

UN Troops Pull Out of Rwanda.

Catherine Bond

The Times, April 20, 1994

By Catherine Bond.

Kigali : The United Nations, reducing its Rwanda force to 250, yesterday began to pull out most of its military observers and troops as shelling and fighting between Tutsi rebels and Hutu government troops intensified in the capital.

Austrians, West Africans and Bangladeshis pulled out as fresh troops, including women, arrived from Ghana.

Six people were killed when an army shell hit a football stadium close to rebel positions where several thousand people had sought refuge.