everywhere in the streets of Butare and at the BPO.<sup>5892</sup>

2197. Mbasha was a customer at the hotel where Witness QJ used to work.<sup>5903</sup> Sometimes Mbasha’s wife and children would also come.<sup>5904</sup> Mbasha’s wife used to work in a pharmacy and Witness QJ estimated that she was 35 years old in 1994.<sup>5905</sup> He estimated that the eldest child was in the first year of primary school, around seven years old, and that all three of Mbasha’s daughters were one year apart.<sup>5906</sup>

2198. Witness QCB, a Hutu driver in 1994 and detained witness at the time of testimony,<sup>5907</sup> testified that he went to the BPO on 28 April 1994 at about 9.00 a.m.<sup>5908</sup> Witness QCB witnessed numerous Tutsi refugee women and children in the courtyard.<sup>5909</sup> There were also refugee men who were incarcerated in the brigade of the BPO.<sup>5910</sup> They had sought refuge at the BPO, believing the préfet had a responsibility to protect them.<sup>5911</sup> When he arrived at the BPO, Witness QCB saw Préfet Nsabimana sitting next to a driver named Musoni in a Mitsubishi Pajero with the inscription, “Région Sanitaire” on the side.<sup>5912</sup> The préfet had requisitioned this vehicle from the Région Sanitaire even prior to the war.<sup>5913</sup> Musoni was the son of Kamonyo Kambayi.<sup>5914</sup> The préfet’s former driver, Rukambira, had been killed.<sup>5915</sup>

2199. Shalom Ntahobali arrived at the BPO in a Peugeot 505 accompanied by Interahamwe.<sup>5916</sup> A Daihatsu, driven by Désiré, the son of Munyagaseheke, also arrived with Shalom.<sup>5917</sup> Shalom leaned up against Nsabimana’s vehicle and had a conversation with the préfet.<sup>5918</sup> The Interahamwe forced about 30 Tutsi refugees who were staying at the BPO to board the Daihatsu at gunpoint as Shalom watched.<sup>5919</sup> Shalom then told the driver, “[l]et’s go.” Witness QCB testified that Shalom was in charge because he was the one issuing orders.<sup>5920</sup> As the Daihatsu was loaded, Nsabimana watched from his vehicle about 10 steps away.<sup>5921</sup> The Daihatsu and Peugeot left towards the Groupe Scolaire. Nsabimana’s vehicle then left in the direction of the Quartier Arabe.<sup>5922</sup> About 25 minutes later, Witness QCB stood at the Chez Bihira roadblock. Some people who had passed by the Groupe Scolaire told him that Shalom and the Interahamwe were in the process of killing the Tutsis who had been loaded into Munyagaseheke’s vehicle.<sup>5923</sup>

2200. Witness QCB testified that he met Ntahobali a long time prior to the events when he visited Ntahobali’s home with the driver of Ntahobali’s father.<sup>5924</sup> He positively identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>5925</sup>

Prosecution Witness TK

2201. Witness TK, a Tutsi teacher, testified that after the death of President Habyarimana she fled with her family to Butare town where they first hid in a parish. Witness TK then telephoned her sister who said that killings had not yet started in Butare.<sup>5926</sup> Her sister, accompanied by two soldiers whom she paid, went to fetch Witness TK and other family members from the parish in a pickup truck belonging to the Benedictine convent and brought them to Butare town.<sup>5927</sup> In Butare town they hid in a convent, adjacent to the économat and bursar buildings.<sup>5928</sup> The situation was calm and she could move around the convent but two days later, the situation changed. A plane landed, and the next day gunshots and bombs exploded in town.<sup>5929</sup> Following a megaphone announcement, searches were conducted everywhere to find those in hiding. As a result, six soldiers discovered her on a date between the end of May 1994 and the beginning of June 1994.<sup>5930</sup>

2202. Sisters at the convent prevented the soldiers from killing the group of people she had been hiding with.<sup>5931</sup> Members of the group were asked to show identity cards. Those who had them showed their cards. The soldiers were armed with rifles. They forced the young men to kneel, tied them up and beat them. The soldiers locked up the members of the group, and stated that they would bring Interahamwe to kill them that evening. However, the next morning the soldiers took them to the BPO.<sup>5932</sup> There were many, many people at the BPO, but Witness TK was not able to estimate the number.<sup>5933</sup>

2204. The Interahamwe split the refugees into several groups: men on one side, old people on another, women on another.<sup>5939</sup> It was the Interahamwe's job to know who had just arrived and to know who had to be killed.<sup>5940</sup> The Tutsis were shifted to one side, and they started taking the men.<sup>5941</sup> If someone was educated, they were also taken away. Any Tutsis had to be killed.<sup>5942</sup> The Interahamwe generally carried out the selection and Shalom was very often with them.<sup>5943</sup>

2205. In addition, some authorities came out of the BPO to take a look at the refugees.<sup>5944</sup> Other women pointed out Préfet Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko to Witness TK.<sup>5945</sup> The refugee women were surprised to see Pauline there and used her first name to identify her.<sup>5946</sup> The authorities, including Pauline, stood on the veranda of the BPO.<sup>5947</sup> Although Witness TK later testified that Nsabimana did not come out of the BPO when they arrived, she clarified that she saw him but did not know his name at the time.<sup>5948</sup> Two things led her to say that Nsabimana was there: (1) there were many people outside the BPO and the préfet was the head; and (2) it was during office hours.<sup>5949</sup> The authorities looked very surprised and one of them said, “[i]n Butare, there are still some ... Inyenzi!”<sup>5950</sup> Witness TK explained that Tutsis were called “Inyenzi” during that period.<sup>5951</sup> The authorities said that this time around nobody would survive.<sup>5952</sup>

2207. She watched very closely because her brother was among the group of men.<sup>5958</sup> She went to the back of the BPO in the afternoon to speak with her brother, encouraging him to make an effort and saying she too was waiting to die.<sup>5959</sup> On the following morning, Witness TK saw an Interahamwe wearing her brother’s jacket.<sup>5960</sup> She looked around and discovered her brother’s body along with two others near a tree behind the BPO.<sup>5961</sup> Her brother’s legs had been cut off and a dog was feeding upon his corpse.<sup>5962</sup> At that time, there were still some men left in the group of refugees, but they were subsequently taken away during the night.<sup>5963</sup>

2208. A soldier who killed Pierre brought his identification card back to Witness TK.<sup>5964</sup> She had started to walk away from the guava tree where she had been staying when a soldier approached her with the identification.<sup>5965</sup> They asked her to read the identification to see if she could read and to see if she and Pierre were related.<sup>5966</sup> Witness TK testified that since she and Pierre had walked to the BPO together, the Interahamwe must have thought they were brother and sister whereas she did not know him.<sup>5967</sup> Pierre was a university student who had survived the massacres at the university.<sup>5968</sup> She said this fact was omitted from her prior statement because the statement was concise.<sup>5969</sup>

2209. The same morning Pierre was killed, Witness TK saw a young refugee named Alphonse run around the flag pole in front of the BPO, towards Nsabimana's office.<sup>5970</sup> She knew Alphonse because they had sought refuge at the same places together and Witness TK had arrived at the BPO with Alphonse.<sup>5971</sup> As he ran, Alphonse called for help.<sup>5972</sup> He entered the office but was forced out a few moments later; Witness TK did not know whether the man was forced out by Nsabimana or by a soldier.<sup>5973</sup> Outside the préfet's office, a man approached Alphonse with a club and Alphonse attempted to run away.<sup>5974</sup> He was caught by three young men and taken away by Interahamwe in the direction of the market, with his hands tied behind his back.<sup>5975</sup> Alphonse never came back to the BPO and Witness TK concluded that he had been killed.<sup>5976</sup> Nsabimana was present at the BPO when all of the men who had been hiding at the convent, including Pierre, were taken away.<sup>5977</sup> Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko did not offer assistance to the refugees.<sup>5978</sup> She later said that Alphonse was pushed out of the office in the afternoon of that day.<sup>5979</sup>

2211. Witness TK testified that on that same night at around 7.00 or 7.30 p.m.,<sup>5988</sup> soldiers and Interahamwe arrived in a small truck.<sup>5989</sup> The truck had an open back, but because the event occurred at night she could not determine the make or colour of the vehicle.<sup>5990</sup> Shalom drove the vehicle. Pauline and some Interahamwe were also inside. The vehicle was in front of the BPO on one side of the national flag pole.<sup>5991</sup> She knew Shalom was driving because the people at the BPO had said his name.<sup>5992</sup> The Interahamwe that arrived in the vehicle carried weapons such as machetes, clubs and daggers.<sup>5993</sup>

2212. After descending from the vehicle, Shalom and some of the Interahamwe exclaimed that nobody should be spared or treated leniently.<sup>5994</sup> Shalom told the Interahamwe to do their work seriously.<sup>5995</sup> Interahamwe attacked the group of refugees and chose people to be taken away to be killed.<sup>5996</sup> Interahamwe started stripping people lying on the ground.<sup>5997</sup> Witness TK believed that Shalom was the leader of the Interahamwe.<sup>5998</sup>

2213. Shalom approached Mbasha's wife and asked her if she knew him. She answered: "Yes, I do know you. You are Shalom. You are the one that was usually sent to the pharmacy to buy drugs and I was in the same school, the same bench as your mother, Pauline."<sup>5999</sup> Shalom asked Mbasha's wife which of the two children who accompanied her was the girl, and that he would make the child his wife. Mbasha's wife answered, "no, that's out of question because these are still children”.<sup>6000</sup> Then Shalom asked Mbasha’s wife to go to the truck, telling her not to be afraid and that nothing bad would happen to her.<sup>6001</sup>

2214. At the same time Interahamwe approached from the other side of the BPO and started to beat people.<sup>6002</sup> Mbasha’s wife was stripped of her kitenge wrap by Interahamwe, leaving it on the ground.<sup>6003</sup> Mbasha’s wife was loaded onto the truck with her two children.<sup>6004</sup> As the Interahamwe threw the children upon Mbasha’s wife, she pleaded for her children, stating, “[p]lease pity my children, you can take me. Spare my children, please.”<sup>6005</sup> It was the first time Witness TK saw Mbasha’s wife.<sup>6006</sup> Nyiramasuhuko was by the truck when Mbasha’s wife and children were loaded on it, but Witness TK could not recall what Nyiramasuhuko was wearing.<sup>6007</sup> The Interahamwe loaded other refugees into the truck with Mbasha’s wife and her children.<sup>6008</sup> Most had also been stripped of their clothes by soldiers and Interahamwe.<sup>6009</sup> While the other refugees were being loaded into the vehicle, the witness was standing near the front of the BPO, hiding behind the trees and was able to see all that the Interahamwe did.<sup>6010</sup>

2215. While the refugees were stripped and loaded on the truck, at around 7.00 or 7.30 p.m., a refugee girl named Trifina started shouting.<sup>6011</sup> Nyiramasuhuko said that noise should be stopped and those who were shouting should be set aside.<sup>6012</sup> Trifina was attacked by Interahamwe with daggers and her shoulder was wounded.<sup>6013</sup> She shouted even louder.<sup>6014</sup> Interahamwe then slit her throat, almost cutting her head off, and threw her dead body into the vehicle.<sup>6015</sup> When the vehicle was full of people Ntahobali drove it away with Nyiramasuhuko as a passenger. The truck left behind certain Interahamwe to select those who were to be loaded on the next trip.<sup>6016</sup> The truck returned another two times that night and loaded more refugees who were then quickly taken away.<sup>6017</sup> Ntahobali and Nyiramasuhuko were on board on each trip.<sup>6018</sup>

2216. Witness TK testified that she saw Ntahobali hit Tutsi refugees and encouraged others to do the same.<sup>6019</sup> Witness TK confirmed that the events concerning Mr. Mbasha, Pierre, the Caritas driver, Mrs. Mbasha and her children and Trifina all occurred on the same day.<sup>6020</sup>

2217. On that day there were more than 10 Interahamwe at the BPO, including some who were staying there.<sup>6021</sup> Witness TK said she knew the Interahamwe who accompanied Shalom well because they stayed with them until she was taken to Rango. She named several as Ribanje, Cyabubare, who usually carried a machete on his belt, Ngoma, who was often armed with a club, and Mbote, who was an ethnic Twa.<sup>6022</sup> They would speak their names loudly and clearly and would brag about their exploits because to be an Interahamwe was a point of pride.<sup>6023</sup> Witness TK testified that she did not notice what the Interahamwe were wearing. When it was put to her that her prior statement stated the Interahamwe were wearing pants and coats of the same colour, she said that her prior statement was likely correct because it was taken in 1996, much closer in time to the events.<sup>6024</sup>

2218. Apart from the night when she arrived at the BPO, Witness TK saw Shalom very often at the BPO.<sup>6025</sup> He came on a number of evenings, accompanied by Interahamwe or disabled soldiers who were staying at the Groupe Scolaire.<sup>6026</sup> Those soldiers hit people with their crutches.<sup>6027</sup> Shalom came to mock the refugees.<sup>6028</sup> On some occasions, he abducted women who were then raped.<sup>6029</sup> She did not see Pauline when the rapes occurred.<sup>6030</sup> Shalom also came to determine whether there were any men left, who were then taken away to be killed. Shalom committed crimes on each evening he came to the BPO.<sup>6031</sup> He would say to the Interahamwe, “be firm in your actions”, when he meant, “kill all of them.”<sup>6032</sup> The Interahamwe surrounded Ntahobali and called him “Shalom, chef.”<sup>6033</sup> Witness TK also saw Shalom at the BPO on a few occasions during the day.<sup>6034</sup> Nyiramasuhuko came alone to the BPO on other occasions.<sup>6035</sup>

2219. Witness TK testified that at some point there were approximately 300 people at the BPO, including refugees, Interahamwe and street children.<sup>6036</sup> Almost all of the refugees were abducted at some point.<sup>6037</sup> There were a few Hutu refugees at the BPO, but most of them were evacuated to Mubumbano when they arrived at the BPO.<sup>6038</sup> By the time the Tutsi refugees were transferred to Rango, there were only about 75 left; their numbers were visibly reduced.<sup>6039</sup>

2220. A woman named Immaculée gave birth to a baby at the BPO on 18 June 1994.<sup>6040</sup> Immaculée was at the BPO when the witness arrived. At that time, refugees at the BPO had already been sent to Nyange on buses to be killed and later returned.<sup>6041</sup> Witness TK left for Rango with Immaculée a few days after the baby was born.<sup>6042</sup>

2221. Witness TK said that while at the BPO, the refugees sent a boy to a creek to fetch water and her sister sometimes sent her food from the convent. She did not know how her sister obtained the food. Others at the BPO died of hunger and because living conditions were difficult.<sup>6043</sup> She did not see the Red Cross distribute food at the BPO, but a group of white people visited the BPO one time to look around.<sup>6044</sup> During that visit, Nsabimana walked very close to her and she recognised him.<sup>6045</sup>

2222. The offices at the BPO continued to function during her presence. Employees and drivers came to the BPO, including one driver of a bulldozer who buried the dead. He parked the bulldozer at the BPO.<sup>6046</sup>

2223. Witness TK did not know Ntahobali prior to the events, and had not seen him again after the war.<sup>6047</sup> She identified Ntahobali in court.<sup>6048</sup> She said Ntahobali did not have a rich beard in 1994 and that he had become an adult since then but she immediately recognised him because his face had not changed significantly.<sup>6049</sup> She said she was 100 percent certain that the person she had identified in court was in fact Ntahobali.<sup>6050</sup>

2224. Witness TK said that people at the BPO identified Pauline Nyiramasuhuko, the préfet and other important persons for her that she had not known before: Pauline Nyiramasuhuko was a woman of medium height, and the préfet had a little belly and a scar on his face. She had heard that his name was Sylvain. The more time she spent at the BPO, the more she knew people's names.<sup>6051</sup> Witness TK identified Nsabimana and Nyiramasuhuko in court.<sup>6052</sup>

Prosecution Witness SJ

2225. Witness SJ, a Tutsi from Mbazi commune, testified she sought shelter at the BPO on a Sunday in April 1994 at 6.15 a.m.<sup>6053</sup> She left her secteur when her house was burned down. She hid in forests and millet fields for two weeks before she went to the BPO, travelling via side roads across the valleys in order to avoid roadblocks on the main road.<sup>6054</sup>

2226. She stayed at the BPO for about two weeks.<sup>6055</sup> During the first two weeks at the BPO, she was arrested and taken to the police brigade.<sup>6056</sup> She also went to the EER during these two weeks.<sup>6057</sup> She was arrested the same day that the first bus left for Nyange.<sup>6058</sup> She later testified that she was arrested the day after the first two buses left for Nyange, but could not remember if it was before or after.<sup>6059</sup> She stayed at the BPO for about another week before being taken to Rango.<sup>6060</sup> Witness SJ testified that refugees were taken to Nyange at the end of April or beginning of May 1994, but that it may have been before or after that period.<sup>6061</sup> She said she was sent to Rango and stayed there for two weeks, but could not remember when she was released by the national army.<sup>6062</sup>

2227. Witness SJ testified that there was no security where she was from so she went to where the authorities were located, hoping she would be protected there.<sup>6063</sup> She estimated that about 1,500 Tutsi refugees were at the BPO when she got there, but some people left and some arrived as time went on.<sup>6064</sup>

2228. Refugees at the BPO were not provided with food, water, or shelter; they did not have access to sanitary facilities and there was no medical care available.<sup>6065</sup> Children were sometimes sent to fetch water in a valley where there were springs and were killed.<sup>6066</sup> One day, the refugees received maize flour and beans, but three days later these were taken away.<sup>6067</sup> Someone gave them a spoonful of flour a day to survive.<sup>6068</sup> The toilets at the BPO were locked.<sup>6069</sup> The refugees were in a very poor state of health and bore various types of wounds caused by machetes, axes, hammers and clubs.<sup>6070</sup> Some had lost limbs, or had wounds on their legs, arms and neck.<sup>6071</sup> She heard refugees discuss how others were killed or their houses were burned down because they were Tutsis which led her to conclude that the refugees at the BPO were Tutsis.<sup>6072</sup> A lot of refugees at the BPO died because of hunger, the poor living conditions, or because they were killed.<sup>6073</sup> Witness SJ testified that on one occasion two white people came to inspect the refugees; this occurred prior to their departure to Nyange.<sup>6074</sup>

2230. Witness SJ testified that during her first two weeks at the BPO she saw Préfet Sylvain, Kanyabashi and Nyiramasuhuko, as well as a number of other personalities.<sup>6077</sup> The day after she arrived at the BPO, she saw Préfet Sylvain on the veranda speaking with Nyiramasuhuko.<sup>6078</sup> She saw Nyiramasuhuko four times at the BPO, though she heard that Nyiramasuhuko came to the BPO on other occasions.<sup>6079</sup>

2231. The night of the meeting between the préfet and Nyiramasuhuko, Witness SJ saw Ntahobali arrive at the BPO on board a white Peugeot pickup covered with cow dung.<sup>6080</sup> There was no light at the BPO but the moon was full that night.<sup>6081</sup> Ntahobali was accompanied by at least 10 Interahamwe who were armed.<sup>6082</sup> The Interahamwe carried machetes and clubs, known as ntapongano, and knives. Shalom carried a firearm and had a knife attached to his belt.<sup>6083</sup> Ntahobali appeared to be in charge of the Interahamwe, as they called him “chief” and asked for his permission before acting.<sup>6084</sup> Witness SJ testified that she could not determine whether Ntahobali was driving or whether he had exited the driver’s side of the vehicle when he arrived.<sup>6085</sup>
